King Burdred at that time distressed, and himselfe not able to withfland their rage, with his wife Queene Ethelswith fled the Realme, and the same yeere in Rome ended his life, and was buried in the Church of our Lady belonging to the English College there erected. His Queene in the habit of a Nume, fifteene yeeres after his death, died at Padua in Italie, and was there honourably buried, the yeere of our Lord eight Padas hundred eightie nine. And now the fatall circle of this Kingdome drawne to the full compasse, staied the hand of all glorious motion from proceeding any further, and with the lor of the reft fell vnder the gouernment of the West-Saxons, after one yeeres vsurpauernment of the Wejt-Sexent, and to do in flate of a king-ition of the Dans when it had flood in flate of a king-dome the space of two hundred and two yeeres, and the space of two hundred and two yeers. In the west of th ended in title and regall authority, the yeere of Christs Incarnation eight hundred eighty fix.

THE

THE KINGDOME OF THE EAST-ANGLE, THE CIRCUIT OF THAT PRO

VINCE, WITH THE SVCCESSION AND ACTS OF THEIR KINGS, SO LONG AS IT STOOD IN THAT REGALL ESTATE, AND VNIILL IT WAS VNITED TO THE WEST-SAXONS.

CHAPTER XI.

The circuit of this Pronince,

An.Do.575

Haft Angles cal-led Pffswes,

Vffa his genea-

He Counties (as we now call them) that were lubiect to this Eaft-Angles Kingdome, were Suffolke, Norfolke, Cambridge-fbire, and the He of Ely. The bounds whereof were limitted in this manner: the East and North sides were confined by the occan; the West, with Saint Eamunds Ditch, and the South altogether with Effex, and some part of Hert-

The first raiser of the title and State of this Kingdome, was a Saxon Captaine named Vffa, about the yeere of Christs incurnation fine hundred seuentie The first King of the East-Angles, Beds biff. Angle lib.2. Cap. 15. fine, whose renowne was such, that he gaue name not onely to that his alpired Dominion, but a lo from him, the Subjects thereof were a long time after called Pffines: though lastly, it was reduced into the name and Kingdom of the East-Angles. This V ff a (as Florentius the Monke of Worcester hath laid downe) was the sonne of Withelin, and he the sonne of Hrippus, the fonne of Rothmund, the fonne of Trigils, the fonne of Titmon, the fonne of Cafer, the second fonne of Prince woden. His raigne is accounted only feuen yeeres, without any mention of further matter, worthy the recording, and his death to have hapned in the yeare fine hundred eighty one .

Titulus, the second King of the East-Angles, and on-ly sonne of Vsfa that is read of, beganne his raigne

the yeere of Christs Incarnation, liue hundred eighty three,& continued the same for the space of twenty yeeres. And although the Writers of these times haue made no further mention of his Acts, yet may we well suppose that his daies were not altogether so quietly spent, both in the infancy of that newly crected kingdom, and when fuch wars were commenced for the obtaining the whole Iland. His iffue was Redwald, that immediatly succeeded him, & from whom other Kings of that kingdom were lineally desceded.

Court Edwyne with his wife in their Exiles, and affifted him against Ethelfrid King of Northumberland that fought his life, as before wee haue shewed, and

Edwald, the greatest of all the East-Angles Kings,

An.Do. 582 The fecond King

acts by 1.5.5, the Edit Angles, and Ethelbert of Rest unthe Monar-The thicking chief the Sexuss. He received and Grand Course by the King of the Sexus of the King of the Sexus of the Sex Cap. 9, Self. 7.

hereafter in the fuccession of his Monarchy wee shall haue further occasion. Hee raigned Monarch eight yecres, and King of the East-Anglesthirty one (by the account and computation of the Table annexed to Malmesbury, and others of our English Writers) and died the yeare of our Saluation fix hundred twenty three.

Rpenwald, the younger fonne of King Redwald (Reynhere his elder brother being flaine in battle by Ethelfred, in the quarrell of diftreffed Edwine) (ucceeded his Father in the Kingdom of the East-Angles, the yeer of our Lord God fix hundred twenty foure. He was the first King of that Province, that publikely The first of this professed the Christian Faith, which hee received at proteited the Christian Faith, which hee received at the friendly motion and zealous exhortation of King Edwine of Northumberland; but so much to the discontenument & grudge of the people, as thereupon they rentment & grudge of the people, as thereupon they prefently entred into conspiracy to practife his death, which a Paga Ruffian named Richebert, not long after most traiterously executed. His raigne is placed in the by a I raise, foresaid Table of our Writers, (as it is compared with His ragne, the other Kings of those times) to extend twelve yeeres; after whose death, those people returned to their wonted Idolatrie, and for three yeeres continuance embraced their former Gentility, from which who succeeded him in his Throne, hee hauing no issue, to whom it might be left. Sand by her born to a former husband, whose name An. Do. 636 is vnknowne, was greatly mistrusted by his Father in The fifth King, law, King Redwald, that he went about to aspire his Crowne: the motiues of which suspition, notwithstanding all the endeauours of innocent Sigebert, were they were reclaimed by Sigebert his brother in law, still followed with an ennious eye, and his subjectine femblances, as notes of popularity, were euer concei- gainft Redwald, ued to aime at the supreme authority : which blot of icalousie, when it could no otherwise bee wiped out, he abandoned the Court of the King, and Country of his birth, and in France as an exile, all the time of Red- He goeth into wald the Father, and likewise the raigne of Erpenwald the sonne, spent his time in study of good Literature, & contemplatine exercises, where learning the truth of Christs Doctrine, and having received the laver of Baptisme, after the death of this faid Espensiald his allied Brother, returned, and was made King of the Eaft-

This man (faith Beda) following the examples of Bedshift Aug.1. Kkk3

An.Do.624

The Kong Bains

The Subjects re

Sircbert funette

Sigebers with the affiffance of a Eithop doth pre-more relief of and learning.

: France, brought the light of the Gospell into his Dominions, and by the alsoftance of Felix Bifhop of Dunwich, for a more firme plantation thereof, built a Schoole for the education of children, appointing them Schoole-mafters and Teachers after the maner will Lambert in of the Kentish-men ; who are * supposed to hauc at that time the Liberall Sciences professed among them, in their Metropolitane City Canterbury, which was the paterne (faith that Countries Perambulator) that this Sigebert followed in the crection of his; but whether at Cambridge or elsewhere, hee leaueth for Doctor Caim of Cambridge, and M. Key of Oxford, to be disputed of. And indeed Beda assigneth not the place for this foundation, nor once nameth Cambridge, vnlesse you will say, that out of the ruines of Granteester, an ancient Citic decaied in his daies, the same arose, and whereof hee maketh mention in his fourth Booke, vpon this occasion as followeth.

Queene Etheldred (faith he) that had been a Virgin, wife to Egfrid King of Northumberland the tearme of twelue yeeres, and Abbeffe of Ely for feuen more, for Beda hift, Angl.

Gramcefter.

Beds maketh

Mr. Caise and her reputed holinesse after her death and buriall, was thought worthy by Queene Sexburg her fiftet (who had beene wife to Ercombert King of Kent, and fueceeded her Abbesse in the same Monasterie) to beeremooued out of her wooden Tombe & meane place of buriall, into the Church and richer Monument but for want of stone, which was scarce in those parts. certaine brethren were sent to find out some for that vie, who comming to Grant centrep, a little City left desolate and vninhabited, found by the walles a Tomb of white marble verie faire, and couered with a like frone. This they thought to be found not without miracle, and therefore most fit to intombe her corps, which accordingly they did. But that this had beene the place of Sigeberts Schoole, her mentioneth not. But whether by him or no, wee know it now the other I niverfity of England, a feed-plot of all divine tot of a School and humane Lsterature, and one of those springs whence issue the wholesome waters that doe bedowe The Vaiver Gires both the Church & Common-wealth, both, famous of England, a-boue all other in Europe, for the Arts, for Buildings, and Reuenewes, as their like is not to be found in Europe (faith Peter Martyr) and that most truely. But to returne: Sigebert being wearied with the waighty affairs of this world, laid the bur-Sigebert refig-neth to Egricles, and lineth in a den thereof vpon Egricke his kinfman, and shore himfelfe a Monk in the Abby of Cumbreburge, which himfelfe had built, & wherein he liued, vntill that wicked Penda, the Mercian King, with his heathenish cruelty molested the peace of the East-Angles; who after long refiftance, finding themselues too weake, befought Sigebert, for the better incouragement of their fouldiers, to fhew himselfe in field; which when he refused, by constraint (faith Beda) they drew him forth, where in the midst of them hee was slaine in battle, vsing no other weapon for defence, fauing only a white wand;

when hee had raigned onely three yeeres, and left no

the sonne of Guido, faith Beda, the sonne of Eni, faith

Malmsbury, who was brother to great Redwald; and both of them the fons of Titulus, the fecond King of that Province. This King, as the other two former had done, felt the fury of raging Penda, with his mer-cileffe Mercians, that fore affaulted his Territories with rapine and spoile. To withstand whose further proceedings, King Anna drew the ftrength of his Baft-

Angles against them, and encountred Penda in a great and mortall battle, wherein they were all discomfi-iffue to furuiue him, that is any where recorded.

againe, and is flaine in battle, His raigne.

He is constrai-

Ericke, cofin to King Sigebert, and by him made King, as wee have faid, was fore molested by the An.Do.633. continuallinuations of Penda, the cruell King of Mer-The fixth King. cis; who lastlie in a set battle slew him with sigebert. King of Mercia. Egrick and Sige-best both flaine about the yeere of Christ his incarnation fixe hindred fifty two. And when himself had raigned 4-yeers, deceased, without mentio either of wife or child, that is read of, further to reusue his memory to posterities. A Non fucceeded King Egricke in the Kingdome of Athe East-Angles, the yeere of grace fix hundred fortie two, as the next in bloud to Erpinwald, beeing An.D. 642. King. Beda bift. Angl.

ted and himfelfe among them flaine, when hee had | Anna flaine in raigned in continuall trouble the space of thirteene yeeres. His issue were many, and those of great holi nesse or fanctity of life. Whereof Ferminus the cl. Firminus heire dest, and heire apparant, was flaine by Penda in the apparant. fame battle with his Father, and was with him buried in Blidribrugh, now Blibrugh, but afterwards remoued to S. Edmondsbury. His other fonne was Erkenwald, Abbat of Chertfide, and Bishoppe of London, Erkenwa'dAbba that lieth buried in the South Ile, about the Quire in of therefor, and S. Pauls Church, where to this day remaineth a memoriall of him. His daughters were these; Etheldrid the eldelt, was first married vitto a Nobleman, whom | Etheldrid Ab-Beda nameth Tonbert, Gouernor of the Fenny Coun- beffe of $19. tries of Nothfolke, Huntington, Lincolne, and Cambridge-lbires: and after his death remaining a virgin the was remarried to Egfrid King of Northumberland. with whom likewise she lived in perfect virginity the space of twelue yeeres, notwithstanding his intreaty and allurements to the contrary. From whom lastly the was released, and had licence to depart his Court. vnto the Abbey of Coldingha, where first she was vailed a Nunne vnder Abbesse Ebba, and thence departing, she lined at Ely, and became her selfe Abbesse thereof, wherein laftly fhe died, and was interred; remembred vnto posterities by the name of S. Audrie His second daughter was Sexburg, who married Ercombert, King of Kent, vnto whom the bare two fons and two daughters, as we in that Kingdomes fucces fion haue shewed: after whose death, shee tooke the fion haue lhewed: atter whose geath, mee tooke the habit of a Nunne, and fucceded her fifter Etheldrid, Setherge Abbeffe of Ely, wherin she died and was intered; and beffe of Ely after the fifter. their yongest fister Withgith, was likewise a Menchion with them in the same Monastery, and all of them canonized for Saints. Ethilburge his third daughter was ly died. A naturall daughter likewise he had, whose

S. Brigges in France. Such a reputed holineffe was it held in those daies, not only to be separated from the accompanying with men, wherunto women by God were created, but also to abandon the Country of their nativity, and as strangers in forraine Lands, to end the continuance of their lines. Thelherd, the brother of drug, the yere of Christs King of the East-Angles: the which it feemeth he had

King of the East-Angles of his brother, for that hee Incarnation fix hundred fifty foure, was made had assisted Penda in his warres against him; and was the motive (laith Beda) of the warres against Ofwin Bedabift. Angl. King of Northumberland, wherin fiding with the hea- 46.1 . cap . 14. then Penda, he was worthily flaine, the fifteenth day of November, when he had raigned onely two yeeres, His raigne. leaving his name to the blot of infamy, and his Crowne to be possessed by his younger brother. His wife was Herefwith fifter of Hilds, the famous learned Abbesse of Streansbale, and great grand-childe to Ed- wife of Estimbers wyne King of Northumberland, who bare vnto him Aldulfe, Elfwoolfe, and Beorne, all three fucceeding E- Their children

dilwald in the Kingdome of the East-Angles. Delwald the brother of Ethelherd entred his gouernment of the East-Angles the yere of our Lord | An.Do. 656 fix hundred fifty fixe, and continued the fame the pace of nine yeeres, without either mention of any An Do. 664 other memorable act : from whom (as is supposed) issued Ethelred that succeeded King after Bearne.

A Ldulfe, the eldest sonne of Eshelherd and Queene Hereswish, ascerthe death of his vncle King Edelwald, obtained the Kingdome of the East-Angles, and therein raigned without any honour or honourable action by him performed: onely his name and time of his raigne, which was nineteene yeres, is left of him by Writers: and affordeth no further relation of vs here to be inferred, befides his Coine here fer.

Ethiolf the sonne of King Ethelherd, and bother to this last mentioned Aldulfe, began his raigne oner the An.Do.682 made Abbeffe of Berking, neere London, built by her brother Bifhop Erkinmald, wherein fhe liued, and laft-led in the laft-led in name was Edelburg, that with Sedrido the daughter of Edelburge Abhis wife, were both of them professed Nunnes, and besse of S. Brigger fucceeded each other Abbeffes in the Monaftery of Ecda ib 3. Cap.8.

An.Do. 654

THE SAXON KINGS OF THE EAST-ANGLES. Chap. II. the Kingdome of the Esst-Angles, the yeere of Christ to stand vpon their Guards, and rather to defend his Incarnation, fix hundred eighty three, and continued in the same, the time of seuen yeeres, without record of any memorable At, Wife, or Ifue, to reuiue his name.

An.Do. 714

An. D. 714. Ethebed the ther

He raigned two

His fonne Sthel-

bert, His wife Leefrun.

Beorne, the yongest sonne of King Ethelherd, succeeded his brother King Elfwolfe in the Kingdom of the East-Angles; no further mention being made of him, his wife, nor liftie, which are al together perished, and laid long since in their graves of oblivion. Ethelred, after the death of his colen Beorne, succeeded him in the Kingdome of the East-Angles, issue ing(as is supposed) from King Edelwald the brother of Ethelherd, and of Anna, both of them Kings in that Prouince. His raigne by writers is faid to bee fiftie two yeeres, which notwithstanding was passed ouer without any memorable note for albeit that his gouernment was long, and the declining Heptarchie not unlikely to have ministred matters of remembrance to posterities, yet is the same passed ouer by the silence of our Writers, and no further mention made of him, belides the education of his yonger fonne Ethelbert, who proued amost worthy King. His wife, and the mother of this vertuous ionne, was Leafrun, faith the Writer of his life, without further mention of her parentage, or other iffue. This king deceased the yeere after Christs nativity, seven hundred forty eight, the same yeere that Ethelbert entred his to be a Prince religious and charitable, fober, pro-gation of Quendrid his vnkind (intended)mother in law, no other occasion ministred, but the greatnes of his Port, that much in her eyes ouer-heighted her husbands. His Bride-bed the grave was first at Mer-den, north from Sutton vpon the River Lug. But afterwards vpon repentance, Off removed it vnto Hereford; ouer whom, Milfrid an vnder King of the Mercians built a moit faire Church in memoriall of him, which yet beares his name, and is the Cathedral of her life; notwithflanding fome affirme that thee

was wife to King Kenwolfe, the fucceffor of her brother Egfrid. This King raigned the space of forty fine yeeres, as is fet in the Table of our English Writers, and died the yeare of Christs incarnation seven hundred ninety three, the eighteenth day of May, and his Kingdome intruded upon by the Mercians, having had neither wife nor children, that Historians make mention of: after whose death the Kingdom of the Esst-Angles was brought to decay, both by the Mer-cians, West-Saxons, and them of Kent; so that by means of their violence, that Prouince was destitute of her owne Gouernours, the space of seventy seven yeeres, untill laftly the affaults of the Danes, a new-come Guell and most dangerous Enemie, caused the other Kings

Kingdome of Kent. Ethelbert, the sonne of King Ethelred, after his Fa-thers death was ordained King of the East-Angles, An.D. 740. whose daies of youth were spent in learning and Etbelbert the foureteenth King deeds of charity, and the whole time of his gouernement in continual tranquillity; for hee is recorded found and wife in counfell. This King being incited Girel Cambrenfu by Offa the Mercian (that still thirsted after great-nesse) to marie Elfryd his daughter, a Lady of great beautie, came vpon that purpose to offa his Court, then feated at Sutton Wallis in the County of Hereford red by Offis King of Mercia, and was by him there cruelly murdered at the infti-

Buried at Mer. After at Here-

of that See. His Bride, Lady Elfrid, much lamenting his contriued murther, withdrew her felf to Crowland in the Fennes, and there vowed chaftitie all the daies Elfrid his elpou-fall yowed chaftiwhat they already had gotten, then to fecke inlargement, to the hazard of all:at which time, it is faid one off a, to whom the right of that Crowne belonged, ypon areigned entare troome octonged of the best of the Sepalchre of Christ, and writing in his way a kinsman of his, whose name was Alkmund, arthe Ci-lives of the Sepalchre of Christ, and writing in his way a kinsman of his, whose name was Alkmund, arthe Ci-lives of the Sepalchre of Christ, and writing the Sepalchre of the Sepalchre of Christ, and writing the Sepalchre of Christ, and writing the Sepalchre of Christ, and writing the Sepalchre of Christ, and Sepalchre tie Norhenberge in Saxonie, there made his will, wherin hee adopted young Edmund his heire, the fon of Alkmond: and accomplishing his voiage, in his return died at the Port Saint George, from whence hee fent young Edmund his Ring, and therwith ordained him King of the East-Angles. Alkmund a Prince of great power in those parts, maintained his sons rightfull election, and with a fufficient power fent him to claime the kingdome. These landing in the East of England, at a place called Maydenboure, built a roiall Tower, which hee named, and to this day is called, Hunstantone, situated vpon the North-west point of Norfolke, that beareth likewise his owne name.

L Dmund thus arrived, was as willingly received and by the East-Angles made their king, in whose time An.Do. 870.

Hungar and Hubba, two Danish Captains, with an innumerable multitude of Heathen Danes, entred the Land at the mouth of Hamber, and from thence inua- fin ded Nottingham, Yorke and Northumberland, where (without respect of age or sex) they laid all wast, and left the Land whence they departed like to a desolate Wildernesse. From thence they came with the like furie into Edmunds territories, and facked Thetford a frequent City in those daies: but he not able to withstand their violence, fled into his Castle at Framingham, wherein hee was of them besieged; and lastly, taken (laith Abba Floriacenfis) in a village then called Heglisaune, of a wood bearing the same name, or rather yeelded himselfe to their torments, to saue more Christian bloud, for it is recorded, that because of his Unritian bloud; for it is recorded, that because of his most constant Fath and Profession, those Pagans first bear him with bats, then scourged him with whips, he then the bear him with whips, he that calling upon the name of the bear when the bear him. still calling upon the name of lefus; for rage whereof, they bound him to a flake, and with their arrowes shot him to death; and cutting off his head, contemptuoufly threw it into a bush, after he had raigned ouer the East-Angles the space of sixteene yeeres, having had neither wife nor iffue that is read of. His body and head, after the Danes were departed, were buried Malmes. at the same roials Towne, as Abboterms it, where Si- His talgoe. gebers the East-Anglean King, and one of his predecesfors, at his establishing of Christianity, built a Church, and where afterwards (in honour of him) was built another most spatious, and of a wonderfull frame of Timber, and the name of the Towne, vpon the occa-

the Martyrs Tombe. After the death of this Edmund the East-Angles Country was possessed by the Danes.

& so continued about some fifty yeers, vntil that Ed ward furnamed the Elder, expulled these Danes, and ioined that kingdome a Pronince to the West-Saxons, after it had stood three hundred fifty three yeeres,

Timber, and the name of the 1 owney, pour the octa-fion of his burial, called wnto this day, Saint Edmonds-bury. This Churchand place, Suenus the Pagan Da-bury. nifb King in impicty and fury burned to aftes. But of Edward, when his sonne Canute had made conquest of this This Church ta Land, and gotten possession of the English Crowne, ground by Sue. terrified and affrighted (as faith the Legend) with a vision of the seeming Samt Edmund, in a religious deuotion to expiate his Fathers sacrilege, built it anew most sumptuously, enriched this place with Charters & Gifts, and offred his owne Crownevpon Reedified and

The Danes exa

liia

A CATALOGVE OF SVCH BRITISH PRINCES AS WITHSTOOD THE SAXONS

IN THEIR CONQUESTS FROM VORTIGER NE THEIR FIRST MAINTAINER, VNTO CADWALLADER THEIR LAST RESISTER.

CHAPTER XII.

Historio che Sa Xias Heptarchy

The British Op

Ow as we have spoken of euery feuerall Saxon King, that attained vnto, and held poffession of any part in the East & South of this Iland, vntill fuch time as their Crownes were worne by their Con-querors, and the fenenfold divided Heptarchy. vnited into an absolute Monarchy: so by order of His

the forefaid Vortigern (the first subdued by these Sax-ons) vnto Cadwallader the last of those British Princes; who left to them his Land, and went himself to Rome: whose times & stories, according to those Guids that lead vs, wee wil declare, referring the credit thereof to our British Historians; against whom how soeuer some exceptions are, and may be justly taken, yet are they not alrogether to be cast off, in the affaires of these enfuing Princes, especially Gyldas and Ninius, who lived in, and presently after the times of those resisters. Neither is it to be doubted, but that many others there were of that Nation, no leffe carefull for transferring the remembrance of their Ancekors actions to posteritie, (no Nation liuing being more zealously denoted in that kinde,) though their writings haue in Times ruines beene buried, and their remembrances preserved onely by perpetuitie of traditions, and although wee have showed the ancient Coines of the Britaines, and observed a series thorow the of the Britaines, and observed a teries that I leave Romanes succession: yet be not offended, that I leave onely Blanks for these latter Princes, as also the first Saxons, wanting the Monies of their owne feuerall Mintes.

please, behold the Catalogue of their Kings, from flory it is required, that their oppoicrs (the Britain) follong as they kept their ground, and ftood in defence of their owne rightful inheritance, should be shewed: who with as great a disdaine, and valorous resistance, under-went the yoake of the Saxons subjections, as their ancient Ancestors had endeauoured to cleere themselues from the chaines of the Romans captinity. And vntill God and deftinie withdrew from them the hand of defence, they mated the Saxons in all their delignes. For albeit that the Fomans had robbed the Land of her strength, and the aspired Vortigern, called in these Strangers for his defence: yet their purposes being wisely perceiued, the execution therof was as presently practised, and as eagerly purfued, whilest the pillars (that supported the frame of their gouerment) stood vpon their owne Bafes. But the ground-work failing, and those props not many, the waight of all, fell vpon some few, whose acts and manly relistance (Christ assisting) shall further bee related, as time shall bring them to the yeeres of their aduentures, and carry our History thorow the affaires of their times. Meane while, as we have recorded the names of their Ancestors, and worthy forerunners, the relisters of the Romans: so now if you

Such therfore as I have found of any Kings stamp, raigning whilest the Land was divided and enjoied amongst them, I have in the margent of their remembrances affixed, with the Armes attributed to every feuerall kingdome: and hence will observe the same order, without any invention or fained inscription: which howfocuer wee want to furnish their successions, yet this am I fure of, no Nation in Europe can flew the like, or can come to so true a series of their Soueraignes Coines, as England is able at this day

Donigers the first

VORTIGERN. 1.

Vortigern among the many molestation of the Seets and Piets, was ordained the supreme Gouernor of these affaires; and to that end, with the Britaines full consent was elected their King. For as touching that Monkish Constantine, the sonne of Constantine, who is faid to be the brother of Aldreonus, King of Little Britaine in France, fent for and made King by these Britaines, whose simplicitie this Vortigern is said to abuse, and lastly to cause his murther and death; I rather thinke the storic to be the same that happened about fortie yeeres before, in the daies of Honorius the Emperor; when Constantius among other Conspirators, was raifed vpon a hopefull expectation conceived in his name.

This Constantius indeed had a sonne that bare his name, a man of a soft spirit, and no deepe reach, and therefore in his youth was made a Monke, But his Father risen to his aspiring honour, created him first his Cafar, and next Augustus, till Fortune turned those smiles into frownes, and stained their purple robes in both their own blouds. For not only the same names induceth this doubt, but the place, which was Winchefler, and Abbey Amphibilus, where this Imperial Monke was shorne, doth not a little consirme the fame; the remaines of which Colledge, by that ftrong and thicke wall standing to this day at the West gate of that Cathedrall Church, doth not a little confirme. But wanting better directions to our proceedings, we must follow for these times men of latter yeeres, and not without some suspect of vncertaintie.

The rather, for that the Saxons as then the chiefe Actors in this Land, have purposely concealed all Victors and victories against themselves; neither but sparingly haue recorded their owne.

This Fortigern, howfoeuer attaining the Crowne.

was ouer-awed (laith Ninius) by the Picts & Scots, flood in feare of the Roman forces and dread much the returne of Aurelius Ambrosius, with his brother V ter, surnamed Pen-dragon : and therefore wanting strength of his owne ries against themselves The cause of cealed all vifto

to maintaine his standing, sent for the Saxons, as wee have faid, He (faith the British Story) was Earle of Corn-Reda lib.s. cap.14. wall, of an honourable Familie and noble descent, his Lady enery way answerable to both; by whom hee had three sonnes, Vortimer, Catigern, and Pascentius. His fecond wife, or rather Concubine, (hauing caft and wife. off this first) was Rowena; the daughter of Hengrist, Rand Higden II. which Pagan mariage product not only the bane of the Land, but fo ruinated the Church of Christianity, that a Provinciall Councell of the Britaines was alfembled in Ann. 470, to repaire those things that this mariage had decaied. By this Heathen Damofell he had a daughter, who His third wife (against the law of God and Nature) was his third wife, that Kings (as he pretended, to excuse his mcest) might daughter. be descended from the right issue of Kings, vpon whom he begot his sad lamenting sonne Faustus, a vertuous Impeofthose impious parents, that ipent his life in a foliarire place neere to the River Lynterreng, as wee haue faid; who abandoning the companie of men, among those mountaines serued God in continual teares and praiers, for remission of the fault committed in his incestuous generation, for the recalling of his parents to a better life, and for the restitution of his Country to her former libertie. This Vortigern raigned first sixteene yeeres, and This Vortigern raigned first fixteene yeeres, and then deposed for his fauours to the Saxons, was retained in during all the saxons of the sax ned in durance all the raigne of Vortimer his sonne, af- Vorigen dep ter whole death reestablished, but oppressed by his fedandimpri-Saxons, and purfued by Aurelius, he withdrew himfelfe into Wales, and among those wast mountaines built a Hessiethine Castle by Merlins direction, wherof we have spoken, and more we would speake, were those fantasticke fe and more we would feake, were thole fantatticke the dison underfer with any propos of likelihood ar truth, which Eand, of Cheffer in his dises werely reiceded. In this Cattle, y origine with his inceftuous wife, the checondly raigned the figure of the years was contained to after, by the inference plant of the checond was contained to after, by the inference plant of the work was contained to after, by the inference plant of the work was contained to after, by the inference plant of the work was contained to after the plant of the work was contained to the work was a support of the w God, by fire from heaven, as some have written; or Red. High. S. c. l. else kindled by Aurelius and Vier, as his Ministers to execute his wrath, VORTIMER, 2.

An.Do.45 Varrimer the fe. cond relifter of the Saxons.

Pareimer how against the Saxons. Fourechiefe facceffe of the Tortimer, the eldeft fon of King Vortigern, through the abuse of his fathers gouernment, for which he was deposed by his owne subjects, was erected King of the Britaines the yeere from Christs birth 454. a man of great valour, which altogether hee imploied for the redreffe of his Countrey, according to the testimonie of William Malmesbury, whose words the tellimonie of william at sinesowy, whose wous are these: wortimer (saith see) thinking not good to dif-femble the master, for that see saw similest, and Countrie daily surprised by the crast of the English, set his full pur-pose to drive them out, and from the sewenth yeere after their first entrance, for twenty yeeres continuance fought many Battles with them, and foure of them with great puis. Sance in open field; in the first whereof, they departed with like fortune, and losse of the Generals brethren Horsa and Catigern: in the other three the Britaines went away with victorie, and folong untill Vortimer was taken away by fa-tall death.

Huntington, Monmouth, Randulphus, and Fabian, name both the places and successe of those Battles: The first was in Kent, and vpon the Plaine neere vnto Ails ford, where the memorial of Catigern to this day Bede lib. 1. ca. 15. remaineth; & Horsted doth as yet relish of Horsa there interred. The second Battle was fought likewise in Kent at Crocanford, now Craford, where many periffi- The place of the ed as well Britaines as Saxons. The third was at Wep-Pold Fleet, with great loffs to the Britisms: and the fourth you Calmere, where many of the Sexons after long and fore fight, were flaine, and more drowned in flight, and laftly driven into the Ile of Thanet, their first assigned habitation, (if not ouer the Seas) so that fmall hope rested for them so long as this valiant Vortimer liued, who had now dispossessed them of all dently affirmeth.

The place of the

Booke 7.

their footing in the Continent, and often affailed them in the Ile of Tannet likewise, as Fabian confi-

But destiny going forward for the downfall of Britaine, remooned these rubbes out of her way : for Rowena, the mother of the Britaines mischiefe, and the Vartimer made maintainer of the Saxons residence, found the meanes to make this worthy Vortimer away, and by poilon caused the end of his life, after hee had valiantly raigned the space of foure yeeres; all which time, by the testimonie of an old Chronicle that Fabian had seene, of his raigne. Fabras, Chro. Varigern the father remained in durance, and under par.5.cap.89. assigned Keepers in the Citic Caerlegion, now Chester, and so demeaned himselfe towards his sonne (then his Soueraigne) in dutifull obedience and faithfull counsell, that hee wonne agains the hearts of the Britaines, and was againe re-established their It is recorded by Ninius, that after his last victorie

ouer the Saxons, he caused his Monument to be ere-Redat the entrance into Tanet, and in the same place) of that great ouerthrow ,which by the faid Author is called Lapin Tituli, of vs the Stonar, where for certaine it seemes hath been an hauen. In this Monument hee commanded his body to be buried, to the further terror of the Saxons, that in beholding this his Trophy, their spirits might bee daunted at the remembrance of their great ouerthrow. As Scipio Africanas conceited the like, who commanded his Sepulchre to be fo fet, that it might ouerlooke Africa, suppoling that his very Tombe would be a terror to the Carthaginians. But how that defire of Vortimer was performed, I finde not, but rather the contrary: for an old Manuscript I have, that conidently affirmeth him to be buried in London : yet others from Ninius the disciple of Eluodugus, hold the place to bee Lincolne. But howfouer his graue is forgotten, yet let this bee remembred, that Sigebertus hath written of him, that rememorecy, than a secretion that whiteen of mini, that is, After the Saxons (laich he) whose drift was not onely to our-runne the Land with violence, but also to creek their owne Lawes without elemencie, he reon approved in the wine Lawes without cumentic, never flored the Christian Religion then sovely decaied, and new built the Churches that those enemies had destroied.

AVRELIVS AMBROSIVS. 3.

An.Do.466.

Galfrid Mon.

Brda bift. lib, 1,

Grace Caxten.

A V relius Ambrosius, verily descended of that Con-flantine who in the fourth Consulthip of Theodofine the younger, was elected here in Britaine, onely in hope of his luckiename, fucceeded Vortigern the Father in the Gouernment of Britaine, and Vortimer the fonne, in affection and defence of his Country. He with V ter (faith Geffrey Monmouth) when their brother Confiantine was murthered by Vortigers, fled into France, where they remained the yeeres of his first raigne; whose returne (as we have heard from Ninius) he greatly feared, and whose force at his last he felt to his fmart. For having againe refumed his Crowne. he liued in his old finnes, and fuffered the Saxonsto be Lords of his Land: to preuent which (faith Beda De LOTIS OF IB LAILL: TO PIEUEIL WHELH (MILLI DEAD From Gyldae) the Britaines by little and little begannes to take fix ength, and with fome counges to come for the of their Cause; who with one uniforme confent, called to Codfor his heavenly help. They had (faith he for their Captaine a Roman called Ambrosius Aurelianus, a gentle natured man, which onely of all the bloud of the Romans remained then Which oney of all the counce of the Komans remained the adine, his parents being flaine, which bere the name of King of the Country. This man being their Leader, provoked the Victors to the fight, and through Gods assistance atchiened the victory. From that day forward now the Britaines, now the Saxons ded prevaile, untill the yeere that Bathe was befieged, which was fortie foure yeeres after their fuft comming into the Iland.

His first expedition (as our British Historians re port) was against Vortigern, and his Castle in Wales, wherein that incestuous King was consumed to ashes by lightning from heauen, as we haue faid: and then following the Saxons, made toward Torke, & at Maef bel beyond Humber, encountering Hengift, became his Victor: vnto whose mercy (say they) his sonne occa yeelded himselfe, and obtained in free gift the Country in Gallaway in Scotland for him and his Saxons, Bur try in casespay in certains for minimum its axions, but the his affaires thus profpering against the common Enemie, was enuied at by Pafeatius, the youngest son of King Portigern, who not able either to mate the Saxons, or after his Brethrens deaths to recouer the Kingdome to himfelfe, ambitiously fought to prefer his base humor before the recourry of his Countries libertie, which then lay gored in her owne bloud. For inserties when then ay goven in ner owne bloud. For having gotten the aid of Gillamare King of Ireland, whether hee had fled vpon the death of his Father, and now returned into the west of Wales, first indammaged the Citie of S. Danids, and thence proceeded with fire and fword. Awelius then ficke in the Citie of Winchester, sent his brother Vier to withstand his force, who flew both Pascentins and the Irish King his partaker, in a fet & fore battell fought betwirt them, But before this battell, Pafeentius had fent a Saxon, whose name was Eopa, in shew a Britaine, and in habit whose name was zepa, in new a privation, and in naon a Physitian, to minister posion in stead of physicke, which according was effected with Ambrosus his

Vnto this Aurelius Ambrofius is ascribed the creetion of that rare and admirable monument, now called Stonhenge, in the same place where the Britaines had been trecherously slaughtered and interred, whose

Chap. 12.

of the Monu-ment of State-benge.

Ancient fashio ned Armor found at State-berge-

OPPOSERS OF THE SAXONS. counted for one of the Wonders of this Iland, and are

manner and forme in our draught of Wiltfbire wee haue inferred. The matter being Stones of a great and huge bigneffe, fo that fome of them contains The description twelue tunne in waight, and twenty eight foote or more in length, their breadth seuen, and compasse fix-teene. These are set in the ground of a good depth, and fland in a round circle by two and two, having a third flone somewhat of lesse quantitie laid gate-wise ouerthwart on their toppes, faffaed with tenons and mortailes, the one into the other; which to fome feeme fo dangerous, as they may not fafely be paffed vider, the rather for that many of them are fallen downe, and the rest suspected of no sure foundation : notwithstanding, at my being there, I neither saw cause of such feare, nor vncertaintie in accounting of their numbers, as is faid to be. The stones are gray, but not marbled, wherein great holes are beaten euen by force of weather, that ferue for Rauens and other birds to build in, and bring foorth their young. The compaffe, in forme almost round, or rather like vnto a horse-shooe, with an entrance in vpon the east-side. Three rowes of stones seeme formerly to have beene pitched, the largest outwards, and the least inwards: many whereof are now fallen downe : but those that fland, thew to faire an aspect, and that so faire off, that they seeme to the beholders to bee some Fortresse or strong Castle. A Trench also is about them, which hath beene much deeper; and voon the plaines adioining, many round copped hilles, without any fuch trench, (as it were cash vp out of the earth) stand like great hay-cockes in a plaine meadow: In these, and thereabouts, by digging haue beene found pecces of ancient fashioned armour, with the bones of men, whose bodies were thus couered with earth that was brought thither by their wel-willers and friends, euen in their head-peeces; a token of loue that then was v-fed, as fome imagine. This Trophey, Aurelius Ambroftus (in memorial) of the Britaines massacre) erected, and is worthily ac-in the verses of Alexander Necham called The Giants Daunce, wherein this Ambrofius was interred after hee had raigned thirtie two yeeres, and wherof the towne Ambresbury beares the name. Others report, that the Britaines crected this most stately Sepulcher ouer the body of Ambrofus there flaine by the fword of his cnemies, that his Countries loue; in such a costly peece of worke, might remaine vnto posterities in this, the Altar of his vertue and manhood : for Paulus Diacomus faith, that this man, in succouring his decaied Countrie, tooke upon him the Imperiall Robe, and against the violent rage of those German enemies; oft times overthrew their pufant armies, but was lastly staine by them open the Plaines of Salesburie. I cannot with filence let paffe the ridiculous reports of the bringing of the Stones out of Africke into Ireland, and from thence, vnder the conduct of rier the brother of Ambrofius, vnto this Plain, Guali amb, by the industrious meanes of Merlin, surnamed Ambrofe, borne in the ancient City Merdbyn, and as Hum- Breuisty of Bri frey Lhuydlaith, of a noble virgin, whose father, for his skill in the Mathematicks, and wonderfull knowledge in all other kinde of learning, was by the rude common people reputed to be the sonne of an Incubus, or a male Divell, which in the similitude and likenesse of men doe wse carnally to companie with women. But how this may agree with his divine mouth, that telles vs the Spirits have nei- Luke 24 39. ther flesh nor bones; and the whole Scriptures, that man is carnally begotten, conceiued and born, I leave for others further to dispute. Only I know, that such begettings as Merlines is reported to bee, without father, and Simon Magua alfo, that before him would needs be the fonne of a Virgin, doe not a little contra-nation foure hundred ninety feuen.

dict our Christian Profession, who acknowledge onely the conception of Christ to be conceined without the feed of man, or of finne. But to our putpose: Ambrofius Aurelius (by Panninius accounted the last Emperour of the British bloud) is said to raigne in Britaine ence of his thirty two yeeres, and to die in that of Christs Incar-

315

VTERPENDRAGON. 4

An,Do.498. Mat.Westminster.

VTer, furnamed Pendragon, the brother of Ambrofius, succeeded him both in valour, and in the Gouernment of Britaine. His entrance was with troubles against the Saxons, who under the leading of Eske and Octa, the fonnes of King Hengist, had passed with spoile to the Citie Yorke, whither this new-made Generall prefently repaired, and giuing them battell, with the discomfiture of the whole Army, tooke both the brethren prisoners, and committed them to Gafe custodie

But the Britaines (faith Boetius) becomming diffoiall to their Prince, scidome assisted him with preuenting counsell : and the Prince enamored upon the Duke of Cornwals Wife, consulted more with Merline to transforme himfelfe from himfelfe, then to giue direction against the common enemie. For comming to Tindagell Castle in Cornwall, possessed by Gor-lois, Duke of that Prouince, beheld (in his eye) the Paragen of Nature, which was Lady I gren, his Dutches die Jgron, and wife. Vter, whose thoughts till then had bin free, and from his childhood had ever followed Mars in the field, was now furprifed fo far with her love, that his Shield and Armes were both neglected and vnworne, and all his thoughts fet on worke to purchase his most wished desire; which lastly, by Mertine and Maguek was effected, and that after this manner (if we LII I

Geffey Mann.

quered Rome, and thereof were Emperours, and that they had and held I shall have your z. Goddie grace. Whereby is manifest his bloud was from the Romans. Let not therefore any of our Britaines take exceptions against

An anciene M

will beleeue him of Monmouth, who is the reporter.)
His fuires and hopes failing (faith he) to win her vnto dishonor, Merline altogether new-moulded the shape of King Vier, and printed in his face the feature of Gorlois her owne Lord, by which meanes, and without suspect the King dishonourably violated this Ladies chastitie, in which Bed of deceit, the famous Arthur was begot. The captine Captaines Eske and Octa in these loose times of his love, gat loose from their Keepers, and with their ratling armour roused Vter from this wanton Lullaby; who with troopes of strength, and trumpets of defiance, met these Sax-ons face to face in the field, where betwirt them was fought a most bloudy battell, and that even almost to the last stroke, and wherein, if farall destine had withdrawne her hand, the Iland had been rid of these Intruders for euer. For therein (fay our Authours) the Saxons perished by the Britaines swords; vpon whose points also Eske and Octa paid their escapes with the offe of their lines. This field was at Verolam, whither Vter ficke, and in his Horse-litter, was borne among his Army, and after long and fore fiege, wonne from them that Citie. Finally, when this King had raigned the space of eighteene yeeres, he died by poison put into a well, whereof viually he dranke, and was buried at Stonhenge with his brother Ambrofius.

Of his furname Pendragen, these supposals are Ot nis aurname renaragom, theie supposais are made: Athis natiuitie (lay lome) appeared a sierie Comet, in some part resembling a Dragon Head: where upon that great reputed Prophet Merime, attributed this heatenly Meteor vnto this Princely new-borne Babe, and gaue him the name of Vter-Pendragon. Others for his ferpentine wifdome, derine the furname of this Serpents Head, who like vnto that of Dan, bit Gen. 49.17. the Horse heeles, so that the riders fell backward. For in all his watres against the Saxons, hee was most fortunate and victorious, with their great ouerthrowes. But others will have him so named from his Royall But comes was ever before him, wherein was portra-famen, born eucer before him, wherein was portra-ed a Dragon with a Godden Meda, of which Standard fince, neighbour Nations have had good experience, and in far Country it hash been diplaced in the caule and in far Country it hash been diplaced in the caule for the terror of the Pagan, as in Syris by that inuincible English King, Richard the first, surnamed Cur-de-lion; in Scotland and Wales by that conquering Prince Edward the first, and the same as yet is in field borne for an Imperial Standard in our English

Chap. 12.

lahu Roufe.

OPPOSERS OF THE SAXONS. but as it seemeth, not any of ancient credit, so many toies and tales hee every where interlaceth out of his owne braine, wherewith hee was charged while himfelfe liued, infomuch as he is now ranged among those Writers whom the Koman Church hath censured to be me for this, neither that I enlarge not his fame, by the enlargement of his Empire in Russia, Lapland, and in making Norway his Chamber of Britaine, as if that This hurt therefore those ouer-zealous Monkes hane done to the Subject whereof they wrote, that Kingdome and Title should bee given him by the through an ouer-much conceited opinion, with the Pope, that indeed cuts large thongs out of other mens vertue and fame of the person, they have mingled such matters as may justly be rejected, whereby their Leather: his Conquests of thirty Kingdomes, and killing of Denabus the huge Spanish Giant, & his combat worths are not only depriued of their truly-delerued honours, but which more is, euen their persons suspewith Frolo Gouernor of France, and with Lucius Hiberus the Roman Legate, whose slaine body hee sent to cted to be nought elfe but fictions, as Hercules in Ouid, the Senate for the tribute of Britame by them demanor Hellor in Homer. And so hath Geffrey done by this ded : feeing thatothers before mee, farre more ripe most worthy Prince Arthur, whose warres against the Historians, haue made both doubts and objections Saxons for defense of this Iland, he hath enlarged with against them. And therefore I conclude with this Arthe Conquests of other Kingdomes and Countries, thur, as Saint Augustine with the Athenians, whose men layed de stait. (faith he) were euer greater infame then in deeds. And Du. 100.100.100. wherein he neuer came : which hath made not onely his Acts to be doubted of, but even his person to bee with Ninius will end with his faying 3 Arthurus pugna called in question, whether any such Arthur euer rubat contra illos in diebus illis; & licet multi ipso nobilioled in Britaine. Yet with better regard to the Recorres essent, ipse tamen duodecies Dux belli fuit, Viders of his spreading same, we grant both the man, and ttorque bellorum : Arthur made warre against them in many honorable parts in him, though not in the like those daies; and though many were more noble then be, manner as they have laid them downe. Neither are yet was hee twelue times Generall in the Field, and returwe straied so farre from the steps of credulitie, that we ned Conquerour. But more constant is the memorie of can beleeue no more then wee see, or that seeing, bee his death, and place of his buriall, both which are refore-stalled with a prejudicate opinion : for though ported .vpon warrantable credit : for Mordred the we consent not to the fables of Homer, neither to the Hom Illad lib.e. ionne of Lothe, whereof wee haue spoken, affecting inventions that Euripides and Sophocles made upon the the Crown, you a pretence of right from King/ter, and supposed bastardise of Arthur, gaue many ac-tempts, through the aid of his Picts, and assistance of Battles of Tree, yet weedenie not but that there were Warres and Battles at Trey, wherein many Martiall acts yndoubtedly were performed: neither doubt wee of the Sacons, to dispossesse him of that wherein he was his person, as Seneca seemeth to doe of Impiters, but feated : and laftly at " Kamblan or Cambula in Cornwall acknowledge it with reuerence for truth, yet with this (faith Leland) this British Heestor encountring Mordred, slew him out-right, and received of him his owne deaths referuation, that all is not Gospell which is written in Greeke. And had there not beene a truth of things wound. The witnesse of this Field as yet are those whereupon Poets made their fables, there had beene peeces of Armour, horse-harnesse, and other habiliat this day no fables of Poets in the world. And as ments of Warre, which are daily digged up in tillage Geffrey wondreth that neither Gyldas nor Beda doe belle wonderen that nether vysas hur seas doe mention Arthur nor his great deeds, so saith Randulphus, may we at Geffrey, that hath augmented them about the pitch of credulitie. But for the truth of this of the ground; vnleffe those reliques of Battle be the scales of that fight which Marianus writeth to have Marianus Scotte beene in this place betwixt the Britaines and Saxons, in the yeere of our Lord eight hundred and twenty. Prince, besides a Charter exemplified under the scale If then it bee true that Arthur heere died, this place of King Edward the Third, wherein mention is made we may lay feemeth to be confectated vnto Mars: for of King Arthur, to have beene a great Benefactour to indagell cafile, standing hard by, first brought into the Abbey of Glastenbury, who as Iohn Rouse reporteth, had given Bren-march and other Demaines, to the vathe world this glorious Prince, for one of her nine Worthies, and Cambula againe received his last bloud. lue of fiue hundred Markes yeerely, to the faid Mona-But from this place he was carried vnto Glastenburie fterie, His Armes (being an Escocheon, wheron a Croffe, with the Virgin Mary bearing Christ in her armes) cut in stone, and standing ouer the first Gate of entrance as yet, is said to be the Armer of that Abbey. And Iofeph, the indicious Monke of Excester, who followed King Richard the First in his warre for the Conquest of the Holy Land, in his poeticall verses extolleth Arthur with Alexander, Cafar, and Hercules; yea and Ni-nius, farre his ancient, calleth Arthur an Iron Mall, that both bruised and brake the Lions iawes asunder. Therefore of his person we make no doubt, though his acts haue beene written with too lauish a pen; neither consent we with those Historians that naturalize him for a Britaine, seeing that Ninius, Beda, Malmesbu-rie, and himselse seeme to speake the contrarie: for Ambrofius being the brother of Vter Pendragon, as we already from Beda have shewed, was a Captaine defeended from the bloud of the Romans, whose parents faith Ninius, had worne the Purple Robe, and both of them the sonnes of Constantine, whose father in Brimans, Arthur not only denied them Tribute, but also threatned to haue a Tribute from Rome : for in his Letters to that end fent vnto the Senate, thus in an old Manuscript we finde it indired : V nder stand among you of Rome, that I am King Arthur of Britaine, and freely it hold, and shall hold; and at Rome hastily will I bee, not to giue you truage, but to have truage of you : for Constantine that was Helenes sonne, and other of mine Ancestors con in Somerfet-flure, where he died the one and twentieth of May, in the yeere of our Saluation fine hundred Walforner. An of May, in the yeere of our saturation nue nundred forty and two, after he had most victoriously raigned without the con twenty fix yeeres. His body was there buried, and fix tinuance of his hundred yeeres after was taken vp, and found vpon this occasion: When Henry the second, and first Plantagenet, had swaied the English Scepter to the last of his raigne, it chanced him at Pembrooke to heare fung to the Harpe certaine Ditties of the worthy exploits and acts of this Arthur, (by a Welfh Bard, as they were ter-med, whose custome was to record and sing at their Feafts the noble deeds of their Ancestours) wherein mention was made of his death, and place of buriall. designing it to be in the Church-yard of Glastenburie. and that betwixt two Pyramides therein standing: whereupon King Henry caused the ground to be dig-ged, and at seven foot depth was found a huge broad stone, wherein a leadden Croffe was fastned, and in that fide that lay downeward, in rude and barbarous letters (as rudely fet and contriued) this inscription taine against Honorius the Emperour had put on the written vpon that fide of the Lead that was towards faid Robe. And by his naturall descent from the Ro-

HIC IACET SEPVLTVS REX AR-TURIUS IN INSULA AVALONIA. Heere lieth King Arthur buried in the Ile of Aualonia

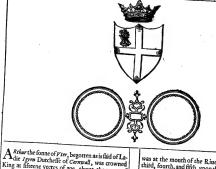

And digging nine foot deeper, his body was found in the trunke of a Tree, the bones of great bignesse, and in his scull perceived ten wounds, the last very great, and plainely feene. His Queene Guineuer, that had beene neere kinswoman to Cador Duke of Cornwall, a Geffrey, &c.

John Harding.

Pendragon the his raigne.

KING ARTHUR. f.

An.Do. 5 16. Matth.Heftm.

Scotia Chron.

King at fifteene yecres of age, about the yecre of Christ fine hundred and fixteene; or as Matthew of Westminster hath it, fine hundred and eighteene. His prosperous entrance was enuied at by Lothe King of the Picts, and by Couran King of the Scots, who had married his owne Aunts, Anna and Alda, the two fifters of Amorofe and Vter, each of them expecting the Crowne before him, through the opinion and repute of his bastardie, especially Lothe, who had if-tue by Anna, Mordrad, and Gawan: the latter of which spent his life in the cause of that quarrell. His first proceedings were against the common enemie the Saxons, whose Captaine Colgerne, he chased from Northumberland into Yorke; which Citie likewise he girt with a strait siege, notwithstanding Colgerne thence escaped into Germany, and of King Cherdick got fuccour for his Saxons, who with seven hundred faile arrived in Scotland. Arthur advertised of his great power, railed his fiege, and drew towards London, and thence fent for aid to his Nephew Honel, King of Little Britaine in France, who came himselfe in person to ioyne with his Vncle.

Thefe from South-kampton marched to Lincolne, which Citie Cherdlek had firongly befleged, but was thence forced by Arthurs conquering fword. Twelue battelshe fought against these Saxons (as Ninius recordeth) with great manhood and victorie. The first was at the mouth of the River Gleyne: the second, third, fourth, and fifth, vpon the Banks of Deuglasse, that, touth and men, vpointie Danks of Dongaspe, in the Countie of Lineux: the fixth vpoin the River Bassus, the seventh in the wood Calidon; the eighth paging; the remains in the wood canaon; the eight neere to the Castle Guynien; the ninth in Wales, at the Towne Cairelien; the tenth at Trachenrith, or Rithewode vpon the Sea fide : the eleventh vpon a hill named Agned Cathergonien; and the twelfth at Bathe, or med Agned Cathergomen; and the twentul at 100,005, 04.

Bathers-fill, where the Britaines (as Beda faith) gaue the Beda 16th, Angl.

Bathers-fill, where the Britaines (as Beda faith) gaue the Beda 16th, Angl.

Bit. 1897.18. port) happened fortic foure yeeres after the Saxons heft arrivage into Britaine, the yeere wherein himfelfe

Of Arthurs successe both at home and abroad, his great magnificence in Court and Country, his Banners, and foure Golden Swords borne before him, his Round Tables, and challenges of Martiall Honour, let Monmouth the Writer, Newbery the Relifter, and Leiland Liland, Liland the Maintainer, be heard for me. But certaine it is (by the report of Malmesbury) that Arthur was a Prince more worthy to be advanced by the truth of Records in warmore worsen so be aumanced of the trust of accords in war-rantable credit, then by fables fandalized with poeticall scrious and hyperbolical fallboods. Whose Banner was so often spread for the cause of Christianitie, and defense of his Countrey, being the only proppe that wheld the same. And lamentable it is, that the same of this puissant Prince had not beene sounded by a more certaine Trumpet: for to fay the truth of his Writer even in a Oftenras An word, hee was well skilled in Antiquities of tradition, Monmouth.

Matth, Weffm,

The like treffes of haire my leffe faw in a coffin digged vp in an old houle neere Paule in Landon, very beautiful? in thew, but be-ing touched, was nothing but duft.

Lady of passing beautie lay likewise by him, whose treffes of haire finely platted, and in colour like the gold seemed perfect and whole vntill it was touched, but then (bewraying what all beauties are) shewed it selfe to be dust. Giraldus Cambrensts, a worthy Author and an eie-witnesse, is the reporter of this finding of Arthurs bones; and the Croffe of Lead, with the Infeription, as it was found and taken off the stone, was kept in the Treasurie or Reuester of Glastenburie una Ston. Church, faith Stowe, till the Suppression thereof in the raigne of King Henry the eight, whose forme and rude letters we have here expressed to thy sight.

Book. 7.

Arthurs bones

The bones of King Arthur, and of Queene Guineuar his wife, by the direction of Henry de Bloys, Ne-phew to King Henry the second, and Abbat of Glaflenbury, at that prefent were translated into the great new Church, and there in a faire Tombe of Marble his body was laid and his Queenes at his feet; which noble Monument among the fatall ouerthrowes of infinite more, was altogether raced at the dispose of some then in Commission, whose too forward zeale, and ouer hastic actions in these behalfes, hath left vnto vs a want of many truths, and cause to wish that some of their imployments had bin better spent.

An. D. 542. Brute books.

Conflantine the some of Cador Duke of Cornwall, and cosen to King Arthur by his alliance in mariage, at his death was appointed by him to succeed in his Dominions, and most joifully received of the Commons, as the man, in the opinion of this worthy elector and themselves, accounted most fit to defend elector and the minerales, accounted most nerto determine the Land from the many oppressions of the Saxons, who now beganne to ipreade the wing as farre as to Type in the North, and to fet downe the limits of their feuerall Kingdomes; which notwithstanding, these strangers daily enlarged vpon the home-bred Inhabitants, the civill warres of the Britaines giving way to the fame, and that not onely among themselves, but by the Pists also, in the behalfe of the two sonnes of Mordred, that fought to dispossesse him of the Crown. In which quarrel many battles were fought, but with such successe to the attemptors, that these two Competitors were forced for refuge into London and Winchefter, whither Constantine pursued them, they taking Sanctuarie in the Churches, and not farre from the Altars he flew them : for which deede, the Prieft Gyldas that flourished in those daies, in his innettine reprehen-

In his Booke De fions thus writeth : Britaine hath Kings (laith hee) but excidio Britan, Hum.Lluyd,Bre. Brit. they are Tyrants: Iudges it hath, but they are wicked, pilling and harming the innocent people; reuenging and defen-ding, but whom? Such as be guilty and robbers. They have many wines, yet breake they wedlocke; many times swearing, yet periure themselues; vowing, but for the most part with dissembling lies; warring, but still maintaining uniust and civill broiles; abroad pur suing theeues, and yet at home cherish them, even at their owne Tables, and sometimes also reward them. They give large almes indeed, yet heape they up finnes high as the Mountaine. They fit in the Seat of sentence, yet seldome seeke the rule of right iudgement, de-spising the humble and innocent persons, and ektolling up to Heauen proud and bloudie Murderers, Theenes, and Adulterers, yea and if he would permit them, the very enemies of ler's ; yes anas y new woula permut norm, yor very enermice of God. Many they keepe in prifor, and load them with irons, more to ferm their owne purpofes, then for any guilt in the perfor, taking folemn O aths before & open the Altars, and yet defin fe they the Altars, as altogether wile, and but fithic

Of this hainous and wicked offense, Constantine the tyrannicall whelpe of the Lionesse of Deuon-shire is not ignorant, who this yeere, after the receiving of his dreadfull

Oath, whereby he bound himfelfs, that in no wife he should hurt his Subices, (God fust, and then his Oath, with the company of Saints, and his owne mother being present) did natwithstanding in the reverend laps of both his Mothers, the Church, and her by nature, and that under the vesture the Charte, maker by nature, and that maker the volume of an holy doked, deasure with fived and flears, in deal of itests, the tender fairs and the cutvaline of rowe children of paths and kingly race, and libraring of their two flations, of noble and kingly race, and libraring of their two flations, nours, yea, and that (as I faid) before the facerd afters; the Armeter of which terforing felaines, may frestend the to adject at kingle laws with meapons (which few in short all laws and and the same and the sa dates handled more valiantly then they) but stretched forth to God, and to his Altar, in the day of Indgement shall fet up the renerend ensignes of their patience and faith at the Gates of the Citie of Christ, which so have concred the seat of the Celestall Sacrifice, as it were with the red Manile of heir cluttered bloud

These things hee did not after any good deeds done by him deserving praise: for many yeeres before overcome with the often and changeable filths of adulterie, and forsaking his lawfull wife (contrary to the law of God) beeing not loofed from the snares of his former sinnes, hee increa-seth the new with the old. Thus far Gyldas, for this time, and for the raigne of Constantine, whose life being no better, was cut off in battell by Aurelius Commus, names conwhen he had raigned fully three yeeres, and without issue was buried at Stonhenge.

AVRELIVS CONANVS. 7.

An, D. 545.

Gyldes.

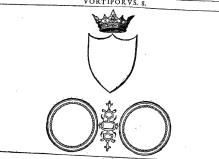

A reliant Conanus, the Nephew of King Arthur, afwas made King ouer the Britaines in the yeere after Christs Natiuitie fine hundred fortie fine. He was of disposition free and liberal, but therewith all of a light credit, and very suspicious, cherishing them that accu-sed others, without respect of right or wrong, putting fome to death, and retaining others in perpetuall prifon, among whom his own Vncle was one, whose two fons he caused to be flain, no causes objected, but that these three were in truth betwixt him & the Crowne for which, and other the like impious parts, the faid Gyldas continueth the tenor of his vehement reprehension in this manner. And thou Lions whelpe (as speakes the Prophet) Aurelius Conanus, what dost thou? art thou not swallowed up in the filthy mire of murthering thy Kinsmen, of committing formications and adulteries, like to the others before mentioned, if not more deadly, as it were with the waves and surges of the drenching Seas, overwhelming thee with her unmercifull rage? dost thou not in hating the peace of thy Country, as a deadly Serpent, and thirsting after civill warres and spoiles (often times uniustly gotten) simit up against thy soule the Gates of celestiall passes? Thou being left alone, we a withering tree in the middle of a fall, calle or rememberare (1 pays the in the wains possible all not seem to the sains possible all strates, and ower timely actually of the Fabrics and the Partiers. Islast thou their sand the Partiers. Islast thou their sign at part, and choice for first to fall thy lineage for thy goldy defers, herefored to line an humbred years, or remains on certain till how the arolled at the thing that and the with exhortations for his amendment, turneth his speech to his Succeffor.

The raigne of this King, among the vncertain ties of other proceedings, is ranged by our owner Hi-ftorians, as vncertainly. For some hold him to rule onely two yeeres, and no more, being then cut off by the inft reuenging hand of God for his finnes: others allow three yeeres for his raigne, wherein, as they fay, most viciously hee lived; and yet Matthew of Westminster will have him continue in gouernement no leffe then thirty yeeres; and John Stow addeth three more : fuch extremes are wee driuen vnto, that have our relations onelie from

Mmm 1

VOR

VORTIPORVS. 8.

An.Do. 578.

Gyldar

Vortiporus, after the death of Aurelius, succeeded him in the Kingdome of the Britaines, which then was much scanled by the intrusions of the Seventeen was much scanled by the intrusions of the Seventeen was much scanled by the intrusions of the Seventeen was much scanled by the intrusions of the Seventeen was much scanled by the intrusions of the Seventeen was much scanled by the intrusions of the Seventeen was made and the seventeen was a seventeen was a seventeen when the seventeen was a seventeen which was a seventeen when the seventeen was a seventeen which was a seventeen which was a seventeen when the seventeen was a seventeen which we want to seve which was a seventeen which was a sevent ons whom in many battels (as faith the British Histopas wrong in many pacters (as abut the printin Pano-rians)he vanquifhed, and valiantly defended his Land and Subjects, from the danger of them and of their Allies: notwithstanding these reported actions thus honorably atchieued, yea and his Parentage with fuccession of gouernment, may be both suspected and infily called in queftion, as by the words of Gyldas is manifelt; who sufferd not this King also to passe vntouched in his Inuectiue and lamentable passions, And toucneum in structure and iamentative passions. Ana thou (aith by or tiper us to Tyran of Sauth-wales, like to the Panther in manners and wickeds [b, airly flootted, ait were with many colours, with thy hourie head in the Throne full of deceit, rafts, and writes, and deflect usen from the lowest part of thy body to the Crowne of thy head, with dissers and fundry murthers committed on thine own of a good King, as Manafes was to Exechise; how chanceth is that the violent streames of sinnes, which thou swalesth in that the violent friences of finnes, which how final lowed poly he pines, or rather art fruidbred up by this filter and of the filter with the most arming not the pines of the pin being compared to godly Executes King of Indah, and Untiprimate himselfe continuing his government, as is said the contin space of foure yeeres, ended his life without issue to

MALGO CANONYS. 9.

An. D. 581.

Mas ome write, fucceeded Vortipor us in the Kingdome of Britaine, a man of a most feemely presence, but withall, charged with many vnbefeeming and foulc finnes, by ancient Gyldas, the onely recorder of the Actions in these times; who calleth him the Dragon of the les greater in power then many, but exceeding all in mischnese and malice; a large giver, but more lausso all in mylchese and matice; a turge guer, our more cause and prodigal in all sumes and licentions nesses in Armes and dominions more frong, and greater then any other Britifb Potentate; but stronger in the destruction of his owne Soule, in committing the grand abhorred sinne of Sodomie.

In his youthfull daies, with fword and fire he brought to destruction his Vncle by the mothers side (being then king) preserved not never the mothers pace vering then king together with many others, and after upons a flow-ferming remorfe of Confeience, wowed the profession and of a Monkesbut returned shortly after to his owne vormit. and became worse then he was before: for despising his first and become work then he was before; for adopting his prij mariage, be became enamered upon the wife of his brothers forme, whiles he was liming; and first that he had kept her acertaine time, murthered them both. In these finnes he the consinu continued the terme of fine yeeres, and dying without ifue, at his raigne

By these reprehensions of Gyldas it should rather

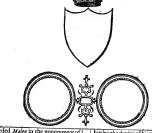

OPPOSERS OF THE SAXONS.

feeme that these Princes lined all together at one and the same time, vnto whom hee spake personally; and mouth to mouth, which could not be, if such successflons and fuch yeeres had beene expired, as heere is laid downe. And therefore not without cause some haue affirmed, that these Captaines vsurped authoritie together in divers parts of the Iland, and not fuccessinely one after another; neither indeed as Kings, but rather Tytants, polluted with these greenous since, as you have heard, and are so termed by their own Historian, that bringeth one more to tyrannize, whom neither Monmouth nor hee of Westminster hath spoken of, which is Cuneglasus, whom hee calleth, a Lion tawney Butcher, a Beare, a Contemner of Religion, an Oppression of the clergie, that fought against God with his many greenous sinnes, and warred vpon man with his martial weapons. Hee (saith hee) did put away his lawfull wife, pronoked the godly with many injuries, was proudly conceited of his owne wisdome, and set his whole hope in un-certaine riches. If then the head was so ticke, could the body be found, that (as Beda faith) were fo fet to breake all orders of truth and suffice, that feant any token or remembrance thereof remained? And for witnesse against his 1,100 and them, calleth their owne Historian Gyldas, that accused them of many impicties, and this not the least, that those Britaines neglected the preaching of the Goffell

For these sinnes assuredly, God gaue their Land to another Nation, and themselves to exile, or to the fwords of their enemies. Howfocuer, Iome latter Britaine hath rather excused their finnes by the ouerrafh zeale of Gyldas, whom he tearmeth a Pulpit-Prief (but no perfect Historian) that beat down finnes with an ouer-tharpe cenfure of the finners, as the maner of many Preachers is at this day. But (faith hee) let the true renowne of the Britaines appeare to the world: and furely fo shall it doe for me. And againe I returne to my intended purpose.

CARETICVS. 10.

An.Do. 586.

An,Do.163.

(bap.12.

If Cerdix be no

Caretieus succeeded Malgo in the gouernment of Britaine, as destitute of vertue and sluent in vice, as any of these his preceding Kings: for it is recorded that hee was a nourisher of diffensions, and sowed ciuill warres among his subjects; a sinne odible to God and Man, and vnto the vnconstant Britaines gaue oc-casion of his hatred: which when the Saxons perceiued, was further instigated, and with the assistance of Gurmund an Arch-pirate, and Captaine of the Norwegians, followed against the King, who not able to re-fift them, fled into the Towne of Chiehester for safety, but by the deuice of his purfuers, certaine iparrowes being caught, and fire fastned to their feet, were let flie into the Towne, where lighting vpon straw and source. other matter fit for flaming, burnt in flort space the whole Citie, and Careticus flying beyond scuerne, fecured himselfe among the Mountaines of Wales, wherein he died, after he had vnprosperoully raigned three yeeres; and from that time foorth (faith Kandulphus) the Britaines lost their whole Kingdome in the East part of the Iland, and were confined in the West by the Rivers Severne and Dec.

tinuarce of his

CADWAN, 11.

Chawan, after foure and twenty yeeres civill differ-fion maintained among the Britaines, eyer fince they had forgone their Country, and betaken themselues to those vast, but securing Mountaines; of a Ruler only of North-wales, was made Gouernour of all those parts, a man deseruing well before hee came to that estate, and being risen, maintained himselfe and subjects in great honour and peace. His first affaires against the Saxons, was to reuenge the deaths of his Britaines, and harmelesse Monkes of Bangor, slaine (as we hauc faid) by wild Ethelfrid, the mighty King of Northumberland, who in Field had affembled all their powers, wherein the farall end either of the Britaines or Northumbrians must needs have ensued, had not the quarrell beene flaied by the mediation of friends. These Kings, then, and there reconciled, embraced peace, with such true friendshippe, that they continued amitie together so long as they

Harding faith, that this British King Cadwas, honorably received and worthly cherished Mars, whom this King Ethelfrid had put from his bed, for the load range, he bare vnto his Concubine, but is decined in many distinguished by the concubing the last of the concubing th king her the mother of Edwin, that was his lifter, and Cadwan to raigne but thirteen yeeres, whereas others | Paulso Discount allot him two and twentie.

Redahift.Angl. lib.3.449.1

Incarnation fix hundred thirty fine. He watred most Incaracion in hundred thirty fiue. He warred most frongly against the Secons, and other by Conquest for Alliance toined amitie with Penda the cruel King of the Arctions, a Pagan Idolater, himselfe by the report of Beda shough a Cortification in name and proficion, you immide and manners by rude and outrasions, that her lossed authorizations, that her Pared neither womens weaknesse nor childrens innocencie, but put all to death with greeuous and bitter torments, to fulfill his cruell and unmercifull tyrannie, wasting a long time, and raging ouer the Prouinces, purposed to extermi-nate out of the borders of Britamy the whole Nation of the English, and to extinguish the very name of them. Neither did he ought esteeme any reverence or honour to the Christian Religion, which those men embraced: so that even to this an Kengeon, wence now ement converse to feet the best of a feet to the Britaines custome is to fet light by the Faither Religion of the Englishmen, neither will they communicate with them more then with Heathers or Pagans, Theie two creel Kings flew the most Christian Ed-wyn King of Northumberland, with his fonne Prince Osfride, in a great and bloudy battle at Halpfid, the yeere of Christis incarnation six hundred thirty three: and the yeere following, with wicked force (faith Beand the yeere following, with wicked force (faith Beda) hus with worthy vengeance, Cadwallo the Britaine flew Office and Enfrid, King; of Deira and Bernicis, that were become Apollates from their Chriftian Faiths, and that with creatine and loff of the Sexons, as their owne Hifterian held it fit mither to moniton their names in their casts. monethly Calendar, nor register the yeere wher in they were moneting vaccount of their government, but assigned it unto the raigne of their Successour King Ofwald, which was so observed onto his daies ; fo terrible was this worthy Cadwallo, and odious the remembrance of this unfortunate Battle. But this curfed Captaine (faith he) enioted not this source. Sut two curfed Captainse (latth he) emioied not this felicitic long; for the faid Of wald, to reunge his breiber; felicitic long; for the faid of which, come with a small power, but strongly fensed in the state, wherein himselfe and late-victorious Host ware ellipsis and confounded.

But we must remember that Beda was a Saxon, in whose behalfe his penne hath somewhat passed the bounds of equitie(if not veritie) in charging this most valiant Conqueror with tyranny, and his Martiall Sword with crueltie, that was drawne and strucke in Sword with crueine, that was unawar and in the in defence of his native Country, wherein the Saxwas claime ftood only vpon vniuft intrusion. So likewife himselfe being a Monke and Priest, hath every where blamed the Britaines for differting from the Roman Church, in celebration of Easter and other Geremonies; whereas in doctrine they were as fincere, which is the true subfance of the Gospell. But the Britaines record that this valiant Cadwallo died not in Heuenfeild, neither by the hand of King Ofwald, but that he raigned in great honour the space of eight and fortie rangued in great nonour the space of eight and former yeeres, and in peace died 22.0f Nonember, in the yeere of Christ Iesus six hundred seventie seven. His body the Britaines buried in S. Martins Church in London, neere Ludgate; whose Image great and terrible, trium-phantly riding on horsebacke, being artificially cast of Braffe, they placed vpon the fame West gate, to the further seare and terror of the Saxons, as Vortimer before had commanded his at Stonar. But this relation, as also that he married the fifter of King Penda, as my often named Manuscript reporteth, I leaue to the best liking of my Reader.

About this time the most blasphemous doctrine of Mahomet began to infect all the Easterne World. For although himselfe lived some nine yeeres before the gouernment of this Cadwallo, yet presently after his death his doctrine was more publikely imbraced. He was borne in Arabia, of a poore and base stocke, and being fatherlesse, was sold for a bondssaue vnro an Ismaelite, whose name was Abdemonaples, a man of exceeding great riches, and in great trade of merchandizing, and Mahomet for his subtiltie in wit, was his fit instrument, and greatly in his fauor. The Master dying, left Mahomes his chiefe Factor, who having great riches in his keeping, married his Miltris, and so became heire of all; with whom conforted one Sergins a Monke, which for herefie was fled into Arabia, who instructed Mahomet in the herefie of the Neflorians, and now for his wealth and Magicall Arts, wherewith hee bewitched the minds of the people, Catwalls or Cadance of his raign.

OPPOSERS OF THE SAXONS. affumed to himfelfe the name of the great Prophet of God, and began to be famoufly published for the doctrine which he taught: the which was none other but a confused Chass of all the herefies that had been before him : for with the Sabellians he denied the Tri-nitie; with the Manichies, he affirmed but two persons to bee in the Deity ; with Euronius, hee denied the equalitic of the Father and the Sonne; and with Ma-borrowed of the Iewes Circumcifion ; of the Nicho-laitans, pluralities of wives; and of the Gentiles, much edone, taught that the Holy Ghost was a creature. He Superfittion; and more to cloake his distellish insen-ted funafies, formewhat he tooke from the vertice of the Goifell.Of these compounded he desided a Law, and wrote this his Religion in the booke called his Alaston; and those his Professor he named Saratens, from Continuing Sect. Mad. An.Do,625 from sara the wife of Abraham.

Hee died of the falling sicknesse, which long time hee had dissembled, saying sortions after his trances, that the Angell Gabriel had conserence with him, the brightnesse of whose glorie hee could not of the Britaints, after the death of his Father, fuc-ceeded him in his dominions, and with great valour fought against the Saxons, as hee of Monmouth affirmeth, of whom heare him speake in his owne words meth, of whom heare him fpeake in his owne words. Cadwalader (lith he) raiging vidershoffy but inner of twelve gener fell lidfy inner a danger on fechnolfy, with do fighter of recomp, and vanhé to gonere. Meth dotte and first end causing his great for at, and afters of the single meth that they were dead a saging others, to the no finall amoistact and detrineast of the whole County. At which were intlined. which very time likewife, so great a dearth of corne and victuall raigned, that herbes and roots were the Commons chiefest sustenance: whose third calamitie was mortalitie and peftilence, raigning fo fore, and fo fuddenly, that in their eating, drinking, walking, and fpeaking, they were furprifed with death, and in fuch number, that the liuing were scarce able to bury the dead, which miseries lasted no lesse then eleuen yeeres continuance, whereby the Land became defolate, and brought forth no fruit at all, infomuch that the King and many of his Nobles were driven to forfake their native Country, and to feeke relecte in forraine parts. Cadwallader repaired to the Court of Alan his cosen, the King of Little Britaine in France, where he was honourably received and maintained,

CADWALLADER. 13.

(bap.12.

But now the Angell of God fheathing his fword from floughter, and the earth answering man a-gaine with her former abundance, those Saxons that were escaped, sent for more of their Nation to their further supplie, who replenished the Cities, and manured the Countrey, at this day called Lhorger, containing all the Land that lay on the East of Semerne and Dee, dispossessing the poore Britaines of their rightfull inheritance, and dividing their Lands vnto their owne vie. Cadwallader hearing of their daily arriuage, and their vniust intrusion vpon his home-bred subjects, minded their redresse by his present returne, and to that end had wrought King Alan, for his fuccour & assistance. But see how it chanced: He being now ready to imbarke his Hoft and to hoise up his failes for Britaine, and in the filent night much spent in praier & supplication, that God would prosper with good successe these his great affaires, be-hold an Angell appeared to him, or at least wife to his feeming he heard a voice, that forbade him the enter-prise, declaring that it was not Gods will that hee prile, deciaring mar it was not Goos with mar nee thould undergoe that Voiage, or that the Britaines thould rule their Land any longer; but contrariwife bade hie him to Rome, and of Pope Sergius receive the habit of Religion, wherein hee thould die, and reft in

This dreame (for I hold it no other) being told vnto Alan, fearch was made into the Bookes of both D. Powel Chron the Merlines, as also into the speech of the Eagle at of Wale Sheftesbury, pronounced eight hundred and eighty yecres before the birth of our Saujour Christ (if wee doe beleeue these to be true) wherein it was prophe cied forfooth, that the Britaines should lose their Kingdome, and that the same should be possessed of others, untill the time that the bones of Cadwallader fhould bee brought from Rome. By fuch toics and illusions in those daies of darknesse, the euer-erring minds of men were content to be lead: for not onely Cadwallader, a quiet and mecke-spirited man, was posfeffed with this conceit, that it came vnto him by a diuine prouidence, but also King Alan perswaded him to obey his Oracle; and thereupon preparing for his Pilgrimage, gaue ouer his expedition for Britaine, and left his diffressed Subjects to bee ouer-runne by strangers, and the Land to bee enjoied by a forraine Nation : and receiving the habit of seeming Religion ar the hands of Pope Sergius, died soone after in the yeere of our Lord six hundred eighty nine, and there was buried in S. Peters Church, being the laft King of the Britaines bloud, after they had held possession therof the space of one thousand one hundred thirty and seven yeeres before the Nativitie of Christ, and fix hundred eighty eight yeeres after his Birth, as the Chronicle of wales, with other Britaine Writers, haue calculated, though(as is faid) after the largest fize. But howfocuer this fudden alteration was wrought in adwallader, yet whiles he continued a King in health, hee raigned (faith Geffrey) in great magnanimitie, the terme of three yeers, and fought many Battles against the Saxons, whose sword was ever theathed with victorie; for Lothaire King of Kent he flew in the Field, and Editivath also King of the South-Saxons, with the ruine of his Country, as the British Historians report, Cap.15.

and would haue it.

But Beda, vnto whom more credit is heerein to be giuen, telles vs, that Lothaire was slaine by Edrik, his Nephew and Succeffort, declaring the manner and day of his death; and that Ceadwall, a young man of the welf-Saxons bloud royall, being banished from among them, fell vpon the South-Saxons, harrying the Country and killing their King. But afterwards lamenting the bloud he had fpilt, whereat euen Nature her selfe seemed to bee offended, in great repentance abandoned his Kingdome, and pilgrim-like went vnto Rome, where of Pope Sergius he was baptized vpon Easter Euen, the yeere from Christs Nativitie six hundred eightie nine. The times thus agreeing, their names to neere, their denotions alike, Sergius the fame ghostly father to both, their sepulchers in one and the fame Church, doe strongly confirme that they both were the same and one only man, as we formerly haue faid. But with this man Cadwallader, wherefoeuer he died, lay buried the last bloud of their Kings, their goternment, and immediatelie the very Name of Britame, for many hundred yeeres enfuing, as in the fequell of this Historie (Christ assisting) shall bee thewed.

And now at last, according to my first intendment, I am come to speake of the succession of Great Briaines Monarkes, from which (vponthe fore-shewed occasions of the slands division, the Saxons possessions, and these Britaine Resisters) I have beene overlong staicd, and am forced to returne againe to King Hengelt, the first of the Saxons, that I may shew their fucceeding fuccession in this English Monarchy: wher-in of necessitie I must desire the patience of my Reader, if some things be againe touched that formerlie haue beene spoken, the Matter of Historic so much requiring, and the Method that to my proceeding I haue herein proposed, enforcing it.

Saxon Ma narchs.

THE SAXONS SVCCESSIONS IN THE MONARCHY OF GREAT BRL

TAINE, WHEREOF HENGIST THE FIRST KING OF KENT BECAME THE FIRST MO-NARCH OF THE ENG-LISHMEN.

CHAPTER XIII.

Engift, a Prince of the Eng-lift-Saxons , having the Command ouer certaine forces planted in the Low-countries of Germany, in the yeere of Christs Incar nation foure hundred and his originall from Prince Woden, and his wife Fria by Wechta the eldeft of their feuen sonnes, being the fifth in iffue from them; asthus: Himfelfe was the sonne of Withteils, who was the sonne of with a and he the some of Weehta, the eldest some of the Deified This Prince held the supreme Scepter of this Iland fiftie, transported them for thirty foure yeeres continuance, and therein died ouer into Britaine, where honorably, faith Marianus Scotus. But Peter de Ikham, the fifth yeere after his ar-Polydore, and others fay, that he was flaine in battell, prifed his fon in law King Fortigern, flain his Britaines, and feized into his possession the best of the lland, he or else taken by Edol, Earle of Glocester, and beheaded at Conesborow. Hee left iffue behind him two fonnes laid the foundation of a Monarchy, and deserueth to and one daughter, whose names were Harwaker, Eske, be reputed the first Monarch of the English Nation.

An.Do.450

(2) He(as all the Saxon Kings besides) doth claime and Romena.

(3) Hatwaker his eldest sonne, is reported by Petrus Albinus of Wittenberg, agreat Genealogist and

Chap.14

THE SAXONS MONARCHS.

Historiographer also) to be Duke of the Saxons in Germanie, and there left to gouerne the people at his Fa-thers departure for Britaine. And it Albinus authority be fufficient, he was the Father of Duke Hatnegat, and grandfather of Hilderik King of the Saxons, anceftor to the valiant Withindus, the principall progeni-tor of the most noble Familie of the Dukes of Saxony.

(4) Eske, the second some of King Hengist, came ouer with his Father into Britaine, and was his assistant in all his warres, wherein he gaue worthy testi-monie of his valour: whose Kingdome of Kent after his death he enioyed, and gaue name to that Countries Inhabitants, who were from him called Eskings, ouer whom he raigned peaceably twenty yeeres.

(5) Rowens, the daughter of King Hengift, was borne in Germany before her Fathers departure, and afterwards sent for by him into Britaine, to further his designes. At whose surpassing beautie and feature

Partition to viciously gazed, that he put from him his lawfull and louing wife, to inioy the pleasures of her Paganilh bed, and to the great decay of Christianitie, and griefe of the Nobilitic, the became the Kings fecond wife, and the principall cause of the Lands de-ftruction. By her he had a daughter, who contrary to all lawes either of God or man, was likewise his third wife; by whom he had iffue Fauftus, that as vertuous. ly spent the daies of his life, as he was incestionally begot in that wicked bed.

This Rowens, whom some call Ronixa, by Vitarpine Vitarpine is accounted the Neece, and not the Daughter of Hengift. But feeing his opinion is grounded vpon the youth of Hengift, as not sufficient in yeeres to have a daughter fo mariageable, I rather thinke and hold this bare testimonie vnable to turne the great streame of other Writers out of their viuall course and received

Ella, Monar,

ELLA THE FIRST KING OF THE SOVTHSAXONS, AND SECOND MO-NARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN.

CHAPTER XIV.

An. D. 581 Beda bift lib.s.

la a noble Saxon, being fent for by King Hengift about the three and twentith yeere of his raigne, brought a fresh supply of those Germans to the reliefe of his Countrymen, who with his forces landed at the hauen now called Shoreham in Suffex, where putting backe the Inhabitants in many skir-mishes, lastly chased them into a great wood then cal-led Andreastings, whence often being assailed by the fudden affaults of the Britaines, wherein, as may bee thought, he loft the liues of his two elder sonnes, was fo hardly befer, that hee fent for more aid of his Saxons, who came to his supply. (2) His strength thus augmented, and ambition still increased, he fought three cruell and bloody battels, but the laft of them most fatall against the Britaines, in the place then called Macrodef-burne, and befleging the ancient and famous City Andred-Chefter fituated in the faid great forest, and chiefe defensible

fortresse in all those Southern parts, intercepted the Britaines that came to their reliefe, and entring the fame by an affault, put to the fword all that were found within it. After which great loffe, the Britaines fought rather to promide for their owne fafety by fly-ing into defert places, then by making open relifance to procure their owne too apparant destruction.

(3) Ella in this state continued the time of fine An.Do.489. yeeres before he assumed the name of King, or the limits of that Province assigned under his government. mits of that Prounce alsigned vinder his government, but then without any flow of filliance laid the foundation of this Kingdome, which was the fecond of the Sexons; and as Henryl file led Kent, lo he had Suffex and Surry for his Polision, wherein for it's yeers space with Henryl file lived, and that with lich approbation makes the death to have been a the Company of the Polision where the Company of the Polision of of valour as that after his death he became the fecond Saxon Monarch of the Englishmen, in the yeere of

(4) He is faid to be the elder sonne of of a, whose genealogie Florentius of Worcefler thus deriueth : Ofa Florent Wigner. (faith he) was the sonne of Etherbert, and he the sonne of Ingengeat, who was the sonne of Angengiat, whose father was Alufa, the sonne of Ingebrand, the sonne

VVil,Malmib.

Florent.VVig.

of Wegbrand, the sonne of Bearn, the sonne of Bearnus, the elder sonne of Brand, the sonne of Bealdeag, the fixth fonne of prince Woden and of Lady Fria his (5) His issue were Kymen, Plenshing, and Gisla, three valiant sonnes, that came ouer with him, and assisted him in his enterprises for Britaine. From Kymen, the port wherein they arrived, was called Kymenishore; by the Britaines, Cuneuesbore, which time and seas hath both shortened, and altered: and now is it called Shoreham, a well knowne hauen in Suffer. This Prince came to his graue before his Father, either by the stroke of warres, or by the course of nature, without further mention of his acts, and his succession, cut off by his death.

(6) Plenching his second sonne, was borne vnto him in the Lowe countries of Germany, and with his brethren affifted his Father to the attaining of the South-Saxons Crowne; but being cut off by vntimely death, whether by the hand of the enemy, or by natures appointment, is vncertaine.

(7) The yongest sonne of king Ella,was Ciffa, whom death spared to line a long life; but fame as Whom death space to nue a long life; but rame as fiparing to adorne it with memory of his acts; for nothing of him is left memorable, befides the building of Chichefter. Fortune indeed fet his fathers Crowne on his head, but kept the Imperiall Diademe in her owne hand, to adorne the head of a worthier bearer, which was Cherdik the west-Saxon, vnto whom Ciffa gaue yeerely contribution, to fecure him from the Britaines, as before and after hath been, and shall bee shewed.

(8) This Ella his entrance and erection of his Kingdome, for time is vncertaine; but his raigne therein, as also in his Monarchie, is more certainelie knowne : for hee was King of the South-Saxons the See Chap. .. space of thirty two yeeres, and Monarch of the Engh-men fix and twenty, dying in the yeere of Christs Incarnation fine hundred and foureteene, which was the thirty fixth after his first arrivall into Britaine.

CHERDIK THE FIRST KING OF THE VVESTSAXONS, AND THIRD MONARCH OF THE ENG-

Cherdit

CHAPTER XV.

An.Do.495

He Saxons Sunne, thus rifen and high afcended vp on the South of Britaine egan now to spreade his beames towards the Well: for Kent being quietly possessed by King Eske, and South-Saxia, with al the fubdued, at the diff valiant Captaine of the Low Country Germans, thought himfelfe as fufficient in warres, and as able to reach at, to weare, and to weld a Crowne of Estate, as either of them that had so done before him : and feeing that Britaine was now the feedeplot for Diadems, fet his affection and preparation

(2) He with his forces entred in the West of that Iland, where he in his first battell so danted the Inhabitants, that apparat signes of approching glory were added to his aspiring hopes: for therein hee flew Ma-tanlead, otherwise called Nazalead, a mighty King of the Britaines, whereby an easie entrance was laid open to his defired Empire, and a more easie warre left to his posteritie. This battle chanced about the yeere of nts potternee. I mis oattue enanced about the yeere or Chrift Felis fue hundred and eight, and was fought in the region of Naturlead, (which Country bare the name of the King) and necre vnto a brooke of water in the West of Hampshire, which from Cherdik began to be called Cherdiks-ford, where now a Towne of the fame name standeth, but by contraction and shortnesse of speech is called Chardford.

(3) Florentius of Worsefler, the Saxons Genealogist (as I may well terme him) bringeth this Cherdik (as he doth the rest of the Saxon Kings) from the ancient Prince Woden, and that in this manner : Cherdik (faith he) was the sonne of Elistus, and hee the sonne of Esta, the fonne of Gerifius, the fonne of Wigga, the fonne of Friarin, the fonne of Freedegar, the brother of Beorn, the progenitor of Ida the first King of Bernicia, and both of them the sonnes of Brand, the sonne of Bealdeag, the fift sonne of the foresaid Weden.

(.bap.16.

THE SAXONS MONARCHS.

(4) In the seventh yeere of Ells his Monarchie, was his arrivage, and six yeeres after hee beganne his Kingdome of the West-Saxons, seating himselfe and foundation therof betwixt the Britains and the South-Saxons, for whole further fecuritie, Ciffa King of that Prouince, gaue him an yeerely contribution towards the maintenance of his charge in warre; wherein hee got fuch reputation, that after the death of Ella, and the thirteenth of his owne raigne, hee affumed the Monarchie vnto himfelfe, and was both the first King of the West-Saxons, and the third Monarch of the En glifb-men, wherein he continued the space of twentie one yeeres, and deceased in the yeere of our Lord fine hundred thirty fiue, being the three and thirtieth of his Kingdome, and the fortieth after his first ar-

(5) His iffue were two fonnes, Kenrik and Chelwolfe: the one immediately, and the iffue of the other collaterally attained to the same possession and title that Cherdike heere first laid.

(6) Chelwolfe his fecond fonne (for of Kenrik the eldeft wee are hereafter to speake) hath little mention made among our writers: more then that hee was the Ancestour of Estwin the eight King of the West-Sax-Ancestour of Estima the eight Aing of the West-Saxons, that is to say, the father to Kenfrid the father of Kenfri which Kenfri had issue the Successfor of king Kenwalk, and predecessor of King Kentwin in the kingdome of the West-Saxnas

327

KENRIK THE SECOND KING OF THE VVEST SAXONS, AND FOURTH

MONARCH OF THE ENG.

CHAPTER XVI.

* '

Enrik, the eldeft fonne of King Cherdick (as is faid) being borne in Germanie and following his father into Britaine, valiantly serued vnder him, as well in the Battle fought against King Natanleod, the first day of his arriuage, as in other battles against the Britaines in other places; namely, at Cherdiksford, Cherdifley, and in the Conquest of the Ile of Wight. Im-mediately upon the death of his Father, he succeeded in his whole dominions, and was ordained the fecond King of the West-Saxons, and the fourth Monarch of the Englishmen, beginning his raigne ouer both at one and the same time, the yeere of Christ his Natinitie fiue hundred thirty foure.

(2) Andenlarging his confines upon the Territories of the Britaines, gaue them two great ouer-throwes, the one as Seersteen justify thirty, and theother at Bankury in Osfrad fibre, which was fought the two and twentieth of his raigne, whereby his fame grew more tenowned, and his Kingdome in more tenowned, and his Kingdome in more tenowned, and his Kingdome in more quiet after. He raigned the space of twenty six yeeres, and left this life in the yeere of our Lord God sine hundred fixty.

(3) He had iffue three fonnes, Chenline, Cuthwolfe, and Cuth. Chelwin the first, succeeded his father in the Monarchie, and Welf-Saxons Kingdome.

(4) Cuthwolfe, the second, assisted his brother in many victories, as presently in his raigne shall follow.

And Cuth, the third brother, famous in his issue. though mentionlesse for action in himselfe, whereof more largely hath beene spoken in the raigne of Ken-7.
7th, as he was King only of the West-Saxons.

An.Do. 556.

LII 2

CHEV.

Met-VVefin.

Chewline.

CHEVLINE THE THIRD KING OF THE WEST SAXONS, AND FIFTH MONARCH OF THE ENG

Heuline, the eldest sonne of King Kenrike, ferued with great commendations under his father, in all his warres against the Bri-tains, and is specially men-tioned at the Battle of Banbury in Oxford-flore; and after his fathers death became the third King of the West-Saxons, and the fifth Monarch of the English men. Hee much enlarged the bounds of his King-dome, and increased the power and glorie of the

(2) For continuing the warres where his Father left, did not onely subdue the Britaines in many Battles, but also set himselfe against his owne Nation the thes, but also ex-mineric against no owner varion the Saxons, and fought to impose the foope of his power ypon the South of the River Thomes: for entring Kent (whole King was then a childe, by name Ethel. bert, the sonne of Imerik) at Wiphandun or Wilbandun in Surrey, in a fet and fore Battle, defeated all his forces, whence the young King was chased, and two of his greatest Captaines, bearing the names of Dukes, were flaine, as we have faid.

(3) Not long after this victory, he fet his minde to inlarge his West-Saxons Dominions upon the posto marge nis Weje-Saxens Dominions vpon the pot-fession of the declining Britaines, and to that end fur-nished forth a great Band of his Souldiers, whereof-he made his brother Cuthwin chiefe Generall. These ne mace his Drother Cutowin einer Generau. I nere marching to Bedford, gaue Battle to the Britaines, where they flew them downe-right, and furprized foure of their chiefelf Townes, at that time called Liganburge, , Eglesbourgh, Benfington, and Euclium, which they fortified, to their owne strength, and the Britaines great loffe.

(4) And following the Tract of his fore-going fortunes, about fix yeeres after sent forth againe his Saxons, under the conduct of the forefaid Cullwin, who encountred the Britaines at Diorth or Deorham, with fuch valour and fuccesse, that besides great flaughter of the British Souldiers, three of their Kings. whole names were, Coimnsgill, Candidas, and Farimnsgill, fell in the Field, with the furprisall of these three still, fell in the Field, with the furprisall of these three Cities, closelyer, saties, and circuscifer. Then (faith Opdan, outlands proposed the Lands defruition, their opdan, of the british county to emit cause to my cause, when univer Primer ner People, Print from Leuie, regardative Land of the Land, but also closely the Land, but also clos

(5) But no greater were the finnes of the Britains. then the vnfatiable defires of the Saxons were to conquer: for Cheuline about the last of Malgoe his governnent, met the Britaines at Fethanleah, in the face of a Field, which was fought out, to the great flaughters of them both, and with the death of Prince Cuth, King Cheulins sonne: notwithstanding the victorie fell on his fide with great spoiles obtained, and possessions of many Prouinces, which himselfe no long time

(6) For growne proud through his many pro-feerous victories against his enemies, and tyransizing ouer his owne Subjects, the West-Saxons, fell into fuch. contempt, that they joined with the Britaines for his contempt, that they comed with the presence on the defruction. The greatest against him, was disloyed chell, or Ceatrik, his nephew, the sonne of Cathring his most loyall brother, whom both the Nations had e-lected for Generall. Vnder him they muster and march into Wils-fire, and at Wodnesbeothe (now Wannes-ditch) into Vist-jour, and at vromespector (now Wasner-state), juich downe their Standards. Cheships that thought hee lead fortune in a leafe, with confident boldneffe built his prefent proceedings you his former functions and in the face of his enemies displated his colours. But the Battles joined, and the Field goared lours. But the Battles somed, and the Fried goard with bloud, the day was loft ypon the Kings fide, and he in diffresse award himselfe by slight. Heere might you have seene the world, as it is, vnconstant and variable; for he a Mars, that had ouer-borne the Britains in fo many Battles, and had raifed his Saxons vnto fo great a height, is forced to flee before his conquered Captines, and to exile himselfe from the sight of his owne Subjects, after he had gloriously raigned thirty one yeeres, or (as some will) thirty three, and as a (bap.18.

THE SAXONS MONARCHS.

Chanime, how long he raigned meane man, died in his banishment, the yeere of grace fine hundred ninety two.

(7) He had iffue two fonnes, which were Cuth and Cuthwin, the elder whereof had valiantly ferued in his fathers warres, namely at Wimbledone in Surry, against King Zirbehert and his power of Kentifmen; in the yeere of Christ flue hundred fixty feuen; and lastly in the Battle at Fethanlash, where the Britaines received a great ouerthrow. Notwithstanding, as hee was valiantly fighting among the thickest of his enemies, hee was there flain, in the yeere of our Lord fine hundred eighty foure, being the fine and twentieth yeers of his fathers raigne, and that without iffue.

(8) Cathwin, the younger fonne of King Chealine, furnised his father, but fucceeded him not, because of his young yeeres; or else (and that rather) for the harred that his father had purchased of his Subjects; which they repaied him in his owne expulsion, and in which they repaired in min his owne expansion, and in this his fonnes deprination. But although the wreath of the Wolf-Saxons did not adorne this Cuthwines head, yet shone it more bright, and stood with greater maiethy upon the browes of Inst, the warlike and zeamaiety vpon the prowes of Ina, the warlike and zealous King of Weft-Saxon, and of Egbert the victorious and first fole absolute Monarch of the English Empire : both of them in a right line issued from this Custoring, as in the scuenth Chapter we have said,

329

ETHELBERT THE FIFTH, AND FIRST CHRISTIAN KING OF KENT,

AND THE SIXTH MONARCH OF THE ENG-LISHMEN, HIS WIVES AND

CHAPTER XVIII.

An.Do.561.

VVII.Melmel.

He flame of the West-Sa cons for a time thus quenched, the Lampe of Kent began againe to thine, and to assume the Title of the Monarchie, after it had beene suppressed in them through the raignes of these foure last Kings: for young Egberts entrance, with the great losse of his Kentish, ouerthrowne by King Cheuline; gaue rather inducements to a tributary fubication, then any apparant hopes to purchase an

(2) But such is the dispose of God in his hidden Counfell, that things of least appearance many times become the greatest in substance, as in this Prince it was enidently feene, who making vie of his owner youth and loffe, got thereby experience, both to defense himselfe, and to prouoke others, and with such victories abroad, repaired his losses at home, that as farre as Humber he made all subject to Kent.

(3) Thus growne to be the greatest of any Saxon before him, hee sought to hold it up by forraine alliance; and to that end became futer for Berts a most vertuous Christian Lady, the daughter of Chilperik

King of France; vnto whom by her father she was last-lie granted, but with these conditions, that she might referre her Christian Prosession, enjoy the presence and the instructions of Luidhard her learned Bishop, with the place of his Queene,

(4) These couenants concluded, and many French Christians attending her in his Court, by their daily service of God, and continuall practice of pietic, drew many of the English to favour their Religion, year and the King also to bee inclined that way. And as these were working the faluation of Kent, behold Gods proceedings for the convertion of the rest.

(5) It chanced great Gregory (then but Arch-deacon of Rome) to fee certaine youths of this Iland con or Reme_) to see certaine yourns or tris Hand brought to that Citie, to be fold for flaues: His Chri-ftian heart pivying at fuch heathenift tyrannizing, and beholding ftedfallly their faces to be faire and Angellike, demanded of their Merchants, of what Nation they came; who made him answer, that they were estigles, and by that name were knowne wino other Nations. Indeed, faid he, and not without cause, for their refemblance is Angelicall, and fit it is that they be made inheritours with the Angels in Heauen. But of what Province are they ? faid Gregory. It was replied; Of Deira, a Country fituated in the Continent of Britaine, Now furely, faith he, it is great pity but these cap. 16. Beds bift lib. 1.

Austine and his

Reda hill. Lib.z.

Gregory Lb.7.

Conturbary guen to Austine

Wil. Lambeyt Paramb of Kent.

people should bee taken from Deitra, the ire of God. And farther asking what was the name of their King, it was answered, that he was called Ella; whereunto he alluding, faid, that Alleluis, to the praise of God, in that Princes Dominions should shortly be sung.

(6) And to that purpose himselfe, being afterwards Pope, fent Austine a Monke, with forty others, for assistance, whereof Melitus, Institut, and I ohn were chiefe. These landing in Tanet, in the moneth of Inly, about five hundred ninety and fix yeeres after the Incarnation of Christ, and one hundred forty and seuen after the first arrivage of these Angles into Britaine, had immediately accesse vnto the presence of King Ethelbert, but yet in the open Field, for hee feared to conferre with them in any house, lest by sorcerie (as hee fondly surmised) he might be ouercome.

(7) Thefe preaching vnto him the word of life, his answer was, that presently he could not consent to their Doctrine, neither rashly forsake his ancient and accustomed Religion. But seeing (said hee) you tell vs strange things, and giue vs faire promites of after life, when this life shall be ended, wee permit you to preach the same to our people, and to convert as many as you can; and wee our felues will minister all things behoouefull for your livelihood. Which promiss hee instantly performed, and in Canterburie his head City, allowed them fit places for residence, and fufficient prouision for their maintenance; wherein these religious men, following in some measure the examples of the Apostles, spent their times in prea-ching and praiers, watching for the peoples conversions, and exercising the workes of true piety, as examples and motives vnto others, to embrace the Gospel which they fought to plant. (8) Neere vitto the East part of the City, stood an ancient Church, built by the Christian Romans, whiles

they had dwelt in Britaine, and by them dedicated to they nad uwen in pritaine, and by them dedicated to the honour of S. Martin, and is fo yet called. To this Church the Christian Queene Berts, with her Com-municants the French, daily reforted to pray, and vn-to these, and in this Church, Austine and his fellowes began daily to preach: vnto whose Sermons so many began camy to preach: who whose sermons to many of the Kenifb allo reforted, that a plentifull harueft in short time appeared, you the sede-plot of their tillages for it is reported that ten thousand of the English people were baptized there in one day, insomuch that the King himselfe forsooke his *Heatherish Idola*trie, and likewise received the Sacrament of Baptisme, Mr., and income received the sacrament of saptime, vnto his falluation in Chiff: .in witneffe whereof, hee gaue the Lordship and Royaltie of his chiefe Citie Casterburie, vnto Augustine, and refigned his princely Palace therein vnto him, who in the East of this City laid the foundation of that great, and afterwards mag-nificent Church, dedicated to the service and name of Indicent condition at this day is the Cathedrall of that Metropolitan See: and Ethelbert to give him more room, withdrew himselft vnto Reculuer in Tanet, where he erected a Palace for himselfe and his successours, the compasse wherof may be traced by an old wal, whose ruines remaine there yet to this day.

(9) Aussine thus leated, and in the well descrued (9) Appine times leated, and in the wenders recognized fauour of King Ethelbers, got one request more, which was this, that whereas by the Law of the Twelve Tables, it was forbidden to bury the dead within the walles of any Citie, (the practife whereof, wee daily finde by monuments taken vp in the fields adioining) The buriell of the desagramed it would pleafe him to gue to tract var. at one atom tended the desagramed in the Citic within the Citic when the King himselfe had wontedly worthipped when the King himselfe had wontedly worthipped to the control of the Citic when the King himselfe had wontedly worthipped to the control of his Idols. This obtained, and the Church purged fro that prophane exercise, to the service of God, be ing honored with the name of s. Paneras, King Ethel bert added thereunto a most faire Monasterie, built vpon his owne cost, and dedicated it vnto the name of Peter and Paul the Apoller, appointing it to bee the place for the Kentifb Kings Sepulchers, and Autime likewise meant it for the burials of his successours in that See. But first it became the Monument of his owne name: for in regard of the Procurer, both Pan-eras, Peter, and Paul were foone swallowed up, and the whole called onely by the name of S. Austines. In this place, eight Kings of Kent had their bodies interred, and tenne of their Arch-biftops therein laid, vntill that Cushbert the eleuenth in luccession, in fauour of S. I ohns, a new Church by him erected, procured of King Egbert the sonne of Ercombert, that the succeeding Arth-bifhops might be buried there. This Monaflerie, as all the rest did, came to her fatall period in the daies of King Henry the Eighths whole vncouered walles flood fo long languishing in time and stormes of weather, that daily increased the aspect of her ruines, till now lastly they are made subject to other publike vses, and the whole tract of that most goodly foundation in the same place no where appearing. Onely Ethelberts Tower, in memoric and honour of the man, as yet hath escaped the verdict and sentence the man, as yet nath escaped the vertice and tensence of defirted in; whose beauty, though much defaced and our worne, will witnesse to facceeding ages the magnificence of the whole, when all stood complear in their glory together.

in their giory rogettier.

(10) Thele his happie beginnings, Austine lig-nified by Letters to Rome, and withall demanded dimice by Letters to nome, and with an uchanked of rections, how he might further proceed: which quefitions, were they not written by the Venerable Beda, Bedabija.Eb.t. wee could hardly beleeue that such idle conceits (49.27. should have place in the minde of a man fo well and fruitfully bulied: as, 14 hether a woman with child might safiner quellireceive the Sacrament of Baptisme, or in her monethly difease, the holy Communion, or enter the Church : how long after her delinerance, the husband ought to refraine her Bed: How the Gifts that were offred on the Altar, ought to be distributed: and unto what degree of consanguinitie be anytoured: and wine what acgree of conjanguintie.

Christians might marie: and many others such like, as though himselfe had neuer read either Moses or Paul. But of the thing then more needfull, for that at that time it flirred most contention, it seemeth he was sufficiently instructed; neither among his other questions is it once named: and that was, the duc time for the celebration of Easter: the difference whereof, betwixt the Britaines and the Romans was fuch, that it caused Lord-like Austen to prophecie (if not to feeke) their destructions; and they in their opinions, to hold him no better then the Man of Sinne : for thus the Storie is reported.

(11) Austine, by the assistance and authoritie of King Ethelbert, called an Assemblie of the British Bifloors and Doctours, that had retained the doctrine of Rand (cf. the Goffell amongst them, even from the first plantation thereof by the Apofles themselues, to be holden Galfralib. 8. in the Borders of the Villiam and West-Saxons, and at the place upon that occasion called *Angustimes Oaker the piace vpoint has occasion casted. Angustines Oake: tisther reforted four British Bishops, and many other well-learned men (saith Beds) out of their greatest Menassers at Bangor, where at that time Dinoth was Abbat. These men now ready to goe to the foresaid synod, came first to a certaine holy and wise man, which lived thereabout an Ancertains nog ana wije man, when there also ought at ac-charest life, to aske his counfell, whether they ought at Au-fins preaching and exhortation, leave their Traditions or no. The Anchoret replied, If he be a man of God, follow no: I be anenote repuea, 15 m or a muss of woa, jouous him. But here shall we proone (faid they) that bee is a man of Cod? The Anchoret answered, Our Lord faith, Takeyee of coal 1 the Anchores anywered, one 1 and suth, Takeyee on you my loke, and learne ye of me., for 1 am milde and hamble of heart. If therefore this Ausline bee milde and hamble of heart, it is the that hamifely beareth the Toke of Chriss, and will offer yea the fame to beare. But if hee bee out if and fraud, it is certaine that hee is not of God, neither om it we much esteem his words. Then they enquired how they might know whether this Austine were proud or no: they mugus encousementer imo Augune were proma or no: Prouide (quoth be) that he and his companie may come first to the place of the Synod or Councell house: and if it bee so to the place of the Synoa or Councest-pouge: analyst bee jo that when you approchemee him, he arife courteously, and falute you, then thinke him to bee the forwant of Christ, and Jo heare him, and obey him: but it when you approch, hee Jobane him, and obey him: host if when you approch, hee delific you, and will not vonchific to it if a your presence, which are the greater momber, be him likenife be delified of you. And truly (faith hee) as this Amshoret bade blem, if all they is it happened, that when they came thinker, S. Austine was already set in his chaire, and stirred not:

*About South

The Anchorise

Chap. 18. Ethelbert THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch 6. which when they faw, forthwith waxing wroth, they noted him of pride, and therefore endeaoured to our thwart and gainfay what focuer he proposed. And so the Synod brake vp without any thing done. Thus then wee see, that the substance of doctrine was embraced in Britaine, before the fending of Austin from Rome: only in ceremonies they diffented as the most of Christian Churches, without derogation to the Gospell, at this day doe. And this for the celebration of Easter, a matter of no great moment (if we consider our Christian libertie, and the Apostles feare, that the observations of daies, moneths, times, and yeeres, turne the hearts after beggerly rudiments, bring againe into bondage, and make his labours for Christ in vaine) yet for the different observation only of this Feast from the Romans, how oft are the Britaines tearmed by Beda, a wicked people, a curfed nation, and well deferuing those calamities which the Lord did afflict vpon them? This controuerlie for Eafters celebration, thus begun, continued no leffe then ninety yeeresafter, and was laftly concluded in manner as

(12) This variance (faith Beds) made not onely the people to doubt and feare, left bearing the name

Stranfhalch Synode.

followeth.

of Christians, they did and had runne in vaine, as the Apostle speaketh, but also good of my King of Nor-Apotue peacern, our and good open Anngol Agri-thumberland, and learned Prince Alkfryd, with Queene Zanfled, were much diftracted and perplexed: for by this variance (faith hee) it often times hapned, that in one yeere two Easters were kept; for the King brea-king vp his Fast, and solemnizing of the Feast, the Queene with Prince Alkfrid, continued their Fast, and kept that day their Palme-Sunday. To conclude which contrarietie, a Synad purpofely was called, and the Oneftion dispured by their belf Diuines. The place was Stranshalch or Whithy, whereof Hilda was Abbesse. The chiefe parties for, and against the accustomed time of keeping that feaft, were King of my and Prince Alkfridhis fonne. The Disputers for Ofwy and the established orders, were Colman Arch-bishop of Yorke, with his Scotist Clergie, and Hildathe vertuous and learned Lady Abbesse of the place. For Alkfrid and the attempted alteration, were Agilbert Bishop of the West-Saxons, Wilfrid Abbat of Rippon, with James and Romanus, two learned men, and the reuerend Cedda newly confecrated Bishop, appointed Prolocutor of the Affembly.

The Conuccation fet, King Ofwy made a folemne Oration, wherein hee vrged a necessitie, that those people which scrued one God, ought to celebrate his heauenly Sacraments alike, and should keepe one order and rule in the same ; the truth of which service, and furcease of that long vnchristian variance, for the Christian celebration and time of Easter, was then presently by those learned men to bee handled, and by best approouements to be determined; whereunto hee requested their vttermost endenours, and to that purpole commanded his Archi-bishop Colman first to speake : whereupon Colman with reuerence commen speeches shood up and faid: The Easter which I observe I received the Synode. attood vp and taid: I he kafter which softerus, treceused of my Fore-fathers, of whom I was confectated, and fent hither for your Bilbo. They all (you know) were godly men, and observed the Feast as we doe now; neither thinke you they kept this tradition without fure warrant from greater then themselues, which was Saint Iohn the Euangelift, and the Disciple whom I est especially loued, who in the Churches which himselfe planted, celebrated the Feast of Easter, as we doe now. Therefore knowing the man fo worthy, and the manner so ancient, I hope you will all confeste, it is not safe for vs now to reject.

Wilfride the declaimer, appointed to answer, stood vp and faid : The Easter which we observe, wee our selves haue feene observed in Rome, where the bleffed Apostles Peter and Paul lined, preached, suffred, and are buried: and in our trauels thorow France and It alie, either for studie or opon pilgrimage, we have feene the fame order kept: and we know by relation, that in Africke, Afia, Egypt and Greece, nay thorowout all nations and tongues in the world where Christ hath his Church, that this our time and order is observed. Shall then these obstinate Picts (I meane the Britaines) and the seremote Ilands in the Ocean Sea, and yet not all of them neither, south contend in this point against the whole world?

But here Colman interrupted him, and faid, I much Dut nete commo interruptee nim, anu anu, immon-mary li, brother, that you terme our doings a fond contenti-on, feting we have for our warrant fo worthy an Apolile as I ohn was, who only leaned opon our Lards breft, and whose use and behaviour all the world acknowledgeth to bee most

Godforbid (laid Wilfrid) that I should accuse Iohn: but

Wilfrids modeyet we know that he kept the decrees of Mojes literally, and according to the Iewish Lawes; and so the rest of the Apofiles were constrained in some things to doe, for the weake nesse of them who accounted it a great sin to abrogate those rites that God himfelfe had instituted; and for that canse

S.P. aul did circumcife Timothie, offred bloud-facrifices in the Temple, shaued his head at Corinth with Aquila and Priscilla: vpon which consideration also spake I ames vnto Paul, You see brother how many thousand of the Iewes haue received the faith, and all of these are yet zealous followers Act araza received the faith, and all of these are yet sections followers of the Law, Data the light of the Gospilla row flicking thorow the world, it is not lampful for any christians to bec circumstical, are to also you bloody fairful or Pacific, are to also you bloody fairful or Pacific, are to also you bloody fairful or Pacific. Sure, in the four-tenth do go the fight mounted, are one began the celebration of Eufert Festivative, year-diess whether as fall you to be Sabbath day, or any other of the weeke. But S. Peter prea ching the Gospell in Rome, remembring that our Lord arose from his grave the first day after the Sabbath, giving there by unto us certaine assurance of our resurrection, observed the Feast of Easter according to the Commandement of that the scale of halfer according to the Communicament of that Law be looked for scene as School did, that is to key she full Sabahb after the full Moone of the full moneth. Neither dots this new order usine of the Goffell, and Applies pra-tifle, breake the old Law, but rather fulfilleth is 1 for the Law communicates the Feafl of Passeur to bee kept from Exod.12. the foureteenth day of that moneth, to the twentie and one of the same. And this hath the Nicene Councell not newly decreed, but rather confirmed (as the Ecclefiastical Histo-riewitnesseth) that this is the true observation of Easter, and of all Christians after this account is to bee celebrated and thereupon charged Bifbop Colman, that hee neither ob-ferued it according to Lohn nor Peter. To this the Bishop replied, that Anatholius for his holinesse much commended by the said Ecclesiassicall Histo-ric, and Columba a Father of like sanctitie, by whom miracles were wrought, kept the Feast according as he then did from whose imitation he durst not digresse. Your Fathers, which you presend to follow, how holy soeuer they bee (said Wilfrid) and what miracles socuer they have wrought, yet this I answer, that in the day of judge-ment many shall say unto Christ, that they have prophecied, tast out Diuels, and wrought miracles in his name, to whom our Lordwill answer, I know you not. And if your Father Columba (yea and our Father, if hee he the true seruant of Common yea and one states, y poece to the sections up to the by no means bee proferred to the moft bleffed trince of the Apolitic, ronto whom our Lord faid, Thou art Peter, and woon this rocke I will build my Church, and the gates of bell ball Matth. 16. not preuaile against it, and to thee will I give the keyes of the Kingdome of Heaven. Thus said, the King asked Colman, whether our Lord indeede pake thus onto Peter who answered, He did. But can you (said hec) give enidence of so speciall authoritie granted to your Father Co-lumba? The Bishop said, No. Then (quoth the King) doe you both agree confidently, that thefe words were prin-cipally spoken unto Peter, and that unto him the keyes of the Kingdome of Heaven were given? They all answered, I is most certaine. Whereupon the King concluded this great controuerfie, and faid, Then will not I gainefay fuch a Porter as this is, but as farre as I know, and am a-ble, I will couct in all points to obey his ordinance, left perhaps when I come to the Doores of Heasen, I finde none to open unto mee, having his displeasure, which is so cleerely prooved to beare the keyes thereof.

And with this fo simple a collection of King Ofay, concluded this long and great contention for the celebration of Easter; which heere, as borne before the Nnn I

Holinfobill Ang

40.2440.2

VVII.Malmet.

rea.Thorne. Register Cant.

Reds bill.lib.s.

long he raigned

Hol The

Ethelbert

gaine to King Ethelbert. (13) Who now became an instrument himselfe for the conversions of his Nation the Saxon of he first fruits of his intendements were wrought vpon Sebert King of the East-Angles, his owne fifters fonne, whom not onely hee converted to Christianitie, but therein assisted him in the building of the Cathedrall Church of S. Paul for Miletus his Bishop; as also the Church of S. Peters on the West of London, then called Thorny, with the assistance of a London Citizen, as some haue said; and himself at Rochester built the Cathedral Church there, which he dedicated to the Apo-file S. Andrew. (14) This noble King having a care for them that should come after, brought the Lawes of his Country into their owne mother tongue, and left nothing vnattempted, that might advance the glorious Gospell of Christ, or with honour adorne his owne temporall raigne; and is worthily an example to all fucceeding Princes, in all true pictie, and heroicall parts of a true Christian King. He died the foure and twentieth day of Februarie, in the yeere of our Lord God fix hundred and fixteene, being the one and twentieth of his Christianitie, the three and twentieth of his Monarchie, and the fifty fixth of his Kingdome of Kent, and was buried at Canterbury in the Church of S. Peter and Paul, afterwards called S. Augustines, in the Chapell of S. Martines.

(15) His first wife was Berta, the daughter of Chilperik King of France, as we have faid, who was the fon of King Clotagre, the sonne of Cledone, the sirt Christian King of that Country. Shee deceased before the King her husband, and was buried in the Church of S. Peter & Paul at Canterburie, within the Chapell of S. Martines there.

(16) He had a second wife, whose name is not recorded by any Writer, being, as is thought, vnworthy of remembrance, because of the vnnaturall contract and mariage of Edbald her husbands fonne; a finne that both Law and Religion doe condemne: and lastly by her converted husband was forsaken, without cither note of her iffue or death. (17) The iffue of King Ethelbert by Queene Berta were Edbald that succeeded him in the Kentish Kingdome, Ethelburg, and Edburge two daughters.

(18) Ethelburg, the elder, was a Lady of passing beautie and pietie, and furnamed Tace, who greatly defired and intended a Virgins life, had not her mind beene auerted by the intreaty of her brother, the perbeen cauertee of the interest of the footness fair of wastions of Bishop Paulinus, and the earnest suit of Edwine King of Northumberland; vnto which Edwine laftly she yeelded to bee his wife, in hope of his conucriion, and vnto whom for that purpose Pope Boniface directed his Epistle from Rome, earnestly ex-horting her that shee should bee diligent for the Kings faluation : which finee foone after effected, to the great ioy of both the Kings, and to the comfort and increase of the Christian Faith thorowout Eng-

(19) Edburg, another daughter of King Ethelbert, is warranted only by the testimonie of John Capgraue, a great traueller in Antiquities, and should bee most skilful in his own Country of Kent: notwithstanding he is to be suspected in this, that hee reporteth her to haue beene a Nunne in the Monasterie of Minster in the Ile of Thanet, under the Foundreffe Dommewe, being the daughter of her nephew Ermenred, and that thee succeeded in the government of that house, Mildred the daughter of the same Domnewe. Hee reporteth alfo, that fhee died and was buried in the fame place, and that her body was from thence remooued by the Arch-bishop Lankfrank, to his Church of S. Gregorie in Canterburie.

Monarch 7.

Redwald.

REDVVALD THE THIRD KING OF THE EAST ANGLES, AND SEVENTH

MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS WIFE AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER XIX.

An. D. 616.

Edwald, the sonne of Titus, and the third King of the East-Angles, had been fubstitute vnder Ethelbert King of Kent, and feraed a long time as his Vice-roy ouer all his dominions, whereby he gained fuch reputation to himselfe, that either for his owne valour, or Edbalds vices, (contemned of the people for his Apoltalie, frensie, and incestuous bed) became the seuenth Monarch of the Englishmen, about the yeere of Christ his Incarnation fix hundred and fixteene; and the twentieth and fourth of his raigne ouer the East-Angles

(2) This Redwald (faith Beda) had received Baptifine in Kent, but in vaine, and without zeale, as it afterwards appeared. For returning to his Country, through the perswasion of his wife, returned againe Beds bift Angl.

(bap.20 | Redwald THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch 7.

to his superstitious worships; and in one and the same Temple, after the manner of the old Samaritans, hee erected an Altar for the service of Christ, and another little Altar for burnt facrifices to his Idols, which stood vnto the daies of Beds himselfe, But as she was an infligator to the East-Saxons idolatry, so was shee an instrument to the further spreading of Christianitie (though not by her so purposely meant) in sa-uing the life of Edwine, who afterwards planted the Gospell in all the North parts of the Saxons gouern-

(3) For Edwine flying the rage of wilde Ethelfrid, was succoured and maintained in the Court of King Redwald, vnto whom lastly, the Northumbrian sent both threats and rewards to have him delivered, or else put to death : and surely had not the Queene stood for his life, he had presently died. But she allea. ging the law of humanitie, the trust of a friend, and the royaltie of a Prince, preuailed fo farre, that Red-wald did not onely saue his life, but assisted him in battell, to the destruction of his enemie, and the gaining of Northumberlands Crowne. For vpon the return of Ethelfrids Ambassadors, vnto whom Redwald had yeelded to make Edwine away, he with his power of the East-Angles were at their backes, and as an encmie made towards Northumberland. (4) Ethelfrid; whose rage and revenge was ready enough vpon leffer occasions, with such sudden preparation as he was able to make, met the Bast-Angles almost at Nottingham, and that not farre from the Riuer Idle, where boldly encountring his vnequall enemie, at the first brunt slew Repubere the sonne of King Redwald, to the great griefe of him and his whole hoft: whose reuenge was so violently fought, that they slew King Ethelfrid in the field, and established Edwine to be his fucceffor; which was the fecond yeere of Red-Rodwald, his walds Monarchy. (5) Wherein he raigned the space of eight yeeres and was King of the East-Angles thirty one, and deceased in the yeere of our Lord fix hundred twentie foure; the eighth of Edbalds King of Kent; the thirteenth of Kingils King of the West-Saxons, and the eighth of Edwins ouer the Northumbrians.

Edwine.

(6) The Queene and wife of this King is not named by any of our Writers, but that the had been the widow of a Nobleman, descended of the bloud-royall of that Nation, and was a Lady that had deserved great commendations for the many vertues by her possessed, had she been a Christian, or a fauorer of the Christians, or had not been an veter enemy to their faith. Notwithstanding by her first husband she had a fonne named Sigebert, that proued a learned and most religious Prince, of whom we have spoken in Chap-

(7) His iffue were Reynhere and Erpenwald, Reynhere the elder, and Prince of the East-Angles, was flaine as you have heard, in the battell that his father fought against wilde Ethelfrid, necre vnto the Riuer Idle in against white some fire.

(8) Erpenvald the younger succeeded his father Redwald in the Kingdome of the Zelf-Angles, and was him to be a succeeded his father Redwald in the Kingdome of the Elf-Angles. the fourth King of that Nation, whose life and raigne we have declared in the succession of the East-Angles Kings: Chapter 11.

EDVVINE THE GREAT KING OF Montariely 8

NORTHVMBERLAND, AND THE EIGHTH SOLE MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS RAIGNE, WIVES, AND

CHAPTER XX.

An.Do. 617.

le Monarch reuerted from the East-Angles, was next possessed by the Norhumbrians, wherein it was held with greater glorie and for longer time. For Edwine in King Redwalds life growne very potent, after his death became his fucceffor in the English

Monarch, and most worthily did adorne the same by his civill inflice and divine pietie: his exile, visions, and obtaining of the Northumbrians Crowne, we have already spoken of, and therefore without repetition will paffe on to his end.

(2) This Edwine, the sonne of great Ella, the first King of the Deirians, was the third King that posses fed the same, the eighth of Bernieia, the second (and first Christian) King of all Northumberland, at the age of twenty three, and in the veere of Christ fix hundred twenty foure, succeeded Redwald in the Monarchy, and was the greatest King of all the Saxons. For Redatel Angl Hebrides.

Conspiracie.

Beda bift, Augl. lib.s.cap.g.

(as Beda laith) hee subdued all the coasts of Britannie wherefocuer any Prouinces were inhabited, either of English or of Saxons, which thing no King of the Engtilb before him had done; and added the Menian Iles vnto his owne Dominions. The first of them, and next the South, was large and fertile, gaue roome for nine hundred and fixty of his English Families, and the second, ground for about three hundred Tene-

(3) His first wife dead, he became suiter for Lady Ethelburg, daughter to Ethelbert King of Kent, deceafed, and silter to King Eadbala then raigning: whose Ambassadours were answered, that it was not lawfull for a Christian Virgin to bee espoused to a Pagan, lest to a complaint regime to be elipouled to a Fagon, left he faith and fair-arments of the hearenly King flouid bee prophaned, by the matching with that earthly King, which knew not to worthip God aright. But Edwine hearing of the Virgins beautie, integrity, and prictic, was fo farre ouregone and multhed therewish, that hee condeficended, thee fhould with her place re-tails the proof, certailing the Section 1. tain her owne Christian Profession, and enjoy the Christian societie both of her men, women, Priests, and servants, to bee her attendants in his Court. These couenants thus confirmed, the Lady accompanied with Paulinus the renerend Bishop, and an honourable retinue, all of them Christian, came to King Edwins Court, and with great joy shee was espoused his

(4) The greatnesse and prosperitie of this Northumbrian King, was both feared by them a farre, that raigned in no such power, and beheld by his neerer, with an enuious eie: among whom, Quinchelme that raigned with his father king ouer the Weft-saxons, sent a desperate Russin, whose name was Eumerus, to murder Edwin the next yeere of his mariage; who repairing to his Court, then refident neeretheriuer Deruent, at the place that is now called Aldeby in York foire, with a double-edged short sword, the point thereof poisoned, and girt under his garment, upon Easter day entred his Palace, as an Ambassadour, and with craftic speech reteined the Kings attention, where getting occasion, and stepping forward, drew his sword, which one Lilla the Kings seruant saw, and wanting wherewith to defend his perion, put himselfe betwixt the King and the fword : and thorow his bodie fo flaine, the same was so farre runne, that it dangerously wounded the King with his point, and with the same fword, before he could be beaten down by the Guard, flew another servant, whose name was Fordhere.

(5) It happened the same night, being holy Easter Sunday, that Queene Ethelburg was brought to bed of a daughter: for ioy whereof, and her fafe delinerance, the King gaue thankes to his Idols; which Bihop Pauling, then in prefence, greatly reproued, and bade Edwin to give thankes vnto God, from whom only all goodnesse came; and spake vnto him of our new birth in Christ : at which conference the King much rejoiced, and promifed that hee would ever af ter renounce all his Idols, and worship that Christ whom he preached, if that God would grant him his life, and glue him victorie against that King, who had first this Manqueller to murder him; in pledge wher-of, heaßigned Paulinus to baptife his daughter, the which vpon whit funday following was performed in her, by the name of Eurified, and fine the first of the Northumbrians which received that Sacrament. At which time also, Edwin being recourred of his wound fo lately received, made an Armie, and marched forth against the West-Saxons, and in battle either slew or tooke prisoners al them that had conspired his death, and as a victorious Conquerour, returned to his

(6) Where continuing in honour, and his affaires prospering to his owne desires, hee was yet in minde distracted, and his thoughts continually perplexed, what God he should worship. The sanctitic of the Christians mooned him much, and the ancient cufromes of his Ancestours sate neere his heart, betwixt whom there seemed a combat in himselfe. And in these dumps sitting one day alone, it chanced Bishop Paulinus to haue accesse to his presence, where laying Beda his. Assi.

his right hand ypon the kings head, demanded of him his right hand ypon the kings head, demanded of him whether hee remembred that figne: whereat Edwine fuddenly fell at the Bishops feete, whom hee in haste and reuerence presently lifted vp, and spake vnto him

Behold O Souer aigne (said he) by the hountifull hand and Bebola U. Sourrayme tall they fire committy of an opposite of our God, you have of speat the hand and vengeance of your most hated and dreadfull enemie. Behold also, by of your maje hatta and dradjull enomie. Behold aljo, by its most grange goodner you have obtained hie four arguite of reigne and rule of the Kingdome. Romenber now therefore its hird this guidely on your led him, and deferre no longer to accomplibe the mode by receasing his distinct pour in and before mode to the commandement, who hath deliuned you will handlike and keeping his Commandement, who hath deliuned you will handlike and selected and the selected and

(7) Whereupon conferring with his Counfell, whereof Bishop Corft was chiefe, for the establishing of the Gospell, and suppressing of Idolatrie, it was then concluded, that the true God should be worthipped, and the Altars of their wonted Idols ouerthrowne : vnto which action, Coff himfelfe became the first man; for mounted on horsebacke in armour, listed. with a girt fword and launce in his hand (all which was vnlawfull for those Idoll-Priests) he brake downe their Altars, Grates, and Barres, and destroied their Temples wherefoeuer he came. Some ruines thereof not farre from Yorke, and neere vnto the riling of the river Derwent, remained to be feen vnto the dales the riner Dervint, remained to be seen vision in coals of Beds, and were then called dostmand in Gaham. And king Edwine himselfe, with all his Nobilitic, and most seed himselfe, with all his Nobilitic, and most seed himselfe. of the Commons, received the lauer of Baptifme, the eleuenth yeere of his raigne, and of Christs Incarnation fix hundred twenty and feuen, one hundred and eighty yeeres after the Saxons entrance into Britaine. The king was baptized the twelfth of Aprill, being Easter Sunday, at the Citie Torke, in the Church of S.Peters, built then of wood, and was the kings Oratorie, which he enclosed about with a deepe foundation; and laying the walles with fquared stones, made it the Cathedrall Church, and his Conuerter Paulmus Arch-bishop of that See,

Arch-binop of that See,

(3) The Gospell thus established in these Northerne parts, spreaddaily surther into other Prouinces, and with such fruit of peace, that in the raigne of ces, and wan nuch numer peace, that numer rangue of this Edwin, and thorowout his Dominions, a weake woman with her new-borne babe might have passed with the service. without dammage or danger over all the Hand, even from Sea to Sea. And so much did the King tender his Subjects, that his provident care was extended to the way-faring paffengers, for whose vie he enclosed cleere Springs by the waies, where he ser great Basens of brasse, both to wash and to bathe in; which either for loue or displeasure of the king, no man defaced, ortooke away.

Ortooke away.

And so great was the magnificence of this Monarch, that (according to Bede) he had not only in Battle the Entignes proper to battle borne before him, but in his ordinarie passages thorow the Cities and Towns of his kingdome, there alwaies went an Enfigne-bearer before him. And (to vie the words of the same venerable Author)he went not in any freet, in which there was not borne before him that kinde of Stanthere was not some secoremin that none of standard which the Romans called Talk, and the English Talker Though That the Romans had such an Ensigne, as that which here is called Talk, Influs Lipsus in his Commentarie voon that place in Vegetius (4b.3.cap.5.) where the feuerall Enlignes of the Romans are recited, doth declare, correcting that place of Vegetius (where Rufa was fet for Tufa) by this place of Bede, and in the fame flewing, that Tufa fignified a Ball, as the Ball (by the example of Augustus) was an Enligne of Monarchie, or absolute gouernment,

(9) But as the Sunne hath his rifing, his height and defcent, and euer is mooning in the circle of his celestiall orbe; so man hath his birth time, being, and death, and till then is neuer staied in one certaine point, Kings therefore, as they be Kings, are the Suns of their owne world, but as they are men, goe to the shadow of death : neither can the strength of their power, wisdome, or policie, loue or applause, stay the hand heere that holds the fatall knife; for so in this King Edwin wee sec, raised about hope to attaine the Diaderne, and ruling in love and liking of the people, was notwithstanding cut off in the midst of his glorie and greatnesse of strength.

(10) For Penda the flout Mercian enuying his peace, and Cadwallo the Britaine feeking to receive his right, joined in friendship against this Monarch, and met him as his enemics in the face of a Field. The plaine was large, and called Hethfeld, where after a long and most bloudie fight, king Edwin was slaine, with prince Offryd his sonne, his whole Host put to the fword, or most shamefull flight : which chanced the fourth of October, the yeere of our Lord fix hundred thirty three, the fixth of his Christianitie, the scuenth of his Monarchie, the feuenteenth of his kingdome, and the forty feuenth of his age. His bodie was lastly buried in S. Peters Church at Streamsball, after called Whitby.

His Wines. (11) Quenburg his first wife, was the daughter (as Beda reporteth) of Ceorle, but as all other Writers doe witnesse, of CridaKing of Mercia. She was married vnto him in the beginning of his youth, (and when he was dispossessed of his inheritance by the Tyrant Ewas unportened or fits innertrance by the I yrant E-theifrid, as we have faild with him fine lived a great part of his banifilment, and in the Court of Retrald king of the Eaft-Angles deccased, before her husband could recover his Kingdome.

Tace.

(12) Ethelburg, furnamed Tate, was the fecond wife of this King, who was the daughter of Ethelbert King of Kent, and of Queene Berta his first wife. She was married vnto him in the yeere of grace fix hun-dred twentie fine, being the second of his Monarchy, and was his wife fix yeeres : but furning him, and desirous to line a religious life, shee returning into Kent, withdrew her selfe to a place not far from the Sea fide, called Lymming, wherein shee built a Monasterie of Nunnes, and among them spent the rest of her life, and therein died, and was there buried.

His Iffue.
(13) Offride, the eldeft fonne of King Edmine, and (13) Off that, the cuertionine of Ling Lawrine, and Quewherg his firth wife, was borne in the time of his fathers exile among the Eaft-Angles. He was baptized in the faith of Chrili by Paulinus the first Archbishop of Torke, and was flaine the fame day, and in the fame battell that his father was. He had a sonne named 1ffs, who was baptized also by Bishop Paulinus; and after the death of his father and grand father, for feare of King Ofwald, was conveied over the Seas into France, to bee brought vp in the Court of King Dagobert, where he died in his childhood, and was there honourably interred.

(14) Edfrid, the second sonne of King Edwine and Lady Quenberg his first wife, was borne in the time of his fathers exile, and baptized with his brother of frid by Bishop Paulinus. After his fathers death, for feare of King ofwald, hee fled to Penda King of Mercia, who was his fathers enemie, and his mothers kinfman; by whom hee was most treacherously murthered, He left behind him a fon named Hererik, who by his wife Bert fwith had iffue the vertuous & learned lady Hilda, Abbesse of Streanshalch: & Queen Hereswith her fifter, the wife of Ethelhere King of the East-Angles brother to King Anna, by whom shee had iffue Ald wolfe, Elfwold, and Beorne, all three succeeding Kings woojs, bijwaa, and Berone, an tince increasing Kings of the East-Angles.

(1) Ethelme, the third fonne of King Edwins, and the first of Queen Ethelburg his second wife, was baptized by Paulowa Arch-bindop of Yorks, not long after his father and halfe-brethern; but in short space after his baptisme, he departed out of this world, euen in the time that he wore the white attire, which in those daies was vied to bee worne by fuch as were newly baptized for a certaine space. His body was with all due funerall obsequies enterred within the new Church of s. Peter in the Citie of Yorke, which his father had newly founded,

(16) Visited, the fourth some of King Edwine, and the second of Queene Ethelburg his second wife, and the last and youngest of them both, bare the name of his fathers great grandfather. He was baptized by the Arch-bishop Paulinus at one time with his brother Ethelme. After the decease of his sather, his mother carried him with her out of Northumberland into Kent; and from thence conveied him over into France with his Nephew Iffy, the fonne of his halfe-brother Offrid, where hee continued in the custodie of King Dagobert, being his mothers cosen-german, and there died, and was honourably buried in a Church with his Nephew Iffy.

(17) Banfled, the elder daughter of King Edwine and Queene Ethelberg his fecond wife, was borne the Bedshift. Ang. night following that her father was wounded and lib.3.cap.15. mignt following that her rather was wounded and baptized, hee being a Pagan. Shee was afterwards married to Ofw, the fourth King of Northumberland, and tenth Monarch of the Englishmen, as shall bee

(18) Etheldrid the younger daughter, the fifth and last-borne child to King Edwine and of Queene Ethelburge, was baptized at the fame time with Ethelburg and Fiftee her brethren. She died an infant, the white clothing not yet put off, which in those daies was vsually worne at certaine fet times after their baptifme. and was with like funerall obsequies buried by her brother Ethelme in the Church of S. Peters in Torke, which their father had founded.

Oog I

OSWALD

Ofwald.

Monarch o.

OSVVALD KING OF NORTHVM-BERLAND, AND THE NINTH MO-

NARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS RAIGNE, WIFE, AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER XXI.

An.Do.634.

Beda bift. Ang.

swald, the fifth King of Deira, the ninth of Bernicia, the third of Northum berland, and the ninth Monarch of the Englishmen, began his raigne the yeere of Christs incarnation fix hundred thirty foure. He with Eanfrith and his brethren, the sonnes of wilde Ethelfrid, and Ofrikalso the sonne of Alfrid King Edwins Vncle had been secured in Scotland all histaigne, and among the Red-shanks lived as banished men, where they learned the true religion of Christ, and which they statistical true rengion of Christ, and had received the Lauer of Baptiline. But Entimes death wrought and divulged, these Princes returne again to their Country, and the Northumbrians Kingdome lately gouerned by one, was now again divided into two feuerall parts, as formerly it had been.

(2) Ouer the Deirans, of rikwas made king, and of Bernicia, Eanfrid affumed the raigne; but Gods inflice ouer taking their Apostasie, neither their liues nor this diuision lasted long. For Cadwall the Christian, and Penda the Pagan were Gods instruments, that with worthy vengeance in the first yeere of their gouernment, cut the one off in battell , and the other by trechery; whose names and yeere of raigne as vnhappy and of hatefull remembrance, the Historiographers of those times would have to be omitted.

(3) But religious ofwald lamenting the effusion of his Countries bloud, long flept not, their reuenge. For affembling his power, which was not great, hee fuddenly and vnlooked for came vpon Cadwallo, and at Denischurne pitched downe his tents. The place (faith Beda) flood neere the wall that Senerus had made, where of wald for the first day forbare to fight, and among his Souldiers for his Standerd fet vp a Croffe of wood; wherunto it feemeth those dawning dates of Christianity were ouermuch addicted. Here

Ofwald making first intercession to God, the onely Of parker meaning into interestions to God, the onersy preferrer of his people, in fore & long fight obtained great victory, with the flaughter of Cadwallo, and of all his British Army: which so accomplished, many have attributed the vertue of that Crosse to bee no final caule of that great ouerthrow. This Croffe for fervp, was the first we read of to haue been erected in England, and the first Altar vino Christ among the Bernicians, whose pretended miraculous cures, not onely in the wood it selfe, but in the mosse and in the earth wherein it was set, let Beda report them, and Stapleton vrge them, yet for my part, I hold them no Article of our canonicall Creed.

(4) But certaine it is, that Ofwald himselfe was a most religious and godly king, and tooke such care for the conversion and faluation of his subjects, that he sent into Scotland for Aidana Christian Bishop, to instruct his Northumbrians in the Gospell of truth. And whereas the Bishops could not speake their language, the king himselfe was interpreter at his Serguage, the sing intinene was interpreter acting our mons, and gaue his words in the English, as hee spake and pronounced them in the Senish, which language ofwald perfectly spake, having beene there the space of eighteene yeeres.

Thus the godly proceedings of the king and Bi-shop, produced such increase of their heavenly seed, that it is reported in feuen daies space, fifteene thoufand Christians received Baptisme; and many of them for saking the pleasures of the world, to have betake themselues to a religious and solitarie life.

(5) At this time the whole Iland flourished both Beds bift. Angl. with peace and plentie, and acknowledged their fubwan peace and periode, and assure we great the nul-iection vnto king Ofrald. For, as Beda reportect, all the Nations of Britamie which spake four languages, that is to fay, Britaines, Redshanks, Scots, and Englishmen, became subject onto him. And yet being advanced to so royall Maiestie, he was notwithstanding (which is maruellous tobe reported) lowly to all, gracious to the poore, and bountifullto strangers. The fruits whereof the same Author exemplifieth in his bounty and humilitie towards the poore; who vpon a folemne feast day, seeing many such at his gates, sent them both the delicates for himfelfe prepared,& commanded the charger of filuer to be broken, and divided among them. The Bishop much rejoycing thereat, tookethe king by the right hand, and praied that it might neuer consume; as after his death it did not, but was shrined in siluer, and in S. Peters Church at Bebba, now Bambrough, with worthyhonor was worshipped for the many miracles in cures that it did, as likewise the earth wherein his bloud was spilt: with such lauish enlargements haue those writers interlined the deeds of Gods Saints,

(bap.21)

(6) But as the Sunne hath his shadow, and the highest tide her ebbe, so ofwald, how holy socuer, or gouernment how good, had emulators that fought his life, and his Countries ruine : for wicked Penda the Pagan Mercian, enuying the greatnesse that king Oswaldbare, raised warres against him, and at a place then called Maferfeild in Shrop-shire, in a bloudie and fore fought battle flew him; and not therewith fatiffied, in barbarous and brutish immanitie, did teare him in peeces, the first day of August, and yeere of Christ lesus six hundred forty two, being the ninth of his raigne, and the thirty eighth of his age: whereupon the faid place of his death is called to this day Ofwaldstree, a faire Market Towne in the same

(7) The difmembred limmes of his body were first buried in the Monastery of Bradney in Lincolnshire, shrined with his standard of Gold and Purple creeked

ouer his Tombe, at the industry and cost of his neece Offryd, Queene of Mercia, wife vnto king Ethelred, and daughter to Oswyn that succeeded him. From hence his bones were afterwards remooued to glocester, and there in the north fide of the vpper end of the Quire in the Cathedrall Church, continueth a faire Monument of him, with a Chapeli fet betwixt two pillers in the same Church. His Wife.

(8) Kineburg, a most vertuous Lady, and daughter to Kingils the fixth, and first Christian king of the West-Saxons, was the wife of king Ofwald, who became both his father and sonne in the day of her mariage, by receiving him at the Font, and her of his gift. She was maried vnto him in the fecond yeere of his raign, which was the yeere of Christs Incarnation fix hundred thirty fix : no other relation made of her besides the birth of his sonne.

His I sue. (9) Ethelwald, the only childe of king Ofwald and Queene Kineburg his wife, was borne in the yeere of our Lord fix hundred thirty seuen, being the third yeere of his fathers raigne; and but an infant at his fathers death, was disappointed of the Northumbrian Kingdome by the fraud of his vncle Osmyn. Notwithstanding at the death of Ofwin king of Deira, and then not about fixteene yeeres of age, hee tooke the same kingdome, and by strong hand held it against his vncle so long as he lined, and at his death left it to his cofen Alkefryd, the naturall fonne of king of wyne, as in the ninth Chapter we have faid.

OSVVY KING OF NORTHVM-BERLAND, AND THE TENTH MO-

NARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS ACTS. WIFE, AND CHILDREN.

CHAPTER XXII.

An.Do.642

Ofwy.

Swye, the illegitimate fonne of King Ethelfrid, furnamed the Wilde, at thirty yeeres of age fuceeded Ofwald his halfe brother in his Dominions, being the fourth King of Northumberland, and the tenth Monarch of the Englishmen, entring his government the thirteenth day of October, and yeere of Christs Incarnation fix hundred forty three. His first beginnings were much disquieted by Penda the Heathen Mercian, by the rebellions of his base sonne Alkfrid, and by the oppositions of Ethelwald the son of King Ofwald:but none fate more necre his heart then Ofwyn Ofwyn ensie king of the Deirians did, whose vertuous gouernment did much darken (as hee tooke it) his owne, and the free loue of those subjects, daily to lessen his among the Bernicians.

(2) This Ofwyn of Deira was the sonne of Ofrike the Deirian.

Monarch.10.

an bloud, forfooke the field, accompanied onely with one Souldier, and went to Earle Hunwaldhis friend as he thought, to secure his life. But contrary to trust, hee deliuered him vnto King ofwy, who cruelly flew him the twentieth of August, and ninth of his raigne, at the place called Ingething; where afterwards for satisfaction of so hainous an offence, a

Monasterie was built, as vpon like occasions, many the like foundations were laid; whose stones were

Story following : Among his other rare vertues and princely qualities, his humility (faith he) and passing lowline fe excelled : whereof he thus exemplifieth : There-thus iouncd with the morter of bloud. (3) Of this Of wine thus flainc, Bedareporteth the Monarch 10. Book. 7. therne parts likewise subject vinto him. He it was that decided the long controuerly for Easters celebration, and founded the Cathedrall Church in Liebfeild for a Bishops See : which Citie, with all South-Mercia, diuided from the north by the river Trent, hee gaue to Peada the fonne of king Penda, in mariage with his naturall daughter Alkfled, on condition that he fhould become a Christian: all which the said king not long enioied, but was murdered in his owne Court. And the Mercians erecting Vulfhere his brother and their natiue country-man for king, rebelled against Ofpy, and freed themselucs from a forraine subjection. (8) Thus Of my ending in troubles as he began in Bede biff. Aug. warres, raigned the space of twenty eightyeeres, and then failing sicke, was so strucke with remorie for the The time of King death of good of wyn, and bloud which hee had spilt, of wys raigne. that hee vowed a pilgrimage to Rome, in which reputed holy place hee purposed to have ended his life, and to have left his bones therein to rest: but his disease increasing; and that purpose failing, he left this life the fifteenth of Februarie, and his body to remaine in S. Peters Church at Stream bach, the yeere after Christs birth six hundred seuentie, and of his own age fifty eight. His Wife. (9) Eanfled, the wife of this king, was the daughter Eanfled. of Edwin and Ethelburg, king & Queene of Northum-berland. She was the first Christian that was baptized in that Prouince, and after her fathers death, was brought vp in Kent vnder her mother, and thence maried vnto this of my, whom she surrained, and spent the whole time of her widow-hood in the Monastery of Steanshalch, where her daughter Elfred was Abbesse, Steanshald Mowherein the deceased and was interred in the Church natterie. of S. Peter, hard by her husband king Edwin.

Elfled his eldeft

His I sue.

(10) Egfryd, the eldest sonne of king Ofwy and of Egfryd the eldest sonne of king Ofwy and of Queene Eanfled, was borne in the third yeere of his fathers raigne, being the yeere of grace fix hundred forty fiue. In the twenty fifth yeere of his age, and of our Lord God fix hundred feuenty one, he succeeded his father in Northumberland, but not in his Momarchie: of whose life and acts, wee have further spoken in the seventh Chapter of this Booke.

(11) Elivine, the second sonne of king of my, and of Queene Earstled, was borne in the yeere of our condisions. Lord fix hundred fixty one, being the ninth of his fa-thers raigne, at whose death he was nine yeeres old: and in the ninth yeere after, being the eighteenth of his age, was unfortunately flaine in a battell, wherein his age, was vincumatery mainer in a pattern, wherein the ferried his brother Egfrid, againft Ethebred king of the Mercians, to the great griefe of them both, the yeere of Christs nativity six hundred scuentie nine.

(12) Elfled, the eldest daughter of king of my and queene Eanfled, was borne in the month of September, the yeere of grace fix hundred fiftie foure, being the twelfth of her fathers raigne; and when the was a yeer old, by him committed to the custodie & bringing vp of the renowned Lady Hilda, Abbeffe of Stream-(ball, wherein the lived vnder hera Nun, and after her Streamball death did succeed her Abbesse of the place, and in great holinesse and vertue, spent therein her life, vnto the day of her death, which was the yeere of Christ Iesus seuen hundred sourteene, and of her owne age fixtic, being interred in S. Peters Church within the same Monasterie.

(13) Offrid, the younger daughter of king of wy and queene Eanfled, was borne about the fifteenth yeere of her fathers raigne, which was the yeere of our Lord fix hundred fixtie feuen: and when the was fully twenty, was married vnto Ethelred king of Mercia, the twelfth Monarch of the Englishmen, in the third yeere of his raigne, and of Christ six hundred

(14) Alkfrid, the natural fonne of king Ofwy, did Alkfryd a natufirst succeed his cosen Ethelwald, sonne of king Ofwald

uerend Christian Bishop Aidan wsing much trauell to preach the Gospell thorowout that Province, the King for his more His gift to the Buhop Aiden. ease, gaue him a goodly Gelding with rich and costly trapping. It chanced one day, as the Bishop rode to minister the word of life, that a poore man demanded his almes : bu! hee not having wherewith to relecue him, and pitying his di-fireffed poore estate, presently alighted, and gaue onto him his horse and rich furniture; whereof when the King heard, Almes to a poo he blamed him, and faid, What meant you (my Lerd) to give to the begger the horse that I gaueyou, with my saddle and trappings? Had we horses of no lower price to give away to trapping? It dat we have is of nadowe price to flue way to the powe? To show how the Billips prejied, Anda it show of of a heaft determines with the powe that the power of a heaft determines when the power manthe children of God? The King these promoted the fire, and there fally paying open this anywer, preferring gaar from hims front, and in half; fell at the Billips feet, defrime forgaments in that be had faid. The Billips made affected the shad defined from the strengthing the mean, and to be mory; which the King defring from the to the billips to the the Billips contractive the gas on the the Billips contractive the gas on the power which the king through the day, and the travestor trickle down his checker in which political and the tearestor trickle down his checker. King O/wiss rehee burst out into these speeches, and said to his Chaplaine Bilhop'Aidas in an waknowne tongue, I neuer till this time haue scene an humble King; and surely his life cannot bee long, for this people are not worthy to haue such a Prince to govern them. King Ofwyn.

But to returne to King Ofwy. (4) Who after many cruell invalions of the mer-cileste Penda, was forced to sue vnto him for peace, with proffers of infinite treasure and most precious icwels : all which rejected, and the Tyrant comming on, Ofwy fought his helpe by supplication to God, and with such zeale as then was embraced, vowed his young daughter Elfled to be confecrated in perpetuall Elfled the daugh-ter of King Ofwy. virginitie vnto him, with twelue Farmers and their lands, to the erection and maintenance of a Monasterie: and thereupon prepared himselfe for battle.

(f) The Armie of this enemie is reported to redouble thirty times his, all well appointed and old tri-ed fouldiers: against whom Of my with his sonne Alkfrid boldly marched, Egfrid his other fonne then being an hostage with Cinwife an vnder Queene of the Mercians : Ethelwald the sonne of Ofwald, tooke part with Penda, against his naturall Vncle and natiue Country : io did Ethelherd the brother of Christian Anna, fide with this heathenish and cruell Mercian.

Alkfrid.

Ethelwald,

Junet River.

Penda flaine.

Ethelmal. this

(6) The battle was fought necre to the river Inuet, which at that time did ouer-flow his bankes, fo that the victorie falling with ofwy, more were drowned in the water then flaine with the fword. And heerein proud Penda loft his life, with the discomfiture of all his Mercian power. Heerein also died Ethelherd, the East-Angles King, who was the only motive to these warres : and Ethelwald cscaping, returned with dishonour vnto Deira. The day was thus gotten the thirteenth yeere of King ofmy his raigne, the fifteenth day of Nouember, and yeere of Christ his Incarnation fix hundred fifty five.

Chap.23 Vulfhere THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch II.

Monarch II.

Chap.y.felt 12

his Vncle in part of Northumberland, and held the fame by force against his Father, which afterwards he peaceably injuved both with him and his halfe bro-ther King Egfrid, whom laftly hee fucceeded in the whole kingdome of Northumberland; as more at large in the fame flory we have declared.

(15) Alkfed, the naturall daughter of king of my, borne before het father was king; in the yeere of Chriss incarnation fix hundred fiftie three, and the

eleuenth of her fathers raigne, was married to Peada the fonne of Penda, that by his permission had gouer-ned some part of Mercia, and by Ofry his gift with this Alfled, all the South of that Province, She was his wife three yeers, and is of most writers taxed to be the actor of his death, being wickedly murthered in the feast of Easter, the yeere of grace six hundred fiftie fixe, and the fourteenth of her Fathers

Vulfhere.

VVLFHERE THE SIXTH KING OF THE MERCIANS, AND THE ELE.

VENTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISH-MEN, HIS RAIGNE, ACTS, WIFE, AND ISSUE

CHAPTER XXIII.

An.Do.659.

rulfhere, after the murther of his brother Peads, adnanced against of my by the Nobles of Mercia, maintained his title and kingdome for twelue veeres continuance, in the life time of that Northumbrian Monarch, and after his death translated the Monarchy from those Kings; and Country, vnto himself and his fucceffors the Mercians, who now wore the Imperiall Diademe without reuerlement, vntill fuch time as great Egbert fet it vpon the West-Saxons

He was the second sonne of Penda King of Mercia and the fixth in succession of that kingdome, begin-ning his raigne the yeere of Christhis Incarnation, fix hundred fiftie nine, and twelue yeeres after, Anno fix hundred seuenty one, entred his Monarchy ouer the Englishmen, and was in number accounted the ele-uenth Monarch of the Land. (2) His entrance was with trouble against the

Linfry I land loft to the Northam-briens,

Beda bift. Angl.

Northumbrians; for vnto Egfrid their King he had loft the possession of the Iland Ling, and was expelled the Country: yet three yeeres after he fought against the West-Saxons with better successe, whose Country with conquest he passed thorow, and wan from Reswald their King the Ile of Wight, which I and he gave to Edilmach the South-Saxons King, whom he received his God-sonne at the font-stone; notwithstanding himselfe had lately been a prophane Idolater, and most cruell Heathen, as by the Liger booke of the Monastery of Peterborow appeareth, whose story is Lib. Paterbay.

(3) King vulfhere of Mercia remaining at his Castell in vlferchester in stafford-shire, and understanding that Vulfald and Rufin his two fonnes, vnder pre- | Castell tence and colour of hunting, viually reforted to reuerend Chad, to bee instructed in the fruitfull faith of Christ Iesus, and had at his hands received the Sacrament of Baptiline, at the persuasion of one Werebod, suddenly followed, and finding them in the Oratory of that holy man, in dedout contemplations, flew them there with his owne hands. Whole martyred bodies Queene Ermenhild their mother caused to be buried in a Sepulchre of stone, and thereupon a faire Church to be erected, which by reason of the many John Capprise. stones thither brought for that foundation, was ever after called Stones and now is a Market Towne in the after cancul states and the state of the sta an, and destroiced all those Temples wherein his heathen Gods had been worshipped, contierting them all into Christian Churches, and religious Monasteries : and to redeeme so hainous an offence, vinder-

Ooo 2

went the finishing of * Medisham, his brothers foundation, enriching it largely with lands and possession.

THE SVCCESSIONS OF Ethelred Monarch 12. Book. 7. 340 ons: notwithstanding hee is taxed by William of Christian faith by Bishop chad, and martyred for Volfald a jupp profession of the same by King vulfhere, is reported fee Malmesbury with the toule sinne of Symony, for selling vnto Wyna the Bishopricke of Landon. by Water of Wittlefey, a Monke of Peterborow, in a Re- water winteley. (4) He raigned King ouer the Mercians the space of seventeene yeeres, and Monarch of the English fulgifter which he wrote of that Monastery, to bee the Supposed son of King Valfhere himselfe, and to have ly foure, leaving his life in the yeere of our Lord fix been flaine by him in his extreme fury before he was hundred seuentie foure, and his body to be buried in a Christian, or could indure to heare of the Christian the Monastery of Peterborow, which was of his brofaith. He was buried in Stone, as we have faid, where thers and his owne foundation. his father built a Colledge of Canons regular, which S. Vullaider Col His Wife was afterwards called S. Vulfaldes. (5) Ermenhild, the Wife of King Vulfhere, was the (8) Rufine the fellow martyr of Vulfald, is by the Ermenbilds padaughter of Ercombert, the feuenth King of Kent, and sameWriter reported to be his brother, and the sup- supposed for fifter to Egbert and Lothair, both Kings of that Counposed sonne also of Fulfhere the King. Their murtie. Her mother was Sexburg, daughter to Anna, the thers, as he faith, was committed the ninth Calends of Jugost, which is with vs the foure and twenty seuenth King of the East-Angles, whose sisters were of Iuly, vpon which day there was yeerely celebrated a folemne memoriall of their mattyrdomes in the many and most of them Saints. She was married vnto him in the third yeere of his raigne, and was his wife fourteene yeeres. After his decease, she went to her fame place, where they both fuffered, and where their Queene Sexbarg fame place, where usey to the transfer of the Montment was then remaining.

(9) Woreburg, the daughter of King Fulfheer and Queene Ermenidd, was in the childhood committed described. mother Queene Sexburg, being then Abbeffe of Ely, where the continued all the reft of her life, and therein deceased and was buried. to the bringing vp of Queene Etheldrid her mothers (6) Kenred the son of King Vulfhere and of Queen Ermenhild, being the heire apparant of his fathers Aunt, in the Monastery of Ely, by whose perswasion Kenred the first the professed virginity, and returning to her Country in theraigne of King Ethelred her Vncle, was by him made ouerfeer of all the Monasteries within his dopossessions, was under age at his fathers decease; and by reason of his minority, was withheld from the gouernment, which Ethelred his Vncle entred into, withminions. She deceased at Trickingham (now called minions. She decealed at Treitingham (now caused Trentham) in Stafford-fibre, and was buried at Han-Burieda Heabor. Her body was afterwards remooued to Weft.

Polymer Leafrik the Earle built in honour of her threathing. out any contradiction of this Kenred, who held himselfe contented to line a private life: notwithstanding Ethelred taking the habit of a Monke, left the Crowne to him who was the right heire. a goodly Church called S. Wereburgs, which to this Church, (7) Vulfald a young Gentleman converted to the day is the Cathedrall Church of that Citie. ETHELRED THE SEVENTH KING Ethelred. Monarch 12. OF MERCIA, AND TWELFTH MO. NARCH OF THE ENGLISH HIS ACTS. WIFE, AND ISSVE. CHAPTER XXIIII. Theired, the third sonne of twelfth person that bare the Imperial title of the whole: his claime was not immediately nor next in King Penda, and brother to the last declared Vulffuccession, young Kenred his Nephew standing behere, in the yeere of Chris twixt him and the Crowne. But himselfe a child in Icfus fix hundred feuenty yeeres, and in them also addicted vnto a private life. fiue, beganne his raigne in he gaue his Vncle way to vndergo so publike a charge the kingdome of Mereia, which without contradiction was likewife accepted and at the same time in of the subjects. the Monarchy of the Eng-(2) His entrance was with warre against the Kenlishmen, being the seuenth tifb Lothaire, whose Country he destroied, sparing nei-King among them that ware their Diademe, and the ther Churches nor religious Abbeys, the King not daring to appeare in field. The Citie Rochefter felt also his fury, whose Citizens were ransacked, their buildings ruinated, and their Bishop Patta driven to such distresse, that he became a Teacher of good Arts and Musicke in Mercia, to maintaine his aged yeeres from the necessity of perishing want. These stirres (saith Beda) happened in the yeere of grace six hundred seuenty seuen; and the next following, so searefull a couered in the moneth of August, and for three moneths together continued rifing in the morning, and giuing forth a blazing pile very high, and of a glittering flame. (3) The remorfe of conscience for the bloud he had spilt, and the places of Oratories by him destroied, (besides his intrusions into another mans right) ftrucke so deepe a wound into King Ethelreds breast, that euer hee bethought him what recompence to make. First therefore building a goodly Monastery at Bradney, and that most fruitfully scated in the County of Lincolne, thought that not sufficient to wash away the scarres of his foule offence, but determined in himselfe to forsake the world, for that was the terme attributed to the monasticall life: wherein notwithstanding, in lesse cares they lived, and their persons more safe from all dangers attempted, then when they publikely administred their lawes to their people, the inft executions whereof, many times breed the ouerthrow of their Princes, and their Perfons neuer fecure amidft their owne gards. (4) But such was the religion then taught, and the godly zeale of the good Princes then raigning, whose works haue manifested their vertues to posterities, and faith in Christ the saluation of their soules, in THE SECRET SECTION OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROP KENRED THE EIGHTH KING OF MERCIA, AND THE THIRbap.24 Kenred Beda bill. Angl. A blazing starre. Blazing starre, as was wonderfull to behold, first dis-Kenred. Ap.Do.704.

mred the fonne of Vuifhere, because of his mino. ritie at his Fathers death was defeated of his dominions by his Vncle Ethel red, and vntill it pleased him to refigne his Crown liued a private life, whereunto by nature hee was most inclined. But King Sthelred for the wrongs to him committed, and to rewhose Paradise we leave them, and Ethelred to his deuour intent: who to reconcile himselfe hrst vnto Kenred, bequeathed the Crowne folely to him, although Estelved tells. he had a sonne capable thereof: then putting on the habit of religion, became himselfe a Monke, in his owne Monastery of Brainey, where he lived a regular life the terme of tweine yeeres, and therein lastly died Abbat of the place, when hee had raigned thirty The conditionate yeeres, the yeere of Christs nativity, scuen hundred of his tagne.

TEENTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN.

CHAPTER XXV.

THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch 13.

His Wife. (5) Offred, the wife of King Ethelred, was the daugh-(5) Offers, and of Lady Earsted, King and Queene of East his Angl. Northumberland. She was married vato him in the 1853.49.11. yeere of our Lord fix hundred feuenty feuen, being the third of his raigne, and the twentieth of her age Shee was his wife twenty yeeros: and passing thorow the North parts of Mercia, she was set vpon and faine by the people of the Kountry, in cuenge of the death of Peads their King, who had long before bin murthered by Alkefled his wife, and her half fifter, as we have faid. And thus strangely came shee to her untimely end, the yeer of our Lord fix hundred ninety feuen, the twenty three yeere of her husbands raigne and the fortieth of her owne age.

His Iffue. (6) Chelred the sonne of King Ethelred, and of General the first Queene offryd his wife, was the heire apparant of fonns his fathers kingdome, and of sufficient yeeres to have fucceeded him, when he entred into religion; but that it was his fathers will to make amends to his Nephew Kenred, sonne to his elder brother King Vulfhere, that now he might raigne before his fonne, who should naue raigned before himfelfe.

the fame time, both ouer the Mercians and Monarchy of the Englishmen, which was the yeere of Christs Incarnation seven hundred and foure.

(2) He is in account the eighth King of that Pro-

34.1

Monarch 13.

uince, and the thirteenth Monarch fince Hengift the Saxon. He raigned in peace the space of foure yeeres;

deeme the time that in warre and wealth he had prodefinite the time that in water and weathin to not pro-digally from ty yeelded the Scepter vnto his hand, and fer his feeming our-heavy Crowne you his Ne. phew Kenreds head; who began his raigne at one and then weary of gouernment, and defirous of contemofhisraign

THE SVCCESSIONS OF Chelred 342 Monarch 13. Book. 7. plation, after the example of his Vncle, fought a more times to much overshadowed with superstitious zeal, private and religious life: and thereupon appointing the holy acts of men, which no doubt were many, & Chelred his Colon germane to rule in his place, in the Beda hift.Angt. the habit of Monks, the accounted holy garments of lib. 5 .4 # 7.20. fifth yeere of his raigne, abandoned his kingdome humility, were so meritoriously respected and repuand Country, and departed for Rome, accompanied ted in the deuout hearts of the religious, when by the Clergy (that are accounted the light of the world) in with Offa King of the East-Saxons, and with Edwine Bishop of Worcester, where both these Kings were a Councell at Rome held vider Pope Constantine the first, it was decreed and commanded, that carried made Monks in the time of Pope Constantine the first, Initimian the younger then wearing the Imperiall Images, which neither had action, nor life, nor could Crowne : and in a Monastery at that citie, both these faue themselues from the stroke of destruction, penitent Conuerts in the Coules and Orders of Monks, from the reft of their lives, and therein died should bee made to the memoriall of Saints, and should be set up in Churches, with respective adoraand were enterred; this Mercian King Kenred having tion, contrary to Gods most expresse commande.
ment, and condemned for idolatry by the warrant of had neither wife nor child, that I can reade of. (3) It is not greatly to be wondered at, in that these facred Scripture. CHELRED THE NINTH KING OF Chelred. Monarch 14. THE MERCIANS, AND THE FOUR-TEENTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISH, HIS RAIGNE AND SVCCESSION. CHAPTER XXVI. An.Do.709. Helred, the fonne of King grow great. For Kent he had forced to buy their peace Ethelred, was of fufficient with mony: the Britaines subdued, and had inlarged his confines vpon them. And now against Chelred this yeeres, and well able of rule, at fuch time as his fanew rife Monarch, he meant to try chance, whose glother religned his Scepter ry he looked at with an ouer enuious eye.

(4) His greatneffe likewise Chelved suspected, who vnto his Nephew Kenred, had not the pricke of that either to himselfe or successors, (by the foundation tech against to which he laid) would divert the Monarchy from him finne touched his confcience, which made him to and his Mercians, and entaile it to himselfe or his and the mercrams, and entaile it to ninnear or ms. Welf-Saxons. Hereupon great preparation was made, and each fet forward with all the powers, the one to attaine, and the other to keep, the glory and title that bestow the same as he did: notwithstanding the Crown being too waighty for Kenred to weare, he as freely againe gaue it the sonne, as he had received it of the father before, and relinboth of them fo much thirsted after. At Wodnesbury quished his claime and title thereto. they met, and with vndaunted spirits so fought, that (2) Chelred thus advanced before he it expected Celred worthy of the victory was doubtfull, for neither could fay the entred his government with great applause of the battell was his, or that he departed with the leffer out militaries people, in whose opinions he was held the onely man worthy of their Crowne. Ouer the Mercians he raig-(5) These emulations were followed betwixt ned the ninth King, and of the English Monarchs the these two Princes the space of seuen yeeres, and lonfourteenth in number, beginning them both in the ger had done, if Chebred had lived, or Inas not been yeere of grace seuen hundred & nine, and the fourth strucke with remorse of conscience for his ouermuch of Justiman the younger, Empire, fpilling of bloud. Of this Chelred, some Authors (3) His quietnes was disturbed by Inas the Westhaue censured, that he was maruellous in prowesse, town Stow. Tau King of the Saxon, whole fame for his fortunes beganne then to and valiant of courage, but his Country milerable

Offa.

Monarch 16.

OFFA THE ELEVENTH KING OF THE MERCIANS, AND THE SIX-TEENTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISH-MEN, HIS ACTS, RAIGNE, WIFE AND 188VE.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

An.Do.758.

Wil, Malauburi

The parents of Berwed flaine

King Charles the

Liber M.S.

Ff4, the cosen of King Ethelald, after some time of Inter-regnum, fucceeded him in his dominions of Mercia; a man of so high ftomacke and ftournes of mind, that he thought nothing vnpossible for him to attaine: and for vertue and vice, so equally composed, that hardly could bee judged to whither of them the scale of his carriage most inclined, although the Monke of S. Albans, and writer of his life, doth blanch out his graces with superlatine praises.

(2) His Parents hee nameth Twinfreth and Mercella, and himselfe hee faith to have been first named Pinered, borne both lame, deafe, and blinde, wherein he fo continued vnto his mans estate, The rage of Bernred (faith the fame Author) had forced all three into a folitary place, where fuddenly by miracle Pinered was restored, and for that cause called another off a, who presently affailed, and in a great battel manfully fought, flew the viurping Bermed. The Nobles of Mercia being rid of that Tyrant by the valour of Off a, gladly imbraced & received him for their King; who began his raigne with greater flew of glory, then any Mercian before him had done, being in number the eleuenth that had raigned in that Province, and is accounted the fixteenth Monarch of the Englishmin.

(3) His neighbour Kings foreseeing whereat his eye glanced, follicited by Letters Charles the Great, then King of France, against him, who wrote vnto offa in their behalfe, and in threatning wife commanded him to delift. But he was so farre from fearing of his threats, that to his contempt he was the more eager. (4) The first that felt his fury, were the Kentishmen vnder Alrik their King, whose ouerthrow was men vincer Zam tilea King, whose ouerthrow was the leffe dishonourable (laith Malmesbury) for that they were vanquished by so great a Monarch. The place was otteferd, vnfortunate to them, where their King was flaine by the hand of off a himselfe, their forces quite discomfitted by the losse of this field, and their Country trodden downe under the feet of the Mercians.

(5) From South to North King offs then marched, and beyond Humber made hauocke of all that flood against him; whence returning triumphant, he let vpon the West-Saxons, that had formerly joined with his enemies: the place was Eensinton, which Caftell King off a tooke, with the difcomfiture of King off a tooke, with the difcomfiture of King of Kenwelfe, and all his Welf-Saxons, who fought their of the welf-Saxons, who fought their of the welf-Saxons, who fought their of the welf-Saxons of the welf-Sax reuenge by the aides of the Britaines in Wales. Their King (faith mine Author) was then Marmodius, betwixt whom some intercourse by letters passed, & M.S. modulus great presents to King off a sent, onely to protract Wein King. time, and to worke vpon aduantage.

(6) In this Interim of complements, for a further security, off a caused a great ditch to be drawn betwixt his and the Britaines borders, which worke began at Bafingwark in Flint-fbire, and North-wales, not farre Tains and the south, & ended neer Brifton at the fall of Wye; the tract whereof in many places is yet feene, and is called to this day Claudh Offa, or Offaes ditch. Marmedius, who openly bare faile to this wind, and Marmedius tres feemed to winke at Offaes intent, fecretly called a chery.

Counfell of State, wherein he declared how the Act thus in working, would foone proue the bane of liberty vnto their country, and the marke of dishonor to the felues & posterity for euer; therefore his aduice was, that by some stratagem it might be staid by time.

(7) To this his Britaines consented, the truce yet lasting, and the feast of Christs Naturity even then at cessary to it. hand; in the celebration wherof was held the greatest aduantage with least suspect, to put themselues in action against it; and secretly working the assistance of their allies the Saxons, both of the South, the West, and the North, vpon Saint Stephens day at night, fuddainely brake downe the banke of this fortification, filling vp againe a great part of the Ditch, and in the morning most turiously rushed into off his Court, patting a great number to the fword, who were more intentine and regardfull to the Feaft, then to any defence from their cruell and mercileffe fwords. (8) These wrongs King offs delaied nor to require, first making their hottages his vassals and flaues, and then with a great army entring Wales, in a bloody and fore-fought battaile hee ouercame Marmodius and all his affociates in the field. Thus then as a Conquerour ouer all his enemies triumphantly after ten yeares wars abroad returned he to his owne Kingdome, neither puffed with pride, nor fuffring his title to be enlarged according to his conquests: yet he was not neglective of regall state, by thereport of the Ligger booke of S. Albans, which faith, that in regard of his great prerogative, and not of any pride, he first instituted and commanded, that even in any prince, by the prince a uncommonance and a con-tinuo of peace also, himself is and his successfors in the Crowne, should as he passed through any Cities, have Trumpetters going and sounding before them, to show that the person of the King Islandsbrede both clarae, and honor in all which either see him or hear's him.

Marmedius van

(9) Vnto King Charles of France he wrote in ex-King Charlet cor cuse of his warres, and desire of his amity; whom Charles againe congrarulated with letters of gladnes, both for his victories, and the Christian piety in his land embraced; defiring of Offa fafe conduct for fuch his subjects, as came to his country in deuotion to God, and withall fent to him, (for a prefent) a Booke of the Decrees of the fecond Councell of Nice. Which Synodall Booke (to vie Roger Houedens Ro Hourd Acre owne words) was fent unto King Charles from Conpers t. The second stantinople, wherin (alas for pity) by the vinanimous af-fertion of three hundred Bishops or more congregated in Councell of that Councell, were decreed many things inconstenient vea and quite contrary to the true faith; as is most especiall; yea and quite court ary to the time faith; is it may ejevenmy, the worshipping of images, which the Church of God doth witerly detest. Against which Booke *Albinus wrote an Episile, admirably strengthmed by the authority of the body Alcuinue. Scriptures, which together with the forefaid Booke him felfe presented in the name of the Princes & Bishops of this land, unto the foresaid Charles King of France. Such intercourse both for State and Church had this great

offa with that great Charles.

(10) His last warres (according to mine Author) were against the Danes, whom he forced to their ships with the loffe as well of their booties, as of many of their lives; and then (faith he) with the spirit of humility, both to recall himselfe from the trace of blood and to the better establishment of his kingdomes peace, he joined in affinity with his neighbour Princes, vpon who he bestowed his daughters in mariage

(11) And making Egfrid his sonne a King with himfelfe, in great denotion went to Rome, where with the like zeale and example of Inas the west-Saxon, he made his Kingdome subject to a Tribute, then called Peter-pence, afterwards Rom-Scot; befides other rich gifts that he gaue to Pope Hadrian for canonizing Albane a Saint : in honour of whom, and in repentance of his finnes, at his returne (ouer against Verolanium, in the place then called Holmehurft. where that Protomartyr of Britaine, for the conftant profession of Christ, lost his head) off a built a magnificke Monastery in Anno 795. indowing it with lands and rich reuenewes for the maintenance of an hundred Monks: vpon the first gate of entrance in ftone ftandeth cut a Salteir Argent in a field azure,& is affigned by the iudicious in Heraldry to bee the Armes that he bare.

(12) Also in testimony of his repentance for the bloud hee had spilt, he gaue the tenth part of all his goods vnto the Churchmen, and vnto the poore. At Bathe he also built another Monastery, and in Warwiekshire a Church, where the adjoyning towns, from it and him, beareth the name off-church.

Offs went to

(13) Finally, when hee had raigned thirty mine yeares, he died in peace at his towne off-ley the nine and twentieth of luly, the yeare of Christ Iclus, feuen hundred ninety foure : and with great folemnity his body was buried without the towne of Bedford in a Chapell Handing vpon the Banke of Owle, which long fince was fwa: lowed up by the fame river: whele Tombe of lead (as it were some phantasticall thing) appeareth often (laith Roufe) to them that feek it not; 150 but to them that feeke it, is altogether inuifible.

His wife. (14) Quendrid the wife of King Offa hath not her that hee made her his wife, contrary to the liking of his Parents. She was a woman of condition ant-bitious, couerous, and cruell, as appeared specially in the death of Ethelbert, King of the East Angles, that came to her husbands Court to marry their manner the foresaid Author declared to be by his fall into a deepe pit, purposely made in his bed-chamber.

and under his chaire of estate. That his head was cut off, and found by a blind-man, that the well which beares his name forung vp presently in the place where it lay, that the bloud thereof gaue the blind man his fight, and that Dryda died in the same pit which she had digged for Ethelbert, I leave to the credite of my author, and the liking of my Reader:

atentage let down by any of our Writers:notwith-Randing, the recorder of this his lite, faith that her Inthe life of S. name was Drida, and that shee was the kinswoman to Charles the Great King of France, and by him for some offence banished his Realme, who arriving vpon the coasts of England in a ship without tackle was taken thence, and relieued by off a, being then a young Nobleman, where face changed her name vnto Petronilla; with whom hee fell fo farre in loue daughter; whose port shee so much enuied, that shee gundeelbet procured him to bee treacheroufly murdered the trechery, but certaine it is that Gods vengeance followed this heynous fact within one yeare after the same was committed, by the death of her selfe, her husband, & ded with the like her Sonne, and the translation of that Kingdome paines.

from the Mercians to the West-Saxons. An ancient Saxon coine inscribed with her name CENEDRED REGIN. we have found and here placed, which the judicious suppose to be hers, and that not vnlikely, thee being to powerfull, proud and ambitious.

(15) Egfrid the onely fonne, and heire apparant of King Offs and Queene Questical, was the onely fone to 9 io yand pride of his parents, who fucceded his Father in his dominions and title, and in the famt years alfo in the fhades of death.

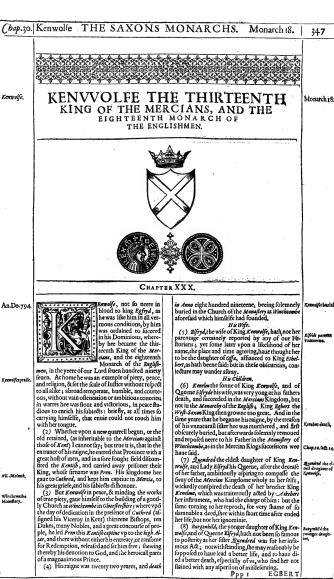

(16) Ethelburga, the eldeft daughter of King Offa athelburga the and Queene Quendred was maried to Brithrick the first daughter. fixeteenth King of the West-Saxons: shee was a Ludy of passing beautie, but withall of an insolent dispofition, hating all whom her husband loued, and practifing the deathes of them that she hated. She departed into France after the poisoning of her husband, & forthat her offence, a law was enacted to the great prejudice of the Welt-Saxons Queenes, as in the raigne of Brithrick we hade declared.

(17) Effiel, the feedid daughter of King off a, & P. Queene Lendred, by the report of Randulph Hig-dustred Monke of Chefter, was the feedid wife to E. thehead King of Northsmoderland, who in regard of her had put from him his former wife, for which his subjects rose in Armes against him, and slew him in the last yeare of King Offa his raigne.

(18) Elfrid the third and yongest daughter of King Offs, and Queene Quendred, being promised in mariage, and affured vnto Ethelbert King of the Eaft Angles, after the murther of her hoped Bridegroom, with great lamentations, and prophelying threats of reuenge, abandoned the fociety of men, and withdrew herfelfe vnto the monastery of Crowland in the

Malmsburg,

Monarch 18.

Monarch 19.

Ezbirt

(bap.31.

Egbert

W.l. M. donbury. | berts eye, whole king not gratious in his own fubiects light, was the ealier to be lubdued; him he chased oter Thamilis, and added not onely that Countie, but also Suffex and Surrey, for Provinces vnto his Owne Kingdome : next were the East-Saxons the East-Angles, and in truthall, both vpon the North, and the South of Humber gaue him obedience; so that the bounds of his Dominion were greatly enlarged, and his royall authority by those seuerall Kings acknowledged.

Egbert the firft

(9) Then hee to confirme his effate called an affembly vnto the City Winchester, where causing him-felfe to bee solemnly crowned, became the first Saxons absolute Monarch of the whole Iland, so reducing the Monarchiall title from the Mercians to the West-Saxons, in whose Progeny it continued with-out renersement until the Danes first got, and againe loft it, and the Saxons iffue failing, the same fell to the Normans Duke by Conquest, as in continuance of our history, Christ assisting, shall be seene.

An.Do. 810.

(10) His Coronation was at Winchester, and en-trance in the yeare of Grace, eight hundred and ninetcene, at which time by his Edict in that City dated, he caused all the South of the Iland to bee calted, he caused an the South of the Inand to be called England, according to the Angles, of whom him telfe came, and promiting great felicity to his State and Successors, was therein not so happy as in his affaires he had beene fortunate.

(11) For those Saxons that by warre and blood, had made themselves Lords of other mens rights, and of one Kingdome no lesse then seuen, are now endangered to bee made feruants vnto fubication, and by warre and bloud their feuen-fold Kingdome brought againe vnto one; neither yet freed from the reuenge of bloodie violence : for that a fierce and cruell nation (the Danes) ceased not continually to inuade them, till they had subdued and fet the crowne thereof vpon their owne heads, who in King Brightrick dayes, and about the yeere seuen hundred eighty seuen, having with three vessels lan-ded in the West of England, at three seuerall times, in fo many seuerall places, sought the ruine of the land in the raigne of this Egbert.

(12) The first was in his thirty third yeare, when with thirty fine hips they landed at Lindafferse vp-on the North of England, where they were met and fought with at Carham, but with fuch loss to the English, that two chiefe Captaines, Dudda and Of mond, two Bithops, Herefrid of Winchester, and Vig-ferd of Shirborne, with many Souldiers were there-in slaine, King Egbert himselfe hardly escaping by the couert of the night. .

(13) Their fecond attempt was in the fecond yeare following, when in West-Wales they landed vnto whom the Britaines there ioyned, and in the place called Hengistenton abode the King in field, where Egbert with prosperous fortune vanquished and slew both the Danes and the Welfh.

(14) The third place of their arrivage was Sheea doe were expelled in the last of King Egberts raign, and but the new beginning of their fauage cruelties. (15) This Eghert by Florentius of worsefter is faid to be the fonne of Alkemund, who was the fonne of Eafa, and he the fonne of Eafa, and he the fonne of Eafa. the brother of Ine, the eleuenth King of the West-Saxons, and both of them the fonnes of Kenred, defcended from Cherdik the first King of that Prouince

he was but low of stature, yet well composed and ftrong of limme, very valiant, wite and politicke, a skilfull fouldier, and as great in mind, as fortunate in warre; he raigned ouer the Weft-Saxons the space Therebeh of thirty fix yeares and seuen monethes, and Monarch of the whole Iland seuenteene: his death hapned the fourth day of February, and yeare of Christs Incar-nation eight hundred thirty fix.

349

(16) His bodie was with all obsequies solemnly buried at Winchester, and his bones since taken vp, remaine with others in that Cities Cathedral Church, bestowed in Chests servpon the Wall of each side the Quier, with these verses neither ancient, nor elegant thereon inscribed:

Hic Rex Egbertus pausat cum Rege Kenulpho, Nobis egregia munera vterque tulit. His wife.

(17) Redburg in the wife of King Egbert, was the furfl of the Web-Sassons, that by their new made law was deprised of title, authority, or place of a Queene; notwithlanding it feement hee bare a great froke with her husband, in that I have Beer with the flow of the work the Monke of Westminster reporteth, that shee pro-cured a law to be made against the Britains, the penalty whereof was present death for any of them to set footing within the realme of England, or to passe the Ditch that King Off a had made.

His Isfac.

(18) Ethelmolfe, the eldest some of King Egbert, and Lady Redburghis wife, was in his childsome, hood committed to the charge of Helmestan Bishop of winchester, under whom hee was carefully tray ned vp in learning and vertue, who comming to mans effact proued also a perfect Souldier, and had the leading of his fathers power against Baldred King of Kent, whom he forced to flie ouer the Thamista, and to abandon his Kingdome, which he subdued to the Subjection of his father, and afterwards succeeded him in the Monarchy of the Englishmen.

(19) Ethelftane, the younger sonne of King Eg-bert, and of the Lady Redburg his wife, was by his father deputed King ouer the Kentishmen, the South-Saxons, and the East-Saxons after hee had brought them vnto his subjection; which people hee most valiantly defended against the invasions of the Danes, defeating their forces both by sea and land, and at Sandwich gaue them a most memorable ouertirow. in the yeare of our Lord eight hundred fifty one, being the fixteenth of his brother King Ethelwelfes raigne; in whose time hee deceased, and is reported to haue left a sonne named Ostride, who by reason of his minority fucceeded not in his fathers dominions, which Ethelbert the fecond sonne of King Ethelwolfe entred vpon, and being Monarch reunited these king-domes inseparably vnto the Monarchy.

(20) Edgith, commonly called Saint Edith the (20) Edgith, commonly called Saint Edith the daughter of King Egbert, was in her childhood by her brother Ethelmself committed to the chargeand bringing up of a Lady in treating, greatly renowmed for her holinefie of life, named Modernies, by whom the was afterwards recommended to a Difciplefie of the faild Lady, named Athe, and made Gouernefie of a Monastery of the Ladies, by her planted in a place which the King her brother had given her, place which are king her protein an guien ner, called Pollefworth fittuated in Art den in the north verge of the County of Warwicke, wherein the liued, died, and was honourably buried, and the place in regard of her afterwards called Saint Ediths of Polle worth,

ETHELWOLFE

EGBERT THE EIGHTEENTH KING OF THE WESTSAXONS, THE NINE.

TEENTH, BVT FIRST SOLE AND ABSO. LVTE MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS ACTS, WIFE, AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER XXXI

An.Do.800

He Saxon Heptarela draw ing now to a period, the pring of an entire Monarchie began to shew it felfe, and the glory of the Englishmen more cleere ly to arife : for though they had weakned each other by their own wars, get flood their power flrong in the possession of the whole, and the ouer-borne Britaines held still at the worst.

(2) But such is the dispose of the sole disposer of Empires, that they have their rifings, their fuls, and their fals: neuer staying in one and the same point, neither entailed to one and the same Nation, how firong, politicke or populous soeuer. The proofe Intong, pointere or populous socuer. I ne proote whereof is apparant in all the Kingdomes of the earth, and this of ours as mutable as any; whose change of State vnco, and in, this fener-faid Gouernment hath hitherto beene seene: the severall Kings thereof long contending to branch their own fountaines furthest and fairest, lastly let them fall into one streame, which so meeting, made a more fa-mous confluence in this Monarchy, then the season head of Nilus in the Egyptian Sea.

(3) Formerly, the Kentifo, South-Saxons, East-Angles, Northumbrians, and the Mercians, through no lessethen eight descents had worne the Emperiall Diademe, whose rayes shone now so bright in the West-Saxons eyes, that they againe sought to reestate themseliues in soglorious a possession. For, whereas Brightrik was possessed and contented with the 18eft-Saxon Crowne, neither that worne without icalousie and feare; yet others of the bloud royall from Cherdik raised the wings of their soaring thoughts much higher, among whom Egbert was one, neither the last nor the least in the opinion of the people, or suspect of his Prince.

(4) This Egbert having commaund of some part of that Province, so carried himselfe, that his fame

w fearefull to Brightrik the King, and hatefull to the enuious Ethelburg his most proud Queenc, by whom he was enforced first to secure himselse with the Mercian Offs; and lastly constrained to flie into France: where vnder Charles the Great, he turned his adversity into an occasion of his valour, by serting in his warres, and learned by his politicke go-tiernment, how to rule a quiet or diffurbed State.

(5) But King Brightriks death acted, and his Queene the contriner banished, Egbert is solicited to the wearing of the West-Saxon crowne, where hee became the eighteenth King in number, and nineteene yeares after the ninetcenth Monarch of the Englishmen; entring his raigne the yeare of Christ lefus, eight hundreth, being the same yeare that Charles was made Emperour of the West, and Conwall then ruling ouer the Scots.

(6) His first warres were against the Cornis, and their affociats the Welfb, both of them a remnant of the old Britaines, who had beene oftentimes vanquished, but neuer would seeme to be subdued, and for foureteene yeares continuance held fide against Egbert; which their refistance so prouoked his furie that hee enacted a most seuere law against them, that the enacted a most feuere law against them, commanding that no Britame should presume to passe ouer great offset disch, and present death to them that durst less too voon any English ground. Their great Carlegian(now Weyferleight) het tooke from them, and at Landam from their West-gase cast. downe the brasen Image of Cadwallo there set up by the Britaines for a terrour to the Saxons, as we have

(7) His warres thus prospering, his puissance grew dreadfull, and his glory much enuied at by the other Princes, whereof Bernulfe of Mercia was the first attempter that sought to plucke the wing of this west-Saxon Eagle, but thereby wrought his owne downefall; for Egbert joyning battaile with him at Ellenden ouerthrew his power, and in that quarrell Chap to let us, Bernulfe was laftly flainc.

(8) Kent was the next, and faireft marke in Eg-

Ethelwolfe,

ETHELVVOLFE THE NINTEENTH KING OF THE WEST-SAXONS, AND

THE TWENTIETH MONARCH OF THE ENG-LISHMEN: HIS WARRES, ACTS, WIVES. AND CHILDREN.

CHAPTER XXXII.

An.Do.837.

of King Egbert, commit-ted in his youth to the care of Heimestan Bishop of Winthester, and by him vnto Swithm a samous learned Monke of that time, tooke fuch a liking vnto the quiet and folita rie life, (onely enioyed by men of Religion, all other degrees molested to withfland the intruding Danes) that he videttooke the Monkish vow and profession, and was made Deacon; shortly after which degree taken, Helmestan di-ed, in whose place Prince Ethelmosse was consecrated, as Roger Houeden affirmeth, or at least elected, (as Iohn Brampton Abbat of Iarnaux writeth) Bishop of Winchester. But the death of his Father King Egbert immediately following, by great intreaty of the Nobles, and partly by constraint of the Clergy, hee was made King, and was by the authority of Pope

Henry Hunting. Mas Westminster

Wil.Malmib.

Gregory the fourth, whose creature in both profession he was, absolued and discharged of his vowes. (2) He entered his Monarchy the fourth day of February in the yeare of Christs Incarnation, eight hundred thirty louen, and was the nineteenth King of the West-Saxons, and the twentieth Monarch of the Englishmen. His Bishopricke he gaue vnto Swithun his Tutor, and according to his place, combined all, his powers to withfland the dangerous Danes, that attempted the vtter subuersion of his faire land; whole fift inualion in his first yeare happened, which drew the Saxons civill warres vnto a constrained peace, having more then they could well doe to defend their lives from their flaughtering swords, or to faue their vniustly gotten land from the spoiles of those common enemies; who, not like Conquerors, but destroying Caterpillers, left nothing undenoured wherefocuer they came, and had now begunne their mercileffe depopulations in diuers places at

Thelwolfe, the eldeft sonne nce, so that the distracted English were to seeke where was most need first to withstand. (3) At Hampton & Portesmenth many of these Norway Pirates had entred; at Hampton with their ouer-throw, at Portesmouth with victory; and the same time at Carrin, a Toupe of the Dans discomfited King Ethelwolfes power. The next year at Mershware, Lindley, in East-Angle, and Kent, they did much mischiete, and harried all the Country before them to the country before them: yet in his tenth yeare at Pedredesmouth, the Sommer fet and Dorfet fbire men gaue them a memofable ouerthrow, vnder the conduct of Earle En-wulfe, Bishop Adelfan, and Ofred their captaines.

(4) But in the fixteenth yeare of this King, the great Planet Mars feemed to prædominate continu-ally, and Firstene to cast the chance of victory ener on his fide: for two hundred and fifty ships, (some reckon a hundred more) entred into Thamesis mouth and fet on shore an infinite number of these destroying Danes. London and Canterbury they had facked and left wast, had pierced into Mercia, and chased Berthulfe their King out of his Country, and now in Southery had pitched their battle, as able and resolute to abide all the power of the English, whither King Ethelwolfe with his sonne prince Ethelbald repaired, and tooke the field at the place called Otley; wherein after a long and fore fight, the victory fell to the English, with such slaughter of these Norway inuaders, as is incredible to report, and the same held as great and famous, as euer had hapned in the land

(5) With the like successe his Brother Athelstan King of Kent, fought with the Danes at Sandwich where chasing them to sea, tooke nine of their fhips; and in Denonshire, Earle Ceorle at Winleshore fo ouerthrew their whole power, that in despaire they withdrew themselves into the lie of Thanet. where they made their abode all the winter feafon; and if deftiny had not withstood the English, the Danes had beene expulsed for euer. But the Saxons wil, Malmf. (9) Osburg, the first wife of King Ethelwolfe, was Simon Dun.

See Chap. to.

feeming cleared of this common enemy, fell to their wonted quarrels with the euer depressed Britaines against whom Burthred the Mercian obtained the affiftance of King Ethelwolfe in his eighteenth yeare, whose daughter Ethelswith hee had obtained in ma-

riage; whereby for a while was encreased the fame and power of that valiant, but vnfortunate King. (6) In this State the affaires of the land stood vnto the nineteenth yeare of King Ethelwolfes raigne, who now remembring his former Ecclefiafticke profession, ordained that Tithes and Lands due to holy Church should bee free from all Tributes or Regall feruices; and in great denotion went himfelfe to Rome, where hee was both honourably received, and entertained the space of a whole yeare; in which time hee new built the English Schoole, that Off a the Mer. cian before had there founded, and lately was fired, bearing the name of Thomas the Hely; confirming also his Grant of Peter pence, and further co-ucnanting in lieu of his kind entertainement to pay yeerely three hundred markes to Rome, thus to bee emploied; one hundred to Saint Peters Church, an other hundred to Saint Pauls Light, and the third to the Pope: the Bride that ever more must be kissed and largely paid.

(2) His returne from Rome was through France, and being a Widower, hee there married Indith the most beautifull daughter of Charles the Bald then Emperour; in honour of whom in his owne Court. he ouer placed her in a Chaire of Estate, with all other maiesticall complements of a Queene, contrary to the law of the West-Saxons for Ethelburgaes offence, formerly made. Which his doing so disliked the Nobles, that Prince Ethelbald his eldest Sonne, Adelstan Bishop of Shirborne, and Empulse Earle of Somer (et.) role vp rebelliously in Armes and sought to depose him, yet by mediation of friends, the matter came to a comprimize, and the land to be divided betwixt the Father and Sonne, but with such partiality that the better part west-ward was allotted to Ethelbald: which vnequality gaue great suspicion, that this re-uolt was rather grounded you ambition, then any inclination they had for the defence of their lawes, which commonly is the pretence and vaile for all disloial attempts of seditions subjects against their foueraigne Lords, (8) Howfoeuer it was, long after this he lived not, but left his Monarchy vnto his eldeft sonne Ethelbald: and by will appointed Ethelbert his fecond, to be King of Kent and Effex, which countries he had conquered. He raigned twenty yeares, one moneth, and nine dayes, and deceased at a place called Stamrige, the thirteenth day of Ianuary, in the yeare of our Lord, eight hundred fifty seauen, being the twenty one of his Raign. His body was first buried at the place of his decease, and afterwards re-moued into the Cathedrall Church at Winchester. His wines.

the daughter of a Nobleman named of lake, who had the office of Great Butler of England, and was descended of the stocke of Stuffe and Withgar two brethren, being nobleme of the people called Inter, who were the first Princes of the Ile of wight, and Nephewesto Cherdik, and cosen germans to Kenrik the first and second Kings of the West-Saxons, and the third and fourth Monarchs of the Englishmen. She was the fecond Kings wife that was debarred of the title and place of Queene. Shee deceased three years before the King her husband, in the mneteenth year of his raigne, being the yeare of Chrifts Natiuty eight hundred fifty fiue.

Indità a second

(10) Indith his second wife, was the daughter of Charles the Emperour, and King of France, as wee haue faid : her Mother was Queene Ermentrude, the daughter of Vodon Earle of Orleance. She was a Lady of passing beauty, and marryed to this King in France; and when the came into England was receiued with the title and place of a Queene, in abolishment of the peruerfe law of the VVeft-Saxons, made agamit the Kings VV ines, as before was touched. She was his wife three yeares, and furnited him without

His I sue.
(11) Ethelbald, the eldest sonne of King Ethelwolfe, and of Lady Osburg his first wife, was brought vp in and some his youth in the exercise of warre, and served vinder his Father in the great victory obtained against the Danes at Ocley in Surrey, in the yeare eight hundred fifty one: afterwards hee turned his force against his Father; and at his returne from Rome, practifed to defeat him of his Kingdome, and was ready to haue giuen him battaile, had not his Father parted with him his Dominion. (12) Ethelbert, the second son of King Ethelwolfe and Lady ofburg his first wife, was in the life time of his Father, after the decease of his vncle Ethelstan, appointed and placed his Successor in his Kingdome ouer the South-Saxons, the Kentift, and the East-Saxons, without any mention or meaning (as it seemeth,) that hee should intermeddle further with any other part of England. Notwithstanding after the death part of Englana. Notwithtatholing after the death of his brother Ethelbald, it was generally holden of all men for law, equity, and reason, that he should succeed him in the Memorchy: and so he did, with the consent of his Brethren, and without relistance, or contradiction of any other. (13) Ethelred the third fonne of King Ethelwolfe, and Lady osburg his first wife, had by the dispo-sition of his Father in his last will, the one halfe of his Fathers proper inheritance; which was all fuch land as King Egbers his Grandfather had before hee was King, and was no part of the Demaines of the Kingdome, and this was divided betwixt him and his brother Elfred, as the kingdome was betweene their elder Brethren Ethelbald and Ethelbert: with an intent that this Ethelred should succeed his brother Ethelbald in the kingdome of the West-Saxons; notwithstanding, his brother Ethelbert, after the decease of King Ethelhald, entred into the other part, adioining it to his former kingdome, and was king of the whole, and after left it entire to this Ethelred who fucceded him in the Monarchy,

(14) Effect, the fourth fome of King Ethelwolfe and of Lady Osburg his first wife, was borne at Wantage in Barkesbire, in the yeare of our Lord God, eight Age in asseptors, in our years of our Lord Good, eight hundred forty nine; and the chitreenth of his fathers raign. Being a child of fiue yeeres old, he was fent very honourably attended to the City of Rome, where Low the forst then Bithoppe confirmed him, was his Godfather at the confirmation, and annointed him to the expectation of a kingdome; growne in yeares, hee grew so in discretion, magnanimity and fauour of all men, that in the fuccessive raignes of his three elder Brethren, he ruled as a Vice-roy or fecondary king under every of them, and after them at the last succeeded in the English Monarchy.

(15) Ethelfwith, the daughter of King Ethe Iwolfe and Lady Osburg, was maried to Burthred the twenand Leavy Osburgwas marred to Dustineattic wenterth King of Mercia, which mariage was folemnized at the towne of Chippinham in willfaire, in the moneth of Aprill, and ye reof Christs Natuity eight hundred thirty fiue, and the fifteenth ofher fathers raigne: but within twenty two years after, they were both forced by the Danes to abandon their kingdom. both forced by the Danes to abandon their kingdom, and departed into Italy, where the King died the fame yeare in the English Colledge at Rome: shee lived after him sisteen yeares in the habite of a Numne, at the City of Padua, and there died, and was honourably buried in the yeare of our Lord God eight hundred eighty nine, which was the eighteenth yeare of her brother King Elfreds raigne, of het oroner King Eyreas raigne, (16) Neach, supposed by Idm Capgraue the Legend writer, to be the sonne of King Ethelwolfe, was in his youth brought up at Glassenbery under Danslan, who was afterward Archbifhop of Canterbury. He proued a man of great learning, and was one of the first Readers of Disinity in the Vniverlity of Oxford, at the QqqI by his owne, and by nupriall rites, brought her to his finfull and inceftuous bed. Which act, though foule enough, some haue made worse, in reporting his Wife to be his owne Mother, whom King Ethelwolfe kept for his Concubine. And furely this his fin was

ETHELBERT

from whom, through fine descents lineally, Mand

Queene of England, Wife to William the Conquerour descended, and from her, all our Norman English Kings vnto this day.

Monarch 2 ?

fpcake.

to their Trench.

of the Danes.

ready spoken, and shall bee occasioned hereafter to

(7) But in the last yeare of this Kings raign, their faging power was most great: for with a new supply two Danish Kings Sreeg, and Halden, entred into West-Saxia, and at Reading the Kings towne intrenched themselues: these forraging the Country, were encountred with at Englefield by Ethelwolfe

Earle of Barkeshire, and his men, who in skirmish slew one of their leaders, and chased the rest backe

(8) These Danes fearing lest delaies would proue dangerous, and knowing that the first successe is commonly seconded with further courage of hope; foure dayes after shewed themselues in field ready to fight: their hoast they divided into two battalians; whereof the one was guided by two of their

Kings and certaine Earles were leaders of the other; which when the English perceived, they also divided theirs, whereof King Ethelred had the leading of the first, and Elfred his brother was Generall of the fecond; the place was A fendon, where their Tenes were pitched, and the day approached for battaile: King Ethelred in his Tent staid to long in praiers that Elfred vpon a forward courage hasted to encounter the enemy, and that with a most sierce and tharpe fight, wherein having spent the most of their strengthes, and ready to decline, and give backe:

Ethelred manfully entred the battaile, and so seconded his brother, and ouer-tyred Souldiers, that hee made way by dint of his fword through the thickest of their almost-conquering enemies, and with such losse of the Danish bloud, drawne from the sides of one of their Kings, fine Earles, and an infinite number of the common Souldiers, that the streames theroffeemed as an ouer-fwelling tide, altogether to couer the face of the field, and is accounted for the noblest victory that the English till then had gotten

(9) Yet were not these Pagans therewith discouraged, but gathering more Arengthes and supplies from other parts; foureteen dayes after, made head againe against the English, and pitching downe their flandards at Bafing, abode the coming of Ethel-red and triall of battaile, wherein fuccesse was altogether altered; for herein the Kings part was dif-

(10) Thus both fides borne vpon rage & hope in their heat of bloud prepare for new fight. The Danes power was augmented with a further supply

fent from beyond Seas, and the English confirmed with hope of successe: These meeting at Merton

(two moneths after the battaile of Bafing) encountred each others both boldly and bloodily; wherein at first the English prevailed, and the Danes were chased; but their numbers the greater, and fresh comfitted, and the Danes the winners of the day.

King; for in his fhort time of Raigne, as Writers record, no leffe then nine let battales against the Danes he fought in one yeare, to the great effusion of Christian bloud, and to no little losse of the Danilb power; for in his raign fell of them one King, nine Earles, and of the common fort without num-(12) He died at Wittingham of his wound received the three and twentieth day of April, in the yeare of our Lord God eight hundred scauenty two, and was buried in the Collegiat Church of Winburne in Dorcetfbire, where remaines his Tombe and his Armes vnto this day, with this Infeription: In hoc lovo quiefeit corpus Santti Ethelredi Regis West-

Saxonum Martyris, qui Anno Domini 872. 23. die Aprilis , per manus Dacorum Paganorum occu-

to be Grandfather to the noble and learned Ethelward, who being Kinsman, Counsellor and Treafurer to King Edgar; wrote an history of his Country, beginning at the first arrivall of the Saxons into England, and continuing vnto his own time: which history he dedicated to his kinswoman, and cusen germane the Lady Mande Abbesse of Panellingshirg in Saxonie, being the daughter of the Emperous Otho, by Edgithhis wife, daughter of King Edward Analysis of the Abbesse, who will be a supported by Edgithhis wife, daughter of King Edward. the elder, and fifter of Etheljiane, and Edmund Kings lands to the Monastery of Abingdon neere Oxford; and to which this some of his hath his name set downe for a witnes; which Charter is yet extant, recorded in a great Legier-booke, and Register of the Euiden-

Thyre, the daughter of King Ethelred, is reported Thyre a daughter by the historics of Ireland to bee married to Gormon King of the Danes, and to have had iffue King Harald King of the Danes, and to naue nau time R. my et arm, which Harald, by Queene Goubild his wife, had iffue, Sweps king of Denmarke, Iringe king of Northumberland, and Gonbild Queene of North-Wales. King Sweps by Queene Sigred his wife, had iffue Couste King of England and Denmarke, Ostryde wife of Duke

His Issue.

His Issue.

Elfred, the eldest sonne of King Ethelred seemeth of England. Ofwald, a young sonne of King Ethelred, is men-tloned in a Charter of his Fathers, by which he gaue ces of the lands, sometime belonging to the said Me-

Welfe, and mother of king sweyn the yonger, and Thyre the first wife of Earle Goodwin of Kent.

Ethelred.

ETHELRED THE TVVO AND TVVENTIETH KING OF THE WEST.

SAXONS, AND THE TWENTY THIRD MO-NARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS ACTS, AND ISS VE.

CHAPTER XXXV.

An,Do.866.

helred, the third fonne of King Ethelwolfe, after the decease of his Brother succeeded him in his Dominions, and was in number the two and twentieth King of the West-Saxons, and the twenty third Monarch of the

Englishmen; he beganne hisraigne in the yeare of our faluation eight hundred fixty and fix, and for the time that hee was King , raigned in continuall warres against the Pagan

Danes, whose numbers now were greater, and foo-ting surer in this land then formerly had beene.

(2) In the first yeare of his raigne, there arrived vpon the English coasts a huge Army of these Danes, whereof Hungar and Hubba, men of incredible ftrength and cruelty, were the Captaines: These wintred in East Anglia, made truce with the inhabitants vpon certaine conditions, and forbare a time from their wonted rauening.

(3) But in the next yeare the King being busied to put backe a fresh inrode of Danes in the South and West of the Iland then entred; these deuourers tooke aduantage vpon the civil broiles commenced among the Northumbrians, who in these turmoiled times fought to withdraw their fubications from the West Saxons, and to set vp Kings againe of their owne. The foresaid Captaines Hungar and Hubba, having in time of their truce strengthned themselues with new supplies of aid, marched further into the North, where finding the people vnprouided of frength and the two Kings Osbright and Ella of reconciled enemies to be made no fure friends, they harried the Country before them, and entring Yorke flew the two Kings, with infinit number of the English; which City they confumed with fire, and burnt therein all those that had fled thither for succour.

(4) The State thus flanding, and their forces encreafing euery day, brought new feares vpon the inhabitants, when every late victory with increase of Captines and rich spoiles, ministred occasion & meanes of some other conquest to follow; which these Pagans so pursued, till lastly they set a substitute King to raigne vnder them, ouer all the North Borders beyond the river Tyne; and so retiring them-selves out of Northumberland into Mercia, came to Nottingham, which City they wanne, and therein wintred the third of King Ethelreds raigne, who with the aid of Burthred the Mercian King, constrained the Danes to sue for peace, and a safe departure, yeelding the City, and againe retyring themselues ouer Tyne, remained in Torke all the next winter.

An.Do.870.

(5) The Summers opportunity approching, their wonted desire for spoile was with it encreased, and to cut off long trauell these Danes by boates passed Humber, where Hungar and Hubba beganne with fire and fword to lay all wast before them, sparing neither Person, sex nor age. The places respected for publike good, and sacred Temples confectated onely to God, which all other Tyrants haue forborne, these sauage men as the earths destroicrs cast downe and trampled under their prophane feere: among which for note were the goodly Monafteries of Bradney, Crowland, Peterborow, Ely, and Huntington, all laid in leuell with the ground, and their Votaries, aswell the Nunnes as the Monkes. murthered with their vnhumane and mercileffe words; to avoid whose barbarous pollutions, the chaft Numes of Coldingham deformed themselves to their lasciuious eyes, by cutting off their upper lips and notes; but to euerlafting remembrance they Flores Hifter. remain most faire, and well befeeming faces of pure

(6) These Pagans piercing further into the land, came into the territories of the East-Angles, wherein holy Edmund raigned King, whose Martyrdome in most cruell manner they wrought, he constantly calling vpon the name of Christ, whereof wee have al-

ELFRED

Hungar and 356

Elfred.

ELFRED THE TVVENTIE THIRD KING OF THE VVEST SAXONS, AND

TWENTIE FOURTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS ACTS, RAIGNE, WIFE AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

An.Do.872

Lfred, or Alfred, the fourth fonne of King Ethelwolfe, though he had beene annointed King at Rome by Pope Lee in his young years & Fathers life time; yet raigned he in no part of his dominions, before the deathes of all his Brethren, vnder whom hee served in most of their warres, assisting them likewise in all their counsels: the land now miserably torne by the cruell incursions of the bloudy Danes, was left vnto him, both to redeeme, and to raigne ouer, by the death and Testament of King Ethelred

(2) Hee beganne his raigne in the yeare of his age twenty two, and of our Lord God eight hundred fenenty two, being crowned in the City of Winchefter, the twenty third King of the West-Saxons, and the twenty foure Monarch of the Englishmen: but of some Historians he is famoused by the stile of the first absolute Monarch.

(3) His raigne beganne with troubles and wars in defence of the land which the Pagan Danes intended to destroy; and though his powers were smal, yet was he forced into the field within one month after his Coronation; the place was Wilton in the County of Wiltstire, on the fouth-banke of the river Wily where the Danes at first gaue backe and fled but feeing the fewnes of their purfuers, reenforced their battle, and got the field, with whom the West-saxons entred league, and compounded for their departure from among them.

(4) These Rouers then with their affociates at Reading, got themselves into London, where they wintred, with whom the Mercians likewise composided for their peace, which proued shortly to be the destruction of their princely bloud; and lastly, the lands subuersion to a forraine nation. For the Malwet. Danes having got footing in the North, the West, and the South of this land, (vnto whose aide many new-come guests from their Easterne countries were arriued, under the leading of other three Kings, Gurthrun, Esketel, and Ammond all together set their griping tallents with such safe hold vpon Mercia, that at Rependenthey constrained Euritmed the King with his Queene Elfwith out of the land, and in his stead placed a King of their owne choise, upon Polythro. 1866.c. a condition to deliuer vp the fame againe vnto them when they would demaund it.

(5) In the fourth yeare of King Elfred their armies divided themselves into two parts, the one of them guided by King Halden, returned into Northum-berland; where hec bestowed that Country among his followers, and therein remained for two yeares continuance, doing much harmes both to the English and Piets. The other part led by the last new-come King, came to Granabridge, whence they wintered and spoiled the Country, and there spreading themselues as Grashoppers upon the face of the earth, eate vp all where they came; fo that King Elfred was enforced to compound for their departure | frion out of his owne kingdome in West-Saxia; to which couenants they promifed and fwore; yet contrary to both, tooke into Deuenshire, and wintred at Exceffer, vnto whom a further supply by sea sought to ioine themselues, but met with such boisterous blafts, that one hundred and twenty of their ships were cast away by tempest at Swannicke vpon our coafts, and their land-army marching towards Excefter, were there welcommed with fo sharpe an encounter by King Elfred, that they gaue him both pledges and oath to depart with all speed. (6) But Fortune euer dallying with them, whom fhee meanes to down-cast, set the chance of losse preMonarch 24.

....

fently vpon the Saxons fide: for now the three Kings Gurthrun, Esketel, and Ammond thought it not good to let Elfred thus rest, and thereupon drew their forces westwards towards him, where at Chipingham(a Mannor of his) they wintred, and compm/smm/a mannor or ms) they wintreu, and com-pelled the Mell-Saxons there, either to yeeld, or to for fake the Country.

(7) King Elfred therefore, with fuch strength as he had, halted towards them, and seventeene miles An.Do.876.

(bap.36 | Elfred

Abington.

from Briftow pitched downe his tents even in the face of the enemy; where betwixt these sierce nations a great battaile was fought, to the infinite loffe of bloud on both fides, and that vpon fuch equall departure, as neither could challenge to bee masters of the field; yet the report went, that King Elfred was discomfited, which turned greatly to his aduantage; for thereupon many of the English hasted to his succour, lest the ouerthrow of him should be the bane of them all; his strengthes thus renued with an vnexpected fupply, no time was detracted to flay the Danish rage, who were now returned fur-ther into the heart of the land, and at Abington by Oxford had pitched their standreds for fight, (8) Thither the English repaired, and the next morning he ordered his Army; neither were the enemics unprepared, but with braues flood ready to receiue the encounter. The battaile ioyned, continued with fuch loffe of bloud, that it is accounted one of the forest that ever betwixt them before had beene fought, and onely parted by the approch of the night, neither party challenging the honor of the day, the loffe being to great vpon both fides. Seuen of these battailes are reported to be fought

Seuen batrailes in that yeare, whereby both their strengthes were much abated, and their spilt bloud so cooled their livers; that lally they concluded vpon a peace; one article was this, that the Danes finula damit no more of their nation to arrive in this I land; but how foone that was broken, the sequels did shew.

(9) For in the yeare eight hundred seuenty fixe, (saith Simon Dunelmensis) Rollo a nobleman of Den-An.Do.876. marke with a great Army entred into England, with no lesse spoile and destruction then other of those Danes before him had done, notwithstanding the truce: with whom King Bifred met, and gaue him fo hoat welcome, that hee liked not greatly his entertainement; and being warned (for footh) in his fleepe that better fortune attended him in France, hee left his countrimen to tugge with the English,

(10) The Danes then accounting the peace to be broken, like Beesfrom the Hiue, infect all the land, infomuch that this vndaunted King Elfred was ofttimes brought to fuch extremities, that he hid himselfe out of fight, and in the Pens & Marsh grounds was forced with such small companies as he had, to line by fishing, fowling, and hunting of wild beafts for his food, having no more of his great Monarchy left him, but Somerset, Hamson, and Wils-shires only, neither yet them free from the incursions of the Danes.

(11) The folitary place of his most residency, was an Iland inclosed with the two rivers Those and Parret, at their meeting in the County of Sommerfet , commonly called Edelingfey, where he in very poore attire disguised, was entertained into a Cowheards house (if not into his service,) where on a time Affer. Spc.Hifto. Ru. Cuen. as he fate by the fire in trimming of his bow and fhafts, a cake of dow baking vpon the hearth before him, chanced to burn; the Cowheardeffe comming in, and seeing him mind more his bow then his bread, in a great fury cast away both his bow and arrowes, and checking him as her Groom, faid, Thou fellow, doest thou see the bread burne before thy face and wilt not turne st? and yet art thou glad to eatest before it bee halfe baked? little suspecting him to be the man that had beene served with more delicate

> (12) But this Prince, the very mirrour of Princes, more minding the wealth of his subjects, then the maiesty of State, disguised himselfe in the habite of a common Minstrell, and in person repaired to the Danes Campe, who lay like Sendtheribs, wallowing in wantonnesse, and secure in their owne Pables, conceit from impeach of danger; which Elfred a most skilfull Musician, and an excellent Poet, did not a little egge on by his fweet musicke, and songs of their valour; so that he was suffered to passe vincontrolled into the company of their Princes, at banquets, or elfe where: whereby he both faw their negligent fecurity, and by diligent observance learned the defigues that in their counsels they entended.

(13) Returning to his comfortlesse company, he told them the condition of the hostile Campe, and how easie it was to recouer againe their decaied e- An. Do. $78 flates : whereupon shewing himselfe to his subjects, vnto whose fight nothing could bee more toyous; on the suddaine set vpon the carelesse Campe of the Danes, and made thereofa very great flaughter, to the great terrour of others in other parts, that had accounted him dead long since.
(14) Hubba, that had harried the English, and now rowzed vpon the newes of King Elfreds victory and life, with thirty three ships sailed from Wales, and arriving in the mouth of Tau, where it falleth into the Senerne Sea, affaied to take there the then-strong Castle called Kinwith, vnto whom the Deuonshire men gaue battle, and slew eight hundred and eighty persons of their retinue; where died the Danish King Hubba, whose corps being there interred vnder a great heape of copped frones, gaue name to the place, and was called Hubblestone. There and then was taken the Danish much esteemed Banner. called Reafan, wherin a Rauen was purtraied wrought in needle-worke, (so Assering Meneuens reporteth) by the three sisters of Hubba and Hungar the daughters of Lothbroke (that is Leather-breach) the Dane In regard whereof, as also for the opinion of good lucke, as they tooke it, it was euer born before them in their wars.

(15) These aduerse proceedings of the Danes defignes, especially falling when the game was neere wonne, made them suspect, how faire societ the ball lay to hand, yet fortune would serue it in the end to their loffe : for Elfred now flocked vnto vpon euery fide, beganne to build fortreffes behind his backe and forward to march with his conquering fword: whereupon the Danes sent to him for Peace, and deliuered him hostages, vpon assurance that they meant as they spake: The conditions were, that their King should receive Baptisme, and the great Army of the Danes quietly to depart out of the land.

(16) Whereupon Gurmound or Gurthrun the Danifb King repaired to the new built Castle of Edelingfey vnto King Elfred, and in the place then called Al-re, was washed in the lauer of Baptisme, whom Elfred received for his God-son by the name of Athelliane, and gaue him in free gift the Country of East-Angles. In the same fountaine of Grace (saith simond Dunelmensis) thirty of the chiefe Danish Nobility were initiated:vpon whom the truly Christian King Elfred bestowed many rich gifts: And that the limites of the English might be free from their incursions, thus the confines of King Elfreds kingdome were laide forth, as we find it in the end of those Lawes that Elfred published, whose words are these: Let the bounds of our Dominion stretch from the river Thamesis, and from thence to the water of Leaguen unto the head of the fame water, and so forth straight unto Bedford: and finally, going along by the river of Oufe, let them end at watling

(17) But so farre were the Danes from performance of couenants, that in this eight yeare of King Elfreds raigne, and the eight hundred feuenty nine after Christ, this Gurmund and his company winte-red at Chipnam in Wilsshire, and a new supply of these Pagans (known by the name of the Wiccingi) wintred at Fulham neere London; yet after voon better adnice, the one went into their assigned circuit, and the

An.Do.879

An.Do.8791

Danes fend for old English

P-37	Edward THE SAXONS	MONARCHS. Monarch 25.
	(6) The truce yet lasting, the Danes in Northumbernes	landwere nothing onier to flow who fo investigate	left the warres to bee continued by her brother he
ruce	King Edwardians a green mount who had a	daughter at the dispose of her vncle, and her body
Eng-	land were nothing quiet, to flay whose irruptions King Ednard lenta great power, who harried the	to be buried at Glocester in the Monastery of S. Pe
	Country before them, and with much liaughter	ter, which her husband and her felfe had formely
	Country before them, and with much flaughter returned victorious. These daliances of Fortune	ter, which her husband and her selfe had formely built.
	made the Danes very desperate, and therefore to stay	(9) The last battaile of this King against these vn fatiate enemies, was in the Country of the raft An they gathered their powers & entred Mercia, where	ales whereof Eduid als D with victory and spoile they raged for a time. But	gles, whereof Edrick the Dane was King; for hee in-
	Edward to aid Ethelred his brother in law, and Earle	tending new warres with the English; lought to in-
	of the Drawing makes It	cite other Danes to his aide, whereof Edward ha- uing intelligence, preuented his purposic, by his so of that Province, mustered his men, and at Wodnef-	ung intelligence, preuented his purpose, by his so field neere wolfrune hampton in Stafford-shire gave the 0.910.	battaile, wherein the English to behaued themselves	Edrick therefore having all in a readineffe, rafhly that the two Pagan-Kings Comilfus & Healthing the	encountred with his enemy, and fought a fierce bat
avelm,	two Earles Vter and Seurfa, belides other Nobles & Commons innumerable they flew: and now the clouds of these distemperatures being driven backe,	taile to the gesat loffe of his Army, and dammage o
nifla inc.	Commons innumerable they flows and	Listing Countries of his Army, and dammage of
unç.	clouds of the fe difference was the last of the	his life; for returning to his Court after so foule a dil
	Vine Film I Manager Co. 1 1	comfiture, became odious to his owne subjects, who
	King Edwards Monarchy ascended the Horizon, and	violently fell vpon him and murdered him; and then the Summe of his power beganne to shine very bright,	felues brought low by citill diffention were thorti-
	therefore he leeking to hold what he had our fer his	made subject to the English King Edward, and tha thoughts to secure his towns with Castles and walles	Kingdome with Mercia, ioined vnto his west-Sax of defence.	ons. And now having raigned in great warres and
	(7) These his proceedings caused him to be both	Language Control of the Control of t beloved and franch burkings cauled him to be both	honour the space of twenty foure yeares deceased a beloued and feared; but his mind still free from any	Faringdon in Barke-shire, the yeare of Christs incarna ambitious pride, as may appeare by the intercourie	tion,924, and was buried in the new-Monastery of betwixt Leolin Prince of Wales and himselfe, wherof	tion,924, and was buried in the new-Monastery of Winchester, which his Father begunne, and himself 497.	Wal, Mapaus maketh mention as followeth. What	wholy finished.
	time biduard the Elder (birly ha) I met Andalina	His Wines.
	Leolin Prince of Wales at Bethelley, intending a Parly,	Carlo and a second of contract and a
- 1	Leolin refuel de seme demons de la Contrata del Contrata de la Contrata de la Contrata del Contrata de	(10) Eguina the first wife of King Edward, was the
ho. King	Leolin refused to come downe, or to crosse the Seucrne:	daughter of a meane Gentleman named Bereher
King	Whereupon Edward tooke boat and entred the river to-	whole eye-pleating teature and alluring beauty made wards him, which when Leolin saw, and knew who shee was, he cast off his rich roahe wherewish he was clad, and	her to be educated aboue the degree of her birth, and was, he cast off his rich roabe wherewish he was clad, and	was brought vp by the nurse of King Edward in ten which hee had prepared for that rotall altembly, and entred	der affection and great efteeme. It chanced Prince
	the river breast-hie, where clasping the boat with an im-	Edward in kindnes came to visite his nurse, where see brace Submissively said: Most wife and sage King, thy	ing the admirable beauty of the Maide, fell fo farre in ration	humility hath our come me in Glance and all	ing the admirable beauty of the Maide tell to farre in
Edwards	humility hath overcome my infolencie, and thy wifedome	loue, that he tooke her to his wife without the con
	triumphed ouer my folly; come, get vpon my necke which	fent or knowledge of his father: In which regard the
	I have (foole as I am) lifted up against thee, fo shalt thou	is reputed by fome Writers rather his Concubine thei enter into that land which the benigne milder hat been del	his Queene, no other cause mouing them but he
1	thine owne this day: and after he had taken him upon his floulders, he would needs have him fit down upon his roi- all roabe, and so putting his hands iointly into his, did him	meane parentage, and secret making and keeping o
	Choulders he would need hour him Ge down moon his vai.	this mariage although there has forme good hid-wi-
1	all rocke and to nutting his hands ininth inca his did him	this mariage, although there bee some good historicand many likely hoods to induce that she was his law
	homage.	full Ousens
1	(0) In the smalfith many of the serious	full Queene.
ting.	(8) In the twelfth yeare of his raigne, as Henry Huntington hath it, Ethelred Earle of Mercia, who had	(11) Elfleda the second wife of King Edward, was
.912.	truntington nath it; Ethetrea Earle of Mercia, who had	the daughter (as Mathew of Westminster reporteth) o an Earle named Ethelhelme, and Asser the Bishop o married Elfleda King Eawards fifter, departed this life,	an Earle named Ethelhelme, and After the Bithop of the having borne him one onely daughter named	Sherborne maketh mention of an Earle in Wiltshire a
	Elfwen, whose trauell in childbirth was so grieuous,	mong the West-Saxons of the same name, who was iflike	that euer after the forbare the nuptiall imbracements	in great fattour with King Flored, the father of this
ike.	of her husband, alleadging that it was an ouer foolish	in great fauour with King Elfred, the father of this King, by whom hee was sent Ambassador to carry his Almost Control of Control of Carry pleafure, which brought with it fo great paines; and	his Almes to Stephen the fixt, of that name Bithop of thereupon changing the wonted affection of her fexe from the bed vnto battaile, gouerned Mercia eight yeares after her husbands deceale, as another	Rome, in rhe yeare of our Lord 887 and by all proba
	lexe from the bed vnto Dattaile, gouerned Mercia	ble conference of name, time, and place, hee feemet
	eight yeares after her husbands deceale, as another	1 to bee the man that was tather to this Oncone
	Zenobia, and did not a little all lither brother in his l	(12) Edgina, the third wife of King Edward, was the daughter and heire of Earle Sigeline Lord of Me.
	warres: for the Welfb she pursued as farre at Brek-	the daughter and heire of Earle Sizeline Lord of Me
	noke, which she tooke with their Queene: from the	apham, Culings, and Leanham in Kent, who was there Danes thee wonne the Connty of Darby, and affaul-	flaine in battaile against the Danes, Anno 92" She neth k Darby	ting the towne vpon them, put her selfe in great dan-	was married ones Vine F Loudshard Comment
k Darby	tingthe towne vpon them, put her lene ingreat dails	was married vnto King Edward about the fourteenth ger, for enterprising to enter the Gate, shee was re-	yeare of his raigne, being the yeare of Grace, 916
	fifted by whole multitudes of Danes; notwithstan-	She was his wife ten yeares, and after his death the ding,the pertitled,& got entrance, in which encoun-	liued a widdow all the times of the raignes of King
	ter many died, and foure of her chiefe men of war,	Ethelstan her sonne in law, of King Edmund, and being Warders of her person-euen fast by her side	King Edred her owne sonnes, of King Edry her Grand-child, and was living in the Raigne of King were flaine.	Grand-child and was living in the Raigne of King
	The Danes in Yorkesbire the constrained to bee! at	Edward an oak on a Charlet and a bildren along the charlet
	Landanies in Torkejone inc Communication to occur	Edward another of her Grand-children, almost fortion yeares after the death of her husband. It is writ o her deuotion, so that some of them became her sub-	yeares after the death of her husband. It is writ o iects, some vowed to attend in her aide, and some	her that in the yeare of Grace,959. Shee offered he promifed to be prest at her dispose. Her policie in	lands and euidences to Christ vpon his Altar at Can warre proued euer the furest; her counsell of State	terbury. She decealed the twenty hit of August in the was regarded with the wifest, and her prouidence in	fourth yeare of the faid King Edgar, and of Christ building, and repairing Cities for the weale-publick,	963.
	or fortifying places for munition of warre exceeded others which the consended were Cl. A	His Children.
vanne.	others: which shee extended vpon Chester, Tam- worth, Lichfield, Stafford, Warwicke, Shrewsbury, Wed-	(13) Ethelftan, the eldeft sonne of King Edward was by her.	worth, Lichjield, Stafford, Warwicke, Shrewsbury, Wed-	and the Lady Eguina, was borne and growne to good yeers in the time of the raigne of his Grandfathe
-,	desbury, Eadsbury, Finborow, Rimcorne, Erimsbery-	yeeres in the time of the raigne of his Grandfathe
	Bridge and others.	King Elfred, who with his owne hands gave him the
	This renowned Lady gining place vnto Nature,	order of Knighthood, after a very honourable man
	7 0 01	nc
	·	1. 1. 11.

261

Polyder.

Adrick his do

The time of King Edward raigns. His death and Juriall,

Egain#4

Prince Einderd

Elfede

Stephen the fixt wo Kings her

E belftan the

Edgina_e

atrieth Sguir

(bap.37 | Edward

The Dan breske to wash the lash.

An.Do

Wil,Mapa

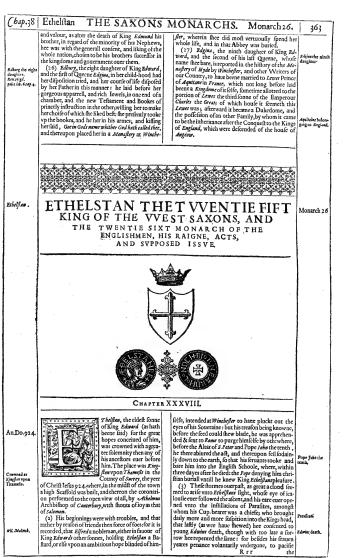

His admir of King E

Hen Huve An.Do.

Elficia dif

She winn

and before his fathere dearh; and was buried in the before his fathere dearh; and was buried in the before his fathere dearh; and was buried in the father of Queene Elfded his fector of Wife, followed the example of her elder fifter Elfded might for the part of the part great oblewer of fisch things, bath left in writing with property shade up you ham a Papire, and fairn. He was the Society of the fisch of the state	362			ESSION.	SOF	Monarch 2	5. Book.
who reported, hash pen vyon him a Purple Robe, and ger thin with a girdle wought with pearls, and a Sease found in a teabard of gold, hanging at the fame. He was the Sucception of his Pather in the High-Sassen dominions, and the English Memarky. Sassen dominions and the English Memarky. S	rit. Malmab.	ner of creation, as William the Monke of Malmsbury, a	1	yond-fea, because	he was brou	ght vp here in Englan	d of his marings, was allowed to beech the first Dules of the service from the action of 900, hasping as the fame. However the Succeifor of his Father in the 199/1-100 cannot be the service of the servic		who reporteth that he put you him a Purple R obe		WITH HIS VIKICK	Ing Ethelitan:	and Gillet Ducheffer	vE1 that Country. This Queen furured King Closer's fam. Leavasted Societies of his Pather in the Biff- Jacons dominious, and the Zapilija Manardy. Jacons dominious, and the Lapilija Manardy. Jacons distinct to bee crowned King, and to fit with in- Jacons distinct to bee crowned King, and to fit with in- Jacons distinct, deceding horty after the recards and and the complex of position of the Country of the Jacons of		land girt him with a girdle wrought with pearle and		of his marriage.	was allowed to	Dane: who in regar	d l
(14) Elfred, the fecond fonne of King Edward and the moderate of the floory of English, to have been loused of his Fatherabous alls to other historic, that he caused in the in his borne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowned lifetime, decenting floorly after his creation, and have hendered the flooring of the floory after his creation, and his work of the flooring and the lady and the flooring of the floo		a Saxon tword in a leabard of gold, hanging at the		that Country, T	his Oucene	furnined King Charle	1
(14) Elfred, the fecond fonne of King Edward and the moderate of the floory of English, to have been loused of his Fatherabous alls to other historic, that he caused in the in his borne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowne lifetime to obse crowned King, and to fit with in his sowned lifetime, decenting floorly after his creation, and have hendered the flooring of the floory after his creation, and his work of the flooring and the lady and the flooring of the floo		Lanc. The was the Succellor of his Father in the Well-		her Husband; ar	nd afterwards	was remaried to He
the Lady Beans, is warranted by the edimony of the common control		Saxons dominions, and the English Monarchy.	1
the story of 1944, to hand been loued of his Fathers bound in some lifetime to the crowned king, and to fit with own elifetime to be crowned king, and to fit with own elifetime to be crowned king, and to fit with own elifetime to be crowned with a first which a first was borned and and the first with a first was borned and long before his finter level and hand and been before his finter level and hand been been showned to 1944. (15) Edital (whom the Senifol Writers call #seniform with the senifol Writers and the Lady flam #seniform with the senifol Writers and the Lady flam #seniform with the senifol Writers and the Lady flam #seniform with the senifol Writers and the care and hand yet with the senifol Writers and the care and hand yet with the seniform with the senifol Writers and the fourth of Queene Effects was maried to High with the seniform with the senifol Writers and the fourth of Queene Effects was maried to High with the seniform with the senifol Writers and the fourth of Queene Effects was maried to High with the seniform with the sen		the Lady Equina, is warranted by the reftiment of	1	age was taken for	io great an in	dignity, because Farl	e defined.
boue all his other children, than he caused him in his base of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-his database with him in his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-his database his him in his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-his database his him in his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-him him his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-him him his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-him him his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-him him his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-him him his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-him him his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-him him his Gest of Eltate, as his Parmer in the King-him him his Gest of King Estate and the Lady rive; the daughter of King Estate his the Lady and the him of the Control of National Him his Gest of King Estate his the Lady and the him his Kingdome. Wherefore the forst him his Kingdome. Wherefore the forst him his Kingdome. Wherefore the forst his parmer his him keeper of grace 19; Within one yeers after the maringe, her husband docaded, and his forms Gestfrailing of the town of the King Estate his look did, and was interred, and both hondry and Body afterwards was removed from the more vitor Pallyriant. (10) Elfours, the third fon of King Estater, & King of Frasee, and fisher of King Estater, & King of Frasee, and fisher of King Estater, and the fifth of Queen Elfours, was the first wife of the King of Gest parker, ever lithence vitor the him and to apply the him him his death might be imputed to the king and the fifth of Queen Elfours in the work pallow. (10) Elfours, the third fon of King Estater, his king of Frasee, and fisher of King Estater, and the fifth of Queen Elfours in the work pallow. The first him his death might be imputed to the was a support of the pallow of the him and to apply the defined with the first him the king of the first him the king of the first him the king of the first him the work of the King Estater, and the fifth of Queen Elfours in the work of the king a		the story of Hyde, to have been loued of his Father a.		King her Husban	ratner to this	Earle, had cauled th	e committed the root of thrait cathody of Queene displaced in the control of the co		boue all his other children, that he caused him in his	1	her fonne prefent	ly purfited b	rnon, that King Lem	4
and in this cert of Eletze, as his Parmer in the King- men that the state of the control of the control of the certain and and beginner of the certain and the		Owne litetime to bee crowned King, and to fit with	1	committed ner to	othe itrait cu	itody of Ouccue Ger	. i
a finall time, deceasing shortly after his creation, and long before his finether death; and was buried until New Monathry at principle; which as ferrowards was remoucted to Hyde. (15) Edital (without the Statify Writers call Late and Hydronic and Hyd	rowned King	nim in his Seat of Estate, as his Partner in the King-		berge his wite: 10	as shee had n	o recourse vnto him bog betore his takters death; and was buried mich New Monattery at winekeiter, which afterwards was remouced to yiele. (15) Zelinia (whom the Seatifi Writers call Zetter Prier' the daughter of King Zelinard and the Lady Employer. With Common was maried to Sylinick, the Lanifi King of Nertimberland, in the firit yeer of the rapper of the Prother King Zelindard, being the Lanifi King of Nertimberland, in the firit yeer of the rapper of the Prother King Zelindard, being the Lanifi King of Nertimberland, in the firit yeer of the rapper of the Prother King Zelindard, being the Country, obtained of the Prother Ring Lelindard, which was sometime the head Tow of our Lord 21. Elizaden. (21) Zelinia, the fifth daughter of King Zelinard, which was formed the Corat, barle of Paris, Grand-maller and Collection of Collectine Challeng of Pariser, in the Yeer of our Lord 21. Elizaden. (21) Zelinia, the fifth daughter of King Zelinard, which was formed the Country of Single Langer, progenitors with principle and the Corat of Ning Ingle Capt. Prother to English the Cond Wife, was bronged the found that the Kingdome: but preferred ye pon his fathers decade, he decided himself in the infectored of Englands his cond with the Single Corner, proceeding the Single in the Kingdome: but preferred ye pon his fathers decade, he decided himself in soft participation, and in one place with him in the New Monatery of Single in the Kingdome: but preferred ye pon his fathers decade, he decided himself in the operated himself in the opyta, and was buried at one time, and in one place with him in the New Monatery of Single Andread with the Single Corner, proceeding the Single Corner, proce	me,	a (mall time, deceasing thousand the his manifest and		nor mue by nim,
See Montalety at Promotile Seasify Writers call Zeater Montalety at Parabeliar, which as terror was a season of the Seasify Writers call Zeater Montalety of Writing, and Decame a Nume in the Monaletry of Writing, and Decame and Nume in the Monaletry of Writing, and Decame and Nume in the Monaletry of Writing, and Decame and Nume in the Monaletry of Writing, and Decame and Nume in the Monaletry of Writing, and Decame and Nume in the Monaletry of Writing, and Decame and Nume in the Monaletry of Writing, and Decame and Nume in the Monaletry of Writing of Parabel of Numerical Call Call Cantal Season in the County of Writing, and Decame and Decam		long before his fathers death and was buried in the	1	(20) Ethelhild,	the fourth	daughter of King Ed	- Ethelfild the remote to tyste. (15) Zalisa (whom the Scatifu Writers call Zettrie's the daughter of King Zalisa and the Landy England State Pries' the daughter of King Zalisa and the Landy England State Pries' the daughter of King Zalisa and the Landy England State Pries' the daughter of King Zalisa and the Landy England State Pries' the daughter of King Zalisa and the Landy England State Pries' the daughter of King Zalisa and the Landy England State Pries' the Country of Strukter King Zield January and the Corat Para, Grand-maler and Control of Carent England State Pries' the Country of Strukter King Zield January and the Corat Para, Grand-maler and Control of Carent England State Pries' the Country of Strukters, and the Corat Para, Grand-maler and Control of Carent Para, Grand-maler and Control of Carent England State Interest the Country of Strukters' the England State Pries' the Country of Strukters' the Country of Strukter		New Monastery at winchester, which afterwards was	1	Wife followed the	ard of Quee	ne Elfleda his iccond	Tourth daugh
Eguma, with great honour was maried to Sylvink; her believes the control of the raigne of her brother King Ethelflam, being the year of grace 915. Whith one year eafer her mariage, her husband decaded, and his forme Guldfyrdiuc ecoded him in his Kingdome. Wherefore the formation of the production of the production of the single conded him in his Kingdome. Wherefore the formation of the production of the p		remoued to Hyde.	ĺ	and became a Nu	inne in the	Monaftery of Wilson	5
Eguma, with great honour was maried to Sylvink; her believes the control of the raigne of her brother King Ethelflam, being the year of grace 915. Whith one year eafer her mariage, her husband decaded, and his forme Guldfyrdiuc ecoded him in his Kingdome. Wherefore the formation of the production of the production of the single conded him in his Kingdome. Wherefore the formation of the production of the p	bibe the firft	(15) Editha (whom the Scotish Writers call Bea-		which was fometing	me the head	Towne gining name	2
Damph King of Northumberland, in the firit yeers of the raigne of the trother King Eddings, being the yeer of grace 915. Within one yeers after he main age, her huband doctacked, and his form condityris discocked him in his Kingdome. Wherefore the fordation of the product of the whole the decided and his form condityris discocked him in his Kingdome. Wherefore the fordation of the product of the condition of th	ughter.	trice) the daughter of King Edward and the Lady		to the whole Coul	nty of Weltfbir	e,and antiently called	1
the raigne of her brother King Ethelflame, being the year of grace 9 15. Within one year east fear her maring, her husband decaded, and has fome Gushfriduc exceeded him in his Kingdome. Wherefore the fortaking that Country, obtained of her brothersgift, the Candidaction of the work of the history of the process of the process of the process of the found in his Kingdome. Wherefore the fortaking that Country, obtained of her brothersgift, the Candidaction of the work of the history and Body afferwards was removed from thence van being of the work, where the began a Monaltery of Nunnes, and therein liked dicked and was interred, and both the Monaltery and Body afferwards was removed from thence van being of the king of France, and the process of the Rings of the Work, Bonne to Dealer, William Arch. Billiop of France, and the process of the Rings of the brother history, brother to Ender King of France, and the process of the Rings of France, and the process of the Rings of France, and the process of the Rings of the Work, Bonne of Rabert, Brother to Ender King of France, and the process of the Rings of France, the year of our Lord of Condidated the France, in the year of Online and the Path of the Work of Hamilton and the Path of the Work	iai. oripennyis ilidor
special specia		the raigne of her brother King Etheldens being sha	1	(21) Edhild, t	he fifth daug	hter of King Edward	Edhild the fife
in the County obtained of the brothersgift, the county obtained of the brothersgift, the county obtained of the brothersgift, the county of furmide, where the began at Monatlery of Nunnes, and therein lived dicked and was intered, and both the Monatlery and Body afterwards was remoude from thence van Pallywarh. (16) Elfward, the third fion of King Edward, 8 the first of Queen Elidad his fecond wife, was bornas in termeth, about the beginning of his Fathers raigne. He was carefully brought by in the fluoty of Liberall Arts, and in all other princely qualities, to that it was expected to floud than the inceeded his Father in the Kingdome: but preferrly you his fathers decade, in was a carefully brought by in the fluoty of Liberall Arts, and in all other princely qualities, to that it was expected to floud than the inceeded his father in the Kingdome: but preferrly you his fathers decade, in was a carefully brought by in the fluoty of Liberall Arts, and in all other princely qualities, to that it was expected to floud than the inceeded his feather in the Kingdome: but preferrly you his fathers decade, in was a carefully brought to the count of Queene Elidad his feather in the Kingdome: but preferrly you his fathers decade, in was a consequent of the was a brief at the all fills. Ladder, Duke of Swarf, and the first of the the fills of Ladders, was the first of the first of the same in the first of Carear Duke of Large, and the first of the Ladders, and the first of the the fills and the first of the the count of Queene Elidad his fore ond Wife, was briefed the fills of the count of Queene Elidad his fore ond Wife, was briefed the fills of the count of Queene Elidad his fore ond Wife, was briefed the good from the County of Ladders, was taken and the first of the procurers of his brother death, fending great thanks count Earle that build be falled or Ones on milk of Pathers was briefed to the count of Queene Elidad his fored body in the lead of the county of Ladders, the conflict, and the procurers of his brother		vecre of grace o I s. Within one vecre after her mari-
Standard Country, obtained of her brother gift, the Callell of Tramment's, in the Country of Harmides, which are strongly and the country of the callel of Tramment's, in the Country of Harmides, and therein and the eggan and marker productives, and the the callel of Tramment's, in the Country of Harmides, and the called before him without any tiftee by all feelings and make removed from thence variety and Body afterward, and the first of Queen Elifeth's level was born as it feemeth about the beginning of his Fathers right, and the fifth of Queen Elifeth's level and the fifth of Queen Elifeth's level of the him of the productive and the fifth of Queen Elifeth's level of the limited the indicate the first of the productive and the fifth of Queen Elifeth's level of the impact of the wasters whence the young Prince ouercome with the first policy by the first of the productive and the fifth of the productive that the first policy by the productive and the fifth of the Drother Sing Extent and the Sin		age, her husband deceased, and his sonne Guthfrid fire-
Caffell of Tammerids, in the Country of Harmites, where the begans almostley of Numers and therein lived died, and was interred, and both the Monaftery and Body afterwards was remoused from thence vano Pallefysiath. Seed the third of the Harmites of the		tecucumin in his Kingdome. Vy herefore the toria-		being the third of	her brother K	ing Ethelderectoions where the began at Monthley of Number, and the second the light dided, and was intered, and both the Monthley and Body afterwards was remoued from thence vino Pallefysisth. (16) Elfward, the third fon of King Edward, & the fifth of Queene Effectals his focond wife, was born as it feemeth, about the beginning of his Fathers raigne, He was carefully brought by in the fluid of Libertall Arts, and in all other princely qualities; to that it was expected the floud than effected of the fluid has discoceded his father in the Kingdome: but preferrly you his fathers decade, he deceded himself in a object, and the fifth of Queene Effects of States, in the fluid of the second of Cares of the fluid of the second of the cond of Cares of the fluid of the product of the fluid of the product of the fluid of the product of the fluid of the f		king that Country, obtained of her brothersgift, the lined died, and was interred, and book the Monatlery and Body afterwards was remoused from thence very the process of the device of the process of the proce	il,	Caltell of Tamworth, in the County of Warwicke,		range, and	a tather of Ki	Ng Hugh Cabet, progr.	.1
and Body atterwards was removed from thence vails Feligible with ward, the third ofto of King Edward, 8 cm. (16) Elfward, the third ofto of King Edward, 8 cm. (16) Elfward, the third ofto of King Edward, 8 cm. He was carefully brought by in the floyd of Liberall Artz, and in all other princely qualities fo that it was expected the floud of has increased his frather in the Kingdome: but preferrely you has fathers decade, 1 cm. Elfward the flood of the flood of the flower		lived died and was interred and bosh she Manager
Fall jurn! Fall		and Body afterwards was removed from thence ware		him	before him	without any issue by the first of Queen Effects in Second wife, was bornas in the first of Queen Effects in Second wife, was bornas in the first of Queen Effects in Second wife, was been such as the second wife, and the first of Queen Effects in Second wife, and the first of Queen Effects in Second wife, and the first of Queen Effects in the Guest of Second Wife, was should be first of Queen Effects of Second Wife, was should be first of Queen Effects in the Guest of Second Wife, was should be first of Queen Effects of Second Wife, was should be first of Queen Effects of Second Wife, was should be first of Queen Effects of Second Wife, was should be first of Queen Effects of Second Wife, was should be first of Second Wife, was should be second with the		Polle/worth.		THIII.
the first of Queen Elledah ins fecond wife, was bornas, it is emethy about the beginning of his Enthers raigne. He was carefully brought vp in the fludy of Liberall Arts, and in all other principly qualities, of that it was expected in flouid have incereded his Father in the Kingdome - burperfeined valuations of the transport of the Kingdome - burperfeined vp vp on his fathers decealed his Father in the Kingdome - burperfeined vp vp on his fathers decealed the father in the Kingdome - burperfeined vp vp on his father was buried at one time, and in one place with father was buried, and his brother kindlight of the food of General Elledah is feed with father was buried, and his profession of the food of General Elledah is feed on with the county of the father was buried, and his profession of the food of General Elledah is feed might be imputed to the wastes : whence the young Prince ouercome with griefs, and not able to matter his owner passions, atl himselficheddion ginto the fee, and his dead body prince and honourably buried to make the same passions, atl himselficheddion ginto the fee, and his dead body prince and honourably buried to make the same passions, atl himselficheddion ginto the fee, and his dead body prince and honourably buried to make the same passions, atl himselficheddion ginto the fee, and his dead body prince and honourably buried to make the same passions, atl himselficheddion ginto the fee, and his dead body prince and honourably buried to make the same passions, and honourably buried in the Monaltery of Saint Berint, in the Towner of 3. Dimers. Which take was much lamented by King Esthelfam, who precuoutly performed to the same passions of the same passions, and honourably buried in the Monaltery of Saint Berint, in the Towner of 3. Dimers. White has been a prince of note and account, worthy of h	ومتنادمناه أدممت	(16) Elsward, the third fon of King Edward &		and the fifth of O	neene Elflede	was the first mile - i	Edgith the fixt
He was carefully brought vp in the fludy of Liberall Arts and nall other was a content of the standard of the	MAN CONTRACT	the hrit of Queen Effleda his fecond wife, was born as		orno the nrit, inrn	amed the Gre	at Emperous of the	. 1
expected he flouid haue fusceeded his Father in the Kingdome - but preficitly you his faither adecase, he decased himself in oxford, and was buried at one that the state of the first of the first of the state of the first of t		Heemeth, about the beginning of his Fathers raigne.		West, sonne to the	Emperor He	pry furnamed the Fal-
expected he flouid haue fusceeded his Father in the Kingdome - but preficitly you his faither adecase, he decased himself in oxford, and was buried at one that the state of the first of the first of the state of the first of t		Arts and in all other princely qualities to the in		coner. By him the	had iffue Zua	lolfe, Duke of Swabe,
Ringstome: Dut predently youn his lathers deceded, he would in the cyfer of Christ in cyfer and may be predently you his lathers deceded himself in 16 cyfer, and may be predently as the few and the first of the predently and the first of the predently and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the product at the few and the first of the few and the few		expected he should have succeeded his Father in the	- 1
ne deceded himslich in Osførs/and was buried at one he deceded himslich in New Monaftery at Principle in Interview with him in the New Monaftery at Principle in Interview in the interview in th		Kingdome: but prejently voon his fathers decease 1	- 1	Quedlingburg in San	v anie in wh	ich Ctrie fla deser C	1.
inter at water the control of pace with man in the New Monas of the pace of Control feeling 24. (7) Zhimo, the fourth four of King Zhimot, and his first of the brother King Zhedraitgine in England the feecond of Queene Effeld his fixe about 12. (8) Zhimot, the fourth four of King Zhimot, and his brother Zhido'ing when his father was buried, and his brother Zhido'ing when his father was brothed, and his brother Zhido'ing when his father was brothed, and his brother Zhido'ing when his father was brothed and the first fold founded in the father and the frield had founded in the father of Change accompanying him, that his death might be improved to the water: whence the young Prince and accompanying him, that his death might be improved to the water: whence the young Prince and him to be princed in the Monastery of Saint and the first of Pades and the first of Greene Effeld his faced body bring driven upon the coals of Flanders, was taken and lamented by King Ethellan, who spreached the search of the procurers of his brother death, fending great thanks to the Earlet the Juried Balan, his food the procurers of his brother death, fending great thanks to the Earlet the Juried Balan, his food the procurers of his brother death, fending great thanks to the Earlet the Juried Balan, his food the procurers of his brother death, fending great thanks to the Earlet the Juried Balan, his food the procurers of his brother death, fending great thanks to the Earlet the Juried Balan, his food the procurers of his brother benefit of the procurers of his broth		he decealed himlelte in Oxford, and was buried at one	- 1	the feuen and twen	ty of August.	n the veere of Christe	1
(17) Edinine, the fourth foune of King Edinine, for the found of General Edide his fector Wife, was very young when his father was buried, and his brother Reddining the King Ata his facility was very young when his father was buried, and his brother Reddining the King Ata his facility was very young when his father was buried, and his brother Reddining the King Ata his facility was very young when his father was bounced the Crowne, he cauded him to be puttino all title Planted Foundation and the Counce of the Counce, he cauded him to be puttino all title Planted Foundation and the Counce of the Co	ried at Winche.		- 1	Nativity 947.thee	leuenth of h	er husbands Empire	l
and the fecond of Queene Effeds his fecond Wife, was the fact that the first of the		(17) Edmine the fourth forms of Vine 11 1	- 1				l
was very young when his facher was buried, and his brother Ethelit are convened. Notwithfalming a deep telofic polificing the Kingshat his title was too never the Crowne, he caufed him to be putton on little Pinnelle, without either Tackle or Ozeres, one only page accompanying hims, that is death might be imputed to the wants: whence the young Prince ouercome with girle, and not able too matter his owner passions, cut himself he headlong into the fee, and his dead body for the property of the Sams, in the Property of Saint Prope	wise the	and the fecond of Oueene Elfleda his fecond Wife	-1				ł brother Biblisher Crowne, he conversible for the profession of the Right and the State of Cares, on and the fixint of Copene Elifable his fector of Wife, was the first of Counce, he caused him to be put into a little Pinnelle, without either Tacke or Cares, one only page accompanying him, that his death might be imputed to the waters: whence the young Prince ouercome with griefe, and notable to malter his owne passions, and in the first of Palaukers, was taken and honourably burnel in the Monatlery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of Balaukers, was taken and honourably burnel in the Monatlery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of Balaukers, was taken and honourably burnel in the Monatlery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of Balaukers, in Conference, and honourably burnel in the Monatlery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of Sames. Which fast was much lamented by King Ethellan, whopereuously punished the fuggetions of his owne isoles, and the procurers of his brothers deathfaching great thanks to the Earleiths burded him, and rich prefents to the Monatlery which encombed him, and to appead the phot to this ismocrate borther, built the Abby of Malaukers in the County of Durfet. All the Balaukers of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elifach in the County of Durfet. All the Balaukers of Saint Balaurs, and the high of County of Durfet. All the Balaukers of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elifach in the County of Durfet. All the Balaukers of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elifach burded the single through the saint between the saint Balaurs of the Balaurs of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elifach in the County of Durfet. All the Balaurs of Saint Balaurs of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elifach burded the Saint Balaurs of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elifach burded the Saint Balaurs of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elifach burded to the saint Balaurs of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elifach burded to the saint Balaurs of Saint Balaurs, and the first of Queene Elif	Malmf.	was very young when his father was buried, and his		Citie.	ner iene Dad	tounded in the fame	1
selotic policising the Kingshath is title was soo neere the Crowne, he caided him to be putton on altice Pinnelle, without either Tackle or Cares, one only page accompanying him, that is death might be imputed to the wants: whence the young Pinne ouercome with griefe, and notable to matter his owner passions, call himself: he addong into the fee, and his dead body for the same in difference with griefe, and notable to matter his owner passions, call himself: he add on girt on the Coantey of Saint Property of Sa		brother Ethelstane crowned. Notwithstanding a deep	- 1		enench danot	ster of Vina Time.
incligation teither Tackle or Cares, one only page accompanying him, that lied eath might be imputed to the waters: whence the young Prince outcrome with grief, and notable to maker his owner passions, calk himselfs heedlong into the fear, and his dead body in the factor of the control of the control of the merce, who honourably brief to maker his owner passions, calk himselfs heedlong into the fear, and his dead body his dead heedlong driven you have coasts of Faladers, was taken and honourably burief of the control of the fall from marriage with a Duke of Italy bount the Albert, who is not named of our Writing the fall from the control of the fall from marriage with a Duke of Italy bount the Albert, who is no to named of our Writing the fall from the control of the fall from marriage with a Duke of Italy bount the Albert, which is no no named of our Writing the fall from the control of Duke f. (18) Ellifact, the fector dampther of King Edward, and the fall of the first of Queene Ellifact his fector of the fall of the first of Queene Ellifact his fector of the fall of the first of Queene Ellifact his fector of the fall of the first of Queene Ellifact his fector of the fall of the first of Queene fall of the first of Queene fall of the fall of the first of Queene fall of the first of the first of Queene fall of the fir	0	telolie policising the King that his title was too neere	- 1	and the fixth of Qn	icene Elfleda f	is fecond Wife was	Elgina the fe-
accompanying him, that his death might be imputed to the waters : whence the young Prince outerome with griefe, and not able to malter his owne passions, and here, in some day here the with his owne day here the horizontal and the programment of the red of life to his ledder hands of the horizontal to the beautiful promised the day here, and honourably buried in the Monastery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of Samers, in Monastery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of Samers, his General programment and honourably buried in the Monastery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of S. Jomers, Whit fast was much lamented by King Ethellan, who greenoutly punished the függefitions of his owne-cisolic, and the procurers of his brothers death, fending great thanks to the Earlet the Duried thin, and rich prefens to the Monastery which enrombed him, and to appeade the Photo this innocent borton-try built the Abby of Maltalow in the County of Duriet. All below the termination of the procurers of his brothers day below the termination of the market of the three thanks to the Earlet the Duried General Prince of the world salaution 91. and this fall the termination of the more thanks the expect of age, was the first of Queene Elifeda his fecond Wife, and the first of Queene Elifeda his fecond Wife, and the first of Queene Elifeda his fecond Wife, and the first of Queene Elifeda his fecond Wife, and the formation of the procurers of the process of the		ne Crowne, ne cauled him to be put into a little Pin-	- 1	by ming etheuran n	ter brother.	with her lifter Eaith	aviida daugus
to the waries: whence the young Prince ouercome with girefe, and notable to malter his owner passions, call himselfe headlong into the fea, and his dead body in the fed of the feature of the control of the feature of		accompanying him that his death might be impresed	- 1	TOTAL COURTOR	t the Empero	Leenry the first King	1
with gurie, and notable to malter his owne passions, call himselfe headlong into the fea, and his dead body being driven upon the coalts of Flauders, was taken and honousubly buried in the Monattery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of Balanes, his octon-fearmane, and honousubly buried in the Monattery of Saint Bertin, in the Towne of S. Joness. With fact was much lamented by King Ethelfan, who sprecuously punished the függeditons of his owne cislote, and the procurers of his brothers death, fending great thanks to the Earlieths: buried him, and rich prefents to the Monattery which encombed him, and to appead the Photo of his innocent borton-the, built the Abby of Madelson in the Councy of Durfet. Make The Councy of Durfet. State the first of Queene Ethela his fecond Wife, and the proclemand vow of Virginity, in the Monattery, the was the first of Numer, and the Proclemand vow of Virginity, in the Monattery of English, the fector was the third whole time of the distribution of the Council and Devis Purior. The data the first of the Council and the Virginity in the Monattery, the was the first of Numer, and the first of Queene Ethela his fecond Wife, and the whole time of the distribution of the proclemant of the procl	ļ	to the wates : whence the young Prince ouercome					1
being driven yoon the coads of Feludors, was taken and hold of Madely E. Earl of Bediuse, his coffeen germane, and honourably buried in the Monathery of Saine and the Bediuse, his coffeen germane, and honourably buried in the Monathery of Saine and the Bediuse, his coffeen germane, and honourably buried in the Monathery of Saine and the Bediuse, his coffeen germane, and honourably buried in the Monathery of Saine and the Bediuse, his coffeen germane, and honourably buried in the Monathery of Saine and the first of Queene Edgiuse, his conference of the Bediuse, his conference of the	- 1	with griefe, and not able to malter his owne passions		and after he had me	aried borold	is owne daughters;	١.
being driften y pont faccoais of Estanders, was taken and compared the production of	- 1	cast himselfe headlong into the sea, and his dead body	- 1	fonne, he placed he	ralfoin mar	riage with a Duke of
Bertin, in the Towne of 8.2 mers. Which fact was much lamented by king flexifilar, we have been a Prince of noce and account, worthy of her procurers of his brother death, effecting or the horizonters of his brother death, effecting to the Monattery which encomed thim, and rich above of Monattery which encomed thim, and or appeted the thot of this innocen brother builted hobby of Madatowin the County of Data fl. (18) Elifact, the fixend daughter of King Edward, and the first of Queene Elifact his from took vpon her the profession and vow of Virginity, in the Monattery her than the first of Queene Elifact his from the County of Control the Prince of the Windows of the County of Control the Prince of the Windows of the County of Control the Prince of the Windows of the County of Control the Windows of the Windows of the County of Control the Windows of the W		DCINE GRIGER VDOR the coalts of Flanders was rabon I	- 1	Italy obout the Alpe	s, who is no	named of our Wri-
Bertin, in the Towne of 8.2 mers. Which fact was much lamented by king flexifilar, we have been a Prince of noce and account, worthy of her procurers of his brother death, effecting or the horizonters of his brother death, effecting to the Monattery which encomed thim, and rich above of Monattery which encomed thim, and or appeted the thot of this innocen brother builted hobby of Madatowin the County of Data fl. (18) Elifact, the fixend daughter of King Edward, and the first of Queene Elifact his from took vpon her the profession and vow of Virginity, in the Monattery her than the first of Queene Elifact his from the County of Standing, financed vpon the King Edward, and the County of Standing his throught the program of the profession and vow of Virginity, in the Monattery, the was the condition of the county of Standing his principle decation connected of him in the life of his brother King Elifact his from the county of Standing his principle decation on the county of Standing his principle decation on the profession and vow of Virginity, in the Monattery, the was the condition of the condition of the condition of the profession and vow of Virginity, in the Monattery his standing the profession and vow of Virginity, in the Monattery his standing by the careful provision of his morths of the program of the profession and vow of Virginity, in the Monattery his standing his profession and the condition of the	ders.	vp by Adulphe, Earle of Boloine, his colon-germane,	-1.	ters, but may eafily	be coniectur	ed by the honoura-
much iamented oy king Ethellan, whogreeuoully punished the fuggetions of his own eichoic, and the procurers of his brothers death, fending great thanks to the Earle that. Duried him, and rich prefents to the Monaltery which encombed him, and to appead the Endot of his innocent borther, built the Abby of Maderon in the County of Duriet. Monaltery which encombed him, and to appead the Endot of his innocent borther, built the Abby of Maderon in the Wornton the County of Duriet. Matthe first of Queene Effled his fecond Wife, and the first of Queene Effled his fecond Wife, and the proficionand vow of Virginity, in the Monaltery of Atamyles, fittuated you have known to the proficion and vow of Virginity, in the Monaltery have been and the proficion and vow of Virginity, in the Monaltery, the was the first of Normal Abby burnet. Many of Atamyles, fittuated you have known the first of County of Duriet. Many of Atamyles, fittuated you have known the first of Queene Effled his feed of him in the life of his brother King Etherd, and the feed of Queene Effled his feed of him in the life of his brother King Etherd, and the feed of Queene Effled his feed of him in the life of his brother King Etherd, and the feed of Queene Effled his feed of him in the life of his brother King Etherd, and the feed of Queene Effled his feed of him in the life of his brother King Etherd, and the feed of Queene Effled his feed of him in the life of his brother King Etherd, and the feed of him in the life of his brother King Etherd, and the first of his work of his more of king Etherd, and the first of Queene Effled his hind with a life of his brother King Etherd, and the first of Queene Effled his hind with all principle decision on the concerned of him in the life of his brother King Etherd, and the first of the kingdom of England her boy her was a first a large with the first of his brother King Etherd, and the first of the kingdom of England her boy her kingdom of England her boy her kingdom of England her was a first a large with the fi	- 1	Bertin, in the Towns of S. Omers, Which S.O.	- 1	or disposition of t	ne maker of	the match, to have ponilised the taggettons of his owne ice lofe, and the procurers of his brother scaleth, ferting great thanks to the Earle that buried him, and arich prefents to the Monadtery which entombed him, and on appeale the Monadtery which entombed him, and on appeale the Both of his innocent brother, built the Abbey of Madaleton in the County of Darfet. (18) Elifeda, the ice ond daughter of King Edward, all the first of Queene Elifeda his fecond Wife, entered into the orders of Religion, and took eyon her the profession and vow of Virgainty, in the Monadtery of Eamle, finance of Virgainty, in the Monadtery of Eamle, for the Monadtery of Eamle, finance of Virgainty, in the Monadtery of Eamle, finance of Virgainty, in the Monadtery of Eamle, finance of Virgainty, and the fecond of Queene Elifeda his fecond Wife of Control to the Monadtery of Eamle, for Control to Control to the Monadtery of Eamle, for Control to Control to the Monadtery of Eamle, for Control to	1	much lamented by King Ethellan who green on the I	- 13	ocen a Prince of no	ote and acco	unt, worthy of her
be the shad of the state of the	- 1	punished the juggettions of his owne jelofic, and the	-1'	(2.4) Edmund als	e e e e e e e e e e e e e e e e e e e	CICIO - 1
to the Larie thir. Duried him, and rich prefents to the Monadrey which entombed him, and to appeale the Monadrey which entombed him, and to appeale the Bott of his innocent brother, built the Abbey of Madaleon in the Councy of Darlet. (18) Elfleda, the lecond daughter of King Edward, the data his learness and the control of Darlet. (18) Elfleda, the lecond Wife, entered into the orders of Religion, and took eyon her the profession and vow of Virgainty, inthe Monadrey of Eamlet, from the Monadrey of Eamlet, financed whom he learned flome experience of first whole time of the Tipe Which was there from an encied, and her body in the faid Abbey buried. The third who is the standard of the profession and wow of Virgainty, in this Monadrey of Eamlet, the third wife, and the whole time of the Tipe Which was there for many the word of Queene Elfleda his fecond Wife to Charlet shet hind, furnamed the Simple King of France, on to King Lear the brother of thaths, Queene of England before mediand, furnamed the Simple King of France, on the Larvi the Idea, furnamed Zechola and the Simple King of France, on the Sing Lear the brother of thaths, Queene of England before mediand, the Condition of the Condition of the Simple King of France, on the Sing Lear the Brother of the Condition of Condition of the Simple King of France, on the Sing Lear the Brother of the Brother of the Sing Lear the Brother of the	1	procurers of his brothers death; fending great thanks	١,	he first of Oucene E	doing his thir	d and laft Wife was	Edmund the fift!
whole of his innocent brother. Journal of Depterment of the Councy of Depterment of the Councy of Depterment of Councy of Depterment of Councy of Depterment of Councy of Depterment of Councy of Co	1	to the Earle that buried him, and rich prefents to the	- 11	porne in the twentie	th veere of h	stathereraione he.	IOEBIC.
states in the County of Darfe. The dataghters, the first of Queene Effect his fectord Wife, entered into the orders of Religion, and took eyon her the County of Darfe, in the Monality of Eamify, financed you not Nignity, and took eyon her the County of Saudiers, financed you not Rivery of Eamify, financed you not Rivery of Eamify, financed you not have the whole time of the life of Part and ended, and her body in the find Abberg buried. The state of the Saudiers and elate, inflowed the Eamify the was first a Nunne, and afterward Abbeffe during the whole time of the life, which was there fore not edd, and her body in the find Abberg buried. The state of the Saudiers and elate, inflowed the King Edward, and the fectord of Queene Effect his fectord Wife (1) Edward, be first home of Ning Edward, and the fectord of Queene Effect his fectord Wife (2) Edward, the Wish was the food of Queene Effect his fectord Wife (2) Edward, the was not long before the death of his father, who left him a little infaint in the couldn't of his mother, by whom he was carefully before the death of his father, who left him a little infaint in the couldn't of his mother, by whom he was carefully before the death of his father, who left him a little infaint in the couldn't of his mother, by whom he was carefully before the death of his father, who left him a little infaint in the couldn't of his mother, by whom he was carefully before the death of his father, who left him a little infaint in the couldn't of him mother, by whom he was carefully before the death of his father, who left him a little infaint in the couldn't of him mother, by whom he was carefully before the death of his father, who left him a little infaint in the couldn't of him mother, by whom he was carefully before the death of his father, who left him a little infaint in the couldn't of him mother, by whom he was carefully before the death of him to him the little him him the		Monattery which entombed him, and to appeale the	- [1	ng the yeere of the	worldsfalua	tion of randarhie
(18). Eilleda, theickeond daughter of King Edward, and their first of Queene Eilfledah in Second Wife, which is the short of the proofit on and wow the shift of Locard Eilfledah in Second Wife, which was the first of Locard Eilfledah in Second Wife, which was the first of Locard Composition and wow of Virginia, the Monality of Eamify, financed vponor Ring Edward, and the Composition and wow of Virginia, the Monality of Eamify, financed vponor Ring Edward, and the Composition of the Monality of Edward, financed Edward In the Composition of the Composition of the Second Wife to Manager and the Composition of the Second Composition of the Monality		detar in the County of Day Gu	- 12	atners death little n	nore then thr	ee veeres of age was l
standing metros recipion, and tooke you have the profession and your of Virginity, in the Monalery of Ramife, financed you fine Monalery of Ramife, financed you fine Monalery of Ramife, financed you find the Monalery of Ramife, financed you find the Monalery of Ramife, financed of Course of Ramife, financed of Course of Ramife, financed of Course Effect his fecond Wife of Wife Room Wife to Construct between Charles the Monaler of Ramife, Counder Of Course of Ramife, financed the Simple King of France, on to King Lawrich brother of Lands, Course of Englands before mentioned. She had iffur by him Lawrich tested, furnamed Re-	-	(18) Elleds, the fecond daughter of King Toward	- 11	norwithitanding by	the carefull r	rouilion of his mo.	Three yeere old
standing metros recipion, and tooke you have the profession and your of Virginity, in the Monalery of Ramife, financed you fine Monalery of Ramife, financed you fine Monalery of Ramife, financed you find the Monalery of Ramife, financed you find the Monalery of Ramife, financed of Course of Ramife, financed of Course of Ramife, financed of Course Effect his fecond Wife of Wife Room Wife to Construct between Charles the Monaler of Ramife, Counder Of Course of Ramife, financed the Simple King of France, on to King Lawrich brother of Lands, Course of Englands before mentioned. She had iffur by him Lawrich tested, furnamed Re-	ede the fe-	and the first of Queene Elfleda his second Wife en-	1:	nier, brought vp wi	ith all princel	y education conue-	death.
So the state of th	o cassinci,	tred into the orders of Religion, and tooke you her	1	renerally a great o	mucitate, in	omuch as there was
So the state of th		the profession and vow of Virginity, in the Mona-	10	onceined of him in	the life of his	brother King Felol.
first a Nume, and astreward habeffe during the whole time of her life, which was there from and to iced, and her body in the field Abbeffe for grant and the cond of Queen. Essential in Econd Wife, and the fecond of Queen. Essential in Econd Wife, was the fecond Wife Construct between the Simple King of France, Son to King. It manuscut her Simple King of France, Son to King are the brother of industry, Queen the Simple King of France, Son to King are the brother of industry, Queen the Simple King of France, Son to King and the Simple King of France, Son to King and the Simple King of France, Son to King and the Simple King of France, Son to King and the Simple King of France, Son to King and the Simple King of France, Son to King and the Simple King of France, Son to King and Simple Kingdom of France assume that the Cond of Queen essential the Cond of Queen e	ney Mona-		U	ran, vnder whom he	e learned ion	te experience of fer. I
whole time of her lift, which was there fpent and en- ded, and her body in the find Abbey burted. """ the third hate. "" the third hate. """ the third ha			15	nce in warre, and a	fter whom h	ee fucceeded in the
we the third and the fecond of Queene Effects his fecond Wife, was the fecond of Contents the third, furnamed the Simple King of France, Conto King Leavish the Simple King of France, Conto King Leavish the Simple King of France, Conto King Leavish the Simple King of France, Conto King Leavish the Simple King of Conto King Conto King of Conto King Conto	1	whole time of her life, which was there from and on . I	11	linguome of Englan	nd.
(149) Eguma, the third daughter of King Edurad, and the feecond of Queene Effetch in Scoond Wife, was the feecond Wife to Charles the third, furnamed the Simple, King of France, into King Lears the brother of Indiah, Queene of Englands before mentioned. She had iffue by him Learns the third, furnamed Ee-	- 1		1.	he fecond of Co	xtn ionne of	King Edward, and	Edred the fixe and the econd Wife to Charles be thind, furnamed the Simple, King of France, On to King Lears the broad the Simple, King of France, On to King Lears the brother of Lanks, Queene of Englands before mentioned. She had iffue by him Lears the thord, furnamed Ze-	the third		1	oungest sonne of r	hem both	me horne change	······································· the Simple, King of Finest, Gon to King Learthe brother of Indials, Queene of England before mentioned. She had iffue by him Learthe that, furnamed Ze-	hter.		10	wo and twentieth	yeere of his f	athers raione and I death of his father, who left him a little infinit in the culture by him Lewis the third, furnamed Be-			1)	tere or grace 92 1.	which was i	10t long before the l
She had iffue by him Lewis the third, furnamed Be-			10	learn of his father, v	who lett him :	Alittle infant in the
Ty and product at time of to great vertile A good Frince.	- 1.	She had iffue by him Lewis the third, furnamed a	10	ultody of his moth	ier, by whor	n hee was carefully and		,,	10	nought vp, and pro	oued a Princ		A good Prince.
			_			and (

Antef: King of Heller Boetius.

went; for it is recorded, that as Elfred the English had attempted to know the State of the Danes: fo this Dane at this place did to understand the English: for disguising himselfe like a Harper, hee went from Tent to Tent, and had accesse even into King Ethelflans presence, vntill hee had learned what he most defired, and then returned againe to his Campe, which part of his was no bolder, or more wifely performed, then was kept fecret, and after reuealed by a most faithfull fouldier: for Anlase departed & free from pursuit, this Souldier made the act known to King Ethelftan: who being fore displeased with his enemies escape, imputed the fault vnto him the reucaler: but he replying, made him this answere:

I once ferued Anlasc (said he) under his pay for a souldier, and gave him the same faith that I doe now with fents to King

Empire; to that his dominion was the same the greateft with all formine Princes, who fought his friendfhip both with loue and alliance, by matching France here. with his lifters, and presenting him with rich and rare presents; for Hugh King of France besides other vneftimable Iewels; fent him the fword of Constantine the Great, in the hilt whereof (all concred with gold) was one of the nailes that fastned Christ to his Croffe: he fent likewise the speare of Charles the Great, reputed to be the same that pierced Christs the Great, reputed to be the same that pierced Christs naile of the fide, as also part of the Crosse whereon hee suffered Crosse can be considered. his passion, and a pecce of the thorny Crowne wher- England. with his bleffed Temples were begoared, and with these came the Banner of S. Maurice so often spread by Charles the Great in his Christian warres against the Saracens: And from Othe the Emperour, who had married his fifter, was fent a veffell of pretious frones artificially made, wherein were feene Lanskips with vines corne, and men, all of them feeming fo naturally to moue, as if they had growne and re-tuned life: And the King of Norway fent him a goodly thippe with a guilt sterne, purple failes, and (bap.39. Edmund THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch 27.

Helinford. the decke garnished all with gold. S. Swithern Abbe

(13) Of these accounted holy reliques King Etheiftan gaue part vnto the Abbey of S. Swithen in Winchester, and the rest to the Monastery of Malmesbury, whereof Adelme was the founder, and his Tutelar Saint, in honour of whom he bestowed great immunities vpon the towne, and large endowments vpon the Abbey; hee new built the monasteries of Wilton, Michelnesse, and Midleton, founded Saint Germans in Cormval, Saint Petrocus at Bodman, the Priory of Pilton, new walled and beutified the City of Exceter, and enriched enery famous Abbey in the land, either with new buildings, Iewels, Books, or Reuenewes.

Isha Stow.

King Athethans

44.821.

Edmund.

(14) As also hee did certaine Cities with the Mintage of his money, whereof in London were eight houses, at Winchester fixe, at Lewis two, at Hastings two, in Hampton two, in Warham two, in Chichefter one, in Rochester three, two for the King, and one for the Bishop; at Canterbury seuen; foure for himfelfe, two for the Archbishop, and one for the Abbat, although it appeareth the Archbishop had his before the raigne of this King. For among these ancient Saxon-Coines, we find one of Ceolnothus, who fate there Archbishop in the yeare 831, which both for the antiquity & authority of truth wee haue here

(15) This Prince King Ethelftan was of an indifferent stature, not much exceeding the common fort | vestues. of men, chearefull in countenance, his haire verie yellow, and somewhat stooped forward as he went, for valour inuincible, in refolution conflant, and for his currefie beloued of all, he raigned in great honour the space of fifteene yearesand odde monethes, and deceased in the City of Glowcester, vpon wednesday the feuenteenth of October, and was buried at Malmerbury the yeere of Christs Nativity:940. having

neuer had wife mentioned in our hiftories.

His spepefed I suc.

(16) Leonest, the supposed daughter of King Ethelftan, is reported by John Rouse and Papulvick, wriPapulvick, wriPapulvick, writers of the miltrufted flory of Guy of Warwicke to bee married vnto Reynburn Earle of Warwicke, and sonne to the same guy, whose remembrance and reputation is preferued & kept with no leffe renowne among the common people, for the liberty of England faued by his victory in fingle combate against Colbrand the Dane, then was Horatius the Romane for the preferuatio of Rome, whose historic I wil leaue for others to enlarge that have more leafure & bettet invention.

EDMVND THE TVVENTIE SIXTH KING OF THE WEST-SAXONS, AND

TWENTIE SEVENTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN: HIS RAIGNE, ACTS, DEATH, WIFE AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

An.Do.940

THE STREET SEE SEE Downd the fifth fonne of King Edward, borne vnto him by Queene Edgina his third and last wife, at the age of nineteen yeeres fucceeded his brother King Ethelstan in his kingdome, and Monarchy: hee began EREREEEEEEEEEEEEEEE his raigne the yeare of the worlds faluation 040 and with great folemnity was crowned at Kinelton vpon Thamelis, in the filth yeare of Otherhe first Emperour of that name, and his brother in law; his valour had often beene tried in the warres of King Ethelstan against those stout and flurdy enemics the Danes, Scotifb, Irifb, and Welfbmen, that often had affaied to difturbe his peace.

(2) Athelftan deceased, and the crowne scarse for wilmate; vpon King Edmunds head, but that the Danes in Northumberland, difliking fubication, called again Anlafe out of I reland to be their King; who now in the

Monarch 27

Wil Malmf.

(3) The next yeare of his raigne, the faid Anlase (whom some hold to have beenethe King of Norway) being dead, an other Anlafe, sonne to King Sithriek, of whom we have spoken, intruded vpon the Kingdom of Northumberland. These heads, as Hidras, springing vp each after others, drew King Edmundagaine into the North, who raging like a prouoked Lion, fubdued, as he went, those townes where the Danes kept, and got from them Lincolne, Leicester, Darbie, Stafford, and Nottingham, comhis Subjectes; fo that the Country was wholy his vnto Humber. These his proceedings caused Anlase which Humber. I neve his proceedings caused Aniaje and Reinold the fornes of the Danish Garmo, subduers of Torke, to yeeld themselues wholy to his deutoion, offering him subjection, and withall to receive the Christian faith; for performance wherof, they like-wife received Baptisme, vnto whom King Edmund was Godfather, to Reinold at his Confirmation, and to Aniase at the Font: but how soone they fell from An.Do.944 and fealty thus promifed, they fitted the Northumbrians to another rebellion, yet with no better fucceffe then defert; for they were forced into a perpetuall exile, and King Edmund adjoined that Coun-

HULLanbert.

(4) Cumberland also, which seldome was quiet. hauing beene a Kingdome entire of it selfe, and now aided by Leolin King of Southwales, he vtterly wasted: and apprehending the two sonnes of Dunmaile King of that Province commanded the eyes of those of uer-bold Princes to be puld out, and gaue their inheritance to Malcolme King of Scots, to hold the same by fealty from him. Thus by power and policie clearing those coasts whence the sharpest stormes had continually blowne, hee returned into the South, and there fet himfelfe to ordaine lawes for the good of his people, the which, left time the confumer of al things might chance to obliterate, were by the labours of the learned Lambert translated into Larine, and imprinted in the years 1768. next, to fhew his loue to God, and bounty to his Church, he gave the towne of Saint Edmondsbury with the liber-

try to his owne gouernment, without the admittance of any Secondary or Vice-roy to rule there vnder ties thereof, wholy to that Marryr, and to the Monks that lived in feruing at his Altars. (5) But as each thing hath his (pring, growth, & decay; fo all mentheir dates, howfocuer eminent in degree,& the shank of their Compas so set in a center that the Circle of their lines are oftentime abrupt, before it be drawn to the full round: for so with others, we may fee in this Monarch, who being fafely returned from many great dangers of war, at peace in his Pallace,came to a lamentable & vnexpected end: for at his Manor of Pucle-kerkes in the County of Marienes. Gloucester, whiles hee interposed himselfe betweene his Sewer and one Leone to parta fray, was, with a thrust through the body, wounded to death the twenty fixt of May, in the yeare of our faluation 946. when hee had prosperously raigned the space of fine yeares and seven moneths, and his body, with no leffe forrow then folemnity, was buried at Glasenbu-

His Wife.

(6) Elfgine, the onely wife of King Edmund, hath not her parents declared (for ought I find) by any ofour Writers : but this is affirmed, that shee was married vnto him in the first yeare of his raigne, which was the yeare of Grace,940, and that she was his wife foure yeeres & vpward, after whose slaugh-ter she remained a mournfull widdow all the rest of her life, which she spent with so great vertue and opinion of the people, as by the writers of that age fhee is commended to posterity by the name of a Hit Isu.

(7) Edmy, the eldest ionne of King Edmund, and Queene Elfgine his wife, was borne in the second yeare of his fathers raigne Anno 942. When his father died, hee was but foure yeeres of age, and in respect of his minority was not permitted to succeed him in the Kingdome, but forced to giue place to his vncle Edred, vnder whom he liued nine yeares; and in the tenth, his vncle being dead, and himfelfe then growne to the age of thirteene, was admitted to the fuccession of the Monarchy.

(8) Edgar the second some of King Edmund, and Edgar. of Queen Elfgine, was borne in the third yeare of his fathers raigne, the yeere of Christ Iesus 943, and was but three yeeres old when his Father died not withstanding, he proued afterward a Prince of great expe-dation, and in the second yeare of King Edny his brothers raigne, being then but foureteene yeeres of age, he was chosen King by the Mercians and North age, ne was chosen Aing by the nersians and Northumbrians, both which people he gouerned under the title of King of Nersia, for the space of two yeeres befor his brothers death, and then succeeded him in the whole Monarchie,

EDRED

Chap.40. Edred THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch 28. EDRED THE TVVENTIE SEVENTH KING OF THE VVEST-SAX-Edred. Monarch 28 ONS, AND TWENTIE EIGHTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS ACTS. RAIGNE, AND ISSVE CHAPTER XL. Dred, the fixth sonne of ricus King in his stead (4) Edred awaked with the wasts that they made King Edward, borne vnto An.Do.946 prepared a journey into those parts, where with fire and sword hee bare downeall before him; and him by Queene Edgina his third and last wife, at albeit he was a man religiously bent, yet spared he the age of twenty three veeres fucceeded his bronorthe Abbey of Rippon from flames, but laid all ther King Edmund in the vnto after as he went, the enemy not daring to fnew nonage of his children in the face. In his returne suspecting no perill, sud-dainely an hoast brake out of Yorke, and fell vpon al his dominions, and was the Rere-ward of his Army, marching but carelefly, Some Date. the twenty feuenth King of the West-Saxons, and the twentie eight Monarch and broken out of their array, whereby many peri-fhed before any complete order of reliftance could of the Englishmen. He began his raigne in the yeere of Mans saluation 946. and was annointed, and be made. The King feeing this bold attempt of these Rebels, stroke downe his standard, turning his crowned at Kinglon vpon Thames in the County of Surrey vpon Suday the feuenteenth day of August by the hands of Otho Archbishop of Canterbury. face againe to the North, and threatened the reuenge, with the Countries spoile and their lines. (2) His Coronation robes fearfly put off; news was brought him that the Northumbrians had re-(5) In this plot of sedition wolftan Archbishop of Yorke had sowne some seed of treason, both in the uolted and firred a dangerous infurrection not withassistance of action, and counsell for the enterprise, standing the Coucnants that his brother Edmund very ill beseeming a man of his ranke: this Wo'fe therfore having thus awaked the Lion from rest, was had made with Malcolme King of the Scots to secure the onely man that fell in his pawes; for the Nor-thumbrians expulsing their statelesse Hericus with subthe same. Therfore lest delaies might proue dangerous, with a great Army hee entred into the verge of Scotland without fight of enemy, or any missiue teares and golden showers, so pacified the refiltance. But peace being concluded betwixt E-dred, Malcolme and the Northumbrians; yea and the King, that their offences were therewith cleane wafhed away: but hee good man (a Saint at the leaft) fame confirmed ftrongly by oath, yet was it little rewas mued up in prison (against whom accusations garded of the last named lurers; for no sooner was daily came, and namely, that he had commaunded fundry of the Burgesses of Thetford to bee slaine) Edred returned, but that they fent into Ireland for Anlafe, the sonne of Gurmo the Dane, who had been where hee abode till he was by Edred vpon a reueexpelled the Country as we have faid. rent regard of his calling, released from thence; for (3) Anlafe gathering a fleete and forces accordingly, came into Northumberland, where he was as this King is commended for his lenity towards the vertuous; so is he no lesse for his instice towards wit, Malms. the virious, and for the practife of his Religion, as with great joy received and made their King, which title hee maintained for foure yeeres continuance, banding against Edred, and still holding him play, till forward as any, suffering not onely his manners to be reproued and corrected, (a quality truely roiall, lastly the Northumbrians disloiall to both, took their and best beseeming Princes) but also (so much below feather out of Anlafe his plume, and lent him pack. the pitch of soueraigne Maiesty) his body to bee chastised at the will and direction of Dunstan Abbot ing to the place, whence he came, electing one He-SIL

of Glafenbury; vnto whose custody, he also committed the greatest part of his treasure and richest iewels to be lockt in his chefts, and under the keyes of this Monastery.

(6) The stately Abbey of Mich at Abington neere Oxford built by King Inas, but deftroyed by the Danes, he newly repaired, indowing it with lands & faire reuenewes, and confirmed the Charters with feales of gold: hee also ordained Saint Germans in Cornwal to be a Bishops See, which there continued till by Canatus it was annexed to the Episcopall See of Kyrton in Denon, both which Sees were afterward by King Edward the Confessor translated to the City of Exceller: but fith the brightest day hath his night, and the highest tide his present cobe, what maruaile is it, if then Edred in the middeft of his strength were seazed vpon by sicknesse and death, which furprifed him after hee had raigned in great honour nine yeeres and odde moneths, to the great gricfe of his Subjects, who folemnly interred him in the old Minster within the City of Winchester, the yeere of Christ Iesus 955, whose bones with other Kings, to this day are preserved in a guilt Coffer, fixed vpon the wall in the south side of the Quier. His 18uc.

(7) Elfred, the fonne of King Edred, was borne Elfred. before his Father was King; neither find I mention of his Mother, or any act by him done; onely in the fixt yeare of King Edred his raigne, which was the to his Fathers graunt of lands in Wittenham, to Ethelwolfea Duke of England in those daies, as appeareth by the Charter thereof, bearing date in the yeere a-

(8) Bertfrid an other, and as it feemeth an elder zenfrid. fonne of King Edred, was borne before his father was King, withour any mention also of his Mother, who liuing in the second yeare of his fathers raigne, namely Anno, 948, was written for a witnesse in the fame years, to his grant of lands in Bedlaking, to Cuthred one of his Barons, the Charter whereof is extant to bee feene vnto this day.

for his ouer-bold reprehenitons; if not rather for retaining the treasure delinered him by King Edred, and demaunded againe in his sicknesse; when by I'il.Malmb. the voice (forfooth) of an Angell from heauen, his iourney was flaid, and those rich Iewels not delinered the King in his life; I will not fay kept backe, left Dunftan with Balaam (whose stories are nor much vnlike) should beethought to follow (as he did) the wages of deceit.

Abbet Dunften.

lader, er

Edgar.

(3) Howfoeuer, the reuerent opinion of the Monks fingle life, and the conceiued holines of Abbot Dunifan in those misty times, did daily counterpoize young Edwy in effective, which made his best acts construed, and recorded to the worst, insomuch that his Subjects minds, ebbing as the Sea from the full, drew backe the current of their fubicetine affections, and fet the eye of obedience youn Prince Fd. gar his Brother: and albeit his young yeeres may feeme to cleare him from the imputation of fo luftful a fact, as he is charged with, at the day of his affuming the Crowne; and the separation from his wife, (as too neere in confanguinity) wrought griefe enough in his diftreffed heart, yet pittilesse of his co ftate, and carcleffe of their owne allegiance, the Mercrans with the Northumbrians did veterly cast off obedience, and sweare their fealty to Edgar, not fully foureteeneyeers aged: Eding then raigning in a fell 1 Christie. decaying effect, was held of luch his tubicits, in no better effeeme, then was Iekoram of Indeh, . ho is faid to have lined without being defired; for very griefe whereof after foure yeares raigne hee ended his life, the yeare of our Lord 959; whose body was buried in the Church of the new Abbey of Hide at 19 inchester, erected without the Wail in the North of that City.

His Wife.

(4) Elfgine, the wife of King Edwy, was a Lady of great beauty, and nobly descended, yea, and by some deemed somewhat too neare in the bloud rotall, to bee matched with him in spoulall bed : her fathers' name is not recorded, but her mother was Ethelpine. whom some scandalized to have been his Concubine, and the onely causer of Dunstans banishment. The tubiects difliking of this vnlawfull marriage, & further infligned by the Monkes, (whose banco Joseppen rous pleasures, or displeasures could very much fway the state in those daies,) failed by degrees to performe their duties to their King, and her they likewise enforced to a separation, in the third yeere of his regardleffe gouernment, and of Christ Lifes, 958, without other mention of her life or death.

Monarch 30

EDVVY THE TVVENTIE EIGHTH KING OF THE WEST-SAXONS, AND

TWENTIE NINTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN: HIS RAIGNE, ACTS. AND DEATH.

CHAPTER XLI.

An.Do.ors

Edwyes finne

Edwy.

STREET STREET Day, the cideft fonne of King Edmund, after the deccale of his vncle Edred, succeeded him in his dominions, and was the twentie eighth King of the Well-Saxons, and the twentie ninth Monarch of the BEERE BESS Englishmen: he began his raigne in the yeare of the worlds faluation, 955, and was annointed & crowned at Kingflon vpon Thame-fis, by the hands of Otho the 22. Archbilhop of Can-

(2) Yong hee was in yeares, and vitious of life, if the Monkish Story-writers of those times his deadly enemies may be credited, not past thir-

teene when he entred gouernment, and that begun with a capitall finne: for they report, that vpon the folemne day of his Coronarion, and infight of his Nobles, as they fare in Counfell, with shamelesse and vnprincelike lust, he abused a Lady of great estate. & his neere kinfwoman, whose husband shortly after he slew, the more freely to possesse his incestuous pleasure : and to fill the pennes of his further infamy ready to their hands, that wrote his life, hee was a great enemy vnto the Monkish orders (a fore in those dayes very tender to be touched, and may well be thought the cause of many false aspersions on him,) whom from the Monastery of Malmsbury Gl. senbury and others, hee expelled, placing mar-ried Priests in their roomes: Dunstan likewise the Abbot Saint of Glasenbury hee banished the Realm,

EDGAR SVRNAMED THE PEACEABLE THE THIRTIETH

MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS RAIGNE, ACTS, WIVES AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER XLII,

An.Do.959

Dgar, the second son of King Edmund having raigned two yeares ouer the Mercians and Northumbreans, in the daves of Edney his Brother, to the great impairing of King Edwies reputation and effeeme; after his death at fixeteen

yeares of age was chosen to fucceed in all his dominions, and was the thirtieth

Monarch of the Englishmen, or rather now of whole England, all other titles of Kingdomes falling vnder his scepter, and becomming Provinces annexed vnto his absolute Monarchie.

(2) He beganne his raigne in the veere of Christs Natiuity, 959. and was crowned (as some write) the same yeare at King stop, vpon Thamesis, by Otho Archbishop of Canterbury. But Randulphus Higden in his Polychronicon, referreth it to the twelfth yeere of his raigne: William Monke of Malmesbury to the thirtieth yeare of his age, and the Saxon Chronicle Virgine and daughter to a Westerne Duke, excee- with a daughtl.

Chap. 42. Edgar Erhelmeld.

THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch 30. dingly praised for her incomparable beauty, the ordgarus the Duke: but Ethelwold mistrusting the cause of his comming, thought by one policy to touch of which string from his eare resounded to his touch of which irring from his sear resonance to his heart, and as a bair it drew him prefently into those parts; where comming to Andeuer, commanded the damfell to his bed: The mother tender of the disappoint another; and therefore reucaling the truth to his wife, how in his proceedings hee had wronged her beauty, and deceived his Soueraigne, requested her louing assistance to saue now his en-Virgins honour, brought in the darke her maid, but nother daughter, who, all as well pleased the King in his finnefull dalliance: the day approching this late laid maid made hast to arise; but the King loth dangered life, which lay in her power, and of the meanes he thus aduised ; Like as (faid he)the richest Diamond rough and to part yet with his supposed faire Lady, demanded vncut, yeelds neither sparkle nor esteeme of great why fhe made fuch hast? who answered him, that price, nor the gold vaburnished giues better luher taske was great, and hardly would her worke be done, if day should preuent her ere she rose; but "ftre then the base brasse; so beauty and feature clad in meane aray, is either sleightly looked at yet being staied aboue her howre, vpon her knees she with an vnfixed eye, or is wholy vnregarded, and held of no worth; for, according to the Prouerbe, made this humble request, that shee might be freed from her shrewde dame, alleadging, it was not fitting, that the woman who had tasted the pleasures 'cloth is the man, and man is the wretch: then to present the thing that I feare, and is likely to proud of a Kings embracements, should endure a seruimy present ruine, and thy last wracke, conceale thy tude under the rule of any other. The King perceit great beauty from King Edgars eye, and give him entertainement in the meanest attires: let them uing the deceit, and therewith moued to wrath, yet could not recall what hee had done (or rather vn-(I pray thee) for a time bee the nightly curtaines done) and therefore turned his conceined wrongs drawne about our new-Nuptiall bed, and the day vnto a iest; but so, that hee both sharpely checked 'ly cloudes to hide thy splendent Sunne from his "fharpe, and too too piercing fight, whose vigour & "raies will soone set his waxen wings on fire, that the deceiver, and kept this damfell, (whose nightworke and pleasance had fully wonne him) for his Concubine, whereby she ruled them that lately had ready are to melt at a farre fofter heat . Pitch(thou the command of her; and to vie the words of Malmsfeeft) defileth the hand, and we are forbid to gine bury, he loued this Concubine most entirely, keeoccasion of enill: vaile then thy fairenesse with ping true faith of his bed to her alone, vntill the time he married for his lawful wife Elfrida the daughthe scarfes of deformity, from his ouer-lauish and "nmakered eye; for the faireft face drawes euer "the gaze, if not the attempts, and natures endow ments, areas the bush for the wine, which being immoderately taken doth furfet the sense and is a sense and the sense and is a sense at the sense at ter of Duke Ordgarus.
(14) His laft lafeiuious Act, was as Danids iovned with bloud, and wrought in manner as followeth. Fames lauish report of beauteous Elfrida (the paragon "gaine caft up with as loathing a taft. Of these dregs drunke Ammon after his fill of faire Thamm; Herod of Mirami, & Ame, a of Dido; yea, and not to seeke of her fexe, and wonder of Nature) the only daughor ner iexe, and wonder or nature) the only daugh-ter of Ordgarus Duke of Denonfoire, founded to lowd in those Westerne parts, that the Eccho thereof was heard into King Edgars Court, and entred his eares, examples farre off, King Edgars variation in his vn-"fledfaft motion doth eafily bewray it felfe: for could either holy Wolfhild, beautifull Ethelfled, or which euer lay open, to giue his eyes the scope of defire, and his wanton thoughts the raines of will: to the wanton Wench of Andeuer, keepe the needle trie the truth whereof, hee fecretly fent his minion or fauourite Earle Ethelmold of East anglia, who well "of his compasse certaine at one point nothing lesse," but it was still led by the load-stone of his ever could judge of beauty, and knew the diet of the King; with Commission, that if the Pearle proued mutable and turning affections. But thou wilt fay, hee is religious, and by founding of Mo-nafteries hath expiated those sinnes. Indeed mafo orient, it should bee seized for Edgars owne weany are built; for which time and posterities must ring, who ment to make her his Queene, and ordgares the Father of a King. thanke holy Dunstan, from whose devotion those Ethelwold a iolly young Gallant, posted into De-nonshire, and guest-wise visited Duke Ordgarus his "good deed haue forung: but is thy person holi-er then sacred Wolfbilds; thy birth and beauty grea-ter then Eskeljtes the White, daughter also to a Duke? Court, where feeing the Lady furpassing the report, blamed Fames oner-fight for founding her praise in the former, of an holy Votary, hee made the finke of his pollution; and the later is branded to all ages, by the hatefull name of a Concubine, and her so base and leaden a Trumpet; and wholy surprito bate and teauer a trumper; and wholy furpri-fed with her loue, himfelfe beganne to wooe the Virgin, yea, and with her Fathers good liking, fo as the King would gue his affent. Earle Ethelwold refonne among vs efteemed for a Baftard, Thefe should bee motiues to all beauteous and verturning, related that the maide indeed was faire; but tuous Ladies, not to fell their honours at fo low yet her beauty much augmented by babling reports, and neither her feature or parts any wife befitting a and too-late repented a price. Neither think (liweet Counteffe) that thy husband is icalous, or suspects King. Edgar mistrusting no corrivall in his love thy conftancy, which I know is great, and thy felfe "wholy complete with all honourable vertues: but "yet confider I pray thee, that thou are but young, &
"maift eafily be caught, especially of him that is so
"old a Master of the game; neither persivade thy
"City of the complete with the service of the complete the nor dreaming false fellowship in wooing, did with a height thought passe ouer Espride, and pitch his af-fections the safter another way. Earle Ethelwold fol-lowing the game now a foot, desired Edgars assistance to bring it to a stand, pretending not so much for "felfe of such firength, as is able to hold out so great an assault; for men are mighty, but a King is any liking to the Lady, as to raise his owne fortunes to be her fathers heire, to which the King yeelded, much more. I know thou art wife, and enough and for his minion folicited Ordgarus, who glad to be fhrowded vnder the fauours of fuch a fauourite, wilhath been faid, onely let mee adde this that evil beginnings have never good ends: and so with a kind kisse, hoping bee had wonne his Wife to his lingly confented and his daughters deftinies affured to Earle Ethelwold. Will, prepared with the first to welcome King The marriage folemnized, and the fruits thereof a Lady Elfrida thus left to her felfe, began feriously to thinke vpon this Curtaine Sermon, whose text she fhort time enjoyed; the fame of her beauty beganne againe to bee spread, and that with a larger Epi thite then formerly it had beene: Whereupon Ed-gar much doubting of double dealing, laid his angle distasted, being taken out of an ouer-worne and threed-bare cloth prouerbe, as though her fortunes had been wholly reliding, and altogether confifting faire to take this great gull; and bearing no fhew of wrong or suspect, inuited himselfe to hunt in his in her parentage and apparell, but nothing at all in Parks, and forthwith repairing into those parts, did not a little grace his old servant, to the great ioy of any parts of her felfe. Hath my beauty (thought fhe) been courted of alfilds along

EDWARD

Chap.43 Edward Edward. An.Do.975

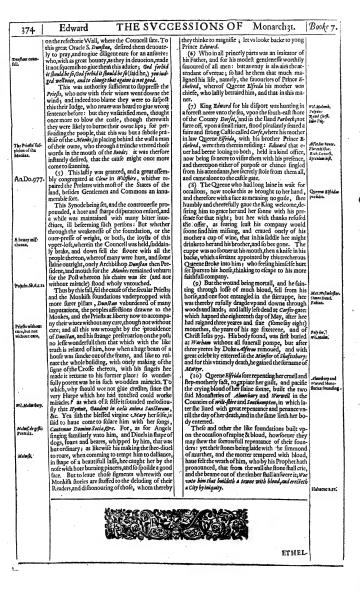

THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch at. EDVVARDSVRNAMEDTHE MARTYR THE THIRTIE ONE MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS RAIGNE, AND DEATH CHAPTER XLIII. which men thought to bee fignes from heauen, Reat were the troubles & fent from God, for the finnes committed against the fidings that prefently en-fued the death of King Edmarried Clergy, whose cause was much pittied, especially of the Nobles, & whose complaints of wrongs gar, about the election of cally of the Problems, who is a companied on the problems of t one of his fons to fucceed; Queene Elfrida with Alferm Duke of Mercia, and many other Nobles combined for young Ethelred, vs to doc, as wee would be done vnto: whereto the Victo doc, as weewolk be done vinto: whereto the Monker antivered, that Chrift repfeed neither the perion not place, but onely them that took wy the Croffe of Penance and followed him, as themelies in their fingle life presended to doe. But they good men little knew the incumbrances of winings, for otherwise they would have felt, that the condition of the married way. difauowing Prince Edward as illegitimate, and therfore not reputable for fuc-cession: against them and Ethelred stood Dunssan and the Monkes, holding their fattes dangerous,& their new-gotten footing valure, if in the nonage of the King, these their opposites should rule all vader him; whereas Edward was altogether wrought in their mould; whole title they abetted, as being lawfully the married, was more truly a fuffering of the Croffe, and enduring of Penance. borne, and begot in the nuptiall bed of Queene Ethelfleda. Their claimes thus banded among these Statef-men, began to be diverfly affected among the Commons, and had put the game to the hazard, if the wifedome of Dunffan had not seene to the chase; for a Councell being affembled to argue their rights the Archbishop came in with his banner and crosse. and not flaying for further debating de iure, did de facto, present Prince Edward for their lawfull King; and the affembly confifting most of Clergy-men, per-fwading peace, drew the approbation of the rest, and fo was the Prince admitted and proclaimed their So-

(2) He beganne hisraigne at twelue yeares of age, in the yeare of Saluation 975, and was soone after by Archilhop Dunflar crowned King at Kingfun yon Thumesti: being the thirtie one Monarch (fince Hengift) of the Englishmen. His beginning was mi-ferably afficted with barrennesse of the ground, famine amongst his people, morraine of cattle, and to their further terrour, a fearefull Comet appeared:

(3) These Church men thus divided and rent. were diverfly fided as affection did move, and that not onely of the meaner fort, but even of the Nobles & great Ones; for the Mercian Duke Alferus fauouring the iust cause of married Priests, destroied the Monasteries in his Prouince, cast our the Monkes, and restored agains the ancient reuenewes to them & their wives: contrariwile, in East-Anglia the Priests went to wracke, where the Monks were maintained by the authority of Edelwin their Duke, who in their quarrell, with the assistance of his brother Alfred. and of Brightnoth Earle of Effex, raifed a mighty ArMonarch 21

my, and flood with that power for their defence. (4) The fire thus blown from a sparke to a flame was feared to mount higher, if not quenched in time. and therefore by mediation, armes laid aside, the cause was referred to be heard in Councel, & at Winchefter first the assembly washeld, where after long dispute, and much against the Monkes, it was greatly fuspected their fide had gone down, but that the matter was referred from them to the Roode, placed vp-

376	Ethelred THE SVCC	ESSIONS OF Monarch 32.	Book. 7.	Ì		(bap.44	Ethelred THE SAXONS	MONARCHS. Monarch 32.
	heart of the City is now, was then neither beautiful,	payment of fixteene thousand pounds: for confir-		ţ		2.	Commons of their content, and the Soueraigne of		377
}	nor orderly built; what time also raged a sicknesse	mation whereof, Ethelred lent to Southampton for An-		i e		i	his wonted respect and observance.	where landing his men, hee made spoile of all b	C-1
	till then vnknowne in England, which was a strong	laf these Norwegians King, andhonourably enter-		1		i	(15) The Danes thus prevailing, did not a little	fore him, and comming to Norwich facked the C	i- Norwich raced.
Pelychron.lib.6.	burning feuer, and bloody fluxe, as alfo carfity of	tained him at Andeuer, where the same time he re- ceived Baptisme, King Eshelred taking him at the		1		ł	Plory in their forming and ariound the same and a	ty, with great flaughter of the Citizens, then tool
cap. 13.	victuals, and murraine among cattle. This hand of God thus correcting the finnes of all, was received	Font for his God-fonne, and with great gifts returned	Matt.Weft; Semon Dun.	}		Į.	whose service they emploied to care and till the ground, whilest themselves sare idle, & eate the fruit	he Thetford, and set it on fire, notwithslanding he had entred a truce with them: but for want of v
	as fent for the offence's of some few, and wholly	into Denmarke without any further harme done to		1			ground, whilest themselves sate idle, & eate the fruit	ctuall which then was fearfe in the land, he returne imputed to the King and his Railers; Dunstan	the English.		ł		1	1 of their paines, abuiling the wines and daughters of ftill prophelying further woesto the land, when	(10) But God and deftiny fuffering it , (that		1		Heller Boetlus.		(19 Where making preparation for another expedition, encreased his Nauic and number of men
1	still prophelying further woes to the land, when himselfe should be dead.	would have the Saxons to fall before the Danes, as-		l .		HEHAT SHEMES,	feare and reuerence were called the Lord-Danes, (which afterwards becam a word of derision to such	pedition, encreased his Natic and number of men	. Henry Heat.
l	(6) The Dave hereupon more holdly affaulted	formerly the Britainer had done before them) no co-		I .		1	flurdy and lazy lozels) fo that the like daies of miferie
PIL MAURIDITY	each shore, and in so many places at once, that the	uenant could be so surely made, but was as slackly				1	the land neuer felt. To redreffe which, the carefull
Atas. Wifiminfler	English were to leeke, where hrit to withit and . In	in the performed; for albeit this Anlaf honourably		1		1	King Ethelred was farre too weake and therfore inten-
Simos Durte	the West they were encountred by Gods Earle of	kept both faith and promise, yet others of his Coun-		1		1	ding to doe that by policy, which he could not by	Forces roued from coaft to coaft, euer carrying to their fhips their bootles and prayes, and to encreal the colorate of the co	2
An.Do.989.	Deuonfbire, as faith Simon Dunelmenft, by whom they were ouerthrowne, though with the loffe of his life,	try continued their inualions, and as an other Hydra faewed their ftill-renining heads,				Ethelreds bad policie.	ding to doe that by policy, which he could not by strength, he deuised a desperate stratagem that pro-	the calamirie, the harueft was neglected, and in ma	ç I
	as also of Stermpolda man of great efteeme and va-	(11) For the nineteenth yeare of King Ethelreds	An.Do.007.	1		policie,	ued the dettruction of the Saxons royall bloud, and	Iny places ipoiled, both for the want of labourers &	ا ا
1	lour in those parts, who served there vnderhim.	most troublesome raigne, and of our saluation 997.		1 4			conquest of the land to another nation.	by the feet of the fouldiers which lay in field a	1
	(7) In the East their leaders Iustine and Guth-	the Danes with a great fleete failed about Cornwall,		i .		ł	(16) For feeking to disburden the Realme of	that leafon, who from place to place transited at	äl I
An.Do.991.	mond warred with better successe; for at Malden	and came into the mouth of Severn, robbing, as they	,	i		ł	these denouring Danes, which by open force hee	though in vaine-	1 1
l	in Effex they gave Brightnod the Earle, a great and	went, Deuonshire, Cornwal, and South-Wales: and mar-		1		t	could no waies doe; he attempted in a bloudy maf- facre to destroy them, giving a secret commission vn-	. Towards the Winter the Danes tooke into the Il	C The Deserinthe
ł	bloody battaile, wherein himselte with most of his	ching further into the Continent, confumed Lydford,		1		Palum 'E & save	to enery City within his dominions that at an an	of Wight, and in the deepest time thereof, passe	d lieut milet.
	people were flaine. The Danes thus prospering,	and the Abby of Saint Ordulfes at Effing flocke, thence		1		Pelyer. li.6.ta.19. The maffacre of	to enery City within his dominions, that at an ap- pointed time they should fet vpon, and kill all the	through Hampfbire, into Barkefbire, vnto Reading	5] [
1	more boldly went forward; and where they fet	passing through Dersetsbire with fire & Iword, found				the Danes .	Danes; the day was the thirteenth of Nonember.	Wallingford, Colefey, and Essington, making clean work whereloeuer they came; for that which they could	e l
1	their tallants, there they held fast, and lay on the	not a man in the way to relift them, and wintering in	An Do	I .		I	being the feltiuall of S. Briefus, the yeare of Christ	not carry they confumed with fire, with triumpho	:1
l	land like vnto Grashoppers. These euils King E- theired could not redresse, his strengthes being small,	the wight lined by spoiles gotten in Hampsbire and Suffex.	AII.1/0.998.	1 1	•	1	lefus 1002, and prefently after his marriage with	cuer returning to their thins
1	and his fubiects affections leffe; therefore calling	(12) The news Coning show mustines at a mount	An Dages			Horry Hunting.	Emma, the flower of Normandy; in confidence of	(20) The King lying in Shrewsbury, ynable to re	Andread
1	to Counsell his Statesmen & Peeres, demanded their	(12) The next Spring they put into the mouth of Thamesis, and so by the river Medway arrived at	21HD0.999.				which affinity, hee prefumed to do what he did. His	(20) The King lying in Shrewsbury, vnable to re fift, called to him his Councell, to consult what wa	s 2311.10.10074
i	aduice what was best to bee done. Some few of these	Rechefter : thither the Kentifb with their ftrengthes		l .		1	commaund was accordingly performed, and with fuch rigour, that in Oxford the fearefull Danes	beit to bee done: whereof Edrik was a principall	1 1
1	proffered the King their affiftance, but more of them	repaired, but unfortunately fought, and left the field		1		1	for refuge tooke into the Church of S. Fridefund, as	and in io high effeeme with the King, that he crea
	perswaded vnto a composition, whereof Sirieius	to the Danes, who fhortly after hoifed their failes, &		į.		l	into a Sanctuary of venerable antiquity and priui-	I ted him Duke of Mercia, and cane him his daughter	- Sdrick an vntrufty
Malmfb,de gtft. Pontif,L1,	Archbilhop of Caterbury was chiefe; and in fine,	with a merry gale arrived in Normandy.	A D	1		Math. mft.	ledge among ancient Kings; but they in fury regar-	Egithin marriage: notwithflanding, these gluts of	F Comment
Polycy.lib, 6.cs.13.	Archbishop of Caterbury was chiefe; and in fine, ten thousand pounds paid to the Danes for their departure.	(13) King Ethelred thus rid of their his vnlooked	MILD. 1000.	1		MATID. Profit.	ding neither place nor person, set the Church on fire,	fauours wrought onely the difgestion of falshood in him, who could task nothing valesse it was saused	1
ŀ				1		Regifier of S	wherein were burned a great fort of those Danes with	with treason. This man, then the Kings onely	!! !
ł	(8) This golden Mine once entred, was more ea- gerly digged into, by these still-thirsting Danes, who	Cumberland, whither hee repaired, and with fore warre wasted the Country, before whose sword	l	1		Register of S. Fridejwides.	many rich ornaments, and the Library thereof vtter-	chitophel, perswaded him to pay thirty thousand	lean na
l	finding the branch so beneficiall at first, hoped the	the Dane's were notable to ftand; which somewhat	l	[Malmio.	ly defaced. At which time (if Malmshury (au true)	pounds to the Danes for their peace, whereof no	James Date, i	veine in following, would proue farre more boun-	encouraged the fairire of his people and berroral		1 -			King Ethelred himself was in that City, and had sum-	pounds to the Danes for their peace, whereof no doubt some fell into his owne Coffers.
1	tifull, and therefore regardlesse of promise, the	encouraged the spirits of his people, and bettered their conceits towardes him: but farrethis sunne	1	1		1	moned a Parliament both of Danes and English, with	(21) This intollerable impolition extorted of the	: 1
An Do see	a real regions are a managed them follows against for Warter !	past not without a cloud, nor was his successe entailde	ł				which euen the King was much grieued: and there- fore at his very great cost beautifully repaired the	Subjects especially at that time when the land was	: 1
An.Do.992.	and with a great fleete dispatched to sea: the newes	to be fortunate.	i	1		1	Church, and all the loffes accruing by the fire, en-	least able, made many suspect great matters against	t
Wil, Malusburg.	whereof strucke such terror into the English hearts,	(14) For the next yeare, those Danes that depar-	1	1			dowing it with large printledges and donarions, as	Edrik, and some did not feare to accuse him to his face, to bee the onely causer of this payment; char-	5
i	that despairing of hope, they accounted themselues the bond-slaues of milery: The King therfore with	ted from Kent, came now from Normandy with their	1	l l		Hibel/edsCharter		ging him as ouer-affectionated to the Danes, and to	:
	the bond-flaues of milery: The King therfore with	full failes, and landing in Exmouth, their first and	Į	1			tenour of that Danilh flaughter.	haue bewrated the Kings fecrets and defigues were	1 retainable to to a much adoe prepared a Nauie, whereof hee made Elfrick Earle of Mercia Admirall, who fetting from	greatest fury was against the City of Exceter, which	1	ł			In this maffacre, Lady Gunheld, fifter to Swaine	them: but he leated in the heart of his Souteraigne
Flfrick Barle of	London varothe feas, had power fufficient to put	when they fiercely belieged, they were so valiantly beaten by the Citizens, as that enraged about mea-	Roger House, Assal, persprier.	1		l	King of Demmarke, a great and continual friend to	rubd off this Itaine with a few fawnings, and a faire
meria.	backe the enemy: but hee once a traitor could ne-	fure with the ignominy of that repulfe, they thence	Aunai pars prier.				the Englifb, with her husband and sonne, together	linew, being a man in wit lubtle, in freech elonnene	His fubriley.
1	uer prouetrue; for having been banished, forgi-	as a fodgine floud bare downe all that flood in their		1			were flaughtered, although she lay in hostage vpon	and for riches inferiour to none, (aftone that could i	uen, and now taken into fauour, found meanes to	way;and then plainely beganne to appeare the rife of	1	Į.			conditions of peace, whose husbands name was Palin- gus (saith Malmsbury) an Earle of great might, & both	turne euen great ftreames aside) so that these sup-	- 1
	bee false, and to betray his charge; and sending the	the Danes, which enery where lorded it. where they	l	ł			of them Christians,	posals of treasons (as proceeding from enuy to him	1
	enemy intelligence of his power and intents gaue the	had to doe and the fall of the Saxons, whose over-	l	1.			(17) Newes brought into Denmarke of this fud-	for his good services) wanne him greater trust, and sent he was Ambassador to the Danes to mediate	1 1
1	way to their escape; and another fleete of Danes en-	topped Monarchy, and weake walles now wanted	l	1		Hes Husting.	daine ftratagem, no neede there was to vrge them to	for peace: where reuealing the weakenes of the
1	countring with the Kings, at first hee fainedly and	props to hold up the weight; for the Captains of the	I	1		Simon Dan.	reuenge, or to adde more fuell vnto that ouer kindled	I land, and the teares which the Findilly conceived of
l	faintly fought againft; and laftly, turned to their fide; through which treason many Englishmen died.	English (laith Higden) wanting lore in deeds of Arms.	l	1		King Sweiter	fire; for preparation being made, the yeere enfuing,	conquest, treacherously disswaded them from giuing	His treachery.
	and the Kings Fleete and power was greatly weake-	their direction neuer professed; if ships were made	l	1		inuation.	Swain with a great Nauy landed in the well, spoiled	eare to any motiues of Truce.	1 1
	ned; but he escaping due punishment himselfe, left	they neuer sped well, but were either chased of the enemy, or destroiced by tempest; if the Nobles c-	l		•	An.D.1003.	the Country, and gaue affault to the City of Exceter,	(22) The State of the land thus flanding, or ra-	An.D.10081
1	his some to answere the fault, whose eyes King Ethel-	ueraffembled to confult of the State, that time was	1			1111.1005.	which by the trechery of one Hugh a Norman (whom	ther hanging at fulpence. King Ethelred game order	An. Reg. 20:
1	red caused to be put out.	rather spent in whetting the spleene each against o-	ĺ			1	in the fauour of the Queen, King Ethelred had made Gouernour of that City) he razed and leuelled with	that out of every three hundred and ten hides of	1 1
An Don-	(9) About which time also another Danish Fleet	ther, then jointly agreeing how to redreffe their pre-	l				the ground, all along from the Eafigate to the West.	land a fhippe should bee built, and of euery eight	1
An.Do.993.	entring Humber, wasted the countries of Yorkeshire	fent danger, or to repreffe the common enemy; for	I	1			This treason and firres great of themselves, but	hides a complete Armour furnished. These mee-	Henry Hunting.
Simon Dan.	and Lyndfey: against these King Ethelred sent his	most of the Nobles were allianced into the Daville	Higden.				made much more rufull in the relating, caused Ethel-	ting at Sandwish, and furnished with fouldiers, made shew of such resistance, as had not beene seene, al-	Simas Dun,
Polyder.	power, vnder the charge of three valiant but treche-	bloud, whereby not onely the fecret of those con-	Casten	1			red presently to muster his men; ouer whom hee	though the event was nothing but a flow For Wil-	1
Dealer of	rous Captaines, namely, Frena, Godwin and Frede-	fultations were renealed, but being imploied in fer-		1		Earle Edrick for his ausrice fur-	made Earle Edrik for his couetouines furnamed Stre-	mot a Noble man of Suffex (banished for some of-
1	gift; for the battle but begun, these with their fol-	uice, many of them revolted to the enemy. The			3	his ausrice for- named Stresse.	ton) his Generall, who bare a braue flew till it came	fence by King Ethibred) with rwenty Sailes round	Matth.Weft;
1	lowers fled away, which was the occasion of a great	Clergy as backward as any, denied the King their	The Clergies co-	-1	•		to the push and day of battle: but then to couer l	vpon the coaits and by Piracy did much hurr among
1	ouerthrow of the English; notwithstanding the country people not able to disgeft their intollerable dea-	assistance, pleading their exemptions from warre,	netoffuene	1	•		his treason, he fained himselfe sicke, and left his soul-	the English Marchants: wherefore Reithelle he hen
1	lings, fell vpon the Daner, flew some, and chased the	and priviledge of the Church, when the land lay	1	1		i	diers to shift as they could. The Danes hereupon	ther of Edrikto winne himfelfe honour and al-
A Florre of Dane	I reft. At what rime also other of the Doner with	bleeding and deploring for helpe, and scandalized all his other proceedings for demaunding their aide:	1	1 .		1	rifled Wilton, and passing forward tooke Salisburie in their way, to which they were as welcome as wa-	Kings confent to purfue this grand-Pirate, with fourescore saile of the foresaid ships, threatning to	1
on the Thames	ninety foure ships sailed up the river Thamesis, and	to these were ioined scarsity, hunger and robberies.	l	1		1	their way, to which they were as welcome as wa-	bring in Welfard sist or dead or dist, threatning to	1
on the Thames befiege London	" laid their liege against Landon gining it a great of	These miseries caused the summes of their compo-	l'				ter into thips; but hearing that the King himselfe in person was preparing to give them battle, they	heing forced under a faire wind a violence and	Britbrick(chalitte
1	lault; but the Citizens thereof fo manfully defen-	fitions to bee augmented, whose last was fixteene	i	1	•	Ī	left the land, and tooke againe to lea.	fodainely arofe, and outragloufly drough is hippes	by tempest.
1	ided themicines, that they chaird the Daws thence	thousand, now twenty thousand, immediately twen-	i	I			(18) The next yeare following, (which was the	vpon shore, where distressed and torne, their bea-
1	to their shame and great losse; yet fell they so fonle	ty four then thirty and laftly forty thousand pounds.	l	1		An.D.1004.	twenty foure of King Ethelreds raigne, and of grace,	ten huis lay vnable to recover themselves or the	.) 1
1	vpon E/ex, Kent, Su/ex, and Hampitere, that the	vntill the land was emptied of all the coine + the	1	1		Simon Dan.	one thousand and fourc. King Swaine with a mighty	Sea: Wilmot taking advantage of this prefent mithan.	. 1
1	King was enforced to compound a peace, with the	Kingdome of her glory; the Nobles of courage; the	The effects of it.				fleete of thips arrived vpon the coasts of Norffolke,	Sea: Wilmot taking advantage of this prefere mishap, fell fiercely upon them, and after much slaughter of	ř   -
·		Com-		3	•	,		rheb
				•					·

Chap.44 Ethelred THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch 32. to feare the losse of our Kingdom, and you the mighty hoft entered Lyndfey, where hee burnt all extinct of the English nations renowne; therefore ile is chaled be the Country, and put the inhabitants to the fword. feeing the enemies areat hand, and their hands at Canute not able to refift this puiffant Army, held our throats; let vs by forefight and counfell faue the fea more fafe for him then the land, and enour owne liues, or elfe by courage fheath our tring Humber, failed to Sanawich, where being fore words in their bowels: cither of which I am wilgricued at the mileries of these his confederates, reling to enter into, to secure our estate and nation quited King Ethelreds friends with the like, and from an irrecouerable ruine. commaunded that those pledges which had beene (31) This lamentable Oration deliucred from deliuered by the Nobles vnto his Father, should the passions of a inftly-pensine King, touched the hearers to the heartes, and asmuch distracted their haue their notes flit, and their hands cut off: which cruelty acted, hee failed to Denmarke, as hopeafflicted minds; to abide battaile they faw it was leffe of any good iffue in England. bootlesse, the treason of their leaders so many times (35) But Turkil the Dane, retained (as we faid) defeating their victories, to yeeld themselves to the into King Ethelreds pay, seeing successe so sodainely enemy, would but beginne their feruitude and milealtered, fore repented him of his repolt from the Tarkil inciteth Danes , and knowing now the time to recour his England. ry, and to flee before them, their eternall ignominy reputation, with nine of his shippes sailed into and reproch. Denmarke, instantly importuning Canut to addresse againe for England; alleadging the feares and weak-Thus their opinions were canualed, but nothing put in practife, whereas meane whiles the Danes went forward with victories, and had got the most nesse of the people, the beauty and fertility of the part of the land, yea and London also by submission, land, an Eden, in respect of their owne barren seat, wherewith vnfortunate Ethelred more and more deand (which did most moue) himselfe would assist, iected, fent his wife Emma with his two fonnes by when the English least thought it: with these and her, vnto her brother Richard Dake of Normandy, the like hee spurred him on, who of himselfe was and for his owne fafest refuge committed himselfe forward in a full curriere. An.D. 1014. vnto Turks/the Dane, in whose shippes he remained Canutus therefore with the aide of his brother a while at Greenewich, and from thence went into the Harrold, rigged forth a Nauie of two hundred faile, ali furnished with souldiers and abiliments of warre; Isle of Wight, where he abode most part of the win-Constitution his ter, and thence failed into Normandy to his wife and whole terror landed in England before him, and his brother, leaving the Danes lording it in his rea me. power by report made greater then it was; and to (32) These were the daics of Englands mourencrease the terrour of this fearefull enemy, the sea ning, shee being vnable to maintaine her defenwith a spring-tide brake into this land, and destroyders, and yet enforced to nourish and cherish her deed both townes and many inhabitants;a figne fore-Swaine and Turnourers: for the Danes in two factions most cruelly flewing (as was thought) the fucceffe of that fleete, afflicted the land like two milftones crushing & grinborne hitherward vpon those water, and to encrease ding the grain, Swarn as an absolute King, extorted of the English miseries, thirty thousand pound was the English both victuals and pay for his fouldiers: then collected by way of Tribute to pay the Danill auxiliary Nauy lying before Greenewich. The States also convening in a grand Councell at Oxford to lifb, commanded the like for his ships and men; lo that the Danes had all, and the English maintained al. determine upon the great affaires of the Kingdom, Neither were churches free from their spoils, (whom were divided into factions, and two Noblemen of other Conquerors have held most impious to viothe Danes there murthered by practife of Edrick the Traitor. These(I say) were accounted ominous late,) but either suffered the flames of their consuming fire,or were forced to purchase their standings amongst the English, that made each mole-hill to with great fummes of money. Such composition feeme a mountaine, and every fluadow the flew of an King Swaine demaunded for the preferuation of S Edmunds Monastery in Suffolke; which because the (36) In the meane while Canutus had landed at Inhabitants refused to pay, he threatned spoile both to the place, & to the Martyrs bones there enterred; Sandwich, and given a great ouerthrow to the Eng-Henry Hant, Mat Well mittyl et a Simon Dienel. lifb; entred Kent, and by his fword had made way through the Countries of Derfet, Sommerfet, and in the midst of which iollity (faith Houeden) he sudpars prior. Fabran Cronpar dainely cried out that he was strucke by S. Edmund with a fword, being then in the midft of his No-Ethelred lying dangerously sicke at Costam, the ma-6. ceo 100. Polychron lib.6. bles, and no man feeing from whose hand it came; raging of thele warres was transferred to Prince and so with great horrour and torment, three daies Edmund his sonne, who preparing to meete the after voon the third of February ended his life at enemie with his Army in the field, had fodainely notice that Edrik his brother in law ment to betray Thetford (others fay at Gainsborough:) but with his death died not the title of the Danes, who immehim into his enemies hands; which newes ftrucke diately advanced Canutus his sonne for their King.
(35) The English that liked nothing lesse then great aftonishment vnto his heart, and caused him to retrait his host into a place of security, where-An.D.1015 | bondage, especially under such tyrannizing intruby Edrik perceiuing his trecherous purposes were disclosed, gaue more open proofe of his intendders, thought now or never the time to shake off the ments, flying to the enemy with forty of the Kings yoake; and therefore with great joy and hast sent into Normandy for their native King . Ethelred now fhippes; whereupon all the west Countries submitted themselus vnto Canutus, not vereadie for the recouring of his right, fore-(37) By this time King Ethelred had recoucred flowed no meanes either to haften or strengthen the enterprize, and having the affiftance of his brother his ficknesse, and minding revenge on his most wicked some Edrik, with purpose to trie his last fors An.D.1016, tunes by hazard of fight, summond all his forces of Normandy, in the Lent following landed in England, vnto whom reforted the people from all parts, accounting it their greatest joy to see the face to meete him at a certaine day and place; where being affembled, he was instantly warned not to of their King. giue battaile, for that his owne subjects ment to be-(34) Canutus then at Gainsborough, Souldier-like mustered and managed his men, and holding it good tray him. policieto keepe that by bounty, which his father King Ethelred ever vnfortunate in this, to find Londons fidelity treasons amongst them that ought him most trust, had got by tyranny, made no spare to purchase the hearts of the English; by which meanes those withdrew himselfe to London, whose service against of 1 masey became his Creatures, with an agreethe Danes he had lately feene, and therefore accounment to find him both horse and men against their ted his person most sure in their walles. Prince Edmund with his power posted ouer Humber, where owne King and Country. Ethelred therefore now raging for reuenge, with a obtaining Earle Vired to fide in his quarrell, entred

Chap. 45 Edmund THE SAXONS MONARCHS. Monarch 23. he was euer a traitor to his Countrie, and a fauourer Earle of Bulloigne in Picardy, a man of great valour in of the Danes, betraying both him, and King Edmund those parts of France, and a most faithfull friend to his sonne to King Canut, that he thereby might gette new preferments by him, who worthily rewarded King Edward her brother; which Earle was grand-father to Godfrey of Bullingne, King of Ierufalem, albeit it feemeth he had no iffue by this Lady. him as a traitor and put him to death. (50) Elfgine, the third daughter of King Ethelred and of Queene Elgius his first wife, was the second wife of V tred furnamed the Bold, fonne of Earle Wal-defe the elder, Earle of Northumberland, by whom face had one onely child, a daughter, named Alagith married to a Noble-man called Ataldred, the sonne of Crinan ; thee was mother of Cofpatricke, who was Earle of Northumberland in the time of welliam the Conquerour, and forced by his difpleafure to fly into Scotland, where hee abode and was ancestor to the Earles of Dunbar and of March in that Countrie. (§ 1) Gode, the fourth and youngest daughter of King Ethelred and Queene Elgius his first wife, was death fucceeded him in the Kingdom of England. first married to one Walter de Maigne a Noble-man of (53) Elfred, the eight sonne of King Ethelred, and Bifred the eight Normandy, greatly fauoured by King Edwardher brohis fecond by Queene Emme his fecond wife, was ther; who lived not long after the marriage, and left conucied into Normandie for feare of King Canute, iffue by her a fonne named Rodulfe, whom King Edward his vncle created Earle of Hereford. This Earle Rodulfe, died the one and twentieth of December, in with his eldeft brother Edward, and with him returned into England to fee his mother, then beeing at Winchester, in the second yeere of King Harrald furnathe thirteenth yeere of his vncles raigne, and was bumed Harefoote; by whose practize hee was trained toried at Peterborough; leaving iffue a young fonne nawards London, apprehended by the way at Guilford in Survey, deprined of his eie-fight, and committed primed Harrald, created afterwards by King William the Conqueror, Baron of Sudeley in the Countie of Glowfoner to the Monastery of Ele: his Normans that came eester, and Ancestor to the Barons of that place sucwith him most cruelly murthered, and hee himselfe ceeding, and of the Lord Chandois of Sudeley now being. This Lady Gode, after the decease of the said foone after deceafing, was buried in the Church of the faid Monasteric. Water de Maigne, was remarried to Eustace the elder, Edmund. SIDE THE THIRTIE THREE MO. NARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS WARRES, ACTS, RAIGNE, WIFE, AND ISSVE, (52) Edward, the feuenth fonne of King Ethebred, Edward the feand his first by Queene Emme his second wife, was weath borne at Islape in the County of Oxford, and brought vp in France all the time of his youth, with his vncle Richard the third of that name, Duke of Normandy, mistrusting his safety in England under King Canute the Dane, although he had married his mother; but hee found the time more dangerous by the viage of his brother Elfred, at his beeing heere in the raigne of King Harrald fonne of the Dane. Notwithstanding hee returned home, when Hardiknut the other tonne (beeing his halfe brother) was King, and was honourably received and entertained by him, and after his

Monarch 33

EDMVND SVRNAMED IRON-

CHAPTER XLV.

An.D.1016

Dmund, the third fonne of King Ethelred, and the eldeft living at his Fathers death, succeeded him both in his dominions, & in his troubled estate against the Danes; entring his gouernement in the moneth of April, and crowned at Kingfton vpon Thamests, by Liuingus Archbishop of Canterbury the yeere of mans faluation 1016. Notwithstanding, a great part of the English, considering the puil fance of the Danes, both feared and fanoured Canut, especially, a great part of the Clergy, who at Southampton ordained him their King, swearing to him the fealty of true subjection; but the Londoners ftood most firme to Prince Edmund, and were principall Actors for his election.

(2) In reuenge whereof Canutus who had belie

seed the Citie before the death of King Etheled, can be a seed the Citie before the death of King Etheled, and the filling now to be towed, and drawn up the Themphr was the welf side of the bridge, and from palled the City, than you have a fill the common palled the City, than you have a fill the common palled the City, than you have a fill the common palled the City, than you have a fill the common palled the City, than you have a fill the common palled the City, than you have a fill the common palled the City and the common palled the City and the control of the city of the	382		CESSIONS OF Monarch 33.	Booke.
palfed the Cray, furting ye all all mer period. The niver with a deep and they bronde, and more palfed the Cray, mixing ye all all mere and the property of the Craise manfully flood in strip. flance, whereou the comming of their new King for their discourt, did not a little encourage them, and channed the Danes, who now thought is belt the cray of the their content of the conte	Heary Hunting, Sixon Dun.	ged the Citie before the death of King Ethelred, cau- ied his ships now to be towed, and drawne up the	lence brake up his Campe, and marched years for	A .
paffedthe City, flusting vp all entrance or egrefic form; but the Citizens manfully flood in relifance, whereto the comming of their new. King for their frictory, do now thought is best to breake vp their fluory, and now thought is best to breake vp their fluory, and the control of the control of the control of their fluory, and their fluory an			great in some and most savnostic die
son the Citizens manifully flood governing fance, whereous the comming of their means, whereous the comming of their means, when one thought is belt to brake up their figgs and be gone: and the risk for the control of the control of their figures and be gone: and the risk for the control of the control of their figures and the gone and the risk for the control of their figures and the gone and the risk for the control of their figures and the control of their figures and the control of their figures and the control of their figures, where he wintered with Namian adment for their figures, and the risk for the control of the figures, and the control of the con		passed the City shutting up all arge Trenel encom-	quete of the Citie, which in a fort was it ill belieged	4
king zimmed (who was addersing himfelf-of return rincourt, and not a little encourage them, and daumed the Dater, who now thought it belt in the Author gold be goes and the rinchight the Author gold be goes and the rinchight the Author the Control the Long of the Control the Control the Long of the Long o
bereite of breite view in eigen and be grown and the relative to breite very their (gigner and be grown) and the relative to breite very their (gigner and be grown) and the relative to breite very their (gith the Author of Exaconius of the grown) and the relative to the control of the state of the relative to the control of the state of the relative to the control of the state of the state of the relative to the control of the state of the relative to the control of the state of th		Itance, whereto the comming of their new King	King Februard (who were address)	1
and caunted the Danet, who now knowshis in before to be to b			battaile) of the juddaine departure of his enemin	e
ther(faith the Author of Exemiser Emms.) for the Heritorians, the Counter, which he neither accepted, one of the Counter of th		and daunted the Danes, who now thought it both
Sing Edward fine Canate a peremptory challenge combine, which fine chief accepted, nor yet fland the fingle combine, which he neither accepted, nor yet fland the fingle combine, which he neither accepted, nor yet fland the fingle combine, which he neither accepted, nor yet fland the fingle combine, which he neither accepted, nor yet fland the fingle to flow flow the head of the fland of the perimpted of the fland of t		ther (aith the Author of Freezewick Farm)
syeffaned the fegeto trich is chance but waying his anchors failed along the Coaft to the life of Skepits, where he wintred with his Nauke and men. (3) But loth to lofe opportunity, when time ferrued for warres on the fodaine he affailed the welf of Segload, and brought much of those parts where his command; to mere whom the redfield travel his command; to mere whom the redfield travel his command; to mere whom the redfield travel his command, to mere whom the redfield travel his command; to mere whom the redfield travel his command to mere whom the redfield travel his command; to mere whom the redfield travel his command; to mere whom the redfield travel his command to mere whom the redfield travel his first figer, where be partially admined the rich travel his first figer, as a place called Servafian, who have the state of	Proffer of finele	Allig Lamung ICRE Canute a peremptory challenge	with imall adoc, hee removed their fiege, and en-	Tillodand b.
per lander in legeto tres the shaned but waying his anchors filled along the Coast to the left of sleepies, where he wintered with his Nauke and men. The first foot to lofe opportunity, when time for stagled, and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and the most work of stagled and brom the foldame he affailed the well of stagled, and the continued he folds the to the foldame he foldame to make, and at ready to faur, and the foldame he foldame to fold the to the form the folds when the foldame he foldame to fold the to the form the foldame he foldame to fold the foldame he foldame to fold the foldame he foldame to form the fold wherein a fore battalle was fought, and the foldame to fold the foldame he form the foldame he foldame to fold the foldame he form the foldame he foldame he foldame he foldame he foldame he form the foldame he folda	combar.		thus discomfreed great her amph. The Dane	Edmund.
ankendr antect along the Coaft to the life of sizeins, where he winter with his Nation and men. (1) Dut losh to 10fe opportunity, when time of the for ward of the winter he winter the for own methodian he alialed the well of the command throught much of the part wards his command throught much of those part wards his command to cause, and as Pendam nerve Gillingham, and his command the retto flight, and bloody to the Danes, where many of them nerve had bloody to the Danes, where many of them were the thing that the first own of the form danger, and the relt of fagule to the fiver, and the relt of fagule to the fiver, and the relt of fagule to the form, and in the relt of fagule to the form, and the relt of fagule to the form, and in the relt of fagule to the form, and the relt of fagule to the form, and in the relt of fagule to the form, and in the relt of fagule to the form, and in the relt of fagule to the form, and in the relt of fagule to the form, and in the relt of fagule to the form, and in the relt of fagule to the fagule to th		yet maked the negeto trie his chance, but waving his	thefe faire proceedings would have a professional
(3) Dis 10st to lose opportunity, when time ferred for vares on the dotain he allaide the welf of  gland_and brought much of those parts wader his commands to mere whom the relieffe from the commands to mere whom the relieffe from the peace of the		anchors falled along the Coast to the He of Chemie
ferued for warrey on the foddine he affalled the well of Forglond, and brought much of those parts varied his command; to meet whom the refliefs from his command; to least e. he halfed into Dosfether, where commended was forewarding his owne too indextequation; the times, and at Posision necre colling basen, each meet on the first of the command of the reflect folgeth, and bloudy to the Dosset, where many of them were pure to the two-dand the refl to folgeth; and bloudy to the Dosset, where many of them were pure to the two-dand the reflect of folgether. (4) Commet immediately cook into Wintelpfer, to the two-dand the property of the control of the control in the first fiege. Many as a read to the reflect of the control in the first fiege. Many and there to begin the first fiege. Many and outcrited county thickneward with his final and outcrited county the final fina		(3) But loth to loss opportunity when time	(11) Edmund, therefore following the aduantage	:
of Fagland, and brought much of those parts wards his commands to more whom the relieffe from fife prepared, and with fuch finall power as his leafure would admit to leasile, he hadded into Deffection would admit to leasile, he hadded into Deffection with the presence of the properties of the control of the parts with the presence of the properties of		ferued for warres on the fordaine he affailed the west fire commands, to meet whom the relitefit room fife prepared, and with fach finall power as his leafure would admit to least, he hafted into Dorfet- forworld admit to least, where some was forwarding his owne for- lorder. The commands of the property of the commands of pas prepared, and with fuch finall power as his leafter would admit to leasile, he hadfed into Deficit fore, where Casul was forwarding his owne for the contraction of the contraction		his commaund; to meet whom the reftleffe Iron-	fis at the fame place, he loft many of his	- [
An.D.1016. Indestequation where the content of the		frae prepared, and with fuch finall power as his lea-
in the fight of the control flight. A) Comment immediately tooke into Winterfer, to focure himfelfe from danger, and the relate of any to favore, which was a they to defroy, and there goes the Citie with a first friege. King Edmand as ready to fave, as they to defroy, and there begit rule again with his final and outcrited company, whom Comment and in the fight of this enemy piched his braitie. To the side of Edmand came many of the English, in the fight of this enemy piched his braitie. To the side of Edmand came many of the English, in the fight of this enemy piched his braitie. To the side of Edmand came many of the English, to that his Army was greatly enemed, and their course grainbanned, which made the Dongh Edudicis from what or droops. Antimorp. Simples. Antimorp. Anti		force where Canat was forwarding his asset	vpon which loffe the Traitor Edrike plaied, who	1
in the fight of the control flight. A) Comment immediately tooke into Winterfer, to focure himfelfe from danger, and the relate of any to favore, which was a they to defroy, and there goes the Citie with a first friege. King Edmand as ready to fave, as they to defroy, and there begit rule again with his final and outcrited company, whom Comment and in the fight of this enemy piched his braitie. To the side of Edmand came many of the English, in the fight of this enemy piched his braitie. To the side of Edmand came many of the English, in the fight of this enemy piched his braitie. To the side of Edmand came many of the English, to that his Army was greatly enemed, and their course grainbanned, which made the Dongh Edudicis from what or droops. Antimorp. Simples. Antimorp. Anti	An.D.1016	e tunes, and at Penham neere Gillingham oach man -	earlt had much feared the downefall of the Danes.	Į.
and bloudy to the Danet, where many ofthem were pure to the invortant the reft of fight. (4) Canset immediately cooke into Winterfer, (4) Canset immediately cooke into Winterfer, (5) Canset immediately cooke into Winterfer, (6) Canset immediately cooke into Winterfer, (7) Canset immediately cooked in the fine feat in the work of the winterfer immediately cooked in the fine feat in the work of the work	In the Rogation	ther in the field, wherein a fore battaile was fought		i benefite and concentence of Edimards Camber himself for to ficure himselfer from danger, and the refl ediped owners Salibury and there begit roth edite with the first owners Salibury and the clogar to the clief with the first owners and bring his enemy into his that the first owners Salibury and the red given the first owners and bring his enemy into his that the fight of his deep called Storoflaw, in the fight of his given, at a place called Storoflaw, in the fight of his given, at a place called Storoflaw, in the fight of his given, at a place called Storoflaw, in the fight of his given when the fight of his given the sale of Edemad came many of the English, in the fight of his given when the fight of t	meene,	and bloudy to the Danes, where many of them were		Counfelt.
to focure himfelferfoundanger, and there of eighed to works saliburyand there begit rice Clies with a first fiege. King Edmand as ready to faue, as they to defroy, made prefently thinkneward with his final and ouertied company; whom Canat, waiting for adamatege, followed with a great holi, and in Horselferfine, at a place called Sterafus, in the fight of his enemy pinched his battaile. To the aide of Edmand Came many othe English, to that his Army was greatly encrealed, and their courages inhamiced, which made the Dongli Goldiers from what to droope. (3) Norwithlanding, vpon the twentich of the Courage from the Court of the Courage of the Cou		put to the tword, and the reft to flight.
towards salisbury, and there begit the Clie with a first fiege. King Edward as ready to fase, as they to defroy, made prefeutly thicknewad with his final and outerited company, whom Canat, waiting for adantage, followed with a great holt, and in the other parties of the sale of Edward cane many of the English of the his his fight of his enemy picked his battaile. To the side of Edward cane many of the English [1] to the side of Edward cane many of the English [2] that his Army was greatly encreted, and their courages inhumined, which made the Dangle Boddlers for the Parties of the North Company of the North Com	Paleder.	to fecure himfelfe from danger and the red.
first fiege. King Edmand as ready to faue, as they to defroy, made prefeatly thinkneward with his final and outried company; whom Canat, waiting for adamatege, followed with a great holi, and in Horselferline, at a place called Storafus, in the fight of his enemy picked this battaile. To the aide of Edmand Came many othe English, to that his Army was greatly encrued, and their courage inhamiced, which made the Dough Boulders from what to droope. (3) Norwithstanding, vpon the twentich of the Courage from the their bloud not cold, the next day they been the their bloud not cold, the next day the been the training of the English of the English is the English in the English of the English in the English is the English in the English in the English is the English in the English i		towards Salisbury and there begin the Citie with a		Henry Hung.
treum fair to desire the state of the heart		itrait flege. King Edmand as ready to faile as waiting for adamtage, followed with a great host, and in Woreeleginey, as a place called Sereglas, in the fight of his enemy picked his battaile. To the side of Edemade came many of the English, to that his Army was greatly encreated, and their courages inhamted, which made the Danglish Guidiers form what to droope. (3) Notwithflanding, vpon the twentieth of Inne, 1016, their battailes loined, and with equal form continued all the day, withle neight confirmed continued that the day, will the night confirmed them to part. (B) But their bloud not cold, the next day they buckled together agains with no leffe courage then before, till at length the Danes were going down, & the English great forwardness of victory: which when the Traitour Earlier perceived, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was of format, alike when the Traitour Earlier perceived, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was of format, alike when the Traitour Earlier perceived, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was of format, and the Danes were going down, & the English is boody forout with the halfe-galpin bead, rich worth to had the English the preventions; fill, and get amay faryow King is juine, stood down to the hot of the English the preventions; fill, and get amay faryow King is into the content of the prevention of the pre		I Ificy to deliroy, made prefently thicherwood and t and in the region of the grant a place called Storeflaw, in the light of his year a place called Storeflaw, in the light of his year a place called Storeflaw, in the light of his year many of the English to that his Army was greated with a great to do the continued all the day, wailt the night continued to the Daws trained the more part. (6) But their bloud not cold, the next day they bucked to gether agains with no left (courage the before, till at length the Daws were going down, & the English ingreat forwardness of victory: which when the Tanitour Edirk perceived, he cut off the heart day that the heart day to the heart day the heart day to the heart day heart day to the heart day the day to the heart day heart day heart day heart day he day to dender the wares between the heart day he day he dender the wares between the heart day he day he dender the wares between the heart day he day he dender the heart day he day h		his imail and ouertired company, whom Canut, the fight of his enemy piched his battaile. To the side of Edmand.came many of the English, to that his Army was greatly encreafed, and their counges inhaunted, which made the Danglis foundaries of the Managed of the English his boody sword with the halfe gall interface of the English his boody sword with the halfe gall the cape which the head of a foulther, whole name was of means, like yet writtens, fill, and get amay faryow King is jainer, belood from the host to the host of the English is the yet writtens, fill, and get amay faryow King is jainer, belood from the host of the English is the yet writtens, fill, and get amay faryow King is jainer, belood from the host of the English is the yet writtens, fill, and get amay faryow King is jainer, belood for the high shoody favord with the halfe gall the yet writtens, fill, and get amay faryow King is jainer, belood for the high shoody favord with the halfe gall the yet writtens, fill, and get amay faryow King is jainer, belood for the high shoody favord with the halfe gall the yet writtens, fill, and get amay faryow King is jainer, belood for the high shoody favord with the halfe gall the yet writtens, fill, and get amay faryow King is jainer, belood for the high three he might be the content of the promote of the promote of this treatment found that the promote of the p			Rocheller, where he a while lay still to learne what aide of Edmandcame many of the English, to that his Army was greatly encreeded, and their courses; inhauniced, which made the Dough Boulders from what to droope. (3) Notwithflanding, vpon the twentieth of land their courses; inhauniced, which made the Dough Boulders from the twentieth of their parties of the properties. The properties of the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties. The properties of the properties of the properties of the properties. The properties of the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties. The properties of t				Edwards ness walled the Country in their return, and with a great print and the Day Broad p		latte of Eamand came many of the English to that		rations.
what to droope. (3) Notwithlanding, ypon the twentich of Issue, 1016, their battalies isniend, and with equal former continued all the day, will the night confirmed continued the Daser were going down, & the Engilfor great forwardnes of victory: which when the Traitour Earlie precised, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like with the Traitour Earlie precised, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like with the Traitour Earlie precised, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like with the Traitour Earlie precised, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like with the traitour Earlie precised to the head off the head off a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like was broken, and the Dares of the whole army was broken, and the Dares of the whole army was broken, and the Dares of the whole army was broken, and the Dares of the whole army was broken, and the Dares of the whole army was broken, and the Dares of the Engilfs. File yet writtens, life, and get amay favow King is lainer, behalf stere is his lead, therefore he head of the training to the linguistic particular to the distribution of the training to the linguistic particular to the life of the Engilfs. The was broken, and the Dares of the Head of the Engilfs who was broken, and the Dares of the Head of the Engilfs was laken agained the training the precince, & the appears are the precision of the Engilfs, was called again to the barries the contrained to the finding to the contrained to the Armies of the Engilfs, was called againe into faculty and the contrained to the finding to the bound of the Engilfs was taken againe into faculty and the contrained to the contrained t
(3) Notwithstanding, youn the twensieth of Internation of Internat		what to droops
18th, 1016. their battuales oined, and wish equal forme continued the day, with the night confirmed continued that the day, with the night confirmed continued that the day. The process of the process		(s) Notwithstanding when the trues of the fortune continued all the day, wnill he night control of the course the better gains with no left courage the better that the property of the part of the pa		14me, 1016, their battailes joined, and with constit	like array to many himselfe in most war-
itrained them to part. (6) But their bloud noteold, the next day they buckled together agains with no leffe courage then before, till at lengths the Danes were going down, & the Englishing treat forwardness of vickory: which when the Traitour Earlie perceived, he cut off the head of a foolkler, whole name was Ofmeans, like when the Traitour Earlie perceived, he cut off the head of a foolkler, whole name was Ofmeans, like when the Traitour Earlie perceived, he cut off the head of a foolkler, whole name was Ofmeans, like when the Traitour Earlie perceived, he cut off the head of a foolkler, whole name was Ofmeans, like when the Traitour Earlie perceived, he cut off the head of a foolkler, whole name was Ofmeans, like when the Traitour Earlie perceived, he cut off the Capture of the whole army was broken, and the Danes's low on the hold of the English: File yet writtens, life, and get anny favow. Time is plained, the contrained heart was the properties of the part of the English who heart would have the second of the theory of the whole army of the whole army of the whole army of the whole army of the heart of the part of a wife General, and other perceived, the appearant reactory of Duke Earlie was then again to the hard of the proposition, part of agains the hardles of the man, and chirdly interporting, part of agains the hardles of the man, and chirdly interporting, part of agains the hardles of the man, and chirdly interporting, part of agains the hardles of the man, and chirdly interporting, part of agains the hardles of the man, and chirdly interporting part of the English was taken againe into factory, and hard himfelf outwardly faire for his offers. (a) The hird day appearing, both the Armies prepared for battaile but yet food thill without any artempts, oney referring their werively middles in the counternance of the man, and chirdly into the fooled of the middle of the part of the par	Simen Dun,		taile in a furious manner auticity beganne the bat-
before, till at lengths the Danes were going down, & the Engilfs ingreat forwardnes of vickory: which when the Traitour Enfir perceived, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like with the Traitour Enfir perceived, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like with the Traitour Enfir perceived, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like with the Traitour Enfir Perceived, he cut off the head of a foulther, whole name was Ofmensus, like with the traitour and the Danes of the whole army was broken, and the Danes of the whole army was broken, and the Danes of the whole army was broken, and the Danes of the whole army was broken, and the Danes of the whole army was broken, and the Danes of the length is the English . He had canded the was the was been and the Danes of the length of the English . He had canded the was the was the many that the the content of the perceived the was the was the same of the English and the Content of the Conten	мантер.	itrained them to part.	blondy for fourt hourse Grand which continued verie before, till at length the Dasse were going down, & the Engilia mere of towardness of victory: which when the Taitour Edirik perceived, he cut off the head of a foolkler, who for ame was off-mean, lake and a foolkler, who for ame was off-mean, lake the head of a foolkler, who for ame was off-mean, lake the head of a foolkler, who for a mean of omeran, lake the head of a foolkler, who for a mean of omeran, lake the head of a foolkler, who for a mean of the head of the late of the la		buckled together agains with a laft
the English ingreat forwardnes of victory: which when the Trainour Early precised, he can off the head of a fouldier, whose name was of foneurs, like was been, and the first of the whole army was broken, and the first of the f		Derore, till at length the Danes were going down &		Paledon.
was broken, and the Dandellaine on all landellaine and landelaine and landellaine and landellaine and landellaine and landella with Malmalay. Malmal		William the I millour Edith perceived be ont off the	was broken, and the Osmerdaine and the Whole army	Kan. Higd. Mat. Welmmiler and flaking his bloody fword with the half-egal pin bed, cried wurte he for fished part and flaking head, cried wurte he flag flish fair yet written, flis, and get amy forows King is flaine, beheld here his head, therefore feet must follow on a wear of the property of the flight flight per written. (7) But Edmand hauing prefent notice of this treacher's interest flight			it is reported that Canute loft fourge shoulded for ping head, cried wato the holf of the English. Fale yes written, flit, and get amay favors King & Jaime, betold here is his band, therefore feeks now to faue your eventuars. (?) But Edward having prefern notice of this trees cherous flittageme, and lecing his men ready to give over the fight, hafted himselfie where he might be belt feene, encouraging his Army to fland to it like true Englishmen, and poling from raske to make, both performed the parts of a wise Generall, and underwentthe dangers of the meanes floudider-his men feeting his preferoe, & the apparant trees cheros of the enemy: but the night approaching parted agains the bartiale of this keond day: Drie Edivic, the care the reby had testieve in single the state of the English, who kept King Edward therefore make, paparant trees, the content of the state of the sta	vil. Melmibury.	and fleking his bloody found with 1 16		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
yet writies, life, and get amay faryow King is plaint, behold here his brack therefore yet me plane, yet were linet. (7) But Edmund hauing prefers notice of this treacher's littratagence, and feeing his men ready to give our the high, thatfed himside where he might be best feene, encouraging his Army to fland to it like true Engillituane, and poling from ranke to make, both performed the parts of a wise General, and underwent the dangers of the meanth flouditershis men feeting his preferee, & the apparant treachery of Dake Early, bent their lows against the traition, and underwent her dispersion of the meanth flouditershis men feeting his preferee, & the apparant treachery of Dake Early, bent their lows against the traition, and underwent her dispersion of the strength of the first of t	www.ceecus.	ping head, cried vnto the hoft of the English a Elia
betold here is his bread, laterfore feek now in fame your owne lines. (7) But Edward having prefers notice of this tree- cherous itratageme, and feeing his men ready to give over the fight, hafted himselfie where he might be belf feene, encouraging his Army to fland to it like true Englithmen, and politing from ranke to nake, both performed the parts of a wise Gene- nill, and underwent the dangers of the meanef floul dier-his men feeing his preferoe, &the apparant trea- chery of Duke Edwir, bent their bows against the trai- tour, and had floot him to death, had be not preferely anoided to the enemy: but the night approxime, parted againse the beattaile of this Econd day: Duke Edwir excussing his fait, as beeing meerely midsten the countenance of the man, and thrifting to flow the countenance of the man, and thrifting to flow the countenance of the man, and thrifting to flow the countenance of the man, and thrifting to flow the countenance of the man, and thrifting to flow the countenance of the man, and thrifting to flow the countenance of the man, and thrifting to flow the countenance of the man, and thrifting to flow the season. (8) The third day appearing, both the Armice prepared for bastaile, but yet flood fill withoursay artempt, onely referding their werked; and almost ited bodies, and burying the dead flaine in the two daise fightes before. (9) The night following, Camstus in great fi- "Measure Losses" (10) The sight following, Camstus in great fi- "Samman Mobility, Duke Alfferd, and Marijo Abboo." (11) Measure Losses (12) Measure Losses (13) Measure Losses (14) Measure Losses (15) Measure Losses (16) Definy, make Edwise, make Edwise, make Edwise, with the flast of the flowing in the flast of the flast of the flowing in the flast of the
(2) But Edward having perfent notice of this treacherous Bratageme, and feeting his men ready to give our the fight, harded finallied where he might be beld feene, can be a subject to the feet of the feener of the feener of the feet of the feener of the feet		behold here is his head, therefore feeke now to faue your cherous thratageme, and lecing his men ready to give our the hight, harded himselfe where he might be belt seen, encouraging his Army to shand to it like true Engishmen, and possing from ranke to make, both performed the parts of a wise Generall, and underwent the dangers of the mentel floud diershis men feeing his presence, & the apparant treachery of Duke E drift, bert their lows against the trainteour, and had floor him to death, had he not presently anoided to the enemy. But the high rapproching, parted against the bartaile of this second day: Duke Land County, and her English, was caken against into factoring the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mildken before the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mildken, garden the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mild her the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mild her the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mild her the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mild her the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mild her the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mild her the counting his fast, as beeing mercely mild her three miles from Suffyen Vidden, game battaile to Country, and her English, was caken againe into favoure, and her battaile but yet he had to be a subject to the country. (8) The third day appearing, both the Armies of the country, one of the country of the cou giue ouer the fight, hafted himselfe where he might bebelf feene, encouraging his Army to he ille true Englishmen, and positing from make to make, both performed the parts of a make, to make, both performed the parts of a make to make, both performed the parts of a make to make, both performed the parts of a make to make to make, both performed the parts of the manuel floud dier. him the clearly had been control to the fight approximate the court, and had fine thim to death, had been proportionly anoided to the enemy: but the night approximate the court againe the bartiale of this food make to make the bload of the English was taken againe into fine to make the bload of the English was taken againe into fine to make the bload of the English was taken againe into fine to make the bload of the English was taken againe into fine to make the bload of the English was taken againe into fine to make the bload of the English was taken againe into fine to make the bload of the English was taken againe into fine to make the bload of the English was taken agained into fine to make the bload of the English was taken agained into fine to death and the counternance of the man, and think of the statistic to Country. (3) The third day appearing, both the Armica perpared for bastralle-but yet food thill without any attempt, onely reflexing their work of the English was the day and the better and English, the courternance of the day and the better and English, the counternance of the man, and think of the		cherous firstageme, and feeing his man and feeing the true Engillinane, and poling from ranke to make, both performed the parts of a wife Generall, and underwent he dangers of the meanth floul diershis men feeting his perfence, &the apparant treathery of Dake Early heart their bows against the traited to the enemy. For the late proporting and had for him to death, had he not perfently another to the the traited of this fecond day: Dake Early country. But the night appropring, and the country heart the traited of this fecond day: Dake Early country, and her him feet going had the country her to the statistic to the enemy. The statistic to the traited of this feet and the country had the statistic to the statistic t
sanke, both performed the parts of a wife Generall, and warderwent the dangers of the meanel floudiers his men feering his perfector, &the apparant treated by a perfect perfe			vreing the danger of amounts, by guilefull leafure in aftery to path one time. Iffer, and control the control that th			bodies of his fouldiers, forhar Caputer beraby had diershis men feeing his prefence. & the apparant trea- chery of Duke Early been their Dows againd the trai- tour, and had thot him to death, had hen to prefently anoided to the enemy: but the night approchine, parted againe the barriale of this feeond day: Duke Larly excursion is executing his fact, as beeing meerely militaken to Loury, and bare himselfee outwardly larie for his Country. (8) The third day appearing, both the Armies prepared for barriale, but yet flood thill without any attempts, onely refuling their werkerly, and admindtived bodies, and burying the dead flaine in the two dates flights before. (9) The night following, Comstus in great fi- dates flights the Country. (9) The night following, Comstus in great fi- dates flights before. (9) The night following, Comstus in great fi- dates flights before. (9) The night following, Comstus in great fi- dates flights before.			leafure in latery to patie ouer into Effex.
chery of Duke Edrif, bent their bowsagainfit the trail- tour, and had floot him to death, ald not not prefeatly anoided to the enemy: but the night approching, parted againe the bartatile of this fector day: Duke Edrif excussing his fact, as beeing merely midsten three miles from Suffron Vilden, game battaile to Country. (a) The third day appearing, both the Armice prepared for battaile, but yet flood fill withoursely artempt, onely referring their worked; and almost ited bodies, and burying the dead flaine in the two daies fightes before. (b) The night following, Camatus in great fi- with Castant Ethiopo of Lineakes, and Welfy Abbo. (c) The night following, Camatus in great fi- since the batterian of the Hadden of the Suffron Camatus (his without the Castant Ethiopo of Lineakes, and Welfy Abbo. (c) The night following, Camatus in great fi-tour, and had floot him to death, had he not prefectly anoided to the entemp. Further death of the second day: Dake Landing of this fecond day: Dake Landing to this fecond day: Dake Landing to this fecond day: Dake Landing to the counterance of the man, and thirffing to one the blood of the English, was taken againe into famour and the himselfe outwardly faire for his counter that the landing the landing landing the landing la		chery or Duke Earth, bent their bows posinft the trail		A battaile before made preparation duties and at Africa fore made preparation of the Contract of this feod day: Dake Ediric excussing his fact, as beeing mererly midthen there miles from Soffmon Worldon, you be trailed to be such a bloud of the English, was taken againe into famour, and bare himless of contract, and been withing to such the Country. (8) The third day appearing, both the Armies prepared for bastalle, but yet food fill without any attempts, onely refining their week-ried, and almost ited bodies, and burying the dead flaine in the two dates fighter before. (9) The night following, Camatus in great fill. (9) The night following, Camatus in great file.
Ladvit couling his fact, as beeing mercely mildken the country of the man, and the fifthy was clear against into factority, and her lamifelte outwardly faire for his country. (8) The third day appearing, both the Armies prepared for battalle, but yet flood thill without any artempte, onely referring their washed, and the first bedough the country. (9) The night following, Camatus in great fit. (9) The night following, Camatus in great fit. (9) The night following, Camatus in great fit. (10) The night following of the fit of the in the countenance of the man, and thirffing to fine the countenance of the man, and thirffing to fine the bould of the English was taken againe into finours, and bare himselfe outwardly faire for his Country. (3) The third day appearing, both the Armies prepared for bartistle, but yet food thil without any attempt, onely refruiting their webrief, and aimont itred bodies, and burying the dead flaine in the two daies fighre before. (6) The night following, Commun in great fisher with the country of the country	i
the bloud of the Englifth, was taken againe into fa- uour, and bare himfelfe outwardly faire for his Country. (a) The third day appearing, both the Armies prepared for battalle, but yet flood fill without any attempt, onely refringing their werker, and tired bodies, and buying the dead flaine in the two daies fighted before. (b) The night following, Camatus in great fi. (c) The night following, Camatus in great fi.	friks excuse.
uour, and bare himfelfe outwardly faire for his Country. (8) The third day appearing, both the Armies prepared for bartaitchout yet flood fill without any attempt, onely refriding their webrief, and aimon't ired bodies, and burying the dead filine in the two dise fighre-before. (9) The night following, Camatus in great fi- with Catanuts Bishop of Lineskee, and Welfy Abbos. (20) The night following, Camatus in great fi- with Catanuts Bishop of Lineskee, and Welfy Abbos.		the bloud of the English; was taken agains in a C	Wille With conall change of foile or of visions and
(6) The third day appearing, both the Armies prepared for bartaile, but yet flood fill without any attempt, onely refringing their wedrick, and aimont tired bodies, and burying the dead flaine in the two daies fighter before. (6) The night following, Camatus in great fishers.	- 1	uour, and bare himfelfe outwardly faire for hie prepared for bastalle, but yet flood fill without any gartempte, onely refelting their worker, and the strength of the day, and the drived bodies, and buying the dead flaine in the two daies fighte before. (a) The night following, Camatus in great fit. (b) The night following, Camatus in great fit. (c) The night following for the dead flaine in the two daies flaine flaines for the dead flaine in the two daies flaines for the dained flainest flaines flaine	ł		with his french water their Gd-
attempt, onely refreshing their wedrick; and almost tired bodies, and burying the dead flaine in the two dates fights before. (e) The night following, Carntus in great fishers.	l	nrepared for harmily by	their battaile, which otherwise was at point and rired Bodies, and burying the dead flaine in the two daies fights before. (c) The night following, Cernstu in great fi- with Caston Billstop of Linester, and Welfy Abbot 1.		attempt, onely refreshing about 111 Without any	loft, whereby the Danes regained the day and the daies fights before. (9) The night following, Canatas in great fit. "All Medmet, Dake Allefred, Dake Gasénin, Dake Callefred, Dake Gasénin, Dake Allefred, Dake Gasénin, Dake Gasénin, Dake Allefred, Dake Gasénin, Dake Gasénin			betrated English, the ouerthrow. There died of
(9) The night following, Canatus in great fit with Cadnoth Bishop of Lincolne, and Wolfey Abbot Restlief.	- 1	daies fights before.
Discourse, and welley Abbot Rest Bird's.	1	(9) The night following, Canatus in great fi.	with Cadnoth Bishop of Lincolns, and Earle Vrehell, Si	man Daw.
of		- 0-m 114	Abbot 84	us.Higd:n.

Edrift excule.

Fample, belides other of the Cirrgy that were come chitches of pray for the preferration of the time of the come thinks of pray for the preferration of the time of the come chitches of the come chitches of the come of the	two Princes; coafted you reft. (17) Thus last period, at with a hard of the remains of the rema	the Kingdome disided by Edmand chiving that pa France, and Caunte entrithen the Saxon Monarchy du their tottering crowne small band, was fuddain their tottering crowne small band, was fuddain to the small band, was fuddain the small band, was fuddain the small band, was fuddain to the small band, was fuddain to the small band the fud of the door for the danuars of a the middle flat deeper into Ca du them do for hutters made the datugght into his 50 when the fuddant of the fuddant o	are that lay ng vpon the ang vpon the fall graiped neltyy torne plotted and compound f both the condumnative who cockity, was abody with a crous Edrick felented it to All hale, here behold the f four-raine, d.k. fore grictempt, repliration, the contract of the compound	he Kingdode areal betweent bed, Il downted mut- thered. A spir, Oith Highen.
ed as retained vinto this day, by certaine installiles there remaining, whence have been eiged the bones of men. Armour, and the watchiniso choiré-brides. (14) King Edmand Armour, and the watchiniso choiré-brides. (14) King Edmand Armour, and the watchiniso choiré-brides. (14) King Edmand Lander annéed vinto Glausteure (14) King Edmand Lander (14) Control Causteure-wollen in conceitor this his great victorie, vinto whom then the Londoner fabinitier, and foi did nany other great townes of Name; after which her followed Edmand into the Welt, who now kie a Typar robbed of her Whelpes, feeking the cuence of his lot day, gathered amolt pullfant Army, meaning to trie the vitermost chance of accept and the state of the control of the c	reft. (17) Thus laft period, an wint a hard 2 from the Iron haltned death of recolons, gi Kings, to fer ceit, contriue being recired thrull from that period thrull from that period thrull from that period thrull from the period of the perio	then the Saxem Monarchy and their tottering crowne bought hand, was finddain bought hand, was finddain For Duke Edwird a very lutted with the fauours of a thinefile depart into Cat dine end of renowmed E and the end of renowmed E and the end of the thangul timo his soluring the thangul timo his soluring the thangul timo his soluring the hand, prehelf fawming fallutations. Admarch of Familiand, for the paperner, which for thy fake uph ambitions inough of including the solution, about the solution of the solution of the face of the solution of the face of the solution of the face of the solution of th	Epent to the fall grafped neltyy torne plott ed and y compound f both these and the body with a crous Edrick clented it to All hase, here behold the I have a duenty replication, replication, replication, replication, replication, and the second second processes and the second processes are second processes and the second processes and the second processes and the second processes are second processes are second processes and the second processes are second processes are second processes are second processes and the second processes are second processes are second processes are second processes are second pro	E dis shal mut- hered. A Spic faith Higden.
(14) King Edmand thus traiter only forced to re- tice from the field, on foot marched vmo Glome- ter with a very finall Army, leauing Canariouer- woulen in conceits for this his great vedvorie, vmo wollen in conceits or this his great vedvorie, vmo whom then the Londoner's fubmitted, and fo did many other great townes of Name, after which tee followed Edmand into the Welt; who now kee a Typar robbed of her Wheleps, feeking the cuenge of his lold day, gathered a moft puilfant Army, meaning to trie the vetremoft chance of are, or Battaile. Their hoftes meete at Desr- wigh neere vnto the riter Saearne, where they were refoluedly bent to ethablith the conest itle with he others downfell; and now being ready to opyne, a certaine Captaine of vncertaine name, lept forth (ais reported) betwitz the two Ar- mies, and vtered in effect this fipeech. 4 (15) Many battaile, haue beene fought, and 'too much bloud already fulf for the foucertainnite of this Land, betwitz thefe two fire the side of the s	trom the Iron halthed death of treasons, and halthed death of treasons, to fer ceit, contriue being retired thruli from with a few of the thou new fole-best of the canut, the treasons of the canut, the treasons when the canut, and wow, gets owne head his kingdom swrect attime, faith commund, his mount of the canut, the commund, the canut the canut the canon with the manuel, his the canon with the manuel, his	visible helmer, by his comp For Duke Ederke a very Larde with the fauours of the helmer of the helmer of the helmer or a place for natures her helmer of the helmer of the helmer y which door, the treache to which door, the treache helmer of the helmer of the helmer helmer of the helmer of the helmer of the helmer worthy and diffoliall an art of the helmer of that for howide to advanced above at Which high honour wh	plotted and y compound f both these annet his condiments who cessity, was body with a crous Edrick esented it to All haste, here behald the I have aduenting the four agnetic project on the project of the principle of the princi	hered. A spie,[sich Higden.
nany other great townes of Name; after which tee followed Edmail into the Welfs, who now the followed Edmail into the Welfs, who now the carryage robbed of her Whelpes, feeking the euenge of his loft day, gathered a molt putifiant Yarny, meaning to trie the vetermost chance of Face, or Battaille. Their hoftes meet as Densembly increased the properties of the properties	being retired thrulft from v finarpe speare cutting off h Canut with tl thou new fole- bead of thy Ca tured to cut off Canut, tho try, yet of pr ued at so vn ed, and vow gers owne bead his king dame. digious wret atime, faint uom with the maund. his	to a place for natures need to depth into his to which done, the treach is Soueraignes head, pre- hele fawning falutations. Menarch of England, for 1, ugh ambitions inough of incely diffootion, abaftee worthy and difficial an and chain remark of that fe though the advanced above Which high honour wh	cefsity, was body with a crous Edrick clented it to All haile, here behold the I have a duen- f foueraigned, & fore grietempt, replirate, the bris-	hered. A spie,faith Higden.
ike a Typar robbed of her Whelpes, feeking the cuence of his lot day, gathered a moth putifiant Army, meaning to trie the vetermost chance of face, or Battaile. Their holks meete at Dear- my? here wro the riuer Sauerne, where they were refolucelly bette to ethablish the ones title with the others downefall; and now being ready to oyne, a certaine Captaine of vonecratine name, lepte forth (aris reported) betwite the two Armies, and wtered in effect this fpection. Fought, and (17) Many barrailes, haute for the fouer-signitic of the control of the control of the control of the control and the control of the control of some state of the control of the control of some state of the control of some state of the control of southers and the southers are southers and the southers and the valous of the Generals, Captaines and southers affected the southers and the valous of the Generals, Captaines and southers affected the southers and southers and the valous of the Generals and the valous of the Generals are southers and southers and the valous of the southers and southers are southers and southers	finarpe speare cutting off h Canut with al thom new felse- head of the Canut, tho twent to cut off Canut, tho ty, yet of pr ued at so vn: ed, and vow. ed, and vow. digious wree atime, faith c now with the maund, his	es which done, the treaches is Sourciaignes head, pre heefe fawning falunations. Monarch of Englands, for, It spartner, whichfur thy fake ugh ambitious inough of incely diffosition, abashes worthy and diffosial an art ed, that in reward of that for I flowlid be advanced abone a Which high honour when Which high honour when the source was the Which high honour when which high honour when which high honour who which high honour who who was a supplied to who was a supplied who was a supplied to who was a supplied to who was a supplied who was a supplied	erous Edrick elented it to All haile, here behold the I have a duen- f foueraigne- d,& fore grie- tempt, repli- ruice the brin-	Higden, must here wroo the ruter Sauerne, where they were refolucely better of etablish the ones title with he others downfall; and now being ready to oyone, a certaine Captaine of voncertaine name, lepse forth (as is reported) betwite the two Armies, and wtered melted this peckers. (17) About the reforming the refo	tured to cut off Canut, tho tys, yet of pr ued at so you ed, and yow, gers owne head his kingdome. digious wret a time faith to uour with his	c ugh ambitious inough of incely disposition, abashec worthy and dissolid an au ed, that in reward of that for I should be advanced aboue a Which high honour wh	f soueraigne- d,& sore grie- tempt, repli- truice,the brin-	Cathorium punci- The chathe crait (62)
oyne, a certaine Captaine of vncertaine name, lepef orth (ais reported) betwick the two Ar- mies and vttered in effect this fipech. 4 (15) Many bactailes haue beene fought, and 4 too much bloud already fult for the fouer-signitie 4 of this Land, betwick thefe two firere Nations, 4 and the valours of the Generals, Captaines and 5 ouldiers fulficiently tried, wherein euen fortune 4 for lefte feemeth to haue beene conquered; for 4 for lefte feemeth to haue beene conquered; for 4 for lefte where wonone, it was not fong kept,	ty, yet of pr ued at so vive ed, and vowe gers owne head his kingdome. digious wrice atime, faith co aour with the maund. his	incely disposition, abashed worthy and disloials an att ed, that in reward of that fet I should be aduanced aboue a Which high honour wh	d,& fore grie- tempt, repli- ruice,the brin-	theth the craitfer
*too much bloud already fight for the four-rightite of this Land, betwist thefe two fierce Nations, and the valours of the Generals, Captaines and Souldiers fufficiently tried; wherein euen fortune ther felfe feemeth to haue beene conquered; for if fone Battaile were wonne, it was not long kept,	arime, faith c	Which high honour wh ch preedily expected, (an	niles this pro- l
"if one Battaile were wonne, it was not long kept,		Malmesbury, hee found for King:) foone after, by the head bad his shoulders f	nd indeed for me shew of fa- he Kings com- farewell, and	spil, Malushery,
"neither the lofer so weakened, but that hee had both courage and power to winne the nextewhat "is the marke then that you aimeat? is it honour and same? Titles indeed which accompany war;	(18) The	vpon the highest Gate to etraiterous death of this w rme, was acted at Oxford; wrote Encomium Emma, a	orthy Prince, yet the Au-	Old Manufe, Fabian, Ran Bigden,
"but neither long enjoyed, nor much attained vin- tro by the common Souldiers, by whose valours and bloud it is for the most part wonne. Let thin therefore that would weare the Diademe, there the beyond himselfe, without the confusi-	fame time, died of a n his owne doct cannot long for Edmund, le	blancheth the matter, fa aturall death in London: irine, that a Kingdome disi land, and pittying the Engl ft if the Kings had continued	ying that hee God minding ided in it [elfe, lifk, tooke away ad long together,
"of a fingle combat, who shall command, and "who obey, or divide betwixt them the King- "dome, which may suffice two, that hath main-	That hee Durham agte bont the Fe	uble. died in London , Simon t eeth, and faith further, it eaft of S. Andrew: and A	the Monke of it chanced a- Warianus is of	Simon Dunel. Markan, Scotns. Edmunds raign Polychr.
Edriks; but I hardly believe to good a motion	uen moneti	nes, and his body buried a	at Giajtenbury;
Armies, entred into a small Iland, embraced about	dy, firong trauels of v	was of perfonage tall, for of limmes, and well cou warre, informeth that for antide, given him onely y	or courage, har- ald endure the me deeme the roon that occa-	The feature of Edmand, dangeroully on horiebacke, and after as variantly	and the age feemed to chre.	d body of their fore bru- bee buried with him in the	ised Monarchy he same Sepul-
combate continued with an absolute resolutions, at length Casuse having received a dangerous wound and feeing himfelfe ouermatched in ftrength, with field a comprimite, and thus spake to Edmund with least view.	widow of Nobleman with his b	Sigefersh, the sonne of E of Northumberland; wh rother Morear, was murt	E ngrin a Danijh hich Sigeferth thered at Oxfora
"what necessity should thus move us maje valual "Prince, that for the obtaining of a Title, we shou "thus endanger our lines? better it were to lay m "lice and Armour aside, and to condiscend to a l "ning agreement: let us therefore now become sworn thing agreement. Limit she Kingdom betweet it. 81	by the tree Lady being after the d his lands, w the Monal	afon of the neuer-taithfull g of great beauty, and no eath of her husband, and as by King Ethelred, comit flery of Malmesbury, when you in great love, and there	oble parentage the feifure of ted in charge to the Edmand fee married her a	f
"thers part as his owne; so some this tand to peace bly gouerned, and we identify assistant to each other	- 1	His I suc.	•
Whereuponthey both cast downe their lword imbracing as friends with the great ioy and sho ting of both their Armies, who stood before dout fully aguering between those and searce, and looking the water in the strength of the search of the s	Queen An	lgith his wife, was furname ined out of England in Ha through the raigne of Co to Dance Bur when his	ed the Outlaw, be ungary as a ban: anut, and of hi vncle King Ea	lavr.
4 4 4	"who obey, or duude betware them the Anng- 'dome, which may fulficewo, thathath mini- 'tained foren. (16) Some affirme that this speech was Duke 'Lehrist', but I hardly belieue to good a motion floud proceeds from so bad a man; by whom for euroverred, it was acceptably to find the some of the control of	of a fingle combar, who shall commands and who obey, or duide betwist them the King who obey of the between the combard of the between the combard of the between the combard of the curvarence is to acceptably received by Edward of the curvarence is to acceptably received by Edward of the curvarence is to acceptably received by Edward of the curvarence is to acceptably received by Edward of the curvarence is to acceptably received by Edward of the curvarence is to acceptably received by Edward of the curvarence is to acceptably received by Edward of the curvarence is the final the curvarence is the curvarenc	of a fingle combar, who shall command, shot who obey, or duide betwite them the King-dome, which may fuffice two, that hath main-trained leaves. (16) Some affirm that this figered was Duke for extracting the curvertee, it and the firms of proceeds from an expanding the curvertee, it and the firms of the curvertee, it was the curvertee, it is a firm of the curvertee, who thereupon in light of their small and entered that a firm of the curvertee, who thereupon in light of their small curvertee, who thereupon in light of their small curvertee, and the firms opinion, being the year of the firms of t	of a fingle combar, who final commands, and who obey, or diside between them the King who obey, or diside between them the King who obey or diside between them the King who obey or diside between them the King and the proceeds from for bed a man to show the proceeds from for bed a man to show the following the proceeds from for bed a man to show the following the proceeds from for bed a man to show the following the fo

His wife.

he was by him recalled, and most honourably in his Court enterained, till lastly, hee was taken away by death in the City of London, the yeere of Christ, 1057. He married Agatha sister to Queene Sophia, wife to Salomon King of Hungary, and Septia, wire to satomen Aing of Mangary, and daughter to the Emperour Henrie the Econd; by whom hee had Edgar, furnamed Etheling, confirmed heire apparant by Edward Confession, his great Vncle; which title notwithstanding, proceeded no further, for that hee was deprined thereof by Harold his Protector.

The daughters of this Edward, as after shall be faid, were Margaret and Christian, the younger of which became a valed Nunne at Ramfey in Hampfhire, where shee in that denotion spent her life, and was there interred.

Margaret the elder, and afterward fole heire vn to the Saxon Monarchy, married Malcolme the third of that name, King of Scotland, and commonly called Canmore: from which princely bed in a lineall descent, our high and mighty Monarch, King I AMES the first, doth in his most roiall person vnite the Britaines, Saxons, English, Normans, and Seetifh imperial Crownes in one,

(22) Edmund, the second and yongest sonne of King Edmund, and of Queene Algith his wife, after his fathers decease being a Child, was with his brothe Edward fent by Canute to Olane King of Swedon his halfe brother, to the intent, that he by murther should make them both away: but this King taking pitty on the innocent Childrens eftate, fent them to Salomon King of Hungarie, to the intent to have them faued, where they were received with great fauour and honour: and Mathew of Westminster reporteth, that this Prince married the daughter of the same King; and other Writers of these times, that he died in the same Country without any issue of his body.

(23) These two sonnes of the Ironside thus posted away, and the crowne already set vpon the Danes head, had not the meanes of themselues to displace it, nor the English, hearts to assist them to their right : fo that they rather secured themselves from violent deaths in this their exile, then made claime to that which was vnrecouerable; and left the Danes quictly to possesse the land, which so long they had molested with their sturdy Armes.

The End of the Seuenth Booke.

THE

THE ORIGINALL OF THE DANES, THEIR MANNERS, RELIGI-ON, AND INVASIONS OF ENGLAND, THE

RAIGNES OF THEIR KINGS HERE, UN. TILL THE CROWNE REVERTED AGAINE TO THE SAXONS, WORNE BY KING EDWARD THE CONFESSOR, AND AFTER HIM BY HAROLD THE LAST KING

OF THEIR RACE

CHAPTER I.

Spirite of God in his facred writings, to shew his all-commanding pow er ouer Kingdomes and Nations, compareth the transmigrations of pcople from country to country, vnto the transfission of wine from veffel to vet-

fell: and those that are at rest with sinne, to the setling upon their lees, as Moab did, against whom hee cursed that hand that was negligent in his worke of reuenge, and the fword that was not fleathed in their bloud. Eyen fo the finnes of the Saxons growne now to the full, and their dregs as it were funcke vnto the bottome, they were emptied by the Danes from their owne veifels, and their bottles broken that had vented their red & bloody wines: in lieu whereof, the Lord then gaue them the cuppe of his wrath, whose dregs hee had formerly (by their own hands) wrung out vpon other

(2) For these Saxons that had enlarged their kingdomes by the bloud of the Britaines, and built their nests high vpon the Cedars of others, (as the Prophet (peaketh) committed an enill couetousnesse unto their owne habitations, and were stricken by the same measure that they had measured voto others When as the Danes often attempting the lands inualion; and the subuersion of the English estate, made way with their fwords through all the Prouinces in thercalme; and laftly advanced the crowne vpon their owne helmets; which whiles it so stood, was worne with great honour, especially of Canutus the first and their greatest.

(3) Astouching this Nations originall, and first place of residing, seeing themselves know nothing at all, we cannot determine, but supposing them with Franciscus Irenicus, to be a branch of the ancient Germans, and knowing them by the testimonies of al others, to inhabite: in the same Country among them, we need not to doubt, but that their conditions and customes were much alike. Of the for mer, what we have observed, is already set downe, where we spake of our Saxons; & now of these later, what is supposed for truth shall be produced. (4) Their Danes so often mentioned by our historians, for the great afflicters of the English state and peace, were a people descended from the Soythians, as Andrew Velley a learned Danish Writter reportethe but Dudo of S. Quintin (an ancient Author) will have them to come from Seandia, an Iland fituated north-ward, not farre from the continent of Den-marke: which his opinion feemeth vnto fome to be firengthred by Ptolemie the Alexandrian, who in his Geography placeth the people Danciones (the supposed Ancestors of those Danes) in this Iland Scandia, at fuch time as himfelfewrote, which was in the raigne of Hadrian the Emperour, and about the yeere of Christs nativity 133. But wheresour the root had beginning, the branches did farre spread themfelues into the vpper Germany, and parts of Norway, and Sweyden, whose faire fruit more particularly filled that promontory, which tongue-like lieth into teu mar promontory, which congue-unce meta into the Ocean on the north, being ancienty called of the learned, Cumbriac Chefpoing, where (as Tatitu faith) was the ultimoff end of Nature, and of the world; a firange conceir indeed, and yer more firange was when they remoued their Colonies for Britaine, (5) In this place then the Danes laid first the fourdation of their Kingdome; which, from the word Mare, lignifying not a limit, but a region, was named Den-mare. But touching the former part of that com- Padrer velle; pounded name, the truth and original occasion is not ofoone found out: for the fearthing eye of truth hath long fince seene into the received fable of Danut their first King, and Giant-like sonne of Humbling their opinion, who were perswaded that the sound and noise of the Sunne was there heard at his dailie rifing and fetting in those seas. But from more warrantable witnesses its reported, that this was the very place which the Inter and Angles abandoned, though Verstegan of late holds it more certaine in the fearch of originals, to follow the grounded o-pinion that ancient Tradition hath held, then at randome to seeke them else-where: as these Danes (faith he) from Dan, and the Britaines from Brute; which truely for truth I hold much alike, and will herein make doubt as many more of riper judgement before me haue done.

(bap.I

*E/e*3 51.170

Verflegan, Ant.

(6) For Goropius Becamu deduceth the name Dane from Da-hen, fignifying a Henne, or rather (as some will) a fighting Cocke; Iunius, from Den, fignifying Firre-trees, which doe there abound.

Andrew Velley from a people in Seythia named Daha, of whom Iosephus maketh mention in his eighteenth booke, and placeth them by the Sace.

Ethelward our English historian will have them named from the faire City Donia. And Ionas Iacobus Venusinus, a diligent searcher of Antiquites, out of Pomponius Mela, findeth the names of certaine or rempension creata, function the manner of certainte Bays, opening into those parts, which now the Danes inhabite, to have beene ancientile written CDAN and CDANONVM; which Orthographic and Pronuntiation to the Latines was both harfh and hard, and therefore they added a vowell, and wroteit CODANUM and CODANO. NIA, whereof (it may be thought) these people gi-uen much to piracies, were knowne and called by that name, as breaking out of those Codanian seas. Some others from Ptolomie hauethought, that from his Dauciones placed in Scandia, and corruptly fo written for Danciones; the name of these Danes hath beene deriued; whereto the neerenesse of the place induceth much.

(7) For Nations Originals may well bee compared vnto a spring, whose current surcharged with continuall supply of more, first filleth the neere continual supply or more, and filled further, and at length are (oftentines) divided into rany and great "fireames: and euen so these Danes, (faith Dado of S. Quintim) after they had in heat, and lalciui-"ous lust ingendred an innumerable ofspring, swar-"med out of seandia like bees out of their hiues, & that both on divers occasions, and in very barba-"rous manner; for growne to ripeneffe of yeeres, &
"falling at strife with their Fathers and Grand-sires, railing acture with their partners and Grand-lives, "yea, and most commonly, among themselves for "ands and linely-hood, necessity compelled them "to disburden the land thus overflowed, for the bettet maintenance of the relidue, and to banish by "lot (after their ancient custome) a multitude of their wyouth, that might conquere by their fwords, in forraine Realmes, places to liue in.

These then thrust out of their owne, fell vpon other lands with no leffe danger then the falling of a fword out of the fheath, or rather, as the breaking in of a tempestuous sea vpon the neighbouring grounds, fore diffreffing their neighbour nations, & among them England not the leaft, as shalbe said.

(8) And yet their name was not much notified cambd. Britan. to the world before the raigne of Instinian the Emperour, about the yeere of mans faluation, 570, but then rouing upon the coasts of England, & France; in exercifing Piracies, were noted by writers by the name wiceing; for that Wiceings in the Saxon tongue, as Alfricas witnesseth doth fignific a Pirate; they were also called Pagani, for that they were not Christians; but by the English Denistan, and also Heathon-mon, as being Ethnicks.

(9) The manner of their Feligion, or rather fu- The Religion of perstition and Idolatry, was much like vnto the o-ther Germans and Saxons, whose principall God and Nationall reputed-Patron, was Thur, vnto whom the fourth day of the weeke for his feruice was affigned, whereof as yet it beareth his name Thur (day; who in his robes was fet vpon a sumptuous bed, the Canopie whereof was bespangled with startes of gold, who him they performed their chiese deuotions, and ascribed all their fortunes in their affaires; as the foresaid Duddoth more particularly relate.
They saith he) sarrificed onto Thur, whom they worshipped inold time as their Lord, for whom they killed not many sheepe, oxen, or other cattle, but offered onto him mens bloud, thinking that to be the most pretious oblation of all others; whom, when the Priest by casting of lots had destinated to death, they were all at once deadlie fmitten upon the head with oxeyokes; and tuery one thus chosen by lot, having at one stroke his braines dashed out, was laid along on the ground, and there with a narrow prying was fought out the Fibra, or weine of the heart on the left fide, whence drawing the bloud, as their custome ineuty jud., whence assume the booms, as tour various was, and therewith befinensing the beast of their derrift friends. forthwith they hole failes, thinking their Gods well placed with fuch farifices, and fore-decenting happie facces for their intended voings.

(10) Ditmense the Bilhop (tomewhat ancienter them Dudds recorded in another dereibable (inserthii).

then Dudo) recordeth another detestable superstition vied by the Danes to purchase the fauour of their Gods, Because (faith he) I have heard wonderfull reports of the ancient (acrifices which the Danes and Normans of the ancient factifies which the banes and Norman voicd, I will not let them pafe untouched. In those parts there is a place, and the chiefe it is of that Kingdome, cal-led Lederum, in a Province named Selon, where every ninth yeare, in the moneth of I anuary, after the time in which we celebrate the Nativity of our Lord, they all affemble together, and there they kill and facrifice unto their jemoie together, and there they kit and jet ripe unto their Gods ninety and nine men, and as many hor fes, with dogs, and also toeks, in slead of hawkes, assisting themselucishat hereby their Gods are fully pleased and pacified. And thus much may ferue for a taft and view of their customs, names and originals.

THE

THE DANES FIRST AT. TEMPTS AGAINST ENGLAND.

CHAPTER II.

An.Do.787.

John Stow. Lambert in Per-amb, mentio-

(bap.2.

Hough many were the Piracies of the Danes on the coasts of France and this our Island in former times; yet their arriuall heere, which gaue first breath to their enfuing conquests, was not till the wane of the Saxon Monarchie, about the yeere of Christs Incarnation seven hundred eighty seuen, in the raigne of Brightrik King of the West-Saxons : in whose dominions, after some proffer at Portland, they first came to land at Teigne-month in Denon-shire; beeing sent then with three Ships onely, to cspie the wealth of this Countrie, the forces of the Inhabismb, mentio-neth their Lan-ding at Tyne-mostb in the North, the neer-neffe of the name(it feemes) deceived him. tants, the commodities of the Hauens, and aduantage of arrivall for a greater power, which was to follow them. The Kings Lieuetenant and Prefect for that place, understanding of their landing, went himselfe to demand the reason thercof; and attempting to lay hands on some to carrie them to the Kings presence, hee was there flaine; which they tooke as a fortunate presage of the victories wherewith they afterward o-uerranne this Kingdome; though for the present the inhabitants enraged with the loffe of their Chiefe, addressing them in great numbers to reuenge, forced some to lose their lines by the sword, the rest to faue them by flight to their fhips,

An.Do.800. See the feuenth

Raueden.Le.e.x

(2) Notwithstanding their former preparations, they were contented to deferre their returne till ons, they were contented to deterret me returner and the dayes of King Egbert; whole raigne (as ellewhere we have touched) they disquieted with three seuc-rall invasions; the first in the North, , the second in wales, the last in Kent; in all which, the King though with many losses, and hazards of his owne person, yet with great resolutions persisted till hee had disburdened his land of so dangerous guests. But those Flesh-flies having once tasted the sweet, though thole Help-fuer naming once tatted the tweet, through often beatenoff, would not long bee kept away, but could calify take, or make occasions of fresh at-tempts; insomuch that after their first sooting they continued here their cruelties, rapine and spoile the space of two hundred and eighteene yeeres, neuer intermitting till they had got the garland upon their owne heads. The way whereunto was made vpon this ensuing occasion.

(3) Osbright a Northumbrian Viceroy, deputed by the West-Saxons, by chance, as hee followed his disport in Hunting, came to the house of a Noble man, named Beorn-Bocador, whose Lady of passing feature(in his absence)gaue him honourable entertainement, and intreated both himselfe and traine, to repose themselves there a while, after their wearifome delights. The Vice-roy already enfoared with her beauty, accepted her courteous offer, not fo much to tast her meates, as to surfeite his eyes with her rare beauty, and lasciniously to dote in his owne affections. The dinner ended, and all ready to depart, as though some weighty matters were to be handled, he commaunded an auoidance from the Presence, and taking the Lady into a withdrawing Chamber, vnder pretence of secret conference, greatly tending to the advancement of her Lord & felfe, most vnnobly, being not able to preuaile by smooth perswasions, did by force violate her constant chatity. Which dishonour thus received, and her minde distracted like to Thamars, at her husbands re-turne, all ashamed to behold his face whose bed had so beene wronged, with flouds of teares shee thus set open the fluces ofher passions,

(4) Had thy fortunes accorded to thine owne defert, or thy choice proceeded as by yow was ob-liged, then had no flaine of blemish touched thine honour, nor cause of suspicion once approched thy "thought: or had my felfe beene my felfe, thefe
"bluthing cheekeshad not inuited thy fharpe pier
"cing eye to looke into my guilty and defiled breath,
"which now thou mailt fee diffurnished of honour, and the closer of pure chastity broken vp; onely "the heart and foule is cleane, yet feares the taine-"ture of this polluted caske, and would have paflage "(by thy reuenging hand) from this loathfome pri-"fon and flithy truncke. I muft confelfe our fexe "is weake, and accompanied with many faults, yee
"none excufable, how finall focuer; much leffe the "greateft, which shame doth follow, and inward guite continually attendeth; yours, is created "more inviolable and firme, both againft allure"ments and enforcements: by whose constancy as our flexible weakenes is guarded, so our true honours by your just Armes should bee protected. o "Born, Beon, (for husband I dare not call thee) re"uenge therefore my wrongs, that am now made
"thy shame and scandale of my sexe, vpon that monfter, nay Diuell, Osbright, (O that very name corcorrupts my breath, and I want words to deplore 'my griefe) who hath no law but his luft, nor measure of his actions but his power, nor priuiledge for his loathsome life, but his greatnesse, whiles we with a selfe-seare, and seruile flatterie maske our basenesse with crouching obedience, & beare the wrongs of his most vile adulteries. Thou yet art free from such dejected and degenerate

"ed and euer-working vices: be stil thy self then, and truly Noble as thou art. It may be for his place thou owest him respect; but what? therewith the losse of honour?thine affection, but not thy bed; thy Loue "but not thy beloued, yet hast thou lost at once all these, and be thy only bereauer: thou wast my stay whileft I flayed by thee; and now beeing downe, re-thoughts, nor hast thou smoothed him in his wickdured.

"uenge my fall : the instinct of nature doth pitty our "weakenesse, the law of Nations doth maintaine our "honour, and the fivord of Knighthood is fworne by to be vnsheathed for our just defence a much more "the linke of wedlocke claimes it, which hath lockt "two hearts in one; but alas, that ward is broken, and I am thy shame, who might haue beene thine "honour. Reuenge thy selfe therefore both on him "and mee, elfe shall this hand let out the Ghost that "fhall still attend thee with acclamations, till thou re-

" uenge my stained bloud, (5) Birn vinwonted thus to bee welcommed, much amazed at his wives maladies, with gentle words drew from her the particulars of her inward griefe, who reucaled (as well as shame, and teares, and fobs, would fuffer) the manner of the deed, ftil vrging reuenge for the wrong, Bearn touched thus to the quicke, to pacifie his diffressed wife, did not a little diffemble his wrath, and excufing the fact, with the power of a Prince that might command, and her owne weak neffe vnable to relift the ftrength of a man; Commended much her loue and constancy; and alleadging his wrongs to bee equall with hers, if not greater, in regard of their fexe, willed her to fet her string to his tune till fitte opportunity would ferue to strike : but shee distasting that fweet confort, wrefted her passio into so high a strain, that nothing couldbe heard but reuenge & bloud.

(6) Beorn thus instigated by the continual cries of his wife, whose rape already of it selfe had given fufficient cause of wrath: first consulting with his necreft friends, was offered their assistance against that wicked and libidinous Prince, and then repairing to his Court, in presence of them all, made knowne his vnfufferable wrongs, and with vtter defiance departed, threatning his death.

This Nobleman in his youth had been brought vp in Denmarke, and is reported to have been alli-ed into the Danifb roiall bloud. Hee therefore accounted this nation the furest vnto himselfe, and the fittest in will and power to enter his quarrell: so comming to Goderick King of that Country, made his case knowne, instantly desiring his aide against the villanie of Osbright. Godericke glad to have some quarrell to enter Britaine, leuied an Armie with all speed, and preparation made for all things necessarie, sendeth forth inguar and Hubba two brethren to command in chiefe. ouer an innumerable multitude of his Danes : which two hee thought at this time the fittest for the attemps, not onely for their well approued refolution and valour, but also for that hee knew them to bee on particular motiues (which viually more affect then doth a common cause) implacably enraged against the English, on an occasion vnfortunately hap-

Flores bifforiam That is Leaning, but most lamentably pursued: which it will not bee amisse here to annexe. (7) A certaine Danish Nobleman of the roial incage named * Lothbroke, Father to this Inguar & Hubba, being vpon the shore, his Hawke in flying, the game fell into the Sea, which to recouer, hee entred a little Schiffe or Cock-boat, nothing foresceing the danger that immediately did ensue; for a fodaine tempest arising, carried the boat into the deepe, and droug him upon the coast of Norffolke, where hee came to land at the Port called Rodham and was no sooner seene, but hee was taken for a spie; and presently sent to Edmund, King then of that prouince, who in his answeres sufficiently cleared that suspition, when also declaring his birth & milfortune, he was honourably entertained in the Court of the East-Angles: whom the King much esteemed for his other good parts; but for his dexterity and expertnesse in hawking, held him in a speciall regard; insomuch that the Kings Falconer named Bericke, conceived both such secret envie and deadly hatred thereat, that having him alone in a wood, he cowardly murthered him, & hid his dead body in a Bush.

(8) Lothbroke in the Kings presence and Court was soone mist and diligent inquisition made could not bee found vntill his Spaniell, which would not forfake his dead Masters corps, came fawninglie vnto the King, as seeming to begge reuenge on so bloody an Act, which he did more then once, & at length being observed, and followed by the trace, the dead body was found; and Bericke connicted for the murther, his judgement was to bee put into Lothbrokes boat, and that without either tackle or Oare, as he therein arrived, and so left to the seas mercy to be faued by destiny, or swallowed up by just desert.

But behold the euent ; the Boat returned to the fame place, and vpon the same coast arrived from whence it had beene driuen, euen in Denmarke, where Bericke being known, and hands laid on hm, to free himselfe from the punishment of his butcherly fact, he added treason to murther, laying it to the charge of innocent King Edmund.

(9) In reuenge whercof, and likewise in Godericks quarrell, Inguar and Hubba, ions to the murthered Prince, being now made Generals of the Army of the Danes, first arriving at Holdernesse, burnt vp the Country, and without mercy maffa-cred all before them, sparing neither sexe, nor calling, norage; and furprizing Yorke, which Osbright had taken for his refuge, there flew that luftfull Prince with all his forces, and possessed that City; and afterwards burfting into Norfolke, fent this medfage vnto King Edmund. That Inguar the most victorious Prince, dread bothby fea and land, having fubdued divers Countries unto his subjection, and now arriued in those parts where hee meant to winter, charged Edmund to divide with him his riches, and to become his vassaile and servant.

The King aftonied at this ftrange and vnexpected Ambassage, consulted with his Councell, where one of his Bishops (then his Secretary, and a principall man) vied perswasions to him to yeeld, for preuenting greater mischiefe; who notwithstanding returned this answere: Goe tell your Lord, that Edmund the Christian King, for the love of this temporall life, will not subject himselfe to a Heathen and Pagan Duke. Whereupon Inguar and Hubba, with the furious Reb. Fabian. cap. Whereupon sugar and thoops, while the king to Thet-troupes of thein Danes, purfued the King to Thet-ford; and (as Fabian faith) to Framingham, others to Halesdom; where he pittying the tertible flaughter of seefa. his people, yeelded himfelfe to their perfecutions; and for that hee would not deny Christ, and his Christian faith, was bound to a tree or Stake, and with their arrowes fo fhot to death: whose body was afterward there buried, and thereupon tooke the name of S. Edmunds-bury; as wee have formerly touched in his raigne, Lib. 7. cap. 11.

(10) Whether these were the very true causes, or some other, which drew these Danes hither, most certaine it is and too lamentable experience showed, that hither they came (by Writers account) about the yeere of Christ eight hundred, and in the daies of King Brightrick. Neither want there Authors who acribe certain predictions to have forerunne the yeere 800, made unfortunate by their first attempts; fore-shewed seuen yeeres before, by showers of bloud falling from heaven, and bloudy Croffes markt therewith vpon the garments of men, reported by the learned Alcuinus, who was infiructor to Charles the Great, and borne in the county of Yorke, where this wonder happened: which himselfe saw & testified vnto Ethelbert King of that Prouince, as Malmibury hath written, and was Reger How thought by Houeden, Higdon, Fabian and others, to Ambigat haue beene sent for signes before their bloudy affaults, which beganne at the day-spring of the Saxons Monarchy, when it promifed a most faire ascent to their heires succeeding, but mounted to the highest, againe declined as the fetting Sunne, and fell under the cloudes of their owneruines, so carried by the just reuenging hand of God: for those Saxons having by bloud and warre unfeated the Bri-tumes of their land and right, by bloud and warre, were by these Pagan-Danes to vincessantly molested, that no place was freed from their tyranny, nor any Bloud reurnged withbloud. ftate fure, long to hold that, which they enjoyed, nor their lines fecured from a daily expectation of their fauage fwords.

(11) Whose many invasions and cruell proceedings against this land and nation, are already shewed in the raignes of these Saxon Kings, who then felt their heavy strokes in warre, having nothing almost memorable otherwife, to enlarge their fames and stories with, besides these their valours in resisting so mighty and almost vnrepugnable an enemie. Therefore omitting to repeat such things as in their fuccessions are handled, we will fall neerer the time of the wished haruest of their full Conquests: some what remembring the Reader here, of those bloudie affaires, which the Englift at feuerall times felt and en-

(12) Such was the murther of holy Edmund King of the East-Angles, with Danish arrowes martyred to death as hee stoode bound vnto a stake, ever-calling on the name of Ielus : Of Ells and Osbright Gouernours of Northumberland by them flaine, and that Prouince for a long time after by them enjoied, and made subject to their furies ; Of Burdred King of Mercia, by them expulsed, who with his Queene Ethelfwith, were forced to abandon their Kingdome, leauing it to the possession of these Pagan intruders, and to feeke their fecurities in forreine Countries. where at Rome in Italy hee died, and at Padna his wife, as hath beene faid : Of Ethelred King of the weft-Saxons, that in one yeeres continuance fought nine bloudie battles against them, in the last whereof at Merton hee received his deaths wound, and this Kingdome an vncurable blow : Of Elfred that most famous and learned King of the West-Saxons also, driuen by them to such distresse, that hee was forced to leaue his Princely Court, and to remaine fecret in a poore Cow-heards house vnknowne and disguised, in the Isle of Ethelingfey in the County of sommer fet and thence to aduenture himselfe among the Damilo after with his tword through the thickest of those Enemies, made a way to his owne most glorious

(13) To speake nothing of the desolations left in eueric Prouince, Towne, and Place, where they came, laying all leauell with the ground, as prints of their foote-steppes where they had troden: Their cruell and mercilesse dealings towards holy and religious persons, with the ruination of Churches, and other places for Oratorie, is most lamentable to bee rehearfed or remembred : and among many others, the faire & beautifull Monafteries of Brainey, Crow- Islansian, land, Peterborow, Ely, and Coldingham, were made Flore light. subject to their desolations: In the last whereof Lady Ebbe with her chaft Nunnes, to avoid their iauage and filthie pollutions, cutte off their owne nofes and vpper-lippes, leaft the baite of their beauties should prooue the bane of their honours & honestee.

The most greenous tribute and exactions laied | Some Say Stritty opon the poore Inhabitants in generall, and great fums of money, paied in such afflicted & vnseationable times, imposed by the name of Dane-gilt, did from ten thousand, arise to forty thousand pounds, yeerely gathered for them in England. Their sturdv behaulour and Lord-like carriage against the Englifb, in all places where euer they folourned, was with such subjection of the poore Owners, that they abufed both wife, daughter, and maide, and were of all called the Lord-Dane, till lastly they were Lords indeede of the Land, and fivajed the Scepter ar their owne pleasures; which how it was attained vnto, wee haue before declared, and how it was worne and continued, wee are now presently to hoft, as a base Manstrell and Contemptible make-sport, till hee had perfectly learned their secrets, and

CANVTVS

Polyche.li.6.c.18

Feare makes

riued at the Port of their long fought fourraignety caft anker as it were at the hauen of their wished defire, and prepared them-felues to a fetled reft: for

Canutus possest of halfe the Kingdome by composition with Edmund, now after his death feazed youn the whole, and that all things (as was pretended) might proceed with iustice, and concord, he called a Counsell of the English Nobility at London; wherein was propounded, whether, in the agreement betwixt Edmund and him, any claime of title to the Crowne, had been e referred, for King Edmunds brethren or fonnes. The English that had paid a very deere rate for their ouerbold refistance before, not daring now to buy, with too late repentance, the wrath of this Dane, absolutely answered, No; and having learned to appeale Princes with flattery, offered their fwords against any such claimes, and tooke themselves the Oathofalleagiance vnto Canutus; who beeing a very wise and politike Prince, thought neuer the better of them for such their doings; whose truths thus failing towards their naturall Princes, could neuer (hee well knew) stand firme for him or his forreine po-

(2) But being thus cleered of all other opposites, hec prepared with greatroialty for his Coronation, which was performed at London, by the hands of Lyuingus furnamed Elstane, Archbishop of Canterburie in the yeere of Christ Iesus 1017, beeing the second King of Denmarke of that Name, the first of England, thers neere vnto the claime, and therefore, taking counsell with Edrike, banished Edwin, who for his melancholy and regardleffe deportment, was commonly called, the King of Churles, fon of King Ethel-red, and brother of Edmund; notwithstanding, hee was guilefully recalled, and treacherously murthered by his owne men, whose bodie they buried at Tane-Stocke in Denon-Shire

(3) One cloud thus ouer-blowne, two others appeared, far more dangerous in Canutus fight; namey Edward and Edmund the sonnes of the Iron-side, whom albeit their yongue yeeres might have freed from suspition of conspiracies, and their gentle dispositions from enuying his glory, yet the bright raies of a Disdem so dazeled his islous cie, that ever he saw (to his owne seeming) the restection thereof shine from their faces : but ashamed (saith Higden) to lay hand on them himfelfe, fent them to his halfe brother of Sweden, to be made away, as we have faid. In Booke 7.csp44 the doubtfull times betweene Edmund and Canute, fed. 100 when the scale of warre was held of either hands alike, Queene Emma had fent Edward, and Alfred (her Hory Hust. fonnes by King Ethelred) vnto her brother Duke Ri-chard of Normandy; whereby (wee fee) the Landwas Fabian. emptied of the English bloud Roiall, and the Crowne left for the Dane without competition.

(4) Who now feeking to hold fast the Scepter thus grasped, sought the alliance of the Norman Duke Queene Emma. by the espousing of his fifter, faire Emms; a suite founding but harshely in the cares of the English, yea and most of all vnto her selfe, as deeming the linke of loue verie slender, that might bee broken by the same hand, which was the death of her Husband : Not-

agreed, that the iffue of her body by him, should inherite the English Crowne: the suit was granted, hoping also, if that failed betwixt them, to establish her other sonnes by King Ethelred. This prouident respect so pleased the subjects, that it both drew the hearts of the English vnto Canutus, and their loue vnto Emma in a furpassing measure, as the booke penned to her praise, and written in that age, intituled Encomium Emma, fufficiently doth fhew. (5) Neither was her louing care limitted onlie Manh. w.4 to her fonnes, but further extended towards the Common-wealth, being much peftred then with his Danes, that lay lazie and idle as drones in the hine: who at her infligations were fent into Denmarke; & left they should through discontents make any stirres either here or there, had a largeffe (to buy their contentment) of fourescore and two thousand pounds. (6) Canutus his next care for the maintenance of his owne fafety, and the continuance of his new got Empire, was the establishment of good lawes (which if duly executed, are the very finewes and frongest guards of all States) to be administred and practifed both on the English and Dane alike: wherefore calling a Parliament of his Peeres vnto Oxford, there established many wholsom Acts both for the Clergy and Laitie to obserue; some of which were dinus Wil Lambert. ged by the praise-worthy care of a studious Antiquarie, and a few as touching Religion, as a relish of the rest, we thinke it not amisse to give the Reader a tast Canutus his god-lie Lawes.

bap.3. withflanding, after good deliberation, knowing him childlesse of any lawfull successor, vpon couenants

(2) And first, for the celebration of Gods most divine service it was ordained, that all decent ceremonies tending to the encrease of reuerence and denotion, should be vsed as need required.

That vpon the Lords Sabbath, publike Faires, Markets, Synods, Conuenticles, Huntings, & all fecular actions should not bee exercised, valesse some weighty and vrgent necessity required it.

That every Christian should thrice in the yeere addresse himselfe to the receiving of the blessed sacrament of the Lords Supper.

That if a Minister of the Altar killed a man, or else committed any notorious crime, hee should be deprined both from his order and dignity.

That the married woman connicted for adultery should have her nose and cares cut off.

That a widow marying within the space of twelue moneths after her husbands decease should lose her iointer. (8) These & many other were made, wherby sinne was much restrained, and this realme peaceably and justly gouerned. As likewise fundry other Countries were by his godly and roiall care; as in especiall is recorded of a yong Gentleman of the Danifb roiall bloud, named Odin, whom King Canute brought o-uer with him into England, to be here trained up in learning, where he profited fowell, asalfo by his trauaile through France (whereby hee much encreased both his knowledge and experience) that he attained the furname of Sapient, and the Philosopher, and therefore was called Odin-char, for the deere efteeme wherein all men held him. This man by his preaching in Finland, Zeland, Scandia, and Sweu land, converted great multitudes to the faith of Christ,

(9) But in Denmarke things proceeded not so wel; An.D.1019. for in the absence of Canutus, and yeer of Christs humanity 1019, the Vandals fore annoied his subjects: hee therefore, in the third of his raigne, with a great host of the English passed ouer the seas, and bad his enemies battaile, which, as Mathew of Westmin fler writeth, went fore against him the first day; and preparing againe for the next, Earle Goodwine, who was Generall of the English, attempted a great enterprize : for in the dead of the night, hee with his fouldiers fet ypon the Campe of the Vandals, and Canutus THE DANES MONARCHS. Monarch 24. with a great flaughter of their fouldiers, made the two Princes, Vifus and Anlane to flie the field.

Canute ignorant of this acted enterprise, had notice in the morning that the English were fled, for that their flation was left, and not a man found; wherfore following the tract, euen to the enemies campe, by streames of bloud, and dead bodies of the Van-Henry Hesting. dals; hee faw the great ouerthrow that the English had given them, for which he ever after held them in great estimation.

(10) Albertus Krantius, the Danilb historian, reporteth that Olanus King of Sweyden, having afsifted Ca-nute against Edmund the Ironfide, and seeing himselfe to be neglected in the, composition betwirt them moued fuch stirres in Denmarke, that Canutus was forced thither againe; where by the proweffe of his English hee repulsed Olanus, who lastly was staine by his owne subjects.

(11) William of Malmesbury and Mathew of Wessiminster record, that in the yeere 1032 he under-tooke an expedition into Scotland, with prosperous Man. D. 1028. fuccesse against Malcolme the King thereof, with two other Princes called Melbeath and Jeokmare. But being at length ouerburdened as it were with his own greatnesse, and surfeited with glory, which somtimes he had so greedily desired (as even the greatest earthy delights haue their fulnes) hee refolued on a more placable course of life, and to affect a higher and heavenly glory, which hath never fatiety or end. And therefore his denotion being great vnto Godward, on a zealous intent, (fuch a zeale as S. Paul commended in the deuout Ifraclites) hee tooke a iourney to Rome, to visite the sepulchres of S. Peter and Paul in the fifteenth yeere of his raign; & thence fent his letters to his English Bishops and Nobility, beginning thus,

(12) Canute King of all England, Denmarke, Norway and Sweyden, to Ailnothus Metropolitan, &c. Wherein having first set downe the reason of his Wherein hauing lirll tet downe the readon of his pligimage to Some, which was effectally to honour S. Peter, sa hee had been taught by Wijmen, that S. Peter had recited from Chril the great power of binding and loofing, and was alfo the Explorer of heady energy and was also the Explorer of head not open the fame vnto him when the should come this place. ther) heheld it most behouefull for him to procure his Patronage more then all the rest of Saints; then making relation of his honourable entertainement with the Emperour, Pope, and other forreine Princes, sheweth what complaint hee had made against the excessive exactions and huge summes of money extorted by the Pope from the English Arch Bishops, arguest, at such time as they received their Palles from Rome; for redresse whereof, and of other abuses, the Pope in a folemn affembly of foure Arch-Bifhops, twenty Bifhops, and an innumerable multitude of Princes and Nobles obliged himselfe: And thence proceedeth in vowing the whole remainder of his life and reigne, to the onely feruice of God, and due administration of Iustice to his people; to which end, hee first gives command to his Counfellours, that thence forward they dare not, for what foeuer respect, to give way or conniuence to any the least iniustice in his Kingdom and next to his Officers of Iustice, that as they ten-der his roiall fauour and their own liues, they swerue not from Equity in execution of their places, in refpect of any man who foeuer, no not, for the enriching of the Kings owne Cophers, because (saith hee) I hold it not needefull, that treasure should be cheaped to-gether for mee, by any wniust exactions: and so con-Treasure. cludeth with a ftrict charge to all his Bifhops and Iuftiees, upon their allegiance both to God and himfelfe to rake order in his absence, that Gods Church, and his Ministers, bee not defrauded of their Tithes and rights, whereof he vowes at his returne to take a most Church,

(13) By this his great care of his owne faluation, and his peoples tranquillity, we may see the zeale of those darke daies, to have been accompanied with

Tonching his

Ttt2

Folycle.

Canutus THE DANES MONARCHS. Monarch 34. Chap.z. others, thee yied in bringing forth Harold her fecond of his abtence, and affumed the Soueraignery of fonne, who was (fay they) the fonne of a Sowter; this Kingdome to himfelfe, notwithstanding I thinke the condition of the mo-(23) Hardi-Canute, the third forme of King Cather, who lived in dildaine, and died in difgrace; onte, and his first by Queenc Emma his wife, was rather caused this report to be blazed, then any such balenes of birth in the sonnes. borne about the beginning of his fathers Raigne, and towards the end of the same, was constituted (20) Emma, the second wife of King Canute, was King of the Danes, and deligned to succeede him afthe widow of King Ethelred the Vnready; and from ter his death in the Kingdome of England: But the time of her first marriage was called in England beeing ablent then in Denmark, was disappointed by Elfgine, after the name of most of the former Queens, his brother Harold, who succeeded his father, after which had fucceeded Saint Elfgine. Shee was marwhose death he also succeeded him. ried vnto him in the moneth of July, and yeere of (24) Gunhilda, the daughter of King Canute, and Christ Iesus one thousand and seuenteene, beeing of Emma his Queene, was the first wife of Henriethe the first yeere of his raigne : whose wife shee was Third, Romane Emperour fonne of the Emperour generous generous day eighteene yeeres, and furniting, kept still at Winche-Comrad the second of that name surnamed Salike : 447.24 fter, vnto which Church shee gaue nine Manours, fhee was a Lady of a furpassing beauty, which ci-ther mooued her husbands mind vnto iclousie, or Ran Higden. according to the number of those firy Plow-shares that shee was forced to goe vpon, for her purgation, the ouer-lauish report thereof to breede surmize of in the raigne of Edward her fonne, as shall bee faid. incontinencie; for accused shee was of adulterie and This Church shee adorned with many goodly veto defend her caute by combat, none could be found, ftures, and veric rich lewelles : and deceating in this till laftly her Page, brought with her from England, City the fixt of March, the yeere of Grace one thoufeeing no other would aduenture for her innocencie, fand fiftie and two and ninth of her fonne King Edentred the lift, himfelfe but a youth, in regard of the wards raigne, was buried in the Church of S. Swithing other Combatant beeing a Giant-like man; yet in fight at one blow, cutting the finewes of his enemies leage, with another he feld him to the ground, where neere vnto Canutus her husband. His I flue,
(21) Sweyn, the eldest sonne of Canute by Lady presently with his sword, hee tooke his head from the shoulders, and so redeemed his Ladies life. After Albat.Crast. Alfgine, was borne before his father was King of which hard viage, the Empresse Gunbilda forsooke her husbands bed, and by no meanes could bee England, and before his fathers death, was conflituted King of Norway, lately conquered from King Olafe the Martyr; where hee beganne his Raigne, in the yeere of mans faluation one thousand thirty brought againe vnto the same, but tooke the holy vaile of a Nunne in the Town of Burges in Flanders where the spent the rest of her life, and after her death was buried in the Collegiate Church of s. Henry Hunt Lib. and fine, beeing the eighteenth of his fathers Raigno in England; and after he had with diflikes ruled that Merian Scot. Reb. Fabian. Donatian, being the principall of that town, where Realme, the space of fine yeeres, hee was rejected her Monument remaineth belides the north dore of of the Norwegians his fubiects, and deceafing withthe same Church vnto this day.

(25) Another Lady of the like sanctity, is reporout heire of his body, left the Kingdome to the nated to be the daughter of King Canut, and the second tiue heire, Magnus, the sonne of Olaffe, who had beene wrongfully dispossessed by Canute. wife of Godescalke Prince of the Vandals, by whom he (22) Harold, the second sonne of King Canute and of Lady Assigne, was also born before his tacher obhad Henry King of that Nation. They both are faid to have suffered Martyrdome for the faith of tained the English Crown, & for his exceeding swift-nes was surnamed Have foote: He remained with his Christ; he first at the City of Lenzim, and she after at Michelenburg, being most cruelly tortured to death father in England, after he had disposed of Denmark with whips. This Lady vpon fundry strong inducements cannot be reputed legitimate, which moued to Hardi-canute, and Norway to Sweyne, his brethren, expecting fomething in reversion. But perceiving at Andrew Velley, a Danish Writer in our time, to be therhis fathers death, that England was also appointed to in of a divers opinion from Adam of Breme, and Helhis brother Hardi-canute, hee tooke the aduantage moldus who lived five hundred yeeres before him,

HAROLD

Apocal. 2.7

Converse his flat

Peter Pillau.

Simon Tour

which some haue not stucke to say, that he made his iourney to Rome, rather to facw his pompe and riches, then for any humble deuotion or religious intent, yet by many his intercurrent actions and lawes of piety enacted, hee may justly bee cleared of that mputation; as also by the testimony of Simon Monk of Durham, who reporteth his humility to be such, that with his owne hands he did helpe to remoue the body of S. Aelphegus at the translation of it from

Stafford-shire, from her called Vifrun-Hampton. now woller-hampton: This Lady Alfgine to make Canutus more firme to her loue, her selfe being barren, is reported to have fained Child-birth and to have laid in her bed the sonne of a Pricht, whom Canute tooke to be his owne, and named him Swaine; him afterwards hee created King of Norway, which lately hee had conquered from Olaffe called the Martyr. The like policie, faith Higden and Harold

HAROLD, THE SECOND DANISH KING RAIGNING INENGLAND, AND

THE THIRTIE FIFT MONARCH OF THE LAND, HIS RAIGNE, AND ACTS.

CHAPTER III I.

An.D.1036. Wil, Malmf.

Peter de Jeban.

Henry Hent.

Floriaces/is.

ANVTVS being dead, & Hardseanute his sonne by Queene Emma then in Denmarke; Harold his elder (but base brother) foreflowed not the oportunity offered; for feeng himfelfe in his fathers lifetime neglected, and by will at his death, England with that of Denmarke heaped vpon Hardicanut; as quicke in apprehension, as hee was of footman-shippe (whereof arose the surname Hare-foot,) made strong his side by the Londoners, and Danes, Merei-ans, & Northumbrians very many, year and some great Personages amongst them, affecting his claime: but Goodwin of Kent who had the Queene and her treasure in keeping, stood in his way, pretending himself Guardian of her Children, & the will of Ca-nutus, who appointed his sonne by her to succeede. (2) The opposition grew strong, and the facti-ons ripened, euen ready to seede, onely the lingering of Hardicanute gaue leaue vnto Harold to better his fide by daily supplies, and the feares of civill sedition moved the Nobility to argue with wordes and not weapons, the title depending betwixt these two brethren. At Oxford they met, where the presence of the one,downe-peized the absence of the other, fo that their voices went onely with Harold, and prefently proclaimed and confectated him

(3) He beganne his raigne the yeere of Christs humanity, 1036. and was very folemnly crowned at Oxford by Elnothus Archbishoppe of Canterbury, though for a time, hee was very vnwilling to performethat scruice; for it is reported, that hee hauing the regall scepter and Crowne in his custody, with an oath refused to confecrate any other for King, fo long as the Queenes children were livings For (aid he) Canutus committed them to my trust and assurance, and to them will I give my faith and allegiance. This Scepter and Crowne therefore I here lay downe upon this Altar; neither doe I denie, nor deliner them to you; but I require by the Apostolike authority, all Bishops, that none of them presume to take the same a-way, neither therewith that they conscerate you for King: as for your selfeif you dare, you may vsurpe that which I have committed to God on this his Table.

Notwithstanding that great thunderclappe was allaied with the showres of golden promises, of his inft and religious Gouernment intended, though present experience manifested the contrary.

(4) For saith the auncient Writer of the booke called Encomium Emma: Harold no Sooner was established King, but that he fought means how to rid Queen outpeating, out took no jougois means now forth Queen Emma out of the way, and that servely, for openly hee durft not attempt any thing againsh her: Sheein filence kept her selfe quiet, looking for the issue of his designes. But Harold malitiously purposing, tooke counsell how hee might traine into his Haye the sonnes of Queene Emma, that fo all occasion of dangers against him might at once for all beecut off: many projects propounded, this lastly tooke effect that a letter should be counterfeited in Queen Emma's name, unto her sonnes Edward and Alfred to instigate them to attempt the crowne vsurped by Harold,4gainst their right, the tenure whereof we have thought good here to infert.

(5) Emma, Queene onely in name, to Edward "and Alfred her fonnes, sendeth motherly gree-tings. Whilest severally wee bewaile the death of our Soueraigne, my Lord and your Father, and your selues (deare sonnes) still more and more dispossessed from the Kingdome, your lawfull inheritance; I greatly maruaile what you determine to Harold bap.5.

THE DANES MONARCHS. Monarch 35.

"doe, fith you know, that the delay of attempts "giaes the viurper more leafure to lay his foun-"dation, and more fafely to fet thereon his in-"tended buildings; for incessantly hee posteth "from towne to towne, and from City to Ci-'ty, to make the Lords and Rulersthereof his, "either by threates, prayers, or prefent rewards.
"But this in prinate they fignifie, that they had ra"ther one of you their Natines should raigne ouer "them, then this vurper & Danifb stranger. Wherfore my desire is, that either of you secretly, and
"with all speed come vnto mee, whereby wee torture hee ended his innocent life. may adule together what is to be done in this fo " great an enterprise: then whose good successe, I desire nothing more. Faile not therefore to send

(6) These letters thus carried and cunningly delinered, were digested as sauouring of no faishood; and by the bringers, others returned, that Alfred should come shortly ouer to attend his mothers designes: these, brought vnto Harold, the coastes were fore-laid, and longing expectation attended the prey. Alfred as forward to let on his voyage made Baldwin Earle of Flanders his; and some few Bullogners increasing his Fleet, hee tooke the seas for England: where comming to shore, Earle Good-win met him, and binding his assurance with his corporall oath, became his liege-man, and guide to Queene Emma; but being wrought firme for Ha-rold, trecherously led these strangers a contrary way, and at Guilford lodged them in fenerall companies, making knowne to the King what he had done: who forthwith apprehended them euen in their beds, and in the morning as chained prisoners, committing them to flaughter, contrary to the wonted manner of military decimation, did spare word by this my meffenger, how you meane to proceed:and so fare yee well, my deerest bowels,& very inwards of my heart.

and exempt onely every tenth man for feruice or fale: Prince Alfred himfelfe was fent prifoner to the floor EA, where having his eyes inhumanely put out, lived not long after in torment and

(7) Some adde vnto the former, an other much more horrible kind of cruelty, as that his belly was opened, and one end of his bowels drawn out, and fastned to a stake, his body pricked with sharpe needles, or poinards, was forced about till all his entrails were extracted, in which most fauage

(8) Harold thus freed from one, the other hee thought would no further attempt; and therefore the more boldly fet himfelfe against their mother Queene Emma, whose goods he confiscated, and banithed her out of the Realme: who thus diffressed, was honourably receited, and for three yeeres space maintained by Baldwin Earle of Flanders.

(9) The Dane then feeing his hazards thus preuented, fought fo to fecure himfelfe, and with fixeteene shippes of the Danish Fleete kept the seas, which continued euer in a readinesse, and wassed from Port to Port; to the maintenance whereof he charged the English with great paimets, to their no little grudge & repining; wherby he loft the loue of his fubices before it had well taken root in their hearts.

10) Neither yet held hee on long in these disroiall courses, for that his speedy death did cut off the infamy of a longer life; and is said to have died at Oxford in the moneth of Aprill, the yeer of Christ Iefus, 1040, after hee had raigned foure yeeres & fome moneths: whose body was at first interred at westminster, having beene neither in warres so hardy, nor in gouernment so prosperous, as his Father Canut before him had beene, nor lest behind him cyther wife or children, to furuine his person, or reuine

Xxx 1

HARDI-CANVTE

Hardi-Canut.

HARDICANVTE THE THIRD DA-NISH KING THAT RAIGNED IN

Monarch'36

ENGLAND, AND THE THIRTIE SIXT MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS RAIGNE, AND DEATH.

CHAPTER V.

An.D. 1040

He States of the land, afwell English as Danes, that had frood for Harold, both in obtaining and keeping the Crowne, now feeing him fallen, thought it best to make way for their peace, before Hardicanut by his fword should purchase their subjection;

therefore with all hast they sent into Denmarke, with proffers of the scepter, and their forward allegi-ance only vnto him. Those parts beyond seas, were not then to subjective, as to build his hopes there vpon any fure ground; for the Norwegians had thrust out his halfe-brother Sweyne, and had elected Magrance could he perceine of any quiet common-weale among them: and therefore fore-flowing not the offer, immediately imbarked his men of warre, and with so fauourable a wind tooke seas, that he arriued vpon the coast of Kent, the fixt day after hee had fet faile out of Denmarke; and with great pompe conucied to London, was there proclaimed Englands

(2) Hee beganne his Raigne in the yeere of Grace one thouland and forty, and was crowned in London by Elnothus Arch-bishoppe of Canterbury, beeing the thirty fixt Monarch of the Englishmen : his raigne was frentin doing nothing, valeffe you will fay, in doing cuil hee did forething.

(3) For no fooner had he a power to command, but he forthwith commanded the body of his halfebrother the deceased King, to bee digged vp, and with spitefull disgrace to beethrowne into Thamists, where it remained vntill a Fisherman found it, and buried it in the Church-yard of S. Clement without Temple-Barre, commonly called Saint Clement-Danes, for that (faith Stow) it was the burying place of the Danes: this crueltie flewed, was pretended for the hard viage of Queene Brans his mother, though partly spiced with reuenge for his vsurpation of the Crowne against him.

(4) Yet is worthily to bee commended, for the reuerent regard hee bare to his Mother, and louing affection to his Brother; for no fooner was hee rifen out of the throne of his Coronation, but that hee out of the throne of its Coronaton, out that nee fent honorable Embaffage vinto Earle Buldwine, with many thankes to him, for her princely viage, and for her to returne into England to her former estate, and place of Queene. His brother Prince Edward comming ouer to visite them both, was most honourably received, retained, and difmiffed; and thefe are the vertues regardable in this King.

(5) But his vices were more, and concerned more personnes; for a great Epicure hee was, and giuen much vnto Cuppes, whereby he trained the body to belly cheere, and fenfe to bee subject to sloth and drunkennesse, foure times every day were his tables fored, and plenteously with all Cates furnished, euer commanding that his courtiers, guefts, and feruants, Wil. Malmib. fhould rather leave, for fuperfluity, then call, for lack: which howfocuer it was in him accounted for Roiall bounty, yet it caused in the people (who vie to praise the Soueraignes vertues, but imitate his vices) 'a riotous loofeneffe, and the Common-weale to lie ficke of confumptions, bred by fuch excelle of those groffe humours in her body.

(6) This wrought in him a carelesse neglect of government in State, so that the whole managing hereof was committed to his mother Queene Emma, a woman extreamely couctous, and to Goodwin, the rich and politicke Earle of Kent; who seeing the present state carried wholy away with present plea-

(bap.5. | Hardi-canut THE DANES MONARCHS. Monarch 36.

fures, thought that a fitte fubicet for him to worke vpon; for the King not married (vnleffe it were to his lewd will) and Edward likely to succeede, of an ouer foft temperature; hee thought these both might proue aduantageous to his ambition, and therfore bethought him, how the crowne might bee worne by him or his.

Goodwin dine-lah policy. Henry Hunt

(7) Therefore, to separate the hearts of the subiccs from the Prince(then which, there can bee no greater a wound vnto both,) hee caused the King to impose heavy tributes vpon the English, onely to pay the Danes in his Fleete, appointing enerie common Souldier and Mariner, to receive eight markes in money,& every officer and Mafter twelve; which amounted to the fumme of thirty two thoufand, one hundred forty feuen pounds : for the payment whereof, there was fo great a grudge, that two of the Collectors, Thurstane and Feader were flaine by the Citizens of Worcester; which caused their City to be burnt, and part of the country spoiled by the Kings commaund, and their Bishop Alfred expulled the See, till with money hee had purchased his peace. This Bishops hands (as was faid) were deepe in the murther of Prince Alfred, the Kings half brother, whom we spake of; yea, and Goodwin him-felfe was put to his purgation by oath, for the clea-ring of his suspictors in that treacherous and brutish fact: which oath was the lighter vrged, and the eafier received for his rich and bounteous gifts, immediately before presented to the King, and that was a fhippe, whose sterne was of gold, with fourescore fouldiers therein placed, all uniformely and richlie fuited. On their heads they al wore guilt Burgenets. and on their bodies a triple guilt habergion, a sword with guilt hilts girded to their wastes, a battaile-axe

(after the manner of the Danes) on their left fhoul-ders, a target with guilt boffes borne in their left hands, a dart in the right, their armes bound about with two bracelets of gold, containing fixeteene oun-

(8) Amundus Bremensis writing the Stories of those times; sheweth, that the three sonnes of Camute Bremenfis,24.5. were possessed of the three Kingdomes, England, Den marke, and Norway, though the father by Will, had disposed of the first otherwise; which moved Hardi-Canute much to maligne the roialtic of Harold, whose Crowne by birth and couenant belonged to him; and therfore with great preparation, intending to recouer his right, hee entred the Sea, and came into Flanders, where having notice of the viurpers death, his rage was staicd, and he peaceably came in, and receiued the Crowne.

(9) And that Swein (called the Younger) King of Denmarke, to assist his vncle Hardi-Canute against Barold the viurper of England's Crowne, with a great Armie prepared thitherward; and taking the Seas, were by tempest driven vpon the coasts of Hadeloe, where his Armie doing some hurt, was set upon and himselfe amongst them beeing taken prisoner, and brought into the presence of the Arch-bishop, was by him most honourably received, and conveied vnto Breme, who there entered a league with him, and with gifts and other complements, after a few daics; fuffered him to depart; who likewife hearing of the death of King Harold, returned backe to his owne Countrey, where shortly after he was much molested by Magnus the sonne of olaf, then raigning King ouer the Norwegians.

(10) Hardi-Canute in England, hearing of thole Idem of Signific ftirres, thought it his part to aid his Nephew King Sweyn, against the invalions of Magnus: and there fore hee fent one Sueno his kinfman, with an Armic of the English, to recttablish King Sweyn in his Throne. These entred Norway, and the Fielda-gainst the Norwegians, but by them were so ouerlaied; that hee left Magnus the vanquisher, and returned agains for England; but before hee could arrive the

Shore, King Hardi-Canute was dead, with whom dyed the iffue of that warre; whose death was suddaine, and after this manner. (11) At the celebration of a great marriage, contracted betwixt a Danish Lord, called Canut-Prudan, and Lady Githa, the daughter of a Noble-man whose name was Ofgot Clappa; in a solemne affem-bly,& banquerat Lambeth the eight of Iune, reuelling and caroufing amidft his cups, hee fuddainly fel down without speech or breath: whose losse was the lesse lamented for his excesse, riotousnesse, and vnwonlamented to file execute, riotouniene, and vinwon-ted exactions: but chiefly because a much better was then to succeede him; hauing himselfe had nei-ther wife nor child that is read off. Yea, so farre were all forts from bewailing him, that in regard of in Sandruck. the freedome from the Danish yoke, which they attained by his decease, ever fince among the common people; the day of his death is annually celebrated with open pastimes in the streetes (as the old Romanes kept their fugalias for chaling out of their Kings.) which time is now called Hodide or Huck tide, fignifying a time of fearning or contempt, which fell vpon the Danes by his death.

His body with all due obsequies was interred at Winchesse by his fathers, after hee had voluptionally raigned two yeeres lacking ten daies, and departed his life and kingdome the yeere of Christ Icsus, (12) With the death of this King died all rule of the Danes in this land, and the facred sparke of the Saxons fire (through three of their fuccessions) buried in their owne aftes, beganne now to take flame and to burne most bright, which was Prince Edward (now commonly called the Confessor) the sonne of King Ethelred; and albeit there were others betwist him and the crowne, as namely, Edward and Edmund the sonnes of the Iron-side, yet the one dying in Hungarie without issue of body, the other there liuing as a banished man (by surname the Out-law) was neither so well regarded, nor thought so worthy of gouernement, as this other Edward was, whom therfore they fent for, and with so great applause and acclamations proclaimed, that the present ioy seemed to prognosticate a perpetuall happinesse to the English, who had beene most miserably afflicted by the Danes, for the space of two hundred forty two yeeresthough this line again failed, before it was well begunne.

DARD

EDVVARD THE CONFESSOR.

SONNE OF KING ETHELRED, THE

THIRTIE SEVENTH MONARCH OF THE

ENGLISHMEN: HIS RAIGNE, VER-

TVES, AND MAR-

RIAGE.

(3) But most true it is, that the English Nobilitie disclaiming all Danish Subication, presently upon the death of King Harold, enacted, That none of their bloud should any more raigne over them: putting this their decree in execution by cassiering all Danes from the Castles, Forts, and Garrison Townes throughout all the Land, whence some even of their Bloud Royall were forced to depart. Then fending fecuritie into Normandy, with proffer of the Crowne vnto Prince Edward, had his confent, and assistance of Duke Wil-

(4) This Edward (as elsewhere hath been faid) was borne at Isup neere vnto Oxford, and tenderly educated by Queene Emma his Mother; and after his Fathers death, for fafety fent into France; where, by his iweet conversation hee gained the love of all, and as much himselse affected those strangers, which was fome blemish of policie in the face of his government, when he had got the Diadem, as being of disposition ouer-foft, and euer too pliant (an imperfection in a Soucraigne) to take the impresse of any stampe. In which mould, the afpiring Goodwin Earle of Kent, doth cast the fabrick of his owne designes; who had made away Alfred, his younger, but of a more refolute spirit, that so the balis of his owne piller (whose power, vsed both to establish Prince Edward in his right, being seconded by Leofrick Earle of Chester. and Lyuingus Bishop of Worcester, and indeed with the generall assistance of all the English; who now were so icalous of all forraine powers, that they forbad an ouergreat traine of Normans, (though comming for most heavy Tribute of forty thousand pounds yearly gathered by the name of Dane-gilt, which had bin imposed by his Father, and payed for forty years con-tinuance, out of the lands of all, except only the Clergie, because, (say our ancient lawes,) the Kings repo-fed more confidence in the prayers of holy Church, then in the power of Armies. Then, from the divers Lawes of the Mercians, West-Saxons, Danes, and Northumbri-ans, he selected the best, and made of them one body certaine, and written in Latin, (that all men of anie earning might know wheron to rely) to be the touch of his Common-wealths Pleas, and the squire by which he would have every right to be measured; being(in a fort)the fountaine of those, which at this day we terme the Common Lawes, though the formes of

Rand.Higden. Marian, Scotat

(8) The raigne of this King by most writers records was more spent in peace & works of true piety, the in warres, and bloud, though fome diffentions happened both domesticall, and forreine : for about the yeare one thousand forty fine, and third of his Raign, a royal Nauy was rigged in Sandwich hauen, against Magnus King of Norway, who then intended to inuade England, and indeed had so done, if the wars of Sweyn king of Denmark had not diverted his purpose written in the manuscript of Aimundus Bremensis, being in possession of two kingdomes, prepared his Na-uy for the conquest of England also. But, (faith hee)

King Edward gouerning that Kingdome with great instice and Loue, chose rather his peace with proffers of Tribute, and promses that after his death the Crowne should be his, yea though himself eshould have children: howbeit this seemeth not to found for truth ; For Sweyn sending his Ambassadors vnto Edward to craue ayde against Magnus (his grieuous and mortall Enemy,) could obtain none; and Harold Harfager, the fucceffor of Magnus, and enemy to sweyn, prefently thereupon fent vnto Edward for a league of amity, which was ratified firmely betwixt them. (10) Neither may wee thinke that ever hee meant his Crowne that way , for that belides the decree enacted against all Danish claims, his desire to establish it in the English bloud is most manifest, by sending for Edward his Nephew, the fonne of Edmund Ironfide, remaining in Hungary, and that folong out of England that hee was called the Outlawe; who comming ouer, brought with him his wife Agatha, and children, Edgar a fonne, and Margaret and Christian his daughters; him Edward meant to have made figured the heire to the Crowne, had he not been prevented by hafty death, whereupon the King deligned young Edgar, his sonne, the heire apparent, and gaue him the furname of Adeling, a name of great honor appropria-the Crowne. (11) Belides thele former attempts, certaine Da- In the fixt yete nilb Pirates entred the Port of Sandwich, which with all the Sea-Coasts of Esex they spoiled, and in Flaunders made Marchandize of their prev. The Irilb like wile with thirty fixe shippes entred Seuern, and with the assistance of Griffith king of South-Wales burnt or flew all that they found; against whom Alfred Bithop of worsefter went and fought; but with such succeffe, that many of his Souldiers were flaine; and the rest put to flight, which made the Welfmen far more An.D.1053. bold, and Kees, the brother of Grifflish, make many in-curfions to fetch preyes out of England, till at length he was flaine at Bulenden, and his head prefented to king Edward at Glowefler.

ted to the Princes of the blood, and men capable of

(12) His domestical molestations, were chieflie by Earle Goodwin and his fonnes; and those first fpringing upon this following occasion, Euflace the elder, Earle of Bullaigne, who had married Gods, fi-fter by the fathers fide to King Edward, came into England to vilite him then lying at GlouceHer, and returning homeward, at Conterbury his Herbinger dea-ling roughlie with a Burgesse for lodgings, caused his ownedeath; which when his Lord heard of, thirfting for reuenge, he flew eighteene Citizens in the heat of his furie : the Canterburians in as great a rage gotte them to armour, and flew twenty of his retinew, wounding many more, and made the Earle to recoile; whose greenous complaint comming to the King, he commanded Goodwin to fee execution done vpon the offenders. Earle Goodwin not haltie to follow his commission, aduited the King to examine the cause before he massacred his true subjects at the instigation of Strangers , whereat King Edward was highly offended, and Goodwin thereby gained great loue of the Commons. This occasioned Robert Gemeticensis a Norman, sufficient Bishop of London, and after Arch-bishop of Canterbury, to spred the Curtaine of disfauour betwixt Goodnin and the King, vrging his refufall as an A& of Contempt

(13) The Commons (whose common guise is, deadly to hate all strangers, though many times well deseruing) now seeing Earle Goodwin in danger for their good, were casily drawne to assist him and his cause, and in warlike manner garded his person, at Benerstane not farre from the King. The Estates affembled, and Goodwin fent for, he refused to come, pretending seruice against the Welfb, then ready to make inroades, and that his presence was more need-

wherein more dangers might lie hid then were to b

Estates, appointing a day of meeting at Gloncester.

fuffered; whereupon Edward called an affembly of

CHAPTER VI.

An.D. 1042.

ward, the Third of that Name before the Conquest, halfe-brother to the deceased Hardi-Canute, and sonne to King Ethelred by Queene Emma his wife, was by the prouident care of a Mothers affection, (when the variable fucceffe of Warre, doubt-fully depended betwixt Edmund the English, and Canutus the Dane) sent into Normandy to Duke Richard her Brother, there to bee secured from all do-Rand, Higden, mesticall stirres : and now, before the dead corps could be enterred, with a generall consent of the Nobles was clefted their King.

(2) I know well that in the legend of this holy mans life, more things are recorded, then with fafetie of truth may be either beleeved, or delivered; as that he was chosen King by consent of Parliament, when as yet he was in his mothers wombe. Ethelred his Fatherat the same time having many other sonnes alive: as also when the destroying Danes had extinguished by their warres almost the whole Royall issue of the English, the holy Monke Brightwold, of Glastenbury deploring their loffe, and the Lands miferable effate, had wit. Malms in vision this Edward, then an Exile, presented vnto him by the Apostle S. Peter himselfe, who then annointing him King in his fight, telling him that his Raigne should be peaceable, and twenty three yeeres for continuance; Brightwold yet vnfatisfied who fhould next fucceed, demanded the refolution, and was answered by Peter, that the Kingdome of England was Gods owne Kingdome; for whose successors him-felfe would provide. With such vaine predictions our otherwise true Stories are ouer-charged; which moued Comineus the worthy French Historian, to tax the English with ouer much credulitie that way.

lam his colen germane. top in time he hoped to crowne) might be fet, if not vpon, yet with the necreft to the Throne. (5) Hee therefore, the formost both in will and his aid) to attend their new-cholen King.

(6) His Coronation was at Winehelter, with great Alfred Benerel. concourse of people, and the celebration performed by Edsine, Archbishop of Canterbury, vpon the very day of Christ his refurrection, (being also a newrifing day to the English Nation) the yeere of grace 1042. himselfe being aged then towards forty, and was in number the thirty feuenth Monarch of England, where he raigned with fuch Iustice & Piery, that he obtained the venerable name of Saint, and vnto posterities is distinguished from the other Edwards by the adjunct Confessor. (2) In the entrance of his government, to witnes his loue to his people, hee fought enery way the fur-therance of their wealth and afterwards remitted the pleading & processe therein, were afterward brought in by the Couquest. (9) This Sweyn was the sonne of Duke Wolfe by Offred his Duchelse, fifter to Hardi-Canut, who as I find ambd, Britan.

Albert, Crantius

Yvv 1

full there, then at Court; albeit the Welfb-men cleared themselues by sending their Ambassadors vnto the King. The suspicions increasing, great preparation on both fides was made; to assift the King came Leofricke the worthy Earle of Chester , Siward the Stoute Earle of Northumberland, and Rodulfe Earle of Hereford his fifter Godas sonne, by her first husband Walter de Maigne.

Rand.Higden. Matt.West. Sissen Dun.

(14) To Goodwin repaired his people of Souther rie and Kent, and to him were brought by Swaine his fonne, the men of Oxford, Sommerfet, Hereford, Gloucester, and Berk foires; vnto whom, Harold his other fonne, ioined those of Essex, Norfolke, Suffolke, Cambridge, and Huntingdon-shires, so that his host was exceedingly great, and his mind thereby to inflated, that from Langton, where hee lay, hee fent a bold and Traiterous demand to the King, to have Earle Es-Stace of Bulloigne with all his French and Normans (that kept then in the Castle of Doner) to bee deliuered vnto him, and his fonnes : which beeing (as good reason was) refused, the Battle was prepared and brought to the veric point of hazard and ruine of all : For in that quarrell were affembled the greatest Peeres, and Lords of the Land, the Kings loue fwaying very much with many, but yet the hatred towards Strangers possessing the hearts of more. The beginning thus doubtfull, and the end like to prooue dangerous; the matter both with great forefight and prouidence was referred vnto Parliament, to bee holden at London with all convenient haft. whereunto pledges were both given and received on

(15) King Edward strongly guarded with an Ar my of the Mercians and Northumbrians, entred London, and Goodwin with his fonnes in warlike manner came into Southwarke to his owne house. But his Army wauering, and (as bad causes & consciences make men doe) suspecting the worst, by little and little thrunke away from him; which knowne to the King, he presently pronounced sentence of banishment vnto Goodwin and his five fonnes, without further proceeding by way of Parliament, as was determined. Goodwin therefore with great riches and his three fonnes, Swaine, Toflie, and Girth, failed into Flanders, and Harold with his brother Leofwine, from Briflow passed into Ireland; who were no sooner gone, but the King proclaimed them Out-lawes, and gaue the Earldome of Harold vnto Algar, the fon of Leofrick, Earle of Chefter. This Leofricke is he, which at his Countefles request freed the Citie Couentrie of their importable tribute imposed, as we have elsewhere said.

Booke 1.chap.17.

Simon Dunel.

(16) In the second yeere of Goodwins banishment, both himselfe and those his sonnes with him, having gotten ships conuenient for warre, in manner of Pi rats came vpon the coasts of Kent and Suffex, doing much harme, and returning with spoiles: the like did Harold and Leofwin from Scotland, vpon the westerne coasts of Sommerset and Denonshires, who thence coa-fling about the point of Cornwall, ioined their Fleet with their Fathers, in the Ile of Wight, (17) Against them King Edward prepared, & himfelfe, though aged, with a Nauie of fixtic ships well furnished for warre, meant to haue made an end of that businesse, by the destruction of his aduersaries: but the Nauies ready to ioine battell, God tooke the cause into his owne hand, and with a thicke fogge so ouer-spread the seas, that one Fleet could not thereby see another; in which, Goodwin and his complices by contrary windes were driven to the place from whence they came. King Edward still in icalousie of Goodwins returne, rigged forth forty tall ships to secure the feas, which kept not fo ftrong a watch, but that Goodwin got by them, folliciting the people of Kent, Suffex, and Survey vnto his aid, and entring Thamesis, did the like vnto them in London, who accepted of his arrivage, though King Edward lay there: fo that without diffurbance his Nauie fell vp with the tide, through the fouth Arch of the Bridge, & a mighty army to his aid mustered vpo the same side of the river.

(18) The Nobilitie then feeing fide against fide. and all of them meere English, ready to hazard their bloud in the quarrels of strangers, wrought so with Edward and Goodwin, that they came vnto peace, and pledges were againe deliuered for the performance, whereof Wilmot the fonne of Earle Goodwin, and Hacun the sonne of Smaine his eldest, were sent to Duke William of Normandy; so great a trust he ever reposed in strangers. This Swaine, vpon a remorfe of conscience for the bloud he had spit, and especially for the flaughter of Beorne his colen & interceffor, who fued Stone Due, to the King for his peace, undertooke a pilgrimage to Ierusalem, and in his returne died in Licea, whether through an extremity of cold, or by the hands of Saacens, that spoiled all they met, it is vicertaine.

(19) Goodwin now restored, and in great credit with the King, cast the eye of disdaine vpon the Arch-Bishop Robert (as commonly fauorits conslate each others,)and himfelfe being a man eloquent and politicke, so possessed the King both against him and his Normans, that he required his owne banishment, with al theirs out of England, some few excepted, that were fauoured by the English: and now promising himfelfe much honour and authority; was fuddainly cut off by the stroake of death, surprizing him as hee sare at Table with the King vpon Monday in the Easter weeke, but died not till the Thursday following, which happened at Winchester, where hee was bu-

(20) Besides these former forraine and ciuil moleflations, other calamities happened to the land; for in the yeare of Grace 1047. and moneth of Ianuary, there fell so great a Snow, which conered the ground ento the middle of March, that Cattle & Fowles perished abundantly: and on the first day of that Month the yere following, a strange and terrible Earth-quake happened, which feemed to rent the ground afunder, and withall fuch Lightnings, as burnt vp the Corne, growing in the fields, wherby an excessive Dearth followed: fo that his raigne was neither fo peaceable nor prosperous, as Brightwold the Monke dreamed it should be. But as all these were scourges sent from God voon the Land for fin, so both Prince, Pastors, and people, had all seuerally their part thereof, as being jointly the causers of the same.

(21) For the King, in case of these Strangers, put the Land more then once in danger to bee loft : and himselfe refraining the bed of his vertuous wife committed thereby the offence forbidden by the Apoftle, and caused her his Queene, either to commit or be accused to have committed adultery. The Cler- 1.Cot.7.5. gie likewise altogether vnlearned, wanton, and vicious:for the Prelats neglecting the offices of Episcopall function, which was to tender the affaires of the Church, and to feede the flocke of Christ, liued themselues idle, and couetous, addicted wholly to the pomp of the world, and voluptuous life, little caring for the Churches & foules committed to their charge: and if any told them (faith Higden) that their Rand, Higden in liues ought to be holy, & their convertation without Polyr, dis, 626.24. Conetouines, according to the facred prescript, and vertuous examples of their Elders, they would scoffingly put them off with, Nunc aliud tempus, alii pro tempore mores; Times have mutations, So must mens fashions: and thus, (faith he,) they plained the roughnes of their doings with smoothnes of their answers. Briefly, the whole people were so loose and riotous, that as Seruafius Dorobornensis recordeth, they fell so fast to Gorufiu of Carcommit wickednes, as to bee ignorant of finfull crimes, was then held to be a great crime is felfe. And by the testimony of Malmesbury, the sinnes of those times euidently foreshewed a generall destruction : for the Englishmen (saith hee) transformed themselucs into the strange manners of the French, and that not onely in speech and behautour, but in their deeds, and Charters: their vie was then to goe fantastically appointed, their garments reaching but to the mid knee, their heads shorne, and their beards shauen all but the upper lippe, which grew with long mustaches; continually wearing massic bracelets of gold about their armes, carrying markes upon their skinne poun-ced in of Jundry Colours; and the Clergie contenting themselves with trinial literature, could scarcely backe and hew out the words of the Sasrament. These then were Englands dolorous times both of blindneffe & lewdneffe, drawing downe Gods wrath for their destruction. (22) But howforter this King is reported to bee

Wil. Malmsb.

Chap. 6. | Edward Conf. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 37.

Pelger. li.S.ca.24 Scal. Chron.

louing and facile towards strangers, (which in it selfe is a princely vertue if it be opportunely and warily vfed:) yet to his owne Mother, and Wife, vnnaturally ouer rigorous, imprisoning and bereauing them both of all Prince-like honor. Against Queene Emma, his Mother, were instigators Robert Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, and Earle Goodwin of Kent, the two greatest fauorites of the King. The causes objected were, her marriage with Canut the Capitall enemy of England; her regardlesnesse of succouring himself and his brother in their exiles, whom (as was alleaged) shee contriued to haue made away; and that under colour of private devotions, the had vied the company of wine Bishop of Winchester over familiarly, to her great dishonour and the Kings disgrace: for these and the like, hee tooke away all her lewels, and other fubstance, and committed her to safe custody in the Abbey of Werwell. (23) Indeed Malmsbury doth tax her to have been infatiably couetous, and that shee was more tenderly

Wil. Malm?

affectionate to her Danish, then English children, whereby her loue was measured to their fathers, But for the imputation of her incontinencie, the washed it off with as sharpe a triall as any that is recorded for truth, by vndergoing that ouer-hard law Ordalium, when in presence of the King her Son, & many of his Peeres, the passed ouer betweene nine plough-shares glowing red hor, bare-footed & blind-folded, without any hurt; vsing this speech to her leaders, as not knowing thee was past all danger, O Lord when shall I come to the place of my purgation: but having her eyes vncouered and feeing her felfe cleerely escaped, fell vpon her knees, and with teares gaue thanks to her Deliuerer, whereby she recoursed, both the lone and her former estate of the King, with the good esteeme and applause of the people: in memory whereof shee gaue nine Mannors (according to the number of plough-shares) to the Minster of Winchester, (wherin she had that triall,) and adorned the same with many rich ornaments;as likewise the King repenting the wrong he did her, bestowed on the same place the Iland (fo then it was) called Portland in Dorfetfhire, being about feuen miles in compasse: for so the chance, in those daies, was let, that who soeuer lost, the monks did winne. (24) Neither were this Kings proceedings better with his owne Wife, howfoeuer fome have cloa-ked that Fraud (fo the Apostle tearmes it) under the faire robe of Chastity. For hee marrying Editha, a Lady incomparable both for beauty and vertue, in whose brest (saith Malmesburie) there was a Schoole of all Liberall Sciences, refusedher Bed : but whether it were for his debility, or hatred to Goodwin her father, or loue of Virginity, I determine not; but am fully perswaded, that the accusation of Adultery wherewith Robert the Arch-bishop did charge her was more vpon enuy to her father, then truth of so foulea fact in her, whose vertues were so many, and fo memorable, by report of Authors, that were eie-witnesses themselves; for Ingulphus that had often-

Wil.Malmfb. vita Edwards. Marian, Scot.
1. Cor. 7. 5.
Egitha fome
call her.

Chro, Wal.

times conference with her, doth thus of her relate. There was given (faith hec) vnto King Edward for Ingulphusia biffhis Queene and wife, the daughter of Goodwin, a most beautifull Damosell, Egitha by name, excellent well learring of her Fathers, or Brethens barbaroufief, but mild, ing of her Fathers, or Brethens barbaroufnesse, but mild, modest, faithfull, and innocent, nor ever hurtfull to any;

insomuch, that this verse was applied to her: Sicut Spina Rosam, genuit Godwinus Egitham. From prickled stalke, as sweetest Rose: So Egith faire, from Godwin growes.

All these notwithstanding, the King expulsed her | Wel. Malant, his Court and Bed, and that with no little difgrace; for taking all her goods from her, even to the vitermost farthing, committed her prisoner to the Monasterie of Wilton, attended onely with one maid, where fhee, for a whole yecresspace almost, in teares and praiers expected the day of her release and comfort : All which unprincelie, and un-Spouflike vsage, as the King pretended, and faid, was, because shee onely should not line in comfort, when as her Parents and Brethren were banished the Realme: an unjust sentence surely, and unbefitting a Saint, thus to punish the sinnes of the fathers vpon their children, contrary to the prescript rule of God, who by his Prophet complainerh against fuch iniuflice, and regulateth it with this iust verdich, That foule that finneth shall die and for her pure and vn- Ezek, 18.4. uiolated chassity, himselfe on his death-bed spake, faying, that openly she was his wife, but in secret imbracings as his owne fister.

Edwardi vita

(25) Yet behold the blindneffe, and partiality of those times, wherein for this his only refusall of nuptiall duties, the penciles of those that should have shewed histrue face to posterities, haue so enbellifhed the portraiture and lineaments, that vnto the beholder he feemeth now no mortall creature; his miracles and forefayings answerable to most of the Prophets. Which here to infert in fo worthy a fubiect and holy Kings life, were both to fill vp with a needleffe furcharge, who ie leaves of Times waste abuses, and to breed a suspicion of those other things in him, which we know for found truth; as was his gift from God, through his holy innocations, and touch of the place affected, to cure the disease called Struma, now the Kings Eaill, which vnto this day in his fucceffors, hath been experienced upon many fuch healings, by the touch of those gracious hands who have held the Scepter, as Gods Vicegerents of this most bleffed and happy Kingdome. That he had the spirit of Prophecie, many haue thought, as also the notice of his owne death, some constantly affirme; by a Ringsent him from Ierusalem, the same that hee long time before had given to a pilgrime : but these with his other miraculous cures, his fight of the Danes destruction, and the Seuen Sleepers in the Mount Cellion besides Ephefus, with infinite others, I leave to his Legend-writers, and Aluredus Riualensis to relate, who have written his many miracles with no sparing pen. Most true it is that of a little Monastery dedicated to S. Peter in Saint Peter him-felfe came down from heaven ro the west of London by the river of Thames, he made a most beautifull and faire Church, where he likewise prouided for his owne Sepulcher; and another dedicated to S. Margaret, flanding without the Abbey: this of Westminster he endowed with very rich reuenewes, and confirmed their Charters under his Broad Seale, being the first of the Kings of England, who wied that large and stately impression in their Royall Charters and Patents: the very true form wherof, according to the rude sculpture of those elder times, we haue portraited in the front of this Chapter, as we intend likewise to doe in the rest succeeding; whereof this vie at least, (if no other) may bee made, that by benefit of those paterns, men may know from what Princes they first received the Charters of their ancient possessions, and Patents of their honours, which the Princes stile (many beeing of one name) cannot fufficiently make knowne. The faid Church of Westminster he built for the dis-

of that See: Finally, when he had reigned the space of twentie yeeres, fix moneths, and twenty feuen daies; hee died the fourth of January, the yeere of charge of his vowed pilgrimage to Jerufalem, & that in fuch fumptuous maner, that it was in those daies the Patern to all other statelie buildings. He founded also the Colledge of S. Mary Oterie in the county of Deuon, and gaue vnto it the Village of Otereg, and removed the Bishoppes See from Cridington to Excesser, as a place of farre more dignity; where the King taking the right hand, and the Queene the left, led Leofricke from the high Altar, and installed him the first Bishop

King Edward the

tion of ther

T. Clifford.

place, it the fore

402

Christ Iesus one thousand fixtie fix, and was with great lamentations and folemnitie buried in his Church at Westminster, the morrow after the feast of the Epiphanie.

Hee was of person well proportioned, of countenance tober, and of complexion faire; naturally courteous and gentle to all (and thereby too prone and credulous to fuggeftions) louing to his fubiects, and ouer-louing vnto Strangers. A Prince of much vertue and integritie of life, notwithstanding which, had it not beene vailed vnder the faire-shew of Chafittie, he had not so easily been canonized for a Saint; wherein yet the feeming wifest taxed his wifdome, whilest vinder a goodly pretext of Religion and vowed Virginity, hee cast offall care of hauing usue, and exposed the kingdom for a prey to the greedy desires of ambitious humours.

His wife.

Editha, the wife of King Edward, was the daughter of Goodwin, Duke of the West-Saxons, and Earle of Kemt: her mother was Gith the fifter of Sweyne the yonger, King of Denmarke; the was married vnto him the yeere of Christs humanity, 1045, and tourth of his raigne. She was his wife eighteene yeeres; and furuiuing him liued a widow eight more, and in the eight yeere of King William the Conquerours raigne, died in December, the yeere of Christs birth, 1074, and was buried by her husband in S. Poters Church at Westminster.

HAROLD THE SECOND OF THAT NAME, THE SONNE OF EARLE GOOD-

WINE, AND THIRTIE EIGHT MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS LIFE, RAIGNE, ACTS, WIVES, AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER VII.

Ic people forrowing for the death of their King, and the Statef-men perplexed for choice of a new, Edgar Athelingstitle was worthy of more vnpartiall respect then it found : for him they held too young for government : besides, a stranger borne, scarce speaking English: and withall, the prophecies of Edward touching the alienation of the Precies of Eawara touching the allehation of the Alleredisa Crowne, the Interest of the Danes, and the claim that Duke william made, (both by gift and confanguini-ty,) bred great diftraction of defires, and opinions; but nothing concluded for feeling the State; no man either assuming or profering the Monarchiall diademe, because none had the power, or right to a-dorne therewith his owne head. In this Calme conference a fuddengale arofe, which blew all the failes pred for that winde into one Port. And that was Harold sonne to Earle Goodwine, a man (duly prizing his many worthy parts) not vameet for a kingdom, who first succeeding his father in his Dukedome, and next Edward (his brother in Law) in his Kingdom, in patience, clemency, & affability bare himfelte most approuedly towards the vertuous, but with a Lions courage, and fierce countenance chaftifed the difordered, and indeede became another Maccabeus vnto the distressed Land, Whose kingly state before wee touch, it shall not bee amisse to lengthen his short raigne with his Acts and Life, as hee was a Subject, both with, and against his Lord and Predecessor.

(2) That hee tooke part with his Father against Euflace of Bulloigne, and King Edwards hafty commiffion, wee have shewed ; himselfe then enjoying the Earledom of Oxford, and so affected by those of Effex, Suffolke and Norfolke, Cambridge & Huntington-fines, that they fided in his cause against the King; But these delignes failing, (as commonly it is seene all attempts of Subjects against their Soueraignes doc) hee learned by banishment, what was the loffe of true honour, and by forbearance of battle (when halfe the Kingdome flood for him,) his dutie oblized vnto the Common-wealth. And growne againe into fauour with the King, carried himfelfe aniwerably vnto both.

An.D. 1055

(bap.7.

(3) Some icalousy conceined, Edward without any cause, banished Algar the son of Leofrike Earle of Chester, who with the helpe of the Irish and welchmen, under the conduct of Gruffith ap Llewelyn Prince of North-Wales (who had married his daughter,) did much hurt to the English, putting Rodulph Earle of Bereford to flight, with the flaughter of fine hun-dred men, spoiled the City, burnt the Minster and became Masters of mis-rule in those parts. Against thefe was Harold fent and with fuch manhood purfued his flying enemies, that passing through North-Wales, vpon the Snow-downes he pitched his Field: The Earle, and Prince Gruffith, not during to abide his presence, fled thence vnto South-Wales, and again tooke into Hereford; whereof Harold having intelligence hafted thitherward (leaving fufficient in the Snow-downes to mate the Wellb), and recouring the City, with a deepe trench and high rampire fortified it about where for the fauing of more bloud (and not vngratefull to Algar, who without grudge had relig-ned to him his Earldome, and whole R cuenewes at his returne from exile) a peace was concluded, and at Harolds request, Earle Algar and Prince Gruffith were (4) But Algar being again accused, & again aided by his old affociate Gruffith, recovered his Earledome by force, whereat King Edward was highly displeased but most against Gruffith, who ever was ready to affiftany against him : whereupon Harold the second time appointed Generall, with a great host entred North-Wales, without fight of enemy, where he only burnt downe the stately Palace of Prince Oruffith, & foreturned to the King. But long the Welfb were not quiet, nor the Prince pleased of the harms to him An.D.1062 done. Wherefore making his forces verie strong he again molested the English,

Wd. Malwf.

(1) To restraine whom once more was Harold set foorth, who with such terrour burst into Wales, that Prince Gruffith, in secret stole from his Campe, lea-Prince Graffith, interest from the from the sample, had using his Souldiers (if they would) to fight for themfelues, whereupon his whole army yeelded themfelues to Harolds mercy, and having Prince Graffith in their hands, cut off his head, and fent it to Harold, giving him pledges for affurance of peace, and the paiment of the ancient tribute which for a time had beene reteined: yet euer after hee carried fo heavy a hand on the Welfb, that as John of Salisburie in his Policraticon writeth, he ordained a law, that what Welfb-man focuer, should with weapon passe o-uer Offaes ditch, should have his right hand cutte off by the Kings officer.

(6) All now in quiet, and Harold withdrawne to his Mannor of Boseham vpon the riuage of the sea in the confines of suffex, there for his recreation, one day hee tooke into a Fishers boate with small atterdants, neither those very skilfull Mariners, when no sooner were they lanched into the deepe, but a contrary wind came about, and droug the boat ypon the coalt of Ponthieu in France, where hee was taken by the Country people, and prefented to Guido their Earle, who a while retained him his prisoner, in hope of gaine by his rantom, bur Duke William requiring ir, he was conucied into Normandy, where he cunningly Mathem Paris, perfivaded the Duke, that his lecree comming out of England, was purposely to enter a league of amity Her. Husing. with him. The Duke then having prefent wars with the Britaines in France, tooke this his new friend and guest with him for his companion at Armes; whose ready policies followed with forward practife, wan him great estimation with the Dukeswhereupon be- Tand. High. twist them a couenant was made for the referuation of the English Crowne to the Norman, if it chan-ced King Edward to die without children; and the fameratified by Harolds corporall oath, with the affiancing of Lady Adeliza, the Dukes fift daughter, then a child and Harold a widower; which afterwards fell to his owne destruction, and the lands subuersion, as shall bee said,

(7) His last imploiment by holy King Edward, wit Malmibur. was against the tumultuous Northumbrians which had expulsed Tosto their Earle, and Harolds owne brother, where a peace was concluded without shedding blood, but with condition that Tofto should lose his Earledom: whereupo in great displeasure, he with his wife & children fled into Flanders, and euer after hated the person, and emulated the glory of Harold. The originall of these two brethrens quarrels beganne at Windfor, where in the presence of the King they fell from words vnto blowes, and that in such manner, as if refeue had not come, Tollo had di- Mat. Wallming. ed; for which difgrace, hee fecretly hied him into the Marches of Wales, and neere the City Here-fordat Portaflyth, where Harold had a house, then in preparing to entertaine the King, he flew all his brothers feruants, and them cutting peecemcale into gobbets, salted some of their limmes, and cast the restinto vessels of the meath and wines, sending his brother word, that hee had furnished him with poudred means against the Kings comming thither; which barbarous act caused deservedly his name to be odious vnto his Northambrians, and was lastly repayed with his owne death.

(8) Now albeit fome Heralds make Harold by birth but a Gentleman of one, and the first descent, which, were it so, should no whit blemish him who was more truely enobled with princely vertues; yet therein also it may seeme hee is mis-esteemed, seeing his Father was Goodwin a Duke by degree, the son of Wolnoth, and he the fonne of Egelmar, who was the fonne of Egelricke, surnamed Leofwine, and brother of Edrick Duke of Mercia, that married the daughter of King Ethelred of England, of whom wee have spo-

The mother of Harold was Githa the daughter of Duke Wolfe, and fifter to Sweyne the yonger, King of Denmark, by Efrich his wife, who was lifter to Canute the great King of England; and himfelfe the second sonne other borne; whose elder brother was Sweyne, that died on pilgrimage in his returne from Ierufalem, and his yonger were Tofto, Wilned, Grith,

(9) A former wife Earle Goodwin had, whose wit. Melast. name was Thira, the lifter of Canute, a woman fold vnto wickednesse for making marchandize of Englands beauteous virgins into Denmarke; thee folde them there at deare rates, to fatisfic her owne vnfatiate augrice, and the lufts of the lasciuious Danes, till a inft reward of Gods wrath fell on her by a thunderbolt falling from heaven, wherewith thee was flaine, Rand Higher, in to the great terrour of the beholders. One fonne by her Earle Goodwin had, who when hee was past childsage, riding vpon a horse (the gift of his Grandfather the King,) proudly giuing him the Matth.Well.

Camb.Brit.

raigne, life and death, wee will now addresse to de-(10) Edwards life ended, and nothing determined touching his fucceffor, Harold the second day after, being the day of his buriall, made himfelfe King, none of the Nobility difliking what hee had done; for courteous hee was of speech and behauiour, and in martiall proweffe the onely man, as Wales well witneffed, more then once; friended by affinity with many of the Nobles, and by his new marriage with Edgitha the daughter of Algar (lifter of the Earles Morear and Edwin, and late wife to Gruffith ap Lhewelyn Prince of Wales) hee expected to bee both fided and assisted, if his cause came either to triall or voice

reine and spurre, was violently borne into the riner

Thamesis, and so sodainely drowned. Thus much being premised of Harold before hee was King; his

(11) And the time hee well faw fitted his entrance; for Sweyne King of Denmarke (most dread by the English) was entangled with the Sweden wars; and William the Norman (that made claime from King Edward) at variance with Philip the French King; the friends of Edgar in Hungarie, and himfelfic a stranger, ouer young for rule: all which concurrents made Harold, without deliberation, or order from the State, to fet the Crowne on his owne head, regardleffe of all ceremony and folemne celebration; for which his act, as a violator of holy rites, hee too too much offended the Cler-

(12) The day of his Coronation was voon Friday, the fifth of Lanuary, being the feaft of the Epiphany, and yeere of Saluation 1066: none either greatly applauding, or disapprouing his presump-tion, except onely for the omission of manner and forme; to redeeme which, and to re-gaine the good will of all; no fooner attained hee the feate roiall, but he remitted or diminished the gricuous customes and tributes which his predeceffors had raifed, a course euer powerfull to winne the hearts of the Commons; to Church-men hee was verie munificent and carefull of their aduancements; and to grow more deepely into their venerable effeeme, heerepaired their Monasteries; but most especially that at Waltham in Effex, which hee most sumpruoufly new built, and richly endowed, giving it the name of Holy Croffe; vpon occasion that such a Croffe found farre westward, was brought thither by mira-cle. vt tradunt: and therefore hee chose out this place to powre forth his supplications, before hee marched to meete Duke william in the field. Moreouer, to fatisfie fuch Nobles as affected young Ed gars infer title, he created him Earle of Oxford, and held him in speciall fauour; in briefe, vnto the poore, his hand was euer open, vnto the oppressed he ministred instice, and vnto all men was affable, and meeke: and all to hold that vpright which on his head he had fet with an vn-euen hand: and deprined him of, vnto whom hee was Protector.

(13) Three severall reports are affirmed of Edwards dispose of the Crowne: the first was to the Norman Duke, who made that the anker-hold of his claime; the second was to young Edgar, vnto whom hee was great vncle; and the last vnto this Harold himselfe: for so fairh Edmerus, and also Marianus, who lived at the very same time, and writeth that Harold thereupon was facred and crowned by Aldredus Archbishop of Yorke; so that hereby hee is freed by some from the imputation of intrufion and wrong.

(14) His State thus standing, and his subjects contentment dayly increasing, presently it was somwhat perplexed by an Ambalfage lent from the Norman, putting him in mind of his couenant, and oath, aswell for the custody of the Crowne to his behoofe, as for the folemnazion of the mariage contracted betwixt his daughter and him.

(15) Harold, who thought himselfe now surely feated in the hearts of his Subjects, and therefore also fure in his Kingdome, answered the Ambassadors, Subjects loue That he held their Masters demaund oniust, for that an arength. eath extorted in time of extremity, cannot bind the maker in conscience to performe st, for that were to ione one sinne with another; and that this oath was taken for feare of death or imprisonment, the Duke himselfe well knew: but admit it was voluntarily, and without feare; caction on dames is not commissing, and westown care; could I (laid he) then a fubicit, without the allowance of the King, and the whole State, give away the Crownes; fucefives to the preindice of both? surely a Kingdome is of a better account then to bee so determined in private onely betwixt two. With which kind of answeres he fent the meffengers away.

(16) The Norman, who till then thought England fure to be his, and had denoted his hopes from a Duke to a King, stormed to see himselfe thus frustrated on the sudden, and in stead of a Crown to haue scornes heaped on his head; therefore nothing contented with this fleight answere, returned his Ambaffadors againe vnto Harold, by whom hee laid his claime more at large; as that King Edward in the Court of France had faithfully promifed the fuection with chim, and againe afterwards ratified the func to him at his being in England, and that not done without confient of the State, but confirmed by Stigandus Archbifhoppe of Canterbury, the Earles Goodwin and Syward, yea and by Harold himselfe, and so firmely assured that his Brother and Nephew were delivered or pledges, and to that end fent unto him into Normandy: that hee had no way beene constrained, hee appealed to Harolds owne conscience, who besides his vo-luntary offer to sweare, contracted himselfe to Adeliza his daughter (then but young, and now departed life) up-on which foundation the oath was willingly taken. (17) But Harold who thought his owne head as fit for a crowneas any others, meant nothing leffe then to lay it downe vpon parley; and therefore told them flatly, that how foener Edward and he had tampered for the Kingdome, yet Edward himselfe comtampered for the kingdomes, yet Exiwall impleye com-ming in by election, and not by any title of inheritance, his promise was of no oxidate; for how could bee give that whereof he was not interessed, nor in the Danes time was ener like to be? And tell your Duke (faid he) that our kingdome is now brought to a settled estate, and with such lone and liking of the English, as that they with note one on a term of the engine, at that they will near don't am more a firmager to rule one, then, and as trucking the contract with his younger daughter, her well feeth, had so do both takes away that excelling of iterating time Crowney and fireth his young what he likewill fresholded remody against fact his flower; whole precepts i ment to follow: and therefore ((and he yill your Duck to weigh my flate with his own, both his and mine now in quiet, conditions the most and it the most his conditions to the conditions to sufficient for two, and either of them, employment enough for one mans Gouernment, and therefore both of them too much to bee well governed by one feeing that God himselse had set a sea betwixt them. With these and the like speeches hee shifted off the Dukes Ambassadors; without all princely entertainements, or courteous regard.

(18) The messengers returned, and Harolds anweres declared, William lion-like enraged, casteth his thoughts about plotting reuenge, and making fome oddes even that might impeach his designes, prepared all things for open warre. Harold likewise not sleeping his businesse, made ready his Fleete, mustered his souldiers, and planted his Garrisons along the Sea-coast. But in these his proceedings, behold a great and fearefull Comete appeared (feldom a signe to Princes of fortunate successe) vpon the twenty fourth of Aprill, and lasted onely seuen Duben. dayes, which drew the minds of the English, into Gueller Court. great suspense, now ready to enter into a double

(19) For as William the Norman for his part claymed England by gift; fo Harfager the Dane did by fuccession; the umors of both which, greatly terrified the heartes of the inhabitants: and yet behold, a third terrour vnexpected, contrary to nature, and most mens opinions, suddainely arose: for Tosto the cruell Earle of Northumberland, and brother to Harold, expulsed by his people, and proscribed by King Edward, fled into France, where by the infligations of william, whose wives fifter hee had married (both of them the daughters of Balwine Earle of Flanders,) he got for his reuenge a Fleet furnished with men at Armes; and thus prepared, his first fury was shewed in spoiling the 'le of Wight; Ran, Higden. then coasting the shore, shrewdly endammaged Kent, whence hoising faile, fell foule vpon Lincolnshire; where Morear and Edwine Earles of Chefler and Yorkeshire, aided with the Kings Nauie, drone Wil. Malmsh. him from thence, though with tome loffe of their

Harold

Chap.7.

wil.Malmb.

Sistent Dun,

Mat. Weftm.

where of King Malcolme he had but cold comfort, tumultuous hast raised their powers, but were so ouerlaid by the Norwegians, that many were flaine. and more drowned, in passing ouer that riner.

(23) The Bridge gotten, and the English reduced into their rankes, Harold most boldly set vpon his enemieseuen in their Campe; where the battaile with equall valour and fortune, was maintained a time, till laftly the Norwegians difarrated and feattered, were flaine outright; and among them the two Chieftaines, Harfager and Tofto, with may others of worth and account, loft their lives. Olave the sonne of this Harfager, and Paul Earle of Orkeney, who kept their Fleet & Seas, whilest his Father and followers fought vpon land, were brought to King Harold, and to have their lives spared, abjured the Land, and thenceforth to attempt no hostilitie against the English peace; and with twenty small vessels to cary away their flaine and hurt, were fuffered to depart, bringing heavy newes into Denmarke of the loffe of their King, and ouerthrow of his Army.

(24) By this victory thus happily obtained, fell vnto Harold an exceeding rich booty, both of gold and filter, besides the great Armado of Tosto and Harfager; whereby his mind was soone set alost, and he began to grow both proud, and odious vnto his Army, the rather, for that he divided not the spoiles vnto them that had deserued it; a wrong that the common Souldier doth continually murmure at, and commonly endure.

ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 38.

(25) Now in this current of King Harolds fortunes, William the Norman had the more leafure to ftrengthen his owne, and often conferring with his

Captaines about Englands invasions, found them cuer resolute and cheerefull that way; the difficultie to gain other parts, it would be thereby fo wasted, as that hardly it would be sufficient to defed their own;

that they thought it more safety to hold what he had then on hazard of their own to inuade the territories of others; & that this war inteded, inft though it were,

yet feemed not necessary, but exceeding digerous; befides (faid they)the Normans were not by their allegiance bound to Military feruices in forrein parts &

therefore fuch paiments could not bee affeffed vpon them . And although William Fitz-Ofberne, a man in high fauour with the Duke, and as gratious among the people, endeauoured by all meanes to effect it yea, and (to draw on others by his example) prof-fered to let out forty tall Ships upon his owne Charges towards this warre; yet would it not bee : There fore Duke william bethought him on another way.

(26) The wealthieft men among all his People he fent for, and feuerally one by one conferred with, showing them his right and hopes of England, wherin preferment lay eue to the meanest amongst them, ony money was the want, which they might fpare; neither should that be given, nor lent without a plentiful increase: with such fair words he drew them so on, that they frou who should give most, and by this policy hee gathered fuch a maffe of money, as was fufficient to defray the warre. Then went hee to his neighbour Princes, namely to the Earles of Anion Poicton, Mayne, and Bulloigne, promiting them faire possessions in England; yea and vnto Philip the French

King, in case he would aide him, hee voluntarily offered to become his vallall and Leige-man, and to hold

England by oath and fealty under him. But it beeing thought nothing good for the State of France, that the Duke of Normandy, who already was not so plia-ble to the French King as was wished, should bee bettered in his oftate by the addition of fo mighty a Kingdome (the power of Neighbour Potentates being cuer suspected of Princes) so farre was the King from yeelding any helpe, that he secretly maligned, & openly diffwaded this his attempt of inuading England. This French icalousy, the Norman soone perceited, which made him to cast about yet another onely refted, how to prouide money enough, the very finewes whereby the vast body of an Army must be knir,& strengthned for a subsidy being pro-(20) Tofto for more succour fled into Scotland pounded vnto the affembly of the Norman States, it was answered, that a former warre against the French had empoucrished much of their wealth, that if new wars were now raifed, & therein their substance spent himselfe being busied with civill broiles; but howfocuer his expectation there failed, yet his purposes were continued with the assistance of Harold Harfager (that is, the Faire-lockes) King of Denmarke, who with three hundred shippes had entred the river Type for Englands invalion, after his conquest of the Hes of Orknes. Tofto therefore joining his Fleet to these Danes, in warlike brauerie, both of them enter the mouth of Humber, and drawing vp the river Oule, at Richhall landed theirmen, making spoile of the Country wherefocuer they came. To meet with these, the foresaid Earles Edwin and Morear, in a

(21) The enemy grown proud by this late victory hasted towards Yorke, the chiefe Citie of the North where planting his fiege, it was prefently yeelded vp, and hoftages deliuered vpon both parts for the performance of couenants. The Danes thus prospering, had most strongly encamped themselves; for backed they were with the German Ocean, flanked on the left hand with the river Humber, wherein also their Fleete rid at Anker, and had on their right hand and afront the river Derment; fo that it feemed impossibleto raifethis fiege.

(22) But Harold thinking the coasts cleere from all danger, the Equinoctiall at hand, and Nauigation now past, the victuals in his Fleet spent, and notice from Earle Balwin of Flanders, that Duke William meant not his voiage that yeere, was about to dif-band his Army. When this fudden newes from the North pierced his eare, no need it was then to bid him make hafte thither, the cafe standing so neere him as it did. Therefore recalling his Army, posted to Torke, and from thence marched against the Norwegians, who lay secured with such advantage, as wee haue faid. Notwithstanding Harold couragiously or-dered his battell, and assaid to passe the Bridge called stamford, built ouer Derwent, which one onely Dane made good for a time against his whole host, and with his Ax flew forty of his men, till laftly this Dane was flaine with a dart.

> (27) For making his claime knowne vnto Alexander the second then Pope of Rome, with the wrongs done vitto Robert Arch-bishop of Canterbury, by Harold and his Father. (a text that might not bee read without a glosse,)he was so fauoured of his Holinesse (whose See was ever glad to interest it self in disposing of Crowns, that he both allowed well of his enterprize, and fent him a confectated Banner, (Saint Peter himselfe had none such in his Boate) to bee borne in the Ship, wherein himselfe in that expedition should take faile for England; and accurled al them that shold oppose themselves against him ; for even then the Popes had began to viurpe authority ouer Princes, & with their leaden blades to hacke into the iron

fwords of Emperours. (28) Thus furnished on all sides, he assembled his forces, and with a mighty Nany came to the Towne of Saint Valeries; which frandeth vpon the mouth of the River Some where a long time he lay wind bound to his great discontentment, and with many vowes importunating the fauour of that locall Saint, heaped daily anumber of gifts and oblations your his Altar; till laftly his defire was obtayned, and then with three hundred Ships fraught full of his Normans, Flemings, Frenchmen, & Britaignes, waighed Anchor, and with a gentle gale of wind arrived at Peuenfey in Suffex, vpon the twenty eight day of September. where Landing his men, to cut off all occasion or hope of returne, he fired his owne fleete, and vpon the Shoare erected a Fortresse to bee if neede were, a retiring place for his Souldiers.

Rand, Higden,

Rand Higden in Polychr.11.6.c.19

(29) At his arriuage from Sca, as our Historians report, his foot chaunced to flippe, so that not able to recover himselfe, he fell into the mud, and all to bemired his hands; which accident was prefently conftrued for a lucky prefage: for now (faid a Captaine) o Duke, thou hast taken possession, and holdest that land in thy hand, whereof shortly thou shalt become King: As Cafar is faid to have done, when hee entred into Africa, who from thip-board at his landing fell in-to the lands, and merily faid, I doe now take poffefsion of thec, O Africa.

(30) From Penensey Duke William departed towards Hafting, where railing another fortification disulged to all the causes of his comming, as pretending to revenge both the death of his Normans, flain by the treachery of Goodwin & Harold, and the wrongs and banishment of Robert Gemeticus Archbishop of Canterbury, pretenses very slender, and en-forced out of scalon: but surely had not a third fate neerer his heart, the two former would haue paffed without the spleene of reuenge; namely, the donation of King Edward deceased, whereon he built his claime to the English Crowne. And there also by his Edict, he straitely charged his souldiers not in hostile manner, to wrong any of their perfons, who thorrly were to become his Subjects

(31) Harold in the North hearing of these news,

hafted with his Armie (whose Armour yet reaked with the bloud of the Normegians) rowards the fouth and with fuch power as possible hee could make, entreth London, where immediately a messenger fro Duke William was presented vnto him, demaunding no lesse then the Kingdome, and Harolds vassalage; vrging the same with such instant boldnesse, that Harolds furious indignation could hardly forbeare, against the law of Armes, to lay violent hands upon the Ambassador; so great a pride and confident hope had entred the heart of this late Victor: to thew both, with very great boldnesse, he disparcheta his Ambassadors to William, and by way of irefull checkes menaceth him, videffe forthwith hee departed backe into Normandy: when prefently mustering his men at London, hee found them much leffened by his battaile against the Norwegians; notwithstanding, many Nobles, Gentlemen, and others, whom the loue of their native Country inflamed, did ingage themselves for the field, against his common and dangerous enemy. He therfore with an vndaunted courage, led forth his Armie into Sußex (against the importunate suite of his mo-ther, who sought by all meanes to stay him where on a large and faire plaine, fearleseuen miles from the enemy, he pitched downe his battailes, and fent forth his Espials to descry his power,

(32) These comming into danger, were caught by the Normans, and presented to their Duke, who commanded them forthwith to bee led from Tent to Tenr, to be feafted, and difmiffed, without any harme or dishonour done. These returning to Harold told what they had feene, commending the Duke in his Martiall Prouisions, and his elemency to them-ward, only faid they, his Souldiers scent to be Priests, for their faces were all shauen, whereas the vie of the English was then to referue onely the upper lippe vncut, retaining or renewing the old manner of the ancient Britaines fo described by C.sfar : but King Ha- | Cafar in Coment. rold, who had bin in that country, wel knowing their errour, replied that they were men of great valour & front Souldiers in fight. V pon which speech, Girth, his younger brother, a man much renowned for mar-tiall exploits tooke occasion to adulte the King from being present at the danger of the Field: for (faid he) 'it stands not with the rule of policy, to hazard all in the triall of one battell, nor to depend wpon the euent of war, which euer is doubtful, victory being as ofic gotten by fortune as valor mature deliberatio doth ofte produce the lafest issues, & a provider delay is held to be the greatest furtherer of martial projects; neither will any thing ftrike greater terror into the Normans, then thou to be leaving, & enrolling a new Army, whereby they may ener expect and feare succeeding Battails. Againe (saidhe) thou best knowest what oath thine owne mouth harh made vnto William; if lawfull, and willingly, then withdraw thy felfe from field, left for that thy finne the whole Hoft periff; for there can bee no power against God. I am free from such guilt, and therefore may the bolder fight, and either defeate this dangerous enemy, or more cheerefully dye in the defence of my countrey; & if thou wilt commit the fortune of Battaile into my Gouernance, affure thy felfe I will perform to thee the part of a louing Brother, and to my Countrimen of a valiant Cap-

(33) This wife aduice notwithstanding, destiny so driving him, he gaine-stood, imputing it a part of dithonour, and not befitting a Souldiour, (as he alwaies had beene,) to leaue the field Coward-like, when greatest glory was to be wonne, or in case of fortunate fuccesse, to be deprined of a part, and therefore re-prooued his brother for making this motion, and with difdainefull speeches, undervalued and embased the worth of the Normane

(34) Duke William now entred the field & both the hots standing ready for fight, the Norman, to spare the effusion of Christian bloud, ypon a pious affo-ction sent a Monke as a Mediator for peace, with offers to Harold of these conditions, either wholy to religne the Kingdome vnto him, and from thence forth to acknowledge the Duke for his Soucraigne: or elfcin fingle combat to trie the quarrel with him, in fight of the Armies; or laftly, to ftand to the arbitrement of the Pope, touching the possession and wearing of the English Crowne. But Harold, as one whom the heavens would depresse, accepting neither domesticke counsell, nor the Normans offers, referred the deciding of the matter vato the Tribunall of God, and answered, that it should bee tried the next day with more swordes then one.

(35) That next day was the 14. of Gräber, which vpon a credulous errour, heeheld ener to be fortunate, because it was the day of his Natiuity, and with hopefull affurance, defired greatly the approach of the fame: His fouldiers likewise as men whose heads were to bee crowned with the Laurels of victory, gaue themselves to licentions reuels, and in riotous banquets, with clamour, and noifes, spent the night; whereas contrariwise, the Normans, more wifely, and feriously weighing the busi-nesse in hand, bestowed the time in prayers and vowes, for the fafety of their Armie, and vi-ctorious successe: neither had the morning sooner fpread it felfe but their battell was ordered, and prepared for fight.

(36) Harold also with the like forwardnes, marshalled his battaile, placing in the Vant-guard the Kentifb men (who by an ancient custome had the front of the battaile belonging to them) with their heavy axes, or halberts. The Middlefex-men & the Londoners were in that fquadron, whereof himfelfe with his brother had the leading.

37 His enemies Vauward was led by Roper of Mountgomery, and william Fitz-Osberne, the fame confifting of Horsemen out of Anion, Perch, and little Brittaine.

Chap. 7.

Harold

were intermingled with companies of Archers. (38) The Normans without any confused, or disorderly shout, sounded the battaile, and advanced forward, discharging a fierce volley of arrowes like a tempessuous haile, a kind of fight both strange, and terrible vnto the Englash, who supposed their e-nemy had beene already even in the middest amongst them; when presently a furious charge was giuen to the Va-ward of the English, who resolutely had determined to couer the place with their bodies rather then to give one foot of ground, and bending all their forces, kept themfelues close together, wherby they valiantly, and with the flaughter of many put backe the enemy: which was so farre from daunting the Normans, that by it they were more whetted to re-enforce themselves upon them : when with an horrible noise, the battailes of both fides gaue the stroke; and now come footeto foot, and man to man, coped together in a most cruell fight The English standing thicke, and close, as if they had beene stucke one to another, abode the brunt, and charge of the Normans, and with fuch welcomes, that after many abloudy wound received, they were at point to recoile, had not Duke William, whose crown lay now at stake, both brauely performed the part of a Leader, and with his presence, and authority restrained them. The fight thus continuing, the Normans horsemen brake into the troupes of the English, and fore distressed the Souldiers on foot, yet not withstanding they still held out, and kept their array vnbroken : for Harold (no leffe carefull to keepe, then the other to gaine a diadem,) as a most valiant Cap-taine bare himself worthily every where. The Duke well perceiving that with fine force, and true valour, no good end could bee got, betooke himfelfe Wil. Malmib. to a stratageme, and commaunded his men to sound the retreat, but kept them still in such order of array, that they gaue backe in as good discipline as they mans, Geffrey Martell, and a Germane Pensioner commanding them: In the Rere-guard was the Duke himfelfe with the whole manhood of Normans, and the flower of his Nobility & Gentry, all which battallios

came on. (39) The English supposing the Normans to have fled, and themselves the masters of the field, began in eager pursuit carelesly to vntwift, and display their rancks; when on the fodaine, the Normans having their wished opportunity, and winding about, charged the enemy a fresh, who now being scatteringly difranked, and out of all order, were slaine down on all fides, not able to recouer their battaile; many thus borne downe, and flaine, none by flight fought to escape the field, but rather to maintaine their honour in Armes, cast themselves into a round, choofing there to die in the cause of their Country, then cowardly to forfake the Standard of their King: and therefore with bold refolutions encouraging one an other, they turne head and resist a long time : but showers of arrowes like a stormy tempest falling thicke among them, one, most fatall, and vulucky for the English, wounded Harold into the braines through the left eye; so that falling from his horse to the ground, was vnder his owne standard slaine,

(40) And yet Giraldus Cambrenfis (I know not by (40) And yet or alass Camprenjis (1 know not by what inducement,) relates the iffue of this Battaile formwhat otherwife, affirming, that Harold with loffe of his Eye, but not of his life, from the field fledto the City of Westchester, and there long after led a holie life, and made a godly end, as an Anchoret in the Cell of Saint James, fast by the church of S. John. With Ha-rold died his Brethren Gyth, and Leofwin, with most of the English Nobility, besides the slaughter of fixty feuen thousand, nine hundred seuenty foure of their Souldiers: Bremenfis faith an hundred Thousand.

(41) Duke William in this Battail had three horses flain under him; God (faith Marianus) fo defending his person, that though multitude of darts were thrown against him, yet not a drop of his blood was fpile by the Enemy, and this Bastaile wonne with the loffe onely of fixe thougand and thirteene of his men. Whole wodden bowes (as Iohn Roufe is of opinion) gained the Normans that great victory; for the Arrowes shot leuell, or directly forward, wounded the English that stood in the front, and vpright; the other fhot on high, galled at the fal, those that were more remote, and the backs of fuch as flooped to shunne the

(42) This battle was fought in Suffex 7, miles from

Hastings, vpon Saturday the fourteenth of Ollober, and yere of Grace 1066. Wherin the dolefull destruction of the English fell, and the glorious Sun of the Normans even in the shutting of the day did arile; when perished the Royall blood of the Saxons, whose Kings first had made this Kingdome into Seuen and afterward of them fo glorious a Monarely, that it was not inferiour to any in Europe, and her Monarchs fo renowned for princely magnanimity, as that many of them were ranked with the best in the world: But now the all-ordering hand of God (vnto whose becke not onely this Ball of the Earth, and the Rulers thereof, but eyen the Heavens themselves, and all the powers thereof must bow) either for the finnes of the English which were many, and great, or to graffe one more fair and loger-continuing bud vpon this dried, and decayed flock, brought that forrein offpring into this his nurfery of Britaine, whose branches, as the vine, have spread both fruitfull and farre; and whose rootes are fastned as the trees of Libanon: the Kings thereof, even from the loines of this Great Conquerour, holding on a royall fuccession for the space of these fine hundred forty fine yeares, their iffues topped with the highest Cedars of the world, & their branches spread thorowout al Christendom; which wee pray may still proceede and continue, whilest the Sun and Moone have their being.

(43) This victory thus obtained, Duke william wholly afteribed vnto God, and by way of a folemne fupplication or procession gaue him the thanks ; and pitching for that night his Pauilio among the bodies of the dead, the next day returned to Hallings, there to consult vpon his great, and most prosperously be gun enterprise, giving first commandement for the buriall of his slaine Souldiers.

(44) But Morear, and Edwin, the unfortunate Queenes Brethren, by night eleaping the battel, came vato London, where with the rest of the Peeres, they began to lay the foundation of fome fresh hopes, pothing the confidence to raile a new supply, & to comfort the English (who through all the Land were stricken into a fearfull astonishment with this vnexpected newes) from a despairing seare, shewing the chance of warre to be mutable, their number marne cance of ware to be motable, their minder ma-ny, and Captaines fufficient to try another Field. Al-fred, Arch-biflop of Yorks, there prefent, and Prefi-dent of the Affembly, floutly, and prudently gaue his counfell forthwich to confectate, and crowne young Edgar Athelmg (the true heire) for their King; to whom confented likewise both the Sea-Captaines, and the Londoners. But the Earles of Yorkshire and Cheshire, Edwin & Morear (whom this fearfull state of their country could not diffwade from diffoyaltic and ambition) plotting secretly to get the Crowne to themselues, hindered that wise and noble designe. In which while, the forrowfull Queene their fifter was conucied to West-chester, where, without state or title of a Queene, she led a solitary and quiet life, (45) The Mother of the slaine King did not so well moderate her womanly passions, as to receive either comfort, or counsell of her friends: the dead body of her some she greatly desired, and to that end fent to the Conqueror two lage Brethren of his Ab-bey at waltham, who had accompanied him in his vnfortunate expedition. Their names (as I finde them recorded in an old Manuscript) were Ofegod and Ailrie, whose message to the Conqueror not without a-bundance of teares, and feare, is there set downe in the tenor as followeth.

"(46) No

lebs le Tailear in

Mat Neftminft. Rand Higden.

wil.Maimfb.

Chap.7.

(47) Your King (faid he) vinnindfull of his faith, although hee have for the present endured the worthy pu-"although the have for the prejent ename cases worsny pu-"missment of his fault, yet hath he not therefore defenued "to want the honour of a Sepulcher, or to be unburied: "were it but that he died a King, how source her came by the Kingdome,my purpose is for the reuerence of him, and for the health of them, who having left their wives and possessions, have here in my quarrell lost sheir lives, to build here a Church and a Monastery, with an hundred "build here a Church and a Monaftery, with an handred
"Monkin it is pray for them forcers; and in the dis"Church to lary your King abous thereft, with allianour mot of gerta & Prince, and for his fake to endow the fame with great renormer.
(48) With which his courteous speech and promilies, the two religious statics comforted, and cutomics, the two religious statics comforted, and cutomics, the two religious statics comforted, and cucontaged, againe replied.

" (49) Not so, noble Duke, but grant this thy servants most humble request, that we may, for God, by thy leaue, receive the dead body of our Founder, and to bury it in the place which himselfe in his life time appointed; that we cheered with the prefence of his body, may thereof take comfort, and that his Tombe may be unto our Suc-ceffors, a perpetuall Monument of his remembrance.

(50) The Duke, as he was of disposition gracious. and inclined to mercy, forthwith granted their defires : whereupon they drew out store of gold to prefent him in way of gratulation, which he not only vt-terly refused, but also offered them plenty to supply whatfoeuer should be needfull for the pompe of his funerall, as also for their costs in trauell to and fro ; gitting ftrait commandement that none of his Souldiers should presume to molest them in this their bufinesse, or in their returne. Then went they in haste to the quarry of the dead, but by no meanes could finde he body of the King, for that the countenances of all men greatly alter by death; but being maimed and imbrued with bloud, they are not knowne to be the menthey were. As for his other regall Ornaments, which might have shewed him for their King, his dead corps was despoiled of them, either through the greedy desire of prey, (as the manner of the Field is) or to be the first bringer of such happy newes, in hope of a Princely reward; vpon which purpole many times the body is both mangled and difmembred; and fo was this King after his death by a base Souldire,gasht and hackt into the legge, whom Duke Wil-liam rewarded for so vnsouldier like a deed, casshiering him for cucrout of his wages and wars. So that Haro'd lying stript, wounded, bemangled, and goared in his bloud, could not be found or known, till they fent for a woman named Editha, (for her paffing beauty furnamed swan-shals, that is, Swans-necke, whom he entertained in secret loue before he was King, who by some secret marks of his body to her well knowne, foundhim out; and then put into a coffine, was by divers of the Norman Nobility honourably brought vnto the place, afterward called Battle-bridge, where it was met by the Nobles of England, and so conneied to waltham, was there solemny, and with great lamentation of his mother, roialinterred, with this rude Epitaph, well befeeming the time, though not the perion.

Hen cadis hofte fero, Rex a Duce Rege futuro, Firmini iufli lux est tibi,luce Calixti; Pronior hine superas, hine superatus eras. Ergo tibi requiem deposcat utrumque perennem: Sicque precetur eum quod colit omne Deum.

A fierce foe thee flew; thou' a King, be King in view; Boih perce foth perceleff, both feard and both fearles; That fad day was mixt, by kirnis and Calix. This me help there to vanquiff, other made thee liquiff; Both now for thee programd by Requencing; Solet good more all, to God for thee call.

(51) This Kingsraigne was not fo ful of dayes as of great troubles: being but the space of nine months and nine dayes in whom was completed the Period Guill'son. and nine dayes, in whom was completed the Period of the Saxons Empire in Britaine, after they had continued from their first erected kingdome by Hengist in Kens, the space of sixe hundred and tenne yerres, without any reuersement or interruption saving the small Inter-Raignes of these three Danish Kings, of finall Inter-Raignes of these three Dauss Kings , of whom we have spoken. And although . simush the Marola as being an inpose man, and for the by user strength of the Abboto & Rainases, (the Legander of S. Estande life) much commend him for his controval of the strength inter, much comments aim for his courteous affabration, entry controlled in the present and the fall of an office and for his warther present for non-marchable vinco him and was reputed (tath hec) vertue befitting a Sourraigne commender, and borne cuen to vertue befitting a Sourraigne commender, and borne cuen to vertue to be in the fall of the controlled with the source to the controlled with the source to the source of the controlled with the source to the source of the controlled with the source of to repaire the decaied state of England; had he not, in the haughrinesse and opinion of his own valour and prudence, so much addicted himselfe to his owne resolutions, and roo much neglected the wife deliberations of his best friends and counsellers.

His Wines.

(52) The first wife of Harold, whom he had maried and buried before he was King, I find not named by any of our writers, but that he had fuch a one, appeareth, where it is recorded that hee was a Widower, what time he contracted the Conquerors daughter; and that also he had children of such age, that they made warres against King Welliam in the second of his Raigne; which it is probable, he had not by Editha, his Swannes neck, but were legitimat, and by this lawfull, though nameleffe Mother.

(53) Algith, the second wife to King Harold, was the widow of Gruffith ap Lhewelyn King of North-wales, the fifter of Edwine and Morcar Earles of Water, the inter of Extrine and Moren Earles of Torkshire, and Chefter, and daughter of Algar sonne of Leafrick, son of Leofwine, all Earles of Chefter, Licefter and Lincolne: She was married vnto him beeing then but Duke, in the last yeare of Edward Confessors raigne, and of Grace 1 065, neither did thee long enioy him,or her Queenly title, after his afpiring to the Crowne; for being refident in London when hee was flaine, from thence fhee was conueyed by her bro-thren to Westchester, where she remained in meane eflate, and in good quiet (which vivally most attends the meanest) without any princely shew or name, during the rest of her life, which lasted a great part of the

His I sue.

(54) Goodwine the eldest sonne of King Harold, being growne to some ripenesse of yeares in the life of his Father, after his death and ouerthrow by the Conquerour, tooke his brother with him, and fled ouer into Ireland: from whence he returned, and landed in Sommerfethire, flew Ednoth (a Baron fometime of Journer returner, new Easons (a Daron tomecune or his Fathers) char concurred him, and taking great preyes in Denon-fbire and Cornervall, departed till the next yeare. When comming againe, hee fought with Beorn an Earle of Cornwall, and after retired into Ireland, and thence went into Denmarke to King Swam his Colen-German, where he spent the rest of his life

(51) Edmand, the fecond former to King Harold, went with his Brother into Breland, returned with him into England, and was at the flaughter and outerthrow of Ednah, and his power in Sommer-fession; at the special committed in Cornwall and Denonfbire; at the conflict with the Cornifb Earle Beorn; passed and repassed with him in all his voiages. inualions and warres, by fea and by land, in England and Ireland; and at the last departed with him from Ireland to Denmarke; tooke part with him of all pleafure and calamity what locuer, and attending and depending wholly vpon him, liued and died with him in that Country.

(56) Magnus the third fon of King Harold, went with his brothers into Ireland; and returned with them the first time into England, and is never after that mentioned amongst them, nor elsewhere, vn-lesse, (as some doe coniceture)) he be that A agnue who feeing the mutability of humane affairs, became an Anchoret, whose Epitaph pointing to his Danish originall, the learned Clarenciaux discouered in a little desolate Church at Lewes in Suffex, where ir the gaping chinks of an Arch in the wall, in a rude and ouerworne Character, certaine old imperfect verses were found, which hee supposeth should bee

Clauditur hic Miles Danorum regia proles. Magnus nomen ei, magna nota Progeniei. Deponens Magnum, prudentior induit agnum Prapete pro vita, fit paruulus Anachorita.

Here lies a Knight of Danish regall race, He * Magnus hight; great name note of great place: But Magnus left, an . Agnus mild he prou'de,

From world bereft, an Anchorite below d. (57) Wolfe the fourth sonne of King Harold, See. neth to bee borne of Queene Algith his second wife for that hee was neuer mentioned among his other brethren, and having better friends by his mothers fide, was left in England, whereas they were forced thence; neither is he spoken of during all the raign of the Conquerour, and therefore at his cntrance may probably be thought to have beene but an Infant: yet after his death he is named among his prifoners with Earle Aforem (his vncle, if Queen Algith were his mother) and was by King William Rufin re-leased, and honoured by him with the Order of Knighthood,

(58) Gunhild a daughter of King Harold is mentioned by Iohn Capgraue (the Writer of the English Saints) in the life of Wolfian Bilhop of Worcester, reporting her to haue beene a Nunne in a Monastery of England; who, among the many miracles done by the land Wolffan, (which hee numbreth by tale, according to the superstitious manner of the time where-in he liued) declareth, how he restored this Lady to her perfect eye-fight, whereof by a dangerous infirmity, the was almost wholly, and in most mens opinions, vncurably deprined.

(58) Another daughter of King Harold not named (58) Miother caughter of this carross not hands by any Story-writer of our own nation, is mentioned by Saxe Orimations in his Daniff history, to hauecome into Denmarke, with her two brethren; to haue been very honorably intertained by King Swaine the yon-ger, her kinfman; and afterwards to haue been as honorably placed in marriage with Gereflef, called in La-tine Iariflaues, and of the Danes Waldemar, King of the Ruffians: and by him to have had a daughter, that was the mother of Waldemar, the first of that name King of Denmarke, from whom all the Danifb Kings for many ages after succeeded.

The end of the eighth Booke.

The

410

A CATALOGVE OF THE

ENGLISH MONARCHES FROM VVILLIAM THE CONQUEROVR, VNTO KANG JAMES, NOVY SO LE MONARCH OF GREAT BRITAINE, WHOSE ACTS ARE ENTREATED OF IN THIS ENSVING HISTORIE.

	KINGS.	BEGINNINGS.	R	A 1 G	N E.	DEATH.	BVRIALL.
		Yeeres Months Daies	yeers	mont	bs daies	Yeeres Months Daies
	WILLIAM I.	1066. Oct. 14. Sat.	20	10	26	1087 Sept. 9 Thurf.	Cane.
	WILLIAM 11.	1087. Sept. 9. Thurf.	12	10	22	1100 Aug.1 Wedn.	Winchester.
	HENRY 1.	1100. Aug. 1. Wednf.	35	3	1	1135 Decem. 2 Mor	Reading.
-	STEPHEN.	1135 Dec. 2 Monday	18	è	17	1154 Octob.25 Mon	Feuersham.
	HENRY 11.	11540A. 25. Mon.	34	8.	12	1189 July 6 Thur	Fonteuerard.
	RICHARD L	1189 Iuly 6 Thurfd.	9	8	00	1199 Sprille Tuef.	Fontenerard.
.	IOHN.	1199 Apr. 6 Tuefd.	17	7	13	1216 Octob. 19 Wedn.	Worcester.
	HENRY 111.	1216 Off. 19. Wedn.	56	0	27	1272 Nou. 16 Wedn.	Westminster.
	EDWARD L	1272 Non. 16. Wedn.	34	7	2 I	1307 July 7 Frida.	Westminster.
	EDWARD 11.	1307 July 7 Friday	19	6	15	1326 depo .lan. 22.Sa.	Glocester.
	EDWARD III.	1326 lan. 25 Satur.	50	4	27	1377 June 21 Sund.	Westminster.
	RICHARD 11.	1377 lune 21 Sunday	22	2	7	1399 dep. Sep. 29.mn.	Westminster.
	HENRY IIII.	1399 Sept. 29 Mend.	13	5	21	1412 March 20 Sund.	Feuersham.
٠	HENRY r.	1412 Mar. 20 Sund.		4	11	1422 Aug. 31 Mun.	Westminster.
	HENRY VI.	1422 Aug. 31. Mon.	38	6	4	1460 depo sed.Mar.4	Windfore.
	EDWARD 1111.	1460 Mar. 4.	22	1	5	1483 Aprill 9	Windfore.
	EDWARD v.	1483 April 9	00	I	12	1483 murthered.	Tower of Lond,
	RICHARD 111.	1483 iune 22.	2	I	٥	1485 flain Au.29 Mo.	Leicefter.
	HENRY VII.	1485 Aug. 22 Mon.	23	7	0	1509 Aprill 22 Sund.	Westminster.
	HENRY FIII.	1509 April 22 Sund.		9	5	1546 Jan. 28 Thur.
	EDWAD VI.	1546 Inn. 28. Thurf.		5	9	1553 July 6 Thur.	Westminster.
	MARY.	1553 July 6 Thurfd.	5	4	11	1558 None.17 Thur.
	ELIZABETH	1558 Non. 17.Thur.	44	4	6	1602 March 24 Thur.	Westminster.
	IAMES.	1602 Mar.24. Thur.	N	os,	TE F	LORENTE, BEA

The

SVCCESSION ENGLANDS MONARCHES FROM

THE ENTRANCE OF THE NORMANS VNDER WILLIAM THE CONOVEROR: VNTILL THE REGALL RIGHTS OF THE WHOLE ILAND WERE BY GODS PROVIDENCE VNITED VNDER
ONE IMPERIALL DIADEME, IN THE PERSON OF OVR PRESENT SOVERAIGNE KING TAMES, SOLE MONARCH OF GREAT BRITAINS: THEIR SEVERALL ACTS, ISSVES, RAIGNES, ARMES, SEALES, AND COINES.

CHAPTER I.

Hat hath beene spoken touching the Originals. Lawes, and Customes of the Saxons, and Danes, the ancient Conquerours, and possessor of this our land, may in like fort bee faid of the Normans (being a brach from the same roote) of whom wee are now to write, fauing only that the name is not fo ancient, and therfore their Manners may bee thought more citill. Through the mifty-darke times of which Stories, to-gether with that of the Romans, and of our Britaines (wherein no brighter Sun did shine vnto vs) by the afsistance of the all-seeing power which bringeshlight out of darknes, I am lastly approached to these times of more light, and vnto affaires of more certaine truth: whose Current to my seeming is made now Nauigable, by the many writers that haue emptied their full channels into this Sea: wherein, though in respect of my owned defects, and that so many Mafter-Bilotes haue failed before me, it may seeme but presumption for me to direct another course, with a purpose to better what they have so well performed : yet to make a complete History from the first to the last : giue me leaue to continue, as I haue begunne.

tion with the warlike Norwegians, Swedens, & Danes, tooke their Name of that Northern Climate from whence they came first, which was that Coast of Ger-many, anciently called Cimbrica Cherlonesus, and Nor-way, for that it tendeth in respect of situation so farre Northward; and from hence, and the parts adjacent, the Saxons, lutes, Angles, and lately the Danes, made their incursions into this Land.

(3) This Tract therfore as the wombe of coccution. by the dispose of the Omnipotent, after it had produced those Nations which formerly made Coquests of Britane, now againe brought forth (as it were) her lastborne Benismin, who descering the pray in the morning, bath dissided the spoile in the Essening, and hitherto con-tinued their glorious fame atchieued; which I pray, may extend to the last period of Times being: For these Normans sirst by force got footing in France with the Dominion, and Stile of a Duke, and next the Diadem of this faire Empire, the last and most famous Monarches of the fame.

(4) These, formerly practizing Piracies upon the Coasts of Belgia, Frizia, England, Ireland, and France, proceeded in their hardy courses even to the Mediteranean Sea: infomuch that Charles the Great feeing their roauing tall Ships, and confidering the bold at-tempts they underthooke, with a deepe figh, and abundance of teares, is reported to haue faid : Heanie am I at the very heart, that in my owne life time, these Ptand I a the very reast, that it may some eige the experience, they it rates date to come upon my Coalit, whereby I foresee what missibile they will worke upon my Posserite. Which indeede proued so great, that in their publike Processions, and Letanies of the Church, this Petition was added, From the rage of the Normans, Good Lord deliner vs. This feare, and praier notwithflanding, they draue the French to such extremitie, that King Charles the Bald was forced to give vnto Huffing a Norman, Arch-pirate, the Earledome of Charters, for to afwage his furie exercifed upon his People; and againe, King Charles the Groffe, granted vnto Godfrey the Nor-mane part of Neustria, with his Daughter in mariage: Yet all this sufficed not, but that the Normans by force of Armes scated themselues neere vnto the mouth of Sein, taking all for their owne that lay compriled betwixt that River and the River Loyre: which

Countrey afterwards tooke the name of Nor-manny fro these Northern Guests, at what time King Charles the simple, confirmed it vnto Rollotheir Captaine.

(5) This Rollo, as fay the Danish Historians, was the son of Gaion, a great Lord in Denmark, who with his brother Gosrin were appointed to depart the Country (according to the Danish customes) to seeke their aduentures abroad, and leaue more roome for the rest at home ; but these refusing the order made warre vpon the King, in which, both Guion the Father and Gourin the fonne, were flaine, and Rollo forced to fly for fafeguard of his life, with whom went a num-ber of Gallants to feeke Fortunes Court, and not a few names, I haue chosen in this place to insert, leaving the credit therofto him the Reporter. (6) Rollo, a Nobleman of Denmarke, (faith he) and roopowerfull in his Kings eye, was forced with a Nauy to aducature his Fortunes into forreine parts, whose first arrivage, as he saith, was in England, where many of the Danish nobility had formerly tried their valours and fome of them attained to the Scepter, i not of the whole yet of a great part of that kingdom mildoers, or out-lawedmen : whole Acts in Fingland registred by Albertus Krantius, seeing they vary from our owne historians in circumstances of times, and

Indeed, (faith he) England from the beginning was no

tifull prefents, I can doe no leffe, then willingly bestow vpon the fourth Duke of Normandy, and ruled the fame for | fourth Duke of you thefe my paines for your fafetie : it is no more then your twenty foure yeeres: In whose time the Normans Rev. Migdon began to be great, and gracious in England, the mardeferts doe challenge, neither will I accept, or feeme fo uncourteous as to expect, for my paines, any part of your doriage of his Sifter making their way : his first wife was minion. Your felfe now may well gouerne it; for France Indith the Sifter of Geffrey Earle of Britaigne, by whom he had iffue, Richard, the first Duke of Norealles for my presence: keepe therefore those your Pledges. brought to you by your Subjects, and there is no doubt but you shall hence-forward governe your Kingdome in a setmandy, and Robert the fixt, William a Monke, and Nitholes Abbot of S. Andrewes: his daughters by her led and contentfull quietnesse.

(18) The King could not containe those his eies. were, Alice, that died yong, and another of the fame name maried to Reinold, Earle of Burgoine, and Eleanor espoused to Baldwin the fourth Earle of Flanders which now beheld in a stranger so strange and vnexwho bare vnto him Baldwin the fifth, father of Mana empled kindnes, from refoluing into teares ; gitting him both hearty thanks, and rich gifts, feeing hee that was Queene of England, and wife to the Conquecould not fasten on him any portion of his King-dome : of whom, all that Rolls defired was this, that (24) The fecond wife to Duke Richard the fecond he would give licence to fuch voluntary Souldiers as was Estrike, Sister to Canute King of England, from would goe with him into France: whereto Alflen, reawhom he purchased a Diuorce, without any iffue bedy in all things to gratific his defire, gladly conde-feended, and furnished him with attendants. gotten on her body; and then taking for his thrid wife a faire Gentlewoman named Paula, had iffue by her William Earle of Arques, and Mauger Archbishop (19) But leaving Krantius the Dane, as likewise Geme ticensis the Norman, to fauour their Country, & these of Roane. (25) Richard the third of that name, and fifth Richard 3. the fith Duke of their reports, to the best liking of the judicious; most certaine it is, that the French King Charles, commonly Duke of Normandy, in the second yeere of his Dukedome died an vntimely death, not without suspition of Poyson, ministred by Robert his younger brother; called the Simple, gaue the Duchie of Normandy with his daughter Gilla (whose mother was Eguina, the who presently was inucsted in the Dutchie, for that he daughter of Edward the Elder, King of England) vnto left no iffue of his body to fucceed. Rollo the Dane, as is recorded in an old manuscript (26) This Robert (Duke Rithards Brother) was a man of a magnanimous spirit, and of fuch bounter busilebrality as is vncredible. Hee comming to the City. Phalefya in Normandy chanced to fee a most belonging to the Monastery of Angiers. And when Rollo was baptized, Charles receiving him for his God-sonne at the Font, he was there required to doc homage for his Dukedome received, and inioined therein to kille the Kings foot, which hee did, but with some digrace to King Charles, and bound it with an oath that hee did not receive it vpon courgoodly and beautifull damofell, dancing among omeane parentage (the daughter of a Skinner, faith Palyardas de suige bleading feature and comely grace fo pleafed the Duke shared in the suige bleading feature and comely grace fo pleafed the Duke shared in the suige bleading the suige blead (20) This Rollo by his fecond wife Popes, (for Gille pleased the Duke, that taking her to his bed, he bedied childlesse) daughter to the Earle of Besin and got on her , William his onely fonne, (who proued the Baileule, had a sonne named william, surnamed Longonely man of the Normans blood) and after upon a espee, and a daughter called Girlota, who was afterremorfe of conscience, vnderrooke a pilgrimage vnwards married to the Duke of Guyan. to Ierusalem , from whence hee neuer againe re-(21) William Long-effee (to called of the Long Sword he vivally wore) the second Danish Duke of Norturned. Arles in Roberts life time was married to Herlaine a Norman Gentleman, but of meane sub-Duke of Warmandy, took vnto wife Sporta the daughter of Hubert Rancesto whom the bare Ode Bithop of Baion, by his halfe-brother William created Earle of Kent; and Ro Earle of Sentlis, by whom hee had onely Richard his fonne: this william receiving baptisme, received therewith a new name, and was thenceforth called bert created Earle of Mortaigne, aman of a dull and groffe wit; & a daughter named Emma, wife to Richard Wil. Tactym of Robert, who having governed his Dukedome with count of Auranehes, (a Province in Normandy,) the mother of Hugh Lupus Earle Palatine of Cheffer. And thus farre breefly I have thought good to profecute great moderation the space of twenty yeeres, was guilefully murthered by the working of Lewes King of France, to the great gricfe of his people, who so far followed the reuenge, that they intercepted Lewes in the Line of the Normans, for the better illustration of our English Stories, the Citie Rothsmage, and deteined him their prisoner, till he agreed to these Articles: That young Richard (27) Duke Robert intending his pious pilgri-Polyer. nage vnto the holy land, affembled all his Nobility vnto the City Fifean, where he caused them to I weare should succeed his flaine Father in the foresaid Dukedome; and that thenceforth when the King & Duke fealty vnto his sonne William, being then but seuen fhould conferre together, the Duke should bee gift yeares old committing him to the Gouernance of with his Sword, and the King disabled either of one Gilbert, an Earle of much integrity and prudence, Sword or knife: to which Lewes yeelded vpon his and the defence of that Government vnto Henry the French King, and so in the eight yeare of his Dukecorporall oth.
(2.2) Richard thus established, gouerned his dome, fer on his voyage for Ierufalem; who entring Dukedome the space of fifty two yeeres. Hee was a man of an admirable fortitude, and therefore was I sarye, and not able to trausile, was born in a litter vpon the Saracens shoulders, and neere vnto the Citie, called Richard the Hardy. His first wife was * Agnes daughter to Hugh le Grand, Earle of Paris, Lord Ab meeting a returning Pilgrime, defired him to report Walfing Toolig. in his Country what he there faw, which is, (faid hee) that I am carried to Heauen vpon the Diuels backe: but so farge was he borne that he neuer returned, bebat of Germans, and Father to Hugh Capet of Frances but the dving iffueleffe, he secondly married Gunnor, a Gentlewoman of the Danish bloud, (whom he had ing preuented by death: which the Rorman Peeres hearing, made vie thereof for their owne ambitious kept his Concubine before) by whom he had three ends, without any regard of young William their Pufonnes and three daughters; the first was Richard that pill and Soueraigne, and grown into factions, great-ly troubled the Peace of their Country, wherein fucceeded in his dominions; the fecond was Robert Archbishop of Roan; and the third was called Mali-Earle Gilbert the Protector was flaine, by Randulphus ger ; his daughters were Hamifa, the wife of Geffrey Earle of Britaine, and mother to Alane and * Guye his the young Dukes Cofen-Germane, fonnes. Mand espoused * Enldes Earle of Chartiers (28) The beginner of these stirres was another of and Blais : and Emma called the Flower of Normand his kinfmen, euch Gay of Burgoine, the sonne of Duke Richards daughter, brought vp with William in his was Queene of England, both by the English King Ethelred, and Canutus the Dane, to both which shee youth, and euer in his most especial esteeme; who, vpon a vaine hope to afpire to an Earldome, gorthe aide of the Vicounts, Nigell, and Bandulph, but tooke fuch (23) Richard the second, surnamed the Good, was

ENGLANDS MONARCHS

413

Chap.I

Monarch 2

a fall before he could afcend the highest skep, that in busing his footing he lost therewith his head.

(29) Strife a fo arote betwixt yong william, and his Vnckle william the baie-borne Earle of Arciss. Whereupon King Henry of France, who till then had held this Wolfe by the earc, fearing some hazzard to himtelfe, if he should now let him go, thought it best to aid the Earle in his cause, and therefore sent him supplie under the leading of some men of note; but William so begirt his Castle with strait siege, that hee caused the Earle by famishment to yeeld up his Fort, and droue the French with disgrace out of the field: where, with fuch fuccesse he still prospered, that Hen-ry now, to secure his own Confines, sent Ode his brother for Prefect, into those Parts, that lay betwint the Rivers Reyn and the Seyn.

(30) William as watchfull as the French King was jealous, fent against Odo, Robert Count Aucenfis, Hugh Gornacensis, Hugh Mountfort, and William Crisbine all of them flour Souldiers, which so brauely bare themselves, that Odo was the first man that made away, and the restof the French saued themselues by

(31) William that had fworne a league with King

Henry, and in his Minority had ever found him his gracious Guardian, was loth to endanger the breach of his Oath, or the duty that love and deferts had obiged him vnto; and therefore by this Stratagem hee fought to diflodge the French. In the filence of Night when in the Kings Campe all were at reft, he caused to be cried aloud, the flight of odo, and his discomfiture, with no leffe terrour then it was; which rang fo fhrill in the eares of the French, that Henry thought best to be gone : leaving william the absolute Lord

(32) Which he valiantly defended, and vprightly gouerned all the daies of King Henry: whose death presently caused an alteration of States for he leaving Baldwine furnamed the Gentle, and fifth Farle of Flaunders, Tutor to his yong Son e Philip, the quarrell betwixt those two Princes hadan end; Ealewine on the one fide fo working his Pupill, and on the o-ther the Normane, (who was his fonne in law) that a most firme League was ratified betwixt them, and kept vnuiolated to long as william was a Duke; where wee will leaue him in prosperitie and peace, and proceed in our intendment, as he did in his Conquest here in England,

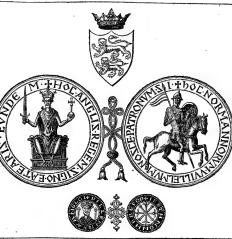

The

Chap. 2. | William Conq. ENGLANDS MONARCHS Monarch 39.

William the Conquerour. VVILLIAM SVRNAMED THE CONQUEROVE, THE THIRTIE NINTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISH.

MEN: AND FIRST OF THE NORMANS: HIS LIFE, RAIGNE, ACTS, WIFE. AND ISSVÉ

CHAPTER II.

An,D.106

Attle Field wonne with the loffe of little leffe then fixty eight thousand men, and Harold in Souldierlike exequies borne vnto Waltham in Effex , & there honourably enterred, as we have faid : Welliam the Conqueror, (for so now may wee stile him) returned to Halling, and thence fet forward with spoile of the Country, ouer Thamefis towards London,

(2) Where Edwine and Morear, the Brethren of the Queen, were in working the English, that one of them should be King, or rather, faith Simon of Durham, to crowne Edgar Etheling, the rightfull heire, in fuch efteeme with the People, that he was commonly called Englands Darling synto whose side most of the Nobles adhered, with the Citizens of London, and the Nauall forces; to which part also joined Aland the Natuall forces; to which part alto tomest As-dreich hopping of Farlet, hopping prefairly he field off-and fluckt to the fluorger; for the Prelates, though in fercetly affecting the right claim, eye retrified with the flashing thunderboles of the Papall certle, durft not go for ovarat with their purposition powerful avan the Pope, usen then to defeat the rightful hierors of interfaces the property of the prefairly the interfaces have a fine of the with the Lords, kingdomes) but refused to side with the Lords, whereupon all their designements were suddainely quashed. (3) For William having walted through Kent, Suffer, Surrey, Hampfhire, and Barkshire, came vinto Wallingford, and croising there the Thamesis, passed Waims on a macrosing there the I namesis, palled through the Counties of Oxford, Buckingham and Hetsford, where staying at Berkhamsted, Aldred Archbishop of Yorke, Wolfiane Bishop of Worse, Melfane Bishop of thereford, with the Earles Ed. win and Morear, yea and Edgar himself, yeelded their allegiance water the Duke: This curfe to preuailing,

Zzz 2

416	William Conq. THE SVC	ESSION OF Monarch 39.	Booke.9
	tarre engaged William to the Pope.	the Realme to his feeming in his fift, stood in de-
Trees cut downe	(4) William intending for London, being on his	I spatre of his owne lite; of which his sodaine amaze-
am paliage.	way, found the pallage stopt vp with multitudes of	ment, the reuerend Prelates Stigand and Eg'efine ta-
	great trees, which by the policy of Frethericke Ab-	king notice, & alfoaduantage, prefented themselves	1
	noble bloud, as likewise from Canutus the Dane) to	before him, and in the behalfe of the Kentish thus spake.
	fecure his Monasterie from the destruction of the	(8) Most noble Duke, behold here the Commons
	Normans, were so cut downe: whereat the Duke	" of Kent are come for th to meete and receive you as their	Stig ands Oration both wondring and fretting, fent for the Abbot, vn-	" Soucraigne, requiring your Peace, their own free con-der his affurance of fafe returne, and demanding the cause why his woods were so cut; Frethericke answe-	of these be denied, they are here presently to abide the
Zobu Sterv.	red very froutly, I have done (faid he) the duety both of my birth and profession; and if others of my ranke had	depart with their lawes, or to live feruile in handage:
	performed the like as they well might and ought) it had not	which name and nature is and ener (hall be strange on-
	beene in thy power to have pierced the land thus farre.	" to vi, and not to be endured.
	(5) william hearing the bold answere of this Pre-	The Conquerour driven into this strait, and loath late, and knowing it was now a time fitter to pacifie,	to hazard ali on so nice a point, their demaunds be-	Wil.Therne.
	then exulcerate the English spirits, gaue way to the	ing not varcasonable, more wisely then willinglie	PP ANT GWINES present necessity, and withall hastned (as good poli-	granted their defires; and pledges on both parts gi-cy required) his coronation, which at Westminster was solemnized upon Monday, being the day of	uen for performance, Kent yeeldeth her Earledome,
King Williams		and Calle of Douer to their new King William.
Coronation,	Christs Natuity, and yeere of saluation, 1066, where he received the crowne at the hands of Aldred Arch-	(9) All things established for Englands securitie, bishop of Yorkes causing the Bishops and Barons to	and subjection now to the Normans; hee ordained his halfe brother by the surer side, Odo Bishop of	Simon Dan.
	take the oath of al eguance vnto him; and himselfe		Ods Bifhop of likewife at the altar of S. Peters, tooke a folemne	colen william-Fitz-Osburne(by him made Earle of	Bayeax made Eatleand gouer-oath to defend the rights of the Church, to efta-	(Atterora) to Dee Couernours in his ablence oner	nour of Kent.
	blish good lawes, and to see justice vprightly admi-	the Kealme; and in the Lent following failed into blish good lawes, and to see instice vprightly admi- nistred, as became a good Kings and thereupon	Wormandy, leading with him many pledges for their
1	choic for his counteil, such men as he knew to bee	indenty, bendes other Nobles, elbecially fisch ache	Henry Hune.
	of great wisedome and experience: next, applying	reared to be too potents amongst whom command	Polyer.
William fortifieth	his thoughts for the fecurity of his new gotten Em-	THE AICHDINGO OF Canterbury, the two great Farles	, against inuations.	pire; fortified such places as lay open to danger,
-	bestowed strong Garrisons upon the coasts, & ships	THE ADDOC OF S. Albans, Ageingthus Abbot of Gla-	Tpsdigma .
	to ride in those Harbours which were most exposed to inuation.		2(cu).
		Earle of Northumberland, Roger Earle of Hertford, Pelyder.	(6) And the better to affure the fouth of the land (best feruing his purpose, if any new troubles		Mariaum, should arise) hee tooke his way towards Douer, the	of Cumberland, were the men of greatest note; yet was locke and key of the Kingdome, as Atathew Paris terms	hee no sooner gone, but that Edrick surnamed Syl- nations (sonne to Africk, the brother of Edrick Stre-
Math. Paris.	it; that so hee might commaund the seas from his	ona, the treacherous Earle of Mereia, a man of great
Maib. Paru.	enemies arrivage, and ouer-awe the Kentifs a most	fairit, and of no little power sided by the wife ftrong and populous Province When Stipandther-	fpirit, and of no little power, aided by the Welfmen, tooke vp armes and denied subjection to the Nor-fore Archbilhop of Canterbury, and Egleline the Po-	mans, so that by either partie(as in civill discords it	The Wiffines Lobn Stow.	liticke Abbot of Saint Augustiness being the chiefest	euer fa leth out) great spoiles were made in many	gainst William.
	Lords and Gouernours of Kent) understoode of his		1
	approch, they allembled the Commons at Canterbu-	bert Fitz Scroope left to man the Caffle, did much hurt vpon the Tenants of Edricke, and he to requite
	77, laying forth the perils of the Prouince, the mile-	hurt vpon the Tenants of Edricke, and he to require
1	ries of their neighbours, the pride of the Normans,	tinn with the like, tailing to his side Rieting and Fe.	1
		watness Kings of water, waited all to the mouth of	Math.W.S.
Archbishop Sai-	were too apparantly seene: the English till then,	wye.	lib.1.
grads pertwation of the Kantiff.	(they fayd,) were borne free, and the name of	(10) These stirres in England called william out	An.D. 1067
of the Kentifb.	bond-men not heard of among them; but now fer-	Of Normanay, and were to diffaffful to his areas but uitude only attend vs, if wee yeeld (fayd they) to the infolency of this griping enemy: These two	in digerting fromacke, that her began to hold the Pre ates therefore, after the example of the vidaun-ted Machabeer, offered themselves to die in the de-	his Narmans and laying representations of their Nobles vnto
	tence of their Country: whose forwardnesse dress	his Normans, and laying vinwonted taxes & heatie
	the people vnto the like refolution, which by their	bred him more harred in 60 much which nothing	The lands of the a fuerthements were alsigned to meet at a day, the	them, to enion a barren liberty, for fooke their fruit-	Enelifo ciuen to place was Swanfcombe, two miles west from Granes	full inheritance, and with their Wives & Children,	the Normans, end,	as outlawes, liued in the Woods, preferring that naked name of freedome, before a sufficient mainte-
Thom.Sprat.	(7) Where accordingly convening, and keeping	naked name of freedome, before a inflicions secret in the woods, they waited the comming of
The Kentiff po- licie against King	the Conquerour, all jointly agreeing, for that no
Brillian.	way may open lage onely a front, to carry in their l	wants, (eafily conceined, but hardly indured) manus great Dranches of trees, wherewith they might!		Warres even in both keepe themselves from discovery and (if need)		bearer were) impeach the pallage of the Normans: which	houses every where so guarded with bowes, billes, ļ	denice tooke fo firange an effect, that it daunted	polaxes, fwords and clubs, as if they had been not the Duke euen with the light at his approch; who being, as he thought, free from the enemy, was now fuddainly befet on all fides with woods, whereof fee-	their dores as in times of open holdilitie On the ing fome before him to mone, he knew not but that all the other vast woods were of like nature, neither had hee leasure to avoide the danger. The Kentish	of rollerable (yea, or vintollerable) viage, they to curry fauour with the Normans, leeming to forget inclosing his Army about diffusion the Kentiff	curry rauour with the Normans, feeming to forget	Mat Pais.
	inclofing his Army about, displaied their banners, cast downetheir boughes, and with bowes bent pre-		i pared for battle; so that hee which even now had	did made their beards, round their hairs and in at mem, ochaniour, and diet, a stogether vnfafhio-	1 ned i

	I to Ct	MONARCHS. Monarch 39.	417
he Exclusive be-	ned themselves to imitate them: it being a shame in those daies, even amongst Englishmen, to bee an	recouer their former liberties, tooke Armes: against whom, King William in all hast possible, sent Robert ame firangers.	Englishman.
-	Zagujomas.	Cumm, and went himselfe frongly prepared against	ì
	(11) Vnto these Malecontents, and voluntarie	Excefler, which he most straitly beleaguered; at which
	Out-lawes, ioined Aforear and Edwine, the fout	time the Citizensthought it not enough to flutte
	Earles of Chefter and Yorkefbire, setting vp again for	their gates against him, but contemptuously taun-	Cantil Dames
	their Captaine Edgar Etheling (which if in due	ted and flouted him, vntill a great peece of the wall time at first they had done, might have proved	falling downe by the especial hand of God, (as the	Exteller yeald to King Wither fuccessefull) who with their complices right va-	Historians of that age report) they immediately set	to King Willer any Nobles?	liantly for a time relifted the Normans, and in their	open their gates, and submitted themselves to his cout of	proceedings put many of them to the fword. King	mercy. The chiefe infligator to their difloialty was
L	william as carefull and fedulous to preuent further	Gatha the mother of King Harold, and fifter to Smain mischiefe, collecting his forces, and not without	King of Denmarke, with Others fiding against the danger of his life, diffolued their power, fo that e-	Normans; who now feeing the yeelding up of that t.Parit.	uery man fought how to faue himfelfe by escape: a-	Citie, shifted themselves out of danger, and got ou, wester.	mong whom Edwin and Morear, Weltherfus and	uervnto Flanders.	1
	Merther, with some of the Bishops and Clergie went	(15) But fortune to Camin was not fo fauou-	An.D. 106 into Scotland. Marleswin, and Gospatrick, Noble-	rable in the North, nor himselfe so circumspect as men of Northumberland went into Denmarke: Edgar	valuant; for lying securely, as hee thought in the
	Atheling, with his mother Agatha, and his fifters	City Durham, hee was on the fodaine furprifed in	The Names
	Christian and Margaret, tooke the seas for Hungarie;	the night by Edgar Atheling and his followers, where	flaine in the
	but by contrary winds were driven into scotland,	Robert and seuen hundred of his Normans were slain,	north;
	where they were most courteously entertained by	one onely escaping, who brought the bloody news
	Malcolme (furnamed Cammor) King of that Coun-	thereof to King William, which hapned in the third	Polydere .
ng Malcolate	try, who so affected the person and qualities of	of his raigne, the twenty eight of I anuary, and yeere argares.	Lady Margaret, that hee entred with her a Nupti-	of Christ, 1068. The depth of Winter norwithstan-
	all contract, and the rather in respect of her pos-	ding, he posted into the north, whose only terror dan-	1
	fibility and neereneile to the English crowne; whose	ted all further attempts, so that taking some of the	1 marriage was folemnized about the feaft of Eafter,	Authors of this rebellion, he cut off their hands and in the second of King Williams raigne, whereby	fome of their heads, conceiuing hereupon more ha-	j
	Scotland became a fanctuary to the English, which	tred against the English, and in that spleene of displea-	1
	daily fledde thither from the preflures of the Nor-	fure returned to London.	1
	275.	(16) Whiles these insurrections were on foot in	An.D.106
	(12) The Conquerour now perceiuing the oc-	England, the fugitive English in Denmarke so far pre-	711120.100
	calion of new ftirres, fent vnto King Malesime for	uailed with King Smaine, that they procured his aid	1
ng William len- th for Edgar	the deliueric of Edgar his enemie; which if he re-	to recover their rights, and the rather, as they allead-
n of scotland.	fuled , hee threatened to denounce open warre a-	ged, for that the Crowne of England was his, descen-	Marb.Park, Mar Wefim, gainst Scotland. But Malcolme minding more his	ding from those that had before made conquest ther-	Mat Wellen.
	owne honour, then King VVillams threats, retur-	of: hee therefore sent a puissant Nauie of three hun-	4b.s.
	ned this answere. That he held it an unjust thing, yea	dred faile well fraught with fouldiers, under the con-	ŀ and(in a Prince) a wicked part, to betray him to his	duct of Osburne his brother, and Harold and Canute	The Deser wh enemy, that came vnto his Court for protection,	his fonnes,: who arrining in Humber, landed their
	as Prince Edgar was forced for feare of his life; whole	men for Yorke, and wasted the Country all the way	inuade Sugla innocency and demeanour toward William, his	as they went; vnto whom shortly joined Edgar and	i .
	greatest aduersarie, could not touch with the least	his affociates out of Seotland, so that their Army was	1
n honeurable	suspect: alleadging further (besides the respect of	exceedingly strong. Whose approch so terrified the	Lib, Eber St.
ying.	ordinary humanity, in this case euer religiously to	Torkers, that for very griefe thereof their Archbi-	1
	be observed) the straight bands of their neere al-	shop Aldred, (who was wholly become the Ner-	1
he loug of al-	liance, which required him to tender the afflicted	mans fauourite) died, and the Norman Garrisons	l
ARCE.	estate of his most louing wives, most loued brother,	that there kept, left the enemy should have any	Terke feton by her owne
	comming under his Canopie, as it were for de-	fhelter or fuccour, fet their fuburbs on firesthe flame	foulaiers, fence.	whereof carried with an ouer-high wind, foone con-	1
	(13) william thus frustrate of all hope from king	fumed a great part of the City it selfe, and therein,	1
	Maleolme, and daily perplexed at the flight of the	the faire Cathedrall Church of S. Peters, with a fa-	1
	Englifb vnto his kingdome, feared a reuolt & dan-	mons I ibrary thereto adjoining.
	gerous rebellion; to preuent which, hee caused foure	(17) The Citizens, and Souldiers thus befet	i i
	ftrong caftles to bee built, one at Hasting, another	with fodaine flames, thinking to fecure their liues fro	1
	at Lincolne, the third at Nottingham, & the fourth	the fire, did enhazard them on the fury of the fword;	l
	at Torke, wherein he bestowed strong Garifons: and	for comming vnawares upon these hardy and well	1
	difarming the English of armour, commaunded e-	appointed Danes, were forced to come to a disorde	The Destroid
	tiery house-holder to put out both fire and candle at	red fight, wherein though for a time they behaued	oner the Eng
ire and candle	alabraf the clocke at night; at which hours in each	themselues most valiantly, yet being overlaid, were orbidat certair		discomfised with the flaughter of three rhousand of	1
oures vato the	berung, of the French then called Conerfew (that is,	discomfited with the slaughter of three thousand of their men. The Danes, swelling with this prospe-
	Court fire) partly yet in practife, and in name verie	rous fuccesse tooke into Northumberland, bringing all	1
	neer,commonly called Curfue: to preuent nightly	to their obeifance where they came; and the two
	neer, commonly cance cwines to present nightly	yong gallants were therby fo fleshed,& incouraged, turnults that might happily be done.	that they intended to have marched to London, had	11
Mas.Weftminjles	(14) All this his circumspection notwithstan-	marche everement of minror (enemy to all mortile en	1 ding, could not preuent the troubles that presently	not the extremity of winter (enemy to all warlike enarole, for Goodwin and Edmund, the sonnes of	terprifes) hindred them; yea and William as wil-	William pol
	the late King Harold, comming with fome forces	lingly would have beene doing, if the same cause	to weaken th
Soodwin and Edward out of	out of Ireland, and landing in Sommer [et]bire, tought [had not kept him backe:but when the time of the	Englist.
Freland inmade	with Adnothus, (sometime master of their fathers	yeare was fit for warre, hee gathered a great hoft	, England.	horie, but now a Normanift) whom they ilew with I	whereof the English were chiefe, this being his poli
	many others, and taking great booties both in	cy, to vie their weapons each against others, wher	-1
	Cornwall and Denonshire, departed agains for Ire-	by their strengths might bee lessened, that so who	wil Malms
	land.	focuer loft, his Normans might winne; thefe io	- Exceiter likewise, seeking to shake off the fetters	ning battaile with the enemy, fought it out manful	-
	of the Normans bondage, as also Northumberland, to	ly; and laitly, making a breach into a wing of th	e
		Dani

in the

withstanding written in the harsh Norman tongue, which they understood not; so that many persons, which they vacctitoou not; so that many perions, partly by the iniquitie of the law it felfe, partly by ignorance in milconfruction, & often allo by the leightes of Pleaders and Iudges, who might pretend for law what they lift, were wrongfully condemned, in forfeiture of goods, lands, yea and also of life and generally to intangled with their vnknowne interpretation, and tortured with their delaies, tur-

the field: for, (said hee) the maintenance of martiall men, with a great part of this lands renenewes, are adily conserved to pious imploiments, to maintaine and defend these holy voltaries, whose praires pieces more dee-per then the sword and therefore thou are obliged & King.

to maintaine their peace, that have beene the cause of the

(26) But william before the words were well out of his mouth replied and faid, Is the Clergy fortch and so strengthned that the land thereby lieth weakened of her lo estic purchate.

Lib.S. Alban. Simon Dun. Math.Paris King William Ran, Higden Henry Hans, Mub. Peris, The Ile of Ely torufied against William. King William of faulteth the lie of Ely. The Scots in

٠,1

Chap. 2. VVilliam Conq. ENGLANDS MONARCHS Monarch 29. rill the found of fenen hundred markes had opened men at Armes, and to keepe onely the religious in safetie till the found of leaen nuncred marks had opened a fmill peace of the way; to collect which, they were forced to fell money waiting both the jewels and ornaments of their Church; made diore to be (ball the Lattie lie exposed to the inuasions of the Danes, and other forreine Enemies? surely out of your owne which being brought to his receivers, there wanted paide. mouthes I will indge you, and for redresse will first begin (whether by error or deceit) a groat in weight, (for m with thee: whereupon hee tooke from the Abbey of Saint Albanes all the lands and reuenewes that lay those daies greater summes passed by weight, not by tale,) whereof when the King vnderstood, hee in greate (but captious) rage, denied them all combetwixt Barnet and London-Stone. Abbot Fretherick, whose ouerbold answers had now offended the King, polition for peace, whereupon with much fuite he without delay called a chapter of his brethren, shewwas entreated to accept of a thousand Markes more; ing them their approaching dangers, and to avoid the prefent florme, went himlester ozh, where hee delisted nor from his wonted machinations against the was enuceated to accept of a thouland Markes more; to raile which, they diffurnished their Monaftery euen of things of necessary vie.

(31) But the English Fagitines, who had gotten the Course of the Property of the Course of Conquerour. (26) This conference ended, and the Kings oath the Scots to flick to them, were not yet pacified, but entring into Cumberland, they wasted the Counreceived, the English Armies disband themselves, as dreaming they had now good Fortune by the foot try before them vnto the Territories of Saint Cuthas areaming they had now good rortune by the root and hoping the greateft flormes of their dangers were paft; which prefently proued but a Vaine furmife: for King William hauing compounded with the Dases that lay all this laft. Winter in Northumberbert, & city of Durham; to meet whom, King William fent Go Patrick, who lately reconciled to his fauour and created Earle of Northumberland, showed the like measure of cruelty vpon the Scotife Abetters, is they had done against the English. The Conqueror therefore not a little moued against King Malcolme, successing the English of the Englis land, and paid them a great summe for their departure, beganne extreamely to hate the rebels, and with full resolution of their destruction, suddainely for that his Country was a receptacle of his Rebellious Subiects, and himselfe now the cheife Leader of the Male-contents into his Kingdome, hasted fet vpon them apart, which he durft not attempt, when they were vnited, forhat flaying many, iminto Scotland with a delire and purpole, to have prisoning others, and prosecuting all of them with fire & sword, wel was he that could be first gone done much more then hee was able to accomplish: for entring Galloway, hee more wearied his Souldiers in palling the Marish grounds and mountaines, (27) Edgar Etheling got again into Scotland, and Edwin Earle of Yorkeshire following with the like inthen with encounter or pursuite of the Enemy, fo that hee was forced to give over his enterprize, and tent, was flaine in the way by his owne fouldiers Egelwin Bishop of Durham, Morear Earle of Che then drew his forces towards Lothiam, where King fler, Siward furnamed Bran, and Hereward (a verie valiant Knight)got into the Ile of Ely, relying wholly Malcolme and his English late, being fully refolued, there to end by battaile, either his troubles, or his on the aduantage of the place.

This Hereward had received a hallowed fword. (32) But Malcobne wifely confidering the cuent and benediction of his vnckle the Abbot of Peterbe of warre and that the occasion thereof was not for his row, and had most valiantly defended his owne inheritance against the Normans, and with no leffe own subjects, but for a fort of forraine fugitiues, beganne to thinke, that the wrongs therein done to another hee could hardly brooke himselte, and sent couragewithstood the Conquerour, being made capanometrice count many profers of peace; whereunto therefore to william profers of peace; whereunto laftly the English King inclined and hoftages deliucred ypon further Conferences; what time (as I take A desected). taine of those now assembled. (28) But the King left delay should give them aduantage, and harbor more of fuch his vnbrideled Subjects, with a great power hasted thitherward, & stopping vp the East passage from all slight, or reit) vpon Stane-more, not far from an homely hoftilerie called the Spittle, a Stone-Croffe (on the one fide of whose hast stood the picture, and armes of liefe, drew a caufy on the west through the deepe Fennes, euen two miles of length, where likewise the King of England, and on the other the Image & he then built the Castle of wisbeeh : against which armes of the King and Kingdome of Scotland, vp. Heller Berlin. they in the He raifed another of timber and turffes on that occasion called the Roi-crosse) was ereand called it according to the name of their Cap cted, to flew the Limits of either kingdome; fome taine, Hereward: at which place, many affaultes & ruines of which Merre-marke are yet appearing 3 for bickerings being made, but yet no entrance gotten King William, granting Cumberland vato Malcolme, to hold the same from him, conditionally that the Dicketings ocing make, but yet no churance gotten, Morear by boar clasped out of the He, and in Scotland obtained by price, what these diffressed could not by prairrifo that Malesline the King, in rescue & reuenge of them, inuaded Camberland, and forraged all Thesse Scots thould not attempt any thing prejudicial to the Crowne of England, (for which king Malesime, did him homage, faith Hetter Bottins the Scotish writer) dale: Hereward also went out of the Ile, and got a and the English being reconciled to his fauour, at the head built the Caffle of Durham, returned as gallant crew of choise and youthfull fouldiers, which frood most stoutly for the defence of their liberties. (29) In the meane while, the Monkes, oppressed with miseries, sued for mercy vnto the King, & Thurcleared from all Northren troubles. (33) But his Norman Dukedome, ftirred fom-An.D.1074 what vnto rebellion, called King well-and into those flan the Abbot repairing to Warwick, where William then lay, offered him entrance vnto the Ile, if hee parts, where, by the prowelle of the English, her parts, where, by the prowence of the engine, here isome brought all things to peace, and returned for England, better conceiting of that Nation, effectally of Edgar Etheling, whom he courteoufly received and control of the engine of the eng would restore to their Abbey the ancient possessions: the King then reioicing, to obtaine that by wit, which Canatus could not do by maine strength, achonorably maintained in his Court, allowing him corded to the request, and in great hast, but no little difficulty, got into the Ile, where slaying a thoua pound waight of Siluer enery day to spend; a rare The bounty of example of a victorious Conquerour flewed vpon a man for vnconftant, (who twice had broken his oath albeing. fand of the Common fort, hee vied great cruelty against the better, imprisoning many, and dismem-bring others, some of their hands, some of their eies of fidelity) and dangerous to be so neere vnto his perfon, being, as he was, a Competitor of his Crowne.

(54) Whites the King was in Normandy, Rulph deWare Earle of Suffolkeand Norfolke, tooke to wife and some of their feete. Egelwine Bishop of Durham hee imprisoned, first at Abington, then at VVestmin-Her, whole diet was either so sparing, or stomack so great in forbeatance, or both (for both are reported). Emms the daughter of William Fitz-Osberne, and lifter to Roger Earle of Hereford cofen to King William, and ted) that ere long he died of hunger. that without his confent; by whole affinity he con-(30) Howsoeuer the Monkes of Eh kept their ceited no small pride, and even on the wedding day. promite with William for betraying of the Ile; he conwhen wine had well intoxicated the braine, with a trariwise brake his for their preservation and peace; long circumftance perswaded his Guests vnto a Refor by no means their praiers would enter his eares, Aaaa preparing a mighty Armado that wdy, as was con-flantly reported and beleeved; King William therfore flantly reported and beleeved; King William therfore The English reteined a great power of French Souldiers with others, which he had lately brought with him from Normandy, to disburden himfelfe of whose Charges. he appointed them to bee maintained at the cofts of the English, both for their wages, and other prouifions, which was an other great burden vnto the Enga lib, though it long lasted not; for that the Danilb King better aduling himfelfe, gaue oner the enterprife, and thercupon these Souldiers were dischar-(46) Another griefe and offence he ministred against both Godand man, for the fruitfull Countrey lying South from Sarisbury vnto the Sea, hee difpeoled, pulling downe Townes, and Villages, with 36. Mother-churches, from mans vie, & Gods dinine teruice; & for 30.miles, laid open the country, some say out of policie, to have fafe ariuage from Normandy in time of needrothers fay, for beafts, & for his own game in hunting, or to vie the words of Gualter Mapes, who lived immediatly after, to dedicate the same unto wild Beasts and Dogs-game; which place called anciently Tiene, was ever lince named the New Forrest : impofing great penalties both pecuniary, and corporal on all fuch as offended in hunting his Game : in fo much that he was then called the Father of wild Beafts, more fauouring them then the People his Subjects.

hake the ground.

But Gods int independent not long after followed this fo vnreasonable, and cruelast; to rin this Forest, Richard his second sonne being goared by a Deare, (others say, basted with a petitlent Ayre) was vntimely slaine; And Rafue his other sonne mittaken for a Deare was by chaunce flot thorow with an Ar- William in New-Forefi row, by Walter Tyrell. Hemy likewise his Grand-child by Kobert Curtosse, whilest he horly pursued the chase, was frucken by a bough into the lawes, and as Ab-lean left hanging wntill he died. Thus, no doubt, God punished his sinnes (euen on his children, and children's children) who had both taken away the places, and vie of his feruice, and alfo differited multitudes of Chriftian people to their ex-treme pouerty, for his vnfaciat and fuper fluous pleafure: fothat (as some then thought) the Earth i scissassion of the second of t a most fearefull Earthquake, with a warring noise, did

King William the father of wild

(47) Other great calamities are noted to haue (April other great calamities are noted to haue hapned vpon his people as burning feuers strangely Land,

confirming the people: Murrens deuouring infinit numbers of Carrle; abundance of raine, and con-course of water-flouds beyond credit, whereby the hilles were fo formed to the very foundations, that some of them tell, and ouerwhelmed the villages which were in their way: most of the principall Cities of England much endamaged by fire, and Londonespecially, where the Cathedrali Church of like themselues : Walter Bishop of Durham, bought of King William the Earledome of Northumberland, maintained murtherers, and was murthered him-herein no parciall man) (peake his mind.

Saint Paul(as much as was combustible) was confu-All things dege med to ashes; and if that may also be noted (which caused not the least wonder) tame, and domesticke fowles, as hennes, geefe, peacockes, and the like fled into the forrefts, and woods, and became very wild, in imitation of men, degenerating then into fauages: for in those times even the Churchmen (and therefore lesse marvaile of others) became vnmaintained murrheres, and was murrues a ma-leffe. Ods, another Bithop, and Earleafloo, recuenge his death, made Northambertand defolate, behea-ding and difmembring the poorer fore, and argreat his death, and the property of the second of ranfomes fining the rich, and Pope Gregory for his part plaid Rex in this land, fending hither his Buls with damning curses against the married Clergie: commanding that none should heare their Masses: which how it was difgefted, either by God, or man, let vs heare Paris an ancient Monke (and therefore

422.	VVilliam Conq. THE SVC	CESSION OF Monarch 39	Book.9	10	[bap.2. \	Villiam Conq. ENGLANDS	MONARCHS. Monarch 39.
abiting of	(48) Pope Gregory in a general! Sunada and de	d i "raigned before me have given	DOUK.9		[:	Ornaments thereto belonging to the faid Church,	then (my children)follow me, that here and for the married Pricits from execution of their holi-	"their loves honored for which -				being of his owne foundation; for the redemption	ener you may be honoured before God and Men prients pice, and terate,		"they reft, rejoicing with a happy regribusion in	1		1	whereof, King Henry his sonne, gaue the Mannor of Brideton in Dorsetsbire, to preuent any danger	And chiefly, O you my very bowels, I warne
	"Masses; a president new, and proceeding (as it seemed to many)out of inconsiderate judgement.	"pleasant State: Ethelbert, Edward, Saint Ofwald, Al-	- 1			that thereof might arife; and vnto the Churches	you to frequent & follow the company and coun- fell of good and wife men, and gouerne your ı	"contrary to the fentence of the holy Fathers; which		1		1	by fire destroied in Meure, he gaue great summes	felues accordingly, fo fhall yee long and happi-
1 1	naue Written, that the Sacraments of the church	Manala Classic Lord Edward, nauc gigen Riches	1		i.	of money to repaire them: and so preparing him-	"ly prosper. Doe instice to all without partiall af-
1 DA I	the inutiable operation of the holy Ghoft have	Good: But my Brother	1		1:	felfe for God, briefly ranne ouer the carriage of	"fection; for it is a true wifedom indeed that can
- tuch	que effect, whether they are differried by	Glently plucketh amount singularity vio-	1			his former life; the fumme whereof (as much as	"discerne betwixt good and enill, right and wrong.
men g	good or bad, &c. By which fact to orignous	stable managed and goods, crueny grindern			1	best fitteth this place) we will declare as he spake	"Shunne wickednesse, relieue the poore, succour
ic .	feandall is arifen, that holy Church was neuer	"Knights from me, and by oppression bath exaspe-	is Oppressions.	- 21	1	t to them that were present.	"the weake, but suppresse the proud, and bridle the rent with a greater schisme in the time of any he-	"rated the whole Land with viriust taxations; con-	ı		is laft Speech	(54) Being laden with many and grieuous fins, (O Christ) I now tremble, who am ready to bee	"troublesome. Frequent the Church, honour the
"al	efie whatfoeuer; whiles fome fland for the right, nd others ftriue against it. Moreouer, whereas	"fider thereof, most Noble Lords, and giue mee (1	1	or or	n point of	taken hence, and to be tried by the feuere, but iuft	"vnto the law of God. The Dukedome of Nor-
			i	de	cath.	examination of God. I that have alwais bin brought	"mandy, before I fought against Harold in the vale
" Enoug	20 lome for gaine, or vaine glory doe buse	(51) At which paufe when all flood mute, as	1		- 13	vp in warres, and am polluted with the effulion	"Senlar, I granted vnto my fonne Robert, for that he
			1		1	of bloud, am now vtterly ignorant what to doc;	"is my first begotten, and hath already received ho-
· · · cont	inency with pertury, and manifold adultarias)	ed his freech	j j	0	fhis Sinnes	of for I cannot number my offences, they are foin-	"mage of all the Barons almost of his Country: that
		" Harriell milesoff : cm	l		1	finite, and have been committed by me now these	"honour giuen cannot againe be vndone; but yet
- ipect to	Olacred orders and eccleliafticall gonerna.	"at length be repressed. This man hath oftentimes His	1	48	- 1	"fixty foure yeeres: for which without any delay	"without doubt, I know it will bee a miserable regi-
" ment;	they prophane the holy mysteries, they	"banded himfelfe against hisowne father, and vp-	Trecheries.		. 1	"I must render an account to that most vpright	"on, which is fubicate to the rule of his government;
« humor	Infants, annointing them with the fordid	"on a ftomacke, blowne vp with pride and folly, hath			,	"Iudge. From my tender infancy and age of eight yeares, I haue hitherto fustained the weight and	"for he is a foolish proud knaue, and is to bee puni- "shed with cruell fortune. I constitute no Heire to or of their ears in flead of holy oile, they burn tithes due to the Priefts; our Lords body con-	"fallen off to the King of France: therefore left with	1			c yeares, I have hitherto initained the weight and charge of Armes to defend my Dukedome, go-	"the Realme of England, but doe commend it to the
		"ouermuch lenity, we buy too late a repentance, he		C II	Ofhis Worsess coubles.	uerned by me now almost fifty fixe, both in pre-	"euerlasting Creator whose I am; for I possesse not
		"final remaine Prisoner, yet not as a Bissop, whose				" uenting those finares that have beene laid for my	"than honour by any title of inheritance but by the
Out L	ord vpon the ground.	"name I both honour and reuerence, but as an Earle,	1			4 life, and in vanquilling those conspirers which	"inftinct of God, the effusion of bloud, and the per-
(4	10) This Greens (before called Hill-I 1) C	"fubiest to the Lawes and Censure of his King.	imprison-		1	"would have viurped my right: a stiffe nec-	iurie of Harold; whose life bereaued, and his fain P	elers chaire with fuch prophe of impiania about	Which accordingly was done; vpon leizure of			1	"ked people I may fay, my arme hath ftill ma-	"nonrerevanguifhed. I made it fubicat to my do-naged: I meane the Normans, who with an hard	"minion. The Natiues of the realme I hated, the miration to the behald-			Of his Normans	hand, if they bee curbed, are most valiant, and	Nobles I dishonoured, the vulgar I cruelly vexed taken up our of at a large many of his bags were His A	Augrice,	9	ualities.	" in hazardous attempts inuincible: for, as they ex-	"and many vniustly I disherited. In the Countie were hidden full of and a where they		300		e cell all men in strength, so doe they contend to	"of Yorke, and fundry other places, an innumerable
Earle, the	Conquerours brother, fed with ful hope	(52) Soone after, fome difpleafure hauing arifen		33	1	" ouercome all men by valour. But if the reine bee	"fort with hunger and fword I flew: and thus betwixt King William, and Philip King of France, hee	I.		1	" once let loose, and laid in their necks, they will	"that beautifull Land and noble Nation I made de
			I.		1	teare and confume one another; for they are euer	folate with the deaths of many thousands, (woo complement	Salutes the Senators with great gifts &	English Alleageance to himselfe and successors, with a		3		"feditious, and desirous of new stirrings; experi-	"worth the griefe.) These then my sinnes being tersto fin	ents, ftuffeth bagges with money, and let- h as might doe much in the election, and	mighty mafe of money termine and fucceffors, with a	Malmsh.		- 1	a ence whereof fufficiently I have had, not only of my confederates and allies; but even of mine own	"fo great, I dare not give the offices of that tempts) departed to Normand; where falling ficke,	th. Paris.		Of his friends &	a my confederates and affects but even of mine own	"they yet be made worle by my occasion, Yet Wil-
Rome. A	mong the which for chiefe, was Hugh Earle	and keeping his Bed more than his wont, the French	ŀ		Kindreds vn- kindnelle.	« kindred, denouncing me to beea baftard, degene-	"liam my fonne, whose loue and obedience from his of Chefter .v	with many great men and Knights of the	King hearing that his disease was in his belly, gaue	1	,	kindnelie.	"rate and vinworthy of government: against whom, "I have beene forced to put on armour, before I	"youth I have feen, I wish (if so be the will of God)
land: for t	the Normani variable, and defirous to fee	him this frumpe; Our Cofen William (faid hc) is laid Some		7		was by age ripe to weild it: all which I haue van-	may flourish in the throne of that Kingdome, with forraine Co	ountries, were contented to forfake their	now in Child-bed: Oh what a number of Candels must 1 offer at his going to Church? Surely I thinks a human.	tam tooke			"quished, and some of them captinated, God so	c - 1 life and happy raigne off er at his going to Church? Surely I thinke a hundred downed	icke to take	38		preserving me, that they never had their desires.	tee Henry his vongestionne, surnamed Beau proud	Prelate ouer the river Poo.	thousand will not suffice. Swing I sounce a nunared downer fat bell	ne his great		Ofhis English	« A roiall Diademe, which none of my predeceffors	hearing himlest vitterly neglected in his rather
Thie i	folly trains upon Car Carry to the state of		in.	1	Conquety	4 euer ware. I have gotten, not by right of inheri-	diffribution, with teares faid to the King: And wha
Wight,	and there ingreat pompe ready to fet faile	answere; Well, our cosen of France I trust shall be at no	· ·			a tance, but by heavenly grace. What labours and	= Jeann sineme) to whom hee aniwered. his
nto Norma	may, when on the fodain King william vn-	fuch cost; but after this my child-birth, at my going to hurch (swearing by the resurrection and brightness of God) I will (side b.) C.	1			conflicts I have fullained against those of Excesser,	thousand pounds of silver out of my treasurie I give thee But what shall I doe with treasure, said Henry, if I sha
Ookeu t	for, was even among them, and in his great	of God) I mill (Gid b.) Charlestion and brightnes william	m Helmef.			"Chester, Northumberlands, Scots, Gauls, Norwegi-	But what shall I doe with treasure, laid Henry, if I sha
Tali in preien	as cut hamong them, and in his great	and light them wer GIC. And one thousand candles, Ring W	Williame			ans, Danes, and others, who have endenoured	haue no dwelling place or habitation? His Father re
'tomvu	words and sinceres, I beleech you hearken	August following when the accordingly towards	. 1:			" to take the crowne from me, is hard to declare;	plied, Bee patient my some, and comfort thy selfe in God suffer quietly thy elder brother to goe before thee: Rober
' line i	into Arment I your counfell at my fai-	corn and areas, which both the trees, fruites,	I			" in all which the lot of victory fell euer on my fide:	(uffer quietly thy elder brother to goe before thee: Robel (hall haue Normandy, and William England: but thou:
the go	mernment of a commended England to	tred France with a mighty Army, (poiling all the	ı			which worldly triumphes, howfoeuer they may	time shalt intirely have all the honour that I have gotter
Norman	ada many forming brother Bilhop. In	well parts thereofhefore him, tpotting all the	1		Outward tri-	# please the sense & outward man, yet they leaue an	and shalt excell thy Brethren in riches and power.
sainft n	ne, yea and inward friend t	City a deign on telescote min; and lattly, let the	1	(4) h	umphes leaue inward horrers.	"inward horror, and fearefull care which pricketh	After which speeches, he presently called his so inuaded	me: for Robert my fonne, and other	med the faire Church of our Lady, in the wals wher-	1			" mee; when I confider, that cruell raffines, was as much followed, as was the just profecution of	william to whom he deliuered a letter figued wi
yonglir	ngs whom I have brought vp, and given	of was enclosed an Anchoret, who might, but would stem fat	l l			as much followed, as was the fall profection of	Lis owne feele written unto Lantrank Archbillio
Arm/	es, haue rebelled; vnto whom my falle	not escape, holding it a breach of his religious Anchori	aithtwo			won O yee Priefts and Ministers of Christ, that I	of Canterbury, and commaunded him therewith
Clients	s, and other bordering enemies haue given	vow to forfake his Cell in that diffresse. The King	т,			" you in your praiers will commend mee to God,	haft for England, left in that ipatious Kingdom for their a	iffifiance: but they have not prospered,	bussed in these attempts cheered his men to seede	1 .	A		the shoe has will mirigate my heavy linnes. vnder l	fuddaine troubles should arise; and so with a k
God (whose servant I am) euer desending mees	the fire, and came himselfe so neere the flames, that	1			whose burden I lie pressed, and by his vnspeake-	bleffedhim in Chrift. His prifoners he comman neithe	r haue they gotten any thing of mine, be-	with the heat of his harnesse, he got a sicknesse, and	1	1		" able mercy make me late among his elect. INITE	I ded to be fer at liberty, affirming that he had do
iides tr	on in their wounds: They of Aniou pre-	the same encreased by the leape of his horse, that	ı	1.0	His workes of	" Abbeis of Monkes, and one of Nunnes which my	Forle Morear much wrong whom as hee then co
pared a	gainst me, whom with the onely feare of		1		ecuotion.	Ancestore founded in Normandy. I have enrich-	1 formed her had imprisoned more for teare then warre i	I have pacified. These businesses you know	his life.	1	 		and an anomented; and in the time of my gouern-	fault:onely his halfe brother ode he would have I
aue or	awn me into Normandy, where I have staied	(53) At which time feeling death to approach, he deferred not to address his left will a proach,	1 .			ment, sequenteene Monasteries of Monkes, and ile heh	imploied my painfull endeuourson pub-	commanded all the man salt with, wherein hee King will	(Translaft			a fixe of holy Nunnes, have beene founded by my	portunate intercession of friends hee was released
arh o	reading and mitte meane time, my brother	he deferred not to addresse his asset with wherein hee commanded all his Treasure to bee distributed to Will and Churches, Gods Ministers, and the Pearse limiting to mean.	d Telta-			"felf & my Nobility; whose Charters I haue freely thes of	I and and D I polling the Chur-	Churches, Gods Ministers, and the Poore, limiting to each their feuerall portion and events.				"confirmed, and doe by princely authority con-	come neere to his laft, when this Sunne lo gloriou of Or	namente since the maked	caufed to be increded in and quantity, which he	1			"firme against all emulations and troubles; in them	raifed to the height of his course, must now of fo
duce	naments given by our Predeceffors, and hath	each their feuerall portion and quantity, which he caused to be ingrossed in writing by Notaries before him: Amongst which, he bequethed to the Church and Monkesof Seine Sense (Sense Sense Sen	1			God is scrued, and for his sake many poore peo-	fer in the West, the dying King (for Kings must d having raised his weake body vpon the Pillow hem	otter the Al-	and Monkes of grint out	1			ale released; with (nch Camps both England and	heard the found of the great Bell in the Metropo
anda	gainst the inuations of the Danes, Irifb, and	two Mannors in Dan College at Lane in Normandy, Ex Libro	o Cado-			Warmandy is detended, and in their Ports let all	tane Church of Saint Geruis neere Roan, and dem ther Ene	mice on and and of the Danes, Imp, and	fbire another in F. Co	Minaff.			"younglings learne to fight against the Diuell and	ding the capie one replied that it did then ring prit olonris fo	reha Charles for me ; but my greateft	in Norfolke, a Maniion house in Woodstreet of London,		78		"vices of the flesh. These were the studies that I	to our I adv . whereupon with great denotion lifting icted, and v	nto which the Christian Kings that	with many Advomage Col				"followed from my first yeeres, and these I leave	his eies towards heauen, and ipreading abroad i and Christian Kings that	to be wondred at, hee gaue his Crowne, and Regall	1			"vnto my heires to be preserved and kept. In this	Bbbb hand then (my children) follow me, that here and for eaer you may be honoured before Goland Ment And chiefly, O you my very bowels, I warme you to frequent & follow the company and coun-liell of good and wife men, and goomen your felluss accordingly, 16 flall ye long and happi-ly proper. Doe inflice to all without partial in at-fections, for it is a true wifedom indeed that can 46 fechton, for it is a truewifedom indeet that can difference beying good and cull, tright and wrong, 45 Shanne wickedneffle, relieue the poore, fiscour 4 the weake, but ingpreffed the proud, and bridde the 45 troublefome. Frequent the Church, honour the 45 treighous, and without wearingfie bee obseried 75 treighous, and without wearingfie bee obseried 45 united with the Worksham 15 the Marketin for the 15 t mandy, before I fought against Harold in the vale "Senlat, I granted vinto my forme Robert, for that he of Normandy." is my first begotten, and hath already received ho-
_

423

"for he is a foolish proud knaue, and is to bee puni-" fhed with cruell fortune, I conflitute no Heire to "the Realme of England, but doe commend it to the Of England, rated to the neight of his course, must now of lotter feet in the Weft, the dying King (for Kings must die) hauing ratifed his weake body vpon the Pillowes, heard the found of the great Bell in the Metropoli-and balt excell thy Brethren in rices and power.

After which specches, he presently called his son William, to whom he delivered a letter sgued with se may flourith in the throne of that Kingdome, with (a long life and happy raigne.

Lawgiand.

(3) Hemy his yongeli thome, furnamed Bestelerke, heating himfelf viterly neglected in his Fathers dithibution, with teares fail to the King: And what King williams the state of the

424.		ESSION OF Monarch 39.	Book.
With Such do	hands, I commend my felfe (faid hc) to that bleffed La-	nance sterne, his fore-head high, and haire verie	1
drine was good denotion abuse	a c, will y, mother of Goa, that thee by her holy praters	thinne, fat and corpulent of body, with his bellie	His deferincie
contrary to the	may reconcile me to her most deare Sonne our Lord Iesus	bearing out, to itrong of loints and armes, that few contrary to the prefeript of God lfai, Chap.33.16	Chrift; and with the words yeelded vp his Ghoft, vp-	could bend his bow; of witte ready, and very poli-	and qualities Will, M almef.
Ifai. Chip.33.16	on Thursday the ninth of Septemper, the fifty fixth		Rand, Higd en of his Dutchie, the twenty one of his Kingdome, the	hazards valiant, a great fouldier, and as great in fuc-	Polyo, lib.7.cap
	fixty foure of his age, and yeere of Christ Iesus	celle; rough and couetous towards the English in his	7.1.4.4.4
		taxes, lawes, and in giuing to his Normans their lands;	1
	(57) Wherein, as we see the instability, both of	whole Charters were of a farre other tenour, forme	ł
	Mans life, and Glory, (a point fitting for great Prin-	& breuity, then those tedious and perplexed conucy-	1
Princes friends.	ces cuer to thinke on;) to by the fequel wee that per-	ances, tince in vie, as by thele few inferted may ap-	ł
	ceiue, how ill-rooted and vngrounded the friendihip	peare.	1
	is, which attends the greatnesse of Soueragnes, whose		l
	Fauourites chiefe or onely ends are their own Ambi-	I William King, the thirdyere of my raigne,	Stow ex libro
	tion and Gaine, the fewell whereof once beginning	Give to thee Norman Hunter, to me that art both leefe	Richmond.
	to decay, the fire of their feeming-deuotion will bee	and Decre,	King William Charter to quickly cold. For no fooner had this late-glorious		Hunter lis Corps for- airen of all fores.	Princes Soule bidden farewell to his Body, but his	The Hop and the Hopton, and all the bounds up and	1
aken of all fores.	dead Corps was presently abandoned by his follow-	downe,	l .
	ers of neerest place, and best meanes, who posted		1
	homewards apace to defend their owne; and by the	Vnder the Earth to Hell, about the Earth to Heauen,
The enables of	meaner and his inferiour feruants, he was dispoiled	From me and mine, to thee and to thine,	Į.
The qualities of Court-Kites,	of Armour, Vessels, Apparell, and all Princely fur- niture, euen so farre from al wonted and due respect, as that they left his dead Body naked upon the	As good and as faire, as ever they mine were,
	floore; like true Kites, praying whileft any thing was to be had.	To witnesse that this is sooth, I bite the white waxe with my tooth.	l
	The fudden fame of his death stroke such feare into the Commons harts as was admirable, energy man	Before Iugge, Maude, and Margery, and my yongest forme Herry:	} initing for one, but all neglecting the funerall rites of their King, vntill that one Harlains a poore Coun-	For a bow and a broad arrowe, when I come to hunt
	trey Knight, vndertooke the Cariage of his Corps	vponyarrow.
	I VIIIO CARE, alle at his owne coff both by See and I		1
	Land, viito Saint Stephens Church, which this dead !	(60) At the suite of william Bishop of London, he king had formerly founded.	granted the City (whose chiefe Magistrate was then	Lambert, Peram
	At his entrance into Cane, the Couent of Monks
	Came toorth to meet him, and to celebrate the buri-	Saxon tongue confirmed with greene wave whoreas
lis Hearle alfo bandoned of al.	all with all Ceremonies beleeming; burbehold even	the Saxons before vied onely to figne with guilt crof-	Jugulfus :
Dangoned of al.	at that initiant, a judden chance of fire hannened 1	fes, and fuch like markes: the Copy thereof is	2.2.9.0 (
	which prefently invaded agreat part of the Towne 1
	I that, as the Corps Defore, to now his Hearle was of I	ct William Cyng greit William Biscop. & Godfreges
	an ionaken, whiles they addressed themselves to re-
		"and Godfrey Portreys and all the Power C.	Hollinf.
	Functan Sermon ended, the Stone-Coffin fet in the	"and Godfrey Portreue, and all the Burgeffes that in	Lamb, Peramb.
	carry in the Chancell Detwixt the Chorale and the	"Landon be French & French Colon II
	Alich, and the body ready to be laid therein one 4.1	"von to wit that I will the same and I doe Jeennus Fire-earthur, a man of fome Note food up	"you to wit, that I will, that you enjoy all the law which you did in the daies of Edward King. And is buriall place mied him.		"I will that each Child bee his Fathers inheri-mid pad.		"tour often his Early and his Pathers inheri-lently tooke from him, and heere voon part of my inheri-	"tour after his Fathers daies. And I will not fuffer
	tance founded this Church: This ground therfore I chal-	"that any man you any wrong offer. God you
1	lently toke from him, and here vopen part of my inheritance founded this Church: This ground therfore I challenge, and in Gods behalfe forbid that the Body of my difficult that our council in my and the state of t	(61) In the like Charron amount
1	Spotter, be concred in my Earth, neither shall it he interved	(61) In the like Charter, granted to his Nephew	John Leland, in the precinities of my right. Whereupon they were	Alane Earle of Britaine for lands in Yorkeshire, hee writeth himselfe William surnamed Bastard; and yet fpoiler, be concredingly Barth, nither shall it be interred in the precinities of my right. Whereupon they were enforced to compound with him for a present sum of money then delivered and in the present sum of money then delivered and interest them.	in feemeth, hee was offended at Guy of Burgundy for tearming him Nothus; perhaps, because that word figuisheth such a one, whose Father is vn-known, whereas King will mere week.
		for rearming him Arethur ar Guy of Burgundy
- 1	I write memy, for a hundred pound weight of Glass	word fignifieth fach a con-
. 1		known whereas King will
moiance ag		known, whereas King Williams was not only known, but renowned also.
mounce at functall.
		(62) Howfoeuer hee was fterne and hard to the rnce Stane		English, yetto his Normans hee was facile and too tes their re- rt for fabu- as, who wrot at his Body st, who wrot		Clargin about morning and euening; The ting the Church, both morning and euening; The Clergie that lived according to their rule and pro- fession, hee both honoured and richle and prorupt 500.			vil.Mainf.
rtupt 500. tres after his ath.	Beether to their cers.		· ·· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
	(58) This then was the life and Just . C. 1.	ded: Ills viicle CM allertia Archbillion of v Pate !	Roene.
I
		the English deprided, as we have heard
- 1	adhering; but after his death, neither Ornaments, nor Attendants, nor place of buriall, till it were bought; all which primary follows:
1	nor Attendants, nor place of bariall +its		Barrel-Abbay fo
1	bought; all which, prince men feldome want: fo bere fought a.
- 1	the state of her darlings.		ainst Harold,
ł	(59) He was for flature indifferent, of counte-		rill, Newberg.
- 1	of counte-	it selfe, which after raine sheweth to bee red; af-

Chap. 2. VVilliam Conq. ENGLANDS MONARCHS Monarch 29. Church of S. Maries, within the Monasterie of Nuns; firmeth, that after any small showre of raine, the earth sweateth forth very fresh bloud, as by the which the had there founded. euident fight thereof (faith hee) doth as yet plainly declare, that the voice of so much Christian bloud there shed, doth still crie from the earth to the His I ffue. (68) Robert, the eldest sonne of King William, and Robert. (64) But most certaine it is, that in the very same fQueene Mande his wife, was furnamed Curtuoife fignitying in the old Norman-French, Short-Bootes place where King Harelds Standard was pitched, & vnder which himselfe was slaine, there William the he succeeded his father onely in the Duchie of Normandy, and that also he lost afterwards to his brother Conquerour laid that Foundation, dedicating it to Henry King of England; at the battell of Ednarchbray (in that Dukedome) the yeere of our Lord 1106. the Holy Trinity, and to Saint Martine, that there the where he was taken prifoner, and having his cies put of one brother out (an vnbrotherly punifiment) was committed to on shother on the Callant Cardiffer Card. Monks might pray for the soules of Harold and the rest that were slaine in that place: whose Priviledges were Math. Paris in fo large, that they, and others of the like condition, were afterwards diffolued by A& of Parliament. out (an vinoroment) puninnent) was committed to the Cafdloof Cardiffe in South-Wales; and after two-try eight yeeres impriforment; there deceated; the yeere before the death of his faid brother, Anno 1134. when it was found by experience, that the feare of punishment being once taken away, desperate boldand was buried at Glocester, in the midst of the Quier of Saint Peters Church; where remaineth a Tombe nes, and a daring will to commit wickednesse, grew still to a greater head: for it was enfranchised with with his Carned Image at this day. Hee had two many freedomes, and among others, to vie the words of the Charter, were these: If any Thiefe wines, the first, Margaret daughter of Herbert, Earle of Maygne, both married in their Child-hood, and face died before they came to yeeres of confent: The owords of the Charter, were their !! Je and come to this Church let him have no harme, but let him be dismif-sed, and son away free from all punishment. Be it law-full also for the Abbot of the same Church to delucer from ther was Sibyll, daughter of Geffre, and fifter to William, Earles of Conur Jana in Italy, and Necce of Robert Guifeard, Duke of Apulia: By her he had two fonnes the Gallowes any thiefe or robber where focuer, if he chance Guijeara, Duke Of Apuna: Dy ner ne nad two lonnes Henry fishe in William and Henry; this Henry was he that was flaine his Grisdianheri to come by where any such execution is in hand. by mischance, as he was hunting in the New-Forest in The Standard it selfe curiously wrought all of gold and pretious stones, made in forme like an Hampshire. William the Elder, surnamed in Latine Miser, was armed man, Duke William presently upon his vi-Earle of Flanders, in right of Queene Mande his ctory, with great complements of curtelie, lent to Grand-mother, succeeding Charles of Denmarke in that Earledome; he also had two wines, the first Sibyll, Pope Alexander the second; as good reason it was, the Popes transcendent pleasure and power, being the Earledome; healio had two whees, the first Joyle, (whose Mother, called also Sibyll, was the daughter of Fowlke Earle of Anion) after divorced from him, and remarried to Terry of Alfae, his Successour; the second was Ioan, the daughter of Humbert Earle of strongest part of the Dukes title to the Crowne, and his curfing thunderbolts the best weapons whereby he attained to weare it. (65) At Selby also in Yorkesbire, where his you gest sonne Henry was borne,he founded the Abbey Morien, now called Sausy, fifter of Queene Alice of France, wife of King Lewis the Groffe : hee died fixe of Saint Germans: at Exceller, the Priorie of Saint veeres before his father, of a wound received at the Nitholas; and to the Church and Colledge of Sam Siege of the Castle of Angi in Normandy, the 27. of Martins le grand in London, hee gaue both large pri-July, in the 28. yeere of the Raigne of King Henrie uiledges, and much land, extending from the cor-Freier Priory his yncle, and of our Lord, 1128, hee was buried at ner of the City wall, by Saint Giles Church with-Saint Omers in the Monastery of Saint Bertin, and out Criplegate, vnto the common Sewer, receiving left no issue behinde him. the waters, running then from the More, and now (69) Richard the second sonne of King William and Richard Queene Maude, was born in Normandy, and after his Father had attained the Crowne came into England, More-fields. (66) At Cane in Normandie, he founded the Mo-Saint Stephen najlery of Sant Stephen the first Christian Martyr, where, being then veric yong, as hee was hunting in adorning it with most sumpruous buildings, and enthe New-Forest of Hampfhire, he came to a violent & histaches New dowing it with rich reuenewes; where his Queene the New-York of Ampipure, he came to a violent & finden death, by the goring of a Stagge; (others fay, by a petitlentayre,) and is noted to beethe first man that died in that place, the indirect of God punishing Mand had erected a Nunnerie for the focietie of vailed Virgines, vnto the honour of the bleffed virgine Mary. Thus much of his Acts, and now of his maron him his Fathers dispeopling of that Countrey; his body was thence conueied to Winehester, and riage and iffue. there builed on the Southfide of the Quire of the His Wife. Cathedrall Church, where there remaineth a monument of him with an inscription entitling him a Duke (67) Mand the wife of King William, was the and some suppose of Boloigne.

(70) William, the third Son of King William and William Rufus. daughter of Baldwine the fifth, furnamed the Gentle, Earle of Flaunders; her mother was Alice, daugh-Queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

Queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in Normandy, in the 21.

queene Maud, was borne in the Maud, was borne in t ter of Robert King of France, the fonne of Hugh Caper: Shee was married vnto him when hee was a Duke, at the Calile of Angi in. Normandy, and in the fecond yeare of his raigne ouer England, she was lour of his haire, in French Rows, in Latine Rufus he was brought vp vnder Lanfranke the learned Lambard, who was Archbilhoppe of Cantarbary, of whom he received both infiructions of knowledge, crowned Queene vpon Whit-funday, the yeere of Grace, 1068. And although the maintained Robert in his quarrell for Normandy, and out of her owne and the order of Knighthood; he served under his Father at the battaile of Gerberoth in Normandy, coffers paid the charges of warre against his Father, and her owne Husband, yet, because it did proceed but from a motherly indulgence for aduancing her some, it was taken as a cause rather of displeasure, 1079, wherein hee was wounded: and hee alwaics framed his actions so pleasing to his Fathers humor, as that hee thought him much worthier then his elthen of hatred, by King William, as himfelfe would often auouch, holding it an infufficient cause to dider brother to succeed in his Kingdome, der oronner to deceed in this Kingdome.
(71) Henry, the fourth, and yongest some of King William and Queene Assas his wife, was borne in England at Selby in Yorkeshire, the third yeere of his minish the love, that was linked with the sacred

Fathers raigne, and of our Lord God, 1070, his childhood was trained up in learning; at Cambridge 1000 cains Case faith Caines but the ancient Annales of Saint Aufins 1100.

band of a matrimoniall knot. Shee departed this lifethe second day of November, the sixteenth yeere of his raigne, and of Christs humanity, 1083. for whom he often lamented with teares, and most honourably enteried her at Cane in Normandy, in the

WILLIAM

William Rufus.

Chap. 3. | VVilliam Rufus ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 40 |

VVILLIAM THE SECOND SVR-NAMED RVFVS, THE FORTIETH

MONARCH OF THE ENGLISH: HIS ACTS, RAIGNE, AND VNTIMELY DEATH.

CHAPTER III.

Illiam posting for England, & Archbishop Lanfrank his earnest soliciter by liberall gifts given, and promifes made to abrogate the ouer hard lawes of his Father, had the readier passage into the opinions of them that could doe most: and the more to notifie his intended mild gouernment, with other his noble inclinations to princely vertues, as eye-witnesses of his fauours towards the English, hee brought with him from Normandy, Morear, the front Earle of Cheffer, and Wilnoth the fonne of King Harold, both of the and trumens decionned range travels, both or them released out of prison, and then held in especial fauour with him. But most of the States standing for Robert Curtais his elder Brother (a man deemed of a more liberall disposition, and better temperature tovards the Subjects) their titles had beene tried by fwords, had not Lanfrank and wulfan, both wife & reuerend Prelates, by their Counfels and Mediations staied their hands.

(2) Consent thus gotten, and all voices given for William, he was crowned their King at Westminfter, youn Sunday the twenty fixeday of September, and yeere of Saluation, 1 087. by the hands of Lanfrank Archbishop of Canterbury; under whom he had him made fit both for Warre and Gouernment, had not the variable inclination of his owne mind carried his actions past the limits of any staied com-

(3) Robert vpon discontents that Normandy was ftill detained, before his Fathers sicknesse, was gone into Germany , to folicite their assistance for his right to that Ducine: but hearing of his death, hasteth into the Prouince, and was there peaceably recei-B b b b a

An.D.1088

Necessary required a alwaies couetous, yet neuer thrifty, and ftill gathering, yet neuer enriching his King William an Coffers: All Ecclefiafticall promotions then vacant Ecclefiation. and furely, the firres were fo great, and Duke Ro-bert fo fauoured, that by the judgement of Gemitihe affumed into his owne hands, and kept the See of censis, had he hasted his arrinage, or followed the occasion, the Crowne of England had easily been see Canterbury without an Archbishop aboue foure yeeres, letting to fale the free rights of the Church. and he that would give most came soonest to prefer (7) All in an vprore, and Rufus thus turmoiled, ment, wherby both the Lands and good effeeme of he appointed his Nauie to scowre the seas, and to imthe Clergy was daily diminished.

These greeuances were complained of vnto Pope Vrban, but he ouer, bufied to forward an expedition of Christian Princesforthe winning of Ierusalem, had no leasure seriously to thinke upon their estates, or else lesse minde to divert Kings out of their owne by-

(12) The Storme thus cleered without any thunder; King Rufus let the eye of delire vpon Duke his Kingdome; first therefore surprizing the Castles of Saint Valery and Albemarle, hee stored them with his owne Souldiers; then piercing forward did great spoile in the Countrie, Robert destitute of meanes and knowing his Normans cuer vnfaithfull, sent to Philip

: 1 Chap. 2. VVilliam Rufus. ENGLANDS MONARCHS Monarch 40.

Will Gemet

the French King, desiring his assistance against this Brother-Enemy; who preparing towards Normandy, was stopped with such golden showres from King William that he could not paffe, fo that Duke Robert was constrained to make a peace with his brother though for himfelfe a very forry one, as faith Geme ticensis; which, as Paris reporteth, was effected by twelue Princes vpon either part, and the condition as followeth: that King William should retaine and enjoy the County of Eme with Fescampe, the Abbacie of Mount Saint-Michael, and all the Castles he had gotten in Normandy: for the Duke it was agreed that his brother King William should aide and asfift him to recouer thoselands & territories beyond the seas, which had beene belonging to their Father; That all such Normans as had lost their liuings in England, in taking part with Duke Robert, should be reftored; and lastily, whether of them should die first, the sure should be his heire.

Both Brethren

villi Gemet.

(13) Peace thus established, and both their powers vnited, they bent altogether against Henry their yongeit brother, who fearing after-claps, had itrong ly fortified the Castle of Mount Saint-Michael, situated vpon the confines of Normandie and Britaine him, whom they oughe to have provided for, (faith Gemeticensis) they went about to expell, and all the Lent long laid fiege aginft him. It chanced one day as his men fallied out,& made

King William

am alone, more bold then wife, rode against them, thinking none fo hardy as to encounter him fingle but presently a Knight slew his horse vnder him, & his foot entangled in the stirrupe hee was ouerthrowne; his enemy therefore with drawn fword. was ready to have flainchim, had hee not reuealed himselfe by his voice: the armed men with great reuerence then tooke him vp,and brought him another horse; when the King not staying for the stirrup, sprang into the saddle, and with an angry countenance demanded, who it was that ouerthrew him? the Knight as boldly answered, and shewed himselfe who he was; by Lukes face, quoth William (for that was his oath) thou shalt bee my Knight, and be enrolled in my Cheeke, with a Fee answerable to thy (14) During this seige, Prince Henry being sore of a Brother, having no more but him and me ? In 1091, and fourth of King Rufus his raigne, one Erebellion against Rees ap Temdor Prince of Southwales, drew to his fide Ieflyn Lord of Glamorgan, vpon promise to become his sonne in law by the marriage of his daughter: leftyn notwithstanding, iudging their faction too weake, sent Encon into Eng-land, where hee was well acquainted, to procure aide against Rees: who entring conference of his Reb. Fiftz-bam. businesse with Robert Fitz-hamon a worthy Knight of the Kings Privie-Chamber, wrought fo far with him, being a man easily drawne to the exercise of warre, that for a Salarie hee vndertooke the seruice, and with twelve Knights, and a competent number of Souldiers went into Wales, where joining with nan his fonne, * Robert Fitzhamon, now minding to return, demanded his pay according to couenants, which leftine in some part denied, alledging that Enton had gone beyond his commission: where-upon such discord arose, that these friends fell out, and Encon thus touched in his reputation, fided with the English against his owne Country-men; whereupon a battaile was fought, and Inflin with most of his Welfbflaine, fo that Robert with his followers obtained a fruitfull poffession in those parts, (which by their postetties are enioled euen to this day) whose names, as they are found written in a British record, were as followeth.

Jeffin, in battle flew Prince Rees ap Temdor, with Co-

POSSESSION. NAMES. The Knights William de Londres. Comer. Richard de Grana Villa ... Neth. Pagan de Turberuile. Coity, Robert de S. Quintin, Lhan Blethyan, Richard de Syward. Talanan. 6 Gilbert de Humfreuile. Penmarke.

Roser de Beckrolles. East Orchard, Raynald de Sully. Sully. .

Peter de Soore. Peterton. Saint George 10 lohn Le Fleming.

II Oliver de Saint Iohn. Saint Donats, 12 William de Estirling,

An.D.1092 (16) As these things were commenced betwist England, Normandy, and Walles, Malcolme King of Malcolme K Scotland entred into the Englifo Marches as farre as to Chefter in the Streete, doing much harme; whose farther outrage to preuent, William incontinently ha-fled, fending by fea a great Nauie of Shippes, and by land his brother Robert, though with much losse of either: for his Fleet was torne by tempest, and his horsemen through hunger & cold perished in those King William 8 barren parts: at length the Kings come to an Interuiew, where by the meanes of Edgar Atheling, a peace was concluded to both their contents: for William restored vnto Malesime twelue Villages, which he had held in England vnder his Father, and gaue him yeerly twelue Markes in gold: And King Maleo me for his part promifed to keepe true peace with him, as hee had done with the Conquerour, whereunto hee gaue him his Oath, as faith Mathew Paris. (17) But as these two Kings of Enemies were made friends, so the two Brethren of reconciled friends became againe enemics : for Duke Robert well perceining, that King VVilliam meant nothing leffe then performance of couenants, (protracting time vpon some secret purposes, as his icalous head con-ceiued) in great displeasure returned into Normandy, taking with him Edgar Atheling, whom he held in an especiall account.

(18) King VVilliam then repairing those Castles which the Seets had destroied, new built in Cumber-Cárleil reedified land the City Carleil, which two hundred yeares be fore had beene spoiled by the Danes; and having defenced it with walles, built there the Cafile, Churcher, and Honjes, wherein hee placed a Colonie long, of Southerne Souldiers, with their wines and children, granting large priviledges to the place, which the City enioieth cuen vnto this day.

(19) And having setled his affaires thus in the An.D. 1093 North, returneth with triumph into the South, where immediately hee fell dangerously sicke, in the fixth yeere of his Raigne, at the Citie of in the fixth yeere of his Raigne, at the Citie of women smend heart, (not looking to continue to commit many more) that hee fore repented him of the fame, marae faire for the vpon his head. peach his brothers arriuage: then gathering his forces, and knowing well how to please the vulgar, promifeth againe to abolish their ouer-hard lawes,& presently to put downall vniust Imposts and Taxations, whereby the People were foone drawne to fland in his defence; and among them Roger Mountgomery was reconciled to the King.

Thus now growne firong, & his enemies decrea-

King William

first beganne, the Castles of Tunbridge and Horne he recouered, as likewise Pemfey, wherein his vncle odo had ftrongly immured himselfe, whose lacke of Ods his great heart taken victuall, by King Williams strait siege, allaied the pride of that great-hearted mans fo that hee not oney furrendred the same, but promised the deliuerie of Rochester also strongly manned, with Eustace Earle fed, he led his Armie into Kent where the fedition as, whose persos he meant to reserve for his own gain. Roberts dominions, who lately had done the like with Todigma New his; and suddenly burst into Normandy, as Scipio did King William eninto Africke, pretending reuenge of injuries done to test Komandy.

Book. 9

a brauado in the face of their beleaguers; King willidistressed for water, and knowing Duke Robert to be of the milder temperature, sent him word of his want, desiring to have that permitted, which God had made common, and ginen euen to brute beafts, aswell as to men; Duke Robert therefore commanded him to be supplied, whereat William was wroth, telling his Brother he wanted discretion, & policy in warre, which allowed all advantages to surprise the Enemy: And dost thou (said Robert) esteeme more of water, which is enery where to be got, then which diffension, Earle Henry got thence; and by policy tooke a very strong towne called Danford, where presently was a reconciliation made amongst these three brethren, who thereupon forthwith tooke the Trodiem, Neuftr. Seas together for England.

An.D.1091

(15) About this time, in the yeere of Grace, Warre bewist Rife Prince of Southwales, and Steen.

king many promifes to amend his life, if God would | be pleafed to give him longer life: the hard lawes against the English, he vowed to reforme, as also his owne vices, and to fettle peace and good order in the Church, then farre out of frame, almost all the Monkes in England, lived rather like Confuls, being Hunters, Hawkers, Dicers, & great Drinkers

(faith Higden') little regarding the rules of their profession, Those Bishopricks & Monasteries that were vacant, and in his owne hand, hee forthwith, and (much against his wont) freely bestowed: the Arch-bishopricke of Canterbury vpon Anselme a learned Norman Abbot: the See of Lincolne lice gaue to Robert Bluet his Chancellour, a man of meane lear-

(20) But the danger past, and health recoucred hee beganne to bee more ficke in mind, foon repen-ting him of his too-foon Repentance: for as in spending his owne wealth, hee was very prodigall, so was hee very diligent to enter into other mens estates, and to gaine from them what he could, and therefore tampereth with Anfelme, perswading him, that the trouble of the Archbishops place was very burthenous, especially for a man wholly brought vp within the walles of a Monastery, denoted to of great affaires of State. But all this Art could not induce him to let goe his hold-fast of the Kings absolutely passed promise, nor yet to satisfie his great delire with mony, and therefore the King paid himselfe out of his Lands Likewise from Reger of Lincolne hee exacted five thousand pounds; and the Commons hee fined for transgression of his penall lawes; and in truth molested all for money;

ning, and some other touches, but otherwise of many fingular parts.

Math Paris.

fodigm. Nerftr.

None were rich but Treasurers and Collectors, none in fauour but vnconscionable Lawvers and none rewarded but Promoters: fo that his outer-haled fubices fled daily out of the Realme; against whom he King Melcolme published Proclamations, with an inhibition that none should depart without his safe Conduct. (21) Sooneafter this, Malcolme King of Scotcontent. Villiam Malmel land came vnto Glourester, to conferre with King William touching the Peace of both the Realmes but conceining a grudge, for that hee was not en-tertained according to the Maiesty of his cstate, departed in displeasure without speech with the Kings and immediately railing a power against England destroied the Country vnto Alnewicke Castle. Robert Mowbray then Earle of Northumberland, a most valiant Souldier, seeing his Countrey thus ouerrunne, made head against him, not staying for directions from his King; and lying in Ambulh for his returne, so fore and suddenly distressed his forces, that both King Maleolme himselfe and his son Prince Edward were there flaine.

(22) Heereupon Earle Mowbray growing proud (22) FIGET UPON EATHER MEMORING BY GOWING PROUND and greatly suspected by King William, began to fortifie the Kings Castles, with Munition for Armes against the like inuation, and indeed against the Kings Earl Membraice greatneffe fulpe etted by the King. will; who feat him word fomewhat roughly, to defift from his doings, and presently to repaire to his Presence; which whilest hee lingered and neglected to doe, King william fent his brother Henry to spoile Northumberland, and immediately followed after himselfe, where without much adoe, he tooke the Earle, and committed him prisoner to windfor Castle.

> (23) These stirres in the North are diversly reported : for Walfingham in his Toodigma Neuftria, faith, that Robert Moubray and William of Anco with others, conspired to deprive the King both of crown and life, and to haue fet up Stephen de Albamarle his Aunts sonne: the issue of which treason was preuented by furprizing Mombray, who died a Prifo ner. William of Anco was punished with loffe both of his eyes and his virility; and William Aluerie(the Kings Godfather, Kinfman and Sewer) cruelly whipped, and all naked goared in bloud, though guiltles, was hanged. Hector Boetius, the Scotish, Historian relates somewhat otherwise of the death of King Malcolme; as that the Englift having gotten the Castle of Annike, King Malcolne with a strong siege enuiro-ned it about; when, the English distressed, and ready to furrender, a certaine Knight amongst them attempted a very desperate enterprice, for mounted vpon a swift horse, vnarmed, excepting onely a light Speare in his hand, vpon the point whereof he bare the keyes of the Castile, he rod directly to the Scotish Campe, and was with great applause brought vnto their King, where couching his staffe, as though hee meant with submission to deliuer him the keyes, suddealy ranne him into the left eye, and through Malcolme flain wiftnes of his horse escaped, leaving the King there water show of dead : for which act King William (faith he, though erroneously) changed the Knights name into Perce- The name of eye, whence that Noble Family is descended. Gulielmus Gemeticensis saith indeed, that it was reported that King Malcolme was flaine by a guile, of Malcolme etc. declaring not the manner, but by the hands of Mo-rell, Nephew to Earle Mowbrey, where likewife sain Markey reu, Nepnew to Larie Members, where likewife of the did of Prince Edward his fornee, and the greatest part of his Armie: with which dolefull newes (faith Hetter) his Queene Advagares (called the Saint within three daies after died of griefe. Box Paris hath few the Saint death) within three daies after died of griefe. Box Paris hath fet it downe, as is faid; and in the fame yeer makes Heffer Beeti William the Conquerour of Wales; fince which time Maib. Paris the English Monarches have beene accounted their The English, Mo chiefe Gouernors, (24) Grudges now grown betwixt King William and An.D 1094 (24) structs now grown detwix A ting minimals.

And D. 1094
Duke Rebert his brother, che accusing other of breech with the control of oath and of Courenants; Williams from Haffings (fet Ralie into Narmardy, where Gone bickering (eilbertwix the two Brethren, but by the mediating of hersechagains). certaine graue persons, their quarrels were comprimiled, and Princes cholen to be their Arbitrators; which hearing indifferently all allegations, adjudged King Ruftu in the fault, who thereupon (as thinking nothing right, but what went with him) fufeth the cenwas fo farre from following their award, that being fire of his Art offended with their centure, he professive afforded offended with their censure, he presently assaulted, and tooke the Castle of Burren; neither did Robert for his part fleepe the whiles, but furprifed the Cafile of Argenton, which was by former couenants giuen to King William, drawing likewise Philip the French King to his side, who with his Army entred Normandy for his assistance,

(25) King VVilliam then waying into what danger hee had brought himfelfe, (all approxing Duke Robert, and disallowing his Acts.) he fought to doe that by money, which he could not by fword. Therfore to those souldiers, which in heat of his surie, he had commanded to bee fent him into Normandy (cuen twenty thousand, now in readinesse, and at Hastings Staying for a wind) he sent a countermand. exacting of euery common fouldier ten shillings in money for the release, and so without further trouble Mest, Parit, to return to their homes; with which summe he so pacified the French King, that he now left Robert to looke to himselfe, who thus for saken, was constrained for money. to come to an vnreasonable peace.

(26) And the more willingly, for that the holy wars for lerafalem, deliberated of five yeares before, were now hotely purfued by Pope Vrbane the second, (whome Bibliander blameth to be the causer of much Christian blood-shed) onely to set vp that , which Threed, Biblion. Christ by Prophesie had laid in desolation. Among these Christian valiant Captains Duke Robert would be one, but wanting money, (no newes at all to his coffers) hee fent to his brother King V illiam to be supplied, and for the summe of fixethousand, fixe will Thomse, hundred, fixty fixe pound of filter, (Paulus Acceptions Paul. Acept.) faith, fixe thousand nine hundred thirty foure more) will Gimes, morgaged his Dutchy vnto him, giving him the posscision thereof before his departure.

(27) To make vp which fumme, hee did not only oppresse and sleece his poore subjects, but rather to King williams opportunity of Paris) with importunate exactions data. Paris.

King William

Chap 2. VVilliam Rufus ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 40 did as it were flea off their skins; for the Churches Not sparing Churches and and Monasteries, having fold away their Iewels and Chalices to fatisfie his appetite, and answering they could make no more; the King replied, with some scorne; And have you not I beseech you, Coffins of Gold and Siluer for dead mens bones ? Accounting the money laid out your this holy Expedition, to be better imploied then to garnish the reliques of the An.D.1005 (28) The King thus finding his fortune in all things pliable to his wifnes, and his heart therewith greatly puffed vp.his purpole was now at his returne from Normandy, to make a full conqueft of Wales, therefore redoubling his forces hee drew into the Marches, where piching his Tents hee consulted with his Captaines what was best to bee done. The Welf fly to The Welfbruen finding themselucs ouerweake, fled according to their accustomed manner, into the Woods and Mountaines, taking thereby fuch aduan-An.D. 1006 tage against their pursuers, that the King returned without any notable deed done; and with the like fuccesse he vndertooke an other Expedition against them the yeere following. (29) But bearing a minde still to subdue al Wales.

he had first in his eie the lland Anglesey, against which he sent Hunh Mountenmery Earle of Shrewesburie, and An.D. 1097 Hugh Lupus Earle of Chefter, who there executed their vied. Girald. Cambr.

The Holy

Conquests with very great cruelties, cutting off the Noses, Hands, and Armes of their relisters, without regard of age, or fexe, nor sparing either places or perlons, facred or prophane. At which very time it chanced Magnus King of Norway, the sonne of Olanus (the sonne of Harold Harfager) to have made his An.D. 1098 Conquest of the Hes of Orkeney, and then wasting a long the Seas, fought to come on Land in Anglesey, whom to impeach, these Earles made all their powers: where Hugh Mountgomery armed at all parts, but onely the fight of his Beuer, was shot into his right eye, whereof hee died eight daies after. (30) The holy voyage now let forward, (vnto which Pope Vrhane was a chiefe infligator) thirty An.D 1099 Sweeden Clarethousand Christians tooke the Signe of the Crosse wearing it on their garments as the cognizance of yoinge. Peter, an Her-mite, the Captheir denoted warfare: The chiefest Captaine of which Princely Army, was Peter a poore Hermit, who returning from Jerusalem, certified the Pope of the Christians great milerie vnder those mercilesse Infidels: but the good man more exercised in praiers the Army. (the weapons of Votaries) then expert to guide an Army, was soone entrapped among the Bulga-res, and slaine with most of his souldiers. But yet the bufineffe still projecuted, the number of all degrees and ages flocking to the feruice, is reported to have amounted (a thing almost incredible) vnto seuen hundred thousand. In chiefe commaund of which huge Armie, were imploied many braue Princes of Christendome; as Godfrey the famous Duke of Loraine, with his brethren Eustace and Baldwin Bohemund Duke of Naples, and his Nephew Tan-credus: Robert Earle of Flanders; Hugh le grand, brother to Philip the French King; Raymund, Earle of S. Egidius; and belides many other great Princes, the forefaid Robert Duke of Normandy, not the last in esteeme for his renowned service; as his memorable proweffe in that imploiment did afterwards make apparant vnto the world. All these meeting at Constantinople (where Alexius was Emperour) passed ouer Hellespont, and proceeded with

Cities and Countries before them, with the flaughter of an hundred thousand Infidels, and purchase of great spoiles: and lastly, tooke Ierusalem the ho-

Mat Parit.

(31) King William at reft whilft his Brother and the rest were in warres, thinking now both of fortifying and beautifying his Kingdome, canted new walles to be built about the Tower of London, and

City, in the thirty ninth day after the Siege thereof. But let vs from lewrie returne into Eng-

at Westminster (* where before was the ancient Pa-lace of Saint Edward and his Ancestours) [aid new] foundations of a most large and Princely Palace; the Hall whereof, by the testimony of Paris, should have extended (if he had lived to finishit) from the River Thamefis even voto the common high way, as might | weftminder Hall appeare by the first groundworks, at the time wherin Paris wrote: but that flately Building, which now we cal the Great Hall, he finished as it now standers, containing in length two hundred and feuenty foote, in The length and breadth feuenty foure: yet (when fome praised the largenesse thereof) hee found fault that it was not made bigger, accounting it forfe worthy the name of a Bed-Chamber, in respect that which he intended to build. And certes, of a right magnanimous disposition was this Rufus, as appeared at such time, when sitting at dinner, purpoling forthwith to take his pleasure in hunting, a messenger brought him sudden newes of the Siege of Mayne, a City in Normandy , whereto many before when the King answered, He would take aduite what to doe: But thy Subjects (replied the party) are in di-fire se, and cannot be delated; whereat the King swore his wonted Oath, that if they could not, they should not, and that he would not turne his backe till he were with them; and thereupon commanded to breake downer the wall that he might goe forth the next way to the Sea, leaving fraight Commission for his Nobles to wit. Malas.

follow him with all celerity.
(32) But the winds being contrary, and thereby both the Sea and the King in a great rage; his Pilote bly to expect a while, till those boilterous Elements were calmer, and passage more safe. Wherunto he an fwered, as no whit daunted : Haft thou ever heard that Yes King Pho any, a sing native created around? I therefore heife op the terms done in the Flies and the Flies and the Flies are vinexpected speed of the King, was soone released, and the last, Consult of Cinomannia, who she had been supported by the Consults of the it, being taken by a traine, was by King William iefter at to his face, as a man neither of Martiall proweffe nor policie : at which indignity the Noble Helia nor policie : at which indignity the Noble Heista ididianingly horming, with great boldnelle failed vario Rufas: I am news the Prifener, not by the provelly hast by chance of ware, and my owner miliferiance: but were I at liberty, then floudily well know, I im not the man thus to be tanghed as. The King well-like king the confidence of his print: Well-then (taid hee) I give thee full liberty, goe thy waies, doe what in thee lieth am the man that ever will mate thee,

(33) And furely, howfoeuer he might be blemi-fhed with many flaines of bad Gouernment, yet for his valour and resolutions in wars he is greatly commended; and so much by some, that, if it were not against the faith of Christianity, it might be thought Will Genes.
(faith Mabnesbury) that the Soule of Cafar had entred His praises world into the body of this Rufus, as that of Euphorbus is laid to haue don into Pythagorus: yea, & those staines (we may well thinke) were no whit lessened by his flory writers, who were dependants of the Romish See: for that he little fauoured their Holy Father, or any fuch as adhered vnto the See of Rome, against the Prerogative of his Crowne; as especially appeared in his Offence conceived against Angelmus Archbishop of Canterbury, for his too Romifb humor. There was at that time a Schisme in the Roman Church, which Monster-like had then two heads on one Body, the Two Popes of Emperour(who claimed that as his right) placing one, Met. Park. and the Roman Clergy abetting another, Vrbanus by name, with whom conforted Anseime, against the

The King alleged, that no Archbishop or Bishop of the kingdome should (or ought) be subject to the page of Court of Rame, with whom they had nought. Pope or Court of Rome, with whom they had nought to doe: that he and his Realme had as large franche-fies, ever fince the receiving of the Christian faith, as the Emperour had in his Empire; and that therefore none ought in his Realme to bee received for Pope, whom himfelfe and his State should not first Kings command.

Aaaa2

approue: that without his licence none should goe or appeale to Rome in any cause : that Anselme could not keepe his Allegeance to his Soueraigne, and also him and his State to the Papacie; which that it may appeare the better, I will here infert the Conquerors owne Letter to the Pope.

To Gregory the most Excellent Pastor of Holy Church, William by the grace of God, King of England and Duke of Normandy, wifeth health and friendship. Your Legat Hubert (Religious Father) came unto me, exhorting me, in your name, to make Allegeance to you, and your Successors, and to take better order for the money

wich my Predecessors were wont to send to the Church of Rome. The one I have gramed; of the other I have not ney hath beene negligently gathered, my felfe almost these three yeeres being in France ; but being by Gods mercy returned into my Kingdome, as much as is Collected is now fent by the faid Legate: the rest shall be fent when it may conveniently, by the me flengers of Lanfrancke our faith

fire is aboue all others fincerely to lone you, and to heare

His Holinesse was then very wroth, that things

Lanfranck cleared himfelfe of the blame, shewing

(35) By which incredible pride and Popish incroachments, attempted by the meanes of these chieons: yea so farre was hee from yeelding his necke to that yoke, that hee auowed, that the Popes, though boalting of Peters Chaire, had not from him any power of binding or loofing, whose godly-steppes they wholly neglected, following onely after Lucre and wordly Honours : that also is was but imposture to teach Intercession, and bootleffe to vie Innocation to Saints, euen to Saint Peter himselfe. And as for the rest of the Romish Clergie, who then gave themselves strangely to wordly and fleshly pleasures, wearing their guilt girdles and spurres, and trimming their bushie Locks; their loofe lives the King much detefted, and fought to punish ; which most incensed their Choler : and these were the haires no doubt in those Monkish writers Pennes that euer blotted his faire name, under their fast-running, and vneuen hands. For so much may we gather from Gemetisens's the Recorder of his to the Pope. V pon all which points the Prelates of England, excepting only Gundulphus B. of Rochefler, affented to the King against Anselmus, that he was guilty of High Treason, for attempting to deprine the Crowne of these prerogatives. (34) And because the King then vrged, that here-in he did no more then his Father had done before Pope Gregory was suftly by all mens judgeméts

(laith Pans) depo(adfor Treehim, it shal not be impertinent to obserue heere, how that, as V rbanus vied Anselmus for his inftrument to draw the King to his becke : fo Pope Greenie bepoied for Trea-fon against the fore him vied Archbiffiop Lanfrancks helpe for vn-dermining of William the Conquerour, and to subject

M.S. netall

Admitted. The one I make gramea, of the other Invalid and admitted. Fealtie to you, I neither would not will make, for I neither promifed you so much, neither finde I that e-uer my Anticessors did performe it to yours. The * mofull sernant. Pray for vs, and for the good estate of our Kingdome; for I have loved your Predecessors; and my de-did not cotten better to his desires in England. But him how diligently (but indeed traiterously) hee had bestirred himselse, in counselling the King to yeeld to sweare obedience to the Pope: Suafi, sed non persuasi (saith he) I have so admised him, but I could not croachments, attempted by the meanes of their char-feft Prelates of the Kingdome, King William Rufus (no doubt) flaw it was high time for him to preuent farther milchiefes to his State, by following his Fa-thers steps in timely repressing such Papall intrusswill, Rufus pru-dently treads his fathers fteps. Eadmerus.

Against praying Rand. in Polychr. üb.7.cap.9.

life, who having reported many Acts of this Kings, feemeth laftly to checke himfelfe for going fo farre: where (he faith) Thefe and many other like things wee could truely report of him, were it not we think it unconnenient largely to relate his actions, because he persecuted ve-rie many of Gods seruants, and the holy Church not a little, for which it is thought by the most part of wisemen. that he repented too late and unprofitably.

(36) And true it is that some of them have taxed

him for great Pride and Couetoufuesse, whereof yet Ross of Glove. Corons, Album wanting; as, (though the inflance bee somewhat fa-miliar) when his Chamberlane bringing him a paire of new hoafe, and he demanding the price, was answered that they cost three shillings; Away base feet Euery base low (quoth he) are those beseeming a King? bring mee knaue will now of & Marke price : his feruant went, but brought | Boecothier, him an other paire of no greater coft, yet tolde him (as greatMens reckonings viually are made) that they were of the rate appointed: wherewith the King was very well pleafed, and disburfed that great Price to fulfill his owne pride,

(37) His Conetousnesse what it was, may hence appeare, that when two Monkes whose Abbat was appeare, that when two Monkes whole Adda was lately dead, repaired to his Court, and each in large offers out-uied and ouerbad the other, to fucced in the Abbacie; a third Monke very fober, and poore in flew, accompanying them in their businesse, stood by; whom the King asked what he would give to be made Abbat ? Nothing, faid the Monke; for I en- Payeb. 56.7.5.11. tred my profession to be poore, and hitherto haue beene, little esteeming the pompe or riches of the world. Then thou art the man (replied the King) and shalt betheir Abbat, more worthy in thy pouertie, then they for their price; and fo conferring on I would all Sihim that high honour, checked the others to their obe ferued, open infamy and reproach.

As the like he also did to Hugh a Norman Knight, and Souldier by profession, who of a sincere deuoti-on had entred the Monkish Order in the Monasterie of S. Augustines at Canterbury, and at the death of Vido the Abbat, was but a Probationer; when comming with others to the King for the election of an-other, was chosen himselfe (though fore against his will) without any request or proffer; whose penitency and vnfained humility fo moued the King, that in this his Election he burft foorth into teares.

(38) Other faults I grant hee is charged with, wherein we have not and cannot veterly acquit him : | eg. as this besides others, that his chiefest Conforts were Effeminated persons, Ruffians and the like, and him-felfe said to have delighted continually in Adulteries, and the Company of Concubines, etiam coram Sole, shamelesse and in the fight of the Sunne; though none of them be named, nor any his illegitimate iffue knowne; and yet onely, or especially for his fins, many strange signes of Gods wrath are reported to haue happened in the time of his raigne.

(39) For in his second yeers a terrible and most dreadful Earth-quake happened: And in his fourth, vehement Lightning pierced the Steeple of the Abbey at Winfcombe, rent the beames of the roofe, cast downe the Crucifixe, brake off his right legge, Lightning, and withall ouerthrew the Image of our Lady standing hard by, leauing such a stench in the Church, that neither incense, holy-water, nor the singing of the Monkes could allay it. And not long after, fo great a tempest of winde happened, that in London it bare downe fixe hundred Houses, and blew off the roofe of Bow-Church, which with the Beames were borne into the Aire a great height; fixe whereof being twenty feuen foot long, with their fall were dri- Ishn Stow. uen twenty three foote deepe into the ground, the streets of the City lying then vnpaued. In the ninth of his Raigne a blazing Starre appeared with two bushes, and other Starres seemed to shoote darts each against others, to no little feare and amazement of the beholders. The laft of his Raigne, Deluge. the Sea breaking ouer his limited banks, drowned an innumerable multitude of people in many Countries, and in Kent ouerwhelmed the lands that fometime were Earle Goodwins, which as yet are called Hefer Sortes. Goodwins Sands, lying very dangerous for all Nauigators. But most fearefull was the Wel of blood, which for fifteene daies role vp out of the ground at Fin- wil Mainther chamsted necre Abington in Barkesbire. His owne Matthe chamfted necre Aungton in parkeyore. All Armes Henry Hear, dreame, wherein it feemed the veines of his Armes Rand, High. to be broken, and abundance of his blood ffreaming

Math. Perio

An. D. 1089

(bap.3 | VVilliam Rufus ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 40 |

Math.Paris

Math Paris

on the floore ; as likewife that Monks, who in his fleepe faw the Crucifixe to spurne the King to the ground: these with many like, were held as presages of his death, which presently followed. Of al which, or the most part, what better censure can wee give, then that which King William himfelfe (when this last vision was told him) did deliuer; saving, Well, 4 Monke he is, and can dreame (Monachiliter) as Monke ofe to doe, onely for to gaine. Give him an hundred shil-lings, lest he should thinke he had dreamed bootclesse.

(40) Whatfoeuer force those presages had, it is true, that vpon the fecond day of August, as he was hunting in the new Forrest, and in the place called Chorengham, all his Company being scattered from him, saving onely a Frenth Knight, whose name was Walter Tirrell, the King with his arrow strooke a Stag, which yet not greatly hurt ranne away; to marke therefore the course that it tooke, he held up his hand betwixt his eleand the Sunne, when vnawares also Walter Tirrell fo fhot, that his Arrow glancing against a tree, ftrooke the King in his breft, who haftily breaking off so much as stucke out of his body, with one onely groane fell downcand died. Of which fudden chance, his followers foone understanding, most of them made away, but those few which remained laid his body (basely God wot, but as necessity suffer red) into a Colliers Cart, which drawne with one filly leane Beaft, through a very foule and filthy way.

the Cart broke, and there lay the spectacle of worldly glory, both pittifully goared, and filthily bemired tal afterward he was thence convaied vnto Winehelter and butied under a plaine flat Marble flone in the Quire of Saint Swithers, the Cathedrall Church of the City, whose bones were since taken vp, and laid into a Coffer, with the bones of Canatiss. Hee died Yester of his age after he had raigned twelue yeeres, cleuen moneths lacking eight daies, being the yeere of his age forty three, and of Christ lefus, 1 1 00.

(41) He was of person indifferent, not of any great stature, yet very welfet, his belly (like his Fagreat stature, yet very welfet, his belly (like his Fa-thers) fomewhat bearing out: of complexion * ruda body. dy, whereof he tooke his furname, and his haire Red-face, fomewhat yellow, his forchead flat and fquare, and his Eses dinerfely coloured; a stammering tongue, nis ites divertely coloured; a tammering tongue; epiccally in his anger; a gorgeous in apparell, and of no sparing diet; very bountifull to Souldiers, often hard to Churchmen, burdensome so his Sub-iers, an expers Souldier, that could wel both endure labour of the Body, and put off cares of the minds; his warres no leffe diligent, then fortunate. He gaue His works of the felfe, and all the appurtenances, together with the Towne of Charleton: confirming all that had beene Lib. Bermind;

Yorke founded a new Hospitall, to the honour of Sains giuen them before. He also of an old Monastery in Peter, for the fuftentation of poore men and women: dying as we haue faid, without VV ife or Iffue, or without respit of time for dispose of his Crowne, or other wordly affaires.

in his affaires circumspect of his word stedfast, and in to the Monkes called de Charitate, the great New-

Church of Saint Sautours of Barmond fey in Southwark, which he built, with his Mannor of Barmond fey it

HENR Y

An.D. 1100

This was the

M.The Miles. Th Rudberne. * A politicke!

heere in England, and brought up in learning eue frő his child-hood, whereby heegained to himfelfe the high honour very rare inthole daies, especially in Princes, to be, and to bee filed the Beauclerk : whose portion of Treasure was the Conquerour and third

King of his race, was born

not a little, giuen him by his father, neither any whit fpared by himselfe to purchase friends at the death of his Brother, * Henry of Newburgh the right Noble, vertuous and learned Earle of Warwicke, cuer making his way both with the Clergy and Nobles, who * refused to admit any King but with capitulation and couenants to their owne likings.

(2) The steps then by which hee mounted the Throne of Maiesty, were the dislikes of Williams oucr-hard curbing of his Natines, as he euer called the English: the rash and giddy head of his brother Robert; his absence in Syria, for whose returne to stay was dangerous, and whose election for King of Ierusalem, was likely to imploy his person there , his Englishbirth, having both a King and Queene to his Parents; his faire promifes for reformation of bad and rigorous Lawes, imposed by his Father and Brother , the restoring of the Clergy from exile, and to their Church-Linings; remission of Taxes exacted on the Subjects; and due punishments of such persons as were the chiefe Caulers thereof, in which behalfe to fatisfie the People hee committed Ralphe Bishop of Durham to the Tower. Then promifing by Oath to frame inft Lawes grounded on those of Saint Edward (then which nothing was more defired) did winde himselfe so farre into the loues of all, that with a generall concurrence he was faluted King.

Henrie I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS Monarch 47.

Chap. 4.

(:) He began his raigne the second of August. the facred rites of whose Coronation were celebrated at Westminster, by Maurice Bishop of London (in the absence of Anselme Archbishop of Canterbury) the fifth day of the same moneth, the yeere of Christ william Malmes. I 100. When Henry the fourth possessed the lmperial Diadem, Philip the first swaied the Scepter of France, Edgar wore the Crowne of Scotland, and Pafchall the second sate in the See of Rome.

(4) His first businesse was to put in execution what lychr. 40.7 ca.12.

he had promifed; and because hee might be thought vnfit to guide a large kingdome, who cannot reforme those who are ever at his elbow, began (as a good Prince ought) with his owne Court and Houshold (as knowing that to be the paterne and warrant of others enormities) whence he cathiered al Court-minions and nice or effeminate wantons, and enacting a decree against his Courtiers Rapines, Adulteries and Robberies, punished their Thefts with * death, and Lechery with the *loffe of their Eies, and other parts peccant.

Then he restored to the English the vie of Lights, which his father forbad by the ringing of a Bell, and had now continued for the space of thirty three yeeres, ordaining likewise many good Lawes, and common Liberties exemplified at large in Mathew Paris, which fummarily may be thus abridged.

Math. Paris

- 1 The Freedome of the Church from oppressons, or reservation of their Possions upon vacancies.
- 2 That the Heires of his Nobility [hould po] fesse the Lands of their Fathers, without redemption from him, which favour the Nobles likewife (hould afford to their Te-
- 3 That the Gentry might give in Mariage their Daughters and Kinfwomen without his licence, fo it were not to his Enemy.
- 4 That the widow should have her I ointer, and not be compelled to marry against her owne
- 5 That the Mother or next of kindred, shall be Guardian of the Lands of her Children.
- 6 That Coiners of false money should bee u pu-nished; a ndlikewise ordained a measure to the length of his * Arme to be a standard for Commerce among his People.
- 7 Then did he forgine all debts to the Crown before his ownse time, and must here com-mitted before the day of his Coronation: with some other like industgences: But, to the greatest content of the People, here game power and strength unto King Edwards

(5) To these his Ordinances he set his Name and Seale, with the subscription of sundry Peeres, commanding as many Copies as there were Counties in England to be transcribed and kept in the Monaste-reries of every Province. Then did he recall Anfelm

Archbishop of Canterbury forced out of the Land by

Rufus, and bestowed all vacant Church-liuings vpon

Virginity, and was brought up in a house of Religi-

His Charters fent to be kept in Monasteries Math. Paris.

mej. Of Bland and

Of Eies and Go

tiens liber.

nitals, House Malme Lib. Simon Dun. Wil. Malmf.

King Edw Lawes reu

Ger. Der.

the worthiest persons. But to ground his new planted affection more deepe in the hearts of the English, he became a furer to Edgar King of Scotland, to have

His Mariage to the English blood. Wil.Genetic.

he became a turer to Lagar King or Sestiana, to have his filter to wife, which was Mande the daughter of Queen Margaret, Sifter to Edgar Esfeling and Grand-child of Edmund Ironside, whereby his issue might meerely be both of the English blood and of the ancient English Kings. cap 29. Maib. Parit. (6) Shee by report of some writers had vowed on at Winchester (having entred the profession of a | His Wife fis & a Nun vnderher Aunte Christian) whose sanctity and knowledge both in mattershumane and dinine, with her mother Margarets; are highly commended (faith Gemeticenfishin a book written of their lines: Notwithstanding others hold that she vailed her selfe but for a thift, to put off some vinworthy matches, which her father Malcolme would have imposed her; and indeed this feruple was fuch a Core in Angelm his mouth that Rand. Biglea, is be would not pronounce the words of Contract visit Polyclera, this 7, her felfe had cleared the doubt by her open confes-

(7) Duke Robert, who now had bin five yeres in the Mark, Park holy warres, and therin borne himfelfe with fuch va- Duke Roberts no lour that he of all the Christian Princes was thought Holy wares, the worthiest to bee annointed King of Ierufalem, had their voice and election standing in the Temple before the Altar, vpon Eafter-Eue; and that the rather by a miracle of his Taper, which tookelight of it selfe, or from Heanen (if wee will be so light to belecue it :) but he hearing of the death of Rafus, refufed that, in hope to have England; for which his neglect of Divine appointment, it is faid God never after prosperedhim : then returning from Syria into Normandy was there joifully received, and affumed a-Normanay was there to many recent space to his bro-again his Dukedome (which he had engaged to his bro-will Genet, ther William) without repaiment of any mony: where hearing that Henry his yonger, was ftept into his throne of England, laid proiects in his minde how to defeate him. And to further these his designes, Ralphe Richard L. detate him. And to ruther their his detages, Raping Bishop of Durkam, corrupting his keepers, brake out of the Tower of Landaw B gast into Narmady, where heinfrigated Duke Rabers gainflus brother of England; others alfo delighting in alterations, folicited Rabers to make into England, with promitie of their affishance to recourrish e Crowne.

(8) King Henrie for his part refoluing to hold what he had got, neglected no meanes to keepe the Diadem as it was let, and therefore rigged forth his Nauie to secure the Seas, manned his fortresses, and with a great Army repaired towards the Coast, where necre vnto Hastings he lodged his Campe, relying ple, then any iust title he had to the Kingdome,

(9) Duke Robert by this time had taken the AnD. 1101 Seas, and was you the Kings fleete before they were An. Reg. 2. Seas, and was you the Kings neces before they were a ware, where preparing for Conflict, the most of the English fell to the Normans, either by the perfusation of the Duke or in hatred of Henry, that then began to of the Duke or in harred of tremy, that then began to tyrannize ouer them as they did imagine: By which meanes the Duke, had lafe landing at Partifiments, and did not a little reioice in this his fortunate beginnings with control of the wrongs. "Medicant." threating his brother to be reueged for his wrongs, & blaming the Nobility for fuffering him thus to be abufed, whilft he for the common good of Christen-dome, was imploied in the Holy-Lands warre. King Henry, as wife, as the other was valorous, wrought K. Henry Isbour under hand for an agreement of peace; for hee very well faw, that the cuent of warre hath commonly it fue from the first successe, and at one and the same time doth bolden and weaken the courage of the multitude; therefore certaine Noblemen on both fides fo trauised the businesses, that the Brethren in Hamiston thorr time became friends, and a composition made As to both their contents. The agreement was thus, that, because Henry was borne after his fathers Conqueft of this Land, and flood now the Crowned King with common consent, hee should during his life, enioy the same, paying Duke Robert in way of fealty three thousand Markes by yeere: and the furuiuour to be heire to his brother deceased, if hee died withour a fonne. In which it was also concluded, that all, either English or Normans, which had ded, that all, either Englip or Normans, which had raken part with the King or Duke, should be pardoned of all offences, and their Liuings againe reflored for the Confirmation whereof, and the performance accordingly, twelue Princes upon either parties took

Ccce

Ren.Higden.in Potychr.l.7.c.: Math.Paris

Wil. Melmih.

King Heiri Strengthne himselte ag their Corporall Oathes; and the Armies presently (10) The ned, and west understanding the datter point of equity when and law) and there no be beganes both to fare from evinient inforcition of the fabricits, and all other exempting worth of God yous him, for his trechenous and writist deathings towards that the best points, to whome undoubtedly the King, yet the degraded Abbots were restored throgh

the Clemency of the Papall fee, which is neuer wanting to any, as long as the white and red, (to vie the very words of a Monke) make intercession for them. But

Silver and gold

Henry I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 41 (bap.4 Saturday, being the Vigill of S. Michael, cuen the fame | day forty yeares that William the Baltard fer foot on | Normandy conEnglands Shoare for his Conquest; God to disposing output | Minimum Kingdome by all right did appertaine: yet flood hee rather in feare of men then God (whose fauours he cunningly laboured to keepe) whom he meant to please another time by (faith Malmsbary) that Normandy thould be fubicated to England that very day, wherein England was fubbuilding of an Abbey for his fatisfaction. Duke Ro-bers then seeing and detesting the Kings swolne ducd to Normandy.

(23) Robert Curtuoife, that now vnfortunate wit. Gem. pride, posted backe vnto Normandy to gather his powers. Henry also held it good policy, not to give passage vnto Roberts wrath, knowing him a Souldier, and well waying his delperate estate: and there-Prince, and William Mortaigne, that valiant, but headstrong Earle, were forthwith sent into England and fore calling his Lords vnto London, in an affembly tickled their eares with these delectable and smooth imprisoned; the Earle in the Tower of London, and the Duke in Cardiffe Castle in Wales, after he had gouerned the Dutchy of Normandy nineteen yeeres; and was for effceme in Chiualrie accounted among (20) My friends, and faithful Counfellors, and the best Captains that the world then afforded, had natine Countrimen, you know by true repor hee not beene (as commonly martiall spirits vie to be)too rash and vnstaied in his other enterptises; how my Brother Robert was elected, and by God himselfe called to be the fortunate King of Ierusawhich headineffe did now draw vpon him a penance lem, and how unfortunately or rather infolently, he of twenty fixe yeeres continuance, in the afflicted Robots rathrell refuted that facred cflate, whereby hee is now most flate of a forlorne Captine. And Henry now no outsthress him "inftly reprobated of God: you also know by many onger as a brother, receining the keyes of Normanother experiments, his pride and arrogancy; for bely, as a Conquerour returned into England. "ing a man of a warring humor, hee is not onely im-(24) But long it was not ere Duke Robert, weary of "patient of any peace, but also wilfully defireth to this vnwonted duresse, lought to escape; and having "trample vpon you as men of abiect and contempiberty to walke in the Kings Meadowes, Forrests, Mat. Wefine. tible disposition, upbraiding you for idle droanes, and Parkes, brake from his Keepers without any "tor beily-gods, and what not? But I your King, na An.Reg.8. Assisters, or meanes for security, who being mist, "turally inclined to bee both humble and peaceable, was prefendie purfued, and taken in a quag-mire, Math. Paris, wherein his Horfe lay fast: whereupon the King "take delight in nothing more then to do you good "to maintaine your tranquillity and ancient liber-"ties,(as I have often tworn vnto you,) and mecke hearing of this his attempt, confidering that "ly and willingly to yeeld my selfe to your aduses, woods were no walles to restraine the sierce Lyon, and that to play with his claw was to endanger whereby I may circumspectly gouerne you as a "clement Prince: and to that end even now will flate, commanded him not onely a greater re straint and harder durance; but also (a thing vnfit *Iconfirme(if your wisedomes so thinke fit) your for a brother to fuffer, but most vnworthy for Beauouer-worne and vndermined Charters, and will elearke to act) both his eyes to bee put out, cauling eles purous, roborate them most firmely wirh a new oath and his head to be held in a burning bason (to auoid the ratification. Meane while, all the lawes which the "holy King Edward by Gods infpiring did cfta-blifth, I doe here command to bee inuiolably deformity of breaking the eye-bals) vntill the glaffic tunicles had loft the office of retaining their light. (25) Having thus quieted all forraine opposiobserved, hereby to move you to adhere stedfast! tions, King Henry fet his minde to preuent Dome-ticke; and therfore (about this time) those Flem-mings, whose Lands the Seas had decoured form few white mee, in repulling cheerfully, willingly, and powerfully, the wrongs offered me, by my brother and I fay hay, by my most deadly enemy & yours, yecres before, and place was granted them in Cum-berland, first by King Rufus, and afterwards by Henand of the whole English Nation: For if I bee guarded with the valours and affections of Englishmen ry; were now by the King, vpon better adulement "I shall scorne the threates of him and his Norremoued into wales, both to disburden his Inland "mans, as forcelesse, and no whit to bee feared. And with these faire promises (which yet afterwards hee of fuch guests, and that so they might bee a defence offuch guelts, and that to mey migrar over a determine betwith kinn and those user-flirring people. Which proised nothing deceiused his expectation; for by the cellimony of Giraldus, They were a Colony frost and firong, and continually natured the warres of the Wellhi The comments. vtterly neglected) hee so wonne the hearts of them all, that they would die with him,or for him,against any hostility whatsoeuer. (21) Duke Robert gone, and preparing for warre frong, and continuous ensures use water by cloathing, by tion of the sieme a Nation most accustomed to seeke gaine by cloathing, by Henry thus feeled in his peoples affection, followed him with all expedition, having in his company the triffique also and Marchandize by Sea and Land onder taking any paines, or perils what soeuer. A people of very great power, and as time and place requireth, ready by choice Nobility of England, Normandy, Gaunt, and Britaine, fo that hee was exceedingly ftrong. With turnes to take plough in hand and till the ground, as ready Kobert, for men of chiefe account, were Robert Bealso to goe into the field and fight it out; and that I may adde thus much more (such hee) a Nation most loially hafme, Earle of Shrewsburie, and William Earle of Mortaigne, in like displeasure with the King, and therefore armed with the like desperate boldnes. denoted to the Kings of England, and as faithfull to the (22) Henry with his Army had pierced into Nor-(26) By the which his policy, he attained that which his brother Rafacould rot, who many a time had but finall fuccesse in those parts though other-wife. mandy, cuen as farre as * Tenerchebray, a Castle of the Earle of Mortaigne, vling all meanes possible to surprise the same, for whose rescue, the Duke with wife, euer sped most fortunatly in all his aduentures these his Consorts, made all diligence to dissolue of warres: Bur it is thought by some, that as the httle successed has Mountanous cragginesse of the Country; and sharpthe fiege, and after some few skirmishes joined a bloody battaile, brauely fought on each part, where nesse of the Aire, encouraged them in their rebelli at the first onset, the Kings power (though, much on; fo the same impeached Rufus his successe. greater in number) went down; but by their mul-But King Henrie (faith Malmesburie) who with many betwire the Brethren and their forces, titude and manhood (especially through the * Kings a warlike expedition went about to force the Welshmen, example and encouragement) they foone prenailed; a waruse expeasion went about to force the vocation, cuer stirring outs Rebellion, for to feeld and to submit themselves; in the end resolved upon this wholesome policies for to take down their pride, he brought thither all the where Duke Robert, with Earle William, and fun-Mat Paris. Duke Rebert dry othersof good note, manfully fighting in the very proffe of their enemies, were taken priloners; but *Robert Beliafmeescaped by flight. And thus (as Ma-thew Paris observed) Gods luftice & Mercy tooke Flemmings that dwelt in England : a great number of Mat.Paris. which Nation in those daies, in regard of his mothers kinafter was take and call into dred by her Fathers side, flocking hither, were closely effect; his Iustice vpon Robert, for his refusall of Ieru-falems title, and vnto Henry his fauour, according purea oy ner sessers stace, poeceng miner, were custing forouded in England, in so much as they for their musti-tude termed burdens from conto the Realine: Wherefore he sint them alltogether with their substance, their Wines, perpetuali pri-fon. 1901 Malmsburg. nurdent England to the prophetie of King William his Father. This battaile was fought, and Normandy wonne, vpon Mat.Paririaith, Mat. Paris.

wil Gem

end, Marj.

late losses by issue of her; whose Coronation was appointed to be celebrated by Roger Bishop of Sarifvery, the infirmity of Palfey to troubling Ralphe Archbishop of Canterbury, that himselfe could not performe it; yet because Roger was not appointed by him, he forbad his imploiments and the King wearing his Crowne, faith the Monke of Cheffer, this tefty old man could hardly bee entreated by the Lords, to with-hold his hands from striking the same from the Kings heads of fuch Spirites then were those spiritual Prelates, and icalousie to loofe their pompous preheminence of honour: but his high top was formewhat born down by the boilterous blafts of Pope Calist, from whose holy hand Thurstan Arch-bishop of Torke (contrary to the Kings commaund, and his owne * Oath) having received confecration, and thereupon forbidden by the King to put foot againe within his Dominions, his holines commanded his New-Creature should be installed

(* against all right and custom) without professing any subjection to the See of Canterbury; and threat-ned with his curse to interdite both Provinces rill that was performed. The cause of the Popes indignation against Ralph is supposed to bee, for that hee had received his * Investiture of the King, who contrary to the Canons of the late Romanc * Synode, did ftill chailenge and practife that * Regall prero-(43 Whether it were about this contention of Inuefting, or about a Fryer of the Holy Sepulchre, whom

(as Malmsb. faith) the King had imprisoned, or about Thurstans hard viage; certaine it is, that the Pope much defiring to have private talke with the King, came to him into Normandy, and so at Gifori conferred (faith Paris) the Great King and the high

Prieft: but notwithstanding the Popes threates or intreates, Thurstan was kept in banishment full fine

yeares, and then for the Popes pleasure was restored

But at this meeting the King was fo liberall of rich gifts to the Pope and his Cardina's, that therfore the Pope(faith a Monke) held him a most wise and eloquent perswader, and his actions very instifiable: But it seemeth the Cardinals were neither so cloquent nor learned as they should be, for that (faith hee) two youthes in the Kings Company, somes of the Earle of Mellent (learned both, and therefore fitte to be with that learned King) reasoning of some points with them, and disputing Scholler-like with Logicall syllogismes, the Grad Rabbies (vied to other exerciles at kome, then ftudying) were quite grauelled, and had nought to fay, but that more learning was in the fe Westerne parts then they had thought. But as these Church-stirres did not a little disquiet the King, so also did new Welfb showers of Arrowes rained thicke vpon them from the higher ground: amongst which, one was so le-

Polyc.lub.r.ca.s.

Grew Daroh

A Cholericke

Kadmerna. * M::b.Paria ad.As. 1119. Polyc.lib.7.2.15. *Parit AU,1113. Roma feb Vrbano, Anno 1094.

*Paris there cals ic Their ancien:
Coffene and An. Trea it had con tinued 200, yeres Will. Malmef.

Math. Poris.

will,Malmaf.

Chron. Walle

tumults, raifed by Meredith ap Blethyn, who with the three fonnes of Cadogin, Encon, Madoc, and Morgan, fore troubled the Kings people and peace, by breaking into the Marches, and especially into Chefbire, where they burned two Callles. The King therefore making towards them, had fent his maine Armie to conduct the Carriages, whilst himselfe with a small Company tooke a neerer way through the Mountaines and Straites; which being forelaid by the Enemy, was with great courage fet vpon, and through the advantage of the Place, many of his men flaine, and more hurt, by the Well Archers, whole uelled at the King, that it firucke him on the breaft, The King flruck yet being furely armed, did him no hurt; but hee therewith all wonderfully difmated, and by likelihoode fearing some treason amongst his owne, (for, lihoode fearing fome treaton amongst this owned to the five fearing former treaton amongst this owned, then hee fivore by our Lords death, his vitall oath, that no Welfh-man flotte that Arrow, but one of fall oath, that no Welfh-man flotte that Arrow, but one of fall oath, the five fearing this contract to the five fearing this contract to the fearing this contract the fearing this contract to the fearing this contract his owne Prouncials) and confidering that by these his ouer-rash proceedings his glory purchased in more famous parts, might againe bee loft in this wild and rude Country; came to a Parley & Peace; A Peace couch receiving of the King a thouland head of Cattle, and leauing Kord Fitzwarren Lieutenant of the Marches, returned to England, where hee held three Parliaments in the same yeare, one at Norwich, another at Northampton, and the third at London. (44) The Normans still repining at the Cap- An.D. 1122 (44) The Normans itili repining at the captuity of Robert their late Duke; and flanding well affected vnro his Sonne, thought now the time fitp Duke Roberts tonne. ting, (Prince William being dead) to raise the other William his Cosen Germane into his place: who, as the Monke of Chefter affirmeth, married Sybil the other daughter of Foulke, Earle of Anion, He marrieth siwith whom hee received the Earledome of Cenomannis, vpon displeasure that King Henry withheld the formers dowry in England. The chiefe in this action was Robert Earle of Mellent, who was lately failen off from the King: Henry therefore hasting into Normandy, belieged his Castle Pont-Audomar, and tooke it, and at that time built a large and high wall with many Bulwarkes about the Tower of Roan, repaired the Caftles of Caen, Arches, Gifors, Faleise, Argenton, Damfort, Vernon, Ambres, de. and fundry others.

(45) In the meane time, Earle Mellent desirous An.D. 1124 to bee reuenged vpon the King, affociated Hugh Earle of Montfort and others vnto his aide, who entring Normandy with me and involve, and about harthe as they went, thinking to bring all to their obedience: against whole outrages, William Tenhammer and Lieutenane in those parts, addressed historiam and Lieutenane in the laws and the entring Normandy with fire and fword, did much to danger of an Ambush, laid for that purpose, after long fight tooke them both prisoners, and prefented them to his Mafter, whereby the warres ceafed for a time in those parts,

-(46) In this the Kings absence, but yet with his icence, I shannes Cremensis the Popes holy Cardinal, came into England, fent by Honorius the Second, there to redreffe the ftill continued finne-feeming abuse of the Clergy, in retaining and vsing, according to Gods owne Ordinance, the Society of their wives. This Pontificall Prelate was entertained by cap. 16. all the Bishops and Abbots with great and costly Presents, and afterward being solemnely set in a Councell at London, voon the birth-day of the Bleffed Virgine, made a foleme Oration in praise of Virginitie and Chastity, with a terrible inuectine against the Hourd, in Heart, maried Priests: and to amplifie their sinnes the more, hee shewed what extreme impiety it was, to rife from the bed of vnlawfull luft, (for fo was their chafte Marriage termed) and with polluted hands to touch the Sacrament of the body of Christ: but the same night following he * haning that very day confectated Taken with a night following the * natural time very way conject accust that holy Sacrament, was himself taken with a Whore, where the fame the matter being so apparant, that it could not been the matter being so apparant, that it could not been apparently to the sacrament of the sacrament hid, (neither ought it to be filenced, faith Huntingdon) to the great reproach of those most vnchafte Mst. Paris. boafters of Chastiric, as both Paris and Higden Rog, Higden themselues doe confesse: and so hee returned to Rome with shame enough, but with little suc-cesse in that intended businesse; till some sew yeers after * King Henrie, feeming very desirous to settle his pretenfed continency in the Clergy; in a 1129. Counce held at London, obtained (through fim Pethon, plicity of the Archbilhop of Camerbury, faith Paris) Haningdon, that himselfe shold have the execution of inflice and Sept Hand.

punishments of the Priests, that offended either in keeping of their wives, or viing of Concubines, (for likely those that liked not the one, loued the other, byldsughter to the Earle of As-

An.D. 1 123 Roger Wind. Math. Park. King Henry 10

An.D. 1125 Cardinall Cre-mensis, the Pope Legat to restrain Priests matriage Palychr, lib.7.

Hen, Hunting.

* Viz. An.D.

Chap.4 | Henry I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS.

as well as Cremenfu;) but eucn then also, the Kings end being onely to get in fummes of money which hee had still occasions to vie, euery man redeemed his liberty by his purse, and matters rather proued worse, then any whit reformed.

(47) Whilest King Henry about his said affaires lay in Normandy, newes was brought him that Hen-An.D. 1126 77 the Emperour his sonne in law was dead; whereupon hee presently sent for his Daughter the Empresse; and with her he returned into England, where dieth The Empresse calling a Parliament, in the presence of himselfe, and of David King of Scotland, hee caused the Nobles, comes into Eng (and first before all other, Stephen his Sifters Sonne fweare fealty to Empresse Down ager the Kings daughter. who first did violate it,) to sweare scalty to her, as to his lawfull, and now onely heire, by whom they should againe come to bee gouerned by the ancient daughter. Malmef.Nouel. English Roiall bloud, from which he shewed her to co.t. Humwed,lib.8. bee descended: which Oath was this, that they should, as much as in them lay, after King Henries decease, (if hee died without Heire-Male) establish her Queene of the Monarchy of Great Brstaine, now called England. But whether they did or no (faith Gemeticensis belongs not to mee to tell; but this our Story shall hereafter relate, and make knowne.

(48) Giraldus and Higden, and fome ancient Manuscripts affirme(but with very little probability or credite) that Henry the Emperour died not at this time (as was given forth;) but that rather vpon a Heny the Em-perour supposed not to be dead. * remorse of conscience, for imprisoning his owner natural Father, Henry the third vnto death; and also his Spirituall Father the Pope with his Cardinals repenting these outrages, hee laid aside his Imperial Roade, and secretly sted into England, where at Westchester hee became an Hermite, changing his name vnto * Godfeall, where he so lived the space of ten yeeres, and was buried in the Cathedrall Church of Saint Werburga the Virgine. Vpon which his fuddaine flight and milsing, the Empresse Maudxsome fay, was suspected to bee guilty of his death, and for that cause was kept continually in the Queenes Chamber Indeed, that the abode still in Chamber with the Queene, Paris records; but hee giues a wifer reason thereof, for that her Father did lone her excee dingly, as being now his fole Heire; and where should an Empresse rather live then with a Queene? a Daughter, then with her Mother? a faire Lady, a Widow, and an Heire of so great a Kingdom, then where her Person might bee safest from danger, her mind from inueigling, and her carriage from [uspition?But as for that other idle coniccture, it is razed out, both by those Writers, who record his Buriall, and Monumentat Spire, (as. Higden himfelf fignifierh) and al-fo by the penne of William Gemeticensis, who reporteth her to be a woman generally well thought of, and approved among the greatest Princes of the Empire, for her prudent and gratious behaviour towards the Emperour her husband; insomuch that they became suiters onto her, feeking by all meanes to attaine her to governe them, and to that end attended her to King Henry m Normandy to folicite the same; to whom in no wife hee would give his confent, meaning to make her his Suceeffer in the Kingdome: Whereunto Mamsbury (who then liued) accordeth; faying, shee was very vn-willing to haue come out of those parts of the Empire, where both herdowry and acquaintance lay, and that the Princes of those Countries came more wherewith her busband had disquieted his mind, then once into England, to have her for their Em-Howbeit soone after this her departure from him, presse, but that the King would not part with the Heire of his Crowne. by confent of the States, who met at Northam-

Math. Paris.

(49) But King Henrie afterwards desirous to bee An.D. 1127 free from the variances of these forraine Princes, and hearing that Foulke Earle of Anion had given his Earledome, with the territories of Gaunt and Malmel Noutl.

Matth.Paris. Will,Gemet. The Empresse married to the Earle of Anion.

Turyn, vnto his Sonne leffrey Martell, furnamed Plantagenet, (himfelfe minding to abide at Ierusalm, whereof he was King in right of his wife Milissent, the daughter of Baldwine de Burge lately deceased) thought him the fittest to be linked into his alliance, & therfore concluded a mariage betwixt the faid Ieffrey, and his onely lawfull daughter Lady Maude the Empresse, though partly against her liking, as both Gemeinen Gemei which was folemnized in Normandy the third of A-prillaccordingly. (50) That William, fonne to the Cartoife, was for-110) Thus, John to the Carrier Base of Flanders, to me be fabre of the Carle of Easte of Flanders, Flanders of Flanders, Fla being traiterously murdered by his owne People Mat. Paris, without any his iffue to fueceed him, Lewis of France (to make William faster to him) set him in possession as the next heire in blood vnto that Larledome William being the sonne of Duke Robert, and Robert matine side the Eldest of Queene Mande (the wife of the Con- Funders, querour) and the daughter to Earle Baldwm the fifth; whose issue Male now failing, the right was from her deriued unto this her Grand-child william.

Monarch 41

(51) This Ground-worke vnto greatneffe King An.D. 1128 Henry difliked, least by his Nephewes height, himrefin dilike the ouer topped, and his blind fathers wrongs the fooner redreffed: therefore having by his daughters marriage made Aniou his, from Nor- king Heavy mandy he inuaded France, euen vnto Helpard, where for eight daies he remained as fecure as in his owne Mas, Paris, Kingdome, and partly by feare, partly by faire paiments, wrought Lewis to withdraw his aide from yong William: neither fo ceased, but that hee inftigated william de Tpres to disturbe Williams state, He vieth means and did also drawa cerraine Duke named Theodorick out of Germany with a band of Flemmings, who ent-ty and valour.

red Flanders in Hostile maner. (52) With these last, Earle William (a Prince for his age of imcomparable proweffe) foone met, and giuing them battell, with an inuincible courage brake greatvalour. through the enemies troopes, in such fort that they were disconstited; and the Earle had the day; whence in this heate of bloud, hee marched vnto Angi, a Math. Paris. Castle of King Henries, which after a strong siege, being vpon the furrender, by a small wound which Earle William received in his hand, hee shortly died, Crosiers staues, all of them angerly threatning, and attempting his death: wherewith hee was to perplexed, that leaping out of his bed, he called for Successors in his Dominions.

He dies of a fma but not without immortall fame, for magnanimi-

(53) Were it not reported by some Writers of note, I might here well passe ouer certains presa will Malines

ging dreames (as the Monkes interpreted them) which King Henry had, being ready now to goe Highen. into Normandy: for to his feeming he faw a fort of rufficke plough-men with their Instruments of husbandry; after them Souldiers with their weapons of Warre: and laftly, the Bifhops with their helpe: but feeing it but a dreame, as a dreame he efteemed it , and paffed ouer into Normandy where long hee staied not, but that his Daughter Maud vpon formed lipleafure departed from her husband, and came with her Father into English and came with her English an and came with her Pather into England, Some write A.Do. 1131 that fewas the provoker of certaine diffleasures betwirt Roger Hourd. her husband and Father, which fo affected his mind with Hauden, in Hen passions of wrath and griefe, that many thought it was a second with send; and indeed Malmsburie 164. witnefleth, that the King ypon his death-bed pafMalmef.mentl.

Generally mentioned the wrongs and indignities fionately mentioned the wrongs and indignities

Hen. Bantinede pton; thee was reconciled to her husband : fent An.D.1131 which him upon his intreaty and bare him a fonne, Ger. Don. whose name was Henry; for ioy whereof, King Henry affembled his Lords, and againe made his faid Daughter, and the lawfull Meires of her body his

(54) And then preparing againe for his last and An.D. 1133 fatall paffage into Normandy, tooke shipping upon the Nones of August, (the very day wherein he first will Malmelin received the Crowne,) when hapned so wonder-full an Eclipse of the Sunne, that Malmsbury the reporter faith, himselfe then faw the starres plainy in the Firmament about the Sunne, and that two The Kings laft daies after, so great and searefull an Earthquake hapned, that the house wherein himselfe sate, was lifted vp with a double remone; and others fay, that out of riffes in the earth, burning flames arole, that could not be quenched, which diuers indged to be fatall prodigies of the deathes of those Princes that Polychron lib.7.

foone after enfued. An.D.1134

442

(56) For Robert the Curtoife, after twenty fixe yeers imprilonment and blindnesse, through griefe conceiued at the putting on of a faire new roabe, (too little for the King, and therefore in kindnesse sent to Duke Robert to weare) grew weary of his life (as disdaining to bee mocked with his brothers cast cloathes,) and curling the time of his vnfortunate Natioity, refused thenceforth to take any sustenance. and so pined himselfe to death. His body was buriedat Gloucester in the Church of Saint Peter, and middle of the Quire, where to this day remaineth his Tombe, with a carued Image of his feature, as the monument of a most vnfortunate man,

57 And not long after K. Henry in Normandy com-

Honeden, Wil. Malmf. Math. Paris.

ming care very well from Hunting in the Forrest of Lyons, and Towne of Saint Denys, made his repast of a dish of Lampreyes (which meat hee too wel loued, but could neuer well digeft;) whereupon he fell more gricuoufly ficke, and the fame full increafing, after seuen daies sicknesse, vpon the first of December, the fixty flue of hisage, and yeare of Christ Iesus, 1135, when hee had raigned King of An.D. 11;5 England, thirty five yeeres, foure moneths, lacking foure daies, & Duke of Normandy, twenty nine yeers and foure monethes: he died in the faid towne of S. Dems, and from thence was conneied to Roan where his Bowels, Eyes and Braines were taken out, and buried; the body also sliced, and pow-Palychr. 1.7. c. 27. dred with much falt, was wrapped in a Buls hide to avoide the flinch, beeing so intollerable, (a point fitting for such great Princes to thinke on, & in their great glory and pleasures to remember their fraile and humane condition,) that the Phyfitian who tooke out his braines was poisoned therewith, and presently died: wherupon some obserued, that other Kings killed men in their life; but he allo wafter he was dead; thence was his Corps carried into England, and honourably buried vpon the day of Christs Nativity, at Reading in Barkesbire, in the Abbey that himselfe had there founded, and endowed with large possessions.

(58) After his death (faith Huntington and Honeden) men spake their mind as freely of him, as of any other dead man: fome commending him

Rand, Hig.in Po-lychr. lib.7 ca.17. * His especiall for these three glorious felicities, * Wifedome, Victory, and wealth: others condemning him for three efpeciall vices, Conetonfuesse, Cruelty, and Lechery; some instances of which wee haue touched in the relation of his life; the first three, in obtaining and keeping the Crowne: the last, in his most gricuous taxations, cruell handling and imprisoning his Brother; and his incontinency of life (hall prefently appeare, by his many illegitimate iffues, the fruites of his wantonnes, and witnesses of his shame : in that Princes who are to punish such sinnes in others, ought themselues especially to be free from them: for though their living fortunes froppe mens tongues from vp-braiding: yet after their death the tongues of the vulgar, and pennes of the learned, will make the infamy of their vices to bee immortall.

(59) He was for personage of a reasonable sta-Defeription of his person and qualities. William Genes. ture, broad breafted, well iointed, and full of flefh: amiable of countenance, sharpe and faire eyes, blacke of haire, and that somewhat carelesly hanging on Math. Well. his forehead; his mind was enriched with many vertues, a follower of Iuftice, a louer of Religion feuere against theeues, and all effeminate nicities So that hee commanded mens long haire (which against God and Natures law was matchable at that time with womens) to be cut off: temperate of di-et, and neuer drinking but for thirft; valiant in bat-Malas (b) s taile, yet very circumspect, seeking rather to win by wife care, then by effusion of bloud: and by the report of most Writers excelled all the Princes of report of moit WHIETS executed an the Princes of the World in his time, in Marcy, Wealth, and Bounty, vnto Monafterier: the land hee defen-ded by Garrifons of Souldiers planted on the Confines of his neighbour Princes, building many Forts, Bulwarkes and Castles; besides twenty fine Townes and Cities: whatfoeuer was wifely or vertuoully performed in his Gouernement, is chiefly in Hen. 1. adoribed to his yonger yeares inflitution in true Learning and Philolo phy, which was * the great fur-niforment of him water the Science of Regality; being ofmigment of time runs ine science of regatity; being ot-ten heard to fay, that hee eftermed an indearned King but a crowned Afe. In which regard (aith * Fossius, hee tooke chiefe pleasure to reside in his new Palace, which himself built at Oxford, both for the delight he had in learned men, himselfe being very learned, and for the vicinity of his new Parke at Woodstocke, nea, and got the cuentry of his new Park at Woodflocks, which che had fraught with all kind of firange beaths, whereis he much delighted, at Lyons, Lepards, Lynes, Camells, Poreapins, and the like. His delight all to in works of deuotion, thewes it felfe both in the ereworks of denotion, shewes it selfe both in the cre-Action and indowment of the Collegiate and Epileopall Sees of Carlile, and Elf, as also of the Abbayes of Hide, Circefter, Reading, and the Priorie of Dues Hable: His Wife Queene Mand founded the Priorie of Countries of Mand founded the Priorie of Dues Carling and Carling Carli orie of Holy Trinity within Algate, and the Hospital of Saint Giles in the Fields: so that by himselfe, his Ouecne, and other denoted persons, twenty source logue of Sishops foundations to religious vses(if not more) were erected in the raigne of this King.

His Wines.

(60) Mande the first Wife of King Henry, was the daughter of Malcolme the third, surnamed "Can-moir, King of Scotland: her mother was S. Margaret, daughter to Edward, sonne of Edmund the Iron fide King of England. She was married vnto him at London in the first yeare of his raigne, Anno 1100.by London III the nity years of the rangue, anne 1 100.09 / Anschme Archbishop of Conterbury: having former-ly vowed her selfea Nunne, which some swore she did not for loue of single life, but to audide some vnworthy matches, which her Father would have imposed on her. Her Coronation was at Westiminfler by the same Anseline, on Sunday the eleventh of November in the same yeare. She was his wife feuenteene yeeres and more', famous for her learning, loue to learning, charity to the poore, and all vertuous dispositions; and deceased at Westminster the first of May, in the eighteenth yeere of his raign, and vecre of our Saluation, 1118. where shee was buried in S. Peters Church, on the right fide of King Edward the Confessor.

(61) Adheia, or Alice, the second wife of King Henry, was the daughter of Gadfry the first Duke of Louane, by the daughter of the Emperour Henrie the fourth, and lifter to Duke Godfrey, and Iocelin of Lousin. Shee was married vnto him the nine and twentieth of Ianuary, in the twentie one of his raigne, and yeere of Christ, 1121. and was crowned the morrow after being Sunday. Shee was his wife fifteene yeeres, but euer childlesse, and suruiuing him, was remarried to William Danbern Earle of Arundel, and was mother of Earle william the fecond, Rayner, Godfrey, and Ioan, married to Iohn

His Iffue.

(62) William, the sonne of King Hemp, and Queen Mand his first wife, was born the second of his Fathers Raigne, and of Christ, 1102. When he came to age of foureteen yeeres, the Nobility of England did him homage, and fware their fealties vnto him at Shrewsburie. The third yeere after, hee married

"Roffin, that Pal-lace be called Been mount, where afterward

His fecond Wife

Chap. 4. Henrie I. the daughter of Foulk, Earle of Anion; and the same yeere hee was made Duke of Normandy, doing his homage for the same to Lewes the Groffe, King of France; and received the homage and oathes of the Nobility of that Country: but in his returne for England, hee was unfortunately drowned neere unto Barbileet upon the twenty fixt of Nouember, the yeere of Grace 1120. and eighteenth of his owne age, without any iffue, to the great griefe of his

(63) Maud the daughter of King Henry, and of Queene Mand his first wife, was borne the fourth yeere of her Fathers raigne. She was the fecond wife of the Emperour Henrie the fourth, espouled at fixe yeeres of age, and at eleuen with great folemnity was married and crowned his Empresse at Ments in Germany, 6. Ianuary, Anno 1114, the ninth of her husbands; and foureteenth of her Fathers Raignes. Shee was his wife twelve yeeres, and furnised him without any iffue of him; & comming into England a widdowe, she had fealty sworne vnto her by the Nobility, and was remarked to Geffrey Plantagines Earle of Anion. Sonne of Foulke King of Terufalem, vpon the third of Aprilland yeere of Grace 1 1 2 7. by whom shee had iffue, Henry, the Second, King of England, Geffery Earle of Nantes in Britanie, and Wil-Less who was called Farle of Porto: the was his wife twenty three yeeres, and furning him also continued a widdowe the last seventeene yeeres of her life, which she ended in the City of Roan the tenth of September, 1167. the foureteenth of the raigne of King

Henry her fonne, and was buried in the Abbey of Bee in Normandy. (64) Richarda second sonne to King Henry, and Richard lation.

Mard.

Zufem.

Robert.

Queene Mand, by the testimony of Gernasius the Monke of Canterbury, who maketh Mand their eldest Child, William the seconds and lastly, Richard; and then (faith he) fhe left bearing: but Malmsbury faith she had but two Children, one of each sexe. (65) Eufem also another daughter, and fourth Child(by Heffor Boetist the Scottish Historian)is said to be borne unto the Beauclearke by Queene Mand; the credite of the two last, I leave to the reporters, who onely thus name them without any further re-

His Naturall I flue.

(66) Robert, the naturall fonne of King Henry, was Earle of Gloucester, and married Mabil daughter and heire of Robert Fitzhamon Lord of Glamor gan, by whom hee had illu William Earle of Glone-fler, Richard Bishop of Bayon, Rager Bishop of Wor-tesfer, and Mand the wife of Randolph Germon, the mother of Hugh Keuelist Earle of Chefter, and Richard his brother: Earle William married Anis daughter of Robert Boffu Earle of Leicefter, and had iffue three daughters and heires of that Earledome, which by Anis the second of them, in the end descended to Clare Earle of Hertford. This Earle Robert died the last of October, in the twelfth yeare of King Stephen, and was buried at Brifton in the Church of S. I ames, which hee had founded, and his body laide in the midft of the Quire; vnto him William Malmsbury dedicated his Booke called Historia Nouella.

(67) Richard another naturall fonne of King Henry, was as it feemeth by an ancient Register of the Monaftery at Abington, borne in the raigne of King Wil-liam Rufus, of the widow of Anskill, a Nobleman of the Country adjoining to the faid Monastery; and it feemeth hee is that Richard that was drowned in the Norman Scas neere Barbfleet, among the rest of King Henries children.

(68) Raynold the naturall sonne of King Henry, was borne of a daughter vnto Sir Robert Corbet, Lord of Aleester in Warwickeshire, by the gift of the King in fauour of her, who was after married to Henry Fitz-herbert his Chamberlaine. This Raynold was created Earle of Cornwall, and Baron of Castle comb, with confent of King Stephen, and had iffue foure

Daughters; of whom have forung many faire

(69) Robert another of that name; was borne Robert of Edith, the fifter of Inc. sonne and daughter of Forme, the fonne of Sigewolfe, both of them great Barons in the North: which Edith afterwards King Barons in the North: which Easth atterwards King Henry gaue in marriage to Robert Doile; Baron of Hook-Norton in Oxfordfire; and with her gaue him the Mannor of Eleydon, in the County of Buckingham; by whom he had iffue Henry Doyle Baron of Hook-Norton, who oftentimes mentioneth this Robert in his Charters, cuer calling him Robert his brother the Kings sonne. (70) Gilbert another naturall fonne of King Henry is named in the additions to the story of William Gemeticensis the Norman Monke, in the Chronicle of that country, written by Iohn Taylor being a Tranflator of that worke out of Latine into French; and laftly, in the Treaties betwixt England and France, written in the French tongue by John Tillet, Secretaric to their late King Henry the second, and yet in them, not any other mention is made, but only of

(71) William also a naturall some of Henry the King, had given vnto him the Towne of Tracie in Normandy; of which hee tooke his furname, and was called William of Tracie: But whether he were the Progenitor of the Tracies, fometime Barons in the Progenitor of the Tractet, sometime Barons in Demonstre, or of them that now be of the fame furname; or whether Sir William Tracte, one of the foure Knights, that flew Thomas Beeket Archbishop of Canterbury, were any of his posterity, is not certainely reported: nor any thing else of him, more then that hee died a little after his Father, which was in the yeere of Christ, 1135.

(72) Henryanother naturall sonne of King Henry, was borne of the Lady Nofta, daughter of Rees ap Temder Prince of South-Wales, who was the Wife of Sir Gerald Windfor, and of Stephen, Constables of the Castles of Pembrooke, and Abertinie in Wales, and Progenitors of the Families of the Fitz-geralds, and the Fitz-Stephens in Itelands he was uing iffue two fonnes, namely, Ateiler and Robert, Hugh Lacie, Lord of Methe in Ireland; hee was at the conflict in the Ile of Anglefy, betweene Magnathe conflict in the Ile of Anglefy, betweene Magnathe fonne of Harold, Harfager King of Norway, and Hugh of Mountgomery, Earle of Arundell and Shrensbury, wherein hee was flain, as some say, with

(73) Mande the Naturall daughter of King Henry was Counteffe of Perche, and the first wife of Earle Rotroke the first of that name, fonne of Arnolfe de Helding the first Earle of that County : Shee had iffue by him one onely daughter named Magdalen wife to Garey the fourth King of Nauarre mother of King Sanches, surnamed the wife, from whom all the Kings of Nasarre are descended: Shee died vpon Friday the twenty fixth of Nouember, in the twentith of her Fathers raign and yeere of Grace 1120, being drowned in the Sea with her brother Dake William.

(74) Maude another of that name and naturall daughter of King Henrie, was married to Conan the first of that name surnamed the Grosse, Earle of little Britaine in France, fonne of Earle Alan by Ermengard his second wife; by Alan shee had issue Hoe well, pronounced illegitimate, and dishersted by his supposed father Constance, that died without issue, and Bertha the wife of Eudes Earle of Porrobet, mother of Earle Conan the yonger, who by Margaret fifter of William King of Scots had iffue Confiance maried to Geffrey sonne of King Henry the second.
(75) Inlian likewise an other natural daughter of King Henry was married to Euflace the illegitimate sonne of William Lord of Bretevil in Normandy, who was the fonne and heire of Willsam Fitz-Osborne and elder brother of Roger, both larles of Hereford

Dddd, 2 in Raysold.

Richard.

STEPHEN

ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Stephen. Monarch 42 STEPHEN THE TVV O AND Monarch 47 FORTIETH MONARCH OF THE Stephen. ENGLISHMEN: HIS RAIGNE ACTS, AND ISSVE CHAPTER V. Iough the Empresse Mand Duke of Normandy; his mother was " Adelicia the An.D. 112 had fealty sworne vnto third daughter of William the Conquetor by Queen Mande his wife: And himselfe was advanced to bee her, in the life time of her Earle of Mortaigne by King Henry his vncle, whose Crown he now endeauoured to vsurpe, being other-Father: and againe both her felfe, and iffue ordaiwife for his many princely parts, worthy to weild a Scepter, if his claime thereto had beene inft and warrantable. ned to be his fucceffors in Englands Throne, as hath beene faid; yet so powerfull is Ambition, where the (2) For as foone as Natures course had brought (a) For as foone as Natures courle had brought. King Henry, where Princes and poored Sublects are all equalls, forthwith hee was working to disposite his highest probability of the pro object is a Diademe, and to weake are all affurances which are built on the wa-

uering Multitude, that King Hemies prouidence, was foon defeated, and with his death al fealties reuerled, foon defeated, and with his death al featiles reuerfed, and that by him onely who had a contended to be the formoft of the Lairie in taking that oath, even Stepher Earle of Mertaine and Ballaines aman whose defeant was very Noble, being the third fonne of Stepher Earle of Sleys and Champigne, who was the fonne of Earle Ender, and he of Earle Theobald, the fonne of Gerlon the Dane, the companion of Rollo

a very potent man in the State, who had industriously a very potent man in the state, who had indultrioully firred himfelfe in making way to his entrance; and (vpon affurance of all liberties to the Church and Common-wealth) had drawne on also William Arch-

446	Stephen. THE SVCC	E	SSIONOF Monarch 42.	Book.9
	bithop of Canterbury, the very first man that had		that all Persons and Causes Feelestastical should apper-	Wi, Malmsbury.
	(worne viito Mande the Empreile: by whole exam-	- 1	taine onely to Ecclesiasticall Indicature: that none but Clergy men should ener intermedale with the vacancies	Huntsingdon. Roger Hourd,
]	ple many others were winded into the like periutic, * traiteroufly auowing, that it was basenesse for so		of Churches, or any Church-mens goods; that all bad v-	Will trans.
A traiterous po-	many, and to great Peeers, to be lublect vnto a vvo-		fages in the Land touching forrests, exactions, &c. should	- 1
ntion. Rog.de Wendswer. Odam 11-ru	man. And to helpe forward thole audacious begin- [be otterly extirpate; the ancient Lawes restored, oc. As	ı
Malinib.Nouth	nings, Roger Bishoppe of Salsbury, the late Kings Treasurer protested (Malmsburie, who reports it, him-		Stephen well knew, that they had chosen him their	. 1
lib.r.	felfe heard it from him) that they were free from		King, onely to make their vies of him, fo these im- munities he granted, rather to bleare their Eies, then	Wil. Malmsb
	the oath made to the Empresse, for that without con		* with any purpose to manacle his own hands with	Howeden, fent of the Barons she had married out of the Realm;		fuch Parchment-Chaines,	1
- 1	but that which wrought most, was the testimony of		(5) This his entrance was very peaceable (faith Ger-	Genus.
Or high Ste-	Hugh Bigot, * Senefcall vnto King Henry departed,		nafius of Canterbury) but by little, and little civill dif- cordinercased, to the lamentable destruction of men,	Dereb.
	who comming ouer with Stephen, tooke his corpo- rall, oath, that the King on his death-bed, vpon some		and the land: whereto Robert Earle of Gloucefter,	Math. Paris.
Mat, Paris. The Wal.	offence taken against his daughter Mande, disinheri-		halfe-brother o the Empresse, whose wisedom and
Toodigma, Neoftria	red her and appointed this Stephen his nephew to be		power King Stephen much feared, gaue a fecret be-	Malust Nonel, lib.z.
	his fucceffour. These colourable instigations so mo-		ginning, when amongst them that swore him feal-
* Idem. Fealty fworms to	ued the * too credulous Archbishop and the Peeres, that they all swore fealty vnto him and became his		ty, hee concluded his (as we faid) with this refer- uation, that his owne authority thou doe nothing
Sueben.	Leigemen.		empaired, meaning no longer to respect him as his	- 1
	(3) His first landing in England, (being at Whit-	ĺ	King, then the King should him as a Peere : and a	Caffies cenerals
Malmef Nontl.	fand-bay) by a tempest of thunder so wonderfull &		generall fuffcrance, to cred Caftles for ftrenoth	Caftles general- ly railed in Esg-
Mat.Wifter.	terrible that the people thought verily the ende of all		throughout the land, was no security to his peace- able estate. Intended indeed to strengthen the King-	land was at hand, did prognosticke the storms of troubles which his periurie brought with him; for even then		dome against Mand the Empresse; but proved the
	both Doner & Canterbury fortified themselves against		bane of all subjective obedience; which was politick-	UVallingham.
Suphenslouely:	him, though London gaue better leaue to his entrance,		ly confidered by Henry Fitz-Emtre fe, in the conclu-	Tpodigad Ann.
Will.MalmaG	whose Person and presence drew euer the affections of the beholder, being in all parts complete with	1	fion of Peace betwist King Stephen and him, when a thousand one hundred and fifteene Castles so rai-
lindem.	natures endowments, of perionage passing comely,		fed, were againe razed and cast downe.	1. 1
	of disposition louing, cheerefull, and affable to the		(6) The first man that professedly set himselfe
	meaneft, alwaies very liberall; but now especially,		opposite to Stephens viurpation, was Balawin de Red-	Exceller fieft ru- fifts King Stepbe.
	knowing his Purfethe best Lawyer to plead for his Ti. tle; and in Martiall prowesse gaue place to none of	ł	wers, who fortified the City and Castle of Excesser against him; the Welshmen also, bearing in minde the
	that time wherein, though his whole raigne was		harms that K. Henry had done them defired revenge.
	continually spent, yet (by reason of King Henries	١.	and made many flaughters upon the Kings people:
	great Treature left) neuer burthened he the Com-	1	Against these, Stephen proceeded with his band of mons with any exactions, a thing that evergaineth the love of the common fort: neither is he taxed		English and Flemmings, and after a strong and charge- able siege, by famine drew foorth Baldwin, his wife, with any other observable crime, saue onely his per-		and children, all which hee disherited and expulsed iuric against the Empresse Dowager and her sonne.		the Land, viing to great lenity towards all other of-
Rand, Bigden.	(4) Hee entred his government the yeare of	1	fenders there, that it gaue great encouragement to	Hen, Hauting, lib.8.
Roger Hourd.	Christ Icsus, 1135, the second day of December, and was crowned at Westminster the twenty fixt of the	1	others rebellions. But in Wales the bulinesse pro- spered not so well, where at Cardigana great battell	Flor Wigorn.
	fame Moneth, being Saint Stephens day, by William	١.	was fought, with fuch flaughter and ouer bearing of	1
	Corbell Archbishop of Canterbury, who with the rest	1	the English, that the men by women were taken and of the Prelates doing him homage, and knowing		led away Captine, and so many drowned by the fall
	now hee would yeeld to any conditions (for perfor- mance whereof his * Brother of Winchester did there		of a Brige ouer Temd, that a passage was made ouer the water with the dead Carcases therein heaped.	1
Will.Melmef.	engage himfelfe for a pledge) they all tooke their	1	(7) Neither thus onely, but some of the English
lib.1,nouel,	oath of allegiace conditionally, (traiteroufly, I might		allo diffailing King Stephen fecretly infligated Travid	Paigder. A.Do. 1128 Allegeance fworns conditi-	fay) to obey him as their King, so long as he should preserve their Church Liberties, and the vigour of	1.	King of Seotland, to revenge the wrongs done to the Empresse Mand, a service as they vrged it very	Tpadigm. Neaftr.
onally to the	Discipline: And that the Lay-Barons made vigal-		gratefull vnto her, and even pleasing to God and
King.	fo of this policie, appeareth by Robert Earle of Glou-		Man. He therefore confenting , invaded the borseffer, who sware to be true Liegeman to the King,		Man. He therefore consenting, inuaded the borders, and tooke from the English both Carlelle and	Mah,Paik.
	as long as the King would preferue to him his digni- ties, and keepe all Couenants, wherupon the King		a venteague, which he stuffed with Garrions. A coinfi	·
King Stephens	promifed for the prefent, that he would speedily re-		these, King Stephen prepared, and with a great pow- er came into those parts, where diuers accidents by	1
faire promifes,	forme the ouer-hard lawes of his Predecessors, and		divers reporters are related, yet all agree that ere kings under his Sealand Charten and to shows	1	long peace was concluded, Carlett itill enjoied by kings, vnder his Seale and Charter: and so thence hastening to meete the Corps of his deceased vncle,		King David, and the Earledome of Huntington by Prince Henry his sonne; for which hee did homage Haveingden.lib.8. Haueden,	(which was now brought into England) he honou-		at his fathers command, David himfelfe refusing to	Will Gemet.
	red that pompous functall, with his owne, and all	1	to doe (as Hector Boetses the Scotish writer affir-	Heel.Roetim, fib.
pen. Huntingdon a Malmef.inenell.	his great Prelates and Peeres, attendance at Reading; whence prefently he went to Oxford, where he fea-	1	meth) for that he had given his faith before unto Maud	12009,17.
lib.t.	led his fore-promifed Charter, of many indulgent fa-	1	the Empresse. (8) King Stephen returned, and all in good quiet,
Kings Stephens Charter.	uours: * prefacing therein, that hee attained the	1	ne juddenly tell licke of a Lethargy, yea & in fuch dan-	1
	Crowne by Election onely; and that Pone Inna-		ger of me that the common report gaue foorth hee	Simen Duz.
	centius confirmed the same; whereby may be con- ceiued, that his Holinesse, either out of hatred to		was dead, which firred great troubles both in Eng-
*This Heavy in- prifoned the	the Empresse, (whose husband + Henry was no friend	l	land and else where, for thereby his friends were stricken into great feare, and the factious more bold	İ
Pope.	1 to the Papacic) or for fome other holy ende had		to prepare for Queene Mande; for Hugh Biggt one of	Math Paris
l	normall hand in advancing Stephene perjured and		his chiefelt and first raisers fortified himselfe in the	Henry Hunt.
*Dated spud Ox-	disloial intrusion. The Tenour of the & Charter it selfe is; That all Liberties, Customes, and Possessions		Cattle of Norwich, and would not deliver it vnto a-	46.8.
enford.1136 reg. 1	graunted to the Church, should bee firme and inforce;		ny fauc onely to the King, yea and very vnwillingly also vnto him: and in Wales, Owen and Cadwalader
	1,,	_	the	1
			Life Control of the C

Chap.5.	Stephen ENGLANDS N	10	NARCHES. Monarch 42.	1 447
Coron, Wallia,	the fonnes of Gruffith an Conan Prince of that Coun-		but Treason, whom himselfe had formerly taught to try, carried great ipolles from the Fundella as of other		be Traitors to their rightfull Soueraigne? But yet(a	2
Tumultuous at- tempts in Nor-	goods; to allo of Horle and Armour and habili.	- 1	no Rebellion was ever without pretence of Realon and	11
mandy.	ments for warre; likewile in Normandy, Conforma-	- 1	Influe) they alledged, that hee had violated his	# Huntingdon.l
	cies began to bud forth; for Geffrey Earle of Arion,	1	Oath touching their Forrests, and other Immunicie	2)
Walfingh. Toodig. Maimib Nancil.	who in right of his wife made claime vnto all, eafily	- 1	of Church and Common-wealth: but Church and	ıl
ίψ.I.	got the hearts and endeauours of many to adhere vnto the true heire; possessing himselfe of certaine	1	Common-wealth, were but publike colours for pri-	Malme (News)
	Caffles, but entring further on the Demaines of		uate grudges, (as Malmesburie, who then lined well	lib, 2. pag. 205.
	one Talevan, a man of note(proferibed for some of-	- 1	vnfouldeth) which the Great-Ones conceined a	1 fence or displeasure by King Stephen) the Normans	- 1	gainst their King, because he would not grant them	I difliking that, and fome other his doings, fent for		fuch Caffles, Commands, and Lordships, asthem-	ldem.li.t.pa.to:
	I neovald Earle of Bloss (Stephens elder Brother) offe-		felues liked and expected of him , whom they Stephent elder Brother laies	ring him both their Dukedome and their Guorde	- 1	denie them nothing. The endlesse and the mal-st-	ļ claime.	and itues to detend him in it; who comming to	- 1	thought to be so obliged vnto them, that he ought denie them nothing. The endlesse and shamelesse importunities of these men, sometimes hee put off, alleeding thought.	į .
				Idem.
	By Way to weaken King Stephen Idelinered upon him	- 1	newes; fometimes hee was faine to fatisfie, diffrusting
	voon composition, the County of Falaffa him felfe	- 1	their falling from him : whose lotaltie notwithstanding	I
		- 1	beeing built on to vn-noble grounds, was but colou-	l
	King Henries Treasuric, and very throughly, (though	- 1	rea, and therefore could not long bee permanent.	Barle Rebert
Idem.	lectery) watching all opportunities to advance the	- 1	INCIENCE Was it. FOR Robert of Glacefter (the Limbral	King Stephen.
Cambon acards !-	title and delignes of the Emprelie.	- 1	fes halfe-brother, and now her chiefe Counfellor and Captaine) finding those particular dislikes apt to	1
Susphen goeth in- to Harmandy. Will. Newb.	(9) Stephen recougred, and hearing these stirres,	- 1	and Captaine) finding those particular dislikes apt to	1
Hill, Navis.	prepared himselfe first into Normandy, at whole ap-	- 1	be wrought on, and made leruiceable for a common	l
	proach, after some small attempts, the people (di- stracted betwixt feare, and sense of their ducty)	- 1	benoore; whetted on with the touch of confeience	1
	yeelded themselues vnto his power; surrendring	- 1	and countells of religious learned men. (who wrong	1
Ger. Dereior.	their fenced Cities, and other ftrong holds. This	- 1	iiim, with the hazard both of his credit, and foule for	Idem.
	good fuccefie thus fortunately beginne hechoned	- 1	neglect of his first, and only-lawfull, Oath to the Empresse)	audust v.
He makes league with France.	further to profecute, by meanes of a league, which	- 1	fent threatning meffages vnto King Stephen, charging	Malmesh. Novel
Huntimeden Lib.8.	hee lately had made with Lewis the Greenth King of	- }	him with his Oath of Allegiance vnto Lady Mand	1
Houeden, Math. Parit.	France: and hecreupon created Eufface his eldertion	- 1	his Sourraigne, against whom hee had shewed him-	1
His ion E-face	liuing, Duke of Normandie, commanding him to do	- 13	felfe a most perfidious man, and had impiouslie drawne him with others to doe the like; and so de-	ł
Duke of Ner- mandy.	his homage for the lame to Lewis.		nouncing Stephenan open Enemie to the State, and	1
many.	(10) Earle Theobald Section him folferhase defeat	- 1	himselfe vnto Stephen, made strong his faction with red of his hopes and purpoles, formed arrhe wronge	- 1	the assistance of many Nobles; among whom, Mile, done by King Stephen; for hee, this elder by hirth	- 1:	a chiefe man of warre, and High Constable to King	Gerusf, Dereb.
S'aphen buieth his elder bro-	and stories Earledomes lawfull heire laide his riele	١.	Stephen, rewolted from him, and became a great help	"H.Mining,
thers Fule.	Doth for Normandie and Englandallo now wineped		their proceedings.
Tood gm. Neuftr. Reger Wesd.		- 1	(13) Earle Robert (whom efricones the enmod Banaden .	auailing without power)hee came to a composition, and remitted his Claime for two thousand markes	- 11	King discharged of his honours and possessions in	English Peeres tortifi: against Hunti gden,lib.S. Mat. Parit.	and remitted his Claime for two thouland markes	- 14	England) tooke into the Caltle of Brillaw, and made	the King-
Mat. Paris.	annually to be paid. Gettrer of Amou likewife whole !	- 11	good also his Castle of slede; his complices likewise
ı	title by his Wife was better then them both, not able	19	ind the like in other places : for William Talbet man-	Henry Hunt lib. 8. Honeden.
1	at the present being so far ouer-matched by the Kings	. 1	ned the Castle of Hereford, William Louell the Castle	Montaco.
He Roppeth the Faprelles hul-	power, wealth, & confederats) to do what he would,	19	of Carie, Paganell the Castle of Ludlow, William de
Fmpreffes hui- bands mouth	yeelded to necessity, and for fine thousand markes yeerely to be paid, suffered Stephen quietly to enjoy	- 15	Mount the Castle of Dunestor, Robert de Nichol the
with money.	the Crowne.	- 13	Caftle of Warram, Enflace Fitz-John the Caftle of
An,D.1138.	(11) Having thus at once swept the two greatest	1	Meltane, William Fitz-Alain the Castle of Shrewf-	* De Maloma.
	FUDDES OUT OF his fortunes way her well hoped that	1:	urie, and Walkelinus the Castle of Doure. And
Ann. Reg. 3.	all cloudes of displeasure, and opposition, were now	16	hus those forts which were erected to defend the Crowne, first offended the King, some few wherof
- 1	Outr-blowne, when vnexpettedly newes came that		is he recouered, he flatted to the ground, and wished
Geru.Dereb.	England was in tumults, the sparkes of conspiracic.	10	he other no higher walls , still swearing by Gods Birth	King Stephens vitali Oath,
England againe	kindled leggetile before in the hearts of tactions?	- 10	his viual Oath) hee would not fo flightlie beevn-	viuali Oath.
,	Peers, now openly breaking foorth, vpon aduantage	1	eated of his Crowne, and wondring what should	Malmef. Novel.
King Stephen re-	of his ablence in Normandie: therefore having not al.	r	nooue them, who had to readille aduanced him, fol
UIDES IDIO ERE.	together coposed his busines in those parts, he took	1 1	peedily to vnftate him. One fresh motiue to these
	Thip for England in the depth of the winter; and even in the Vigill of Christs Nativitic, belieged, and after	- 17	Noble-mens discontents was the Kings * seizing on	Malmud Man .
Reger Honoden.	in the rigit of Christs Nativitic, belieged, and after	16	ome great men and their lands, on bare fuspition of	Malmert Neucl., lebro fecundo.
. 1	tooke the Caltie of Beatera, that was manned against	1 2	heir loialtie; and on the other fide, the extraordina-	, him in the behalfe of the Seets; about which time	r	ie fauour, which Stephen showed to William de Ypre.
Math. Paris. The King of	David their King having entred Northumberland in	a	nd his Flemings (which they interpreted as a con-	Ger. Der, the quarrell of Queene Mande, the ruder fort of his	ţ	empt of themselves and their Nation) whose coun-
King Stephen.	Armie (as commonly the best gouerned is not emp- tie of such) reuenged too tragically the wrongs of the	1 1	ells he generally followed, and chieflie relied vpon:
Podig Neuftri.	Empresse, in ripping vp the wombes of women with	1.	n diffaine whereof, they fent word to the Empresse,	An.D.1139.
Podig. Neuftri. Housed, in Sceph. Huvrangdon, lib.8.	child, and tossing their infants vpon the points of	15	hat within fine Monethes, shee should have the Realme at command, according to their Oaths	,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,, their speares, slaying the Priests at the Altar, and	1.	nade to her Father,
.	dismembring the slaine bodies in most vnhumane	- "	(14) These turmoiles thus working in the bow-
ļ	maner.	e		The King of
	(12) Against these, King Stephen made hastilie	i	etter opportunitie to affaile the fides and skirts	The King of Scotland his at-
The English No-	forward, affirming it no policie, to give one boures reft	l e	hereof; and following what hee had begunne, with	cmyteagainft Stephen,
tepben,	unto the Enemie : and threatning more then hee ac-	a	very great Armie entring Northumberland, made	,
Simsu Dun.	complished, entred Scotland; whence after some small	2	reat flaughter of the Englifb, and destruction of their	I
. 1	reuenge wrought, hee was haftily recalled; so many	10	Countrey: Against whom the Northren Lords pre-of his Nobles in England now in Armes against him.	D	ared, at the command of Thurstan Arch-bishop of	Simus Day.
i	that hee was in a fort befette on eneric fide. And	Ιź	orke(left by King Stephen Licutenant in those parts)	Dan.
	what other could hee, a V furper, expect from them,	W	ho beeing by fickenes kept from the Field, ap- Cccc 2 pointed	i whites in septems occasive; you muting certains twoble-ment to his Palacaet timelegher, retained them prisoners, till hee had compelled them there, tore ligne their Caffles to the King. In the meane while Earle Robert flouded and foolied wavefler: Ale Robert flouded and foolied waveflers (Are Pan. Earle Robert flouded and foolied waveflers (Are Pan.)

and Ranulph Earle of Chefter, ioming in withes with Robert (whose daughter hee maried) showed himselfer

the King required the dimons to maiste his court for these outrages of their servants, which satisfattion should be, to desure the keyes of all their Casses to the King, as pledges of their sadelty, which they refusing, the Bishops of Salisbury and Lincolne were laid leaded. In the the sade of the salisbury and Lincolne were laid hold of; but Eh elcaped to the Castle of Dinie: Alexander was imprisoned, till hee had yeelded him bis Castles of New-warke, and & Slaford; Roger the ENGLANDS MONARCHES. Monarch 42 449 Chap.5. Stephen not vnwilling to annoy King Stephen, though he had received great honours at his hands. The Empreffe "felfe was) of that which was not their owne, by de-"priving other of their rightfull inheritance: Thele her felfe, the better to fecure her owne person, and to therefore thus difherized, ought of right (in affugiue accesse vnto her fauourites, tooke into Lincolne, rance of helpe from their righteous Indee and rewhere the meant to make her abode, floring the City uenger) giue first affault on their vnrighteous opwith all prouisions necessarie, "preffor; and God who justly judgeth his people, (23) King Stephen, as vigilant as the other was politick, made straight-waies thitherward, and begit will (doubtleffe) looke downe from his heanenly habitation, and will not leave vs succourlesse the Citie with a straite siege, where hee had surpri-sed his greatest Enemie, had shee not found meanes whiles in a inft cause, wee impugne a most vniust "Intruder. But one thing, (most resolved Cap-taines and souldiers) I would have you throughlic led his greaters enemie, nao ince nor roung meanes thence to escape: & so possessing himself of the City, settled it, & the whole Countrey in verie good quiet. Soone after whose departure, Rasulph Earle of Chester, with his Countesse, and Brother, comming to to confider, that through these Fennes (which with fo much a doe you have passed) there is no way fit for clcape: heere must we either vanquish,

"or leane our lines, for hope of flight is none at all,
"nor is there any other way, left vs now to goe, but by our swords into the Citie: and (if Igessea fler, with its Countrie, and protties, someone, containing, Lincolne, to keepe their Christmas; the Citizenes knowing the Kingsiealoufies, and desireut to currie famour with him, fent fecret intelligence, that if he would Malmfb, Neutl. furprize both those Brethren, he had now the fittest "right) euenthis, that wee haue no meanes to flie, aduantage: whereto the King giuing eare, came thi-ther with great expedition; and whiles they, thus "will bee to vs the meanes (by dinine a sistance) to get the Victorie; because they must needes trust to "their Manhood, who see no hope to thrine by "their Cowardize. Indeed, the Citizenes of Lincircumuented, food on their guard in the Castle, the Earle escaped foorth, and went to craue aid of the Empresse, for refere of his wife and brother whom heelest besieged. Earle Robert, hearing the newes, and glad of so faire an opportunity, joined e colne keepe nigh to their houses, and in the brunt of er the Battle, there will their mindes bee, and thither will their heeles follow, whiles you victoriouslie with Ramalph, and they both gathered all their po-wers both of we'/b and Engli/b, for the relecte of their friends in Lincolne: where, resolutelie first wading " shall keepe the field. And consider farther with mee, what kinde of Captaines they have : First Alaine Duke of Britaine, he comes armed, not against Alain Duke of through the River, (which parted them from the you, but God himselfe, a furious person, spotted Kings Armie, and was then deepe) vpon Candlemas with all filth of finne, in malice vnmatchable, who day and yeere of Christ Iesus one thousand one hunthinks it his greatest dishonour, to see any man exdred fortie one, they pitched their Tents, and in the Kings fight ordered their Battaile : One Squadrone "cell him in crueltie : with him commeth the treacherous Earle Robert Mellent, the very craftes-mawhereof, was lead by Earle Ranulph: the Differited were the Guiders of another; in the third was Earle fer of fraud, in whose heart dwells impiery, guile "in his mouth, cowardize in his actions; high of "minde, vaineglorious in words, degenerous in per-"formance; laft in the fight, first in the flight. Next, Robert himselfe; and the Welfb-men served for the Wing. Their troopes thus marshalled, Ranulph appointed in rich Armor, and full of braue refolution, ipake thus to his followers, in the presence of Robers comes Hugh By-god, his name neerelie founding his periurie; who thought it not fufficient to breake Res. His den Hugh Bi-end. his oath with the Empresse, but that hee must be once againe for sworn (as all the world doth know) (24) "I yeeld you vnfained thanks, (Inuincible "once againe toriworn (as all the world out it know) if that Henry at his death bequeathed the Crowne from the word out the word out of this owne daughter; a man (in a word) who accounts Treacherie Captaine, and you, our companions in Armes) which heere so resolutelie withesse your loues vn-"to mee, vpon my fole requeft, even to the hazard of your owne lives. Sith then, I am the chiefe cause "a Vertue, and Periurie a courtly quality. Among Earle Allement, "these Gallants marcheth the Earle Albemarle, a man " of this your perill, it well befits me, that I my felfe "be formost in the hazard, and give the first onsette of battaileagainst this faithlesse King; who made of a fingular constancy in euill; very ready to at "tempt, & very loath to leave any mischiefe; whose wife, through irkesomnes of his vnsusferable flithy vs a thew of truce, onelie to take advantage for our "ruines; and therefore both mine owne courage. qualities, is gone from him; & the Earle that keeps "and the Kings vniust dealing, give mee cause to "hope, that I shall foorthwith breake asunder the her, hee commeth against vs too, a notorious a "dulterer, and the Non-pareill of impurity, a true "Souldier of Bacehou, a stranger to Mors; to whom "the fight of all bloud, except of the Grape, is ve"rie fearefull. Then setteth forth Simon Earle of "ftrongest array of his Armie, and make my way through their midft, by dint of this my fword. It fhall be argument of your proweffe, to follow me Earle Simen. "Hampion, whole deeds confift altogether in words, and whole liberality onely in promifes, for when the hath faid, he hath done, and yee get no more.
Laftly, you see here gathered a knot of Peeres, all "leading you the way, and to imitate mee, gluing you example. My thoughts alreadie tell mee, that euen now I am breaking through his Battles, "trampling on the neckes of his Chieftaines, and " piercing with this my sword the very sides of the "King himselfe. His speech though short and head-die, as more fitting a Souldier then an Orator, yet like to their Prince, accustomed to robberies, enriched with rapines; fatned with man-flaughter's and all tainted with periorie . You therefore (No. well fuited with the time, and was feconded with "ble spirits) whom great Henry advanced, and this Delipints) whom great Henry aduanced, and this "Stephen hat call dowine, whom Henry made "wealthy, and Stephen hath empouerished, be now "couragious, and vpon assured considence of your "great valour, yea, of Gods instice, seeke both your "inst tenge, which God even pute into your hands, i great applause of the Souldiers : Whereupon Ro-bers Earle of Glocester, stept foorth and said. (25) "It is not against right, most Noble Earle,
"that the honor of this daies service, and first assault, should bee permitted vnto you, in regard of the fhould bee permitted vinto you, in regard or the greatnes both of your descent, and your martiall achieuement; but yet, if Descent bee shood on, I my selfe am both the sonne, and nephew, of a on these vingodly wretches; and immortali Glerie
...which shall hence-forward attend both your selues "which final hence-torward attend both your leitues, "and your poblerity for ener. If you are all of this "mind, for executing this Iudgement of God now "upon them, then vow your felues who God, and "this his feruice; a and forbear, nay rather forfiwear, "to flew your backsto your foes. Mightie King; if Valour, heere now are many of "choicht worth, of whom none liuing can challenge precedence for proweffe. But other reason ought now to sway. For fith the King, contrarie to his At which words, all jointly lifting up their hands "Oath made to my Sifter, impiously viurped the "Kingdome, he hath made a confusion of all things, and acclamations vnto heauen, with a terrible flious abiured all thought of flight, and quickning vp their braue spirits, aduanced gallantly towards the enemy. "both in causing the bloud of many thousands to bee spilt, and in making many Owners (as him-

450	Stephen THE SVCCE		Booke 9
	(26) King Stephen, the meane while, was farre	"and following the foresteps of your famous An-
King Stepbeus ad- drelle to thu	from being idle, who also ordered his Armie into	"cestors, leaue to your posterities both a noble pat- "terne, and an euerlasting renowne. Your dayly
drelle to the Battle	three feuerall Battalions: the greatest part and best	"fucceffe of victories, should quicken your hearts
	harnassed, whose horses he had sent away (perhaps also to deprive his men of all hope of flight) he ap-	this day to atchieue brauely, and the continuall
4	pointed to remaine on foot with himlelt, and certain	amifcarrying of our enemies, will quicken their sheeles to flie as speedily: and (I dare say) they al-
Math. Paris.	of his Nobles, all vnder one Banner. The horfe-	"heeles to flie as speedily: and (I dare say) they al-
imos Dusel.	men hec disposed into two scuerals wings, the one	"ready repent of their comming hither, and ac by commaunded by Alaine Duke of Britaine, Hugh Bi ged Earle of Norfolke, Simon Earle of Hampton, wit-	"this time casting how to be gone, if the nature of the place would give them leave. Then fith it is the two Earles of Mellent and Warren; and the other	"vnposible for them either to fight, or flie; why
	Wing was gonerned by William de Yores the Fle-	, come they hither, but even by Gods own appoint-ming. Then the King, because his voice was not very pleasing or audible, commaunded Baldwine	ment, to offer themselues, and all their prouisions very pleasing or audible, commaunded Baldwine	"into your hands? and here you fee their horfes,
	Fitz-Gilbert, a man or great honour and prowene,	their Armour, yea and their bodies, to rest at your pleasure : reach forth therefore your warlicke
	to veter his mind vato the Army, who standing conveniently to be heard, spake vato them as fol-	"hands to seize on that joyfully, which God hath loweth.	" freely brought you.
	" (27) All fuch as addresse themselves, and ex-	Which exhortation hee had fearfly closed, when	4.
Henry Homt. Roger Haueden,	"pose their lines, to the hazard of battaile, haue	the noiseof Trumpets, and shout of the enemics
(vgm earn)	three things aduitedly to be thought on: The e-	comming on ,was Rhetoricke enough to incite them to their tasks	The Battles loin,
	"quirie of their cause; the Number of the Forces; "the sufficiency of their men. The first, less they	(28) A fore battaile was fought, and with equall endanger the state of their Soules; the next, lest	fucceffe a long time maintained: for the band of	Henry Hunt.
	athey be ouerlaied with multitude of their enemies;	the diffierited, whose particular wrongs whetted	Mat.Parit.
	and the latt left while they prefirme your name	their courage, (and were therefore politickly pla-
	"bers, they find them but faint-hearted, to their "terruine. But in all these, weeknow our selues	ced in the front) brake terribly into the Kings
		Vauntgard; and contrariwife William of Tyres into the Welfs, vntill the Fore-ward of the Kings horse-	Polydon.
	"cause is, for observing the vow made before God	men beganne to fhrinke backe, and (not without fuf"vnto our King, to withfland them that have fallifi-	pit ion of treason) galloped away; when presently the Earle of Chester encountred the Kings battaile of
	ed their faith, even to the hazard of our lives. For	the Earle of Chefter encountred the Kings battaile of nour Number,in Horseme; tis not inferior to theirs;	foote, in whose strength he reposed most trust; but
	nin Footmen we farre exceede them: and for fuffi-	it being ouerlaid with Affailants, beganne also to faint and to flie, leauing the King enraged, both	Grr.Der.
	"ciency, what words can equal the noble valour of of many Earles, Lords, Captaines and Followers,	with his friends faint heartednes, and with his foes
	"trained up euer in the warres? But aboue all, the	fuccesse. A very strange sight it was (saith Paris)
	"incomparable proweffe and prefence of our King,	there to behold King Stephen, left almost alone in the	Mat.Parit.
	"will be in flead of thousands to vs. Sith then	field yet noman daring to approch him, whiles grinding his teeth, and foaming like a furious wild Boare, he draue	King Stephene great valoue.
	"this our Lord, and the Lords Anointed (to whom	backe with his battle-axe whole troupes affailing him, &	p. Land
	"you vowed your faith) is in field here amongst "you, now performe this your vow vnto God;	massacring the chiefest of them to the eternal renowne
	"affured, that the more constant you proue in this	of his courage: If but a hundred such had there beene
	your Princes seruice, and faithfull against those	with bim, a whole Army had never been able to surprize	1
	"faithles periured perions, the more shall your re-	his person: yet as hee was single, hee held out, til
	"ward becarthe hands of God, and of him. There-	first his Battle-axe brake, and after that, his sword	Huntingdon. King Stephenen.
Barle Robert.	"fore be both couragious, and confident; the rather, "confidering against whom you fight: euen against	alfo, with the force of his varefiltable frokes, flew in pecces, and he now weaponleffe, and (by an var-	ken prioner.
	"Robert the Bafe-borne Generall, whose vtmost worth	knowne,doubtleffe,an vn-noblehand)ftricken down	Tpodig-Neuftr. Malmerb, None
	Lis well knowne; for he can threaten much, and	with a great stone throwne at him, was seized on by	Malmerb, None
Eatle Resulps.	aperforme as little: a Lions tongue, and a Hares	William of . Kahames, a most stout Knight, and by	An. Reg. 6.
	heart: his faire speech is his credit, his foule acti-	Earle Roberts commaund, preferred from any vio-	* Alsarde Kains Huntingden,
	"ons are his shame. Chesters Earle what is hee? a "man audacious, but without all judgement; heady	lence to his person, was carried prisoner vnto Mand the Empresse at Gloucester, & thence was sent bound	Mentagaes,
	"to plota treason, but still wavering in the pursuit	vnto Brifton, where in the Castle he remained in safe	Math. Parit;
	of it: ready to runne into battaile, but vncircum	cuftody.
ĺ	ipect in any danger; aiming beyond his reach, and	(29) The Empresse having thus got the Lion in
	"conceiting things meerely impossible; and there-	her hold, triumphed not a litle in her own fortune, & now as fole Soueraign of Englands Monarchie,	The Empresses
	"fore hath he few with him that know him, but "leads onely a rout of vagrant raicals: fo there is	commanded all businesse, elected her Counsellors,	nour of the King
	"nothing in him to bee feared; for whatfoeuer he	and bestowed many dignities where shee most fa-	dome,
1	"beginnes like a Man, he ends it like a Woman; yn-	ucured. Notwithstanding, that shee altered not
1	fortunate in all his vndertakings; in his encoun-	herstile of Empresse, or Queene of Romanes, may appeare by this her Broad-Seale ensuing; under
l	aters the either vanquilled, or it he chance (rarely	appeare by this her Broad-Seale enfuing; under	Charta Matild. Imperatricis.
The Weiffe.	"God wot) on a victorie, it is with farre greater lol-	which shee granted the custody of the Tower of Lon-
1	«les then the conquered. The Wellmen he brin- igeth, are fitter for our contempt then feare: their	don vnto Geffrey de Mandeuil, and his Heires, couenanting with him therein, that the would not make
1	"rafhnes you may eafily see, for it is naked and vn-	peace with the Citizens of London, without the laid Gef-
1	"armed, who wanting both military Art and Pra-	freis consent because they were his mortall enemies : but	1
i i	1 "Ctife, runne headlong, like brutes yoon the Hunters	this Earle being afterwards vnawares apprehended	ci
l	"Inuelins. The reft aswell Nobles (if such they	in the Kings Court at Saint Albans, could not bee	Gerusf.Durch.
1	"may bee tearmed) as common Souldiers, are but "ftraglers and runnagates: of whom I would wish	released, till hee had furrendred both the Tower of	1
1	their number greater; for the more they he, the	Vpon these happy successes of the Empresse,	i
1	atheir number greater; for the more they be, the amore successes will bee their service. You	States-men flood not any longer for King Stephen,	1
1	etheretore(great Peeres and Worthies) it now be-	but their Faither turning with his Fortunes, all of them	1
1	"noueth (and indeed it much behough you) to bee	furrendred their allegiance vnto her; the Kentish on-	Wanter 41 a
1	"very mindfull, both of your Valours, and Noble- "neffe: this day advance your Prowes to the height,	ly excepted, where Stephens Queene, and William de	ł
į.	and advance your Frowes to the neight,	Tpres, maintained his quarrell to the vttermost of their powers. (30) But	1
		(30) Dut

452	Stephen. THE SVCCESS	SION OF Monarch 42.	Book. 9.	Chap	p.5. Stephen ENGLANDS	MONARCHS, Monarch 42	1 4 62
Will, Malmef.	the Empresse and her Nobles defensed themselues	es of the Nobles to attend and guard the Empresse at Ox-	The warres re-	An.D.1	148. Times kent them feluce quiet in the akfores of the fel		453
Well, Malmer. Gerusf. Dorob.	in the Castle, not adventuring to goe forth amongst	ford till his returne, went into Normandie to folicite Geffrey her husband for her defence. But the Earle	newed.	Prince He returnech i	Competitors; all which gaue no little affurance vn-	Tents; euen neere his enemy; and ready on both fides to giue bartaile: the Winter fromes were
. 1	fo many their mortall enemies: and foone after, to worke his wrathfull will, knowing the Citizens to	hauing troubles with his owne Nobilitie, and the	ł	England.	to stepnens estate.	fuddenly fo troublesome, that nothing could bee	Heavy Haut.
1	bee more affected to the Empresse then to him, com-	Normans fearfly brought to any subjection, thought	1	An.D. r	1149 (41) But Henry Fitz-Empresse, grown now from	done; but thoic lome what ouer blowne, and the
Ice fires	manded the faid Citie to bee fet on fire, where in the	it not convenient by his owne ablence for a ftate in	1	Ger. Der.		Armies fearfe three furlongs afunder: as King Steel	!
Inchester. Alias The Co-	Monastery of Nunnes, aboue twentie Churches, the Co-	hope, to hazard that in hand; and therefore fent	l		(for it is faid hee was Bookifb) and to follow Mars; fo knowing his prefence would preferre much his	phen was bufied in disposing of his hoast and guing	1
ere at Hyde.	uent of S. Grimbald, and the better part of the Citie, were	with Robert fome strength of Armes, and with them	1		purposes (for men would bee loth to hazard all	direction for order of the battaile, his horse vnder	1
Malmerb.	consumed to albes.	his young fonne Prince Herrie into England.	1		for one, who himselfe would neglect all) hasted a-	him rifing with his fore-feet, fell flat vpon the earth,	Vnluckyprelag er.Dorob.	(36) Seuen weekes thus spent, in this coun-	(38) The Empresse in his absence, had well for-	The Emprese	. 366	gaine into England, with an Armie of valiant and	not without danger to his Rider; and thus did he	to K. Stephen, he Bilhop'of	ter-fiege of the Citie and Castle, the Bishoppe, to de-	tified herselfe in Oxford, whom Stephen (vling the	belieged in Or.		choice Souldiers; to whom joined the discontented	thrice ere he left; which thing his Nobles secretly muttering, interpreted for an valueky presage: when rappeth the mpreffe	ceiue the Empresse, commanded peace to bee pro-	benefit of Roberts absence) followed with an eagre	Geruaf.Dereb.		Earle of Chefter, Roger the fonne of Miles decea-	William Earle of Arundell,a bold and eloquent man	1
mprelie-	claimed, and the Gates to bee fet open towards eue-	pursuite, and wanne the Suburbs even vnto the Ci-			fed, with many more Knights and Gallants of the	went to him and aduited him to a peace; affirming	1
1	ning. The Empresse then, who had indured such	tic gates; then girt hee the Empresse with so straite a	1		English: hee therefore tooke into the North; and	the title of Duke Henry to be just; that the Nobili-	l
1	troubles and fo long a reftraint, greatlie defired to change her lodging, and to recreat her perplexed fpi-	fiege, (meaning neuer to give ouer, till hee had now made her fure in his possession) that for two mo-	l	Roger Houeden	met with Danid his cofen. King of Statland of whom	ty on both parts there prefent; were necrely linked	1
1	rits in some other place; so taking horse, accompani-	and and and and and an orange of the second	1	Ger, Dor.	hee was most honourably received, and solemnely	in Alliances & Bloud, and how these stood affected,	1
	ed with her brother, Reinold Earle of Cornewall, her	forme in affault or defente, was there put in practize,			facred with the Military honour of Knighthood:	was very doubtfull; yea, that Brethren were there	1
1	feruants, and many others her friends, besides Earle				and thence forward fought all occasions to prouoke	affembled, the one against the other, whereof must	ì
Malmfb,fib,z.	Robert, who followed behind with a troupe of No-	furrender: but shee, a woman (whose sexe bath often	Will. Heub.		both King Stephen, and his forme Enflace against him: and having seried some courses with certain Peeres	needs follow an vnnaturall warre betwirt them, & massing but the said	Bles and Knights ; presentle at the Bishoppes com-	deceived wife men) refolued once againe to oner-	Higden.		for the pursuit of his designes in England, hee retur-	of dangerous consequence; euen to him that con-
I	mandment, thee was purfued by his Souldiers, and	reach her foe by wit, whom thee could not by force :			ned into Normandato composo 8: See formand Com-	quested. With these and the like allegations at last
1	many of her traine wounded and taken prisoners;	whereto the time did fit her wishes; for being a win-		Prince Her	ned into Normandy to compose & set forward some other businesses, which might be availeable for these	Stephen beganne to bend, and a parley for peace was	1
i	the Empresse by good prouidence escaped into the	ter, sharpe abone measure, the River Thamists that	Walfingh + Youdig	zeturneth i Hormandy.	his ends.	fignified vnto the Duke. Henry already warme for the battaile, and his thoughts fixed on nothing leffe	A Parley berni
1	Caftle of Lutegare[hall, and thence to the Caftle Di-	runnes by the Citie walls, was then congealed with a		222		the peace, could hardly moderate his youthfull af-	Fitz Emerelle.
1	wize: where vnderstanding that shee was still in ha-	ftrong crusted Ice, and besides a great snow did then	Ger.Der.	An.D.1		fections; yer at his friends importunity, hee yeelded
1	zard to bee furprized, face was contented, (as what	continue, and had coucred the ground. Mand vp-	l	Math. Pari	both of Anion and Normandy; and the veere fol-	to conferre with King Stephen.	1
1	will not necessity endure, & a womans wit deuise?)	on these aduantages, put in practize a most dange-		3000	lowing, he marched in marriage with Eleanor Dut-	(45) The place for conference was fo appointed:	Com David
he Empresse arried as a dead	to bee laide in a coffine bound fast with cords ; and fo, as if it had beene her Corse, carried in a horse-	rous attempt: for cloathing herfelfe, and some choice of her company, in white linnen garments, to	Charles to	Heny Heat	the ches of Guien and Aguitane, lately dinorced from	that the river Thamesis parted the presence of these	Gers.Daroser,
Corfe.	litter to the Citie of Glosefter: in which bonds of her	deceive the eies of the Sentinells, iffued fecretlie by			Lodowicke King of France for confanguinity, and	two Princessio that from either banke they falured l
	owne distresse, shee had good occasion to remember	night out of a posterne-gate, and passing the frozen	Wil. Malmib.		adultery(faith Paris) after thee had borne him two	each others, and after a long conference, agreeing	1
podigm. Nenftr.	the chaines of King Stephens captinitie. To such ex-	River, ranne on foote, through ice, and fnow, ditches,	Smon Dan.	Prince Hen marieth Rie	daughters; Lodowicke fearing iffue-male by this	on a truce, and your faire tearmes of amiry depar-	A truce cone
1	tremities were these two Princes at the selfe same	and vallies, for fine miles, cuen to Abingdon, the fal-		marieth #4	laurer, marriage to the disheriting of his said daughters,	ted, commaunding all weapons and attempts of	Math. Paris.
1	time subject, that whiles they turmoiled for spacious	ling fnow still beating in their faces; and there taking		disorced by	greatly impugned Duke Henry; and Stephen suspe-	warre to be laid alide.
- 1	Kingdomes, brought themselues to the very extream	horse, the same night got to the Castle of Wallingford,			Cring his greatnes, now being Duke of Normandy, Aniou, Aquitane, and Guien, both of them fought each	(46) But Eustace, who hitherro had attended
1	wants, of aire, and of elbow-roome; but with fuch	to the great ioy, and also admiration, of all that were	Geru, Derob.	An,D. 1	way to impeach his peace: Lodowicke, with Prince	Fortune for the Crowne, and now hopeleffe to haue	Zufface K,Sta.
i	dalliance doth-Fortune (wee fee) oftentimes follow	therein.			Eustace, in the parts beyond seas, and Stephen in Eng-	as his Fathers Succeffor, was greatly displeased with	not the truce.
- 1	her game, that shee maketh even Monarchs the Balls	(39) In the meane while, Earle Robert, with	1		land, to make fure his fuccession, sought to inuest the
- 1	of her play, and toffeth them laftly into the Hamard,	Prince Henrie, were arrived in England at Warrhome	Prince Herris	The Archi	bithop faid Prince Enflace with the English Diademe; both	the field, purpoling to raile himselfe by his owne meanes; and comming to Bury, vrged the Monks	Iohn Texter,
1	whence hardly they escape with safetie of life. Yet	hauen, and prejentlie believed the Caffletham (Co.	attructo.	The Archio of Casterior fulcth to co	to preuent, and veterly deprive Henry Fitz-Em-	of Saint Edmunds for money, to let forward his hea-	,
1	this was not the worst; for Earle Robers her brother,			erate Esfaci	prese for euer : for calling a Counfell at London, King	dy delignes: But the wifer amongst them vnwil-	1
	whilest hee was busier in prouiding for her safetie, then	I dearing of the happie eleane of the Emprate come		King, Ger, I Derok	Stephen commaunded 7 heabald Archbilhop of Can-	ling to bee wagers of new warres (which though ill	1
Mainef. Ser. Det.	for his owne, was taken by his purfuers at Stoubreg	with young Henry vnto his mother, whose fight		An.D. 11		for all forts, yet proued euer worst to the Clergie	1
	with others; brought backe to Winchester, and	made her forget the griefe and forrowes that the had	An.D. 1143	Henry, Hunt	which heerefuled to doe, and that by commande-	mens poficisions) denied his request; wherewith	1
- 1	there prefented by the Bishop vnto Queene Mand, King Stephens wife, who committed him to the cu-	long indured. Then was oxford vpon conditions		A Table	ment from the Pope (whose holy See can deale on	enraged, hee commanded his men to carry their	Polychr, ftodie of William Tpres, and he for more fafety to Glo-	yeelded to the King; and Wilton fired by the bastard		Gernafine	both fides, as makes most for their advantage) alled-	corne and other prouition into his owne Caftle, arle Robers	seffer; but others taking fanctuarie in the Nuns Mo-	Earle Robert: The Towre of London, with the Ca-	An.D.1145		ging now, that his Father was an viurper, and per-		1
	naftery of Warnell were burned together with the	ftles of Walden, Pleifes, and Lincolne, yeelded to Ste- phen; the Caftles of Warham, and Portland, yeelded	Math. Paris.		jured Intruder: whereupon the honest Archbishop	fituated hard by. But being fet at dinner, wer reade of him (faith mine Author) that even the verie fuff bit that heeput in his mouth, drawe him into a frensie, whereof thors after hee died; whose body was interred at	Ger.Derak.
Malme liba	place: Thus then the King on the one fide, and the	to Robert: The Earles of Chefter, and Effex, surprized	1		fled into Normandy, and the King feized upon al his	that heeput in his mouth, draue him into a frensie,	Prince Enflate
1	Earle on the other, were kept in fafe custodie ; but	by the King ; William Martell the great fauourite,	1		possessions. It may seeme, that one cause of the the Queene labouring for the Kings release, and the	taken and imprilented by the Farle Three Gundain	Andres	Jdem?	Popes inclining to yong Henries title, was to streeth- en him against his enemy King Lewis of France, who	Feuer/ham in Kent. (47) The death of Prince Enflace to much advan-	1
1	Counteffe for the Earles, many Articles were pro-		211127.1140.		had highly offended his Holines, for easting the Popes	taged Duke Henry, that thereupon (the truce in	1
- 1	pounded, and many meffengers imploied: at length,				Bulles (whereby hee required the fruits of Vacancies	likelihood expiring) many fell off vnto him, and ma-
1	this was thought fitteft, that Stephen should bee re-	I the great ruine of the whole land . the Empre To a	The Empresse and the Prince	K,Lewer cal	illistic wealt Cashadrall Churchas in Eugusa) dus als Con	ny Caftles were deliuered, as Bertwell, Rending,	1
	stored to his kingdome, and Robert under him to	uch wearled with thole warres and vncertaineries of	raturane to Non-	Popes Bulsi	Saying, hee had rather the Popes Bulles (bould roft in the	Warwicke, Stamford, and others; whereat Stephen
1	haue the whole gouernment of the Land; fo that				fire, then his owne foule flould free in hell.	was not a little displeased, and thinking to entrappe	1
	both of them should now jointly vphold that, which	I vinger the protection of her husband in peace at an	An.D. I 147.		fire, then his owne foule should free in hell. (43) King Stephen thus defeated of his purpose,	the yong venturous Duke, with a ftrong Army fol-	Į.
	they (the two Ring-leaders) by opposition had cast		Ger. Derober.	· ·	and feeing his Title questioned by the Church, who	lowed him vnto Wallingford: But God himfelfe looking	Polydor.
1	downe. But Earle Robert as he was no whit detected in mind, with any frowne of Fortune what focuer, fo	the lame end the had not long before four her young	GU. Deroser.		had before approued it, resoluted to make it good by	down from heaven (faith Mathem of S. Alhane) made	Malb. Parle.
- 1	referred hee his fidelity to the Empresse vnstained,		ĺ		the fword: for winning the Castle of * Muby, for-	there an end of those long calamities, by stirring the minds
-	and vnmoued either with feare or faire inticements,	rather heire of a Dukedome with fafetie, then of a Crowne with daylie hazard.		*Fortě Nes	embers, tified Malmesbury, and laid a ftrait fiege vnto Wal-	there an end of those long calamities, by stirring the minds of shiese men in the land to labour for peace: Ruch was
Vill,Malmaf.	ftill refusing to capitulate for his freedome, but to				lingford; against which, hee erected the Castle Cran-	Theobald Archbilhoppe of Canterbury, and Henrie	et. 11
	his Sifters liking; who likewife bare fo braue a minde.	Earle of Cheffen had not a treil iurprizal of Randall	Kings durft not	An.D.r	153. merfe, to stoppe the passages of their reliefe, or com-	Bishop of Winchester, who having troubled the realm	The King and Fitz-Emprelle that were her state neuer so weake, she'e would not	(40) Stephen, that by a fresh surprizal of Randall Earle of Chester had got Lincolne, and entring there- into (which no King before him durit does for the	before King	Henry Fitz	rz-Em ming forth. But Hemy after hee had calmed the	with fireand fword, moued now to repentance,	Pitz Empreffe accorded.
- 1	confent nor giue the least eare to any composition	into (which no King before him durft doe, for that certaine wizards had prophefied enilluck vnto fuch)	otelnen.	preficome gaine into l 4md.	boilterous fromes of warre, in the parts beyond	wrought to effectually with his brother, that hee en-
- 1	for the Crowne.		Gerusfini	gaine into I	the feas, came ouer into England well appointed,	clined vnto a wished peace, contented to adopt the
Pl. Melmis.	(37) Then was enmitte increased, the Kingdome	mis nead, and after the Empresses departure could			vnto whom also resorted many of the Nobility, who yeelded up themselues, and about thirty strong Ca-	Duke for his Son and Succeffor; and so comming both together to Oxford(a bleffed fight to so diffred
An.D. 1142.	divided, and the peoples hatred kindled in maine-				yeeded up themiciaes, and about thirty irrong Ca-	fed and diftracted a Kingdome;) there did all the	Gernafin,
The King and Barle Robert re-	taining the factions, all fore-running the ruine of the	Fillice Exitace his lonne : by which two comple	ł		files to the young Duke; now well furnished, hasted to raise the siege of Wallingford, and there	Nobles do fealty to him, as to the vindoubted Heire
learne Caches	Land : For these two Chieftaines wearied with irk-		1		vndertooke a great enterprice; for hee incircled	of the land; and the Duke to acknowledge this as a	1
ther out of	fomnes of irons, and hard imprisonment, made ex-	land the rather, torthat the most faithfull millions	1		the Besiegers with a great and deepe Trench, where-	fauour, yeelded him the honour of a Father, and the	1 prison. Roger Houeden.	change the one for the other, without any farther		Earle Rebert and		by hee kept them from reliefe, as they did keepe the	rotaltic of all Kingly power during his life.
	mention of peace, and fo studied not onely to renew	Mile of Hereford the two great and glorious pillars,	Earle Stale die,		Besteged.	(48) Norwithflanding, the cleere Sunneshine of	'
	their former defignes, but to encrease the lands mi-				(44) Seephen following halfily to faccour his men.	shele faire daige was Computed darkened with a	An.D.IIC
Meth. Perit.	ferie by more eagre warres. Stephen in England			Ger.Dereb	(though with the leffe edge, for that hee neuer fped	cloud of treacherie, and lewd attempts of the Fle-	Prince Henry is Mainesb.	wrought the people for him, & Robers " taking pledg-	the rest of the Nobles, applying themselues to the		King Steph Fitz-Emp		cloud of treacherie, and lewd attempts of the Fla- mings; who enuying Englands peace, upon Barham	chery,
		Times,		Ent-Ent	Last any all and all and any and any and any	Downs	1 -7

Downes, intended to surprise Prince Henry in his re-turne from Doser, and presence of King Stephen. In this conforacie was William the Kings fon though but yong, who himselfe meaning to have one cast at the Crowne, instantly before it should have been effected, was through the wantonnes of his horse cast to the ground, and with the fall brake his legge; to whose assistance, whiles every one gathered and lamented, Henry vpon secret notice of the treason hasted vnto Canterbury, and thence to London, and foone after ouer the leas into Normandy.

(49) And Stephen now after he had raigned eigh-

Prince Henry go

teene yeeres, ten moneths, and odde daies, departed this life at Doner, in the Monastery of the Monkes of an Ileacke palsion, mixed with his olde discase the Parif. Booke of S. Al-Emrads, the twenty five of October, and yeere of Chrifts Natiuity, 1 1 5 4. A most worthy Souldier, faith Paris : and (in a word) one who wanted nothing but a just title to have made him an excellent King; in his ordinary deportment very deuout; the fruites wherof were shewed in erecking with sufficient endowments, the Abbeyes of Cogshall in Essex, of Furnesse in Laucashire, the houses of Nunnes at Carew, and Higham, an Hospitall at Forke, and the Monaftery of Feuersham in Kent, where his Queene, Ishn Sino. his sonne, and lastly, himselfe were enterred: but fince, his body for the gaine of the lead, wherein it was coffined, was call into the river. So vucerthe dead, the quiet of their graves.

Ger. Dec.

bodies be alfo (who for filthy lucre) thus enuie to taine is man(yea greatest Princes) of any rest in this world, euen after buriall; and reftleffe may their

His wife. (50) Maud, the Wife of King Stephen, was the daughter of Eustate Earle of Bulloigne, the brother of Godfrey, and Baldwin Kings of Ierusalem: het Mother was Mary, fifter to Mand Queene of England, wife of King Henrie, her husbands Predeces for. Shee was crowned at Westminster vpon Sunday, being Easter-day, and the two and twenty of March, in the first yeare of her husbands raigne, and of Grace, 1136. and being Queene fifteene yeeres, the died at Heningham Castle in Essex, the third of May, and yeere of Christ, 125 Land was buried in his Monastery at Feuersbam in Kent.

His Isho.

(51) Baldwin, the eldeft fonne of King Stephen and Queene Mand (bearing the name of King Baldwin h is vn.cle) was born in the time of the raign of K. Henry his fathers vncle; and died in his infancy. during the raign of the same King. He was buried at London in the Church of the Priorie of the Trinity within Algate, which was a house of blacke * Canone of the Augustinian order founded by Q. Mand. the first wife of the foresaid King Henry the first,

(52) Eustace the second sonne of King Stephen, & of Queene Mand his wife, being the heire apparant to them both; when his Father was King, was created Earle of Bolloigne, which dignity was the inheritance of his mother. Hee married Constance fifter of Lewis the fewenth King of France, daughter of King Lewisthe Groffe: who afterward was remar-ried to Raimond the third, Earle of Tholouze: for Euflace died before her without Iffue by her the tenth day of August, in the eighteenth yeere of his Fathers raigne, and of Grace, 1152. Hee was buried by his mother in his Fathers Monastery at Feuersbam in

(53) William the third and yongeft sonne of King Stephen and Queene Mand, maried Ifabell daughter and heire of William Warren, the third Earle of Surrey, with whom hee had that Earledome, hee was in his Fathers life time Earle of Surrey, Lord of Norwich and Peuensey in England, Earle of Mortayne, and Lord Eagle of Normandy. After his fathers death, King Henry the second made him Knight, refumed those things that hee held of the Crowne, restored him to all that his Father held before hee was King. And so he was Earle of Bolloigne, Surrey; and Mortaine, and being with him in his journey to Tholouze, died without iffue, in his returne home-Ward, in the Moneth of October, the feuenth of King Henries raigne, and of Christ Iesus, 1160.

(54) Mand, the eldeft daughter of King Stephen and Queene Maud, was borne before her father was King, in the raign of King Henrie the first, her vncle; in whose time also she deceased, beeing but yongue, (though some report shee was wife to the Earle of Millen) and was enterred at London, with her brother Baldwm, in the Priorie of the Trinity aforelaid, then commonly called Christs-Church, and now lates lie named the Dukes Plate within algate.

(55) Marie, the yonger daughter of King Ste-phen and Queene Maude, was a Nun, and Abbesse of the Nunnericat Rumfey in Hampfhire; notwithstanding, when her brother William; Earle of Bolloigne, was deceased without issue, shee was secretly taken from thence, and married to Matthew the yonger fonne of Terry of Alfae, and brother of Philip Earle of Flanders, who in her right was Earle of Bolloigne Shee was his wife ten yeeres, and was then divorced from him, by the fentence of the Pope, and enforced to returne to her Monastery, having had iffue by him two daughters, which were Ide and Maude, allowed by the censure of the Church to be legitimate. Lady Ide, the elder, was maried to Raymond of Damp-Mar tine, in her right Earle of Belloigne ; and Maude, the yonger, to Henrie Duke of Lorraine.

His Naturall I flue.
(56) William, the Naturall fonne of King Stephen. is miltaken of some to bee the same William, that was Earle of Bolloigne. Others, who know that William Earle of Bolloigne was lawfully borne, do thinke that his father had no other fon named Williams but him wherein let William Earle of Bolloigne, the lawfull fon of King Stephen, be himselfe a lawfull wirnesse of the truth, who having best cause to know it, doth best producit, ; and in an ancient Charter of his, beeing written in those daies, and extant in these, doth name him for a witnesse, and calleth him his Brother.

(57) Germais, another Naturall fonne of King Stephen, begotten on a gentle-woman named Dame ta, and borne in Normandy, was brought into England by his father, the fifth yeere of his Raigne, Anno Dy this statict, the first yeere of his range, enmo Dom. 1140. Hee was the same yeere, by his fathers meanes, made Abbato & Wefiminfter, and so continued for the space of twenty yeeres; hee deceased there the twentie six of Angast. in the six yeere of the raigne of King Henrie the second, the yeere of Grace 1 160, and lieth buried in the South part of the cloifter, within the faid Monasterie, vnder a flat stone of black marble, which is remaining there vntil this day,

HENRIE

THE SVCCESSION OF Monarch 43. Henrie II. Chap.6.

HENRIE THE SECOND DVKE OF NORMANDY, GVYEN AND AQVI-TAINE, THE FORTIE THIRD MONARCH

OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS RAIGNE, ACTS AND ISSVE.

Ad A. D.1135

Enry of that name the fecond, by the double interest of descent and adoption (as you have heard) fucceeded in the Kingdome of England whose Pedegree, (which Mathew Paris extendeth by the mothers fide, in a right line vp to 2(oah) and former fortunes, having already been touched; his counsels, acts, and other affaires of greatest importance, after the death of King Stephen come now to be handled.

(2) Hee came not to the Crown vnexpected, nor vndelired; for the opinion of the man, and hope conceived of his future government, had the force to hold England in good obedience without the presence of a King, about fixe weekes, whose entrance like that of the Soule into the Body, did quicken, and enspirite the Realme, as then (in the person of Eneland) this clozing verse, or Epiphoneme

Spiritus es, caro sum: te nunc intrante reuixi. Thou , Soule; I Body am : by thee to life I came.

Neither did his prefence diminish the expectations raised, but was faluted King with general acclamations, and with no less in a Weshimsler by Theo-bald Archbishop of Contentury, amonited and crowned: the summe of whose first courses for setting lis acceffe and padige Neufly his State was this,

(3) Sundry Castles (nests of Rebels) hec flatteth to the earth, some others hee fortifies or resumes at his pleasure; chiefly such estates, as had beene alienated from the Crowne, as the hire and vniust re-ward of those who withstood his claime. Others write, that hee promifcuoufly tooke all fuch lands into his owne possession, as were by Jurors found ypon oath to have belonged at any time vnto the Crowne. Some Earles vnduly created he reduceth to prinate condition, and purgeth the Realme from

Lib. Monell.S.

His first actions

455

Monarch 43

Math. Paris

* Powel in hift.

Bridge-Warth, is called Bruge, which cauled

it was a Welth

Roger Hessel. Assal 3.3.

Math. Perin

Pulja. Virg. in most infested him. And because Government is the Soule of State and Wifedome the Soule of Gouernment, he chooseth to himselfe a Body of Counsell out of the most eminent persons of both forts: fuch was Theobald Archbishop of Canterbu-ry; and for that selfe consideration, he laid the Chancellorship of England vpon Thomas Becket, and held Roger Houseden in speciall fauour Iohn of Oxenford, with fundry o ther Prelates of chiefest note: of the Laity, he had Robert Earle of Lescester, chiefe Iustician of Eng-land, Richard de Luci, locelin de Bailull, Alan de Neuile and others: but for a Cabanet-Counfellour at all times, he had his owne mother , Matildis the Empresse, one of the most sage and experienced Ladies of the World. Thus then furnished, and Math. Paris, ad A.D A155.

forraine Souldiers; chiefly from the Flemings, whose mercenary fwarmes most pestred the same, and had affembling a Counfell at Wallingford, hee aswell for his owne fecuring, as for the affurance of his Children, sweares the Realme to the succession of Ger.Dorek. his sonnes William and Henry, the one being in remainder to the other. (4) But quiet confultation did not take vp the most of his time, eucn in the daies of these Sun-shining beginnings: for the raign of Stephen, a most gentle Prince (who thought, out of the necessity of his owneestate, that it was not safe for him to bee se uere) hauing giuen way for many of the mighty, to maintaine fundrie infolencies; these now feeling a restraint, beganne not a little to repine : but Hugh de Mortimer, wanton with greatnes, and the most arrogant man aliue, stuft his Castles of Glocester, Wigmore, and Bridgenorth with rebellious Garrisons; which Henry notwithstanding reduced to subjecti-Comb., 253. miltakes a single on, though in the fiege of the last-named, nor withflex out imminent perill of his person, had not Hubert de S. Clare, cast himselfe betweene death and the King, taking the arrow into his owne bosome to preserve his Soueraignes life. It bound Tiberius to Seianus most of all, when a part of the banque ting Caue in which they were, fuddenly falling . the Emperour, with the perill of his life: but Seianus survived that adventure, which our Senslere did not, saue onely in the better renowne thereof, which describes to bee immortall, being an Act of piety, worthy of a Statue, with Codrus, Curtius, Manlius, or whofoeuer elfe haue willingly facrificed themselues for their Country, or for the Father of their Country, the King.

(5) Henrie thus hauing in some fort settled England, hasheth into Frange to King Lewis in the first yeere of his raigne, and there did homage vato him for Normandy, Aquitane, Angien, Main and Tourain, which partly were his patrimony, and partly the inheritance of Elianar his wife.

(6) His domesticke enemies being subdued or appeafed, hee put his brother Geffrey by force to a penfion, the lumme whereof (if it be any thing to the purpose to know) was 1000.1. English, and 2000.1. Anion by yeere, wringing out of his possess. fion all fuch territories, as by their Fathers last Will and Tefament, were bequeathed to him in France.
But Geffre did not long enior the faid annuiry, or his brothers friendship: for in the third yeare, death brought a discharge, and Henry was disbur-dened of those paiments. For his violence in ta-king away those lands, King Henry might alledge he was eldest brother: but that allegation might bee auoided with his owne consent, which once hee gaue: but the great Elixar, called Reason of State, (though failly so called, vnlesse it bee seasoned with lustice, and Religion) hath so transmutatine a faculty, as to make Copper seeme Gold, right wrong, and wrong right; yea, when all Pleas faile, it will fland for good, while there are forces to sup-

(7) This accord between the two brethren, being thus (howfocuer) established, the King repaires into

England, and at Chefter enters amity with Malcolme King of seets, on such termes, as his Grandfather had done, yet Saluis somnibus dignitatibus fuis, pargoli, nad done, yet a sum emmuse algulations just, persoit, famp to bimifelfe all bie dignities: and the faid Malcolme reflored to Henry the City of Karled, New John Colme reflored to Henry the City of Karled, New John College whom 77mis, 8cc and Henry reflored to him Helder Sension. the Earledome of Huntington in England. And, fo lib. 13. C.1. faith inftly dreadfull did the growing puissance of this young Monarch appeare to his greatest enemies, that Hugh Bigod Earle of Norfolke, who had potent means to doe milchiefe, rendred his Cafile to bee at his disposall.

(8) The Welfb notwithstanding for looke not themselues, but did some memorable matters under conduct of the valiant Prince Owen against the English, in defence of North-Wales, and their Countries liberty, to the loffc of the Englift, and Hift of Camb. extreame danger of the Kings owne person, whose Standard roiall was cowardly abandoned, and the King reported to be flaine: for which Henrie de Effex, the Kings Standard-Bearer at that conflict. was afterward accused by Robert de Montford his neere Kinsman , and in single battaile within lifts was vanquished at Reading, where the said Henry de Effex was shorne a Monke, and died. Mathem Pasi relates the whole voiage of King Henry fummarily thus: That Henry prepared a very great As-my against the Welfs, with full purpose to our com them both by land and fea; that hee cut vp the woods and forrests, and laid open a way; that hee recoursed the Castle of Ruthlan and other fortresles taken from his Ancestors; that hee repaired the Castle of Bastingwerke, and that having brought the Welfb to his will, hee returned with triumph into England.

(9) After this, himselfe and his wife Queene Eliener beeing openly crowned vpon Christmas day, (* some say Easter day) at the Citic of Worcester; they both at the offertorie laid their Diademes vpon the high Altar, vowing neuer to weare them after ; Reg. Honed. this beeing now the third time in which at three feuerall places, Westminster, Lincolne, and Worcester, he had beene crowned. This deuout act of his, did flow perhaps out of some such speculation as that of Canutus, who thought none truly worthy the name of King, but God alone, or that, vpon which Godfrey of Buillion, refused to weare a crowne of gold in Hierusalem, where our Lord and Saniour had beene crowned with thornes. For this King had at times the pangs and symptoms of mortification and piety, and did heerein acknowledge the onely giver and taker-away of kingdoms God-almighty; purting himfelfe and Realme, vnder the protection of that Maiestie of whom hee held paramount; and professing (as it were) that from thencefoorth hee would direct his actions to the glorie of his omnipotent Ma-fier, which is indeede the only finall cause of all true monarchie. (10) Not long after, having established his affaires in England, hee croft the Seas into Normandie: where successively sundrie matters of importance An.D.1158. fell out : as the feisure of the City of Nants in Bri- ad A.D. 1163. tame after his brother Geffreis death; his iourney to Paris, beeing inuited thither by Lewis and his wife the Queene; the vnprofitable flege of Thelenze laid by King Henrie, where Malcolme King of Scots was in companie with him; the varipe marriage of his sonne Henrieto Margaret the French Kingsdaugh-ter, whom Thomas Beeket then Lord Chancellor had formerlie conducted with verie great State from Paris, by consent of parents for that purpose; the offence taken at those spousals by Lewin, for that the children were but infants, and that himselfe was a loofer thereby; the warre heereupon attempted by Lewis, fortifying Chammount, which (the French ha-ning quit the Field by flight) King Henrie recourred with advantage; the Armies of both these great Kings, being afterward at point (as it were) to ioine, dispersed vpon reconciliation of the two Kings, by

Math. Paris.

debate betwixe

Regiam. Geru Darab.

The great con-

Nabrigenfis,l 1.

Chren, de Paliis

reason of a marriage concluded vpon, betweene Ri-chard, King Henries second son, and Alice the French Kings daughter: All which and fome other, not drawing with them any extraordinaric fequell, nor offording much matter for civill document, must not preponderate the handling of things more rare and confiderable. An.D.1163.

Chap.6. Henrie IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHES. Monarch 43.

(11) For after these accidents, beganne the famous controuerlies betweene the King and his Arch-bishop Becket, a man of an inuincible stomack theKing and Breket Archbish, and refolution in his life, and after death reputed by fome for a great Saint or Martyr; as is likewife noted of Henrie, * that he was the most politike, mar-Mat. Paris de aly.

Legend.aur.in

vita The,

*Polydor.l. 13.

but M.Fox denies it.

* Gal.wigernieß.

Gib ha ware tiall, rich, and honoured Prince of all his time, This Prelate by birth a Londoner, (though his mother, a Sarazen, 'lay some) by profession a * Ciuilian, was by Theobald Arch-bishop of Canterburie, both made his Arch-deacon, and also placed about the person of Duke Henrie, who beeing now King, aduanced him in the verie first yeere of his raigne to bee Lord Chancellor of England, in which high honor he carried himselfe like another King, and afterward vpon the death of Theebald, though the * Monks objected against Becket, that neither a Courtier nor a Souldier (as hee had beene both) were fit to succeede in so high and facred a function, yet the King gave him that Arch-bip 264. "Nubrig,l 2,c, 16. Housday (hopricke, partly in reward, and partly in further hope of his ready and faithfull service. Which to be true a Levender of his Miracles can best relate. Nonnullis a Legendro Chis Miracles can bell relate. Normalia them 0.5°. May (in the chi jaded his promissions and Canonicall, because it was presented more by the importu-ming of the King, sheen for no tower of Contra, or People, and it was noted as prefemition and indifferenties in him, to take upon him of guide the Stern, who was face the in-bandle no ture, and that beeing hid analysis worlds of-faces, he did not remobile to allowed to the faceting of figures digitals. We recover the control to consideration of the control of the control to considerate the control to the control to control the control of the control to the control to the control to the control of the control of Th. MS, Fox.p. thors onely wee will heerein follow, as shall bee vnpartiall) * one of which testifies, that the Pope about that time calling a Councell at Tours (and the King c.16. Math. Par ad An.1163.permifii-ene,Regia,&c charteme caning a Counceriar Town? (and the Aning giating Licence to his Arch-bilpops and Bilpops to got th-ther) Becket feerettle [urreadred his Arch-bilpoprick, which hee had received from the Kings hand, into the Popes hands. The other faith, Becket himselfe con-* Nubrig. per spe-ram,manäque fessed, that, not Canonicall Election did sall him, but publick power drove him in , nor the will of God, but mans pleasure, placed himin the roome. Howsoener, these beeing memorable arguments of the Kings exceeding loue; let vs now fee how this great Prelate en denoured to deserue it, or how hee chanced to lose (12) Great and flourishing was the state of the quiet of both which, the King studied & hoped to e-stablish by the yndoubted affistance of his greatfauo rite Beeket, whose cousel & authority he knew might much further his princely deligns, especially touching affaires of the Church, and abuses of Church men, which then were grown to a dangerous height: wherof let vs heare the Monke of Nuborough speake; It was declared in the Kings prefence, how that Clergy me had comitted aboue a hundred murthers under his raign wherewith the King highly offended, hee was in pumshing of them somewhat too vehement; but the blame of the Kings too much earnefines, muft lie on the Prelates, in as much as they gave the caufe thereof: for, whereas facred Canons ordaine, that Clerks found guilty, not onely of hai-Cannes ordaine, that Clerk; jound guilty, not sovely of this nous and prisonal times, but all of selfer, thould bee de-graded, and thou land of fisch wave in the Church of Euro-land, the insumerable cluffer among a lattle good Euro-ylet very from facts for facts, where the beene depri-ded. I be Frederick for facts, while they buffer them-flacts, when to only the control of the cluster of the clus-tures to children and easy of their views, which is they due Coaland his Church good service, in protecting from publike Discipline such hainous offenders, whom (by duty of their places) they ought to correct according to the Canons cen fure, whereby they through their impunity, having liberty to doe what they left, have neither feare of God, (whole iudgement they thinke u farre off) neither of men in au-thority, fith on the one fide their Prelates neglect to re-forme them, and on the other fide, they are thus exempt by their order from the temporall Jurifdiction. Realme, wherein some were so miured without remedy, and others fo injurious without coertion, as if neither fort were in condition of Subjects; the King (who was a man of excellent Wifedome, Conflancy, and Zcale) tooke especiall care of quickning the 1.2491 publike Discipline, and the rigour of ancient lawes, which thus lay neglected; for which and hee had setled choise Ministers of Instice through all parts of his land; and open complaints brought him by his Subsects of the remissiones, and other defects of his Indges, hee accordingy by his prince y read ence applied render, and cha-flifed the delinquents. The like remissences consumers the it no harder) was complained of in his Spiritual M. Fra. Judges, occasioned by a murther, committed by a Prieft of Sarum Diocesse, whom the Archbishoppe commanded to be deprited, & put into an Abbey whereby he was freed from sharper punishment intended by the Kings Iusticiaries: with which (and fome other like affronts of his Archbilhop) the King conceined no little displeasure, as requiring, that Iu-slice (bould be ministred to all alike without partiality, & feeing this apparantly to tend vnto the ruine of all roial gouernment: the Archbishop on the oan roungouernment: the Arctionance on the o-ther fide, thou on leftle peremptory on the immunities of his clergy and See: yealo farre, as that hee chal-lengedfrom the Crown(toothe Kings great orfence) the cuffedy of Rachefter Cafile and other Forts, which the King for securing his state had resumed into his

Englifb Church & Comon-wealth at this season; the

(14) This maine controuersie betwixt Regnun Sacerdotium, the Crowne and the Mitre , Houeden (who then also lived) thus summarily delivers : The King would that all such of the Clergy as were deprehended in any Robberie, Murther, Felonie, burning of hon-(es, and the like, should bee tried and adjudged in his temporall Courts, as Lay-men were: against which the Archbishops resolution was, that all Clergy men so offen-ding should be tried onely in the Spiritual Courts, and ding should bestried only in the Spiritual Courts, and by men of their more cast, who is they were countif, should at full be onely deprined of their office and homeface; but if they should again be gaulty of this, they should not be admiged at the Kings pleasare. The King sinding himselite to be chereby but a Domi-King, deprinced coll Sourenignery outer one half-cleake of his Kingdome, and perceiuing Beckets ftiffenesse, in thus contesting with his Soueraigne, to bee no way mollifiable by whatfoeuer his old fauours, or fresh per fwafions; notwithflanding refolued to put nothing in execution, which should not first bee ratified and frengthned with confent of his Bishops; of whose rea-dy affent to so init demands hee had no cause to doubt: who thereupon affembling at Westminster the King tooke both offence there, at the Archbithops thwarting his defires, and occasion also to establish fundry other Articles, which hee called his Grandfathers Cultomes, peremptorily vrging Bee-ket to yeel d thereunto, without any fuch referencion of fauing in all things his order, and right of the Church, wherewith he would have limited his affent. (15) The points in those Ordinances which the Archiftop principally flucke at, as * himleffe did fet them downe in his letters to the Pope, and his owne Suffragan Biftops within the Diocesse of the vitto-Canterbury, were principally these; I. That none should appeale to the See of Rome for any cause whatfocuer, without the Kings licence. 2. That is should not be lawful for any Archbishop or Bishop to depart the Realme, and repaire to the Pope you no Bishop should excomunicate any one whomsoeper holding of the King in chiefe, or put any other of his officers under Interdict, without the Kings licence. 4. That Clerks criminous should bee tri-

the Prelates themselues by joint consent adjudged him of Periury, and by the mouth of the Bishop of Chichester, disclaimed thenceforward all obedience greenously sinned in making that absolute promise,

(21) At which, the King was fo vehemently flirred and inflamed, that he threatned banishment and

and that he would not finne therein any more.

(bap. 6.	Henriel J. ENGLANDS	MON
1	vnto him, as their Archbishop. The next day, whiles	therec
Nubrig. Honeden.	the Bilhops and Peeres were confulting of fome	fhould Dersberntufts	further course with him; Beekel, not as yet daun- ted, caused to be sung before him at the Altar: The	dict in
	Princes fit and speake against me, and the ungodly perse-	terbury
	cure me, &c. And forthwith taking his filter Cro-	filcate Derobornenfis.	fier in his owne hands, (a thing frange and unheard of	fuppo before) enters armed therewith into the Kings pre- fence, though earneftly diffwaded by all that wished	ket at I fenten
	him well: wherewith the King enraged commanded	and no
	his Peeres to lit injudgement on him, as on a Trai-	ris feen
	tor and reriured perion; and accordingly they ad-	banish
Heueden.	iudged him to be apprehended, and cast into prison. The Earles of Cornewall and Leicester (who sate as	Archb Gerusfins	Iudges) citing him forthwith to heare his fentence	and for pronounced; hee immediately appealed to the See	bishop of Rome, as holding them no Iudges competent: wher-	(27)
	upon all reuiling him with the name of Traitor, and	conten
	the like; he replying, That were it not for his function he would enter the Duell or Combate with them in the	fticall o
Geruef.Dorob.	field, to acquit himselfe both of Treason and Perinty, sped	as obe
Mat. Parit.	from the Court, and from thence without delay in-	l lawes.
An.D.1164.	to Flaunders difaniling himfelfounder the name of	ties by Decement. (24) The King on the other fide, to leave nothing vndone, whereby to atchieue his defire, forth-	I locelin thing vndone, whereby to atchieue his delire, forth-	fently a
Another Embal. lage from the King to the Pope	with dispatched away Gilbert, Bilhop of London, &	tice th
King to the Pope	William, Earle of Arundel, to the French King, that	against beewould not harbour nor cherift one that was fled as a Traitor; but prevailed not: for hee, vpon	bee aga
Rog. Hourd. Gerusfus.	fledas a Traitor; but prevailed not: for hee, vpon the contrary dealt with the Pope, That as he loved the Roman Church and the aid of France, so he would sup-	preten
Gelacimo	port the cause of Thomas against the King: which whe-	tle. 7
	ther hee did it out of Faction, rather then Denoti-	*writa
200	on, let others judge: for as wee may easily thinke	ket) pr that the French would gladly incommodate the king	tere, the of England: so this is not to bee denied, that Lewis was * often afterward a Mediatour for peace, and	King a
Mat. Paris, F. Rog Houseld alg.	vndoubtedly held the man himfelfe in great cftima-	Pope h
tog.marino aly.	rion borh aline and dead.	bate th
	(25) The Archbishoppe growing thus in fauour	ขล(เยง)
The King lends:	with the Pope, King Henry lends an Ambassage vn- to him of many great Personages, as Roger Archbi-	(28
The King lends, Embaliadors to	to him of many great Perionages, as Roger Archbi-	mas, he
Rome against Becket.	thop of Yorke, the BB. of London, Winchefter, Chiche- fter, John of Ovenford William Fayle of Ayundell &c.	there v
Gerus Ган,	ster, John of Oxenford, William Earle of Arundell, &c. whose whole emploiment being precevel pretio, by	ling the
Housien,	requetts and gratifications to procure diferace unto	the kin 1148145.01	Becket, their finall fuit was, That the Pope would fend two Cardinals into England, fully to end the matter; but the Pope denied it, as holding it derogatory to his owneabfolutenes, faying (like Gods Vice-gerent at	nour,an two Cardmais into England, fully to end the matter; but	and his owneabfolutenes faving like God Wice from the	his fries
	ically I has a my owne cloric, which I will not rive to	medo
* Ifay chap 42. ver 8. I am the	any other; but when he is to beeindged, I will indge	ricke, he and
Lord this is my	any other, but when he is to beeindged, I will indge him my felfe: For he knew the King of England was	he anf
Name, and my elo- rie will I not give	mighty both in speech and meanes, and that Legates might	with th
to anyother, &c. Howeden,	easily be corrupted, as being men, more thirsty after gold and silver, then after instice and equity: and the Pope	not ren
	and Cardinals wifely resolved (aith the Monke of Can-	his hone
Ger. Dorober.	terbury) that as if this Archbillop were now upheld in his	the rea cause it would be a patterne for others in like case to resist	them.
	Kings; fo, if he should finke, no Bishoppes euer after would	(29)
	dare oppose themselves to their Soveraignes pleasure, and so the State of the Catholike Church would be shaken, and	ming a
	the Popes authority be crushed.	ftill ma
	(26) The King having received this foile, and	Monk
The incensed Kings proceed-	imparient of repulse, where his owne subject was a	now f
Kings proceed- ings.	party, thought the indignity offered by the Pope vnfufferable, and to let him understand how hee	thruft
	vilufferable, and to let him understand how hee	difmiff
	tooke it, directs his Writs vnto the Sheriffes in	to Sen
	England, commanding them to attach such as did ap- pealeto the Roman Court: the fathers, mothers, brothers,	remair
Math. Paris, ad	Gillere menhames and neices of all fuch of the Cleron as	a + gre
Math. Paris, ad Ann, 1164.
Anto Paris, ad Ann, 1164.	fifters, nephewes, and neices, of all fuch of the Clergy, as were with the Archbifhop, and to put them under fure-	Earle o
Math. Paris. ad Ann. 1164.	were with the Archbishop; and to put them under sure- ties, as also to sessether euenewes, goods, and chattels, of	Earle o
Asib. Paris, ad Ann., 1164.	ties, as also to serse the renenewes, goods, and chattels, of the said Cleroie-men. Again, by other his letters to	faid C
And, 1164.	ties, as also to fesse the reuenewes, goods, and chattels, of the said Clergie-men. Again, by other his letters to Gilbert Bishop of London, he sequestred the profits	faid C the Per
Ante, Paru, ad Ann, 1164.	ties, as also to serse the renenewes, goods, and chattels, of the said Cleroie-men. Again, by other his letters to	faid C the Per the two ARCHES. Monarch 42 459 of. Laftly, to his Iuflices he fignified, that they fafe-keepe who focuer did bring any internto England till the Kings pleasure were fur-, and all the Archbishops goods to bee cond, grounding himfelfe (as may probably bee (ed) vpon the judgement given against Bee-North-hampton, notwithstanding that the saide ice was expresly nullified by the Popes*Bul, ot onely by word of mouth, as + Atathew Panes to mistake it. Neither was this all, for hee mes to mittake it. Neutret was this anjourned or the reduced of the reduced of the false said and fucking babes; Lassich.

Math. Parif.

Math. Parif. orbad that hee should be any longer publike-Ann. 1164. Reg Hav.d. tioned and praied for in the Church as Archof Canterbury The Archbishop on the contrary part (the An.D. 1166 ntion being now whither the power Ecclefia-or Secular, should worke most) did solemny Esp. 2 born, nce where he abode, excommunicate all fuch yed, defended, or had occasioned the saide and Auitall Customes, and some of the parname as Richard de Luci , Richard of Poicton , de Bailull, Alan de Nevile, and other, who preappealed; but the King having further noand Becket * after his publike fermon, on agreat *Ger. Dovob.fairl all day, had foleowish threatmed the like thursdereday Communications his Rotall Perfon; either to terrifie his aduerfato reuenge himselfe if any such sentence should "Groups that single himself of the property of the single himself hims followed the Kings cause stourly, but also a learned Booke in justifying of it against Beerenailed to farre at Rome, that two Legates à laould beefent into England, to reconcile the and Thomas; but when they were gone, the nearing that they were refolued * otterly to conhe Archbishop, sent letters after them to reeir absolute power, they being men (faith Gerwho too much thir fled after gold and glory. When these two Cardinals came to Thee refused to put his cause to them, valesse were first a plenary testitution made to him s of all that had beene taken away: but been counselled by them to submit himselfe to ng, his answere was, he would, saving Gods ho-nd the Churches liberty; saving his own honour, s Churches possessions; and saving his owne and ments pag. 184. ettle peace in Gods Church, which hee feenely to defire) he would renounce his Bishopif the king would renounce his customes wered, The proportion was not alike: for that he honour of his Church and his Person, he could nounce his Bifhopricke; whereas on the other fide , ing was bound, afwell for his Soules health, as for sour, to renounce those or dinances, (will you know ason?) because the Pope and hee had condemned And so that designe for peace was frustrate. The King of England tempestuously storat these affronts, and daily encrease of new , wherewich like a guilefull Chirurgion, he ade the wound more to fester; menaced the ses (which in their Abbey at Pontenei, had for two whole yeeres entertained him) to all of their order out of England, if they durft e his enemy any longer: Whereupon they ling him, Lewis the French King tooke him with himfelfe, where for foure yeeres hee ned and was (if wee may credite King Henry) ned and was (it wee may creative Ming, stemy) eat infligator of the French King, and also of the of Flaunders, against the King of England; * as the work of the King of England; * as the work of the King of England; * as for p. 134. Ann. 1167. ardinals told not a lie to the Pope: But, that ace was broken, and warres renued betwint the Kings, chiefly for Thomas his fake, Geruale onke himselfe doth record it as most cre-Ffff 2 (30) How-

460	Henrie II. THE SVCCE	SSION OF Monarch 43.	Book. 9
	(30) Howbeit, by mediation at length, the two	matter of his Auitall Customes, offering to stand to	1
Gerualist, A.1169 A:ud montem	Kings were againe reconciled and at their friendly	theiudgement, not of his owne onely, but even of miro bilem .	* enterview , Eeckets wel-willers adulted him to	the Parisian Diumes, and Church of France; hee came off from that conference with some advantage &	The King offe
* Tacita omni	fubmit himselfe in the presence of both kings, * without any more reservations; which he seeming to	fauour, in the opinion of the hearers.	The King offe bis cause to bee conditions.	yeeld to, presented himselfe veric humbly, and	(35) King Henry (for all this) feeing no iffue of	iudged by the Digines and Gerua/sbid-	referred the cause to the king, not now, Saluo or di-	his long disquietnes, and vnregall vsages, vnderstan-	Church of ne (uo, but yet on a new point, Saluo honore Dei;	ding also that the Archbishop of Seins in person had so-	France.
-	ne suo, but yet on a new point, Saluo honore Dei; wherewith the king exasperated, told the French	licited the Pope, to put the Kingdome of England under	Daraharmenfis.
Idem.	king, fuch was the humor of the man, that what fo-	Interviet, (which is the prohibiting of the publike	A ftrange deni
	euer disliked him, he would say it was against Gods honor,	Vic of Christs Religion, & Christian Burial ritrongh.	of Chaifts Vaca and so would bee neuer the neerer to conformity;	out the whole land) hee beeing then in Normandy,	to forbid a who Kingdome to lis like Christians, with which, and other speeches, King Lewis of-	lends forth his Edict: That if any man bring from	like Christians,
Idem,	fended with Becket, asked him whether hee thought to	the Pope or Becket, any letters of Interdict, he should pre-	Houeden.
	bee greater or holier then Saint Peter? and the Petres	sently suffer as a Traitour to the King and the State:	The Kings Edic to match the
	of both Nations accused him of much arrogancy, as be-	That no Clerke what soener goe forth of the land with-	to match the
	ing himse fe the wilfull hinderer of his own, and the Chur- ches tranquility.	out a Passe from his Insticiaries, and none returne a-	Popes Interdic
A D = 160	(31) Notwithstanding, the Pope forgot not his	gaine without letters of licence from the King himfelfe.	-
An.D.: 168.	faithfull Thomas, and therefore after hee had gra-	That none receive any message from the Pope or Becket, nor make any appeals unto them, nor hold any Plea by Nath. Paris.	ced him with a confirmation of all the Priviledges,	their mandates; That if any Prelate or Clerke, or Lay-and powers, which any of his Predecessors in that	man shall obey any fentence of interdict, he and all his
	See did enioy (to the daring and defiance as it were,	Kindred ball be forthwith expulsed the land and all his
The King gort a-	of the kings vemost indignation) the king fenta	goods escheated to the Crowne. That all Clorbes who
The King gors a- bout to fortake	letter into Germany, declaring that her would for-	goods escheated to the Crowne. That all Clerkes who have rents in England, returne home within three Mo-
the Pope, and	fake Pope Alexander, and joine with the Emperour,	neins, or eige au their rents to fait to the King. I hat
Antipape,	and Antipape. Whereupon, when the Bilhop of	certaine Prelates specified, bee cited to answere in the
The Bishop of	Rome had commanded Gilbert Bilhop of London to	Kings Courts for interdicting Earle Hughes lands. That London com- manded to ad-	admonish the king to give over his courses, and cu-	Peter-pence be not paid to Rome, but referued. Thus,
manded to ad- monish the	ftomes prejudicious to the Church, the faid Bishop	(as Geruaje the Monke lamentably complaineth) all	Gers. Der.
King.	obeyed, and in his answere sought to perswade the	from the eldest to the yongest throughout England were	Olis, Dir.
Rog. Hourd.	Pope to a conniuencie, and forgets not to infliffe his	made to absure obedience to Pope Alexander and Bec-
	Soucraigne, as I hat the King was ready to obey the fa- cred hests of the Church, saving to himself e his own & his	ket.
The Bilhop of Londons defence	Kingdomes dignity: That, as for Appeales, he claimed	(36) After all this, it came into King Henries	The Ki aufet of the King to Pope Alexand.3.	that honour, by the ancient institution of his Kingdome,	mind, to fweeten these his many cares with some so-rope Auxana.3.	that is to fay, That no Clerke should for a civill action	lace, and to crowne his eldest sonne, yongue Henry, King of England, now in his ownedise time: A coun-	crowned King.
,	depart the same untill right could not be had in his Courts	fell not more temerarious, then infortunate : but of at home, and then he would hinder no man. That hee	which yet he did hope to reape this consolation, that did not banish the Arch bishop of Canterbury, who might	it was done in contempt of Besket (whose office it returne at his pleasure, so as he would observe all those	was to have crowned the King,) with some aduan-
	his Grandfathers customes which once hee had given his	tage also toward the perpetuation of the Auital Cu-
	faith to doe: That the King thinks himselfe greatly	flomes, and that also without scruple of conscience,	Ep.Alex Pap.apa
	iustified, in that hee is willing to stand to the sudgement	nis tonne recesuing the Crowne without caution, to pre-	Roge, Honed.
	of the whole Church of his owne Kingdome,&c.	ferme the Churches libertie, either by him put in, or by o-
The Bishoppe of Leader excom-	(32) But when mediations, letters, meffages, or	thers exacted. Yearather, an Oath ministred, and	1
municated.	other waies, would not prevaile; the Pope admo- nisheth the King, that he meant no longer to restrain	by the yongue King taken, to maintaine those Aui-
An.D. 1169	the Archbishop from reuenging his owne, and his	tall Cultomes to the Vitermost.
1 11110	Churches injuries with the fword of centure, and	(37) This folemnitie was performed, at Henrie
	thereupon(for a beginning)the Archbishop excom-	the fathers commandement, by Roger Arch-bishop of Yorke, (the anciently riuall See of Canterbury) con-ł
	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded	trarie to the Popes expresse Inhibition, the father
	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was scarce found in	himfelfe King Henrie being present though
Gers Derob	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was scarce found in the Kings owne Chappell and presence such as might	himfelfe King Henrie being present though
Gers.Derob,	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was scarce sound in the Kings owne Chappell and presence such as might perform the wonted ceremonies.	himfelfe King Henrie, being prefent thereat, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or caule of confolation in the action. For * he, in his inauf-	* Roger Housder
Gern,Derob,	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was scarce found in the Kings owne Chappell and presence such as might performe the nontedecromonies. (33) The King both touched with his owne	traine to the Popes expresse infibition, the father himfelfe King Henrie, being prefert thereat, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of consolation in the action. For * he, in his inauf- picious passage out of Normans, artising nor with-	* Roger House
Comforted by	municates Gilbert Biliop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was fearee found in the Kings owne Chappell and presence such as might personne the nontedecremonies. (33) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their case, siwh of or his sake	traine to the Popes experies inibition, the father himfelfs King Henris, being prefeit thereat, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of consolation in the action. For * he, in his inaupicious passage out of Normandy, arriving now without very great perill, at Portinous hit, the best and new	Roger Houseles municates Gilbert Bilipop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was fare found in the Kings come Chappell and prefence fuch as might performe the contelecremonics. (33) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cale, jiwho for his fake vinderwent that feuerity, animates Bilinoppe cilbert with the might be conderwent that feuerity, animates Bilinoppe cilbert.	trane to the Forge expresse inhibition, the father himselfe King Henrie, being prefern thereat, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of confoliation in the addion. For * he, in his insufpicious passage out of Normandy, arriung not without very great perill Jan Forssmandy, the best and new-fishing he had was sluncke in the flormes, and there-fishing he had was sluncke in the flormes, and there-	Roger Housedes
Comforted by	municates Gilbert Bishop of Lenden, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was fewer found in the Kings come Chappell and prefence fuel as might performe the nontdexerometric. (33) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their case, (who for his fake underwent that severity animates Bishoppe Gilbert with molfologing offers to bearthe charges of promise in the control of the control	trait to the Poper express infinitions, the father infielfs King Bents, being preficin thereat, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of confoliation in the action. For * he, in his inaul- picious pallage out of Nemandy, artiting not with- out very great perillal Per Diffusions, the bed and new- eds hisp he had was funcke in the flormes, and there- in, belides Hermide at Apublic and his two forms foll.	* Roger Housder
Comforted by	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo fare with others, that there was feare found in the Kings some Chappell and preferee face is might performe these nucleateeremonie. (33) The King both rouched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cale, jwho for his fake vanderworth at fewering animates Bishoppe Gilbert with motilouing offers to beare the charges of prefecting his large-leaguist Better, and Gelires the	trait to the Poper express standards, the state in the first point, being prefencherent, chough without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause principles in the state of the principles of the preference of	* Roger Hunder
Comforted by	municates Gilbert Bilhop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings some Chappell and prefence facts at might performs the anneteeremonies. (3) The King both touched with his owner wrongs, and tender of their citel, who for his fake vanderwent that Guerity animates Bilhoppe Colloct with most boung offers to beare the charges of proceedings of the control of the co	traine to the Poper express infinitions, the father infielfe King Hearit, being preficin thereat, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of confolation in the action. For * he, in his inauf- picious palfage out of Normandy, arruing not with- out very great perill, ale perilpush, the beland new- elf hip he had was funcke in the flormes, and there- in, belids * Hearis de Agaldis and his two fonnes, foll- bert de sullemni, Mr. Red fide Bedimunt, the Kings phy- tition and flououtis, with about four bundred men	* Roger Houndes
Comforted by the King.	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings come Chappell and preferee face has might performe the sendetecromonic. (33) The King both touched with his owne wrong, and tender of their cale; jwho for his fake vaderwent that Euerity, animates Bishoppe Callert with motilouing offers to beare the charges of preferring his papele against Better, and defires the Pope to fend him Logates which might abloiche bis excommunicated Subiecks, and fette a peace, we fel.	trait to the Poper express institution, the states inside fixing fearing, being perfect thereast, though without any fortunate perfage in commissing, or cause of consolization in the action. For * he, in his insuf- pcious passing course Normandy, arriving not with particular persons and the person of the format of the offine programs of the person of the format of the programs of the person of the person of person of the sufference of the person of fine person of the person of the person of fine person of the person of the person of person of the person of the person of person of the person of the person of person of the person of person of the person of person of the person of person of pe	* Roger Hounder
Comforted by the King.	municates Gilbert Bilhop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings some Chappell and prefence facts at might performs the anneteeremonies. (3) The King both touched with his owner wrongs, and tender of their citel, who for his fake vanderwent that Guerity animates Bilhoppe Colloct with most boung offers to beare the charges of proceedings of the control of the co	traire to the Poper expreie infinition, the father imfelfer King Fenris, being prefen thereat, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of confolation in the action. For * he, in his inaufpicious palfage out of Normandy, arruing not without very great perill, all perilpinate, the behand newelf hip he had was funcke in the flormes, and therein, beliefs thereine de Agalla and his two founes, followed the standard was founded men and women more, were detuoured of the working physician and fauouris, with about four bundred men and women more, were detuoured of the working wases. And acta the feath, their joinful father himselfie.	* Roger Husedes
Comforted by the King. Ger/Dov.	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings come Chappell and profence facts at might performs the acmetaceremonics. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cite, who for his fake vanderwent that Guerity animates Bishoppe Colloct with most louing offers to beare the charges of profecuting his appeale against Beeker, and defires the Pope to Genthim Logates which might abiliote his excommunicated Subiceks, and fettle a peace, or elfe he flouid bete completed to promide a short might abiliote his found in the complete of the flouid bete completed to promide a short might perform the name (34) Two Cardinals therefore, Gratism and prices.	trait to the Poper express innibition, the fasher similes for sign fearing, being prefencherency, though without any fortunate prefage in commissing, or cause for conclusion in the action. For * he, in his insufpicious passing out of Normandy, artisting not with the property of the pro	* Roger Hunder
Comforted by the King. GET. There. Cardinals attempt to make	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings come Chappell and profence facts at might performs the acmetaceremonics. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cite, who for his fake vanderwent that Guerity animates Bishoppe Colloct with most louing offers to beare the charges of profecuting his appeale against Beeker, and defires the Pope to Genthim Logates which might abiliote his excommunicated Subiceks, and fettle a peace, or elfe he flouid bete completed to promide a short might abiliote his found in the complete of the flouid bete completed to promide a short might perform the name (34) Two Cardinals therefore, Gratism and prices.	traine to the Poper express standarding, the states similest King Hearit, being prefencherent, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of confolation in the action. For * he, in his inauf- picious palfage out of Normandy, arriving not with- out very great perill, at Parlymouth, the beth and new- est hip he had was funcke in the stormer, and there- ton, belieds thermise at Agadia and his two fonnes, foll- bert de sullemmi, Mr. Radi de Bealmant, the Kings phy- tition and staourit, with about four hundred men and women more, were deutoured of the working wates. And art he feath, their follul father himselfle, carrying the first dish, and the Arch-bisino of Tarok- faying in pleasance to the younge King: Resister ms.	* Roger Hunder
Comforted by the King. Ger/Dov.	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings come Chappell and profence facts at might performs the acontecterosmoire. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cite, who for his fake vanderwent that Generity animates Bishoppe Collect with most louing offers to beare the charges of profecuting his appeale against Beeker, and defires the Pope to Gend him Legates which might abiliote his excommunicated Subiechs, and fettle a peace, or elfe he flouid bete completed to promide a short might abiliote his communication of the flouid her completed to promide a short might abiliote his femalia better completed to promide a short might abiliote his femalia better controlled to promide a short might for his own (34) Two Cardinals therefore, Gratism and primary, comming into France to end the contention, returne notwith handing without possibilities.	trait to the Poper express institution, the states imfelfs King Faents, being prefencherent, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of consolation in the action. For * he, in his insuf- ptions passing earliest Popularity around the other pressure personal proprious that between con- curry great personal proprious the best and new- onal pressure personal proprious that the commence of the proprious proprious proprious proprious proprious proprious proprious proprious for the suffernial proprious proprious proprious proprious proprious waters. And at the feast, the total later bindiffer, carrying the first displayment of proprious facility in the proprious (arrying the first displayment proprious facility in pleasance to the younge King. Reside any fair found, for his war private the word lack, field.)	Paled Tier is
Comforted by the King. GET. There. Cardinals attempt to make	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings come Chappell and profence facts at might performs the acontecterosmoire. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cite, who for his fake vanderwent that Generity animates Bishoppe Collect with most louing offers to beare the charges of profecuting his appeale against Beeker, and defires the Pope to Gend him Legates which might abiliote his excommunicated Subiechs, and fettle a peace, or elfe he flouid bete completed to promide a short might abiliote his communication of the flouid her completed to promide a short might abiliote his femalia better completed to promide a short might abiliote his femalia better controlled to promide a short might for his own (34) Two Cardinals therefore, Gratism and primary, comming into France to end the contention, returne notwith handing without possibilities.	traine to the Poper express infinitions, the father similes King Fenris, being prefent thereat, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause of confoliation in the action. For * he, in his inaufpicious passage out of Normandy, arriving not without very great perill, at Parlymouth, the best and newest thing he had was funcke in the stormer, and there in, besides thereis de Aguslia and his two fonnes, foll-bert de sullemmi, Mr. Raif de Bealmant, the Kings physician and stauouris, with about four hundred men and women more, were deutoured of the working waters. And act the feath, their folial father himselfle, carrying the first dish, and the Arch-bising of Forder signing in pleasance to the younge King: Resides my furr found, for their une Prince in the world, bash fach a feating at the finite, at vo. The womater all feating and the state.	Paled Tier is
Comforted by the King. Ger. Day. Catdinals attempt to make	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings come Chappell and profence facts at might performs the acmetaceremonics. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cite, who for his fake vanderwent that Guerity animates Bishoppe Collort with most louing offers to beare the charges of profecuting his appeale against Beeker, and defires the Pope to Genthim Logates which might abiliote his excommunicated Subiceks, and fettle a peace, or elfe he flouid bete compelled to promide a short nife for his own fewrity and homose. (34) Two Cardinals therefore, Gratism and primary comming into France to end the contention, exturne nowithhanding without possibility of doing goods for that Exclet would not yeed in any point to those Castlones and which he had note	trait to the Poper express innibition, the states imfelfs King Feerin, being prefencheren; chough without any fortunate prefage in commissing, or cause for conclusion in the action. For * he, in his insufpicious passing course for without the best and inevending passing the present the formers, and three times that the present the formers, and three in the present the formers, and three in best formers, and there in best formers, and there is best formers, and the present the present the formers of the formers, and there is the present the formers of the formers, and the formers of the formers, and the formers of the formers, and the formers of the formers, and the formers of the formers of the formers, and the formers of the formers of the formers of the formers of the formers of the formers of the formers of the formers of the formers attention, as the stable as you. The summaries of formers of the formers attention, as his table as you. The summaries of the formers of the formers attention, as his table as you. The summaries of the formers of the formers attention, as his table as you. The summaries of the formers of the formers attention, as his table as you. The summaries of the formers of the formers attention, as his table as you. The summaries of the formers attention, as his table as you. The summaries of the formers attention attention, as his table as you. The summaries of the formers attention to the formers of the formers attention to the formers of the
Comforted by the King. GET. There. Cardinals attempt to make	municares Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded for the with others, that there was feare found in the Kings owne Chapell and preferee facts a might performe the authenticer otherical, who for his take vanderwent that Guerir, animates Bishoppe Gilbert with moil to lange offert to bear the charges of proceeding his appeals against Bester, and defires the cross of the control of the charge of proceeding his appeals against Bester, and defires the communication of the communications of the communications. At last discount of the communications of the communications and the communications are communications.	traite to the Poper expreise inhibition, the father imfelfek King Fenris, being prefenchereast, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or caude for confedants in the action. For * he, in his insufpicious paffage out of Normandy, artining not without very great perilal. Per Jimoushi, the beth and new-chi hip the had was funcke in the flormes, and there may be the prefer to the prefer to the prefer to the prefer to the prefer to the product of the prefer to the pref	Paled Tier is
Comforted by the King. GET. There. Cardinals attempt to make	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded fo farre with others, that there was feare found in the Kings come Chappell and profence facts at might performs the acmetaceremonics. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cite, who for his fake vanderwent that Generity animates Bishoppe Calbert with most louing offers to beare the charges of profecuting his appeale against Beeker, and defires the Pope to fend than Legates which might absolute its excommunicated Subiechs, and fettle a peace, we else he found that communicated Subiechs, and fettle a peace, we else he found to the communicated Subiechs, and fettle a peace, we else he found to the communicated Subiechs, and fettle a peace, we else he found to the communication of the substitute of	traine to the Poper express innibition, the stable infile King Favire, being prefencheren; chough a formation of the preference of the presence	Paled Tier is
Comforced by the King. Ger. Der. Cardinals ar- tempt to make reconcilement.	municares Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded for fare with others, that there was feare found in the Kings owne Chappell and prefence facts a might performe the contected eromaine. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their calls, who for his fake underwent that flowerly animates Bishoppe Gilbert with motil bouing offers to beare the chappes of proficuting his appeale against Bishop and Gilbert with motil bouing offers to beare the chappes of profice their seconomunicated Subsets, and lettle a peace, we felt be found to be employed to provide users felf or his variety of the seconomunicated Subsets, and lettle a peace, we felt be found to be employed to provide users felf or his variety for his variety of the seconomunicated Subsets, and lettle a peace, we felt be found to be employed to provide users felf or his variety for his variety of the seconomunicated Subsets, and lettle a peace, we felt be found to be completed to provide useful for the foundation of the content of the content of the content of the content of the content of the content of the provides of the content of the c	traine to the Poper express innibition, the stable infile King Favire, being prefencheren; chough a formation of the preference of the presence	Paled Tier is
Comforted by the King. GET. There. Cardinals attempt to make	municates Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded for the with others, that there was feare found in the Kings come Chappell and profence facts at might performs the acmetaceremonics. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their cite, who for his fake vanderwent that Guerity animates Bishoppe Collors with most louing offers to beare the charges of profecuting his appeale against Beeker, and defires the Pope to fend than Logates which might abilote his excommunicated Subiechs, and fettle a peace, we see the flower of the control of	traine to the Poper express innibition, the stather immelies King Henris, being prefencherency, though without any fortunate prefage in commiss, or cause with the present the present the control of the present the control of the present prefage on the Rev Fire which the best and therein the control of the present perillal Rev Firewish the best and therein, besides Henrie de Agnella and his two formes, galvicition and fauouris, with about foure hundred men and women more, were deutoured of the working waters. And at the feath, the iofful father himselfer, carrying the first dish parties of the Rev Henrie de Agnella and the feath, the foilul father himselfer, carrying the first dish parties when the state has been a present the worklash fach a fertilizer attenting at his table as you. The unmatural programmes approach to the control of the present the death the land of the present the death the land to the control of the present the death the land the present the control of the present the	Paled Tier is
Comforced by the King. Ger. Der. Cardinals ar- tempt to make reconcilement.	municares Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded for fare with others, that there was feare found in the Kings ownse Chappell and prefence facts a might performe the notalecter monics. (3) The King both touched with his ownse wrongs, and tender of their calls, who for his fake underwent that flouriny animates Bishoppe Callert with molitolising offers to beare the chappes of proficuting his appeale against Baeber, and defires the Pope to fend that Logates which might absolute his excommunicated Subiechs, and lettle a peace, we gle to food the company of the company of the provided the protein absort fight in surface with the polar development of the company of the provided the protein and provided in any point to those Customer, at which he had once excepted, but with his ordinary limitations. At last yet by the popes mediation, the two kings of England and of Fasserme cat Paris, whether the Archbishop repaired, and yet no peace entired for that the king refused the kiffs of prace with him, and	traite to the Poper expreise innibition, the father innifiles King Fentis, being prefent chereat; though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause for consolation in the action. For * he, in his insufpicious paffage out of Normandy, attniting not with the part of the part	Paled Tier is
Comforced by the King. Ger. Der. Cardinals ar- tempt to make reconcilement.	municares Gilbert Bishop of Lenden, and proceeded to farre with others, that there was Faere found in the Kings owne Chapell and professe facts it might perform the notesteer or their call; who for his take wrongs, and cented or their call; who for his take wrongs, and cented or their call; who for his take wordings, and called the country of the co	traine to the Poper express innibition, the statter infiles King Favirs, being prefencherency, though without any fortunate prefage in commiss, or cause with the present prefage in commiss, or cause pricase passing out of Are Tor she, in his insufficient passing out of Are the present passing out of the present passing out of the present passing out of the present passing out of Are the present passing out of the present passing out of the present passing out of the present passing out of the present passing out of the present passing waters. And at the feath, the iofful father himselfee, carrying the first dish passing out of the working waters. And at the feath, the ioful father himselfee, carrying the first dish passing out of the present passing in pleasance to the younget King; it seems on the present passing in pleasance to the younget man and work of the total passing that with the present passing that the present passing the passing process of the present passing that the present passing the passing that the present passing the passing the passing that the present passing the passing the passing that the present passing the passing the passing that the present passing the passing the passing the passing that the passing that the passing that the passing the passing the passing the passing that the passing that the passing the passing the passing the passing the passing that the passing the passing the passing the passing the passing the passing the passing the passing the passing the passing the passing that the passing the passing the passing the passing that the passing the pas	Paled Tier is
Comforced by the King. Ger. Der. Cardinals ar- tempt to make reconcilement.	municares Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded for fare with others, that there was feare found in the Kings ownse Chappell and prefence facts a might performe the notalecteromonic. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their calls, who for his fake underwent that fleuerity animates Bishoppe Gilbert with molitoling offers to beare the charges of proficuting his appeale against Baeber, and defires the Pope to fend that Legates which might absolue his excommunicated Subsects, and lettle a peace, we glike found the exempled a presude start fifty for its monty family and homour. (3) Two Cordinals therefore, Gratina and Findone, comming into Strate to end the contention of the cont	traine to the Poper expreint inhibition, the father imfelfek King Fenris, being prefenchereast, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or caude for confedence in the action. For * he, in his insufpicious paffage out of Normandy, arriving not without very great perilal Profusion, the best and newest his pick had was funcke in the flormes, and there may be the former at Payalla and this two formes, following the profusion of the former and profusion and family. At the discharmant, the Kings physical and family, the first the profusion of the working wasnes. And at the feath, the total latter himselfer, carrying the first dish and the think of the fact for the profusion of the fact for the first plane, for the working in pleasance to the younge Kinglo of the fact fair former, for their one Prince to the working of the fair former, for their one Prince to the working of the fair former, there is not Prince to the work of the fair former, for the fair of the	Paled Tier is
Comforced by the King. Ger. Der. Cardinals ar- tempt to make reconcilement.	municares Gilbert Bishop of Lenden, and proceeded for the with other, that there was feare found in the Kings owne Chapell and professe face to make the Kings owne Chapell and professe face to might perform the nonclear orbitaries. (31) The King both rouched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their call; who for his take vaderwent that fenerity animates Bishoppe Gilbert words and the control of the control	traine to the Poper express innibition, the stather similes King Favirs, being prefencherency, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or cause prices and the prices passing out of Ara. For she, in his insufprices passing out of Ara. For she, in his insufprices passing out of Ara. For she, in his insufprices passing out of Ara. For she, in his insufprices passing out of Ara. For she was the control of the property of the pipe had was sinched in the formes, and therein, beliefes Henrie de Aguella and his two forms, galvices de sullment, Mr. Reid for debumant, the King when and women more, were decoured of the working waters. And at the feath, the iofful father himselfee, carrying the first dish, and he Arch-bisting of Trake flaying in pleasance to the yongue King; Reiter was priced to the working that mitteewest limit, for former is the state of the state	Paled Tier is
Comforced by the King. Ger. Der. Cardinals ar- tempt to make reconcilement.	municares Gilbert Bishop of London, and proceeded for fare with others, that there was feare found in the Kings ownse Chappell and prefence facts a might performe the notalecteromonic. (3) The King both touched with his owne wrongs, and tender of their calls, who for his fake underwent that fleuerity animates Bishoppe Gilbert with molitoling offers to beare the charges of proficuting his appeale against Baeber, and defires the Pope to fend that Legates which might absolue his excommunicated Subsects, and lettle a peace, we glike found the exempled a presude start fifty for its monty family and homour. (3) Two Cordinals therefore, Gratina and Findone, comming into Strate to end the contention of the cont	traine to the Poper expreint inhibition, the father imfelfek King Fenris, being prefenchereast, though without any fortunate prefage in comming, or caude for confedence in the action. For * he, in his insufpicious paffage out of Normandy, arriving not without very great perilal Profusion, the best and newest his pick had was funcke in the flormes, and there may be the former at Payalla and this two formes, following the profusion of the former and profusion and family. At the discharmant, the Kings physical and family, the first the profusion of the working wasnes. And at the feath, the total latter himselfer, carrying the first dish and the think of the fact for the profusion of the fact for the first plane, for the working in pleasance to the younge Kinglo of the fact fair former, for their one Prince to the working of the fair former, for their one Prince to the working of the fair former, there is not Prince to the work of the fair former, for the fair of the	Paled Tier is

1	Margaret should be honoured with like ceremonies.		in another place. The Arch-bifloop was hot in zeale of
1	Thus the fathers patience was exercised on eueric		Instice, but whither fully according to knowledge, God	26467 g.l 2.ca,27.
1 1	hand, and worsethings were scared.	- 1	knoweth, (for it is not for a man of my meane quality,
1	(59) So now yet at last, in the seuenth yeere of	- 1	knowers, (for it who for a man of my meane quarty,
Math. Paris.		- 1	rashly to mage of so great a mans actions,) but I thinke,
The last meeting	Beekets banishment, another meeting was had at		the bleffed Pope Gregorie would have dealt more mildly, for a peace be-	Sens, whither, the two great Kings, and the Arch-	-	and winkt at those thing's which might have beene borne,
and Archbishop.	bishop of Sens, and Bishop of Neuers, beeing toge-	- 1	without any hazard of the Christian faith, & c. and then ther, the Arch-bishop of Canterburie repaired, and	- [concludes : Therefore, that which the venerable Arch-
1 1	the treatie of Peace was entred into, which at Am-	- 1	bishop then did, I neither sudge that it is to bee commen-
1 1	bois, in an other meeting (at procurement of Rotrod		ded, neither presume I to condemnett, &c. For good
1	Arch-bishop of Roan) was finished; and the Archbi-		men are so to bee loved, or lauded by vs, that wee neither
1 1	fhop (knowing the King was terrified with the expe-		love nor land those acts wherein they show themselves to
1 1	chation of the forelaid imminent Interdiction) was	- 1	be fraile men, but onely those things wherein without scru-
1 1	restored to the Kings fauour, and permitted to haue		ple we ought to imitate them : and therefore they are wife-
1 1	full vie of his Metropolitane See, and all the profits	- 1	lie and warilie to be praifed, that Gods prerogative may be
1 1	full vie of his Metropolitane See, and all the profits thereof with the arrerages. Which conclusion, the	- 1	reserved intire to himselfe.
1	King lignifies to his ionne into England, whither	1	(43) Some other learned men there were, who
1 1	the Arch-bishop returnes, and lands at Sandwich:		lived neere to that time, whose censure was farre	Antizo,
1	And thus the controuerfie betweene the King and		fharper then that Monks: Such were some of those his Arch-bishop seemed to bee ended.	- 1	Divines of Paris, mentioned by * Cafarius the Monk,	l.8.cap 69. Bale Scripe Brit.
1	(40) But the Arch-bishop had not been long in	- 1	who laith, The Question was debated to & fro among st	Cent.a.
The Archbishop	England, before hee published the Popes letters, by	ſ	the Doctors, in the universitie of Paris, whether Tho-	1
publisheth new	which, Roger Arch-bishop of Yorke, and Hugh bishop	- 1	mas were damned or (aued: among st whom, Rogerius	Fox.9.18#1
cenfures.	of Durefme, were suspended from the vie of their	- 1	the Norman anowed, that hee deserved death and dam-
Math. Paris.	Epifcopall function, for crowning the youque King	1	nation, for his contumacie against his King, the Minister
Roger Hound,	in presudice of the See of Canterburie; and the Bi-	- 1	of God : but Petrus Cantor alleadged, that his Miracles
) 1	shops of London, Exceter, and Salisburie, cut off from	- 1	were signes of his faluation, G.c. An indeede if all bee
1	the Church by censure, for affisting the faid Arch-		true, which * one man hath written in fiue bookes,
1	bishop at that Coronation; whom Becket would not;	١	containing his 270. Miracles, wee cannot but ac-	Monach Cent.
-	but vnder conditions, at the yongue Kings request,	- 1	knowledgehim, both the greatest Saint, and the me-	de miraculu B, Thoma:
1	absolue. Whereupon a great complaint was carried	-	rieft too, that cuer gotte into heauen ; fo ridiculous
* Polyder, Virg.	into Normandy, to the father King, " by some of the	- 1	are many things recorded of him. As that of Ail-
1.13.	Bishops: and in the meane time, the Arch-bishoppe	- 1	wards, who for stealing of a great whetstone (which Thomas, putting himselfe vpon the way to visite the	- 1	the Author that writes it, best deserued) beeing deyongue King, at woodstocke, in Oxford-shire, was com-	- 1	prined of his Eies and * Virilities, by sentence of Law;	* nes. Pendenda
Lib.Mon.S.	manded not to approach		vpon praier to S. Thomas he had all restored againe :	perhaps for Pedenda,
January.	(41) At the newes of these late censures, the fa-		Yea euen a * Bird, having beene taught to fleake, flying	Malmesh de Kog
The kings wrath fatal) to the	ther King was so fore displeased, that some words	- 1	out of her cage, and ready to be feized on by a Spar-Hanke,	l.s. The printed fatal) to the	flipping from him, and arguing his great discontent,		Said onely, S. Thomas helpe mee, and her Enemie fell pre-	The printed golden Logend.iik
Archhilhop.	mooued Hugh Moruill, William Traci, Hugh Brito,	- 1	fently dead, and speeescaped, and (belike) reported it.	vis,Them.
Ger,Camb,l.x.	and Richard Fitz-vrfe, knights and courtiers, topost		Of which great power in this Saint, how canne wee
g, 20. cals them	into England, and there in a furie, (without either	- 1	doubt? fith wee read, that euen in his life time the Aulici Canes.	warrant, or privitie of their Soueraigne) to murther	ı	* Virgin Marie her felfe was contented to bee his
	the Arch-bishop (being then about * forty and eight	-1	Semfter, and fowed his shirt with red sike? Many of	Jbidem;
* The printed Legend faith, he	yeers old) in his owne Church of Canterburie, which	H	which kind of follies, (if that word be sharp enough)
was fg. recres of	yeers old in his owner Church of Camer our reswinch		might bee heere inferred, were not our prefent argu-
age. In the festivals	facred Place, and Time, befides his high Calling, might		ment more serious, and these forgeries sit onely for haue pleaded for pittle, had not the men been whol-		Monks to endite, children to read, and fooles to
Hity Sciles Nata-	ly transported with barbarous rage. For howfo-
Lis Dominici, Nubrigenfis,	ener we are farre from their fancies, who, for his zeale	ı	(44) The report of the tragical outrage on the	The kings for- row for the mut- ther, and his dif- ficulties there
Etalmus.	to the Popes Soueraignery, haue fo mounted him to	- 1	Arch-bishop, comming to the old King, at Argenton	row for the mut-
Etalmus. Guil, Cambd. Stow in H.S.	the top of Martyrs glory, that not onely the baleft	-	Arch-binop, comming to the old King, at Argenton	ficulties there
Stow in H.S. * Erafm.in Dial.	part of his Shrine was pure gold, and his * old Shee	- 1	in Normandy; there was no kind of forrow, into	moon.
de Peregrinar;	was denoutly kiffed by all * paffengers, but also		which, (without respect to Maichie, or State) hee	Math.Paris. Tpodig-Heufir, de Peregrinat: Religionis ergo.	fhamelesse and numberlesse Miracles are blindly as-		fell not; and not without cause, as knowing how	- t-mf-result)
* Lambert Pe-	cribed vnto him, and his * Blond almost matched in		plentifull an Hydra of mischiefes (vpon the opinion
remb.of Keut,in Harbaldowne.	vertue with our euer-bieffed Sauiours : yet wee no		of his prinitie with the fact) would rife, if not pre- uented. But the murtherers, fearing leaft this their
	leffe condemne their butcherly execution, who			Guil Mubrigen Li Sanguinem, quem pro te impendit,	(how great so euer his offence was against the King		fact woulddisplease the king, in whose reuenge they	Aat, Parit.
	and State) had no lawfull authoritie to beare them		did it, fled into the North, and abode one whole	VIII. E NIMI feandere, que Thomas afcendit.	out, or acquit them, from the guilt of Bloud:		yeere in the kings Castle of Knaresborough in Torke-
acomet ajectett.	(42) To shut vp this long contention (which, as		Bire; perhaps by fauour of the yongue king : none
1	you fee, would not be extinct but by bloud, nor take		of them dying for the fact, by way of inflice, because,
1	end but by his death,) because any tensure of our		the Clergic exepting themselves from the bonds of	Nich.Triuet
Guit, Nabrig 1,2.c.	owne will be faid to fauour of Time-ferning, or State-		ciuill Laws, the punishment of a Priest-killer (asby	Holosh plop
16,	pleasing, we will onely annexe the bare judgement of	1	fome itappeareth) was not then the death of the Bo-	Math. Parit.
	the forecited learned Monke of that time, who thus	i	dy by execution of capitall sentence, but of Soule by	faith it was grafts ted to Cardinall
1	speaks. Indeed though most mens custoe is, in those, whom	1	Excommunication, till about the twentiethird yeer	Petro Leoni, by
1	they love and praise, to extoll what soever they have done,	1	of this king, it was (at the inflant fuite of Richard	King Hen. Math. Parit
1	(an argument of their great affection but flender wifdom)		Arch-bishop of Canterburie, and of the Bishops of	4d A.D 3376;
i	not in plain truth those things, which the venerable Arch-		Winchester, Elie, and Normich) yeelded, that such	1
1	hishop so acted, that no profit at all thence proceeded, but	1	perfore thould also fuffer lotte of lite.	l
1	the Wings wrath onely was kindled (whereby to many	1	The king therefore, vpon protestation to	1
1		1	Inbmit himfelf, to the judgement of fuch Cardinais,	1
1	morthy though they for any from a landable zeale; as st	1	Legats, as the Pope should send to inquire of the fact,	1
-1		1	kept his Realme from Interdiction, though the king	i
1	the top of Apollolicall perfection, taught the Gentiles by	1	of France the Archbishop of Sens, and Theobald Earle	1
*Galat.n.	his example to Indaize; for which the Doctor of the Gen-	1	of Blois, had outgone his Emballadors with their in-	1
Cattered	tiles declares that he deserved to be reprehended, though	1	flaming letters, conteining the description of that	1
1	hee didit with a praise-worthy and pious intent. And	1	Parricide.	ı
1	1	1	Henrie	1

Chap.6. Henrie II. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 43:

THE SVC CESSION OF

Title & Stile of KING AND MONARCH
OF IRELAND. And this his purpose was Annalib . Hiber .

* Annalib. Hibs Thid.

Girald, Cambr.

much advanced by the fatall and familiar errour of proceedings in like cases: for the Irish Princes, either through distrust or pride, for bearing to vnite their forces against the common enemy, while each prouides for one, they are all as it were, ouer-(47) Moreouer * Dermot Mac Rurrgh (in that ime of the Irish Pentarchie, or fine-fold Kingdome) having fecretly stolne away the wife of Rotherick (a light woman, and consenting or plotting rather, & vrging the rape it selfe) added to Rotherickes ambition, ainst desire of reuenge, for so notable, impudent, and publike injurie, so much the more, odious in Dermots person, for that hee was old: ney-ther was this all; for the causes of this change were

(48) The onely disposer and transfator of King domes is God, & in Ireland to move him to offence

(without which no Kingdom is transferred)against the people thereof, all fuch finnes abounded, as commonly forgoe the greatest changes: for not onerupted, but the Christian faith it selfe decaied; bar-Poligemie, 6-c. barifine ouerrunning the one, and * more then fupertitions the other. But it may feem by Jone.

Author, that King Henrier particular inducements

Author, that King Henrier particular inducements

Hand State of the Addition, were both an ancient title vato that

Kingdome, derived from this arceleve circle is an acceptable of the state of Nation, buying and felling their Captines, and wifing Turkish tyranny on their bodies: which made the Irish Clergy themselves confesse, that they had deserved no other, then that their land should bee transferred to that Nation whom they had so cruelly handled Notwithstanding, king Henry, who knew how great and dangerous turnults the Popes had raised on small occasions, thought his way would bee much easier, if he went onward with the Popes good fanour, which hee easily obtained (so liberall is his holinesse of that which is none of his) for a fee; viz. a penny perely to be paid to Saint Peter of eury house in Ireland. Touching which point, Rossus of Warwick (no Protestant, I assure you,) faith, That Englands King is not bound to rely on the Popes graunt for Ireland, nor yet to pay that taxe, because hee had claime to that Kingdome by an hereditary right: and that the Pope had no temporall interest therein (as his fauorites pretend) the often-mentioned Monke of Gul.Nubrig.l.a. Newborough can tell vs. who faith, that Nunauam externa subiacuit ditioni, treland was never subiett to any forvaine command.

any jorrame commana.

(49) God Almighty therefore did now put it into the heart of Hemy, for the reforming of that kingdome, to make a Conquest thereof, having in his infinite wifedome before hand fitted all circumstances needfull to concurre, for inducing so warie and frugal a Prince to fuch an enterprife, which thus tooke beginning.

(50) Dermet Mac Murgh, beeing in possession of his fatall Helen (the adulterous wife of Rothericke) was purfued to eagrely with the reuenging fword of his enemie (who, howfocuer wounded in heart with the abuse of his Bed, rejoiced in the colour and occafion ministred therby, for him to feife vpon the flourishing Provinces of Leinster) as hee was driven to flie from place to place, and at the length to quitte his kingdome alfo, the subjects whereof his tyrannie and vices had vnictled, in their affections toward him. Thus desperate of help at home, his last deliberations were to draw in forreine aides, the necesfity of his case requiring it; and for that purpose, finally resolues to repaire to the court of the wise and potent Henrie, King of England, beeing then in Aqui tain : neither could Dermot but knowe, that it had heeretofore beene in Henries designes, at such time Hibar Exp. eap. 1 as hee ment to subdue it for William of Angies, his yongest brother, and also, because his present Dominions did halfe (as it were) enuiron it. In which hopes he was not deceived; for Henrie liftened therunto verie willinglie, as to a thing which hee had indeede * fome yeeres, before projected.

Monarch 43.

(51) King Dermot therefore was heard in his fuite. But, because the thing, as at that time, neither feemed great enough, for fuch a Prince as Henrie to vndertake directly, nor as yet was held fufficienty discourred to his hand; that therefore the Ice might be broken by inferiour meanes, and aswell the conueniences, as inconueniences, founded to the depth, (without engaging the roiall person, name, or power,) it was by the Kings letters permitted to Dermot (the exiled Prince) to draw what * aduenturers, or voluntaries, either the commiseration of his 6.1. Hib.expor. eftate, or other respects, of pietie, profit, or delight in armes, could allure to the action. Now whether it were, for that he, whose Countreis lay toward the coafts of Wales, (and within ken upon a cleere day) by commodity thereof might entertaine intelli gence, aswell as trafficke, with the inhabitants of those parts; or, for that the fame of their Cheualrie did inuite; or, for that his acquaintance at his arriuall grew there first; or, for that these and many other circumstances metre in this accident : sure it is that Dermot raifed his first, and principall succours from among the English Colonies there, (52) The Welfh had then in their hands a valiant Gentleman of Norman race, one Robert * Fitz-Stephen, who by Gilbert de Clere was entrusted with him Stephenides other was one of the towne of Cardigan, but through the defence of the towne of Cardigan, but through trachery the Towne being furprited, Robert was also delinered up to Rhefe ap Graffin Prince of South Wales, who would hearken to no other endentments of his liberty, but onely, that he should for euer abandon his possessions in Wales, Whereupon (the oportunity of Dermots quarrel giving hopes of new fortunes) immediately hee entred into contract with the Irifb king, promising by a certaine day to come to his succour, with as many Voluntaries, as his remaining fortunes, or the hope of the voiage could firre: which he * did accordingly performe, leauing it very disputable, whether with more fueceffe or courage. But Dermot well knowing that the fortunes of this Gentlema (to whose valor nothing see Richard Earle of the man whom the Fate of Ireland did expect. (53) Dermotes perfivalions to the Earle were of this kind: That the enterprife, besides the facul-"tie thereof, was full of pietie, honour, Iustice, or snight, and commoditie: That it appeared so to King Henry himselfe, by whose leaue hee was free to gather what forces he could : That hee was dri-

weight of the inknowne worke, had formerly dealt with that renowmed Lord, Richard of the house of Clare, Earle of Pembrooke, furnamed Strong-bow : uen out by the cruell ambition of Neighbours,& treacherie of wicked Subjects. That Leinstein was a Kingdome, and though but a part, yet cleere-'ly the best and richest part of Ireland. That multitudes offered themselves to his aid, but his cares were not onely for a Generall to lead them, but for one to whom hee might leave his kingdome

Dermon first for

Rabert Fiter St.

* Annales Hiber

med impossible) were vnable to vndergo the whole Pemirete.

ly called(of his chiefe feat in meete. That the Earle (in his conceit) did dwell but narrowly(confidering what hee was worthing " of) pent-vp in the straights of an Earledomes ti-"tle, for whom a great Kingdome was not great. "That they who would not allow Lenfler for a "kingdome, did forger, that England once was bro"ken into leffer flates; and if Dermot were not a "King, neither then were Ella, Cisa, Vffa, Sigbert, "Crida, and the reft in the Saxon feuen-headed go " uernment: that the quantity of Dominion made more or leffe frong, but not more or leffe a King. That he was rightfull King of Leinster, as Sonne and Heire to Murgh King of Leinster: that if hee must forgoe his inheritance, it should be to fuch as had done him no wrong, and were wor-"thy of it; to Richard Strong-bow and his follow-"ers, and not to Rothericke and Rebels. That hee was not vnking'd,though vnkingdom'd: that E-"us his daughter (Eus the pearle and starre of Ire"land) should indeed be Eus to his enemies to bring vponthem death, and just confusion : that vet it " defeating the Tyrant Rotherick of his hopes by pla "ting Earle Richard and his Forces, hee should pro " uide for his Country, not destroy it. That if it did "fallout otherwise, yet his difloiall people had their just deserts, who objecting vices to their So " neraigne, did themselues commit vile treasons Indeed (quoth he) I was neuer fuch a King, as that "I was not also a Man. But for those matters betweene God and me, here is now no place to ac-"count, for though his instice hath found me out, "yet his mercy hath left me more friends at home "My quarrell is most just, as against most wicked re-bels and vsurpers: Restore methen (my Lord) by your puissance to my natine soile, and my lawful "rights therein: restore with me Religion and Diswhose person all the respects of birth, honour cipline to the ancient splendor thereof, which was onot greater in any Realme about vs then in Ireland "reduce the stray, enlighten our ignorance, polish our rudenesse, and let not such abundant matter of "merite and immortall glory escape you, God him-"selfe will prosper the enterprisesholy Church hath "long since approued ir: and vpon such Authors "what can miscarry? And though in thy noble and "Chriftian courage nothing can weigh 6 much,

(and these I see work mightily yet to satisfic all "respects, Thou shalt have far larger territories then here Thou canst possesse, and goodly lands to di-"stribute for reward among thy friends and follow "ers. My last offers now shall not shew a more de fire to vie thy forces, then aloue to thy perion & vertues. They are not trifles I propose, but that of which God himselfe doth seeme to me to have aid the ground; seeing it is his holy will that thou at this time shouldst bee without a wife. Know thou then, that I have that one daughter Eng, the heire of my Crowne, and comfort of my age: let thine owne eye tell thee how faire and worthy "this I dare auouch that thou wilt thinke far broa "der feas wel croft, for view of fo honeft beauty: fhe "in the first blossome of her youth, a vertuous vir-"gine, and by both Parents borne of Princes, shall at thine arrival, with this right hand, bee made "thine, and with her after my death, my whole "realme, and other my rights whatfocuer: which were they infinitely more; (despite not such loue "nor the alliance of one diffressed, but neverthelesse "aKing,) I would repute them farre too little for Glich a fonne in law: who though thy leife as yet the was Aunt (by "no King*, art come of Kings, and it is my whole "and last ambition, that I may liue to make thee one. The Earle accepted the conditions, refo lute to fet vp Dermot againe, and for that purpose bound himselfe by solemne contract, to the full performance of his part within a certaine time.

the mether) to Malcolm King of Scots: Cambd. Annales Hibern. Ann. 1169. Earle Richaed

(5 3) Dermot having thus negotiated his affaires and let it in so good forwardnes, while his friends in "bounty, valour, youth and fortunes did happily England prepared themselves and their Forces . left hee should seeme to relie vpon forraine aides, and so to diminish with them the reputation of his owne valour and alliances at home; hee failes backe into his Country; carrying with him the promifes of confederates, and there both by his presence and perswasions did the best hee could to facilitate the entrance of the English; whose honourable entertainements, deuotions, civility, riches, valours, wisedome, and victorious greatnesses he spared not to celebrate, as instruments advancing his own de fignes: which raifed no little expectation, mixt with contrary affections of defire and feare,

(54) The next yeare, when the feafon grew fit for an Army to take the field, Robert Fitz-Stephen accompanied with Maurice Fitz-Gerald his halfe brother by the furer fide, & a competent number of Souldiers, repoling (vnder God) their chief hope in their swords and courages, set faile for Ireland; & in the beginning of May came on shore, at a place called by the Irifb, Barn (by the Englifb at this day commonly, Bagg and Bunn) which in our language fignifies Sacred: a word which (so much as names may be presages of things) did as it were hallow the attempt of the English with a lucky and gratious omination, whereof the Inhabitants at this present retaine this rime.

At the head of Bagg and Bunn, Ireland was lost and wun,

(55) Thonext day after, Maurice de Prender gast allo, with the other men of Armes, and many Archers in two shippes arrived there, being parcell of Massefer. class Fitz-Stephans Forces and Companions of his Fortunes, who ioining themselves together, immediatly marcht to the City of Weifford under their Banners, and that in the greatest brauery they could, (the Knights and Men at Armes, in their * Coates of Arms & Colours) to draw thereby now at the first the greater reputation to themselues, and with opinion fo gotten, to fill vp the fmalnes of their numbere: in which manner affailing the City, the Irife therein rendred themselues, and increward of the service, being also *according to capitulation, and entire and Market an couragement of others, who were to proceed in this warre, Dermos, to whole vie the English Gmessal had cale nit, w beflowed the City is felfe, and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and district the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and district the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and district the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and district the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and district the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and district the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and district the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country and the Country about ypon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his singuistic and the Country about vpon Robert Fitz-Stephen, at his pleasure to be disposed off: and there the first Colony of our Nation was planted, which hath euer fince immoueably maintained their abode among innumerable changes in the world retaining at this day the ancient attire of the English, and the language alfoit felfe, though brackish with the mixture of vulgar Irifb, which therefore by a diffinet name is called Weisford speech, current onely in that City,& the County about.

(56) But Robert Fitz-Stephan thus advanced, for his more affurance, beganne to raife a * Town at Carricke, making the place which nature had already fortified, much more by Art defenfible. This entrie into Ireland being by him now made (vnder the name of Henry King of England) and the fucceffle exceeding hope, Richard Strong-bow receiving aduertifement from Dermot, and the new Lord of Weisford of all occurrences sthought fitte, first to weispra, or an eccurrence 3 chought inte, into dispatch frome supplies to Fizz-Stephen, which about the beginning of May, under the conduct of Raimunalegrosse (a Gentleman of the Earles family) were accordingly sent: and after Rai-mand the Earle himselfe in the same yeere set forth: His Forces were about * two hundreth apad camp, each men of Armes, and a thousand other Souldiers, with whom he came fafe to Anchor in the Bay of Waterford, vpon the Vigil of Saint Bartholomew, Auguft,21. Ann. 1 171. Earle Richard the Generall. knowing that expedition did carry with it terrour and advantage, presently marcheth to Porthlarge,

Eece 2

Robere Firz Ste poen faild into Ireland. Trigiata Mili

An.D. 1170 They were Soul diers of all forts

(as feemeth)fró a Towne of tha Gules , a Sel-observed in the Friers Church at Clos me Il. *Girald,Cambr. in super. Hiber.

*Camb.p.748The first English Colonie

reifferdføbish.

Earle Richard

before With fupplies, med to the King they ment to have renounced.

(60) The Kings goodly Nauy lay in Milford ha-uen, to which as hee iournied, hee thundred against vnnaturall conspiracies to disclose the mischiefes which were ordained to exercise this right redoub.

ted King and Warriour, hatched here at home by the malice (some fay) of Eleaner his Queene, at such time as hec was absent in Ireland, fo that as " one

"Math Paris

6.	Henrie II. ENGLANDS	М	ONARC
[writes, God stirred up the Kings owne bowells against himselfe. Causes of this vnhappie diffention, there	1	entred the towne
- 1	manyeye. Caules of this vinapple differences, there	- 1	had the persons of
- 1	were many : First a Queene and Wife, violentlie vin-	- l'	Chester, Ralph de Fu
- 1	dicande for wrong done vinto her bed by the king,	- 1	foners of especials no
- 1	dicatine for wrong done vnto her Bed by the King; who was immoderatlic addicted to varietic of loues: then Ambition in an euill-naturd Child, and lastlic,	-	French King moouir vie the good fortune was so willing to make to haue outgone ex
- 1	men Ambidon in an edul-natura Chila, and lakile,	-	vie the good fortun
- 1	pernicious Actors and inftruments, who, for their	- 1	was to willing to m
- 1	owne ends, nourished this cursed mischiefe; so as if	- 1	to haue outgone en
- 1	we should out of our stories recapitulate the seuerall	-	offers, but through were vied, preuailed (69) A violent
- 1	occasions taken by the sonne against the father, wee should rather shew you the colours, then the causes	- 1	were vied, prenailed
- 1	thould rather thew you the colours, then the caules:	- 1	(69) A violen
1	For none of those causes which his Son pretended,	- 1	Robert Earle of Leich
- 1	feemed great enough with menthat feare God, to	-1	die no leffe proud,
- 1	beare out such continual! divisions as followed.	- 1	who at this meeting
	(65) The head of this conspiracy was verie great, and instly verie tetrible: for on the side of King Henry the sonne, there were the Kings of France and	- 1	fronted King Henry yongue Lord, and M words of reproach) hand vpon his fwor
- 1	and inftly verie tetrible : for on the fide of King	- 1	yongue Lord, and M
Liuft.	Henry the sonne, there were the Kings of France and	- 1	words of reproach)
Conba.	Scotland, * Rithard and Geffrey, two yonger fonnes of	- 1	hand vpon his fwor
- 1	Sreiland, Richard and Geffrey, two yonger fonnes of the King of England, whom by their mothers per- fwaftons they forlooke, to follow the yongue King;	- 1	the King, nad he no
Į.	fwafions they for looke to follow the yongue King;	- 1	fuch fairirs had road
-	David the Scotifs Kings brother, Philip Earle of Flau- ders, (a Peere of France, and a potent Prince,) & as- thew Earle of Boloigne, Theobald Earle of Bloss, Hugh	- 1	of countell were like
	ders, (a Peere of France, and a potent Prince,) Mat-	- 1	hauing forfaken the cause was more ho
- 1	them Earle of Relaione, Theobald Earle of Blow, Hugh	- 1	cause was more ho
	Earle of Chefter, Robert Earle of Leicefter, Hugh Bigot	1	Walkingham) the fath
	Farle of Narfalke, Rayer & Mambray, and other great	- 1	gall power, fought to proud and haughtic.
	ones, in great numbers, fo as nothing feemed wan-	- 1	proud and houghtie.
	ting but onely a good cause which (such as it was)	ı	(zo) But God
	Ouesne Elisane like an a Aleffa kentaline formuch	-1	(70) But God, and not to deliner I
1	as lay in her with perpenual formentations. And	- 1	deftroied those hop
	indeed the frame of thefe confederate did require no	- {	their vhnaturall att
	them katte O Biologes, Theshold Battle O Biologis, 1878, Earle of Colfey, Robert Pattle O Liesgier, 1849, Bigst Earle of Norfiele, Robert Pattle O Liesgier, 1840, Bigst Earle of Norfiele, Robert Ones, in great numbers, 6 as nothing feemed wanting, but onely a good canle, which (lich ast was) Queene Elissen, like an Alatia, kerytaline, Yo much asky in her, with perpetual fromenations. And indeed the fcope of their confiderats did require to lefte a combination, is thesing to depote the Pattle, and the Company of the Company of their combination, is the confiderate and require to lefte a combination, is the eight of posterior battle.	1
		- 1	when newes came is friends and feruant
	whom it pleased them (for countenance of their vn-	1 godly armes) to repute no King, because hee had	1	phrey de Bohun high crowned his forme.		with the powers o Kings vncle, Rober
	(66) Though nothing then could come more	. 1	Kings viicle, kober greeuous, to the bleeding heart of a most louing fa-		Earle of Arundell, ther, then such a warre; yet not to bee vnprouided,		lie encountred wit
	hee (like a louidier) prepares himieite, when faire		* Flemings, of wh
	hee (like a fouldier) prepares himfelfe, when faire meanes faild, and found multitudes readic to lite, and die with himsthe indignitie of the vanaturall re- uolt, did fo much inflame all honeft courages, which	- 1	* Flemings, of who flaine, or taken, an Earle himfelf, and*
	and die with him; the indignitie of the vnnaturall re-	- 1	Earle himlelt, and*
	uolt, did fo much inflame all honelt courages, which	- 1	perions at his com acknowledged him their Soueraigne.	- 1	brought ouer into
	(67) The particular accidents of the wars would		(71) This * g ceffe, did so much fill a volume. At one time Normandie, Guien, and		celle, did to much
	Britane were inuaded by the confederats in France,	- 1	beginning to diffru Britane were invaded by the confederats in France, and at the same time Cumberland by the Scots. But	- 1	monethes truce for the King of England had friends in an enote partisand	- 1	because there were
		- 1	men, * the Earle
toucden.	himielte hearing that Fernaul was a Deiteged by the French King in perion, hee beganne at lait to kindle, hauing, like a fleeping Lion, fitten fill all that while, and (for that the place had, you parlea, agreed to cheir flact our renderit aid came not by a day) he earnised to cheir flictocour within the time, fending King Lewis word that hee flould gette him foorth of Normandar with the flould gette him floul	- 1	which held out . ha
	Lhauing like a fleeping Lion, fitten ftill all that while,		and feat of warre, kers, not with flandi
	and (for that the place had, ypon parlea, agreed to	-	kers,notwithstandi render if aid came not by a day) hee arrived to their	٠.
	fuccour within the time, fending King Lewis word	- 1	braies Castles, and Paris.	that hee should gette him foorth of Normandie with		Lord and Father, t
sujur.	speed, or he would without faile, come, and see how		braies Casties, and Lord and Father, a other purpose bu hee did voon that verie day. Lewis, meaning no- thing leffethen to put his owne Crowne in danger,		felfe.
	ching leffe then to put his owne Crowne in danger.		(72) The fath
	while he fought one for his fonne in law. (and there-		Conneduat to use hu
	while he fought one for his fonne in law, (and there- fore in all the warre-time, would never fee up his reft		from one place an meane while, reco lent fonne, weakn
	Tote III all the water dilies or herwife to doe to King		meane while, reco
	tore in all the warre-time, would never be you have you a barell, but willing otherwife to doe to King Hemie the father, all the harme hee could, by countenancing the faction, and fupporting the resulted malecontents with his best meanes, and knowing King Hengy was a flower and terrible Prince when he is the counter of the prince when he is the counter of the transport of the prince when he is the counter of the transport of th		lene fonne, weakn
	Henrie the father, and the narme nee could, by count		would have weakn tenancing the faction, and importing the resolution		ments came post, majecontents with his best meanes, and kingwing		Greeds into Norma
	King Heary was allower and terrible Prince when he		(75) Thither came indeede to fight, immediatelie railed his fiege,		(7;) Thither Richard (the Elect of
	and with as much hait as nee might, abandoned trie		A Vinna Indicioni
-1° 24	and with as much haft as hee might, abandoned the place * leaning his Camp, tents, and warlike proujs from behind, and retired into France.		the Kings Institution
elf. in Newltri.	fions behind, and retired into France,		For after that Phil
	(68) And though King Hemie, beginning now indeede to shake his dreadfull fword, had many faire		For arter that PML
1177	indeede to fhake his dreadfull fword, had many faire		lie fworne to inua
.1 173		1	yongue Hemies qui ioining with Hagh and spoiled the C
	men and other strengths, though not great, nor many, in regard of the ouerthrowes which on his beauty, in regard of the ouerthrowes which on his beauty, in regard of the ouerthrowes which on his beauty in Bottom his force had	l	ioining with Hagh
	ny, in regard of the ouerthrowes which on his be-	1	and ipoiled the C ny, in regard of the outerthrowes which of his be- halfe were given: For that in Britane his forces had in bartell vanquifhed Hugh Earle of Cheffer, & Ralph de Foilejers, and flaine about one thou fland and flue	l	wile much narme,
Housed.	in barrell vanquished Hugh Earle of Chester, & Ralph	1	faction had taken de Fouleiers, and flaine about one thousand and fine	1	of warre were tur as the Earle of Fi hundred of their army ; & in England, Reignald Earle	l	as the Earle of F
	thundred of their army; & in England, Reignald Farle of Cornwall, and Richard de Lucie, had in bloudie battells ouerthrowne the infolent Earle of Leisefter, and	ı	the Coaits, there t
.Peris	rells overthrowne the infolent Earle of Leicelter and		ouer, Robert Farle
		1	1

Toolig. 7

Roger E

" Mash.P

An.D.

Roger.

CHS. Monarch 43. 405 of Leicester by force and that he ! of the faid * Hugh Lupus Earle of lgiers, and verie many other prinote and Nobility; yet Leme the ing a parlea; the father defirous to Toodie Newley ne of war, to reclaime his rebells; nake peace, that hee might feeme expectation in the qualitie of his h fuch wicked perswasions, as nt firebrand in this division, was cefter, beeing matched with a La-, and stomachous then himselfe; The ourragious g, was not contented to have afthe father, on the behalfe of his Eule of Leice fle Mafter the sonne but (after many h) is faid to have laid his daring * Roger Housed, Holarita ord, with purpose to haue firucken ot been with-holden; (and where doe, it is easie to gesse what kinds ke to be embraced and pursued;) York Newly he father, not for that the others onest, but for that (faith Thomas her King, labouring to enlarge the re-to fet his foote upon the neckes of the who ment to chaftife the King; him vp into his enemies hands, The Kings ville opes, that mooued the fonnes to empts; for it was not long after, into Normandy, that his faithfull its, * Richard de Lucie, and Humh Conftable of England, together of Reignald Earle of Cormuell the ere Earle of Glocester, and William not farre from Burie, couragious ith the Earle of Leicester, and his hom aboue * fine thouland were nd among the prifoners was the his Amazonian Countesse, whose mandement were not long after, Normandie.

Izine. great victorie and other good fuc-ch aduantage the King, that Link ruft the enterprize, fought for fixe or himfelfe, and had it granted but re yet in England, two principall of Norfolke, and Roger Mowbray, having Leicefler for their Randenon, with no fmall numbers of parts ling that Geffrey (the Elect of Lin-ale fonne), had taken two of Mond done other good fernice for his the truce ferned the enemie for no ut to breath, and to repaire him-her (of whom Lewis faid, that, het ut to flie, he went with such celerity and Kingdome.to another) in the ouers Xaints from Richard his vio ning that partie by fo much, and ned it farre more, but that aduertifdeclaring fuch matter as made him undic.

er * came vnto him out of England, of Princhester) (ent with all hast by ries, to lay open vnto him, the dan-rin the Realme at that time stood silip Earle of Flanders had folemne-tade England, in supportation of quarrell, sundrie forces arriving and the Biget Earle of Norfolke, had taken Citie of Norwich, and done other-, whereby the yongue King and his great encouragement, as if the die ned, and aswell the yongue King Flanders, were come with forces to to transport for England: * Morele Ferrers of Derby (who was falm

Mark Park

+ Galles quidés

hee had brought the young King to a finall attonement

Constantinople, of Fredericke Emperour of Romans, of * William Archbishop of Triers in Germany, (a mighty Prince) of the Duke of Saxonie, and of Philio Earle of Flanders. Moreover he had the government of France for a time, the Kingdome of Jerufalem offered him, but refused, and two of his daughters married to the two Kings * of Gaftile and Si-

(79) There was first therefore a truce taken betwixt the three Kings, Lewis and the two Henries; twist the three rings, Lews and the two is one; wherein Richard (who flood out) was left to his Fathers profecution, who feeing himfelfe thus defiture after many flashes of preparation to relist, and great conflicts with himselfe, put himselfe most humbly into his Fathers mercy, and throwing him-felfe * with teares at his feet, obtained the pardon hee begd, and a full restitution to his most inward grace and fauour. A most christan, fatherly, wise & happy Act; for Richard ouercome with this vnexpected and incredible goodnes, neuer delifted till

Chap. 6. Henrie II. ENGLANDS MONARCHES. Monarch 42

An.D.1175 chief points of that wished peace were: 1. That Hen-ry the yong King with Richard and Geffrey his breth-lease. ren flould returne, freed from all oathes of confe-deration, to the King their Fathers obedience, as to their Lord and Father. 2. That Prisoners should be fet at large without ransome on all hands. 3. That William King of Scots, the Earle of Leiceffer and Chefter, Ralph de Fulgiers, & other, who had compounded for their ransome, before this conclusion, should haue no benefite of this exemption. 4. That King Henry the Father should take affurance of loialty toward him by hoftage, or oath of fuch as were ehlar-ged. 5. That King Henry the fon should ravise that Grant which his Pather the King had made to his fon Iohn, of fome Callles, & yerely rents in England, &c. The Seale it felfe, wher with the yong king made this mentioned Ratification, we haughere annexed fel-310. Symonic was loffe of Patro-

(80) Touching King William of Scotland. his fore-mentioned compounding: our Historians all fore-mentioned compounding: our Hithorians all agree not, * fome faying more, * fome leffe: but*HEGB Bestund & South Hithorian of fome credit with that Nation) writes; IT-THA King William was to pay 1000001. Striucling for his ranfome, the one halfin prefent coin, the south of 30001. The one half imperfent coin, the context of 50001. The forafficience of that furnme the Earlest Context of 50001. domes of Northumberland, Cumberland & Hunting-ton should rest in morgage 3. That K. N illiam should move no warre against England for the retention of those lands.4. That, for the moresecurity of the premiffes, the Caftles of Berwick, Edenbrough, Roxbrough & Strineling (hould bee deliucred to the English.

(81) In the meane while, King Henry according to Couenants, dischargeth out of captivity nine hundred fixty and nine men of Arms, taken in those late warres; and King Henry the sonne discharged about one hundreth; and hauing accomplished whatfoeuer might content or fecure his Father, they prepared for England, where the ioious letters of their comming written by the Father, had begotor their comming whether by the Father, had negot-ten great and longing expectations in the subjects; which hee did, slath Paris This whom the general danger of ware had afflicted, the common gladnesse might recomfort. In their transile thinherward the confidence was such vpon this fresh reconcilement, that one Chamber and table served both, for whom before one Kingdome was not wide enough. They landed at * Port finouth vpon Friday, 20.2 May, 1175. (82) The face of England at this present, was like that of a quiet skie and sea, no blast, no billow, no appearing figne of discontentment; which the better to continue, King Hemy the Father accompanied with the King his sonne, omitted no office of a inft and prudent Gouernour, viliting a great part of his Realme in perion, confuling, ordering and nacting fuch lawes and courfes, as might most establish the good of Peace. Hence it came, that at London to good of reace. Tence it came, that at London both the Kings were present in a Synode, in which Richard lately choien Archbishop of Canterbury, did publish ("with the Kings affent) certain Canons for the better government of the Church of England, beginning thus; At the true fountaine of all anguana, oceniming thus; one the true jointaine of all happy rule, that is to fay, at the honour of God, and effa-billment of Religion to Difcipline, Gre. & among the religible to the control of the religible to the religible neutrins one canon in especial words is enacted, both by authority of the King & Synade, (and indeed worthy for euer to bee in force) I hat every Patrone ta-king reward for any prefentation, flouldfor ever loofe the Paromage thereof. And the fame Kings not long after being at weedflook, in accompliftment of fich holy purpoles, by adulied orthe Clergy prouded men to fuch Bifloprides, Abbattes, and principall cures as were vacual, where King Hebry the Father torgar not his true friend Lebr of Occupied, whom ne preferred to the See of Norwich.

(83) From hedee comming to Torke, he fet thole parts in peace, whither William King of Sept's repairing, fundry matters of importance were handled between the two Kings: as likewife afterward at Toky. windfor (where the King had called a great affemwindin (where the King had called a great: afternibly of the Lords Spirituall and Temporall) Rotherick King of Commanght in Ireland (as the fuite of his Ambaffadors, the Archbilhop of Thuamon and To-Amoulasors, the Archolinoport pummy and Vo-mund, 8 others of that nation, (blocks to Rotherick) was received into protection & fauour, and became Triburatie: K. Henry being vnwilling* to fish with an hooke of gold, which in warring your Irefund hee should seem to do. In an other Parliament, not long after at Northampton, he caused England to be diti-ded into six circuits, & to each Circuit three Justiciars Itinerants deputed; and aswell to give his lawes more free passage as also the better to secure himself he threw to the earth fundry * Castles which had bin formerly kept against him, as Leicester, Hunting-ton, Walton, Groby, Statesbury, &c. and had the rest both in his English and in his French Dominions committed to his disposition.

(84) The young King * about these times dis-couered fresh alienations in his mind against his Father : who yet diffembling all, did arme notwithanding upon the defentiue, and replenished both Eng land and Normandie with Garrisons, which drew

(85) But the old King not vnwilling perhaps (left the Brethrens concord might proue no better then a conspiracy against the Father) that his warlike aconfpiracy against the Father) that his warlike Children should contend, "did nourlish debatke at mong them: Certaine is s, that to diuter the warre from himselfee, he appealed his stone the King with an enercase of maintenance for himselfe, amounting in the whole to an hundrech pounds "distaining him deal" and the pounds of the same money for his to the day, and ten pounds of the same money for his wife the Queene: and whereas Alice (daughter of whether Queene: and whereas Laure (daughter of Lewis then King of Frante, who was maried at three pend Propia years of age to Richard (food fonne of King Henry) when hee was but leuen, and now demanded of King Henry the Father, to the intent that Richard her husband might enjoy her, the old King who was

G g g g *fuspected

An.D.1176

Mat. Parit.

catity believe, Baronius and ms - Author space within compaffe, who acknowledge he received 80, lathes. To fuch height was the Papall tyranny and pride grown towards thele, of whom God had faid exprelly/Touch not mine Annointed. (76) Yet fome Monkes of that age, attribute the happy and great successe which ensued to the reconcilement which King Henry thus made with God for the bloud of Thomas, because it pleased alfo, wherby appears, that every federall fort were to have a hand in that service. Mathem Paris can tell you more plainly what that Discipling was t viz. he received the Discipline of rods on his bare stell receiving of enery religious man, (a great multitude of them being there gathered) 3. or 5 Jerker a peece : whence we may casily believe, Baronius and his * Author spake

God to deliuer his enemy William King of Scots into the hands of his fouldiers about that very time, &

did also with stormes beat backe into France his dis-

THE SVC CESSION OF Monarch 42. Henrie II. 468 Booke 9. ing to him, who was right heire thereunto, to wit, the fonne of Geffrey Earle of Anion, whole brother Fulle was king of tierry idem.

(83) Neutrchelfel, (the King haning, at left. wite formally, adjured the Lords to adult him, that of the land of the land of the land of the land of the land of the land. * Suspected to have deflowed her, for that time suited of the delivery of her person, in such sore that peace was not hindered thereby. Roe. Hound. (86) But while the yong King by his Fathers *in-An.D.118 fligation fought by force to conftraine young Richard to doe homage to him for Aquitaine, and King Henry the Father for the fame cause commanded * Roz Wend. Maib. Paris. Th. Walf. in Toodig. Neuftr. which should bee most for his soules health) it was thought fit, to aid the cause with money, but not to emploie his perfon, northe perfon of any child hee had, which was the Partnarcks laft requeft; and ther-upon (to the vnípeakable griefe of the faid Patri-arcke, and of the whole Christianitie of the Eaft) hee Geffrey his third fon, Duke of Britaine (whom*fome for his extraordinary perfidiousnes in this service toward his Father, and manifold scrilege, cals the *Child of Perdition) to aide and affist his said elder Rog. Hour. brother; while also the lealous Father (out of the refused the said Kingdome, and abandoned as no firife of his formes) fought his own fafety, and in nou-rithing it, had by the treachery of the faid fonnes bin blean occasion of immortall renowne, as euer any King of England had beene offered; but gaue leane to all fuch as would, to take vpon them the Croffe twice endangered and had at both times been wonderfully preserved; and while the young King by and ferue. This Heraclius is hee who dedicated the Temple Church in London, as by this Inscription o-uer the Church doore in the Stone-worke doth approfound diffirmulations, plotted to bring both his Father and Brother Richard into subjection; behold the hand of God by taking away the young King at Martell not farre from Linages, where his Father lay at firege, gaue an end to this odious, fowle and ANNO AB INCARNATIONE DO-MINI M.C.LXXXV DEDICATA HEC IC- vpon the Temp CLESIA IN HONOREM BEATE MARIE (87) Thus was his life cut off like a Weauers A DNO BRACLIO DEI GRATIA (87) Thus was his life cut off like a Weaters: threed(fay * Authors) who had by dying cut of the hope of many: But whatforuer his life was, which God thus shortned at his age of twentie and eight SANCTERESVERECTIONISECCLESIE PATRIARCHA II IDVS FEBRUARII. Q EAM ANNATIM PETENTIBUS DE INyeeres; certainely his death was not inglorious, but worthy to be fet out in Tables at large as a pattern IVNCTA SI PENITENTIALE DIES INto disobedient Children: for his Father refusing to wifite him(fearing his owne life,) but fending his (90) Thus the forrowfull Patriarcke being dif-(90) Thus the forrowfull Partiancke being dis-mitted (not foregetting as "formed on write, to thun-der against the King for abandoning the enale-brought back nothing to utilize motor and defpaire, the Figlense Thence (by the Diacle milatious Arra) beeing wrape and knoted in mutual (dipitions and quartelis indetermined, whereupon (horty) after, ensited, with the losse of templates, the capacity of "22-by in-abandoned and frimmens-by Christings." Ring in figne of forginenes, the dying Prince most humbly with flouds of teares kiffing the same, made a most forrowfull confession of his finnes, and feeling death approch, would needs be drawne (as an vnworthy finner) out of his owne bed, and laid vpon another, strewed with ashes, where his soule depar ted in a most penitent manner from his body which being related to the Father, hee fell vpon the earth, Guido King thereof, and of innumerable Christians besides; whom Sultan Saladin, Prince of the Muweeping bitterly, and (like another David for his Ab " Roy Heard. weeping bitterly, and (like another Dauid dor his Af-fowl) mourned very much, of gamme fandsom off, faith "one most gratuly: 0 how hairons a thing it is far-(inst a perfectate faither! fan unities the fame of the "fighter, sur the hand of an enemy, did access the father: "www." has a fourn and a flaw with occarriation of the "bound. His body was butted (by his own define) at fulmans or Saracens, to the griefe and difgrace of all the Christian world, did vanquish. (91) But, King Henries mind was more fixed on fetling the flate of his already-possessing the flat of the flate of his already-possessing the flat of the flate of his already-possessing the flat of the flate of his already-possessing the flat of the flate of his already-possessing the flat of the flate of his already-possessing the flat of the flate of his already-possessing the flat of the flate of his already-possessing the flat of the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the flate of his already-possessing the his already-possessi and therefore in a great Parlament, held at Oxford, (vnto which came Rhefus and Dasid, Kings of South-Roan; (which yet was not done without trouble, as Wales and North-Wales, with other their chiefe No-An.D. 1181 if the factions, of which hee was the cause in his life, did by a kind of Fate, not forfake him beeing dead bles, which al did there sweare fealtie to the King) he beeing defirous to aduance his sonne John (whom he for the Citizens of Mauns having enterred it, they exceedingly loued, and commonly in sport, hee calof Roan without menaces, and the fathers expresse commandement, could not obtaine it, who thereupled Sans-terra) having affured vpon him certaine Lands and Rents in England and Normandie, did on was taken vp againe,) but his wife Queene Mar-garet was fent backe into France, and his furuing Lands and Rents in England and Normandie..., did there verie folemuly gine him also the citle & King-dome of reland; for, (bediese the foreight Bull of Pope Advisar the fourth, who for figne of inseltures thad also fear a 'ring of gold, which were laid by in the Records at Wineselpy' Giriddau (Who lived in the Records at Wineselpy') Giriddau (Who lived in the Records at Who lived in the Recor fonnes were once againe reduced to due obedience. not any enemie daring to appeare.

(88) Who would not have thought, that this ftirring Prince, should have had opportunitie to end his daies in peace and glorie? but it was otherwise ordained by God, and ancient writers hold, hee was that age) tells vs (to omitte what hee writes of one Gurguntius) that Guillemar King of Ireland, was tri-Gurgammy transcriptor: that Bains (whence (faith her) the Irifo came) was at that prefers under King Hearic the Econd; and that the Iris Princes had whatterify followinted them (fall parts, was become their Sourciagne. But that Author had not feen belief, about 1918 and 19 principallie fcourged, for beeing drawne, by feeming reasons of State, to put off an holy enterprize, the For Heracins Patriarcke of Hierusalem, drawne with the supereminent same of King Henries wisdome. valour, riches, and puilfare, cruailed from thence into England, where, * at Clerkenvell by London, in an affenblie of the States purpofelie called, the king made knowner othem: That Pope Lewin had by erneft letters, commended the lamérable flate of the proone a legall right in the King) what others write prooue a legal right in the Kingj what others write of * Effrides vingodly spoiles in Ireland, or of * Ed-gars Charter, in which is said to bee contained, that he had vinder his rule the chiefe City of Ireland Dub-Holis-land, and the Patriarcke Heraeliss vnto him: * Bede. * Campag.730. That Heraclius (there present) had Rirred compassilin, and the greatest part of the kingdome also. But im, and the greatest part of the king dome and, but King Henrie firengthening his other rights with Grants of the Popes, Advien, and Alexander, obtained also of Vrhon the third (for Lucius the third, on, and teares, at the reherfall of the tragical affli-Ctions of the Easterne world, and had brought with * Rot Houd. him (for memorable " fignes, that the fuite was by Mas. Paris. common confent of the Countrey) the Keies of the who was Alexanders successor, would not gratifie the places of crists Natinitie, Passion, and Resurretion; of Davids Tower, and of the holy Sepulcine; and the humble ofter of the Kingdom of Hierusalem, with the the King therein) that it should bee lawfull for him, to crowne which of his sonnes hee would, King of Ireland, to whom hee fent a crowne of Feathers wo-Enfigne or Standard of the Kingdom, as dulie belonguen with gold, in all their Grants refersing to the RoChap. 6. | Henrie I J. ENGLANDS MONARCHES. Monarch 42 man See, the Peters pence, and rights; whereupon the King gaue the fame to his fonne tohn, whole Coro-nation (flung with the like before) his father onely K. Henry, whose heart was firmely setled (as it seems) to reuenge the cause of Christ vpon Sultan Saladine did delay, at such time as two Cardinales offered to celebrate that folemnitie.

(92 At Windfor therefore his father gluing him the * Order of knight-hood (at which time hee was the *Order of knight-nood (at which time nee was about * twelde yeeres old) fent him foorthwithin-to Ireland, where the Arch-bilhop of Dublin and the State, entertained him, but (by reason of such par-(imonie roward his fouldiers as was vfed) hee returned the same yeere without doing much, but not without having wafted the most part of his Armie in skirmishes with the trift. His Stile in his seale of Ireland (though Houeden faith, his father made him Regem, aking) was onely, Sigillum Iohannis filij regis Anglia Domini Hibernia, Lord of Ireland.

(93) King Henrie, hearing now that his martiall fonne, Earle Richard, had fortified in Postfou against nonne, parie Rehard, nad fortined in Politius galinithim, and vanquished Geffrey Earle of Britane, * prepares a puilfant armie, vpon terror whereof, Richard came in, rendring vp Politius to his mother Elienor, (whose inheritance it was) at his fathers commandement. The same yeere wherein the West was thus defiled with vnnaturall divisions, the East was like wife polluted with the curfed Apostasie of one Ri chard de S. Albane (whom wee fhame to thinke, was English) who renouncing the Christian beloefe (vp. on the Patriarcks discomfortable returne) became a principall Commander under the Sultan of Babilon Salandine, whom the Christians draue, with losse and flaughter of his armic, from Hierufalem. But on the An.D.1186. other fide, reuenge of disobedience fill pursued Geffrey, sonne of King Henrie, who was in a * Tornes-ment at Paris troden to death under the horse feete.

A miserable end, and a fearefull.

(94) About which times, betweene the French and English all things floode vasure, now warre, then peace, and warre againe, by reason that Philip (who had been crowned King some yeeres before, during the life of Lewis) challenging the custodie of Arthur, the Posthumus sonne, and heire of Geffrey Earle of Britane, and fometimes one thing, and fometimes nother, could not have his will: Whites Earle Richard turning to Philip against his Father, but obtaining a truce for two yeeres, fuch amity (if there be any amity among mighty Princes) grew between king Philip and Earle Richard, Heire apparant of England and Normandy, &c.that one bed and boord ferued both. The Father perplexed, cals his sonne home, who pretending many gricfes, as the deten-tion of Alice his Spoule, the doubt of difinherifon, and other things, flood out againe; and againe after a while fubmits to his Father. Then burfts forth Philip into Armes; and things fo flanding, the hea-uy newes of Ierufalem loft, flew into Christendom. uy newes of Iraquem lott, new into Chinicioni.
When this City was formerly recoured by Godfrey of Bolem, an Vrban was Pope, a Fredericke was Emperour, an Herselus Patriarch; lo now when it was loft, an Vrban was Pope, a Fredericke was Emperor, and an Heraclius Patriarch.

(95) Vpon these news Henry and Philip meet, and for the honour of God, laying downe displeasure, in presence of William Archbishop of Tyre, at which time some say a Crosseappeared in the aire, take wpon them, as Souldiers of Christ, the badge of the Crosse, and there the better to distinguish them-selues, it was agreed that the *French should weare read Crofles, the English White, and the Flemish Greene. And this determination was seconded withwarlike preparations, leuies of money, and in-flitution of martiall Discipline: all which notwithflanding nothing went forward.

(96) At Richard began the breach of this honourable confederation, who taking reuenge vpon cer-taine Rebels of his in Poitton, who brooked not his hard hand; one mischiese drew another, and at the last both the Kings of England and France became parties to the quarrell, greatly against the minde of for that in his * aniwere to the Pariarch of Antiesta, * at least the state of the parts required it, Saladine having flaine many of the parts required it, Saladame haufing finite many of the Knights Templars, and Nobles, and aboue thirty thousand footmen, with innumerable other in Ci-ties and Townes by him subdued. Among all which grieuous accidents, we cannot (to season sower therby with fweet) omit one noble protestation made by the chiefe crossed Lords, Philip Earle of Flanders, the Earle of Blogs and other, who being required to "take parts, made answere; That they would not "contrary to their promife to God, put armour on, against any Christian, till they had done their de-uoire against Saladine (97) In the treaties therefore between Henry and Philip; the demaunds of Philip on the behalfe of Richard were fuch, and so vnsafe for the King (as that all his fubic &s fhould fweare fealty to Richard during the Fathers life; but yet referuing their allegi-ance to the Father) that Richard apparantly fell off, King of France; and at a new I reacy (by mediation of a Cardinall Legate) the demaunds of Fhilip being more hard then before, as that King Henry should not onely settle the Kingdome vpon Richard, but take Iohn also with him into Paleline, or that other-

(98) The effect whereof was, that former good fortunes forfaking King Henry, hee fustained many losses by the Armies of King Philip and Riehard, & was driven out of Ments in Main (the city where he was born, & which he loued about all other places) by firing of the Suburbes before the enemy came, being cafually confumed, hee was glad to yeeld to fuch conditions as it pleased Philip to prescribe. It is written that at the meeting of these two Kings, the skie being cleare, a thunderbolt stroke betweene them, and after a little pause comming together a-gaine, it thundered more terribly, so that Henry had fainc off his horse, but that his people sustained hims whereupon hee came presently to an end, though i were to his vnípeakable griefe; his Kingly heart be ng vsed to give, and not totake conditions, (99) Fearefull was the speech which King Hemie, (99) Fearenii was the speech which King Hemre, when hee abandoned Mentz by reason of the fire, "vttered against Richard; which was, That sith he had taken from him that day the thing that hee most loued in this world, he would require him, "nost loued in this world, he would require him, "for after that day nee would deprive him of that thing which in him should best please a Child, to wit, his Heart. But after the peace concluded (vpon mediation) between the fides, another thing ftrucke neerer; for finding the name of his fonne John first in the Catalogue of the Conspirators againth in the Catalogue of the Companyation againth in in that action, hee bitterly curfed the howre of his birth, laying Gods curfe and his vpon his sonnes, which hee would neuer recall, for any perswasion of the Bishoppes and others: but comming to Chinon fell there grieuously licke, and feeble confession, and sorrow for his sinnes, hee depar-(100) It shal not (in contempt of humane glory) be forgotten, that this puissant Monarch being dead his people presently left him, and fell to spoile all he had, leaving him naked; of whom * one faith trulie ling death approch, hee caused himselfe to be borne into the Church before the Altar, where after hum-and became Liegeman for Normandy, &c. to Philip King of France; and at a new Treaty (by mediation take John and with him into Faterine, or into their wife Richard would not goe (being lealous of his brothers grace with his Father): Henrie would confent to none of those infolent propositions, but dif-daining to seeme to be enforced, they betooke them felues on all fides to their fwords,

King Harries

Holinfo.per. 119

An.D.1189.

his death, which was, when he had caigned 14. years 7.monethes and

Father to the Graue,

He was buried as Fastemerard.

* Serves in Lewis

m in Ludenic.7. who talls her 470

His Wife.

whereat Richard pierced with remorfe, melted into flouds of teares in most humble and repentant maner, attending upon the remaines of his unfortunate

(101) Bleanor, the Wife of King Henry, was the eldest of the two Daughters, and the sole Heire of William Duke of Aquitaine, the fift of that name, & the ninth in succession, sonne of Duke William the fourth, her Mother was Daughter to Raimund Earle of Tholoufe, and her great Dowrie was motive first to King Lewis, (who had two daughters by her. Mary and Alice) and after to King Henry, to marry her. There are of the * French Historians who reportthat king Henry had a former wife, and that thee bare vnto him Prince Henry: but Writers of our owne affaires (and * fome also of the French,) acknowledge but onely Eleanor for his Wife. Certain it is, that king Henries times were much famoused by two Women of much differing qualities: the one was his renowmed Mother Matildis, whose Epitaph thus comprised part of her glory:

Ortu magna, viro maior, sed maxima prole: Hic iacet Henrici Filia, Sponsa,Parens.

Here Henries Mother, Daughter wife dothrest: By Birth, much; more by Spoule; by Child, most blest.

The other was this Eleanor his Wife; the first cause of these bloudie Warres, which long after continued as hereditary betwixt England and France, yea and the bellows of that vnnaturall discord, betwixt her husband and his fonnes. Shee much out-lived her husband (as a bad thing flickes longest) beeing so happie as to fee three of her fonnes, advanced to the Crowne, and so vnhappie as to see two of them in their graves: for she lived till King Johns time.

His I flue.
(102) william, the eldest sonne and first child of King Henry, and Queene Eleanor his wife, was borne before his father was King, and while hee was but Duke of Normandy, in the eighteenth yeere of the raigne of King Stephen, 1 1 5 2, and the fourth yeere after, (his father beeing then King, and in the second yeere of his raigne) the Nobilitie of England sware vnto him their fealtie, as to the heire apparant of the Kingdome, at the Castle of Wallingford in Barkeshire but he deceased the yeere following, being the third of his fathers raigne, and the fift of his owne age 1 1 5 6. He was buried in the Monastery of Reading at the feete of his great Grandfather, King Hemi

(103) Henrie, the second sonne of King Henry. and Queene Eleanor, beeing borne the last of Februarie 1 1 5 6. was their heire apparant, after the death of his brother William ; was Duke of Normandie Earle of Anios and Maigne; and was crowned King of England, at Wessimpler, by Roger Arch-bishop of Yorke, the fifteenth of Iulie 1170. His wife was Margaret, daughter of Lewis the Tonger, King of France, married to him at Nuburgh in Normandy, the fecond of Nouember 1 160. crowned Quencat Winchester, by Rotrocke of warwicke Arch-billiop of Roan, the 21.0f November 1163, and furniting him was remarried to Bela, King of Hungarie: He died without iffue, before his father, at Marcell in Tonfaine, the eleventh of Julie, the twentie fixe yeere of his fathers raigne 1 1 8 2. and was buried in the Church of our Lady at ROAM.

(104) Rithard, the third sonne of King Henrie, and Queen Eleanor, was born at Oxford, (in the Kings Pallace there, called Beau-Mount, in September the fourth yeere of his fathers raigne I I 57. He pro-ued a Prince of great valor, and was therefore furnamed in French Cuer-de-Lion; in English Lions-Heart. hee was created Earle of Poyton, and had the whole Dutchie of Aquitaine, for which he did his homage to King Lewis the Tonger of France, in the eighteenth yeere of his fathers raigne 1 1 7 0. yet afterward he conceined some discontentment against his father, and maintained warres vpon him, but was reconciled againe into his loue, and succeeded him in his Kingdome.

(105) Geffrey, the fourth some of King Henrie, and of Queene Eleanor, was borne the twentie third of September, in the fifth yeere of his fathers raigne I I 5 9. Hee married Conflance daughter and heire of Conan Duke of Britane, and in her right was Duke of Britane, and did his homage to his brother Henry for the same Dutchie, and received the homages of the Barrons of the same : hee died at Paris, in the thirtietwo yeere of his fathers raigne 1 186. the nineteenth of August, and is buried in the quire of our Ladies Church there : hee had iffue Arthur Duke of Britane, borne after his fathers decease, the heire apparant of King Richard, and by some suppofed to bee made away by King Iohn; and also Eleanor called the Damfell of Britane, who died in prison in the raigne of King Henrie the third.

(106) Philip, the fifth sonne of King Henrie, and Queene Eleanor, may bee mistrusted, to be mistaken by Antiquaries of our time, as misunder-standing the ancient writers, who mentioning the birth of Philip the Kings fonne, might by good likelihood, be thought to meane, Philip fonne of Lewis the Yonger King of France, who was borne about this time, and was after King of the same Countrey. But M. Thomas Talbot, an exact transiler in genealogies, hath not onely fet him downe in this place, amongst the children of this King, but also warranteth the same, to bee done with good authoritie : howfocuer, it is apparant, his life was verie short.

(107) Iohn, the fixth and yongest sonne of King Henrie, and Queene Eleaner, was borne in the thir-teenth yeere of his fathers raigne, in Anno I I 66. hee was iestinglie surnamed by his father Sans terre, in English without Land, because hee was borne last. as if there had beene nothing left for him: Notwithstanding soone after, hee was created Earle of Mortraining toone arter, nee was created have of new-traigne, and had more-ouer by degrees, the Earle-domes of Commall, and Glosefter, the Counties Derby and Lancafter, the Honors of wallinford and Nottingham, the Castles of Tithill, Mass borow, and Ludgarfall, with many other great Seigniories, and aboue them all) was also Lord of ireland, and at the last succeeded his brother Richard in all his Dominions and was King of England.

(108) Mand, the eldeft daughter of King Hen-17, and Queene Eleanor, borne in the third yeere of her fathers raigne, married to Henrie, furnamed the Lion Duke of Saxonie ; Lothar that died yong, Otho the fourth German Emperour, and William borne at winchester, progenitor of the Dukes of Brunswicke, who bare for their Armes, the Coat of England, with the two Lions, as King Hemie his Grandfather bare, before the match with Queene Eleanor, and Mand married to Geffrey Earle of Perch: Shee survived him, and died in the first yeere of the raigne of her brother King Richard, and was buried by her husband, in the Church of S. Blafe at Brunfwicke. (109) Eleanor, the second daughter of King Henrie, and Queene Eleanor, was borne at Roan in Normandy, in the eight yeere of her fathers raigne, 1162. She was married to Alfonfe, the ninth of that name, furnamed the Good, King of Caffile in Spaine, and had iffue by him Sanches, that died in his infancte : Ferdinande that died in his youth, Henry King of Cafile after his Father, Blanneh Queene of France, wife to King Lewis the 8. and mother of Saint Lewis. Berengar married to Alfon fo king of Lion: Vrraca Queene of Portagall, and Eleanor wife of Iames king of Arragon.

Chap. 6. Henrie IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHES. Monarch 43

(110) Ioane, the third and yongest daughter of king Henry, and Queene Eleanor his wife, was born at the City of Angiers in France, in the moneth of October, the 13. yeare of her Fathers raigne, which was the yeere of our Lord, 1166. when thee was cleuen yeeres of age; shee was with great honour conucied to the City of Palermo, and there married to William the fecond of that name, king of Sicil, Duke of Apulia, and Prince of Capua, vpon Sunday the 13. day of Februarie, 1177. and was crowned Queene the same day at the same place. Shee had a sonne by him named Boamund, whom his Father when hee was returned from his Christning, created Duke of Apulia: but the child died first, and the Father after, leaving no issue. And she surviuing, married againe, and was the third wife of Raimund the fourth of that name, Earle of Tholouz, by him thee had Iffue Raimund the last Earle of that house, Bertrand Lord of Branquell, Montelore, and Salusas, and a daughter matried to Berald of Elbeine. Prince of Orenge,

His Naturall I fue.
(111) William the Naturall sonne ofking Henry born of Rosamund, the daughter of walter Lord Clif ford; which Lady for her incomparable beauty was reputed(with allufion to her name) Rola-mundi, the reputed with author to her name? Role of the world: the deare affection the king bare her, caused both burning sealousses the Queene, and facall ruine to her selse, albeit the amorous king, for her fecrefie and fecurity, (but what walles will not a lealouseye pierce through?) had built for her a most artificiall Labyrinth at Woodflockein Oxfordsbire, with such cunning windings and intricate passages, as had not Fate, and Heauen's reuenge on Adultery, shewed the way, the enraged Queen had not fo soone beene rid of her Rivall, northat wanton Dame of her life. Shee was buried in the Nunnery of Godftow by Oxford with this Epitaph, Heciacet in Tumba Rofa mundi, non Rofa munda; Nonredolet, fed olet, quaredolere folet.

This Tombe doth here enclose the Worlds most beauteous Rose, passing sweet ere while, Now nought but odour olle.

But Hugh (called the Saint) Bishop of Lincolne, thought the Hearle of a Harlot no fit spectacle for a Quire of Virgins to contemplate, & therefore him-felfe in person caused her bones to be call foorth of the Church; which yet those chast sisters afterward recollected, and placed there againe with much honour, erecking a goodly Croffe, thus inscribed to the honour of her memory :

Qui meathac, oret, Signumque falutis adoret, Vtq; tibi detur requies Rofamunda, precetur.

All you which passe this way, This Crosse adore, and pray, I hat Rosamunds Soule may True rest possesse for aye.

The first Sonne which by her King Henry had, was the faid William, furnamed in French, Longespee, in English, Long-Sword. He was Earle of Saluburie, in right of Ela his Wife, Daughter and heire of William Earle of that County, son of Earle Patrick, by whom hee had Iffue William Earle of Salisbury Stephen Earle of Vifter, Ela Counteffe of Warwicke, Ida Lady Beucham of Bedford, and Ifabell Lady Vef-cie: his fonge Earle William the fecond, had Earle william the third, Father of Margaret, Wife of Henry Lacie Earle of Lincolne: hee died in the Cafile of old Salisbury, and was buried in the Cathedrall Church of the New City, in the ninth years of the raigne of king Henry the third.

(112) Geffrey an other Naturall sonne of king Henry, was borne of the Lady Rolamund aforesaid: This man in his tender youth, was (by his Fathers procurement) made Archdeacon of Lincolne, and after Bishop of that See, which hee held aboue featien yeeres without confectation: and then refigning it, in the yeare, 1181.into the hands of Reshard Archbishop of Canterbury, and his Father, he was made Chancellour of England, and afterward by his brother king Richard, he was advanced to the Archbishopricke of Torke, (being consecrated at Tours in France, An. 1191.) which See he gouerned with good approbation. But in the time of his Browith good appropation, but in the time of his Pro-ther King Ishn, hee vnderwene many difficulties, by oppoling the Kings purpofes, who therefore made leiture of his whole flate, and An. 1207, he left the Land and after fine yeeres banishment, died, viz.

(113) Mergan, an other Naturall sonne of King Henry, is thought by * some (because so small men-tion is made of him) to have been of no long life asteghis birth, and to have beene borne of fome wo man in wales, where this Christian name is most commonly vsed, and whither this King vpon many occasions, sometimes reforted. But * some others (whose fluidious paines, deferue much thankes of polteritie) report, that hee was gotten on the wife of one Rodulph Bloeth (or Blewer) a knight, and liued both to bee Promos of Buentley, and to be elected to the Bilibopricke of Durham, when comming to Rome for a dispensation (because his Bastardie made him otherwise vncapable) the Pope willed him to pro-fesse himselfe blewers lawfull son, and not the Kings Naturall, promiling to confecrate him on that condition: but he, vling the aduile of one William Lane his Clerke, told the Pope, that for no worldly promotion, he would renounce his father or deny him felfe to bee of roial bloud; fo blind were fome Prelats of those times, who esteemed firituallfunctions, to be but worldh promotions.

An.D. 2181.

RICHARD

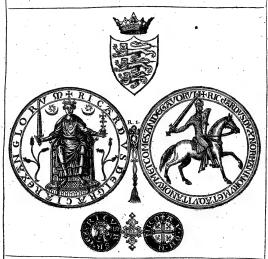

Monarch 44

Suero li. v. z. ze

Richard I.

RICHARD THE FIRST, DVKE OF NORMANDY, GVYEN AND AQVI-TAINE,&c. THE FORTIE FOVRTH MONARCH OF THE ENGLISHMEN, HIS RAIGNE, ACTS, AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER VI.

ICHARD succeeding to his deceased Father Henrie, brought forth that wonder, which a Writer ofthat age thus celebrated. -

Mira cano; Sal occubuit, Nox nulla fecuta eft.

Wonder strange I write the Sundid fet, yet was no Night.

Meaning, that though Henry were dead, yet the glory and happinesse of the land was not thereby tionded, for that Richard was another Sunne, and in some respects farre the more bright, and farther shining of the two; as having for honour of Christian Cheualrie, wholy confecrated his warlike minde and actions to the service of God, and readpancement of the Croffe of Chrift, dishonoured by the Infidels in Afia: in which enterprise hee was so fernently zealous, that from the time of his Fathers death (in whose vowes it had beene) hee meditated death (in whole vowes it gad oeene) nec meutace.

Karfe any thing elfe, difpoling the affaires of his Eflate (but not * carelefly, as forme would impose) as of things which did but onely vnder-ferue, and conthings which did but onely vnder-ferue, and coning the state of duce to the maine and principall end of aduancing his Sauiours glory, whereunto hee judged that action did tend.

(2) Having therefore ordered his weightier bufinesses in Normandy, and other his transmarine Dominions & in England by his letters, fet * the Queen his Mother at liberty from that captinity, wherein *GenDors. her late husband the king had long detained her, (who sensible of others woe by her owne, did afterward exercise many works of mercy in that kind) he cuts ouer hither, aswell to receive all the rights of Soueraignety, and to settle the same; as also to scuie meanes for proceeding in his intended holy voi-age, together with Philip king of France, and other Christian Potentates.

(3) And though before his Coronation, most kingly power before Coron Writers doe not call him a King; yet fure it is, that

Richard I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 44 he and others did immediately, and vnquestiona-bly, vpon the first accruement of the interest, (which was at his Fathers last galpe) exercise all the offices of the roiall power; for fo hee restored Robert Earle of Leicester to his whole estate : So plaine it is, that our Gouernment allowes not the dangerous consulfions,& emptie spaces of an Interregnum, such as in meer elective States are comon, if not continual, (4) But in nothing more could this noble Prince flew his judgement (though he were otherwise * Sagacis ingenij, of a sharpe and scarching, wit) then in this: That hee banished from his familiarity,& (as my Author faith) hated all those of what profession to ever they were, who had for taken his Father, and both retained, and enricht those other, who had loially flood for him against himselfe in al affaics,

(5) At his Coronation, which was most magnifi-cently performed at Westminster, by * Baldwyne Archbishop of Canterbury, the pointes of the Oath which hee made to God, and the Kingdom of England, at the Altar upon the holy Euangelists, before the Prelates, Nobles, and whole people, * were peace, honour, and reuerence to God, and holy Church and the Ordinances thereof: 2 That in the people to him committed, hee would exercife right, iustice, and equitie. 3. That hee would blot forth naughty lawes, and peruerfe customes, if any were brought upon his Kingdome, and would enact good lawes, and the same in good faith keepe, and without mal-Eneyn. Which oath being most solemnly taken, and the sacred vnction performed; the Archbishop standing at the Altar forbad him, on the behalfe of Almighty God, to affume that honour, vnleffe hee had a full purpole to keepe what hee had fworne: whereto Richard alfenting, and with his owne hands, humbly taking the ponderous Crowne Imperial from off the Altar, in fignification, as is probable, that hee held it onely from God; hee deliuers it to the Archbishop,

Chiefe matrers

(6) Which Act was accidently hanfeld, and auf picated with the bloud of many Jewes (though vt terly against the Kings will) who in a tu mult (raised by the * Ocean) were furiouslie murthered, which (though it were afterward punished by the Lawes). might seeme a presage, that this Lion-hearted King (as. his by-name Ceur-de-Lion did import) should beea speciall destroier of the Enemies of our Saviour.

who thereupon accomplished all the Ceremonics of

(7) After counsell therefore (first moouer in all worthy enterprises) Money was in his first, and chiefeft cares a for raifing whereof, to furnish the inten-Technical pursuits for the Hely Lend ded pilgrimage, he fold, morgaged, effated, and (by a thouland princely skills) as if he should never have come againe, added incredible heapes to those huge fums, which hee had scruzed out of Stephen de Turnham, his fathers Treasurer (amounting to eleuen hundred thousand pounds sterling, if some say true) all hoorded by King Henry. What could indeed be faid enough for such a voiage? and it was a cogitation woorthy fo glorious a purpose, so to order his effate, as if hee were not to returne at all; because, looking-backe doth vnbend and foften refoluti-(8) As for men and foldiers, the Prelats, Friars, and other Preachers, had stirred up innumerable, by their manifold exhortations (the Arch-bishoppe of Canterburie having * travailed through Wales in perfon for that purpole, going afterward with the King to Palestine, where also * he died) in pulpits and pri-nate conferences, founding nothing but the Croffe and Passion of Christ, calling the world to reuenge his cause vpon the Pagans, and setting soules on fire

* Gir Camb.

" Rog Howed, Math. Paris.

with vehement gestures, actions, and perswasions. But the kingdome of England he ordered thus. (9) The onely maine danger of the State in his absence, was in his brother Iohn Earle of Mortone, of whose ambition hee was somewhat icalous, as

* knowing that King Hemie, not long before his death, had intended the Crowne to him: to conquer therefore his appetites, with bountie, and munificence; and to take away all murmuration in him, for want of Princelie competencies, King Richard did as it were share the Realm with him, giving him fixe Earledomes, Cornwall, Dorfet, Sommerfette, Not-tingham, Derby, and Lancafter, belides Castles, Honors, Manors, Forests, and much other riches, and finallie, the Earledome of Glofter, with the Heire of that Countie to bee his Wife, though the Arch-bishop of Canterburie forbad the Nuptialls, alledging

(10) But left, through cuill nature or aduife

face was within degrees of confanguinitie.

Earle . Iohn should convert those so great gifts to the subuction of the bestower, Hee entrusted him with no part of the Regall power, as the Key, and fe-cret of his proper safetie: but laide the maine burthen of Gouernment vpo william Longchamp Bishop of Ely, * chiefe Iustiniar, and Lord Chancellor of England, and Papall Legate, (a person out of all suspition for aspiring to the Crowne) whereby was conferred vpon him, whatfore either King or Pope could grant, for accomplishment of his authoritie; fo that he might well be stiled * Prince and Priest of England; as hee was one, the most powerfull subject | Man. Pain. for the time, that perhaps this Realme hath had : for. torthe time, that germps this neame man man man, ton, though the Kinghad (as it were) binned with him in Commission, one Hugh Bishop of Durham, for the parts of England Deyond Humber; yet, as it * hap-act in the Consultable of Case and Bishubat, that nothing was reported of Bishubat, but all of Casar, to did Long champ in a fhort time easilie make himselfe fole and absolute, his sway burying in silence, the name, and endeauours, of his Colleague. (11) Thus the fumme of commaund, or the Souereigne power it selfe, was in the Chancellor as Viceroy, but for defence and preservation of his iu-stice, hee * did subordinate or affociate to those Bishops, William Earle of Arundell, Hugh Bardolfe, Inops, requame sauce of resonances, rings was ways, william Marshall, Seffrey Fetz-Peter, william Bruser, Robert de Whitfield, Roger Fitz-Remfrey, wherein hee did shew his love and care of the English Nation, as also of Justice it selfe : for that many of these, were of the most honourable Peeres of the Land (and not men bred-vp or formerly enured to make Juffice, or their owne Tongues venall, for a fee :) honour beeing the rule of their proceedings, and firength of private fortunes, with their Princes favour, the pilar to fusteine that honor. -

(12) There remained to prouide for (before hee left England) the neighbour-hood of Scotland and Wales, which might otherwise make vie of his abfence to his prejudice: But Rhefe ap Gruffith (of whom there is extant a short but elegant Panegris) Prince of South-Wales (beeing already in amitie) came as farre as Oxford toward him; but because the King (who was there) came not in person to meete him (as his father King Henrie had done) the Prince(not-withstanding Earle Iohn the Kings only brother, had conducted him from the Marches with speciall honor) tooke it in so high scorneand indignation, (for euen the meanest, from whom service or love is expected, will againe expect regard) that hee foorthwith returned into his Countrey, without once fa-luting the King ; who by this neglect, loft Rhefer lone, as, vpon the like omiffion, and vnrespectivenesse, Augustime (the too supercilious Monke) did leefe the affections of the Monkes of Bangor, Rhefes owne countrie-men, in another part of Wales.

(13) As for william King of Scots (a verie worthie Prince) hee iourneied hither to King Richard into England, and heere concluded a firme friendship. which hee kept verie religiously, euen in the greatest troubles of King Richard, to the glorie of himfelfe and his Nation, and as some write, sent his Brother Danid with 5000. Scots, to ferue him in the facred warres. The chiefe points of their convention were.

. That for ten thousand Markes Sterling, (then other not named.

Hellor Beefini

(21) Moreouer for finall affurance, he offereth The Pope King hat Pope Clemet should undertake for performance Rich of his part in the faid agreement; and that the faid

Clement would accordingly undertake, hee requests him by most officious letters, giving him leave with-

Rot. House.

fafe, he *flaied for them by the way, and then came to anchor not long after (to wir, 23. of September) before the City of Messan, with so great a shew of power, and found of Waslike Instruments, and o-her fignes of Maicfly, in the fight of Philip and his

Richard I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 44 (bap.7. out any reluctation) to put his dominions (vpon aput it againe on the Emperour's head. ny his breach) vnder feuerest centures. (25) The same day in which Philip & his French (22) This peace and accord being happily thus Forces fet faile out of the Hauen of Meffana, arri- Goronem ued Alienor King Richards mother, accompanied concluded King Fancred (having most rotally and A.D. 1191. louingly feafted the King of England for three daies and three nights in a Caltie of his) discouered, vpon The King of France lets faile for the Holy. with Berengaria his new intended Spoule, daugh-ter to * Sanctius King of Nauarre, whome afterward the way at Tauernium in his returne, a foule and vnhe tooke to wife in Cyprus; but his Mother after a Land. thort flay returned by Rome into England, leaving the princely conspiracie of Philip (whome one of our Writers cals the vain-glorious King) against the head and safety of King Richard; which comming to bee young Lady with Ioan Queene Dowager of Sieslie, Ger Dar ooth which accompanied the King toward the holy * Ro. How f. 392 scanned betweene the two Kings, the French char-Land, his whole Nauie being *one hundred and fifged the English with picking of quarrels; and added, that valefle Richard maried his lifter Alice, according ty great thips, and fifty three Gallies well appointed *7pod.2(east, for the warre, and * many other Sailes and Veffels as hee ought, having beene contracted long before together, he would be his enemy while he breathed; and(not to omit the same because it is recorded as a fingularity) he had among all thefe,* thirteen Buces Mar. Par ad A whereunto King Richard (being preffed) did replie: or Buscies, which had each of them three course of Sailes to faile with: but no Writer (so farre as we yet Tool Muss). That his * fifter during the time of her abode in England, had a child by his Father Henry King of find) declares what numbers of Souldiers were in England, which he was ready to proue by many witthe Englift Armie, neffes there prefent: fo that King Richard had farre more caufe then a suspicion of dishonesty (which (26) This Naujeroiall betweene the Ifles of (26) I his inameronan octave and good of King King Ribbards Rhodes and Cyprus, (for the honor and good of King Name featured Name featured *fome write) to refuse the marriage. This falling Richard) was featterd by God with a terrible temout fo thamefully, Philip (vpon certaine conditions betweene Richard and him) left him at liberty to peft, some one or two of which suffered wreack vp. on the Isle of Cyprus, whom * Curfac (or as other call *Ypod, Henft, Math. Paris, • Howed, take a wife where he thought good, but neuer (as it him Ifakius, Emperour of the Griffons) being a * tymay sceme) forgaue him his cuill will while they rant did fpoile, and contrary to Christian Religion. (which was his profession, though some missale) and all honour and humanity, he would not (among two lived together. (23) And because acts of Christian remorse and humility are too rare among the Great ones of this other his unprincely, or rather barbarous behaui vaine world, it were a crime to pretermit the exem-A Christian exours) fuffer the Kings fifter, and Lady Berengaria ample of King Richard. *Ro.Hoved.f.388 plar humiliation of this famous General K. Richard with other of that tender societie, to come into harlowed fel 3 90 at this time, who(to vie my * Authors words) infpi bour, to their great discontentment and perill, a red with dinine grace, and studying to fitte himselfe Shippe or two finking there; but neither would for the great attempt he had in hand, was flung at God, nor King Richard forgine it him. the foule with fo just compunction for his finnes, (27) For the aid vnworthy Prince hauing thrice refuled to make refittution of his vnlawfull feifures that calling before him his Archbishoppes and Biand prisoners, was entred upon by the English, driven

Re Hand shoppes into a Chappell, at the house where he was lodged without the walles of Meffana; hee blushed from the shoares with great dishonour and slaughnot to make a penitent confession of his manifolde ter; the City Limefzan left for a prey to the victors, exceffes, humbly praying God of mercy, and them (as his fubordinate Ministers) of Absolution, & God and himselfe beaten againe out of his Campe, and de and Men. taken, and after an escape made by him, his onelie paso Holin, (as in Mooden) respected him with eies of Mercy, and game him a penitent heart, so that from thenceforth hee proued a man fearing God, eschning euit, and doing good. daughter and heire veelding her felfe, and her Fadaugner and near vectoming ner terie, and ner ra-ther fally comming againe of his owne accord (as defpairing to lie hid) under cultodie, and thrust into fetters of gold and filter, the whole I land (with all * Ofælicem illum, &c. O happie he, who so fals, that "he may rife more strong: O happy he, who after peni the people, strength, and riches thereof) became subject to the King of England, and both Father and "tence yelapfeth not into fault and raine.

(24) Wherupon addicting his mind to divine con Daughter led away into captivity. templations,& meditation of the christian Church, (28) There arrived at Lime faun, to falute and howhose Champion now he was; hee desired confe nour King Richard within three dayes after his first rence of one Ioachim(a Cistercia Abbot) whose great nour Raig Schma within three days after his his inti-vitory, Guido King of Ierusalem, Geofrey de * Leni-Lant his brother, Raimand Prince of Antisch, Earle Boemond his sonne, &c. offering their services, and swearing to bee his against all men; with whose learning and deepe understanding in the Seriptures, with an opinion of a Propheticall inspiration, made him so famous over the world, that King Richard Ko eroueaus 1810. Paulus Aemsloss in Philippo. 2. fent for him being the in Calabria neer Sicilie, whom privity King Richard Seised the flourishing and spaious lland of Cyprus, by antiquity celebrated as the very feste of Venus, which that it might fo proue to himselfe, in the ioyous moneth, he foleamly took to wife his beloued Lady Berengris, (29) The person of the Emperour (for by that at his comming he heard preaching and expounding at his comming the nearto preacting and expositions of the Appealphy of S. Inhy, touching the afflictions of the Church, and of Antichrift, which (laith hee) we then borne, and in the City of Rome, and fall bee adams-ceds in the Sex-Appliatick, or bown the Applie faid, he flouid extell himselfe about all that is called God, and that hat the Pope is lofty title Writers call him ,) was fent to Tripolis in the feuen Crownes were the Kings and Princes of the Syria, vnder the custody of Ralph Fitz Godfrey, Lord Tot Head. earth which obeyed him. Surely, neere about this very time hapned that in Rome, which might feeme to committed to the two Queenes Berengaria and Ioan: 1319. giue great probability to that Abbots opinion, espethe Hand it felfe was entrufted to Richard de Camule, gue great probability to that Abous opinion, eight cially, if Emperours and Kings bee truely called *Gods, ouer whom Antichrift allo flould extol himfelf: for in the fame moneth that Richard left Meffans, and Robert de Turnham his Viceroyes, with competent force and provisions, and the Handers fuffered to enioy all fuch lawes and liberties; as they held in was the Coronation of Henry the Emperour, and the time of Manuel the Emperour of Constantinople, his Empresse Constantia, in S. Peters Church; where or(as now they call it) of Stamboli. Pope Celestine, the very next day after his own con-(30) This fame of Richard was much enfectation to the Papacie, fate in his Pontificall chaire, holding the Emperiall golden Crowne betwist his feete: larged by his conquering a mighty * Argoscy, called a Dromond, wherein were aboord one thouand the Emperour (as likewife the Empresse) stooping low, received on his head the Diadem from the Popes feet; fand and fine hundreth Sarazens (though difguiled, under French Flagges) furnished, besides all other and presently agains the Pope Strake the Emperors crowne with his foot, and dasht* it to the ground; signifying that prouifions, with fire-workes, barrelles or cages of venemous serpents, and the like, for the vse of the hee had power to throw him (upon his demerites) out of Sarazens at Acon, (anciently called Ptolomais, to the his Empire: but the Cardinal's catching up the crowne, fiege whereof he was then failing,) thirteene hun-Hhhh 2

7.	Richard I. ENGLANDS	M	IONARCHS.	Monarch 44.	477
1	tence of the composition made with King Richard	1 1	impression of the Christian	Cheualrie, and of his
f.408	at Messana, had not (to their immortal glory) refu-		owne Allies and Countrime	n; as indeed not long fed to alsift him therein, till Richards returne, aswel	1	after he died, leauling his E	mpire towly, but fult-	Rog.Haued f. 414.
1	in regard of their owne oathes, as because the sen- tence of excommunication was denounced against	1 1	ly, diftracted by civill confusi Truce the crafty Turke mad	ons. whereas by this
- 1	all fuch as did attempt to endammage him in' his	1	powers of two to potent Mo.	narkes had in a manner l
1	abience.	1 1	effected nothing ; & Richard	could neuer haue time	l l
- 1	(38) King Richard notwithstanding that the re-	1	to return for accopitisment of	of his deligns; for which	- 1
	lation of these things greatly troubled him, gaue not		all Christendome hath at th	is howre reason to bee	1
	ouer as yet, but after fundry other matters of im- portance performed, did march vp within the fight		forrowfull, and hereof himse	s crie out that hee	Polyd Verg lib.sq
- 4	of Ierusalem, where he skirmished with the enemie;	1 1	fo that hee would oftentime was not alwayes wife, allu-	ding to this occasion
	& ouerthrew the Conuoy or Carauan of the Salaa-		lolt.
	dine, which came latten from Babylon, guarded with		(42) But the noble King,	hoping to pierce with	An.D. 1193
Gith	ten thousand men; whom King Richard valiantlie		speed through Germanie in o	lifguite, tooke to him
7000. nd	encountring with fine thousand selected souldiers, put most of them to the sword, and took three thou-	1 1	the name of * Hugo a Merch *head and beard growne ver	v long being the firter	* Mat.Paris.
men-	fand Camels, and four thousand Horses and Mules,		to conceale him; but in his	iourney ouer land was	Reg. Haurd f.408.
iles	belides those that were flaine, and so gained the rich		neere to Vienna vnhappily of	liscouered by the pro-	- 1
	fpoile of all the Carriages.		fulenelle of his expenses; v	when hee law he could [
	(39) After this, and many other worthy thinges	1 1	not escape them, * in content put on roiall garments, and	refused to world but	* Polyd-Verg 1,24
	done as the rescue of loppa, and repulse of Saladine from thence,&c, the King indefatigable in his braue		*onely to the Duke himfelf	e, who came with iov	* Math.Park.
	serempts, defirous to regaine Jerufalem, and the Ci-	1 1	as to a prev which he fore lo	nged for: but the raf-	ALLO ALLO ALLO
	ty Baruck, was abandoned in that enterprise by the		call multitude* cried things calling him (O barbarifme)	worthy of themselues,	i is in	ty Barnek, was abandoned in that enterprife by the Duke of Burgandie (who is * faid to have been ap- parently corrupted with gifts from Saladine, and the		calling him (O barbarifme) ' ing, stone-him, some cut off h	rattour, and fome fay-	* Ger.Dor.
	parently corrupted with gitts from salaane, and the regiments of French under his conduct;) wherupon	1.	him: and because the inh	manity of this wage	- C
	he was the rather periwaded by the Knights Tem-		may be fuited with rimes as	rude and ragged, you	1
	plars, and chiefes of the Christian hoast, not to refuse		may be fuited with rimes as shall in such heare the cause	of this Arch-dukes	"Hardings Chr.
	Saladines offers for a furceasance mm hostility, con- fidering that hee had a purpose to returne with re-		malice, growing first at Acc	on, where the Author	cap,138.
	enforced numbers and meanes; that his prefent		speaking of King Richard Sai	in;
	powers by divisions, by ficknesse, by battales were		He gate it some with his gre	at Ordinance.	1
	wasted and that the dangerous estate of his owne		And on the walles his Bann The Kings Armes he fet up	ers full high fêt,	1
	Dominions did require his presence, (the greatest morine, for he had supplies of money for his Soul-		The Kings Armes he fet up	alfo of France, diers wages from Pope Celestine) by reason of some		And King Guyes Armes of	erujaiem weuverz
	vidue practifes at home, and the rancour of King		The Duke of Oistrich Limpo Set up his Armes after about	them all,	1
ww.9,1.5	Philip his vnreconcilable aduerlary abroad. Wheru-	١.	Which King Richard did caft	downe from the wall.
g.l.14-	po a truce was taken for three yeers, and Saladine re-	١.	(43) And though it is cer	in- shasabia Amaban
	paid such charges as Richard had been at in fortify- ing Askalon, which was brought to the same estate.		faines not this fact, for that f	ome fuch matter (and	Pretences for
	as in which King Richard found it.		told by *fome with more d	iseduantage to Richards	the detinue of King Richard. * Mat. Paris ad
	(40) But the King of England, though hee had very far excelled all the Christian Princes in great		canfe) is by others arelated.	et the gravest Authors	Mat. Parited very far excelled all the Christian Princes in great	1	agree (that next to the comm the greatest pretence was th	on enuie at his vertues)	An.D.1192, Ger. Der. who verices that the exploites at that iourney, because * he had neither conquered Salaadine, nor Ierufalem, did mourne	1	oneffe Conrad committed	at Twe, by two cur-
	and parted penfiue. In the holy-land hee left Hen-	-	queffe Conrad committed fed Affafines, ax certaine fed: a Senior or Ruler, whom they bo they are fent forth to murther f	in the East , liuing under	vp his Standard in the chiefe place of the City
	ry Earle of Champaine, (who vpon taking the faid	i i	a Senior or Ruler, whom they bo	ner as a Prophet by whom Baruck was to have beene crowned King of Ierufa km, which Guido had refigned) and hee last Guyde	:	not promising themselves ther	uen princes as janor inem mand af immantality by	iniutic of King Richard. Guil.de Noubber.
	de l'ustonian the late King of lerusalem in Croppus, to)	obeving him in all things, though	hwith the lolle of their	Guil.de Nousbur.
	whom hee had paffed it, in exchange for the other	,			lib,5,cep.16
	whom hee had paffed it, in exchange for the other to advance his Kinfeman the faid Earle of Champain	3	Emperour, and Leopold the kiniman Conrad was) would	Aren-duke (whole neer	es.lib.4,cep.14 & lib.5,cep.16 This description fitteth a like sect
	which, vpon that I life, the familie of Layman to		Richard was the Author, the	ongh therin they toucht	now in the west,
g.lib., 14	Richard having ordered his affairs in the East parts	,	his princely reputation and outly, for that the chiefe of t	ntegrity, * most iniuri-
u.f.417	Can Gilla homeward The Queenes Revenueria hi	e l	outly, for that the chiefe of t	hat feet by their owne	Tpod.Neuft.p.
	wife, and Ioan his fifter, with the Captine Lady Daughter of the Cypriot Emperour, vider the con	٠.	publike * letters (written wit called Murex, wherewith S	in the brome of the foot-filly correct when to be dued)	455.Edit. An,D.1603 duet of Stephen de Turnham (hearing of the Kirly	s	lacknowledging the fact, of	declared the true caule	The copie of the most heavie fortune) solourned at Rome about fix	e	thereof, which was a partic	ular Act of injustice in	2(ubrig 1.5.cap.16
	moneths, for feare of Richards enemies, & afterward	d	Comadhim(elfe: There wa	inted not lundry other came fafe by Marfilsa in Poilton.		pretences, as in fuch cases is had entred league with Tan	viuan, as * that Kithara cred King of Sicilia the
	(41) God whose cause was onely pretended in this voyage of the Christians, did not seeme to ap		The memory and the	thee had through the Car	de Des viat proue the faid truce; for hee * scattered the English	6	print their kiniman) our of onely daughter Captine. B	the Empire, and kept his aris.	with a terrible tempest, and the * opportunity	of	onely daughter Captine. B	ut this booty, being too
Vag.	Conquest was so lost, that hitherto it could no uer bee regained, and the King of England letting	ir			1
	flippe when God had almost pur the same into h	is hands, did miserably fall into his enemies hand	s.	which could not make him	in any act or ipeech, or Certainelie, the name of Richard was at that tim	ie l	which could not make him gefure of his, shew beneath ous Prince and King of Eng	the mainte of a victori-	1
	growne terrible to Saladine, who had received duers loffes, foiles and overthrowes at his handes
	Moreover, the Saladines whole effate being endar	n-	leheworld prejently duck	nea who were lound, or	Eudigrand in nex
	gered by fuch of his own feet as reputed him a me	er	vnfure; forrow and difmay his owne: * His carefull m	was cuery where among	# Ger Der.
	vfurper, hee could not long withftand the doub	ie	nis owne : * Fits carefull in	friends	Rog.Hourd-f.408
	'

ENGLANDS MONARCHS Monarchae 1 477

Ro. Hoxed

Math.Paris Rich.t.

Polyd Furg.

Ger.Der.

Rog. Ho

4 Mat. Pa

long time before out of poffession) & therofcrowns him King, writing magnificent letters into England, with fuch like offices.

(48) Now when King Richard (who had wonne the couetous Emperour, by the proofe of his inno-cency, and by his most noble and constant carriage)

A new and fould to himselfe wonderfull honour and respect, even of *Rollound fark leine reftore him a after fifteene moneths imprifonment, to Queene Aliener his mother, free from the Rend, Higden Emperour, all that were present weeping thereat in Pagarita. know I truely that the Lord hath fent his Angell and ta- Roger Housed. dily premonished him, and so by a verie little time he preuented his surprisers, landing happily at Sandat Accom in the Holy-land) went ioyously foorth to King and Ard meet him; whom when the King faw, he difmoun-King Richards vanooie captuation of RichardKing of England, was sung xunara punified by God, and on Gods behalfe. The Duke of Auftrias' Country, and people, being vifited with thele flue plagues, Fire, Water, Barrennes, Worms, Mat. Paris. & Pestilence: the Fire, casually burning his Towns, Rodoerd f. 425. Subjects, in an overflow; the earth waxing drie and Policies 17.2 17. ftages)is fent to the King with this bloodie meffage. but before his return, ypon S. Stephens day in Christ-mas, the Duke*spurring his horse in sport ypon a *Ga.Do. Castle of snow among youthes, which were counterfeiting a fiege, and an affault, with the flip of his horse, brake his foot in such fort, as it came to be cut off, and within a while feeling himselfe perishing vp-ward, so that his death was certaine, could not bee absoluted of his Bishops from the sentence of Ex-

Polyd Firg 1.14. * Mat. Paris ad Ann. Dom. 1196 Roger Houed, fol. 431. King Richards doings after his returne. Mas. Par, Ro, Howed f. 392.

Richard I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 44 communication which had by the Pope bin denounned)held against him; but Henry de Pumeray, who ced, till hee and his Lords had fworne to release all had fortified Saint Michaels Mount in Cornwall, heathe faid matters betweene the King of England and ring for certaine that King Richard was come, died him; but his sonne after his death refusing the for very feare. And now, forty daies of fummons Hoved fot 418. performance, his Fathers body lay ftinking aboue being exibired, which were allowed to Earle John. ground eight daies, for that no clergy man durft bu-rie it, being but conditionally absolued; till the son & Hugh Bilhop of Country, for making their appearance, to answere to such heinous matter as was predid yeeld to the performance; yet (if * some may be pared, and they not appearing, Iohn was adjudged by the Peeres and States of England, to have forcredited vpon his bare word) the fonne did voluntarily condificend, and not vponthis compulsion. feited all that hee might forfeit in the Realme, and (53) But albeit the Emperour * to declare himthe Bishop to be punishable by the Ecclesiasticall selfe wounded with some remorse for his vngodlie censures;as hee was a Bishop, and likewise as an Ofviolence, or to engage others in the impietie, gauc ficer of the King, by the Laitie. Richard afterwarde bestirres himselfeto draw in money more greedilie, three thousand Markes of King Richards ransome to then did become fo great a Maiesty, wherein yet make filuer Cenfers through all the Ciftercian order, who generally refused the gift, as parcell of an accur-fed spoile (for as for those seventy thousand marks. (faith * one) he was rather to be pardoned then accused, for that hee was presently to lead a mightie which hee forgaue to King Richard, with as bad a Armic against the French. purpose (being to hinder peace betweene him, and the French) as he had taken the other vniustly, they (56) But first of all, to wipe away both the sad-nes and contumelie of his late restraint, for a better are not to be accounted as restitution; but as the wafortunes beginning, he canfed himfelfe to be crow-ned againe at the City of Wincheffer; which celebriges of finne); reuenge forfooke him not, being purtie was honoured with the presence of william king of Scotland, who barea sword before *King Richard: fued by his owne wife(the Heire of the Crowne of Sicilia) in reuenge of some cruelties done to her Countrimen; and after reconcilement with her, falbetweene which two Princes, there*followed great ling dangerously sicke, he died at Afessana, excomamity and tendernelle of lone; then beeing municated for King Richards cause. And albeit hee had in his life time sent his Chancellour out of Burgranted to him and his fucceffors Kings of Scotland a certaine pension, with fundry other allowances, and princelic attendances, from the first day of their gundie, of purpose to offer King Richard recompence for the injuries he had sustained, and although Confriendlie entrances at any time into Englanditil their fantia the Empresse had sent the Archbishoppe of Messana (while the Emperours body lay about (57) The King likewise caused a new broad Seale to ground without buriall) to Pope Celestine in humble manner, praying Christian buriall, yet * vnlesse the bee made, requiring that all Charters granted under his former, should be confirmed under this, whereby manner, praying corritan buriant, yet venicle the mony which hee had extorted from the King of England were reflored, hee could by no entreaties obtaine it: which accordingly was promifed. (54) Neither were the King of Englands afflictihe drew agreat masse of money to his Treasurie fubscribing such renued Charters thus: This wa the tenor of our Charter under our first Seale, which be-cause it was lost, and in the time of our beeing captine in Almaine was in the power of another, wee caused to bee ons vnprofitable vnto him, for they gaue him occasion to reforme his life, taking home to him his changed, or c. Some have observed, that as this Rich Queene Berengaria, whose society for a long time he had neglected, though the were a roiall, eloquent, & beauteous Lady, and for his loue had ventured with ard was the first of the English Kinges who bare Armes on his Seales, as appeareth by the *former: so was hee the first who carried in his shield, three him through the world. Lions paffant, borne euer after for the Regal Arms of England. And whereas we see here the Moone in her full, which in the other was but a Cresent, (which is the Turkish Ensigne,) it may seeme to be (55) King Richard after his joyous returne into (55) King Kebardatter Its 10yous returne Into England, hauing at the Abbey of Saint Edmunds, in performance of his vow/as may feeme) offered vp the rich Imperiall Standard of Curfae, Emperour done Emblematically, in that sence, as wee read of a-nother Prince(who going against the Turkes) gaue. a Crescent with this word, Plenior redibo, I will reof Cyprus, which hee tooke among the spoiles of the Griffons Campe: thence he marched, and tooke in by furrender fuch Caffles as the feruants of his broturne more full. The true draught of this second ther Iohn (beleeuing that the King was not setur-Seale we have here annexed.

(58) A good *Author reports, that after this, the King being at dinner at Westminster, and receising aduertisement of the siege laid to Vernoil, by his restiesse enemie Philip of France; sware that hee would neuer turne his face, till hee had gotten thither with his Armie to fight with the French whereupon hee caused the wall to be cut through, (the figne of which breach appeared * aboue two hundred yeares after) neuer refting, till with an hundred great Shippes hee had croft the seas from Gggg 2

"Rog Hove.f. 420 Hell Boes, 1, 13.

the Kings fought to make friends vpon all fides; but

King Richard by his munificence, and other means, ueden recites three severall times within a short fpace, in which the King of France was driven with Chape7. The famous Ctory of Gilors. * Hened. Math. Paris. Tood. Neuft. In his letter to Drait; the mott of the English *Ro.Hen.J.447 Math Paris An.D 1193 Houted thirdloffe and dishonour out of the field by King Richard, belide the losse of Saint Omers, of Air, and of other Townes wonne by Baldwin Earle of Flanders, and belides the walt of the French Dominions by many inualions. But the greatest of the three victories was the fecond, which King Richard gained at the battaile betweene Curceles and Gyfors, where the K of France him felfe fell into the river of Ethe, the bridge breaking under him, with the throng of pcople which fled for their lines before the English Li on: neither was hee easily faued (twenty of his men of Armes being drowned by that ruine) but before he could be drawne out, water had gotten into his (65) This was a famous victory; for belides a long Catalogue of great names extant in Authors; there were taken by the Kings Armie, 100. Knights and Seruitours on horse-backe, and footmen without number, belides thirty men of Armes, and other inferiour Souldiers not countable, which Markades (Generall of the Rowtes) had for prisoners. There were also taken 200 great horse, whereof scuenscore had barbs, and caparifons armed with yron. King Richard in his owne person did most nobly, for with one speare he threw to the earth Mathew de Mum merancie, Alan de Rusci, and Fulke de Giseruall, & took them. So have we vanquished the King of France "at Gyfers (faith the King) howbeit wee haue not "done the same, but * God and our right by vs : and "in this fact we did put our owne head and kingdome in hazard aboue the counsell of all that were ours. Howfoeuer therefore the French or others may flubber over fuch a noble Journey, wee have not doubted your fo good warrant to record the (66) The warre continuing fill, many vertuous men laboured to make a finall accord; and the new till his returne from Poieton, whether hee went to chastice his rebels, though * fome say, hee did then conclude the peace. (67) At this enterview or treatie, Philip King of France,* (the fower of strife, though he fought peace) shewed to King Richard a deed, in which Earle Iohn with many local tectures? Lees coas soo meet part of the French Court, who flould on his behalf, in what for focure, afternah his honoon and imnocency, against any his accufers: but there was no man found in that Court, neither King nor any other, who would undertake the proofe King Philips words. (68) But now ensued the farall accident, which drew the blacke cloud of death ouer this trium-offered to yeeld the fame, and all therein, if one lie Caffe Galliard their lines and limbs might be faued : but hee would fanh Fobian, not accept of any conditions, bidding them defend themselves as they could, for he would enter by the fword and hang them all. It grieues me to thinke that fuch a Prince should so forget himselfe: but behold the feuerity of Gods judgement, An Arbala fter(or Archibalista) standing vpon the wall, & see-ing his time, charged his steele bow with a square arrow or quarrell, *making first his praier to God.

That hee would direct that shot, and deliner the innocen ey of the besieged from oppression. Whereupon discharging it, as the King was "taking a view of the Castle within the danger and distance of such an Engin, & Roger Honed, Mat. Par, Tood, Menji. the King(*vpon hearing the bow goe off) flooping with his head, was mortally wounded in the left shoulder; the anguish & perill wherof was extremey augmented by the butcherly and vnskilfull hand of the Surgeon, who having drawne out the wood and not the *enuenomed yron, * mangled the arme with cruell incisions before hee could prenaile; the paine whereof haftned his end. (69) Concerning the name of this tragical! Archer, thereis so much variety, as that we could willingly take that vicertainery for a warrant to filence it:being loth to ennoble him with our pen, it being a thing worthily punishable with yter oblinio, to have shed (though defensively or but casually) the bloud of fuch a King. Mathew Paris * in calling him Peter * Mat. Finite Balilin, feemes to allude to fome ominous conceit in Bafilii(which with the Greeks fignifies a King;) him Thomas Walfingham followes therein, as Mathem Pa-ris followed *another: there want not * fome who also give him a third name; but Houeden who deliuers this accident as all the rest of this Kings life, in the most probable and fulled manner, cals him Ber-tram de Gurdom, applying vno him certaine verse of Lucas, in commendation of his vanpalled consta cy, when he came before King Bichard: where thou maift perhaps (for fatisfaction of thy mind, with beholding some reuenge) desire to know what became of the Actor. After that the Castle by continuall affaults was taken, and (by the Kings command) none left aliue but helds being referred, perhaps to fome more flamefull death/the king (vpon a chrifti-an magnanimity) for gaue him the fact, which the party (without thew of difmay) did neither deny nor " Rog Hout.f. 449 xcuse, but alledged the necessity of his case, and the inftice of Gods worke in it, for that the king had laine his Father and two Brothers with his owne hand: being hereupon set at liberty, and one hundred shillings sterling given him by the king: Mar-kader (Captain of the Mercenarie Rowtes) after the king was dead, tooke him, flead him quicke, & then by hanging ended his life, (70) King Richard feeling the approch of certaine death, disposed his worldly estate, thus: to his browill, uteam, ulpoven uns wortnity einner, ettus: 10 nm 10 rd.

will,

will,

will,

will,

will,

will,

show for the familier of England, and his other dominions, with three parts of his Treafure, commaunding fuch as were prefent to fiweare him fealty: to his Nephew Othe king of a dimante, he beto main Enable. queathed(as it * feemes) all his goods and chattels, money excepted, and the fourth part of his faid tre-fure he gaue to his feruants, and the poore; And having thus discharged his last cares toward the world concerning his transitory state, he prepared himselfe for the presence of God, strengthning his foule with hartie contrition, confession, and participation of the holy Sacrament: commanding further, that when he was dead, * his bowels should be buried at Charron, among the rebellious Poicto-uins, asthole who had only descrued his worst parts: but his Heart to bee enterred at Roam, as the City,

Richard I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 44 tiue royall, or else missing that the Vicount should make the partition) came with a power to a Castle of the Vicounts called * Challez, where hee supposed the Riches were; the Garrison of which place

Pope Innocentius the third, having proclaimed a new undertaking of the Holy-warre * fends a Cardinall Deacon to attone the two mighty Kings of France and England. At length Articles of peace were drawne; but Richard (being farre before hand) was nothing haftie to conclude, and therefore put it off, newly yeelds himselfe Liegeman to King Philip, anewly yeelds nimelite Liegeman to king Finity, against his brother. A wonderfull thing (laith Houeden) that Richard Bould beleeue it (being perhaps but a Copie of that device or tricke, if it were a device which they once had iointly put vpon the same Iohn, as in the end of King Henry the fecond you heard) who thereupon forthwith diffeiled the Earle his brother every where. But the Earle having fearched and learned the cause of the Kings sudden displeasures, (whose loue hee had before redeemed with many loiall fernices) Hee fends two men of Arms or maintenance thereof; wherupon euer afterward Rich-ard held his brother more deare, and gaue lesse credite to phall and bright shining starre of Cheualrie, the vnworthy occasion of which misaduenture makes it the more lamentable; which not withflanding, for a document to the Great ones, against the outrage of Agarice and Cruelty, God suffered thus to fal on him, widomare, Vicount of Limoges having found a great * horde of gold and filuer, fent no small por tion thereof to King Richard, as chiefe Lord, with which being not contented (as pretending that trea-

(are trone, was wholy his by vertue of his preroga-

This Chaluz the Ger Doreb.

Hourd, cals h *Rog. How.f. 444 which for her constant loialty had merited thesame, and his Corps in the Church of the Nunneric at Mat Park.

Fahian.

Tood, Menft. Ger Derek.

" Math. Paris, in Rich. I. and his Epitaph. Neuftris Ing; tegis Cor in. expugnabile Regis.

M. Feren.

obedient: and God affording him gracious leafure till hee had thus disposed of all; the venemous vapour ascended to his heart, and draue the spirite forth, with whom (lay *Authors) the glory and honor of Militarie skill exspired, (70) There hath been an opinion, or fancy that this King was called Cordelyon, because hee encountred a Lyon in prifon at the Emperours Court: but (faith *one very truly) these are fables imagined by English tale-tellers to advance their King Richard, as

Font-Ebrard in Gascoigne, at the feet of his Father King Henry, to whom he had beene sometime dis-the Britaines, by the like, advanced their King Ar-Mathematicall) may theirs feeme, who conice ure, hee was called so of the famous * Starre called Cor Leonis. But how the conceite of killing of a Lion should come vp, as it is not worth the while to enquire, so certainely, Hugo de Neuile (one of King Richards speciall familiars) is recorded to have slain a Lion in the holy-Land, driving first an arrow into his breaft; and then running him through with his fword: whence perhaps that atchieuement is trans-ferred from the man to the master; and the story applide to the by-name of King Richard, whereof the true reason is that which * Thomas Walsingham mentioneth, laying; That for the magnanimity of his heart (groffitudinem praftans, faith an other, meaning, as it seemes, that his materiall heart it felf, was bigge and maffine, which another also faith was inexpugnable) this King was both by the English & Nor_ mans stiled Cour de Lion.

His Wines.

Alice the daughter of Lewis the feventh, King of France, by Queene Alice daughter of Earle Thibald Prante, by Queene-sante taugnier of Earle I monta of Champaigne, is by * fome reputed the first wife of King Richard, though indeede she were 'onely con-tracted to him (being both children) and committed to his Father; but when he demanded her, his father refused to deliver her, or she to com to him, or both: Wherefore being King, conceiuing displeasure a-gainst King Philip her brother, and more then suspend the continency with his owne father (by whom he alledged the had a child) he refused to take her: yet x gaue a hundreth thouland pounds to Philip pro quieta clamantia, to be quitefreed from her. She became the wife of William Earl of Ponthieu, and had became the white of whitam Earl of Postmen, and had iffue Queene Ioan of Caffile, the mother of Queene Eleanor, wife to King Edward the first.

Berengaria the second wife of King Richard, was the daughter of Sanches the fourth of that name, King of Nauarre, sonne of King Garese the fourth her mother was Beatrice daughter of Alphonfo, the scuenth King of Castile, called the Emperour of Spaine. She was conneied by Eleanor the kings mother vnto the king in Sicily, and married to him in Cyprus, whence the accompanied him to the Holy land. The king (vpon what cause we find not) neglected her company for a while, but vpon more setled thoughts, he refumed heragaine to his loue and fociety, but had no iffue by her.

His naturall I Tue.

Philip, the natural fon of king Richard, feemeth M. Fores. to haue been begotten, while he was Earle of Poyton of a Gentlewoman Poytonin, and to haue had of his fathers gift a towne in Poyton named Sumac, to have taken alfo his furname, and title of the fame towne; and to haue beene the Progenitour of a familie of Gentlemen of the same surname & title, in the same

I fabel (by * fome who mention not Philip at all) M. Millar, sreputed the Naturall Daughter of king Richard (whose mother the Author nameth not) and that she was married to Leoline Prince of Wales.

Three other Daughters, (Baftards no doubt) King Richard he is faid to haue, of whose names and matches wee will report as we finde recorded. Whiles hee was in France imployed in his warres against king Philip, Fulco a French Priest, came vnto him, telling him he had three very bad Daughters, which he wished him to bestow away from him in marriage, or else Gods wrath would attend him: when the king denied, he had any daughter, yes (quoth the Prieft) thou cheri-fest three daughters, Pride, Conetou fress, and Lecherie. The king apprehenflue of his meaning, called his "Lords there attending, and faide: My Lords, this "Hypocrit hath found that I haue three Daughters: which I maintaine, viz Pride, Couetoufnes, and Leche-*rie, which he would have me bestow forth in mariage; and therfore (if any fuch I haue) I haue found out most fit husbands for them all. My Pride I "bequeath to the haughty Templars & Hofpitallers, who are as proud as Lucifer himfelfe: My Cone"toufneffe I give to the white Monks of the Cifteaux Order, for they couet the Diuell and all: But for my Lechery I can bestow it no where better then on the Priefts and Prelates of our times, for therein haue they their most felicity. Doubtleffe these mariages proued so fruitfull, that their issue hath now ouerflowed all kingdomes of the earth.

IOHN

(bap. 8. Kinglohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Mearch 45.

IOHN DVKE OF NORMANDIE GVYEN AND AQVITAINE, &c. THE FIRST

STILED LORD OF IRELAND, THE FORTIE-FIFTH MONARCH OF ENGLAND, HIS RAIGNE. ACTS, AND ISSVE, CHAPTER VIII.

He luftre of Diadems. and Soueraignety, fo dazeleth the eyes, and bewitcheth the hearts of ambitious beholders that whiles they fondlie deeme the greatest content to bee in highest Titles, running after a fee ning Happines, they often cast themselves headlong, and whole Kingdoms, into irrepairable ruine, as the calamities, which after the death of the noble Ceur-de-Lyon, lighted on the Pretenders to his Crowne, and on this miferably distracted State, will yeeld vs too ruful a President. To the full acting of which Tragedy (for such it was, and fo we must now present it in this our Theatre) con-curred as principall Actors, the two (though these Patients rather, as the iffue proued) vnfortunate

Corriuals for the Crowne, John Earle of Moreton Bother to the late King, and his Nephew Arthur, the Posthumous sonne of Geoffry Duke of Britaine, the Earles eldeh Brother: their two Female (and there-fore moremulous and relikes) Subicions, Queen Eleanor and Lady Constance, each ambitious of their Pathers death , who died at Para owne, in their Sonnes aduancements: their two reuengefull Abetters; Othe the Emperour for Ichn, expeg c. 2. and Philip King of France for Arthur : thereupon, the two vniust Intraders on the Crowne; Lewis the Philipthe 2.4 French Kings Sonne, and Innocentius the Pope, the Presenting Sonie, and modernius the rope, the one by vnprincelly forces, the other by vnprincelling fraud: and lastly, their two forts of treacherous Infirmments, of the Lastie for the one, and Clergie for the other; all which, like so many Tragicke sirebreathing Furies, fet this State in so horrible comages after, quite allayed. (2) Earle Iohn(the very Centre in which those buftion as that the b fmoake is not as yet, fo many b is Better and h Trinet.M.S. and sl, except wilful Policies i Rog Howed &

The titles of both competitours, k ture propingul tatis,& Tifla-mento Successor, H'alfing, Tpad, Truct. 1 Iure communi Paul Aemilis Philip.2.

m Reg.de W.B.

n Rog.Howed. m leb. o Math.Parifi Earle Iobus

p wordswey M S,

Duke Aribers Adherents, o Houseden in tan. Thomas de Far net. Paris Hift, Maior (Idem. The beginnings of hatred betwix Earle John and the Prousnerals. t Rog. Hou. in tohn, u Judiciñ & con-fuctuels,tb. Mat.Westminst. Laith Indicium, Jus & confuetudo k Polyd Verg 1.15 y Walfing.

y Wilfing.
Ypedig, Borne
An.1187.die Pafthe, his father dying before in Angult.
z Sclainuidia, & c Palyd ibid. a Hearden. Isan proclaimed King in England.

to Philip King of France. * Magnificit verbu,erc.
Polyd Verg L15.
d 100.de Serres in Phil. August.
e Nich Trinet. Truth, orTruce (worne to King Richard) reenforcethall Arthurs Cities and Castles with his French

The beginning of

King John. Com touris | calamities met,) had from his infancy beene fedde with high and royall hopes, as being his Fathers onely darling, from whome hee had the 4 possession of the Irish, and a intendment also of the English Kingdom: and in his brothers time(f whose return from the holy warres all men despaired) had by gracious deportment towards the Subject, obtained ansoath of Fealty to himselfe, in remainder in case his brother (hould are childlesse: having now therefore the way to those his designs made smoother by the last Wil of King Richard, and allegiance of his Nobles then attendings (for these courses may facilitate, but not make a iust claime;) were may not thinke, that either hee was cold now, for the accomplishment of that, which so hotely hee had before pursued, or so nice, as to neglect a Kingdome, vpon scrupulous points of Titles and Right. Propinquity of Blond plea-ded for John, as Lineall descent for Arthur, the Kings Brother being neerer then his Brothers fonne; but John, who knew that the weaker vie to argue their

Titles, whiles the ftronger hold the poffersion, refolued to trie the strength of his claime by no other Law then of Armes; and therefore, being at time Estle Lobert helps of King Richards death in those forraine parts, hee makes it his first care to fasten to himselfe, by present mlargesse, and large promises of future fauours, (the viuall Rhetoricke of Competitours) all the Stipendiary Souldiers, and other Seruitours of his deceafed Bro ther. To winne himselfe the like assurance of lone at home, and to fettle (if it might be) an vniuer fall quiet, he o forthwith despeeded into England (there to oncurre with Queene Eleanor, his experienced moher) three of the choisest men of the State, Hubert Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, William Marshall apotent Pecre, and Geoffry Fitz-Peter the great Iufticiar, by whose severall interests, the three States of Clergy, Chiualry, and Commonalty, might best bee ey-ther allured to him by fauours, or awed by feare; himselfe, the whiles ? posting to Chines, where King Richards great Treasure was kept; as knowing that hee should hardly get or keepe a Crowne by Forces or Friends, if hee wanted Coine & Crowns, to winne and hold fuch needfull Ayders. (3) The Treasurer, though a himselfe with his Store Caftles and Fidelity, thus affured to the Earle, had yet a powerfull " Nephew, the Castellan of Angi-ers, wholy denoted to Duke Arthur, to whose vie hee yeelded up that City and Castle, with whom also fided the Nobility of Anion, Maine, and Turaine, forrendring those large Territories, as to their liege Lord, jointly auowing it to be the " Law and Cuftom of those Signiories, that the heritage which was to accrew to the elder Brother, if hee had surnined should descend unto his Sonne. But Constance Arthurs mother, no leffe . defirous to be Regent to a King (for her fon was but y twelue yeeres young) then Queene Eleanor deldainefull to goe below a Dutcheffe, did not dare to build her high hopes on so low grounds, for that fuch subordinare Princes as fauoured her cause, might eafily be corrupted by faire meanes, or cruflied by foule; and therefore you newes of King Iohns successes in England (for with general applause and a homages here was now proclaimed King,) difiracted with violent and Woman-like Paffions, Ambition of her fonnes Right, Rage for his Wrong, Feare of his Safety, and (not the least) Emulation that Queene Eleanor (whose Prudence and Grace with the English , had b fwayed exceedinglie) should effect more in a wrong, then her felfe in a just cause; c shee flies to Turen to the French King Philip, (to seeke a Walfe to whom shee might commit her Lambe,) to whose Protection thee wholy furrenders his Perfon, his Cause, his Countries. Philip * pretending (as Princes vie) a tender care of his Neighbour Princes state, but 4 meaning indeede out of so wished a prize, to raife aduantage to his owne, forthwith ("without regard of

Garrisons; some of which had scarse put their foot

into Mauns, but King John was at their heeles, to King John to prouide them their latt lodging, facking that Citie, seeth and runner and demolishing it to the ground, for a terror to all others, which after fealty once fworne vnto him, (as & Rog. Houeden. 8 they had done) (hould dare to reuolt.

(4) Queene Eleanor, who having fetled England in Queene Eleans eace, was now come ouer to forward her fonne in fonnes aide. the VVarres, and was h present at the surprising of h Wendover, MS. Maunz, is i censured to hauetoo much sharpened his edge against her Nephew Arthur and his friends, Polyder. out of her implacable disdaine, and Enuie towards Constance her Daughter in-Law, and appears no lesse; for the King passing thence into Anson, left there his Le Captaines and Forces with his mother, who made An-cum rass fun. giers participate the Fortunes of Maunz, the City Ros. Houed. ruined, the Citizens captinated; whiles himfelfe Queene Eleanne comming to Roan, was there by the hands of walker the Archbishop, in the Cathedrall Church with Mas. Paris. great pompe on Saint Marks Festival, girt with the "Ducall Sword of Normandy, and crowned " with a "Ducall Sword of Rosen, (taking his Oath for faithfull administration in that Dukedome), which was the swords of the state the pledge or earnest of his vinquestionable admittance to the English Diademe, which every day now Normandy. expected him. Neither yet may wee thinke, albet King Johns 1 mature & experienced age, his homebred, and well knowne education, his reannexing of India, att. 23. Irelands Kingdom to Englands, made his person more The freetage, irelands Kingdom to Englands, made his perion more The bienden, gracious then arthurs, that yet his Agents all this as Samas, str. while in England found no rubbs in their way, before all the Earls, Barnan, Burgeffer Ger Freet-belder could with one helpan bee induced to diclaims arthurs apparant Right, in Registed. and to sweare feelty to King John against a men liains:

king token theyer, many of the * English Peeres (who through dranes how their last Kings absence, and others conniuences, * Rickale of Rick their latt Kings ablence, and others' continuences, a the Lie List of Greatnes, which they milicalled Liberties and Rights, sewage with vader variety whereof, they after drew, not only with the milicalled Liberties and Rights, which will be also de variety variety variety with the service of the complex, who be good they precented, just the great Affembly at Northern William East of William East of the precented, just the great Affembly at Northern William East of William East of the precented, just the great Affembly at Northern William East of William East of the Control of the Cont ton, yeelded onely to sweare a *Conditionall Fealify, to keepe * Faith and Peace to King John, if hee would reflore to euery of them their Rights: which was the first plage of the feed of disloyalties, which after grew to fo great a sub bar conheight. Thus howfoeuer, all domesticke difficul- unterne, Hound, tics ouerblowne, and Queene Eleanor o left in AThe interest of the children arquitane to provide against Forraigne; King Iohn arthe children to provide against Forraigne; King Iohn ar-

(5) Strange it was to confider, (if ought bee True honefty is ftrange in State-plats how men, otherwife very pru-only une Polycy dent, transported once with Worldly, and feemingpoliticke respects, can so wilfullie cloud their Reaon, as to attempt those things, which leave both a present stains on their Soules, and a lasting disrepuation both of their Integrity and wifedome, wherein fo much they glory. For what elfe did Hubert Archbishoppe of Canterbury, the man so 9 famou- 9 Mat. Paris. Archomoppe or Cameroury, the main of a ramon of a main roun. Ced as the * Pillar of the Common-wealthes flabilitie, & Clama fabilitan finemperable for deeperasching virigedome, when in its that facred and celebrious Assembly of * all the 1Vr prefadation for the control of the States, addressing for the roial Inauguration, hee ad-ded to those Leg-Peeres Conditionals, his Clergy-Sophilmes, and "fecond Seede-plot of Treasons; perfiva-ting them by a cunning, but dilloyallipeech (which "febbersant, yet" "Ome by transforming, have more deformed) | Wordston, into that the English Crowne was meerely Arbitrary and roots of enfain that the Englife Crowne was mercily Arbitrary and roose of endang Electricat the peoples decuction? That I they all versions in different one reto known, bow that no man latch light Xrivjare for or any other fore-Title to faceced another in a Kingdom, foested this world fifty (with insucation for Grace and Outdance of vome brian, and with the Kinddom Milliplant and Milliplant an Gods Holy Spirite) hee be by the Body of the Kingdome follows him. thereunto chosen, and be indeed some choice man, pic- Archbishop Ha ked out for eminencie of his vertues; by the President of barts Sophistical Ocation with ouer his owne people, though neither the Sonne of a King Met. Parin.

don, preparing for his Coronation to be at West-minster, the morrow following being Affention (adam. 486):x.8.

z Printed Copies read Senes talfly for that, t. San. a The example doe not fliew it: for they were of Gods parricular commandement, Which was not that to the Holy Spirite, which after he contel fethto proceed from his owne drutie. 6 For his Father Kings, his Mother, Queene, field of France, after of Englands tribur nothing

d Iohn de Serres, a Thil August a Mar Paris, Non e Mat. Paris. N aufi ambigero. i Idem, indem. g Rog Hourd. Mat. Paris. Hubert torecafts to bridle the King, h Greldus Camb faith he was Principis fressen.

See vil. Arcoco. Cant in Hubert. Rog Wendoner, Triplici Sacra-Rex. King John first doth reward his three Agencs. Rog. Howeden, dum gleriaretur poteștate illa.

dignity.

m Polydore, Francus rem diffimulauit. n Pol.Verg.

From Shere bam to Deepe, (13.Cal.July.) p Reg. Hourd.

Tn Craftinum Affamptionis, Hound.ib. With Henry the fecond, an Richard, vide fapra. Double dealing most valeemely in a Prince. Crastino Affan Math Paris lo,ibid. u Feria 6.ante x Rog. Wenden and Finders. Wendower and Park call Wailan An Enterniels

a Rog Heweden.

nor yet of any Regall descent. So after him likewise Dauid the Sonne of " Ishai: the one for being valourous and a Personage fitting royall dignity, the other, for being Holy and Humble minded. To shew that so he, who soeuer in a Kingdome excelleth all in Valour and Vertue. ought to furmount all in Rule and Authority: yet fo, as that, if any of the Offpring of a deceased King surpasseth others, it is fitte iointly to confent in election of fuch a one. Thus hee spake (as hee professed) in fauour of I om, who then was prefent, whose most illustrations to the King Richard dying without any Herre from him descending, Him they had all sufficiently the Holy Ghostra stiffsance) as being a Provident, Valtant, and condoubtedly-Noble Prince, vnanimiously Elected, as wel in regard of his Merites: as of his Royall Bloud. So vniuit a speech from so great a Person, could not but moue both Offence and Wonder to many, even to Iohn himfelfe, who doubtleffe meant to fland to his right of proximity by blonde: but they durft not then and there move Questions thereof, as afterward flome did, to whom he gaue a reason of it, as strange as the fpeech it felfe; faving, a that he was affured by as the speech it leste; laying, state news a squred by fome divining foresight, that King Iohn would work the ruine of the Kingdome, and that therefore, to bridle him from so doing, hee had assumed his Admission was to be by Choice, and not Hereditary Succession: implying that as by Election he got the Crowne, fo by Eiection on demerite hee might as inftly loofe it. But for that present, the Ceremonies all pompouslie accomplished, (where three Oaths were ministred to him; To love Holy Church, and preserve it from all oppressors; To governe the State in Instice, and about b bad Lawes; Not to assume this Royall honour but with full purpose to persorme that he had sworne:) the first aft and bounty of his kingly Power, was to reward those, whose hands had lifted him to it, making William Marshalland Fitz-Peter, Earles of Pembrooke and Effex, and the Archbishoppe, Lord high Chancellour; who feeming to glory in that addition of ho-nour, was told by the Lord Bardolf, that the height of Archiepiteopall dignity was fuch, as it was euer reputed a great aduancement for a Chancelor to be made Archbishoppe, but none for an Archbishop to be made a Chancellour.

(6) The Kings Enemies, "who kept their heads in, whiles hee was there in Armes, founde opportunities to impeach him, while hee was here feeling his Peace: the " French King in Normandy Surpriseth the City Eureux, & recouers the County of Main; the Britaines regaine the City Angiers with other ftrong holds: the newes whereof caused King John with all fpeed o to paffe the Seas, to giue stoppage to that current; where on his arrivall, his Army of P Friends and Foluntaries was so encreased, that King Philip was soone content to take a truce for fiftie dayes, on expiration whereof, an Enterview was agreed on to chablish a lasting Peace. But Philip a long time noted of dubling, (ill beforming any, but chiefly a Prince) the very day before the two Kings should meet, giving Duke Arthur the Belt of Knighthood, and taking of him Homage for the Signiories of Aniou, Poytou, Turaine, Mayne, Britanny, and Normandy, hee made him faithful vow, to yeeld him powerfull helpes, for acquiring those possessions. Neither was King John behind him in that kind of preuention, when Philip Earle of Flanders the French Philips professed Enemie, "comming to Roan, and diffiwading King John from trufting anie French friendship, did there sweare vnto him both faithfull Helpe and Homage. Yet the two Kings keeping touch for the day, though not for the purpole of amitie (and yet making faire shew of that too) held Parley betwixt Butauant and y Guletun two dayes by Commissioners inter-current, the third by presence and privatie, that not one of their Nobles or Attendants (who on each fide lay farre aloofe for the (pace of an howre) vnderstood any passages betwixt them. This much yet came to notice by after-relation, that * King Philip then required for Himfelfe the large Country of b Veulguessine, pretending that be gressine.

Geffry Earle of Aniou graunted it to Lews le Große, fin. Hourd V. Le off) Lanco Camen granteen to Lesso to organ, for Rund Ville for asking his Somme King Herrie the fecond against Vite-Ciana. Ville-Ciana. Min. Maine and Turayne: both which immoderate de Rug Stephen: maunds with others, King Iohn (conceiving with Salomon, Why doth he not also aske for Adoniah the King 11. Reg. 2.22. dome?) "neither would nor ought to graunt vnto him; on Nobull, nee whereby their amities intended, ended in more ho-file defiances. But Philips capitulating then for indifcord, Arthur, was onely perfunctoric and complementall, as his owne words, (and afterward his actions) bewraied: when being questioned by his Fauou-rices of his implacable " hatred against King Iohn, who had neuer harmed him, professed it was onely, for that a Rog Roads. hee had (not, defeated Arthur, but) possessed himselfe of Normandie, and the other Demaines, without asking him leaue,or offering him Homage.

(7) The flames thus on all fides breaking forth with Richards last breath, hee still laboured to esta-

Foc, then on the guiles of a falle hearted Friend.&

flance) the young Duke also, the important matter of fo great contentions. But Heavens were not fo propitious to these Reconciliats, as so to hold them long: some Philippines buzzing such needlesses ter-rors of Imprisonment into the Noble Childs eares, the stronger, by how much the more they had been for a time kept in, many Earles and Barons of France (who formerly adhered to King Richard) became Homagers to King John, they Iwearing, neuer without his affent to reuert to Philip, and hee, neuerto make Peace with Philip, but they therein to bee concluded. In the heate of which fidings (if not before)a P chiefe adherent of the foresaid Earle P Math. Paris, of Flanders (now col-leagued with King John) being the Bishop Elect of Cambray, fell into the hands of the French at which time also a Philip Bishop of Rea-wois, (a great French Peer) was held in prison by King in Richard the 1.] John; and neither of them willing to forgoe their mitred Champions, Petrus de Capua, the Legat, interdicted France for the one and Normandy for the ot Mat Paris.

ther, till they, as persons sacred & inviolable, should bee dismissed: yet King John (whose Person and Title the Pope and Papals as yet much tendred) had the fauour to wring out of his prize, 'fixe thousand f Markes for his release, and an Oth, never whiles he breathed to beare Armes against any Christian. 'This Le- Wie Trimet. M. gat in King Richards time, had made agreement with Ros Handan King Philip for a fine yeeres Truce, which expiring blish it betwixt the now-Kings: but King Philips great heart would not so come downe, which was likely to haue cost him deere. For pursuing whi-fiege of Lauardin uphence upon King Iohns approach phocetoplace, with his Army hee fled to Maunz, and thence again fled, u Ree Househa

King John comming thither ;) letzed the Caltle of Ba- fol-452. lun(which belonged to Arthur) and to prevent his enemy (as is likely) "he levelled it unto the very ground; which fact Duke Arthursy Generall William de Rupi y Princepi Ex hauing done therein contrain to Commans with his land Arthur, becas feornfully and another than the contraint of the contrain would not for his Lord Arthures pleasure, forbeare his owne, in doing as himselfe listed, with such forts arongs to Arthur as hee tooke. The Generall feeing Arthur was but the outward maske, under which Philip reuelld for his hidden ends, "ferioufly perfwaded his Lord to reconcilement with his vncle King Iohn, and rather Rog Hoseed, to hazard his hopes on the clemency of a Generous fo making his peace with King Iohn, hee prefentlie veelded up to him both Maunz, & (with Lady Conthat the next night, Feare giving wings to his flight, as Loue did to his Mothers, (for leaving her hus band b Ranulph Earle of Chefter, fince was amorous b Paul demit. of and married Guide a gallant Gentleman, who the fled with her,) they escaped into Angiers. Arthur her madebut it applies the fled with her from the fled with her fled had now neither fure of K. Philip, nor fure to K. John, had now neither fure of K. Philip, nor fure to K. Iohn, had now pears; otherwise aft him felfe betwirt two Militones; but (how foe-by Harodon and

Arthur flyeth

uer) P bilip ment the greift in the end should be his. (8) The

* 8.1d.056

Archiepifespa

he King himfeli

1 Mat Well

hing Pichpand the Emperors ha tred, encreaseth the malice betwixt King labs and Pb-Lp. c Osbo the fourth Ionne of Heary and Mand daughter of K. d Rog Hourd. f.457. eMat.Paris f 24 at.Paris g Mai Wiftmit An. 1198. h Rog-Haxed f.452. The Emperour offers his side t K.labn. i Idem.ibid. An. 1200.

Arricles of atl Nich Trinet. MS m Vide Chartam apad Hourd.p.463

The Kings inte

* Hourd f-456. n Parifal.Cal. o Walforg. Tood.

p Home Id q Tred.Neuft. q Tpod. Neapl, Leco cit.
King Philip
yeelds up Arthu
to King Jahn,againft his vow.
The Emperours
two Brethren
fent to King
John.
Though Jay
Liberaci, faith Hoved perch for Ebraica. Eureur, t Nico. Trinet, i Rich.s. M.S. u Rog Hautd. King Johns care of his outh to K.

othin oun to a.
Philip.
2 Wesdaur.
Hourd, f 457.
y So called by Wesdaury.
Mat Westwinth.
Hourd, &t. but our Heralds (Glover, Millet, her Ifabel, 2. Grandchild to Reb. bale-brother of King John.

g Ib,Confuet h Idem f. 439.

fcription of Hun-I Sonne of H.a.

m Houed,f-453 n Wendower MS.

(3) The breach betwixt these two great Kings was the more irreconcileable, by reason of the hatred betwixt King Philip and the Emperour othe King Ishno Nephew, whole advancement to the Empire(himlesse perhaps aiming to it) Philip shill endeanoured to impeach, and regarding that the Pope whole power Kings then regarded only, while it made for their purpose) had thundered his Anathe-ma against all his Opposers: and Otho in gratitude to King Richard, who s procured him the Diadem Imperi all, and in tender regard of his vncles honour, fent himaduise, host to hasten any finall attonement with the French King, for that himselfe would bring him his vimost Imperial assistance. Notwithstanding, by the Cardinal-Legates assistances interceding, a Truce was concluded till the Feast of Saint Hilary at which time, the Kings comming to a Treaty be twixt Wailan and Butauant Castles, k it was agreed that Lewis the Heyre of France should marry King Johns Neece, Blanch, Daughter of Alfon (us King of Castiles that King John should give for Dowry the Caffite that King Joon mount give for Lowry me City and County of Eureux, with fundry Forts in Normandy, and thirty thousand Markes in filter; vowing also not to aide his Nephew Otho with men or means to attain the Empire : & further, 1 promifing toleane (if he died without I flue) vnto Lewis al the Terri tories he held in France; all which Articles were a for. merly engroffed, but finally cocluded betwixt Buta want, & Guletun (the 'one, K. Johns, the other, King Philips Castle) the " Octaves of Saint Iohn Baptist when these Counties were actually surrendred to Philip; the Lady Blanch o espoused to Lewis his son; Duke Arthur (Philips once vowed, but now vnualued charge,) yeelded ouer, and made P Seruant and Homager to K. John for his own Dukedom; whom yet his vncle was content to leave with King Philip who had now fo left him, and erft had vpheld him. onely as the baite of his owne aduantage. If Princes can bee thus vnprincely degenerous, what trust can men repose in baser vassals? King John hereupon proued much more fledfast to Philip, then either Philip was to him, or himselfe to Othe the Emperor. who fending his two Brethren Henry Duke of Saxemy, and William (furnamed of Winton) to demand the Counties of 1 Torke and Poitfou, with the Treasure and Iewels which 'King Riebard' bequeathed him: King robin denied to yeeld thereunto, 'only in regard of his Oath which hee had paffed to Philip, to yeelde no kind of aide to the Emperour. And further to tellife, (yea further then he ought) his faithfull meaning to preserve intire this amity with Philip, * by his aduise he dinorced *Hawisia his wife, as too * neere of Bloud, by sentence of the Archbishop, and Bishops of Burdeaux, Poittoirs, and Xanton, and by the Archbishops hands espoused Isabell, Heiretrice of Ailmar Earle of Angolisme, a faire yong Lady, but bde-destined to another bed.

(9) This Finall Concord (fo e called, but not prouing fo) with Philip, who now acknowledged Ishn the a rightfull Heire of King Richards Crowne, gaue him more leafur, to receive peaceably alle Submitties, and bring in forceably all fout-flanders of those his transmarine Dominions, and after to look home to the affaires of his Kingdome, from which hee had beene (and we there following him,) too long absent. Yet in the heate of those forrain imploiments, hee on occasions had his recourses hither to settle his State-affaires, and & Crowne-Renenewes; to enact wholesome h lawes for forraine and domesticke Commerce; to collect an i Ayde for his Neeces great Dowry, and Martiall vies; which later(being three fhillinges on eury k Carrucata,) though his first and onely Subsidie since his com-ming to the Crowne, caused much heart-burnings especially by meanes of his lowne brother Geffr Archbishoppe of Torke (touching whom the King was " forewarned, that hee would bring a Sword, & not Peaceinto England) who bearing himselfe too bold on his bloud and place, a forbad the Collettours of that Aide in his precincts (though it were organized to the King generally for all England) and also being required by the King to attend him into France, to require of the Peace, and his Neeces Espousall, he very vidutifully denied his service. The King p intelligence with those his disloyalties, caused all his Temporalities to bee seized on by his Sheriffe: whom therefore Geffry (adding fresh fuel to the fire ded folemnly excommunicate, caused the Kings Offi cers to beare blowes, and interdicted the whole Pro uince of Yorke. So partiall, and unhistoricall, is the report of a one; (a Stranger by birth, but more strange for bold vntruthes) who faines the onely in entine of fuch indig nation in the King, was that Prelates reprehension of his Rapines on the people For(to give a further tafte of that Authors 1 webement fond malice, justly to taxed) what ancient Iudicious Writers call an 'Aid necessarie for Warres, that he enftileth R apines and Spoiles; where they make Iohn his Brothers Heyre by Will, hee makes Arthursthey say hee was at valiant man, hee faith he fm. He was a Coward; where they make him a pursuing, and Philip flying, hee chargeth him to have made onplaints, when he foould have drawne fwords; where y punis, worn ne journal nue ar anne juuras; where they charge the Peeres for "advantus back from his Warres, heefmakes them the onely Hasteings, and not shim within a company and the state of the sta Iohn; if the "watry Element ouerflow, it bodes Iohns fury on his Land. But furely that part thereof. which fell on Geoffry, it was (you fee) not vndefer-ued notwithstanding, vpon the Kings*returne into England, and Geoffreys to his more loyall carriage & fubmission, his Peace was made, at the very time,& for the more celebrity, of Queen I fabels * Coronarion, with whom the King himselfe was * again crow on, with whom the King himfelle was * again rowwided Wiffinither by Archbilop of Palest.

(10) The Pompe of that folemattie ended, the King refolated of ending a long deepending controuerife with King Fillius of Setsiland, who formerlie (before John was proclaimed King) land challenged, as * his partimental Right, the Counters of Northum Sented. many it was very ominous for a King to enter that . and certaine h other places) and there offered a ga den Chalice on Saint lohns Altar, which i no King befor inm day if doc.) Where an Deutotions perior ined, the two Kings (in preface of * three Archbis kings three the Kings of Gauth-Webs, with a unlittude of English, Sestilla, French, and 1.

rifb Princes and Peeres, alcending the toppe of that Region Stage. conspicuous & high *hill, on the North side of the Citie, did there in a glorious folemnity, fweare amitie and faithfull loue, & upon the Crofter of Archbi-

(11) That Spectacle so roial to the beholders, was feconded with another no leffe Honourable to K. Iohn, (for Humility in fuch great ones is more glorious then their glory,) when the King having latelie floo Hubert.

a Polyd.Virg. y Polyd.l.15.

berland and Cumberland; and afterward feeing he got but words and delaies, was ready, (King John being then in France) with an hotter and more forceable rgument, to winne, what hee could not craue: but being in dark b denotion all Night at Saint Margarets b At Donfolia Hearfe, the still true English-hearted Queen per-Twaded him by a Dreame (for certainely it was no other) not to infeft England her native foile; who therupon fent backe his Army. But now he commeth with a more friendly traine, vpon King Iohns fen-ding to him, in Honourable 4 Embassage, the Earles of Hunting don and Hereford, King Williams Brother and Nephew, his three Sonnes in Law, Lacy, Vefey and Res with others, to defire him to give him mecting at Lincolne, where accordingly they both meet e So Hered ting at Lineaue, where accordingly they does never the with kingly curtefles; and the next day, King John but Media and to aulpicate his Temporall affaires with Spirituall Papler by error devotions, (and yet to flew what hee thought of fome superfittious follies of those times) went # vslauntedly into the Cathedrall Church, being much dif- | 8 tam. waded by many, (for Monkish Impostures perswaded fore him durft doe. Where his Deuotions perfor-

h As Saint Frif. wides Church is Oxford. The finerals of | left Hugh Bilhoppe of Lincolne (called the Saint, for the opinion of vnfained integrity, though blemished with some obstinacies, and surcharged with Legends of a fained Miracles) at London very ficke, (where himfelfe with gracious care went to visite him, and both confirmed his Testament and promised the like for other Bishoppes after,) now hearing hee was * dead, and his Corpes then bringing into the gates of Lincolne, hee, with all that princely Traine, went forth to meete it; the o three Kings (though the Scottish was to depart that very day) with their roiall Allyes, carrying the Hearfe on those shoulders, accustomed to vphold the weight of whole kingdomes: from whom the Great Peeres received the fame, and bare it to the Church Porch . whence the three Archbishops and Bishops conunied it to the Quier, and the next day (it there lying the meane time ? open faced, mitred, and in all Pontificall Ornamentes, with Gloves on his hands, and a Ring on his finger) interred it with all folemnities an-fwerable. Yet here the King rested not to give proofe, in so great a height, of his lowly mind, and then benigne (how cuer afterward auerted) to the Clergy; when twelue Abbots of the Cifleanx Habit (whole a whole Order had displeased him, by refusing to giue Aid towardes his great payment of thirtie thousand pounds) r came now to Lincolne, and all proftrate at his feet, craued his gracious fauour, for that his Forresters had driven out (for so the King had given commaund) of his Paftures and Forrests all their Cattle, wherewith themselves, and Christs Poore were sustained. The King touched with remorse on fo venerable a troope of Suppliants, (though fo great offenders) commaunded them to rile, who were no sooner vp, but the King sinspired with disume Grace, fell flat on the ground before them, despring pardon, adding, that hee not onely admitted them to his love, & their * beafts to his Pastures, (a speciall fauour which Kings had graunted that Order,) but would also build an Abbey for men of their fort, (if they would designe some choice seat) wherein himselfe meant to bee ensbrined. Neither did he promise then more then hee performed, nor were those wylie Humiliates regardleffe of choosing a delicate plotte for the purpole, where hee built a goodlie Abbey of their Order, deferuedly for the pleasance of the place, named Beaulien, and of wrich Renewae, and excessione Priniledge continuing long of great renowne, as a Castle of refuge inustable; our Auncettors thinking it most namous facrilege, thence to draw any, though wifful Munderess of Traitors: wherein the Founders of fuch vinlanctified Sanctuaries, & Temples of Mercy (lothey called the 1throughout this Kingdom, Jeemed rather to take Romulus for their Prefident, the Moles, who grantin fauor to casuall Manslaughters, yet I commanded wilfull Murderers to bee drawn from the Altar to the slaughter. (12) By what degrees, men not onely of fuch re-outed-religious habit, but also of the Secular-Clergy, fell afterward more and more from fuch fauoursol the King, and hee from theirs, a man that will not purposcly winke, may casily behold, both forts standing to stiffe on their persons, and their possessions Exemption from Regall commaund, that whiles the Pope could have all for any superfluous imploiment, the King could get nothing, though his Kingdome were in hazard, as you heard by the dis-loyall obstinacies both of the Archbishop of Yorke, who denied the King his personall attendance, and those Cifteaux Monkes, whose Coffers were thus lockt against him . The like pretended Exemptions of their Clergie-Prelacies (as well as of their Persons and Purses) wrought also like offences, both with former Kinges, and now with King Iohn, who on the death of Bishop Hugh, resoluing to conferre by gift, (as his b Ancestors did, and himselfe elsewhere lately had) that See, on forme whom either merite or affection had endeared to him, (the rather, because a men of those places, in those dayes, were viually their Soucraignes bosom-

Counsellors) . hee was with peremptory affronts | e Rog Housed. withstood by the Cannons there, who very bolde withflood by the Cannons there, who very bound on the Pope sybeating, reckt very flenderly their Princes displicating. It is not valkely that Archibithop Huberi (left Canterbury might be thought in paint Archibert of Cast. ferior to Yorke in daring boldnes,)as being Papal Legate, in fecret bolftring them had a hand, though closely carried in a gloue: for that the man, who lately, f gloried the King was wholy his, riow from Housely finding hee had not the fway hee expected, and thought heedeferued (by obligement of his first Agency about the Crowne,) not onely fludied to make vpp that by his Legatine Glory which hee wanted by his Princes countenance, but further, Haberts bollow (as $ one who thinkes hee extolles his vertue, paints g Polyd. Vert. 1.15 forth his difloyalty) heerepented now, more then any thing in all his life, that hee had so advanced King John to the Crowne, Certes, about this time, hee flewed flender refpect to his Soueraigne, (for as God is in his, so are Kings dishonoured in their Ministers disofficer. graces) when being prohibited by Fitz-Peter, the Kings great Iustitiar and Minister (in the Kings abfence) of regall commaund, h from holding a General Councell of his Province, (neuer vied to bee held, but by Soucraigne permittance) his pleasure scornde to take any countermaund, but from him especiallie, who, in i calling his inferior, by * joynt deserts tot Archiepifespae in Regno a Rege feunda perfona. Mat.Paris. * As fellow agen wards the King, but his Equall, was now, in neerenesse and fastnesse to the King, become farre his Superiour. · But what speake I of confronting a fubordinate power? did hee spare to out-beard his Soueraigne himselfe? It seemes no. For having notice, the Feast of the Nativity now approaching, that the King intended with his Queene at Guilford An, 1201. to keepe that feaftiuity with great magnificence; he to keepe that tealtuity with given insquinessing, while believe ordinarily, for splendour, militiate of attendant and sampious intertainments did firite with the Kingdo one of his own Suscelfor and one of the work Suscelor and one of the work of the work see a support the sampious through this a fitting time, to firew, both his great with the sampious of the sampious subject of the sampi state, and little regard of his Princes discountenance, by 1 paraleling to the Kings, his owne fumptuous preparations, "with rich attires, and costly gifts for his At-tendants at Canterbury. The King(as Kings brooke Quas cum Rege not to bee braued by Subjects, nor is it wisedome for diffauourites to doe it,) moued " with great indignation, thought the man had too much riches, & n Man. Purit, too little Discretion(which seldome lodgeth in the braine, where Pride dwels in the Heart,) and therefore to abate somewhat the one, and learne him more of the other, having first beene in the " North parts to gather money for his better vies, hee meant faying he then went into Irenot to lauish it in keeping his Easter, which he chose rather to doe at the cost of Hubert the P Rich; & not to spare him, who spared not himselfe, he there inp Mat. Parker creaft that great expense with a greater of His, and his Queenes folemne act wining againe on Easter day, in the Cathedrall Church; where, in lieu of his expence, Hubert had the formall honour to fet on their Crownes, but yet not the grace to fit neere the Kings Heart, (13) Such being the first ouertures of hart-bur

fons beleagured his Castles; tidings whereof recalled King Johns thoughtes from his Domesticke

Kkkk

The first bre nings betwixt the King and his Ciergy, which after ches betwint the king and his Lay Petros. by additament of dayly fuelling, braft forth into a more fearefull flame; the Lay-Peeres were so farre from labouring to quench it, that they made it the fiercer: for these Bellowes of Rebellion, which before their Homages did condition for their Rights & Liberties, were not all this while sparing of their breath, to inflame other Nobles with the like heat of fury. Hell it selfe (whence al Rebellions spring, and thither fall againe) could not with a fitter occasion to broach and actuate such a mischiefe. For the Portonins with King Philips conninence, (taking Ros.Houd aduantage of King Iohns absence, and Springs approach) were vp in Armes, dislodged his Garri-

Pompes, to his Transmarine Affaires; for the prefent, he gaue commaund to his . Sene schallof Nor-

Chap. 8. Kinglohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45.

Lincolne . 1 Sec Paiplar 1.15. of S. Hugh, n Para boft, mai. Negligent Po-lysor latch he di-ed, 43, 207. Reg. o Keg-Heatd.

The manner of Bulsops tunerals p Mat. Paru . mere Pontificus p.197. King lahus great a See Hollinfly Tw K Lehm deny sid to K. Houed f 462.

K. tobus facility to pardon offi ders.

iRog.Honed.ib.

*The prestweld confifted in cat-tle and wooll.

t The Reauteens place on Abbey in Hamphere by New Forreft. u valued(at the H.S.) at 418, 1.6,1 8,d-q*. yearly.

x Camb den i n Hamplbire.

y Exod, 21. V. 14

The first brees King and his Clergy.

a Apud Mat. Paris,passim. The Clergy fold exempsis fens. 2 Oftheir politi-3 Of their Preb S.ein K. Hesry the r. c Succeffit Iobsomi de Oxenforda in at Oxenjorda in Epatu Narrivie, Ish de Gray, Dani Johannii regu. Hou f 458 Epa-

d Mer Perir

mandy to attempt on them some Counter-services, manay to accempt on them to the Contentations, to withdraw the Seigers, (whom also King Philip, hearing King Iohn was in par for comming oner with an Army, forthwith recalled, and published his generall fummons, that his Earles, Barons, and all that held by Knights-feruice, should bee ready at Portsmouth with Horse and Armes, on Whitsonday then instant, to crosse the seas with him. The tumultuous Earles knowing, that the King then needed their present helpes, and therefore might bee forced to any Capitulations, in a conventicle held at Leycefter, by a "ioint conspiring, sent an audacious metfage to the King, that they would not attend him vnleffe hee would first restore their rightes; with which disloiall refusal, the King justly incensed, by fome mens too precipitate aduife, (confidering the hazardous time which needed a falue rather then a coraffue) scized into his hands some of their Castles.

to prevent their further attempts, of some he tooke their children for pledges, and others, whose Purses were likely to doe him truer seruice then their owners, heez released upon payments. At which prefixed time, he dispatched before him william Earle of Pembrooke, and Lord Roger Lacie with y two regiments to joyne with Normandies Seneshall. What a graue Author judged of those bold Barrons here, and other turbulent Great-ones then abroad, may bee gathered by this; that as foone as mention fell in of those refractary Lords, he streight felloff, to fhew how in that very yeare, Pope Innocent then raigning in Rome, Saffadine the Turke in Ierusalem, A. lexander the Fatricide in Constantinople, (for so he yo-keth those three together, with some others follow-the time (great Doctors preached, that then was the time (great Doctors preached, that then was the time (great peliratus, the Disell was let loofe, to seduce the Nations like a b Serpent, and trouble the world like a Dragon, which how true it proued in this our Nation and little-World, (in whose Tragedy the Diucil also, amongst the d first named Actors comes now to play his part,) the Diabolicall enfuing practifes, both of fraud and fury, will hereafter demon-

(14) The King, though thus disfurnished of his principall home helpes, yet entrusting the custodie of the land, especially those Southern parts with & Hubert de Burgo Lord Chamberlaine, and re-ceiuing to 8 full reconcilement/for more fecurity of the Northerne, Geffres Archbishop of Yorke, whose h Churches large Priviledges then he ratisfied; without delay at Portefmouth hee put forth to fea, with Ifabel his Queene, though in fundry Bottomes, and with differing successe, a sudden gust disparting the Fleet, whereby the King was driven backe on the Ifle of Wight, but the Queene's with much adoe, arrived fafe in Normandy, whom foon after the King fo lowed thither. Vpon whose arrivall, the French King perceiving the power of his adversary, presently con-discended to another personall (but very m private)

Parley; wherein each gaue and received fuch reci-procall fatisfaction in their defires, that thereupon, not onely the former bonds of Amiry feemed to cotinue frong, butwere also more frengthned with a new knot of " Affociation, wherein fundry great

Lords of either fide were by indentment of Writing, made fuerties to the counter-part, with condition, that whither of the two Kings did first wiolare the Couenants, all his cautionary Lords should bee released of their all eagiance to him, and become Leegemen and Affiliants to the Prince offended.

And that the world might take more notice of their combined loues, they both agreede to contribute to the Holy-Warres, (which now begannet o bee on foot) the fortieth part of the whole Reuenewes of their Crownes, fending their Pletters abroad into their Dominions, to encourage all their Nobles & people, by their examples to doe the like. With which intercourses, & other coplements, three daies being spent betwitt them, King Philip the deeper Heurd.f.465. t Apad Teur fbu-rie, die Ajcenfis-nu. Paru.

488

u Houeden.

· Maloulus con-

Rog.Honeden.

By Houed. fo na by Nic.Trinet.

fheweth he de-prived his bro-ther Cufath of Empire and eyes not of life, a Apoc.so.v.7, bv,1.6-8, Supra $ 1.

e Haned f-465 f Parket in vot. Arch Cant erres in faying it was Hubert the Arch bishop, whose Hubert Waters, glisued f 468, h Ibid, i Hollaf,

b. Met Wellmin k Mat Wellmin, Walfing and yet Hourd faith, professivensia ganifa, I Parit Hiff, mine MS. m Newine tenfcio Haued.

o Houed, f 471.

p Epift.Galfredi Apud Honed.

to serue himselfe into King lohns good opinion, (the *fureft way to ouerreach another in any commerce) by intreaty obtained his company, first to S. Den (es Pallace, where hee entred with a pompous Processification. on of the Clergy, and lodged with royall entertainment by the King, and the next day, to Paris, where hee was received with very rich Prefents of the City, and great applause of all forts, to see so noble ar- rread. News. guments of affection betwixt two fo great princes. lately fo mortall enemies; where the French King betaking himfelfe to a more prinate manfion, left his owne pallace to accommodate and honor Englands King. After some dayes there bestowed in princely delights, and entertainements, King tohn conducted forth of the City by King Ph. lip, and parting with mutuall attestations of love never to bee parted tooke his journey towards Normandy, in ful hope to enjoy thence forward the contentment of quiet to himfelfe, and peace to his Dominions: but those windy hopes soone changed with his change of the airc. (15) For whiles at Chinon hee was roially entertaining Queene Berengaria his a fifter (whom b hee A new confpira taining Queene Berengaria us - the transfer the cy, there also bounteoutly fatisfied in performing the cy. as R. Richard: wife I oynture promifed her by King Riehard, gining her & Rog. Hourd. the City and Signiory of Baion, two Caltles, and their Demaines in Aniou, with a thousand Markes yeerelie for tearme of life,) and at " Argenton in Normandy, where hee kept his Christmas, was solacing himfelfe with his faire Queen I fabel; the Earle of March, Hugh, furnamed Le-Brun, ad Peere of great power and alliance, to whom I fabel was first promifed/though for her evnripe yeares he neuer bedded her) enflamed with lone of her, who was now thought worthy to beca Queene, fdrew on other Poittonine Nobles, to thinke that hee was vnworthy to bee aKing, who wrongfully had taken her sfrom him, and would, if not preuented, do the like in time with them. So, honce againe young Arhur, whose former hopes were all cold, is re-kindled to King John. | Many, whole former hopes were all cold, is re-kindled | by thefe fire-brands, and fetry by their malice, | he for the fire-brands, and fetry by their malice, | he for the fire-brands, | he for the f the ancient Great Arthur was rifen againe in him, and that the Translation of the English Kingdom was now by him to be effected. Neither was the k French King, for all his late painted pretentions of loue, deate to their fuggettions, who laboured to incente his harred against 10km; whereto hee had these fur-ther inducements; that King 10km might quicklie waxe too potenta Neighbour in that Continent, if his quiet and power were not timely rebated; that now the meanes to worke it, were more then before, the 1 English Peeres being alienated in affection from him, for denying their claimed Liberties; but m Nucl. Triet. propole of fo Noble a Band) which hee hoped for by his amity (being the manifestation). by his amity (being the mining of those Signiories in the Continent, if hee died fans i spie beginning to give apparant hopes of some faire fruite from 10 faire a apparant hopes of some faire fruite from 10 faire a stemme. Thus whiles Earle Hughout of his love, Duke Arthur out of Ambition, King Philip out of Auarice, (ah that the nobleft person should have the basest end,) but all out of Harred, were contriuing King Johns ruine; hee was farthest from suspicion. when necrest his danger, and yet they, who thus

(16) Butthesessie Serpents shrowded in secret king. their enuenomed heades, till the warmth of the Spring(atimefuiting for martiall mischiefes)called them forth; when King Philip (hauing new- P Mortali small y caft his skinne, and as molf able, so was P most weak, willing to break the way) desired another enterview of with the way. with King John: who commlng thither (the aplace was twixt Fernon and Lifle Dandale) with expectation were forwardeft to vndermine his Greatnes, were themselves formost to bee crusht with the weight

*Tute frequents

Ann.1202

g Howed faith her

An other ente iew of the swo bift min, M S. Mat. Paris fath Galutun Cafile.

(bap. 8. King John. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45.

Hift.min. Parif. MS. Trinet.M.S. Mat-Weft. Paris bifi.min 34.5. u VV alfing. v Nich Triuet

M.S. Raiph Cochall.

a Raiph Cogfhell.

"Die fequenti, (29 Mat. Westm. & Rog. Wend-M.S.

Stowes Anna

Mas.Parif.MS.

King John for-ceth King Philip to raife his fiege. d Confufus receffit. Wendower,MS.

e Parifacin bift.

E Mat. Wellmind. f Mat. Westmings g Mat.Paris bist.maiov. h Paul.Aemil.in Philippo 2. 1 Tho Walfing.

k Mat. Park.

k Mat.Park. bift, min. 1 Magno natu mulice, Acmil. m. Idem.

n Paulsa Aemil.

c Mat. Wellm.

b Hiff miner.

z H I maior

Mat Well.

menitifiimum o p M.a.W.ft. q King Johns letter, fee Hollin, Queene Eleanes besieged in Miraben.

t John Serres Paulus Aemil, I Aemil:Polyd, t Westmin:Park

their last meeting seemed to have engrafted; he there found that this last winter had nipt all those faire bloffomes. For Philip, forgetfull of all former Compacts, and pretending some imaginary wrongs, in outragious manner required him without delay to redeliuer into Arthurs hands, all his Transmarine dominions, Normandy, Turayne, Aniou, Poictou;or otherwise as Lord Paramount of those Countries which John held by Homage, he peremptorily "cited him personally to appeare in * Easter Terme at Paris, there to answere what should bee laide to his charge, and to abide the Arrest of his Court of Instice The colour on which hee thus did cite him, was (fay y fome) King Iohus tharpe repressing of some rebellious attempts of Hugh le brun the former yeer, whereof the Earle complained to King Philip, as to the chiefe Lord. King John much amaled to lee, not onely hony to foone diftempered into gall, but the French King also turned into an Apparatour, a disdained both his Citation and Commaunds, as very vnnoble for Englands King to accept, or the French to offer; neither indeed did Philip thus put the matter to daying, as intending any fuch legitimate proceeding, but onely to make his aduersary secure of any other affaults, then by Petty-foggers. For whether it be true or no, that King John for his non-appearance, was by fentence of the French Peeres adjudged to loose all his Territories in the Continent : certaine it is, that *no fooner was the Conference with indignation broken off, but Philip (heé had before prepared to ef-fect what hee had proiected) with power and fury affailes Butauant Castle, whose Turrers (high-reared by *King Richard) hee b levelled with the Foundations, and thence fodainely like a flash of lightning, beganne to involve the neighbouring partes with ranfakings and ruines, till giving an affault, (which had held him eight dayes) to the Castle of Radepont King John comming to the rescue, forced him with shame to speed away. To repaire which dishonour, and to empaire the English forces by distraction of imploiments, returning to Paris, hee there appoints for Arthur (to*whom hee had now affianced his yonger daughter) both certaine selected Nobles to bee protectors to fecure and guard his person, & also bands of Souldiers to attend his command, amongst which were 200, the choice Knightsof France; all which in s very pompout Troupes followed him, with Philips h directions, and also supply of great fummes of money) into Poicton, to reduce those parter to his Allegiance, which was no hard matter to effeet; the greater part of Commaunders there (being fore-wrought)expecting nothing more, and the bet ter part suspecting nothing lesse, then these perfidious affaults.

tion of some fruits of those louely courtesies which

(17) Queene Eleanor Regent of those provinces. attended with a very flender guard, yet ftrong inough for daies of quiet, (which both her! Age did now defire, and her " Homage done to Philip , and Philips faire shewes to her did promise;)having no speedier notice of those incursions, then the vnpleasing effectsthereof, (for on Arthurs good successes, "K. Philip proclaimed him Lord of those Dominions) betooke her selfe into Mirabeau, one of the most tenable townes in . Poitfou, fending to King Iohn (whose forces were then in Normandy and 9 Mayne, repressing or preuenting Philips attempts) for prefentaids. Which yet could not fo speedily come, but Arthur (who knew that vpon seisure of such a prize as Eleanour, hee might draw her sonne to any conditions) had preuented them, befieged her, and possessed himselfe of her towne, though not of her person, as fome by mis-understanding haue mis-related. For the retiring into the Castle, made it good against her Grandchilds incessant batterie; about which, whiles he, with his * continual fupplies of Poitouine and Y Aniouine princes, was a indefatigably bufied, King Tohns Army neere at hand (for his ex-pedition both by day and night to his mothers ref-cue, is recorded as a dmirable) brought the newes King Island Section 1 of their owne approch; which caused b the great in Holling le in Holling.

Army of the Leagers fo industrious before to Impeach others, no lesse sollicitous now to depeaco others, no lens states martially ranged, & even fend themselues. Both Armies martially ranged, & even arthurs Battalions not onely a undauntedly, but also described to the second states of the second states of the second very e pompoully comming on to the shocke, the fight proped most fierce and terrible, each fide refoluing, by reason of both the Competitors presence in the field, that the End and vpfhot of all their delignes. depended on that dayes successe: which in the end by the fortunate s proweffe of King John and his English, fell disastrouslie on Arthur, his French, and other Assistants, who after a h great slaughter made amongit them, turning their backs to him, from irrium.MS. whom they had before turned their Faithes, tooke their flight towards the Towne to shelter their lines within those walles, which so late the Seat of their triumphes, became now the cage of their captination, and the Toombe of all Arthurs ambitions hopes, though himfelfe fo vnhappy as to furusue them: for together with the tumultuary flyers, the IPV endourn. Oils victorious King & his Armic entred, renued a = most bloudy fight, repossessed the Town, freed his mother, enthralled his Enemies, and recovered all the prosinees which had revolted.

(18) This victory was so glorious to King Iohn, and so dreadful to his Enemies, (for King Philips two chiefe confederates, a Arthur and Hugh Brun Ray-mund, Father to Guido the husband of Conflancia, Pall the Pecres of Poicton and Anion, about 200. qLitera & glie French Knights and others of command, belides the vulgar multitudes were taken prisoners) that both then King Philip, though very hote in the flege of Argues in Normandy, presently cooled and con-founded with newes thereof, brake vppe his fortnights fiege, and returned home; and fince, the French fawning fauourites, and King Iohns maligners haue fought to extenuate the matter, auerring against all truth of record, that it was exploited before the French were come to Arthurs aide, and when all his Souldiers were both unarmed and unordered. But, as others highly extolling king Iohns u So Polyder. valour herein, * interprete those fore-doomes of Merlin to have beene ment of him, r that hee should Constitution have been entered time, I may mee posses, y as etial V. the crowned with the head of a Lion, should out out the mist tongues of Buller, and lay you chaines on the backes of roring Beaffi (and indeed hee "chained them hand and "Veredae". foot and so convayed them away in Carts, a kind of riding till then unufuall with them,) so King Iohn himselfe, a duely acknowledging the greatnesse of Gods goodnessetherein, fent his Letters to all his Barons wherefoeuer (thereby to encourage the loiall, and hold in awe the tomultuous) inciting them to render all prayle onto God for so admirable a worke, and fogratious aftiffance: and foone after b hee difperfed his noblest Captines into fundrie Castles in Norhis noblett captures into under Cantes in Aver-mandy and England; Arthurs fifter Eleanse, called the Damofell of Britaine, being committed to Bri-fiom Cafile, where shee a long lived with coery ho-nourable vsege. And though the kings displeasure was justly incensed against her brother Arthur, for so frequent wavering in his faith, yet meaning to trie all meanes of winning him who had thus loft himselfe, f hee sent for him (being then at Falaise in the custody of & Hubert L. Chamberlain) and In the cuttody of 8 thebert L. Chambertain) and entreated him very gently, promising him all homours-blerefpeits; if as yet) he would rejoine to forfake the French kings amity, and frame both him mind for hearty lone, and his Actions for peaceable observance towardes him, his voncle and Leege Lord. Which exceeding clemency, the ill-aduited young Gentleman (for what wisedome is it to shew pride where wee neede mercy, and to give threates beyond possibility of performance?) h required onely with arrogant and onduitfull language, farion(19 obraiding the king with violent and fraudulent detention of the English

489

d Para biff min. Wat.VVil.

g Paris hift ma.

k Mat. VVell.

o Litera K-leb.

Mat.Well.

Triuce, VV alfid x Trinet. Welfing

d Shee muc. 1241. Param H.; e VValing.

Crowne, which menacingly he there required of him. and allother King Richards Countries, as his lawfullin the staine of dishonour, especially for Treachery or Co-wardize: from either of which I wish I could with truth acquite those two great Barons (whose names wee will here forget) to whom King John entru-fled the defence of the famous Cafile called Vall-de

Philippe a. The Peeres fenhis elder brothers some, being an Homager to the French, and that within the French Territories, without any le-gall course nor by cognizance of those to whom it apper-tained; whereupon hee is adjudged to bee held an enemie

(bap. 8. Kinglohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45. Mat.Patis. " Hogh Garmy. Poly LL: 5 . y Tyod Neuß. z Pol.Virgil. e Mat Paris. *Conflable o c Rog. Wed. MS. f Paris, ad Ann o VV end MS. h De Wende, M. * Sub libera cu-

Ruill; who no fooner faw King Philip " engirding it with his great heaft, and mounting his Engines of battery against it, but estsoones, before one stone of the wals was their heads, they dishonourably surrendred the Fort (a matter of very great consequence) to King Philips pleasure: who though abundantly pleased with the deed, yet so x contumeliously (but most justly, and prince-like recompensed the Deers, for Traytors alwaves become odious though the Treason be commodious,) that, for so base a part he commanded them to be fettered in chaines, and basely intreated in close pri-son, till they had deerely redeemed their liberty, though they could hardly their reputation. Another noble Baron, * Captaine of Cafile Galliard (which being built on a very high Rocke ouer Seyne, King Rich ard had made impregnable) by his vindaunted proweffe, and z great flaughter made vpon Philips hoaft, lying 6. moneths in siege about him, was far from any suspition of dassardie; but yet becaped not the blemish both of ingratitude and infidelity, in that at length hee not onely yeelded up that Castle to the enemies, but allo feereth by night brought them into the Cafile of Montfort, which hee betraied vnto them, not weighing bis faith to his Leege Lord, who had bestowed on him that Castle, with all the honour and demaines thereto belonging. Otherwise for his first furrender, his case had beene more excusable, the famine(an vnresitable enemy) in the Castle being so great, that, as the ^d French Recorders them-seliues consess, when the Women and others of the unferuiceable fort were put forth for sparing of pre mant, and being betwixt the Castle and the Enemies, found pitty and relecte of neither in the fight of them all a Woman great with Child was delivered, and her in fant prefently eaten up. Amongst those, and other of King lohns revolting Barons, like so many falling Starres, if we should pretermit that fixed and bright starre of vnmoucable fidelity and resolution, the Lord * Robert de Lacy, wee should bee guilty of high of. fence against true bosours, who having received of his Prince the custody of the goodly Calle Rocke.

Andely ('which was builded also by King Richard) did brauely beare of the fiege and power of King Philip and his hoalt almost a whole yeare; in which space, though by their continual batteries and vnderminings 8 a great part of the walles were flatted germanngs a great part or the waites were natted, yet they could never make entry you him, but were repulfed with flaughter, till his provision of visituati being now fent to the last hourse., he called "his Souldiers together, encouraging them...gfor fo "long proofe of their "Manhood not to faint now in the "last Act; but to consider, that though it were better for them to die by samine, then to line with reproch of falc or faint-heartedues[le, yet it is more noble for soul-diers to die solsting, then familing, and together with their owne lines, to facrifice to their Countries honour the blond of their slaughtered enemies, Whereupon fiercely * fallying forth with his Refolutes, after a bloody mambles made in the middelt of his beleaguers, hee was by multitude ouerborne and taken; but guers, thee was by minimae outer own a trackers, when he in regard of his exemplary faith and prowesse, maintaining his charge by King Philips expresse command, (a second princely and prudent fact, to discipline his Subjects by thus entreating his focs,) hee was honourably vied, and without refiraint of a prife-(23) But as the fact of this Peere was peereleffe, fo was this Clemency in that King, but rare and vnacto was this turnerly in that was thisly out-flood his affaultes; i ome of whom formerly hee had caused to bee dispiteously dragged at horse-heeles, for the terrour of others. Of which indignites, & the informatics, & the informatics of the terrour of the case of the cas other irkefome extremities, (the infeparable comon him, (especially winter feeson enforcing furceastle of warres) to abandon the place of his iniurious foes, to expostulate in England with his perfidious panions of warre)indured by his people, when King Tohn had notice by Messengers sent vnto him for reliefe and sides, no margaile is it, if his griefe were aboue beleefe or measure, finding himselfevererly deflitute of meanes to relieue their want s, or his owne loffes; albeit for the time hee bare it out with a manly shew, saying, I that these were but the French pilferings, of which he meant in due time to exact an account with interest. For what else could hee doe? The Normans (to omit those others in open Rebellion) meither wholy fallen away from him, or but dissemblingly adhering to him; his " Barons from home, failing him at his need; his "Nobles there about him, being under pretext of a speedy comming againe, returned into England: by which meanes the King Pwas left very dispeopled having onely a small traine, which could in so great a need doc him but very small sernice: but that thele important and unportable matters a did no whit moue him, nor could retriue him from the bosome of his too-dear Enchantresse, (which occasioned some to think him infaruated with sorcery) is a thing past capability of beleefe. (24) The King thus diffurnished of all helps, In

(24) I ne King enus dirturnined of all neips, In-mocentius, the firring Bilhoppe of Rome, made fayre thew to falue thefe temporall wounds with a fpirituall playster; which doubtlesse made King Iohn more ecure then flood with his good: for, as in fo great distresses, there was no forraine Prince fitter for the King to conbine with, then Otho the Emperor, his owne Nephew, and Philips professed enemy: so the Pope on the one side beginning to bee sealous of othe's greatnesse, mistrusted the concurrence of two fuch great friends, and therefore vndertooke to vmpeere the debates betwixt those two great Enemies and King Iohn on the other fide, willing to make vie and amy form on the other hat, while of the Popes fauour, durft not yet comply with any, whom his Sanctitude any whit distanoured. His Legates for this businesse, were the Abbots of Casmer and Troiffons: his motine, that " these diffentions of Christendom weakned the wars against Turky :his De Cas. Marie colour, * that this contention being a matter of faithcotour, * that instruction design matter of parties breach(as of Leagues, Oath and Cournsats) the cognitive very the same thereof did properly appertained to his facted indicature; whereof hee made so little doubt, as that the I very letter then fent to the French Pecres, is to this day registred for 24 pontificall decree: and this audaci-ous Law then by Innocentius first brought to the world for current, * That when sever one Prince is de-linquent against another, the correction thereof appertaines to the Pope. Their Commission was, a to call the Bishops and Princes of both Kingdoms, for ferling a Peace; to inhibite all hostility; to referue the further triall of the Right to the Pope as & Someraigne Iudge; c to enioyne that all Religious places by the warres destroied, or empouerished, should be restored to their due State; difeither of the Kinges should beerefractary, his whole Kingdom presently to bee put under Interdict. Philip, albeir the Pope was then offended with him vpon other terms, (for that hee simposed towards his warres a taxe of certhat nee imposed towards in water a date of the Popes will alleadging it was necessary that out of their primate abundance, they should beare a charge in the common preservation,) yet knowing the Pope had need of his prefermation,) yet knowing the rope has need of his friendship about setting the Empire, he ment so long to side with the Popes authority, as the Pope would stand with his commodity, & repining to have so faire a prey taken out of his talents, made bold to despile both the commands and the curfes : yet this hee did in (moother fashion then hee had done once before, when he rigourously punished all the & Bishops and Prelates, whom, for confenting to such a Papall censure, he turned out of their Sees and dignities; for now, he happealed from the sentence for a fashions sake, i bur i Pespare. yetviolently proceeded with his warres, and k did fwimme with the full current of his wiferries. The kwand. MS. waves whereof to fast furrounded King lohn, that * fearing also further treason of his owne men, hee thought good, till some better daies would shine vp-

ma òift. n Parifmin, bil

q Met.West t Wend.West. Sortilegy; wel malesteys.ibid.

The Pone inte poteth betwist

Armilius in z Ep,Decretal, a Trinet Ats.

dP. Aemil,

(25) For that was the first worke hee did, after Kkkk 2 his arrivall, (1 which was at Port (mouth on Saint Nicholas day in December) when " laying to the charge of his Earles and Barons, that in his warres they fuffered him to be destitute of requisite aides, and " had left him in the middest of his enemics, by which their defaults, hee was thus despoiled of his Castles and Countries; thereup-pon, by aduise of Hubert Lord Archbishoppe, and Lord Fitz-Peter Chief Institut (who knew these were no Forged canillations) he put them and other delinquents to their Fines, (for his Warres made him defiretheir mony more then their liues) wherein these two great Counsellors were 4 ouerseers for the receits, the one for the Clergy, the other for the Lai-ty) of both whom they received no leffe fummes of curfes, then of Coine. The like repining among the people, (who iudge of the goodneffe of a King only by sparing their purses) ensued on the grant of a large Subsidie (two Marks and halfe of euerie Knights Fee) in a Parliament* presently after held at Oxford, where the King & Peeres contening about redreffe of those remediles mischiefs, the iffue ('as seemeth)

was, that Ambassages should bee addressed into France, two Prelates, Canterbury and Norwich, with two Earles Marshall and Leicester, to treat from the Body of the Kingdome, touching those Prouin-ces, which being incorporated with Englands Soneraignety, could not without apparant injuffice bee abstracted from a Nations common interest, upon coloured pretences against any particular. Philip, hauing 'vpon King Iohns departure thence vsed his whole Forces and wittes, to weary, or to winne di-uers other Cities & Forts; which had till then stood faithfull (for which purpose hee also imployed sundry instruments, themselves first corrupted, that they might corrupt others to defection, with great rewards and greater promifes,) hee meant not now to re-commence Questions of Right, having already neere decided that point by the point of his fword: yet because hee was to deale with a mighty Nation, hee would not abruptly refuse to capitu-late, and yet againe by proposall of a conditions exceeding either Reason or Possibility, hee dammed up all passages to peaceable agreement : * his demaunds were to hauc either Arthur, whom hee knew to bee dead, redeliuered into his hands aline, or elfe, his Sifter Eleanor in marriage with all those Countries in that Continent: but those Statesmen easily perceived that Philips heart, aimed farther then his tongue, and that with Eleanor hee hoped to purchase a higher dowry, even the English

Diadem, whose claim glided down from her brother to her; which perchance was the fecret ground of his Oth, that he would never linne to purfue that quarrell, till hee had deprined King John of his

(26) This Ambaffage was not onely thus iffue-leffe, but produced also effects tending to further irritation: for this feemeth to bee the time when

Philip fent a brauing Champion, to justifie by Duel before the States here in England, what his Mafter had done in France against their King in open warre;

and b though it was not deemed expedient to jeo-parda Title of fuch weight on the Armes and Fortune of one man; yet it was refolued the Challenger fhould not paffe vnanswered, whereto none was held fitter then Iohn Curey Earle of Viller, (for erebellian and derying his homage to the King condemned or the state of th

uaged with a too carelesse rudenesse: which appeared not onely in his 4 wild speeches, touching the Kings misulage of his Nephew Arthur (which fome by errour alledge as cause of his indurant durance.)

but euen now, when the king demanding him, whether hee would combate in his quarrell? A.V.

(quoth he) not in thy quarrell nor for thy fake, but for the Kingdomes right I will fight to the death. Against which day, whiles hee repaired with large diet his Parificiana.

Kingdome.

d Jbidew. e Campion bift of ring of his excelline feeding, and strength answerable thereto, thereby fearing he had been fome Monfler of Nature, rather then a man, hee fecretly fneaked away s into Spaine alhamed to shew his face in France againe Curey finding the King gracious, was hereupon released, and h is said (if this bee not to digresse) to have crossed the seas for Ireland fifteen times, and euermore beaten backe to the shore: (acknowledged himfelfe herein juftly punished of God, neuer againe to fee his owne feat, for difplacing God out of his, when he converted the Church of Prebendaries in Doan confectated to the bleffed Trinity, into an Abbey of Monkes, to the honour & name of Saint Patrick, k whose Image was erected in a stately seat, wherein before the Trinitie was deportracted, which was thence rejected into a private Chappell. The ! trifb relate, that the two Kinges being afterward together (belike when they made the next truce in Erance) King Philip hearing Curey to bee in the English Campe, intreated to see some experience of his so much seared and reported strength: where a Helmet of excellent proofe full farced with Mayle, being set vpon a great wooden blocke, the Earle lifting his trufty Skeyne, first louring round about him with a dreadfull afpect. cleft fo deepe quite through the fleely refiftance in to the knotty wood, that none there could draw it out but himselfe, who did it with ease, and being asked by the Kings, why hee frowned to irefully be-fore the stroke; hee told them, that hee then intended if hee had failed of his blow, to have killed them all, both Kings and others the lookers on. (27) But what Philip could not in England by one where having a = mighty power attending him fro City to City, yet bee thought faire wordes would bee for himfelfe both cheaper and fafer, and with the Pro-nincials more forceable then force it felfe; especially, where such troupes of armed Orators were at hand, and where golden preparatives had made way with the chiefest. Philip tolde them, "their late Lord had quite forfaken them, and that therefore himselfe, as their supreme Liege came to prouide that his owne Countries might bee indemnified. defiring, them louingly to admit and embrace him as their Lord, fith now they had no o-"ther to protect them from [kath; but menacing withall, that if they forced him to yie force, they fould die no other death then hanging or to be " flead aline: with which fawnings and fears, though many well munified places were fetched off without any refistance, their Captaines violating their faith to curry favour with the French; yet Roan, the P place e-uer honoured for fidelity to the English Crowne (and 9 therefore worthily felected by King Richard to bec the Shrine of his Leonine Heart.) was better fortified both in affection and munition, then to wane vpon parties. Which neglect incenfed Philip to turne his Oratory into Battery, (it being the chiefest City, and therefore of greatest consequence for consumating his victories,) which he continued in a most sierce & ins victories, joint a reconstitute in a most factor of the space of two monethes; but finding it to be with final advantage, hee fell againe to * golden Eloquence, attracting some in special to the space of the s ciall with present pay, and all in generall with ' promises of future inioping all their wonted lawes, and liberties without impairement of amy their commodities what source aduiting them to to reiest those profered conditions, which evelong they would gladly get, when they should not be granted. The Roanists, seeing their dangers, feeling their wants, fearing their ruines, yet defired respite till King John might know their State: who finding himselfe at home as ill bestedde as theirsabroad, his Barons refusing to follow the warres, returned them answere, he could not presently releeve them. Whereupon the "Great men who could fway the multitude with cheaper reasons, then Philips open hand had swayed with them, perz Paul Aemil, is Phil. August.

impayred limmes and finewes, the Frenchman hea-

Champion, he accomplished in Normanay by many; u Rog.Wend. Suis detrellantibus militiam. (bap. 8. | King lohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45. fwaded them to weigh, that in truth they were all ori-ginally Frenchmen, though now called Normans, of that noblest and richest part of all France, and the French king being Supreme Lord thereof, there was no saufe at all of continuing this new hostility, but very many of renuing that antique amity.

y Caput totius Kormanie Rothody thus fainting; who can expect that those few inmagum,Polydor. from Exg! fb allegiance z tohde Serret. to that Aemyl. much erreth in laying Rolls had ad Au.1103. Tringt.MS.

k Annales Bib.

Pol. Firgil, L.15 " Denis & pro-mi fis ad defection feriour members, yet vntainted should so continue long? neither did they. So as eftfoones all that Dukedome, one of the goodlieft gemmes in the English Diademe, and disbranched from France lince

b Trime.A1S. Walfing.

Tped.Weuft,

Ann. 1204.

Dic.Truet MS

the yeare eight hundred eighty fine, was againe tent a-way,ingloriously for them who lost it, injustlie by them who got it, but perfidiously by such as should, and might haue kept it. For whatfocuer necessity then, or malice fince hath laid on the King; this Eulogie, and memoriall thereof, written by vnpartiall pennes, will stand indelible on his Subiects, A rege Anglia, Normannia fraudibus fuorum alienata, Englands King loft Normandy by treathery of his owne people. And no leffe treacheroufly dealt Philip with them, when hee had caught them with the trappe of his glofing proffers(as such Princes more vinally then princely, fquare their promifes to others liking, their performances to their owne) cauling without delay their Cities goodly wals be to be vitterly demolished, and gi-uing strict charge that they should neuer bee built up againe. The other neighbouring Countries, Main, Turaine, Paicton, who were all forerunners in the rebellion, would not be now behind in the finall reuolt: Angiers in this more happy, that shee fell away by others falshood, not her owne, when stan-ding on her guard, "William de Rupbus cladde his choice Souldiers upon their armour in the habite

(28) The Head, yea and Heart of all Norman-and other furniture of market-men, who so getting accesse into the City gates, made easie entrance for;a greater hoast, which soone after became absolute Lords of all Anion. (29) Wofull experience had now taught King John a lesson fitte to be learned of all Princes, whom the fawning world enftyleth most Mighty, that this their might is not onely lyable to the checke and dif-

g FVend.MS. Parifhift.min. Od.S. h Cosfball, i Wendower.Paris k Cosfbal.Hollin.

pose of that Highest all-ruling power, who vnthrones them at his will; but euch depends of the waying humors, and wils of those * inferiour vasfels, of whom they thinke themselues varefistable Commaunders. But King John was not vnfenfible eyther of his forraine dishonours, (though as 4 often as hee endeauoured to redeeme it, by lenying any Army, furcable to fo greata deligne; fo often was hee croffed by his own Nobles) or of those his domesticke affronts; which notwithstanding, by counfell and affiftance of his better affected, & truer hearted friendes and subjects: at length chee gathered a Royall Hoast and a mighty Nawy, (therein 14000. Mariners fome fay) with full resolue to reuenge his wrongs, and repaire his losses. Which great enterprize managed with vnmoueable determination (for now with full fayles, and fuller heartes at Port(mouth they were ready to embarke) brought to the Kings further knowledge, and to the worlds, who had beene all this while the fecret vnderminers of his fortunes, and hinderers of his imployners of his fortunes, and hinderers of his improy-ments. For Hubert's the Archbifbop, and Papall Legate with many others, (amongh whom, "fome find Wil-liam Marshall Earle of Pembroke numbred) thither comes vnto the King, and flatly forbids him to proto coniect the true cause and reasons of this audacious Prohibition; but if wee consider on the one side the Popes vie of Philips Forces, to counter-ballance if nced were Othos greatnesse; on the other, the interest which both the Pope and *Philip had in Huberts affection: wee may without Huberts 1 dimining Spirit prie into the mystery of his secret workings, as an Archbishop, and now open commaund as a Legate to hinder King John, for feare of hindring King Phi-

(30) But whatfoeuer was the reason, Hubert was the Infrument that fo refolute projects, fo m inefti-mable charges, fo necessary an action fell fodainely to the ground, whereby, besides the selfe milehiese which therewith fell on the King, many fresh grudgings accrewed vnto him, for fuffering himfelfe to beethus violently repulfed from so behoughful a purpole. The Archbishoppe and Ararshall as principals were rewarded with the " curfes of the dilmiffed multitudes, as the just fee for their valuat counfell; and the King himfelfe was fo little pleated with fo vnexpected a countermaund, that albeit at the present, (either awed with the authority of the Papall Legate, or with the weight of his coloured motiues, or with hazard which hee might leage behind him) hee durft not withftand it; yet o the very next day, checking himfelfe for overprizing the commaund of any man, about the value of his kingly honour and flate, hee P refolued to recollect his disparkeled troupes, and to * put forth to Sea. To which end, taking order for his Nobles to follow, they gaue him leaue 9 with a finall company to waffe of star paris, vp and downe two daies in expectance of their attendance, till feeing them more obsequious to Huberts commaund then his, (the Archbishop pe also fending his Inhibition after them on the fea) hee bift.min.mis. was forced to come agains to land. How a King of any royall fparkle, could brooke fuch Sea-and land-Tempelts, without disgorging his Kingdom of the causers therof, I cannot conceine; and yet so vneuenly doth some mens judgement poyle, whose affection guides the Beame, that this defeating of the Kings weightieft affaires, is cenfured as 100 light to faped Mat. Par. deferue the punishment which insued, when the King put many of his Earles, Barons, Knights, yea and Clergymento a grieuous pecuniary redemption for thus refusing to follow him for recourse of his Inheri-

(31) The Archbishop though their Ringleader, might wellhaue beene exempted from this judgement, by his passage to a higher, dying, (if some erre not) the very same weeke, eyther of " griefe, or of a rener, which killed him in four edayes: but they king forthwith in person at Canterbury seized vpon all his wealth and possessions, shewing himselfe right ioyfull, that now hee was rid of him, whom men fulpe-Eted of too familiar practifing with the French King, & faying, hee was never a King till now, by reason of Huberts too presumptuous daring to crosse his royall refolutions as late hee did. But this loy and hope of happier daies, was soone choked and buried in the same Toombe with Hubert; out of whose Ashes sprang vp a roote yeelding more, and more bitter fruites, then King John had as yet tafted, by how much more lamentable are the wounds which are in the bowels and heart of a State, then those which onely light on the skirtes or imore remot members. The first feedes of which falt growing mifchiefes, were to the very fmall and contemptible, and the Sowers of little better regard, being but Cloistered monkes, who craftily factious to advance a privat friend, (which once mounted into Hubers chaire, might befriend them againe,)they gaue a deadly blow, both to themfelues, their Sourraigne, and the State in generall. The *yonger beads amongst them (whose vnexperience makes them in acts of Societies more foreward and daring) having fecret notice of Huberts death, e meant by a flight (whereunto they doubted not to find the Popes furtherance) to defeat their Soueraignes interest in that Election, (and perchance in all other, ever after) of a Primate for the See of Canterburie, the most important place of his Kingdome. * Regimald the Sub-prior of their Couent, One (as you shall heare) fitter for their projects, then for that n H*allinfb*ı

p Rog, de Wend,

Hubers dyeth

u Polydo. x Vis: Arch. Cant

Archbishopp Huberts end the

The Monks of

*Adolescemiores

Mat.Wellmin

* Trivet MS, cal

place, was the man they chose, and that at a mid- a wend, MS. night, when finging Te Deum, they lifted him first Para west. de. vpon the High Altar, and after into the Metropili-tan chaire. They ought to have first obtained the Monkes for their Mothers, till Innocentius to his Alban, a Castle of much renowne, (as being repu-

i Wend Me

(bap. 8. Kinglohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45. way so much money,) had a gathered of the Clergy a shaft meg. huge masse which in full chessive hee comayed to Mat-Puris. MS. Rome. Yet all these domesticke grudges abated not putedk inexpugnable, and now the Rende-now of his most potent enemies, and all their flower of Chiualry, bee gaue a terrible affault thereto for 15. dayes together; where at last his 1 Englishmens, valour was for the Kings due care, nor yet his good hopes, which 1Parif. aduenturous in scaling the walles, and both giving and were soone after much augmented by the encoutaking blowes unportable, that in those few dayes hee ragements of Othors Imperiall presence, b who in entred Conquerour into that very place, "which Charles the great, could not get with his feuen yeers fedge.

The "multitude of Nobles therin taken was so great; n Mat.Wellmin person arriving here in England, to proice for his owne and his vncles warres, was with great loyes met by the King, and conducted through London aVV end MS. that hee fent into England a bedroll of their names. by night, where all the City was feene inher glory, & all the streetes adorned with richest hangings, beautified for a memoriall of so great a victory. Which auspicious beginnings he seconded with no lesse expediall along with the luftre of pendant Crownes, and burtion, prouidence, and prowelle, in the fiege of Anning lampes: who after some dayes of royall entereiers, where on his first approach, hee o gaue present tainements, hence departed not unfurnified with instructions to his maine Army, suddenly to enuihelpes to defray his warres. ron the whole City, & by affault to feeke entrance (36) Whiles King John is thus bufied about his The Poper beopen hossilities, Pope Innocentius is plotting his se-cret Stratagemes against him at Rome: where, like vnto that "other old Boman, who, being chosen umgianing of wrong stowardes King John. * Q. Labes inter Nelan. & Neaps ar the walles on every fide, whiles himselfe and his selected band, with fire and Engines would affaile the Gates; where with great celerity, and no leffe hazard then hardineffe, breaking through, he bepere touching some march-lands betwixt two neighcame Lord of his owne. But what loeuer were the bour Nations, unpartiall to either, adjudged it citer, offic 1,1, from them both to the Romane State; for hee now, being Arbiter betwixt the King, Bilhops, & Monks, Citizens demerites, pittious it was, that their offences, and the Conquerours wrath, lay to heavy on those stately walles, as P to throw them state to the ground; which halty doome, (it being the gradle of his birth, and City of his chiefe delight;) hee as hasticoncerning their choice, hee means to defeat them Paul. Acmit. all, and * adjudge the right of disposing thereof to Hot decipere e his Romifb See. Therfore, at the * fore-limited day of hearing, his first care was, that the 4 Bishops lippes ly (and very deerly too) repented, when with excelfine expenses her encircled it agains with a beautie farre beyond the former. These faire successes, humfor ener should bee sealed vp, (notwithstanding their e allegations of Law, Reason, Decrees, and Practise,) fro intermedling in choice of their own Primate. Wil bling all the Country before him, cleared his paffage into Picardy, whither King Philip was now conyou heare the maine reason? because himselfe, and some other Popes would have it so. Which definitive sen uerting all his power to oppose himselfe against (Dated 19. Cal the violence of this Torrent, which - now more fatence being flent to the Prelates into England, it was P.Acmil. cilly hee might stoppe, having in his way by laying servet ambussiments, laid hands upon Duke Guido, Sauary, and Almericke, King Iohns principall hopes, thought a point of prudence allo, to spreame the King and worke him pliable before hand, to entertaine that which was to follow: which must be done by amigMat.Paris. that which was to follow : which must be done by ami-able lines, and gemmes, wherewith he knew the King was much delighted. His Prefent, being 4. gold Rings, with four precious stones, an Emrauld, Saphire, Ruly, & Topase, he so vainely & childithly (though signoas they were bufily advancing his prefent affaires: by which furprize, though the Englifh forces miffing The Popes pre-fent and letter King Ishu. their Provincial aids, were greatly impayred, yet their great hearts were not much amated, as the French men found, when both the Armies neere approarance enftile it eloquence) celebrateth in his * Epiftle, * Iohu Stow in Annal.
Epill Innecent ching ouer night, the next morning alacriously they for their number, forme, and colour, that no man will question whether it were dictated with an Apostoaddressed to the fight, and with great spirits on each side expected the Signall. Notwithstanding, the day queltion whether it were dichared with an Apollo-licke Sprine. The Rings Remainfig must remem-ber the King of Exemity, the Based at number of Con-luncy, and other four Cardinalo service, spline, Far-titude, Frederice, Temperanes, the Colds sprint, of mylloames, the Fame and agreement fig. of Easth; the Sa-pines to rightness, or the Colds sprint, of the Tricky the Trajest active reading fig. of the Tricky the Trajest active reading fig. of the Tricky the Trajest active reading fig. of the Tricky the Trajest active reading fig. of the Tricky the Trajest active fig. of the Tricky the Trajest active fig. of the Tricky of Constitution of the Tricky active fig. of the Tricky of the Tricky active fig. of the Tricky of the Tricky active fig. of the Tricky of the Tr likely to proue dreadfull with expence of bloud, vpon earnest interceeding of s forraine Prelates and religious persons, who vndertook equably to compose allthings; both Kinges condescended to a twoyeeres * Truce, King lohn chiefly out of affection to his Captine friends, whose liberty was formost in the conditions. (35) Hauing thus setled those Countries in farre K, lobu retu: to England, better termes then last hee found them, he embar-ked for England; where hee laid not aside a carefull ing by the sequele, they were but baires to beguile him, esteemed the Popes Gold as drosse, his lewels as Lewish fraudes, and his love as most rancored hatred. For (though distastfull) prouidence, for still bettering those his successes: for which ends, whiles from his fhortly after came to his notice, the most indigni-Subjects (both Lay and Clergy) he = gathered money, the snewes of warre, he loft their affections, the ioints ous injurie, which the Pope meant to obtrude vpon him and his Kingdome, having not onely hunted of Peace; whereof Geffry Archbishoppe of Yorke (his both Remard and Gray out of their holdes, but also imposed upon him, for the chiefe place and mana-Naturall and vnnaturall brother) was a principal inging of his State, one whome hee reputed a chiefe centiue who x folemnly curfing all the Kinges reand dangerous Enemy to himselfe and it; which z Mal. Parit. ceivers within his Province, fled secretly out of the land. Which peruicacie, a bitter enemie of K. Tohn. thus was fetcht about. yet bitterly taxeth, saying, the English Bishops were farre from that dutifull observance towards their Souc-(37) The Monkes freed from the Bilhops im- Deul . Aemil pugning, were hote how in the strife amongst themr aigne, which the French Bishops perfourmed to theirs, at whose commaund they maintained Souldiers in his warres elues : the s one fide against Reyners election vrged it wanted Royall affent, the greater and founder part of Electors, due folematites, due * time: the other, against Norwich, that no second election could be valiwhoje commannatury maintained somaters in mis warres againf King John, acknowledging they were so bound to doe, as often as the King purfued the warres in person; though now also they didit, where hee was not in person. And indeed how hollow-hearted to the State those gannt commen, max no jecona election could be vali-dous, vniesse the former were forst annussed. Both their Reasons pleased well the Pope; who (as pre-pos-sessed sudges often vse) made show of a great distimoney-murmurers were, their * owne friend belessed indiges often vie.) made inew or great as genee in pondering the Plackings, whereas himselfe long before had resoluted on his Sentence; which was, that by Appsibilish depinitive dome, myther of the Elessify Bonde new becapable of that Sec. So great rubbes hath the Pope with so little breath blowne Met VVelle bewraieth, shewing, how with curses they wished, and prayed to God, that these exactions might never have a my good successe, though they knew it was purposelie for preserving a maine part of the Kingdome, A disloyalty the more vnfufferable by the King, knowing out of his way. The man who leaduancement al this that but a very little before, the Popes Legate, Io while hee had aimed at, was now commended to * Fiorentinus, nick-named * Ferentinus, for bearing &

m Iden.

" 10 Cal. Jul. Paris 15. Mat. Westmin. 12 Rog. Word, MS.

Primate, Stephen de Langton, a Cardinall, English by birth, French by education and affection, one of fo k transcendent power in the Romane Court, that the Pope was thought not for love, but for enuy, (as being himselfe eclypsed by his necrenesse) to have wished his service in some remoter dignity. But the Monks ill apaide with what was done already, and very tremulous to enter matter of new intrications, alleadged against all further courses, that 1 no Canonicall Election could be there made, they having confent neither of King nor Couent; at which word the Pope inapping them vp, bad them know, that " he had there plenitude of power over the Church of Canterbury; and besides, that no consent of Princes wsed to bee expected in Elections celebrated where the Pope was: hee therefore charged them under paine of his high curfe, (aterrible bug-bear inthose daies) there presently to choose him for their Primate, whom himselfe thought good to nomina; e vnto them. Thus trembling vnder the cracke of his Thunderbolt, they (all mexcepting one Helias de Brantfield (whose constancy shall perpetuate his memory,) durift not for feare but elect him, though very vnwillingly, and with murmurations: whole * Confectation followed by the Popes owne handes at Viterbium, and his earnest recommendation by the Popes "flattering letters, to the Kings fauourable acceptance. And this was the vnbleffed beginning of those new miseries which brought the King to his ending, and his Kingdome to vn-reportable cala-mities; all which, little did his Holinesse or his Charity reckon of, so his desperate Policie might take ef-fect. Yet not viduely fell those judgements on manie Princes of those times, who neglecting the do-mesticke execution of Supreme instice, suffered their

Subjects, at fo high a rate both of expense and tra-uels, to buy fuch arbitrary and dangerous formes of a

Pope, the one occasioned by King Johns and Philips of the Emperour, that where in elections voices are equall, or concord wanting, the Pope may gratifie whome hee pleafe: vnto which wee now may adde a third

no leffe arduous & infolent, that the Pope may firike up

Elections, both where, and of whom, and with, and with-out what confent him lifteth. Which lewed obtrusion, that it galled the King to the quicke, wee need not maruaile, if wee ballance in one feale, the Popes meere will and pleasure; in the other, the dishonour to the King (thus to be triced out of that, which so vehemently, and with his owne presence hee took care to fee effected;) the prejudice to his Crowne, to be defeated of Soueraigne affent; the hazard to the State.

to haue his * Enemy (a Phillippine, and French fauou-rite) the *chiefe man ouer his English: besides wrongs more particular; as both the difgrace to his best-de feruing Counfellour, the difloyalty of the Monks, first, to choose without his licence, then to mocke him with a fecond choice, next, to beguile him with oaths after to trauaile upon his excessive charge, and lastly to doe, and vndoe all, with their periure. With all which so farre the Kings parience surferred, that he beganne on them to difgorge his wrath, who with him beganne these affronts; proscribing first all those Monkesas? Traytors, and afterward writing "his aletters to the Pope, with relation of those great wrongs to Himselfe, and exceptions to

Langton; vowing immutably to stand for his own

Elett, and to die in defence of the Liberties of his

"Crowne; putting the Pope in mind, that Rome

"reapt more gaine from England, then from all "the Trans-alpine Regions; threatning also, if he were now croffed in this, hee would stoppe all from crossing the Seas to Rome, nor would any longer emendicate their forraine Iustice, sith

" his owne Kingdomer, so abounded with Bishoppes forraine, and falfly-named Iuflice.

(38) Two very prefumptuous Lawer hathone observed to have beene first hatched by this lawlesse 2-1,6.
Pope Invecentius
his three fittange
awes. formet strife, that Princes delinquent must bee lyable to correct ion from the Pope; the other, upon the choice

The wrongs of-fered ynto King them, who must be there presently chosen for their "and learned men of most accomplished perfection "in all professions,

(39) If, when this Kings Father vttered some fuch threats to Gratian the Popes vaffall, hee then replyed : Sir doe not threaten vs, for wee feare no me-naces, because wee are of such a Court as wieth to be imperious oner Emperours and Kings, (which as a remarkable Apothegme, Baronius lets forth in greater letters;) we may then guesse, how this great Lord of that Court did himselfe brooke such tart saluta tions. Nay the effects bewray it : when in his fublimed t Reply , hee fnebs the King for comminatory obraydings, and contumacious malepartnelle; and "threatens him, that if he do not, by referring himfelfe wholy to his good pleasure, locke to deserue his Grace, hee should plunge into those difficulties. whence hee should hardly euer get forth; intima-"ting, that himselfe (being wnworthy vicegerent to him, vnto whom every knee in Heaven, Earth, & "Hell must bow,) must in the end needs have the vpper hand; and that to relift him is to oppugne God himfelfe and his Church, for which glorious Becket spilt his bloud. These were indeed bloody words; to affright the King with expectance of more fuch blowes, and bloody stripes from Rome, as had lighted on his Father. And hee threatned no more then he acted; for thereupon, hee " fent his doubled Apollolicall command, the one general to all the Prelates, for fubmitting and adhering re folutely to Langton, the other, to fome * particular Bifbops, for a conventing the King, and interdicting his whole Kingdome, if him they found still contumaximally rebelling. Neither was hee more infolent in the command, then they in the execution, wherby (on 7 a day ill fluiting so worker fliss an Action) this flourthing Church (though the King had (worne their banifoment, and confifcation it they did it) was deprined of the very face of Christianity for many enfuing yeeres; as if, not Innocentius Christs Vicar, but Iulian his professed Enemy, had mured up the doores of the Christians Temples for despight of their

(40) But this High-Priest had forgotten what a-nother * taught him, and * he himsefe sometimes thought, about interdicting France for their Kinges offence; that better it was one flould fuffer then 4 whole Nation perifb: whereas now, for the Kings only crossing the Page and Alexander whose A attomperate, whereas now, for the Kings on-ly crossing the Popes good pleafure, God is confured to loofe his worthippe, and all the People to hazard their foules, * living almost like Inflates, without Gods fernice and belfed Secrament, yea and dying white dogger tumbled into enery ditch. But what did uch wofull effects fasten onely on the Layty? The Clergy bare their part too; whom the flames of the Kings inftly incenfed wrath did so scorch, that his Dominions were too hote for their abode: for their b persons hee proscribed and sent packing to the Pope, their reuenewes, hee confiscated their Bishoprickes, Abbeyes and Priories; hee deputed to Laymens cuflody: their women (for such as had not wines, had Joseph For the women (for fuct as near not writes, near Lemmans) were dearly ranformed: and curry where they inferred wrongs without ordinary protection of Inflice. Whereof, though our * vulgar perfunctary Writers produce no other reason, but the onely ouerflowing of the Kings gall, as if first stirred by fome few delinquent Bishops, through furious re-uenge it ouer-whelmed the whole Clergy; yet indeed these were but the due chasticements of their generally difloyall hearts. As (to instance) when the King fent his mandate to S. Albans, that not regarding the Popes commaund in the Interdict, they (bould continue the celebration of Gods service; the Abbot calling his Monkes into the Chapter-house, perswaded them to obey God rather then Man (meaning the Pope rather then the King)and to beare resolutely the Kings anger,* whom God in due time would bring to an end. What maruaile then, if the Clergy carried to generally with this streame of a forraine vsurped power, against Gods service, and their Soneraignes

Earon An.1169 ST Itere Talleres

An. 1208.

" BB.Lond. Ely, Wigorn. xParis,biff me.

The Munda

Caiobar Telm

a Vide apud Wend & Paris

c Ex libro S. A

"Dabit Dem ba quoque finem.
a conning fpeci indifferently touching the rally involved in that reward of their disloialty. And yet, euen in the Clergy, many of eminencie detested thefe cruell and irreligious courfes of the Pope; d Phi Ip the Bilhoppe of Durefme, and his Successor, with of BB.Lib.S.AL. ban, in vit. Abb. the Bishops of Norwich and Winchester, heartned the King to contemme the Papall curse; the * Cicestertian Abbots (neglecting the Interdict) continued their diuine celebrations, till the Pope suspended them for their contempt; Alexander * Abbot of the Benedictines, a Diumc of * exquisite learning f publi e Literarum ole shed in his Sermons, that their present calamities were no reproch to their Souer aignes proceedings, but due rewards of the Subietts hainous trefpaffes, because kings Mat West. ought to gouerne, yea and strongly bridle all disobedient Subjects whomsoever; but as for Popes they ought not to intermedle in the civill affaires, and regiment of any Princes over their vassals, seeing Peter himselfe recei-ued no power, but onely in matters appertaining to the Church. And though the *Pope were reuenged on him for his plaine truth, and some Monkish humors ty and itaings. have afperfed other fuch men with bitter reproches, yet what may bee thought both of these the Pope courfes, & of fuch his oppofers, a late Iefuite(no par g Parforagaine tiall man to Princes) sheweth saying, t that many, and contractions. centius had not stood so hard with King Iohn in such a point as this was, for contenting him with a person grate-full onto him in that See. And no marvaile they so wished, seeing that was the graund cause of such infinite confusions, factions, and wrongs, hurrying so indignely the Prince Peeres, Clergy & Commons the very contemplation whereof to all godly wife men must needes bee gastly and rufull: yet welfare those Anathematizing Bishops, the Instruments of al these euils, who patiently endured vider the name h Parif, Omni-modis viscutes i of Exile, to line the while abroad in all varietie of de-(41) Such perplexities in the People could not but breed as great hatred and hazards to the King who therefore to preuent the iffue of fuch discontents,(which though causlesse, yet kindling in the multitude proue often vnquenchable,) hee i requigodly defire, and due authority, were likewise gene-multitude proue often vindentiable,) nee reduit red of his Nobles new Oathes of allegiance, pledges of fuch as hee most suspected, and homage of all Free-holders, even of twelve yeers old, whom he dismissed with a kiffe of peace. Mildoubting also the Popes further intent to absolue his Subjects from their due allege ance, hee gathered about him (by *example of his Father Hemy on the like ground) a mighty Armie for all occurrents. The terrour whereof hee first displayed in the North, offended (faith 1 one) with * William King of Scotland, for marrying his daughter to the Earle of Bulloigne; for receiving (laithmanketh. m Parù biff.ma. other) Fugitines, and enemies of his State: for throw ing down (faith a "third) a Castle built by King Iohn against Barwicke: but whatsoeuer were the breach, the cloze was amiable, each accompanying other to Tork, where King williams two daughters were promifed to King Iohns two fonnes, and P deliucred p Wend. MS, qParif-kiff.mi. M. S. but as pledges of vnited loue, with a q gift of nine thoufand markes. The dread of this his power so gly-ded out of the North into the West, that vpon his VPendsu. MS. faith xi, (not ix. return, the Princes of wales, and others rich co poor came to him at Woodstocke (the like thing neuer heard of before) to doe him homage. But all these linkes of allegiance were soone crackt by another thunderclap(from Rome) of Anathema on the King by Name, with strict injunction for all men to abandon his presence: which sentence being sent to bee disulged by the Bishoppes and Prelates in England, al of them for feare or fauour of the King, were content to neglect the Popes commaund, and let the Apolloike f Rog. de Wend.

processe escape without execution. The fame yet thereof was in all mens mouthes, but came first (as feemeth) to the Kings Esres, 'by a feruant of his fowne Exchequer. Coffry Arch-Deacon of Norwich, who feeretly perhvading his fellow-officers, that they were boundin confeience to velinquif the Kings fer-k Parifabiff.

Trinet MS.

n Rest islid.

milles. x Mat.Paris.

wee, gaue them example himfelfe by leauing his duty and charge; for which hote-braine tricke, hee was put in a * Coole of lead, the weight whereof (as a punishment of his leuitie) soone hastned his end in prilon: but the greater and wifer fort, both of Nobles and others, continued their due attendance on their Soucraigns Court and perfon, without regard

(42) Those Romish furies thus infesting all at home,gaue also courage & oportunity to il-affected mebers further offsome of which in Ireland having furfeited long of the Kings Indulgence or absence, * beganne now to play the Kings themselues. The no-ble spirite of this Prince in his tender yeeres made choice (on bended knees to his Father, in presence of Heraclius Patriarke of Ierusalem) rather in deuotion to conduct an Army against the Turks, then in Ambition to take possession of that goodly Kingdome. Bur being now possessed thereof; and intending (by a kind of compensation for his losses in France) to annexe and affure that Kingdome to the English Crowne, hee resolues with a powerfull Army to quell the disturbers, and resorme the disorders, of his first, and long vnuisited charge. Whose approach such fame and dread did forerunne, that more then twenty Petty Kings of that nation haflened to Dublin, there to honour his * arrivall with their fubmissive attendance, homage and oath Parif. of alleagiance; others, eyther vpon confidence of their good holds, or diffidence for their ill defertes, their good noise, and fome of them, the Country. The x two Lacies (whole onely prayle was, that they were the fonnes of a nobly-descring Father) having been, through ambition of Sourciagnety, the nauing ocene, introduced a monitor of a small of the fountaine of dangerous garboyles, (* tyrannizing ouer the Commons, and making away fuch of the Nobles, as shood eyther in their light, or in the Kings fauour) fled into France, where they lived in * an Abbey as poore Gardinars, vntill the Abbot de-ferying by their deportment fome state aboue their habite, when reportment to note take about their habite, when penitent humility reconciled them to the King. The Lord William de Brenfe, (a* Baron latelly of great commaund and wealth in the Marches of Wales,) shewed not the like penitence, nor ot Water,) increed not the like penitence, not found the like grace, who, vpon * refuâll to de-liuer his fonne as a pledge of his fidelitie, fpedde into Ireland to flie the Kinges wrath, and now, to auoid his pursuit, fleddeallo into France, then the common Santfuary of all trayterous fugitiues; but fharpe reuenge ouertooke both his Sonne and his Lady (taken in a ftrong Caftle of Meth) whose virulent and rayling * tongue had more exaspera-ted the fury of the King (whom shee immodefuly reuiled as a Tyrant and Murtherer,) then could be pacified by her strange present, *(foure hundred Kine, and one Bull, all milke-white, except onelie the eares, which were redde,) sent vnto the

(43) But b Catalus, the viquiet King of Connaught, trusting to his owne Forces, King John Subdued by strong pursuit: e and after all carried him captinud in triumph, imprisoned the English Fugi-times, tooke pledges both of English and trish inha-bitants, punished by death malefactors, turbulent persons by ransomes, established all their Lawer Coines, and Officers, to the English forme, and deputed(which was worth all) a wife, front and vpright Gouernour ouer them, the Bishoppe of Norwich, Langtons competitor: thus fetling on that barba- Peru. rous Iland to noble and ordered a face of gouernement, as was the stay thereof in those tumultuous times, and a patterne euen to more peacefull ages to imitate. By which both glorious and * fpeedy conquest and reformation, hee better merited that Style of Irelands Lord, then when it was confirocyrevitesamas Leva, unen winen it was confiirmed to him by a Crowne of *Peacockes feathers profit, solve from the Pope, at what time(long before) het inioyed it by his Fathers gift, as his Broad-Seale (here nor a Phenis feathers). unfitte to bee annexed) will shew.

(44) The

*Capi Plumbel

u VV estmin. Ann.1210 Non obstante Semenna,ibiden en ad Reg. leb.

S. Taurim.

*Hift.Cambrell

*Wamished/for Old Chme. of

An.1211. King lebn fubde sch Wales, cuftody, Lib. S. Alben, MS. d Hift of Came Thidest f Parifbift.mi. SVS.

g Hiff, of Camb

h Pol Firgil. i Parif bill.ma.

k Rog. de Wend, MS.

n English Chro.

(44) The Banekes of King Iohns estate, were not valike to those in Grounds ill-neighboured with an encroching Ses, where before one breach is well made vp, another no lesse dangerous is laid open: which endles turmoils kept his Body still in Action . his Minde in passions, and his Propelle in vre. The his Ainde in painons, and nis Provelle in vic. I ne vaste expenses of his Irish expedition were no sooner repayred (by a *great taxe charged on all the Con-uentual houses) but Lewylin Prince of North-Wales, with his great spoiles on the English Marchers, made new matter of charge and exploit for the Kings 'hauing, to preuent due reuenge, caused his Walliams to concey all their cattell and better substance to the fearce-accessible refuges of Snowdowne Hill. These difficulties much more whetted and excited the Kings resolution; neither had the vertuall power of the Popes fulmination as yet so blasted his good fortunes, but that hence also hee e returned in great Triumph, as Conquerour of all Wales, where, with won-derfull celerity and valour, hee' fubdued all their Princes and Cheefes, whom hee received spon Oath, homage, and hoftages, with an absolute & graunt of all their Inland onto the King for euer. Notwithstanding, per-ceiuing that h very many slipt away for dread (at least for colour) of the Popes curse, from those his neartical not colour for the Popes curry, from those man-martial and other smill fermices, (though 'thee puni-fhed by fine all fuch Reuolters) whereby his person could neuer bee free from danger, nor his State from trouble; hee refoluce (feeing the Pope vulles-ible, & vnsensible of so many Christians calamitic) at length to relent from his vowed stiffenes against the Popes Elect, in hope so to settle his owne and his Subjects tranquility, though with vnfufferable indignity to himfelfe. In his returne from Wales, two Nunces from the Pope, Randu'ph a Subdeacon, and Duranda Knight Templar, meete him at Northampton to make the attonement: 1 whereto he was so propense, that hee accorded to assure vnder his Scale, that Archbishoppe Langton with the Bishoppes, Monker, and others, should bee restored both to his fauour, and to their possessions; that, holy Church should have all the Franchifes, as in Edward the Confessors time: that hee would neuer take any thing of holy Church against the owners will: but, because hee = would not also make full fatisfaction for all confilcations, and other emoluments received of the Clergie, (nay, hee could not having expended all his treasure in his continuall warres,) the Cleargy and their Factors (the Legates) more prizing their prinate gaine, then the weale publike of their Natius Country, contemned the fweet proffer of peace, & exposed all to the bane of a renengeful contention. For hereupon they did not onely a denounce the rot netcupon they did not onely "denounce the eurse upon the King by name(which the Prelates before durft not doe) and upon all other who consensed with hims but, as if hee had most occusamaciously contemmed quietnesse, by their relations they incensed the Pope (too procine of himself to set forth his own greatnesse) to put on him a fairer more indignous proposed for the processes of the pro uing all Kings and People, poore and rich, having depen-dance on him, from all Fealty and Subjection to

(45) This being the third steppe, whereby, both the Popealcended to the height of his viurped pomer, and mercileffe revenge, and the Subjects + daylie descended from their loyall observance, made king Iohn more circumfpect to strengthen himselfe, both with an Army no leffe faithfull then powerfull, & alfo with the loue of his Neighbour-Princes. King William of Scotland, 9 at this time infefted with a dangerous rebellion, (ftirred vp within his Kingdom by one Gothred, I laying claime, under color of some antiquated title, to his Crowne) being himselfe infirme with age, fent his sonne Prince Alexander into England, to crave affiftance of King Iohn, who (by his owne princely loue and readinesse, to demerite theirs,) resoluting with his Army in person to cha-fice the disturbers of his trusty Confederate, before his setting forth, did on the Table in a selemn feest, (which hee kept in the Hospitall of Clerken-well) ad orn Prince Alexander with the belt & Order of Knight. hood: and afterward with his hoaft vanquishing the Rebels advanced their Chiefe-leader farre higher then his owne Ambition expected, and left that Kingdome in a fetled peace. But whiles he is thus kindly carefull in suppression of anothers Rebelles, Fraises of the his owne at home are as vnkindly vigilant to vndermine his State; the Popes Absolution, like magicke fpelles, having let loofe many tumultuating Spirits, which will not easily be laid again, For the * Chiefes which will not callup be and against out to among the Walliams, whom neither breach of their as Welfs holder, nor losse of their notes holders, ("which get larged at the callulation of the schale parents singles) could be schale parents. foone after perifhed for their parents finnes) could deterre, fuddenly fell off from the King, and fell the conference of the conferen liuered to him(as hee late at meate) from his faithfull and gratefull friend the Scottifb King, & instant others from his daughter Ioan, Prince Lewylins, ady, both giving him intelligence of imminent Treasons*plotted by sundry of his Peeres, who meant exther to murther him, or betray him to the butchery of his foes. Which dreadfull notices from so true-harted Informers, could not yet affright his manlie heart, till comming to Chefter, hee there vnderflood by fundry other Intelligencers, that his Nobles held themsclues quite discharged from his allegiance; and knowing that they wanting fidelity, he

Ann. 1212.

Heller Best.Lit

Parishil me

(bap. 8. | Kinglohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45.

Sentence of de-position of King z Rog. de Wend MS.

Perif biff,ma.

Mat.Parp.ad

The Frenc

himfelfe could not but want fecurity, hee difmiffed his hoaft, tooke hoftages of his Barons, purited * Figuratur, Profession on trages or mis parons, purmuse the detected Configurators, and * the three principal part for them flying the land, he profecured their perfons, demolifhed their Caffles, and confidence their perfons, demolifhed their Caffles, and confidence their perfons. possessions. But many of as vile and virulent affections they left behind them, as that * trayterous A& of those Nobles bewrayed, who sent to Philip of France their fealed Charter, promising to settle on his head the Crowne of England, if hee would come to receine it. And that the mindes of the vulgar should not beeynpossessed with like expectation of Iohns vn-crowning, the prophetics of an * Heremiticall wifard (foretelling, that on the day of A feen lion, King John should bee no King) were buzzed into their eares. Whether by Gods inspiring, or the Deuelles, these were reucaled, * some doe doubt; but hee that confiders the quotidian impostures of these times, and the secret machinations of the Pope, the French King, and the English Barons, all for divers ends, complorting against King Iohn, will casily perceiue both what vie there was of suborning such a Prophet, to deterre the popular maynie, from flic-king to the King, and to beguile their credulity, as if the thing were to be done, by Gods fore-appointment, and ordinance, and also * that his punishment by death as a Traiterous Impostor, was no other then he deferned.

(46) Neither is the Popes reuenge thus appeafed, tome higher greeces yet remaine, on which his Greatnesse, and greatnesse of his holy rage must display it selfe : the vnderprops whereof (a thing almost incredible) were not onely Englishmen, but English Bishops also. For Stephen Langton with the
BB. of London and Ety (thirsting after reuenge though with the destruction of their Country, & blood-fied of innumerable their Compatriots)going to Rome with complaints on the King, y made humble supplications to the Lord Pope, that hee would numbic juputcations to the Lora to the total tope, from the work fafe in a touch of pieus toe compassion, to support the English Church, being at the point of ruine. At whose earnest sollicitation, the tender-hearted Pope (grieuously) lamenting the desolation of the Kingdome. of England,) decreed by folomic fentence: That King John hould bee depoled from bis Kingdome, and that the Pope should provide some other, who should bee deemed worther to succeed. To effectuate the former clause, Innocentius eagerly pursued the latter, sending speedy letters to (whom but King Iohns most mortal enemy) Philip King of France, a requiring him to undertake the labour of the dethroning King Iohn, with no leffe reward then pardon for all his fins and entoying of the English Crowne to him, and his heires for euer. A goodly large patent both for a spiritual and remorall Kingdome, which (more like Mars his Priest, then Christs Vicar) he meanes to scale with a deluge of Christians bloud. For not thus yet satiated, hee transmits his Letters generall: 2To all Potentates, Souldiers, men of warre of allnations, to figne themselues with the Croffe, and to follow their Captaine Philip for the deicction of King Iohn, affuring all that their assistance (whether in Person or Contribution) shall been o lesse meritorious, then if they visited our Sauiours Sepulchre. That this Pope vnder colour of such Crusadoes, did formerly cloake his own Auarice, his bowne Monkes auerre; but here hee cloakes therewith both his Pride, and a far more fauage vice, the thirst, not of mens gold but of their h V Tondano M bland. In which feruice with King Philip, hee vied the same English Prelates for his Negotiators, which were before his Solicitors thereunto; with whom also he sent his Factour Pandulph; e giuing him in private fecret instructions how to manage every particular of the whole designe, to the most behoofe of the holy See.

(47) The French King likewise receiving from the Archbishoppe and his Associates (in a d councel) the Apostolike sentence; was very apprehensive of that imployment, whereto not fo much the Papall comå Rog de VV end M.S. maund, as his e owne ancient malignity, and the Eng-

lift Barons traiterous requests, had prepared him; both which he was now willing to maske with the spe-ous pretext of instice and denotion. Vinder which colors hee had * speedily marshalled an immense Army at Roan, & drew a mighty Nauy richly furnished to the mouth of Seyn, *alhis Dukes, Earls, Barons, Knights, & fouldiers being summed to the exploit under painof hie Treason and differizing who therforeboth in feare & hope of fpoile cameflocking without number.

(48) A preparation of fo great importance, that all Christendom tooke notice of, could not long be hidden from King Iohn; whose care, by reason of his now doubled opposition (forrain & domestick) could be no leffe for his owne and his Kingdoms fafety, then was his Enemies for impugning both. Wherfore his Summons being *fent to all his officers both for Sea and land, for speedy furnishing both of a Natire, & an Army, equivalent to encounter so powerfull an Inuasion, such a innumerable multitudes fivarmed to Doser, and other harbours for landing, that the Chiefe-leaders for want of prouision, dilmissing the rest, bencamped at Barham-Downes, onely with 60000 choice, valiant, and well appointed men who, if they had carried all one mind, and true affection who, if they had carried duone mind, and trie aljection towards their King, and safegard of their Country, there breathed not any Prince wider heaven, whose assault Eng-land had not beene able to repell. And being no worse appointed for a Sea-fight, his intent was to graple first with the French Fleet, * making no doubt of finking them all: so secure and confident was he in expectation of all inuaders. In which brave addresse, whiles both fhores of the Sea are thus belaid with both those Kings puissant Armies, the one waiting for the Enemy, the other for faire windes, and more forces, behold Pandulphus (the Popes Pragmaticke) having first desired safe conduct of King Iom, arrives at Douer, to put in execution those serves Instructions which his Lord (who made his advantage of the | Mat. Paris, Foxe-skinne, as well as of the Lions) * had expresty pre-Gribed. He there vnfoldes to the King, the innume-"rable mallitude both of King Philips Jappes, and of "his Souldiers Horfe and Foote, (all in readinesse to "passe, and yet more expected to follow) to bereaue him of his Kingdome by Apostolicall authority, and to enjoy it himselfe with his Heires for "euer. That with him were also comming all the English t xiles, both Clergy and Lay, they, by his forces to repossesse their estates (maugre the king) "and hee from them to receive allegiance, as from his fivorne Subjects. That hee had the fealty of almost all the English Peeres obliged to him by of arrayning eafily his wished successe: which calamities (the more vnfufferable, because imposed by his infulting enemie, and his owne Subjects) he might yet cuade and retaine his Crowne, which by Sentence hee had already loft, if penitently hee would submit himselfe to the Churches judge ment. Doubtleffe the straites whereinto the King faw himfelfe plunged, were very dreadfull; so many deadly enemies abroad to affault him, so few trustie friends at home to guard him: which droue him into this fad cogitation & that thefe his perfidious Peeres would now with their followers abandon him in the field, or betray him over to the Sword of his Enemies. Yet not unlikely other motiues also might forcibly perswade him to relent : the remembrance of the Emperour Othe whom this very Pope (not without fould blot of I niuflice and " Leuity) had both eagerly aduanced, and furiously disempyred; the boundlesse furess of the Crusado promulged against him, where-vish this Pope" viceto ouerflow, as with a merci-lesse Ocean, all such Princes as withstood his will, which once broken in would neuer end, but with | touch the end and ruine of all. Thus thinking it better to yeeld to the time, with affurance both o of his Crowne, and of the P Popes fauour, then desperatelie to hazard Life, Crowne and all, to his immortall

499 f Triut. AtS.

*VVend.Ms.

King thins pre

* 2.Martii, Paris

a Wende . 345.

* Wend Pari

Papa forman

k Rog, de Wend.

l Parif. hift. m m.Met. VV clim. n As Serres show eth in Ludau.8.

foes; hee redeemes his fafety on fuch conditions, as p Mean. West.

13. May.an.reg. 14. Paru, Wendo, q. Mat. Paris, bift, min: MS, r Sec Wendover. Parus testmin. Triuet. Walfingh *Stare mandath Damini Papa.

Paris bift-mir.

u leh-de Serres.

Necellity and the Pope (both which have no law) lifted to impose; and so presently swore to submit in all things to the sudgement of the Church. By vertue of which farre-stretching Oath, Pandulphus afterwards exacteth his subscription to a * Forme of Peace pre-feribed by the Pope, wherein King John, though with an onwilling, yea a bleeding heart, and weeping eyes, yet will he, nill he, must acknowledge that touching all thinges for which hee was excommunicated, hee had absolutely fworn * to stand to what soever the Pope should command. Secondly, that the Archbishop, Bishoppes and Monkes, with all the rest of that list, should with satisfaction also for all damages) beereflored both to their possessions and the Kings fauour, fo that they also would fwear not to attempt any thing against the Kings Person and Crowne. Wherein wee see that King John in swearing to obey the indgement of the Church, was concluded to have fivorne performance of what sever the Pope commanded; and how great matters the Pope can com-maund, King John, with much more * bleeding ams-* V fque ad Spiri ritude of (birit, shall quicklie see and feele. For two dayes after (being the * period of the Hermits proplars, in Douer, by the Popes commaund in his preor-dination at Rome, taking off his Crowne from his head, "Invigilia Afcen-fionia, May 15. Parif. I Perinde, ac Innosurrendred it into the Popes handes by his Attur ney Pandulphus (at whose feet hee also laid his Sceprer, Robe, Sword and Ring, the Royall Enfigness, fubscribed also to another * Charter, whereby hee resigned his Kingdomes to the Pope, professing hee did t luxta quod fuerat Rome Sentenit * neither for feare, nor force, but of his owne free will, and in the common Councell of his Barons, as having in Phol. Augusto. x See Wend, 81 no other way to make fatisfaction to God and the Church Paris,
*The Pope com-mounds the king to aucire vafor his offence, and that thence-forward he would hold his for mo of tener, sout not incince on we a new woman woods.

Crown as Feodory to the Pope, paying a penfiton annual of 1000. Marks for both the Kingdoms of England & 17eland: whereupon doing komage and fwearing fealby to the Pope, hee did withall deliver fome money (as the earnest of his subjection) vnto Pandulph, who throwing it to the ground, did thereon tram ple with his feet, to manifest his Masters greatnesse. That these things were done in presence of some Pecres, who gaue no consent thereto, appeares by Henry Archbishoppe of Dublin (the very principall man in that Assembly) who both imparally grieued thereat; and openly disclaimed and gaine-sayed it.

(49) The Pope formerly pretended he sought a nothing more then I shus repentance, and b grieved at nothing so much as Englands desolation: but these his circumuentions bewray he fought fomewhat elfe which bred both repentance and defolation to King

Tahn and his Successors long after. Which fact cannot beeliuelyer paralleled, then by another doleful accident of the former yeare, e when a dreadfull fire in Southwarke, confurning the Church & buildings neere London Bridge, fuddenly (whiles numberles people flockt on the Bridge, either to bring fuccour or seekesafetie) the fire by a wind seized also on the hither end of the Bridge; wherewith*multitudes

thus encompassed on both sides, miserably perifhed; where at length some bringing their Barges to faue the reft, their crowde was fo great, that the veffels finking, more perished in the water, then by fire. King tohn, like those, was in the middest of two ineuitable flames, on this fide his faithleffe Nobles, on that, his mercilesse foes; when the Pope

thus proffering him S. Peters Boat, for a safegard fro both, drencht him into as great mifery, certainly greater Ignominy then both the other. Wherin yet the Pope doth not want his share and shame; amongst his owne fauourites, some accursing that his prescribed Charter, asd lamentable and detestable; come, denying it was of the Popes procuring, but that K.

John had long before made a vow of descrion, that if God setled him in those Kingdomes he would dedicare them both, and make them tributary to the See Apostolicke. But some other (great pillers of the Papacy) stepping further, f anow it to be veterly on-true, that King John did make his Realmes thus tribuv PariChill ma

b Graui merere confeitus,Paru e Ex Record. S Maria de South. Paris hift min.

diss. Polid.

wite Factington writes that 3000 were found dead and balfe burnt,

The Romaniks centures touching the Popes thus dealing,
d Legabrem, deteffabilem, Mat. VV cflm, ad.9.1 f. f Six Thomas More in the Suptary to the Pope; or " that ever such pensions were paide to g campians, bifter of ireland. Rome; or h if hee fo did, or any other English King thould so doe, such an Act to bee of no validity at all; or if it were of any force; it ought onely to lie on King Iohn, who soffended, and not on any his Successors. Sur The More. Doubtlesse, if the Papall Sword had power to cut Education. off King Johns regality for any offence, his Crowne was to have descended to the next Heire (whether Henry his fonne, or Eleanour Arthurs fifter, then aliue) who, as they were not guilty of the fault, so neither confenting to the refignement. Some therefore haue imagined, that k fuch Instruments might k Edmund happily then beemotioned and drawne, and yet die vorratified, though the copies stand recorded; but whatforuer were then done, that the Pope himfelfe (not onelie those his friends) were thereof ashamed will hereafterappeare.

the Crowne for his Master the Pope, Philip is fitting his head to weare it, and was now fetting forth his Nauy to winne it, for himfelfe; which made the Legate/hauing after 1 fine dayes feyfin redelinered the Crowne, but " not yet released the Censures, till carrying with him eight thouland pound, as part of restitution to the exiled Bishops, where comming to King Philip, hee aduised him to dismisse his heast, & enterprise against King John, as being now an obedient and reconciled Sonne to the Church, But Philip who was of the Popes mind not caring for Johns repentance, but for his Kingdome, which now hee loft beforc he had gotten it," fretting exceedingly to fee himfelfe not onely fet vp for a stale, and made to the World an object of scoffe, by the Nunces guilefull collusi-ons, but also by the Popes own inticements, plunged into fo excessive a dammage, (having spent, beside his great travalle in this preparation, 60000. Crowns, wherewith hee purchased nought but senses, trofoued, and professed, that sith the Pope himselfe, had so fare thrust himon, his Legates suggestions (no nor his threats of excommunication.) [hould not draw him backe from his intendment. In which refolution q calling his Peeres and Nobles into a confultation at Sue Jours all the rest approuing the course, Ferdinand Earle of Flaunders (part of whose Country Philipby force detained) told him tartly, that 'as the attempt was both uniuft, and impossible, to it was fitter, every mans right should at home be restored, and instice imbraced, before they attempted to teach duties of piety to others abroad. And, that he oughtrather to thinke of making resistution to King I ohn of those transmarine Countries, which hee withheld vniustly, then of inuading his Realm, wherto bee had no right at all. With which vnexpected reclamation, " the chiefe Peeres beganne to waner,& Philip enraged, bidding him defiance, farbad him his Ceurs. The like rough vlage (nor *long before) found * Reginald the moft valorous Earle of Bulloigne (though his daughter was married to Philips younger fenne,) whom the French King perceiuing to with well to King John, I drove him willly out of his Earledome; but King John, receiping him with honourable compensation of a fayre reuenewes in England. held both with him and Earle Ferdinand, a fure (though fecret) confederacy: So that now Philips rage, and feare to hazard his owne Crowne, if feeking anothers, hee should leave so neere an Enemy at his backe, diverts the course of his Ambition into the streame of his Resenge, and resoluing first to subdue the Earle, (after which fuccesse hee might more fafelie paffe into England, thee commands his mighty prepared Namy to let footh from the mouth of Seyne towards Flaunders, where himselfe with his forces (meaning to subdue the country in their way) would meet them by land. Whereof King John hauing speedy intelligence from the Earle (who, knowing his meanes too flender to beare off the Kinges fo long prepared power, defired his prefent aide) without delay dispatched his * Fleet, to pursue them who intended to pursue him, vnder the conduct of

i Polyd.Virg.1.15

(50) Whiles Pandulphus is thus chaffering about conditions were performed) to haften into France, mParifielt,mi. p Ioh da Serret. t Parifhiff. mit Serres Suppol Feedinand and Reginald fell off at one time, but our English Writers, Paris, Triver, &c.fhew the contrary. x Paul Aemil. Mat.Paris. y Roz. Wend. MS King Philips Sarisbury, William Duke of Holland, and Reginald Earle of Bulloigne; who with happy gales surprizing the French Nauy at the port of Damme, (whiles most of the French Souldiers were on land, dispoiling the Earles Country,) seized on them all; "three hundred of which shippes, laden with prouision, Armes, and other costly fraught for what foeuer the King and all his Nobles held dearest was therein,) they sent for England (whither at first they were bound) and about one hundreth other they burnt, or funke for and his confederates) difmiffing his power, as: fecure of any French attempts in hafte. Wherefore now, with full purpose to find him worke at home.

who fo bufily fought it abroad, hee forthwith fent

(with large rewards to his Flaunders Army) finftructions also to the Earles, how to infest Philip on that fide of France, whiles himself entring Poictou, would the like on the contrary fide, and Otho the Emperon on a third part. A dangerous plot and league, if the iffue had beene answerable to the designes. For profecution whereof, & King John attending at Partsmouth with a noble Army, in hope now that all true English, would gladly embrace so fayre an opportunity, to recour their hereditary Prouinces from the false French, his Barons restles themselues in procuring his vnrest, and enuying that his forrain vexations being thus passed, he should want dome-sticke, slatly oppose themselves both to his com-

maund and their Countries good, h denying him

(vntill hee were as oyled of his excommunication,) their attendance in so behouefull a service. Those men in the heate of his former troubles with the Pope, thinking fuch troubled waters most advantageous for their fishing, 'recommenced their contention with the King for their long-defired Liberties, wher-in because they found him still as immoueable, as themselues were immoderate, it seemeth, though the cloake of their now refusall were Religion, yet their spurre was Reuenge; having withall an eye to the good of the king of France, whom so well they had before loued, as to wish him King of England

But King John, being no leffe earnest to further the present generall cause, then they their particular ends, delayed not their defires; and k defpeeding his Charters and fafe-conducts to the Archbishop and from the ground, and leading him by each Arme to the dore of the Cathedrall Church (where, at re-hearfall of the 50.pfalme, all his Nobles and others wept for ioy ,)after in the Chapter-house they did ab-folue him; but with fuch guilefull Appendices of Oathes imposed on him, that this affoilement was not fo much the Epilogue of his old, as the Prologue of

(52) For the Prelates, whose best abettors the difloyall Barons had formerlie beene, meaning now to beethe like to them, amongst other Oather then taken of the king (to o defend holy Church & Church men; to make due restitutions to the Clergy; to bear his new Tragicall vexations.

(bap. 8. Kinglohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45.

King Johns refo-lution to turne the warres vpon A Trivet SIE VVend,MS. eParis,bift.min

f Mat. Paris. bill

* Of soe flips, Mat.Paris. MS

a Paris bott min. | a three brase Generals, his brother svilliam Earle of Mat.Paris. Truct. AlS. (51) This Nauall victory produced effectes in the two Kings to opposite as were their affections; the done, with anguish of his irreparable last and ignoming, hasting backe into France, to preuent further danger, and the other (loyfull of his own fuccessed).

h wendower, M:

his fellow-Exiles, hee as speedily, * arrived: 1 at whose presence the earth is said to have trembled; but (doubtlesse) King John did; who hearing of his com-17,Cal,Aug, Wen MS, 1 Libr.S,Alba ming towardes him (then at Winchester) went to meete him and those other Bishops; at whose fight vit.Ich Abb. Archbishop Langton arrive = hee fell downe at their feet with flouds of teares, intreating them to commiserate His, and his Kingdomes miin England. m Parn.Wend. feries. Vpon which a great humility in a King (mouing them likewise to bedew their eyes,) they lifted him n lidem.

The King al-fol-ued from the fentence of Ex-

The Archbisho sides with the Barons against the King, o Mat. Parif. bift.ma.

p PVend.MS. A guilefull oath

Barons can picke, fequels will shew. Now all exceptions feeming to bee taken away, which might hinder the Kings deligne for France, hee once againe at Port/mouth haftens to embarke his hoaft; game at Portymour nations to entouries in toutes adialed by n where, at the point of passage new impediments are preceded, a that the people basing spent their money withlong attendance could not be stitled for the services. uice except the King would doe it out of his Treasure; which moved the King in anger, with a fmall traine of his owne attendants, to fet forth to fea, and his Barons (Philips true friendes) to depart home, leaving | The Barons leave the king (who at Gersey expected their comming) destitute of their service. With these so often trecherous delufions, what maruaile, or blame, if a King, and in so important an Action, thus defeated, were enflamed to take due reuenge? On which purpose the King thus rensposed to returne, resoluting to chastice his subjects audit those rebellious Spirits (the causes thereof) and to reclaime them to due obedience by force of Arms, the Archbishoppe(resolute to bee as tough a Bridle to the Regall power, as euer Hubert his predecessor was, came vnto him, to divert him with Argument, that it was a breach of his Oath, for him to take Armes against any man whomfoeuer, without the judgement of his Court. But the 'next day, seeing he could not thus preuaile with reasons (the King forbidding him to intermeddle in matters of lay-indgements, and five aring that hee traishift min.

would not forbeare for one * Clerkes pleasure to tame his M.S. owne vasfals) hee followed the King (who was on his way earnestly following his intendment) deterring him with threates, and vowing, "if out of hand he did not defif from his purpose, he would excommanicate all (except the King himselfe) who durft take Armes against any whomsoeuer, till the Interdict were quite released. So quickly did this Prelate on his comming into England, shew himselfenot onely a faithfull Philippine, (as the King foresaw,) and a faithleffe Baronist (as these his darings proue) but euen another Pope, to threaten and perfecute the King, fith Innocential had left to doe it. (53) But these threates of facred Censure, though they dash the whole course of Regale government, may feeme the more excusable, hee having some co-lour(though but a colour) thereof by reason of his vocation and place: the courses which some after he purfued, will not admit the like plea or pardon with the King. This English Pope, having in a * pro-missions Spoole of Clergy men and Barons, granted by Indulgence, that in this time of Interdict, both Conuentuals and Seculars, might in their Churches celebrate divine fervice, fo it were with a very low voice; fingled out the Barons into a 7 very private con-ference, (more cordiall perhaps to them then feruing of God.) relating with much oftentation, what an Oath at his affoiling the King, hee * compelled him to take, for restoring good lawes, and antiquating bad; to which end, a Charter of King Henry the first being lately found (which there hee shewed and caused to bee read) by it, they might, if themselves would reduce to the pristine estate, those Liberties which long they had lost. Both Charter and Counfell being received with * great applauseanding, a Confederacy was stricken betwixt the dio magne. they all swearing to him to strine for those liberties to the pending of their lines, and hee promising them his most faithfulland ottermost assistance. Amongst so many falle to the State, probable it is, that some were false among themselves, by whome these secrecies might come to the Kings eares; who finding himfelfe by both Clergy and Lay-Peeres combining against him, vnable to reuenge his forraine, or re-way to ouertop them all, then by that high Hand, both Prelate which himselfe was first subjected to them il. How this must be fercht about, because it con cernes his Holinesse, a learned Monke shall relate in fealty to the See of Rome.) cunningly allo inserted this, P to establish the good Lawes of his Predecessors. his owne Language. The King knew and had learned by manifold experience, that as the Pope, both for Amto abolish all bad, proceeding with all his Subjects ac-cording to the just indgements of his Courts: Out of bition, and Pride, went beyond all other mortall men: So likewise, he was in his greedy desire of riches so unsawhich generalities, what good stuffe the Prelates & (Rog. de Wend.

S Proster tours

confpiring a-gainst the king.

Apad Templum Pauli Losdon.

Rog.de VV and

Gavifi fant gav

The kings plot prefle fuch domesticke indignities, knew no furer to oue

a Matham Paril

tiable, that with money eyther paid or promised, hee might be wrought like waxe and made plyable to all wicked actions. Thus having the true length of the Popes foot, he fittes him accordingly with rich presents, ped for: by whose b arrivall the King seemed to be itches (Ambition and Auarice) as his Mafter, and therefore King John knew how to demerite his fast-neffcand lone, by supplying him with likedoint-ments; whereby the Archbishop and Barons soone perceived, that the Legate was wholy Regall, and the King Papall; which icalousie made both their Actions more distassfull. The Ouert and professed end of his comming, being to release the Interdict hee first tampered a little to accord the King and Prelates upon concurantes of Restitution towardes which, though the king offered ten thousand marks, yet the Prelates(f repining at the Legates * partiality to the King in approuing that offer,) schole rather toluffer the whole land to grone under that unchriftian, and truly-ftyled Curfe, then to defalcate any iot of their couetous demaunds. Vnder which colour, the Popes Agent, (a fitte helue for such a hatchet,) brake his mind so the King of a more fecret & principall eause of his Legacie, which was h for the contriuing of a more validous and vnexceptionable conveyance of his Kingdomes to the yoake of Ro mish Soucraignety; pretending doubtleffe, (as Pan-dulph had done) that i hee could never be safe or quiet, but under the powerfull protection of the Popes winges.

What iust exceptions the World might take to the former Graunt, his Holinesse was not ignorant; it being an Act in the King, both of manifest Periorie against his oath at his Coronation, and also of * Confiraint,* Circumuention, and * Feare; hee being driuen thereto by the Pope himselfe, who had set vp both the French power, and his owne Barons against him; an Act of one * actually excommuni-cate, as also were the * Witnesses conversing with him in that action, whereto, as neither the * next Heyres, nor the * Clergy, nor * Body of the Kingdome, gaue any consent, so an * open difelaime thereof was made by the very & Principall man there prefent, in the name(as is likely) of all the reft : and that all was ingroffed with so many groffe * untruthes, as if done most voluntarily; without any feare or force; in a general Affembly of the Barons; onely by a divine inspiration, and because the King had nothing fitte to pa

leffe abulions; and therefore if now the King standing on calmer termes, can be wrought to ratifie his former Graunt, though the dealing bee more fraudulent, yet the Act will sceme more colourable, because sauouring of lesse constraint, and more free de-notion. But if we looke with an unpartiall Eye, wee shall see both the plight of King John, and the action of Innocentius, still like it selfe: the Interdiction still burthening his land; his Barons more molestious to him then fortaine foes; his Prelates greedily grating on him to empouerish his meanes; his Archbilliop stopping all proceedings against forraine or home-bred enemies; and if hee had thwarted the Popes commaund herein, hee forefaw farre greapossessed of those his desires, before his golden let-Rog, Ward, MS. ters arrived at Rome to crave them. . (54) For this Legate was infected with the like

The new Legate king lobe. c Parithift-min. e Summanere

b' Circa f-flum S.

502

Mat.Paris regia, &c. ibid. gNic.Trinet.MS. * tiere interdiffi vfque fatisfattum effet ad plenum.ib. Word.MS.

i VV estmin.

Exceptions of ı.

> 8. Q.

IO. Archbishoppe ĺi. preferibed by grami.

The Pope renounceth hinfult tiple Godfor his finnes, but the giaing away of his KingCharter, & feels domes: Well might the Pope blush at these fines flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the fine flowers

The Pope blush at the flowers

The Pope blush a

King lebes lent conditi ter flormes at hand, then hee had hitherto escaped. Thus in defire to fettle his Kingdomes quiet for his owne time, and in hope, perchance, that his Succesfors would(as fince by dinine bleffing they have) vindicate it againe from such an enforced flauery, hee condescended to renue his * Charter of Subjection, knowing belike that his expresse * reservation to himselfe and his Heires, of all due administration of Iuflice, all Liberties, and Regalties, (as being excepted out of the Graunt,) was forcible of it selfe to make it unforceable. For how hath hee his wonted power of Iustice, who was supreme, and is made subordinate how his wonted liberties, who was absolute, & is made Homager and Pensioner? how his fore-vied Regalities whom another may name, and command as his val fall? Yet this Charter, adorned with a Golden Bull (fitte for the Roman * Phalars, whereas the former was but fealed with wax) was at a meeting in Saint red men in a Paules Cathedrall Church (1 pretended for other bufinesses about the Interdict) presented for more authoriticke solemnity at the High-Altar, where, in the King and Legates presence, the Archbishoppe of Canterbury, himself also both a Cardinal and a Legat (in this acting the office of a front Patriote, and noble of Canterbury ap The state of the s presented at the same Altar in solemne manner, his ad An. 1231. In Appeales againft that Charter for secredule to the whole optimisme world as likewise formerly be had offed all possible ender world as likewise formerly be had offed all possible ender wor to distort the kings bart for stat placetion to the Paper are warmed to the possible of the possible ender when the possible ender we have been always to the possible ender when and Court of Rome. That the Peeres of the Luna account of Rome. That the Peeres of the Luna account of Rome. That the Peeres of the Luna account of Rome. That the Peeres of the Luna account of the Rome and the Rom then in Appeales) both the Kings owne P letters to the Pope laying, they openly professed, that they forci-bly made head against him, because hee had so enslaved his land, and their owne bitter exclamations against it, to frequently in 4 Authors reiterated, doe demonfrate: and yet both the Archbifhop and other Ba- 4 Dated at Dorons, are so cunningly named in the Popes : Tran-Fins, are to Chiningly named in the ropes True-ferips, asifthey had not onely been prefent and at Apply, their mines at the doing, but allo appropries of the deed. What comfort then had Immeentius of renouncing What controt then may immercant to the Surely his old Charter, and thus fluffling for a new? Surely but little, it feemeth; especially when he saw both control is and control in the control is and control in the cont Difficulty a receivery exposury when a second of the come constraint in England thus oppugne is, and christian Princes abroad; yea King Johns' mortall emiles, who not onely denied, that England (not withflanding this Translation) "see any partiment yet (Parish), the Peters, and condemned the Pope for bolding as errors."

M. S. Peter, and condemned the Pope for bolding as errors." so pernicious to all Kingdomes; but also vowed to die before they would yeeld, that any King can of his owne will, make his Kingdom Tributary, and his Nobles slaues to others. By which vniuerfall deteftation, of this the Popes vsurping, it is not improbable (though for the present hee flourished the Transcript thereof Christ, and Melchisedech being Kings and Priess, and that therefore in one person of Christ view, as the Soule and the Body fo both Kingdome and Priesthood did now concurre,) that yet ere long hee was no leffe ashamed of this latter, then of his former Charter. Whereto well futeth his testimony, who writes that a Parliament was held at London the yeere 1214 where the drickilloup fate as Prefident with all the Cler-gy and Lafty: wherein by commandement of the Pope, the Charter, Fealty, and homage by which the King was obliged to the Pope, was abfolutely released on the 7 day of Iuly: which if bee true, no margaile if the Court of Rome cannot produce, though often chal-lenged thereto, this Charter whereof io much they vaunt. Notwithstanding some vnquier Spirits, afpiring long after to the Papacy, though pretending (perhaps) the * Originall Charter was confumed at yous (where the 7 Pope caufing, some fay, his owne Conclave to bee fet on fire fo have a pretence to extort a ontribution from the Prelates there in councell, the fire not this. went farther then hee meant it should) they made | 2 See Palliane fome flourish to renew their claime of homage and Roller, temped,

The new Char-ter to the Pope. Dated 3. Octo. Salus noss &

nus. oParif.bist.min. uer,5. Septemb.

Offeb.311214.

o Author Eulogi

z Mat.Park, biff maior. Au; 1845 y idem shid. Could el e tory fire, and

Chap. 8. King Iohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45. fine yeeres I ruce, and return to bridle them at home, The Barons nev pension, till in a Generall Parliament, the Prelates, Lords and Commons, fenerally and joyntly a enacted that for formuch as neither King John, nor any other King could bring his Realme and people to such thraldom, but

The like answer

See Cambden in Hibernia, 9.732.

h Baueden m Henrical. ad av. 1111. f Para in H.1.

could bring his Realme and people to just invaluom, our by common affint of Parliament, (the which was neuer done,) and that in so doing hee did against his Oath at his Coronation; besides many other causes of just exception; if therefore the Pope thence forward should attempt any thing therein, the King with all his Subiects (hould with all their Forces and powers refift the same posturith at their Forces and powers regist the fame, and rather hazardall their lines and linelyhood, theme-dure that volurpation. If Pope Pafchall (in the time of King Johns grandfather) having with much folemmity made fome graunts to the Emperour Henry, and confirmed them with ane Anathema, with the deathes of thirteene Cardinals, and with ereligious receyuing of the bleffed Sacrament; yet, because such grants were thought prejudiciall to his see, folemnly disclaimed his owne Act, and such his doing was aproued by a Clergy Councel, as pretended to be done B by feare : how much more justly might King lohns Successors and his State, by such approbation of their grand Councel, free themtelues of those seruitudes wherewith by anothers vniust, forced, vnwarrantable Act, they were supposed to be ensettered?
(55) Though the Archbishoppe were so vnkind

An. 12 14. The Popes dif-pleasure against Stephen Langton. h Matt. Parm, i See Innecenti m thiden

Rigidos & aus-ros,f Mat. Parii. bift ma. n Parii,hift min.

• The King had paid 17.thoulan before, and was to make it vp e Nic.Trinet.

6 Aurtos Inch 1 3,14 dies. r Lit.Regit leb. apud Wendau.

> f Mat. Parif. u.Park min. tMS.

> Benines, 6, Cal. Augusti, Paris. MS. y Paris hift, man See in Aemylius this battle at z Datis 8000 against the Pope (the Aduancer of his Fortunes,) as to giue by his appeale so farall a blow to his desired Crowne, yet the Pope was not fo ingrate as to die in his debt; as quickly hee found in hanother Appeale which hee made to the Pope against his Legate, for that he, relying on Apoliolicall induigence not onely disposed of all Spirituall dignities tokfuch as best liked the King, but also to his owne! Italians and Kinsmen, though absent, vnknowne, vnsufficient, vnworthy, yea, and some vnborne. Which Legatine *Tyranny vnfufferable in a Christian Stare, though Simon Langton (the Archbishops brother and Proctor) vrged earnestly before the Pope, yet the Legates Agent Pandulphus, fo dilplayed both the Archbishoppes feruentnes in vfing (uch eager per swasions and appellation against the Kines subjection, and the Prelates auarice in their unreasonable exactions for restitution from the King; being the most be-nigne, modest and humble Prince that his eyes euer beheld; that his Holines not onely conceived a exceeding hatred against the Archbishop and his cause but fent also his Authenticke Letters for repealing the Interdict, vpon restitution onely of 13000. Markes * more to the Prelates (the King before had voluntarily offered them 100000) and that but by equall portions of o fine yeeres payment. But the King, who knew the Popes pleasure before these letters came to impart it, having found that his French affaires had fustained vnreparable impeachments by his hitherto enforced delayes, P entrusting his Kingdometo the Legate and Earle Marshal custody, was with his Forces passed into Poicton (whiles in his absence, the relaxation of the Interdiet after a more then fixe yeeres continuance, was by the Legate in a Parliament folemnly promulged) where his Successes were so fortunate, that ' it being powerfully subdued, great hope was conceined the other Provinces would follow. Whence breaking with like victories into Britaine, being there at the point to give battle to Lewis the Dolphine, his ever-faithlesse Poythouins sodainely " for sooke him, and made him forsake his purpose. But a greater impayrement of those his hopes, was the defeature of his Confederate Othe the Emperour, at the renowned Battle of * Bouines, where King * Philip, ftricken from his horse by the hand of Reginald Earle of Bal loigne, had there with his life ended the quarrell, if a faithful Souldier had not couered him with his own Body, and brauely facrificed his life, to faue his Sebody, and brauesy sacrinees in sige, to late his Someraignes; who thereupon recouered both his forting, and the wiff or. The heavy newes whereof, concurring with his Barons outrages at home, droue whose attempts heeeuer found most dangerous, differentes. when hee was most bulied abroad. For under a *pretext of Denotion (the vivall maske for Treachery the Baronsaffembling at Saint Edmunds a did enery man a Mas. Paris. on the high Altar fenerally sweare, to renounce their fworne fealty to the King, and pursue him by Armes, till they had enforced his consent to the Charter of liberties formerly by the Archbelbop recommeded to them. Which An. 1215; when afterward they came in person to challenge of the King, as a part of his Oath taken at his Abio lution; hee e feeing both their forces and affections ad-dressed for violence, was enforced with gentle language and promifed fatisfactions, to desire, till after Easter, mature deliberation on so important a matter; in which breathing time, both in policie, hec tooke new oath of lovalty through all the land, and din denotion, undertooke the Vow and Signe of the holy Warres choofing belike to die against faithles Turks, rather then to live amongst such vnfaithfull Subjects, But neither Oathes, nor holy vowes "(then esteemed the supreme priniledge of protection) could bee sufficient Bucklers to protect against such desperate attempters; who at the prefixed weeke of Easter, prepa ring themselues not for a Conference, as with their Prince, but for a Battle, as against some hostile pow rinner, due tot a name, a againn toine notice power, trouged cogether as Standard, with "an Army ine-flimable for number, whose "over principal abetter and compier was Stephen the Archibipope, the more permitted to the standard of the sta mentes) most affiduous in attendance about the King. And s him the King felecting to fend to the giden. Barons Army (who were come on as farre as Brackley, not farre from the King, reliding now in oxford)to know the contents of their delires; hee brought a Now the contents of their delined liberties, with a meliage of their refolutions, if prefenth hee fealed not a Charter thereof unto them, they would compell him therto by for-cible entrance on all his possessions. Wherear his great heart * highly defdaining, hee demanded, why they also demanded not his Kingdome? those their exactions bedemanded not his kingdome: tooje inter exactions of ing grounded on no colour of reason, and swearing ne-uet to enflaue himselfe to them by such a concession, hee dismissed his Archbishop to return them his peremp-tory answere. (56) Neitherwere the Barons lesse resolute in performance of their vow and meffage, appointing for Head vnto that huge and heady rout, Robert Fitzwalter, whom they entyled The Marshall of Gods Army and holy Church: who first aslayling Northampton Castle, after fifteene dayes fruitlesse fury, departed to Bedford, whose * Castelan being a Confederate gaue them cate entrance; but the Londoners displeased with the King for burthening them with taxes) not onely admitted them, but inwited them by request, to enter their City by night : where having that Key (as it were) of the land in their dispose, they by their " threatfull letters not onely drew most of the Nobles from the King, but also had almost lockt him out of his Regall Scat. To preuent which outrage, by gentle meffages intrea-ting of the Barons a place and day of meeting, who ting of the Barons a pakes and any of meeting, with the thereto deligned *Runningmed, of fince called Complete of the the state of t inferious onto there, was constrained to * grant them their vitermost delires, not onely for Liberties, (specified in * Magna Charta, and Charta foresta,) but also for a kind of sway in the Government, by twenty fine feletted Peeres, to whole commaunds all the ofine felested Peeres, to whose commands all the other Barons also were bound by dash to bee obsequitives allowed out. Thus one of the greatest Source algrees of Christian Barons also were the source of the source flendome, was now become the stwenty fixth petty king Truit. in his owne Dominions; as appeared that very night, when all the rest following the pompous streame of the new opflart Kings, left their Soueraigne * onelie with seuen Gentlemen to attend him. What maruaile, if high difdain herof pierced his fwelling hearr,

King Iohn on a deare conditions, to capitulate on a

Mmmm

hRog de Wend

i Rog Word, MS.

will.de Bellg-Campo. k Mat Well.

n VV zndouer

a silv a Feditiba

504

to vnwind himfelfe out of those seruile fetters? And fo he did: * sending his letters overnight vnto certaine his trustiest Castellans, strongly to fortifie and victuall their Caftles; and the next morning before breake of day, very fecretly retyring into the Ifle of wight: (whence feeking redreffe both by the faritutParifbif. ma. all and temporall (word) hee fent Me fengers, both to the Pope, and other his forraine friends, to craue the Censures of the one, and succours of the other, against fuch outragious Rebels. In both which, his Agents were fo fedulous, and his Friends fo compassionare. that at " Rome by definitive fentence, the Barons Charu Paris, bift. mir ters were freedily cancelled, the King and Barons * acx Sulla Innecent curfed, if eyther of them observed the composition, (which dat. 9 Cal Sept. apud Mat. Pasis, yParif bift min. Excommunication was foone after vpon their continued rebellion put in execution, for that "the Pope", Fortunes wheele being turned, did mortally perfecute them whome himselfe had first whetted and incensed az Mat Welt. Trinet,MS. gainst the King,) 2 and from Flaunders, Gascovne, Brabant and other parts, fuch competent aids came aMat.Paris. in, as encouraged the King (after a three monethes lecrecy and retyring,) to flew himfelfe in the face of his enemies. His fuddaine comming, with fo vnexpected attendance, to the fiege of Rochester Castle, fo

and filled his mind with revoluing thoughts, how amated both the * Captaine thereof, and all the Barons (b who had sworne to assist him against any siege,) that the one not daring to approch to his refcue, the other was enforced to yeeld vp his charge; and all * Sufpendio,&c. Mat.PariiMS. his company had received, * what they deferued, had not Sauary de Malleon entreated for their lives . The Gales of King Iohns fortunes feemed from this time, to blow fro some happier Angle; & e diniding c Mat.VVelm. his great hoaft into two parts, with the one, conducted by himself Northward, he* enery wher from the * A mare Auftra li vique ad more Scoticum, Parif. Southern to the Scotish Sea, victoriously subdued his Rebels, as likewise did the Earle of Salisbury with the other forrainers Southward. In which most deplored state of this land, all things were in confusion, & all men fet on mischiefe, a Fathers against their Sons, Brod Lib.S. Albanin then let on mineree, "rainers against inters son, pro-ther against Brother, Kinsmen and Allies, against their nearest friends, by assains, surprising, pursuing, bur-ning, spoiling, disherizing, tormenting, murthering; all the Kingdome, by the combustion of so vniucr-

(57) Which certaine mileries, and vncertain fv-dings, in civill warres, are not fo strange, as is the fa-uage madnesse of disloyall dispositions, who to artaine a shadow of feeming Liberties, immerge them-sclues and theirabetters into bottomlesse servitudes and distresses. Yet more strange it is, that those Barons, & their adhering impugners of the king, whose pretext formerly was, that they durft not obey the King because of the Papall Curfe, being now themselves by vertue of the same's commanded to obey and afielt him, could without any scruple contemn both it, and him, s pretending, it concerned them not, because particularly they were not named. Yea the Archbishop himselfe, who with his rufflings had made the World beleeue, that the Popes cenfure, (yea and his howne too,) were of vertue to deprine the king of all Soueraigne commaund over his Subjects.

now being i by name, and vnder that fearfull penaltie required by the Pope to denounce the same, against those perturbers of the Kings peace; hee esteeming thereof

but as a vilard to affright children, told the Popes messengers, k he would not doe it for any cause whatso euer, till himfelfe had in person conferred with the Popes for which enormious contempt, the Bishop of Winton and Pandulph, folemnly denouncing the curse them-felues against the Barons, did likewise suspendhim from all Episcopallauthority. Stephen thus comming to Rome (for Innocentius had then called a Generall fall a Rebellion, becomming like a generall fbambles, or place of Infernall torture. And yet as witneffeth one who then lived, the Fathers and aged men (likely to bee the wiser, and better affected,) men (theny to be the which, and better anected,) flood on the Kings part, but the yonger on the contrary; though some agains for soke the King for love of their kindred, and other like respects.

By the Archbi-

h Vide lapes. Rella Per and Paris.

kParit biff, mar.

I I ácm

"Counsel, and therin excommunicated all eyther French on Cancilium La or English winmpured King Iohn) was in that great affembly (of 61. Archbishops, 412. Bishoppes, Vend. 800. Abbots and Priors,) accused and connect of others. P treason against the King and contempt against the P ope a plant the Anal Churches censures, for which the Pope a fully re-Column to depose him from his See and Dignity, by the The Archbisher Cardinals earnest intercesson for him (as being their Brother-Cardinall) was intreated to deale fome what milder; but yet there by * publike sentence confumed his suspension, commanding by his letters all his Susfragane Bishops to withdraw their obedwince from him. I tunecenty lit. a And for a farther reuenge, whereas Simon Langton (his brother,)by his procurement had beene elected to the See of Yorke, (a strange example to ! have a whole Kingdome rulea by two Brethren of lo turbulent | frefinin. humors) the Pope not onely did cassate his Election, and made him meapable of any Episcopall Dignitie, but also placed in that See, Walter Gray, "(a truffic o willmin. friend to the King, and a professed enemy to the Langtons) whose * Pall cost him no lesse then a thou- x wond. Ms. fand pound. By the like couetous grating at the breaking up of the Councell, the Pope " exterted of euery Prelate there, an infinite masse of Money " before he would give them leave to depart home; amongst whom William Abbot of Saint Albans was one, who " comming to take his leave of the Pope without any pre-' fent ; what? (faith he) Art thou the Abbot of Saint "Albons to which place so often fauours have been done by our See; and dothit become thee, to go hence without respect to me who am Pope? whereupon he offering fifiy Markes, was checkt and enforced before hee went pyl) as arket, was enecet and enforced before her went was of the Popes Chamber, (which hee repented hee cover entred) to pay an hundred Markes: which yet hoe brooked the better, because the Pope so handled all all other Prelates; the fashion being, for every man "to lay downe his money ready told before the Popes feet, and so take a deare bought Benediction and b. Man. Peris. be gone: but if any wanted present cash, the Popes vist.min. 2015. Merchants, that is his V furers, were at hand, but on very hard conditions to supply them. (18) But how ever the Clergy fared, King John had cause of contentment in the Popes proceedings in that Councell; especially for that now his disloyal Barons were alexacomunicated by Name. all their lands together with the City of London, Interdieffed: which, though it game a deadly blow to the Ba-rons faction, & made their case plainly desperate, yet they standing on their guard still in London, " held they tending on their guard till in Lonuon, neta those consures in so high contempt, that they decreed, neither themselues or citizens should observe them, nor "the Prelates denounce them, alleadging, a that they were on falle suggestions procured; but chiefly, for that it apperturned not to the Pope to deale in fecular af manif. faires, fith Peter received of our Saniour onely a Power | The Barons raile of matters Ecclesiasticke; And what should the Roman on the Pope. insatiable auarice extendit selfe hither to vs? What had Prelates to intermeddle with Warres? Such are Con-"Freldies to intermeasus withir ares: one are com-"funtines Succeffors not Peters, whom as they repre-"fent not in good Actions, so neither doe they in au-"thoritie. Fre on such * rascall ribaulds, who knowing little of Armes or ingenious courses, being but base V furers and Simoniackes, will now by their Excommu nications dominere over the whole world: Oh how onlike are they to Peter, who now v furpe Peters place? The Barons(the causers themselves, of what they so detefted) had leasure thus to reason, for now they had neere loft all; and therefore e carfing both the Pope (who curfed them, and endeuoured f to draw all into the bottomlesse gulfe of the Romane auarice,) and the freed.MS. King, & betwixt whom like two milltones, they were now grounded to peeces; being hopelesse (by reason of their disloyalties) to find any fauour of their Prince, if they should submit themselves unto him, h in these straites, they resolve on a project, (sutable indeed to their former designes, but otherwise so execrable, as well may iustifie King Iohns exorbitances ,) for betraymay instifie King Iohns exorbitances,) for oction in the Crowne of England vnto Lewis the Dolphin of France. In which vngodly message fending the blank of France.

Laterani pridi y Parif hift wa. z Eiufd. min.bili.MS: in vita VVil. Abb

The Barons ex

Laterani, 10, Cal

(bap. 8. Kinglohn. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 45.

*Rob. Fitzmalter. * Marshall of Gods Armie, and some others, with i weadown. Parm. their letters of allegiance, firmed with i all the Bak P. Aemilius 1 Mat. Weft. Paru faith but rons Seales, to implore Kingk Philips fauour for fending his Sonne; and his Sonnes, for the acceptance of the Crowne: they receive (1 vpon deline-3 Cal.Marty. ry of fifty English hostages) a * present supply of French Gallants, with speedy expectance of their new French-English King. (59) Lewis not so void of Ambition, as to loose a

Crowne for want of fetching, was not long behind them; though the Pope (vpon notice of the defign) had purposcly sent his Legate Cardinall wallo, with

" Apostolicall commands to Philip, to stay his sonne from entring on Saint Peters patrimony; " who declared the Great curfe in the Councell on all men combining with those persons excommunicate, against king Iohn. Vp-on which speech, Philip replyed, that England was no

*patrimony of Saint Peter, no King having power of himselfe to alienate his Kingdome, King tohn especiallie who being neuer lawfull King had no power to dispose thereof, and that it was an Errour, and a pernicious example in the Pope, and an * itching lust after a new kind of domination: his Peeres Sware, P by Christs death

they would spend their lines rather then suffer that a King (bould of himselfe, or with a few flatterers, passe over his

Crowne, and enthrall his Nobles, especially to the Pope, who (bould follow Saint Peters steppes to winne soules and not to meddle with warre, and murther of mens bodies : and Lewis himfelfe & hee beseecht his father .

not to hinder him from that, which hee had not gi-uen him, and for which hee was now refolued to fpend his bloud, and " would choose rather to bee excommunicated by the Pope, then to fallifie his promife to the English Barons. With which * flender respect & fcorne to his Holinesse, the Legate, seeing such of fixe hundred Shippes, and fourescore + boates, (Eustachius an Dostatate Monke thereof being chiefe,) wherewith * arriving first in the Isle of

* Thanet, and afterward at " Sandwich, thither came the Barons and ioyned with him. King Iohn (whose great Nauy, * wherewith hee meant to encounter him, was driuen downe Southward by a fodaine tempeft,) lying then at Douer, 7 with an Armie com fifting most of stipendary Forrainers, better affected (as afterwards appeared, to Lewis a forraine Prince, then unto him, hee deemed it a point as of necessity, so of greater wisedome, to divert towards winchester, and for a time to forbeare battle, rather then commit his whole fortunes to the hazard of their suddaine defection. Lewis hereby had free scope to take in all those parts (Douer Castle onely excepted, which King Iohn committed to the most valiant Hubert de Bur-go,) till he came to London, where * entring with fo lemne Procession, and * incredible applause of all, hee tooke in Paules Church (whither hee went to pray) onths of the Citizens, and after at Westminster, of the Barons, himselfe . swearing to restore all men their right and to recover to the Crowne, what socuer had beene los by King John. There hee b chose for his Lord Chan cellour, Simon Langton (so lately difgraced by the Pope,) by 'whose preaching, the Citizens of London and Barons, though being all exommunicated, did cele-hrate divine service, and drew on Lewis to doe the like;

all which, (Lewis and his Chancellour especially, and by name,) Gualo the Legate (being now with Kine

Iohn) did folemnely a accurfe, and caused to bee fo denounced throughout the whole land; making great advantage thereof, by converting the profits of all their Church livings to his owne, and his Chaplens v-

fes. But both Frenchand English had now experimentally learned, that the Popes Curfe was no fuch deadly and dreadfull Hagge, as in former times they deemed it; nor could it fo fascinate the Lewysians.

and their successes, but that all these parts were soon humbled before him sthough some where not withour relistance, as at Odiam Castle, wherin 1 3. English

Lewishis prepa-

Stat. Well. * Mee fait,eft, mendo despexie. Mat Paris. d Rog. Wend. MS.

g Peris, hift. min.

m Walfing, Tps

ues ern, Paru. o Mas.Weft. Paru.Wendau. elý. * Aliellus novæ dominateasus lib dine. Mat. West, p :Nat. Paris Just, min. MS.

Spresa moniti welfing. VVeft. f Mat.Park. min.

g Mat. Westmin.

r Triust M S

ferme lookes, and fearing allo they would prejentile have done him some mischiefe, got thence in half; and Lewis as speedily set forth for England, with his Fleet * y 2.Cal Inn u Trinct. Stow.

y Mat.VVest.

z Parif.bifl.min

Penteoft.

Ric, Truet, MS.

Ingenti tripudit Parn MS.

a Triuet. MS.
Paru.

c Mat.Paris. hijt.ma,

: Mas. Westmin

f Mat, Parit. h:ft.ma.

men alone, not onely braued Lewis and his whole Army fifteene dayes, but also fallying foorth vpon them, enery one tooke an enemy, and to carried them to the Castle, and after with great admiration of the French, and honourable conditions furrendred the Castle. Dower, with + few other Castles onely now flood out; where & whiles Lemis imploies wader. British incredible coft and toyle in a furious but bootleffe fiege, (hwhither Alexander King of Scots in amity repayred to him, but foone returned,) & his Confede- h Paru, hijk inin. rates doe the like at Windfor Castle ; King John and Ms. his mighty heaft, breaking forth with a fuddain violence like a furious tempest, ouerrunneth the Country all about, to the ruining of the Barons Castles, and possessions every where. Thus setting forth from Linne in Norffolke (where for their faithfull feruices hee bestowed large Franchises and his own Sword, and a Guilt Bole, for tellification of his affection,) with a full resolution to addresse his mightie Army for to give Lewis battle, as hee was paffing the Walbes with his Army and rich carriages toward Lincoloshire, in those sands (by reason of the oftenchangeable channell euer dangerous, all his " Carriages, treasure, and prouision, (himselfe and his Ar- m Mat Paris.

my hardiy escaping) were irrecouerably loft. (60) Many likewise were the greeuances into which the Barons, the meane while were plunged to fee their Natine Country by their owne wilfulneffe thus horribly maffacred, their owne Caffles and polsessions ruined and rifled by the King, and which bred in them most anxietie, a their faithfull feruices (in this their faithleffe adherence) not so respected by Lewis, as he, and their owne fore-running hopes had promifed them, whiles hee conferred onely on his Frenchall fuch Territories and Caffles, as the hand of Victory had lent vnto him. But their diftreffes were yet farre greater, then those their lealousies could comprehend, o till a Noble Frenchman (Vicount de Melun) a man of great efteeme with Levis, having his foule in his ficknes deadly wounded with the fins of his health, defired private conference on his death bed in London, with those English Barons, to whome Lewis had committed the custody of that City. To them hee imparted what lamentable defolations and onsuspected ruines hung ouer their heads for that Lewis with fixteene other his chiefe Earles and Barons, wherof himselfe was one, (auerring it on the Saluation of his now departing soule,) had taken an Oath, if ever Eng-lands Crowne were settled on his head, to condemne unto perpetuall exile all such as now adhered to him against K. Iohn, as Traitors to their Soueraigne, and all their kindred in the land otterly to extirpate. So counselling them timely to preuent their miferies, and to locke vp his words under the Seale of Secrefie, presently his penitent Soule being thus in peace with men, went to rest with God. What strange amazements so rufull a relation might worke in the hearers, wee may imagine, but onely men in like perplexed estate can fully and fenfibly conceine. The operatine power whereof was fuch, that though many of the Barons then doubted, whether, if they returned to their So-ueraignes due allegiance, hel whose hatred against them with fo many indignities they had pronoked) would accept them open their repentance, 9 yet presently fortie of them addressed their letters of submission fuite | q Para bill.ma. vnto the King, in hope that true " kingly bloud is ever ready to yeeld mercy, to fuch as are ready to yeeld them-Celues prostrate.

(61) But these Sollicitors for mercy came too late, either to receive, or yeeld any contentment, by their fubmission to the King, himselfe (now at Newarke) lying at the mercy of a higher Soueraigne, and by the stroke of death necre to some rest, which in his life hee had feldome attained: vexations being commonly the attendants of Crownes, but quiet and content the Priviledges of more private States. On deathes approch, with penitent ' confession of his sinnes and great denotion he received the blessed Eu-charist, having the Abbot of * Croxton for his phy-

i Rog. de Wend.

Mat Paris.

Vicount Mela

p Rog.Wood.bi$ bey Legiue a fitian both bodily & ghoftly: and not onely forgune gladly all his mortall perfectors (holding that a mater, though over difficult to fielh and bloud, yet failtary to the Soule) but also fent commands Henry his fonne to doe the fame: to whom hee caused all prefent, so fwesrefealty, as to the Heyre of his Crowne, and fent ı Jdem his letters to all his Officers abroad, exhorting them to affifthim. And " thus hee commended his foule to u 7bidem. God, and his Body to bee buried in worcefter Church, where the Bishop solemnly interred it, by the Kings He died on S. appointment, neere the Body of Walftan, a faincted Bishoppe renowned for constant fidelity to his Goderns Catalog of BR. Prince against therebellious Nobles of * his time: ± In the Raigne of William Ku∫ma had beene miferably encombred.

ry, had not the fuddenty of his death, exacted some fearch into the cause of his sicknesse. Such Authors ther in loue to Lewis, or hate to the King, or pitty on the Land, presenting him with an enuenomed Cup, (whereof the King commanded him to bee his Ta-

(ler) became the Diabolical Instrument of his own and his Soueraignes destruction. This relation, delivered by Monkes, and men of Monkifb humour, as a thing fo vndenvable, that they auow (at what

as a trining to vincenyatic, that they allow (at what time they wrote this) is fine Monkes in that Abbey did fing for this their Brothers soule specially, and so should whiles the Abbey stood, which if it had been etorged cuery Child might eafily have refuted; and the re-hearfall of all circumstances thereof, (of the Kings speeches, of the Monkes conference with his Abbot, of his preparing the drinke with a Toads in the garden, of his dying in the Firmary) might deserue credite with the greatest Patrones of Monkery; yethone of them (as if by acquiting Simon of Swinfled, all * other of fuch Orders were cleared from affafinating of Princes) firiucth eagerly, to afperfe fome late

* Relaters hereof, with the blots both of malice & forgery. Wherein is the malice? in adding to the narration, Pictures alfo of the fact, fo to move hatred to Monkes and their Religion,; whereas of truth, either

Monkes, or men of that Religion, were the very first, who not onely so depictured, but also liuely and richly depainted it in their i goodliest Manuscripts.

Wherein then the Forgery?in adding to Caxton, that his Abbot gave him absolution for the same before hand, there being no such matter at all nor any mention thereof in the story? No? let the very story speake;

The Monke went to the Abbot, and was shriven of him, and told the Abbot all the King had faid; and prayd his Abbot to affoile him, for hee would grue the King fuch a drinke that all England should be glad thereof and joyfull:

the rode the Monke into the Garden, &c. Yea farther," one Monkalleadgeth, an inducement for the Abbots affent therto, for that the King had sent for the Abbots fister (a faire Prioresse) with purpose to have deflowed her. Yea, but the Story it felf is charged with noueltie, the first author thereof being but An. 1483. and all other former Writers making no mention as touch the matter but in generall, content themfelues with faying, he dyed of a * griefe, or a * feauer, or a * flux, or a * furfet; but those who have entred into the particulars, insist on such a surfet, as whera Job. de Walingf c The, Otterborne d Mat.Weft. e Chronicle of of both griefe, feauer, and flux were most probable effects and Symptomes. For comming (fay they) from the Walkes to Swinfled Abbey, (being of the Cifleanx Order, which of old he had much incented) hee added new matter of offence, as he fate at meat, when, in speech t of his enemies too large provision, hec f English Chron fware, if hee lived but halfe a yeere longer, he would make one halfe-penny loafe as deare as twelue: * As deare sa sa ob.Lecelirensis. na 12.d. Otterborn na 12.d. Otterborn na 10.d.Polychrö. na 20.s.Canton.

mens a Monke did kill Henry 3. *M. Fex his Mor tyrolog;StrFras-eis Heßings his Ward-word of Faxespicture i Where the kin is hummed with his Crowne and rick roabes, fire ting at a banquet and foure Monks in their habites Caxtens (hron, Deceffrenss, o By Parfons loco comming to him, whereof one presents him with the payloned cuppe. Dide

Archiep Cans. k Parfont ibiden of it. This if erue, were somewhat, and doubtlesse, it is as true as the former: for how could hee bee the first Author, when not onelie? Ranulph the Monke raigne of Henr.3, q Clarut, A. 1336 r He ended his of Chefter, 9 Iohn of Tynmouth, and Thomas Otterbourne the Franciscan Fryer recorded it as * a fame generally received; but fundry other ancient stories, as

Iohn of Lichfield, the Monke of Leicester, & Scala Munthreat, replyed; What? meaneyou to turne mee out of my Kingdome, and afterward to murder me, as my fawith which kind of men, King Johns gouernment

(62) This, being the Catastrophe of his Tragicall Raigne, might also have beene the close of his Stother was dealt with? (63) But not to trouble our felues with refuting Goofes gagling against Foxes true relation; eafie it is to obscrue the hatred of Monks against that King, both in thus procuring his death then, and his dishonour (a second death) in their flanderous inuentions euer fince. For; whereas he writ by fome of his Bifbops to certaine forraine Princes, for aides aothis Siphopto cottent formine Princes, for addesa-gainth his faithliffe Rebeles, the CM others charge him, that the counterfrited his Sifhoppes Saeles, and write a-broad, that all Englithness were become Lepfelds and Applitates from Chrifts faith, and therefore facts flound counts fishdue them and take their possitions: I when he said, a Stag which the kild; had never the left facts. though he neuer heard a Maffe; they charged him hee doubted of the Resurrection of the dead; and in saying, hee never sped well after his yeelding to the Pope, that hee faid hee was vnfortunate fince hee was reconciled onto God: that, when hee gaue leaue to a fernant of his owne, to enter any religious Order, he gaue him leaue to bee of what Religion and Faith neelift. That moreouer, b hee offered his Kingdome to a Sarazen, and would embrace the Turkish faith, though this tale were told by one Robert of London (a e wicked Maffe-Priest, orrather a Monof London (a "WICKEL MAILE-PTELL, OF TAINER I WHEN-iter, a hauing a face like a Iew, with one armelong, and another flort, his funger deformedly growing toge-ther two and two,) with fuch fenceles improbabilities, as, that hee found that Moorish King reading of Saint Paules Epistles, and that hee refused the Kingdom of England being offered him, with the like. That lastly it was reuealed to a Monke, King John was in Hell; though a Poet for fo faying, is by M.P. (swho made no doubt of King Johns faluation) centured for a * Reprobate. These all are demonstrations of so incredible harred as fhould rather alleuiate their Authors credite, then the Kings; whose Raigne had it not fallen in the time of so turbulent a Pope, so ambitious Neighbour-Princes, so disloyall Subjects, nor his Story into the handes of exasperated Writers, hee had appeared a King of as great re-nowne, as milfortunes, His works of deuotion in-h Nu. Triest, MS feriour to none; as his Foundations declare at Bean. ley, Farrington, Malmsbury, and Dublin, and that other for Nunnes, at God stow by Oxford, "for which, fome haue interpreted that Prophelie of Merlin as meant of him, stab fright giftes the stable square, in meant of him, stab fright giftes the stable square, in Triest. Oil. 5.

"Mongh ble field statts God will him faur. His Acts and Orders for the Weale-publike were beyond moût: hee being eyther the first, or the chieffe, who appointed those noble Formes of Civill government in o London , and P most Cities , and Incorporate Towner of England, endowing them also with their Pointer greatest Franchises; The first who caused Sterling money to bee here coyned; The first, who orday ned the Honourable Ceremonies in Creation of Earles; The first, who i settled the Rates and Meafures for Wine, Bread, Cloth, and fuch like Necessa. ries of Commerce; The forst, who planted English itsued Para, Lawes and officers in Ireland, and both annexed that in Huber: Kingdome, and fastned wales to the Crowne of England, therby making amends for his losses in France. Whose whole course of life and actions, wee cannot shut up with any truer Euloge, then that which "an street, estimate Release.

di (to omit other i namelelle Authors before Ann.
1483,) so confidenti y auouch his poisoning at Suineugadus D. Rob. flead, that unpartiall after-Writers, though friends English Chronis cles, MS. t leb, Maior. to Monkery, made no scruple to beleeue it. And why should they not, lith an " Author, more anci ent and vnexceptionable then all the reft, (cuen king George Lillian Johns Sonne and Succeffor in his Kingdome) auerred K. Henry the 3 it, " when, the Prior of Clerken-well faucily telling uParif.bift. him (being then in that house) that as some as hee ceast to doe suffice towards his Prelates, hee should cease to be a King; the King enraged with his trayterous K. Henry 3.ac-knowledgeth hat Father was mura In Record T mer.

c Lib,S,Alben, MS,in vit,Isb Abb: d M. Paris.

h Nie.Trinet, Mi i Cambd Brit in Berejbire, k Cambd Brit in VVIII bire, I Campian bill of p Ex Record & Charsis Civitat, q Cambd Brit.is Strikeling. in Hubert: tVV endouer MS. U.Ser. Haurd MC. ancient Author hath conferred on him : Princeps qui-dem Magnus erat, sed minus fælix; atque vt Marius, viramque fortunam expertus; Doubtlesse, he was a Prince more Great then happy, and one, who, like Marises, had tried both sides of Fortanes wheele.

(64) Alice, the first wife of King John, was the eldest of the two daughters, and heires apparant at that time of Humbert the second, Earle of Maurien now called Sauoy: her Mother was Clemence daughter of Berthold the fourth, Duke of Leringen, who had been the divorced wife of Henry the Lyon, Duke of Saxonie. This marriage was in their childhoode cocluded by their Parents at Mountferrant in Auerne, in February, Anno, 1173; he should have had with her, her Fathers Earledome, but all altered by her vntimely death; and after enfued the death of her Mother, the new marriage of her Father, and iffue male of the fame, whereof the Dukes of Saxonie are descended.

K, Iohn. * See Glovers Catalogue of

(65) Ifabel, his fecond wife (by * some called Hawissa or Muis) though the * youngest of the three Sifters, yet was in regard of this marriage, the sole Heireot William Earle of Gloucester, sonne of Earle Robert, the Naturallionne of King Henry the first; her Mother was Hawis the daughter of Robert Boffu Earle of Leicester. Shee was married unto him when hee was Earle of Mortaine, in the first yeere of his brother Richards raigne; and after ten yeeres having no issue by him, was (the first yeere of his Raigne) disorced from him, under presence of Consanguinity, and married to Geffrey Mandeuill Earle of Effex, and lastly, to Hubert de Burgo Earle of Kent; but died without any Issue by them.

(66) Isabelalio his last wife, was daughter and heire of Aymer Earle of Angolefine; her Mother was Alice daughter of Peter, Lord of Courteney, fifth fon of Lewis the Groffe, King of France. Shee was married vato him in the first yeere of his Raigne, & crowned by Hubert Archbishoppe of Canterbury, 8.Id. Octob. Anno 1200. and surviving him, was married to Hugh Brun Earle of March, and Lord of Lufigmian and Valence in Poyton, to whom first she should haue beene married, but yet (as feemeth)continued her affection to him till now. By him shee had diuers Children, (greatly aduanced by the King, Hen-ry 3. their halfe brother, and as greatly maligned by his Subiects) Hugh Earle of March and Angolefme, Guy of Lufignian, flain in the battell at Lewife. William of Valence Earle of Pembroke, Aymer of Valence Bishoppe of Winchester, Geffrey of Lusignian L. of Haftings.

His I Twe.

* Met.Park. VV cades.

(67) Henry, the eldest Sonne of King Iohn, and Tabell his last wife, was borne at Winchester, 1.0 Hober, 10.0f his Fathers Raigne, Anno, 1208. K. John ber, 10 of his ratners tagnet, Anno, 2200. A. tom dying at Nemarke, (*whither hee was broughtina Horfelitter from Swyaffeed.) the Barons malice was ended, their offence amended, Lewis of France reiected, and the yong Prince feated on his Fathers

(68) Richard, his second son by the same Queene was borne the next yeere after Henry; by whom afterward hee was made Knight, created Earle of Cornwall and appointed Earle of Popton. After the death of William Earle of Holland, Emperour of the West, hee was by the Electours chosen to succeed him in the Empire, and crowned King of Romanes, & of Almayn at the City of Acon in Germany, by Conrade Archbishoppe of Coleyne, Maij 27.being the Ascention day, Anno 1257. decealing at the Castle of Berkhamsted, April 20. Ann. 1271. the 13. yeere of his Empire, his body was buried in his Monastery of Hayles in Gloucestershire, but "his Heart at Oxford in | "R fin V Parki-Reuly Abbey (founded by him) under a Pyramis of Canu. admirable worke. Hee had three wives, the first was Ifabel daughter of william Marsball Earle of Pem-broke, widdow of Gilbert Clare Earle of Gloucester; by whom hee had iffue, Henry flaine at Viterbo in Italy, and tohn, both dying without Issue. His second wife was Senches, (daughter of Raimond Earle of Prouince, & fifter to Queene Eleanor his brothers wife) who was crowned with him at Acon, and had iffue by him Edmund Earle of Cormvall, and others. His last wife was Beatrice, Niece to the Archbishoppe of Coleyne, who seemeth to have survived him, and to have no Issue by him.

(69) 10ane, the eldeft Daughter and Child of K. John and Queene I fabel his last wife; was the first wife of Alexander the second, King of Scots, married vnto him in Yorke, Juny 25. Anno 1221, who returning into England to visite her Brother, deceased at London, and was buried in the Numery at Tarent in Dorfetshire,4. Marty, in the 21. yeare of her Brother king Henries raigne in England, and the 23. of king Alexander her husbands in Scotland, Anno 1236.

(70) Eleanor their second daughter, was first married to William Marlball the vonger. Earle of Pembroke: and after his decease without iffue, and seuen veeres Widow-hoodremarried to Simon Montfort Earle of Leisester, (fonne of Simon Earle Mont fort in France, by Amice Daughter of Robert Blanch-man Earle of Leiceffer) who maintaining the Ba-rons warres against King Henry sier brother, was flaine at the battaile of Eucham, in the 19. yeere of her brothers raigne, 1 265; after whose death, shee and her Children were forced to forfake England; the died in the Nunnery at Montarges in France. Henry her eldeft sonne, was slaine with his father at Euchan: Simon, the fecond, was Earle of Bigorre, and anceftor to a Family of Mountfords in those parts of France Almaricke, her third fonne, was first a Priest, and Treasurer of the Cathedrall Church in Torke, and after a Knight, and a valiant seruitour in sundrie warres beyond the Seas. Goy the fourth Sonne was Earle of Angleria in Italy, and Progenitour of the Mountfords in Tufeaine, and of the Earles of Campo bachi in the Kingdome of Naples. Richard the fift fonne, remained privily in England, and changing his name from Mountford to Wellesborne, was anceftor of the family of Wellesbornes in England. She had alfo a daughter named Eleanor, borne in England, brought vp in France, and matried into Wales to Prince Lewellen ap Griffith.

(71) Ifabel, their yongest daughter, was born, An (71) Justification of the was 21. years of age, thee was married being the 6. and last wife to the Emperour Frederick the second, at the City of Warmes in Germany, 20. of July, 1235. Shee had iffue by him, Henry appointed to bee King of Sicily, and Margaret wife of Albert, Landgraue Thurin: thee was Empresse 6, yeeres, and died in Childbed, Decemb. 1.of her husbands Empire 31.of her brothers raign 18. Anno. 1241.

(72) lane, or Ione the daughter naturall of King John (by Agatha Daughter of Robert Ferrers, Earle of Darby) marryed to Lewis Prince of Wales. Anno 1204. her Father gaue with her the Castle & Lord-(hippe of Elinfmore in the Marches of Southwales; the (like a most louing Child) gaue her Father secret intelligence of the Treasons intended against him by the Wellb and English.

(73) Geoffrey Fitz-Roy, a base son, who transported some Souldiers into France, when Archbishoppe Hubert forbad the King his father to goe thither. (74) Richard, who married the daughter & heire of Fulbert de Douer, who built Chilham Castle in Kent, which Castle hee had with her, and had Issue by her, of which fom families of good efteem are descended.

Mmmm 2

HENRIE

508

Monarch 46 HENRIE THE THIRD, LORD OF A.D. 1216. IRELAND, DVKE OF NORMANDIE, GVYEN,

AND AQVITAINE, &c. THE FORTIE-SIXTH MO-NARCH OF ENGLAND, HIS RAIGNE, ACTS, AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER IX.

Ypod, Neuft.

ENRIE, the eldest Son of King lohn, was when his Father dyed about ten yeeres of age: which flate of Child-hood, being most vnfit to succeed in fo troublous a state, (the furious wanes wherof feemed far from being appealed) God Almighty, in fauour and pitty of his Innocency, strengthned with the service of great and worthy men, wher-by the free and noble R calme of England was gratioully preserved from French servilitie; from whose Continent as it was naturally disparted with a Sea, so could it as badly have endured to be joyned therto by subjective governement. Howbeit the difficulties were not few nor fleight, which did at first empeach this happy preservation, though they did not hinder it long; for, * hee disposing the matter, who ordaineth all things wifely, and moderates them sweetely, faire weather was restored after stormes, and quiet eing established through the Kingdome, the peaceable feruants of God had space to breath in.

(1) To effect so great a benefite, Walle the Popes legate flood wholy for advancement of Henry, and expulsion of the French; the authority of whose per-"the Standing whose per spin and the property of the Prelates fo farre; that (although their lands and goods were therefore fpoythought their hards and goods were treeted poy-led) they would not doe any homage to Lews; as likewise the loyall care of William Marshall Earle of Pembrooke, did gaine (in time) and settle the hearts of the feetal rods. Great was the wildom, con-trage and diligence of that Noble Gentleman in fo broken and icopardous effate; for he, knowing that the maine hopes of his Country refted in the fafety of their persons, in whom the right of Succession was, he first of all secured them within the Citie of Gloucefter, which was at Henries feruice: There were with the young King, his mother Queene Ifabel, his brother Richard (afterward King of Romans,) his fifters, the faid Earle, and many others in great numbers of the chiefe and principall men of all fortes; who vpon perfect notice of King lohns death, repaired thither to their young Prince, with a purpole to confult and concur in one for the re-union of minds and bodies to the obedience of the true borne king. The Earle of Pembrooke therefore bringing forth his precious charge, and placing him with all due honour and ceremony in view of the affembled States, is reported for the pleasing of all sides, to have vsed words to this effect. Albeit the father of this Prince whom here you seebefore you, for his eaill demeanour hath worthily undergone our persecution, yet this young Child as he is in yeeres tender, so is he pure and innucent from those his Eathers doings: Wherefore sith every man is to be charged with the burthen of his owne transis to be charged with the burthen of his owne trans-griftons, neither fall the Child's Carriptmes teach vs.) bear the iniquitie of his Tather: we county of why and englicises, heave our felax milled: toward his tender Prince, and take compafisons of his age. And for someth as he is the Kings' lawfull and shelfs Saune, and and of he was county of the same of the same of the same of the be our Soure aigne, and his Successor, let we with one ioint afsistance appoint him our King and Gouernour; let tourt assiftance appoint into our King and concribent; its vs remove from vs this Lewis the French Kings some, and suppresses his people, which are a consuson and shame to our Nation, and the yoakes of their servitude let vs cast of from our flouders,

Chap. 9. Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46.

(3) The entertaining of perswalions among the wife, is an effect of Truth, not of painted Phrases; and these plaine wordes of the Farle, (the young Kings Brother in Law) were received with general applause of all that were present, so that Henry was The Kings Coroapplanted all that were picture, and attemy was immediately proclaimed, and speedily crowned (vp-on the day of SS. simon & Inde) in the presence both of Wallo the Popes Legate, (who imposed on his vn-experienced yeeres some vande Oathess of service to the Romane See,) and of Queene I fabel, with many of the Lords Spirituall and Secular, and flore of all other forts of People. The speede of which roise all Ceremony (for it was the ninth day after King Iohns death) was not greater then the necessity of the State required: for his Enemy (nor onely his, but the enemy of the English name, Prince Lewis) had (as yet) London, the chiefe seate of the Empire, at his denotion, many potent Earles, Barons, and martiall maleconcents, lubiect to his command, and an Armie in the field with which he fought to constraine that mirrour of constant loyalty, Hubert de

Burgh, to render him the most important Castle in England, that of Doner, committed to his much-approued trust: The young King on the other fide was enuironed with many difficulties, want of mo-ney not the leaft, the most part of his Fathers treafures being drowned. To encounter all which mifchiefes, the faid Earle of Pembrooke was by common affent of Prelates and Peeres constituted Guar dian of the young Kings person, and Vice-Gouer-nour of the Kingdome. (4) Letters hereupon iffuing in the new Kinges name, and for his affaires, to all fuch as had charge in the common-weale, (with many promises of re-ward and fauour,) were accordingly in most places obeyed : for the cuill will borne to King Iohn, feeming to die with him, and to bee buried in the same graue, the loyall bloud waxt warme about the col-dest hearts, rekindling in them the honest desire of shewing themselves true Englishmen. It was also a great helpe to the Kings party, that Prince Lewis and Holiday, pronounced to flam accurit and ex-communicated. Lewis perceiuing (contrary to his expectation) that King Jesus death was to him no-thing auslieable, but rather derimentall, dwels no longer about Douer Cafile, but railing his fiege, enters London, and prouides the best hee can for his tottering estate, which hee sought to support, by putting

French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless, The *Tower of Lon
French Garrisons into Castless i don being rendred to him; hee beliegeth Hertford Caftle, which after the flaughter of many French being deliuered upon faire composition, the custody of that Peice was demanded by Richard Fitz-walter as by ancient right belonging to him; but Lewis put him off with this answere, that he should have patience, till hee had conquered the Realme, at which time hee would reflore their rights to every one. The fecret reason which moued Lewis to give this answere, was: for that, confulting with his French vpon Fitz-Walters demaund, they gaue it for their common opi lees demaund, they gaue it to true: common our nion: That the English were not worthy to have fuch places entrafled to their charge, who were birragers of othe French libeir natural Lord. A suff reason to move Lewis touching the control of the co fo to answere, but a farre better to teach others to continue loyall. The Castle of Berkhamsted (whose Captaine was one Waleran a valiant Dutch Knight) hopeleffe of fuccours was likewife rendred, which as the reft, hee stuffed with French Garrifons, wherein howsoeuer hee prouided for his owne Nation during that prefent, hee tooke no wife course for the maine of his enterprife: for so apparant icalousies (seconding & confirming the Vicount Melanes pre dictions) could not but vtterly unfettle the affections of fuch great ones as had called him in. His next March being to Saint Albans, where he would have constrained the Abbot to doe him homage, he was encountred with this honest answere: That he would doe him no homage, whelfe hee were absolued from the homage which hee had made to the King of England: hemage which we ma mase to the Aing of Engineer, yet to purchase relipies of homage, or rather his, and the Towns peace till Candlemas, hee was forced to vie the mediation both of his *puric, and of his no ble friends. (5) Bur those intestine causes for which the Ba rons had called Lewis in, falling now to the ground by the death of King Iohn, and the French by their naturall infolence, fulpitions and vanity, ministring natural infoence, imputous and vanity, immuting new reasons of auersion, were all of them strong motiues to dispose the mindes of the English Lewifiant to restaurce to due obedience; yet sinding themseliues bound in honour, not so to leaue him sodainely destrute, (who ypon afriance of their oathes and hostages had put himselfe among them) that he should thereby fall into Henries; hands; they desire therefore his absence, but not his destruction. The more handsomely to compasse the rest, an abstinence from warre was (for a time) concluded betweene the King and Lewisthe rather for that Lewis had intelligence from Rome, that the curse which wallohad denounced against him, should shortly bee confirmed by the Pope, vnleffe hee left England, As this Truce gaue Lewis liberty to sayle backe to France for new supplies from his Father, (who greatly desired to conferre with him;) so his absence gaue opportunity to his English, to consult more freely of their best way; that from thence forth Lewis was neuer potent in their affections, but referrity loft many chiefe Lords and others, who againe became true English.

(6) Lewis vpon his speedie returne out of France minding to make a speedy dispatch, sets out of London his Army of more then twenty thousand Souldiers, with a purpole not onely to free Montthe whole country adioining. Odious and grieuous the wnoe country autoiming. Outous and grieuous to the Countries was this palage of the French, which reach as farre as Lincolne, there were among them to many ragged rafcals, the *verie feutomme and filthy froth of that Nation, who to beggery was to baie that they had not cleathers to hang on their backes, to supply the which they made many goe naked in all the places where they marched. The Earle of Pembrooke Gouernour of the King * by the Earle of Pemprese Gouernour of the Might by the Counfell of Walls, and the Bishoppe of winchefur refoluing to set the cause youn God, and the fortune of a field, is now with the young King and his Affi-

The Kling gather

The aftions of Lewis after King Johns death.

The Earle Mar

Mat. Parie

Lewis and his fol-

Sacr de Duiney

& Robert Fitz.

The policyof K.

in their march,

of the Earle of

The perillous e

Holinfb.

Henry 3.

fiant Lords, at Newarke, where the Generall affembly for that seruice was appointed. The whole Army after the Musters, rested there some dayes, which they spent not in vanities, but in denotions & receit of the Sacrament, humbling themselues before the offended Maiestie of God; and so all of them (faith Paris) being prepared, resolue eyther to return victorious, or to die in desence of their country, their Soueraignes right, and their owne Liberties, and possessions, all which seemed now to lie at stake. To give them the greater edge and spirite, Wallo with great folemnity accurfeth Lewis and his Coadiutors; and thus the Army marcheth towards

Lincolne, and the Lewissans there in siege of the Ca-ftle: the King himfelfe being left with a strong guard at Stow (about eight miles short of Lincolne) accompanied with Wallo and others, there without perill of his person to attend Gods pleasure, in the event of (?) Vpon their approch, if the Counsell of some

Englifb Lords had beene followed, the Lewifian Army had iffued forth of the City, & giuen them battle in the ope field; but the Earle of Perch (the French Generall) thinking the Kings party to bee greater then it was, for that the Noblemen and Bannerets thereof had each of them two Ensignes, the one born with themselves, the other advanced among the Carriages, which doubled the flew of their numbers; they did thereupon change that course, clofed the Gates of the City, and plyed their endeauours against the Castle more fiercely then before.

The Earle of Pembroke therefore lets Falcafius flip in arthe Castle-posterne with his Arbalasters, whiles others breake vp the South-gate of the City, at which the Kings Army most couragiously entring, and they of the Castle sallying out in Flancke of the Enemy, scattered and viterly defeated the Lewisians

The Earle of Perch their Generall, being equironed with the Royalifts, and willed to render himselfe, fware that hee would neuer become Prisoner to any English: vpon which refusall he was run through the fight of his helmet into the braines, and so dyed without speaking any word. In this conflict (being on Saturday in Whitson-weeke) the force of naturall propension was apparent; for notwithstanding the fierie resolutions of the Kings People, yet when they saw the faces of their kinsmen, friends & countrimen on the other fide, that fury relented fo ftrogly, that the most part of the reuenge fell vpon the Horses, and not vpon the Horsemen, whom one he they laboured to make their Captines. The whole riches of the Lewssian Campe, & of the City of Lin-ealne, became the booty and spoile of the Kings Ar-

Monarch 46.

went) that onely three were flaine vpon both fides, the Earle of Perch, one of Du-Brents Knights, and an obscure fellow belonging to some, or other of the

(8) The Kings Gouernour after the victory rode orefently with the gladfome tidings in the heighth of speed to the King and Legate, who with teares of ioy gaue God thankes. But the noble Earle not leauing his worke imperfect, seekes to embarre Lewis from forraging about London. Meane while by the diligence of Lady Blanch the wife of Lewis, Euftace the ruffianly spofiata, (who of a Monke becom-ming a * Demoniacke) was now upon the Sea with a "Tood News." fresh supply of men and munition bound for London; But God was no better pleased with these, then with the other scatterlings at Lincolne. For the Eng-lifb Nauie, having the wind of the French, sunke di-Rog, de Wend. uers of their shippes by tilting at them with the yron Prowes or Beakes of their Gallies; vsing also vnslaked lime in duft or powder, which they threw into Enflace and the the faces of their enemies, and blinded their fight: fo defeated at Seat were the hopes of Lewis for any present succours abfolutely frustrated Enstace himselfe, found after long fearch, and drawne out from the bottome of the Pumpe in a French shippe, at Douer had his head cut off, though * some say hee was slaine by Richard, a base-sonne of King Iohn. The newes of which succeffe being brought to the King, did not more reloice him, then they wounded Lewis, for the loffe was not onely great in men, but in all forts of riches and prouifions. To give now no reft to Lewis his declining fortunes, the Earle of Pembroke with a mighty Army belieged London, and Lowis therein, alwell by Water as by Land; feeking todriue him by penurie to render the City. It came to capitulation, and in an Ilet in the River of Thomes, not farre from Stanes, the King, Wallo the Legate, and William Marshall the Kings Gonemour, met with Lewis & the Barons to finish the Peace: for Lewis had promifed to doe as Walls and the Earle would deuife. fo that it might not tend to his dishonour or scandall: Heades or Articles of the agreement which Lewis sware vpon the Gospell to performe, were, 1. That Lewis, the Barons, and other his partakers should stand to the indgement of the Church (whose censures they had now some yeeres contemned) and from thence-forth bee and remaine true to the same. 2. That he and forth bee and remaine true to live Jame. 2. I has he and his should forthwith depart the land, went to return again with a purpose to doe harme. 3. That he should doe his best to draw his Father to make restitution of all such octro arow ms rainer to make rejilinion of all their things in France as belonged to the King of England, and that Lewis when himslesse was King should quietly part with them. 4. That Lewis should immediately render with 18tm. 4. I not Lewis jouing immension recover to King Henry all holders and places taken in the warre. On the other part, the King, the Legate and the Earle Sware; I That the King Jould refere to the Barous. and others, all their rights and inheritances, with all the Liberties formerly demanded of his Father. 2. That none (of the Lasty) fould fuffer dammage or reproch for taking part on either fide. 3. That Prifoners fould bee released, Ore. Whereupon Lewis with his adherents was formally by Walle absolued from the sentence of Excommunication, and fo they ranne on all fides into embracements, and parted in the kiffe of Peace. The * Welfb, who had held with the Barons, were left out of this Conclusion, being thereby laid open to spoile. Thus was Lewis * driven out of England, whom the Earle of Pembroke brought to the Sea-fide, and the Realme was cleared. (9) There are* who write how that Lewis had *Paul demil. a great fumme of money paide him for restoring in Phil.s. the Hoftages; but Mat. Paris whom + fome cite to that purpose, affirms no such matter in any printed Copy. Reason surclie is vtterly against it; for when even the life of Lewis was after a fort in King Henries hand, with what sense can it stand that the King should set all the French free without ransom; and yet himselfe pay money for the Hostages? which also were not his, but the Hostages of his enemies the Barons; so that, if money were due, it must have come from them, not from the King, who both in honour and profite was rather obliged to the contrarie. Writers of that very time doe in plain wordslay, The Ponerty of Lewis was such, that he was compelled to borrow fine thousand pounds of the Londo-Rog Wendouer, MS. Math. Paris. The fame Math. ners, to fet him out of England: and therfore that o-Paris, at A.D. ther feemes nothing elfe but a vaine gloze to falue the honour of Lewis, who was plainly driven out of King Heary charged the Lon-doners for having England, after fo high hopes with loffe, forrow, and eternall differace, which the French are so sensible of, that they scarfe seeme to write of the whole action, giuen Lewis marks at his deotherwise then *laying the missortune of Lewis vpparture forcing them to give him as much. on the Barons mutability.

(10) The Realme of England purged of those for-*Enguer de Mot Gagwin. Paul. Asmil. raine dregges, was not therfore presently freed from other manifold encombrances, such as after so great a toffing of all lawes and things divine, and humane, An.1218. doe ordinarily flote vp and downe, like the froth & working of a troubled Sea. For divers men prefuming vpon their former seruices to the State, or thinking the old bad world would either continue still, or soone returne, if instice grew consident against Trespassors, or for what other corrept mo-*Rog. de Wend. M.S. rives foeuer, did dare intollerable things. The prin-Mas.Parit. cipall Lords of this mifrule, were William Earle of Aumarl, Falcasus de Brent with his Garrison Souldiers, Robert de Veipont, with others, who having had the Castles and possessions of certaine Bishops and Great men, either to keepe in truft, or otherwise by iniquity of the times converted violentlie to their vies; did ftill with-hold the fame, both against the minds of their lawfull owners, and the Kings expresse Prohibition. Among others, Robert de Ganei defended the Castle of Newarke (being the Fee of the Bishoppe of Lincolne, as was also the town it felf) against the Kings Armie, conducted by the * Great

«Marshall Earle of * Pembroke*, for eight dayes, and did not first yoeld the place, before (by mediation of * So ancient Writers call him friends) the Bishoppe paid to Gaugi one hundreth pounds. There was in that great Earle, a perpetuall care to conclude things without bloud-shedde, wherein shined his Christian piety and morall wifdome, there being no other so safe way to settle disordered humors. The greater was his losse both to the King and State by his death * soone after en-An. 1219. fuing, whose * monument yet remaining, doth not so much eternize his memory, as that well-deserved * In the Temple -Church in Lan-* Epitaph, the Epitome of his noble vertues;

a Paris ad an. a raman an. 1114. Sith. Gernafini de Melheley thade thele verses.

Sum quem Saturnum sibi sensit Hybernia, Solem Anglia, Mercurium Normannia, Gallia Martem

Irelands Saturn, Englands Sunne am I, The Mars of France, and Normans Mercurie.

He left behind him fiue Sonnes, all Earles of Pembroke successively, and dying without iffue, his five Daughters advanced by great marriages, brought as great advantage to their husbands iffue, by the inheritances of their issuelesse brethren. (11) The King (gouerned after Marshals death.

by Peter Bilhoppe of winchester, and such * other, whom the Bishoppe had procured to ioyne in ad-ministration of publik affairs) seeming now to haue a fetled and calme estate, resolues (for good hopes fake) to bee crowned againe; which was performed by Stephen Archbishoppe of Canterbury at west-minster with the attendance and confluence of all the Prelates, Peeres, and People. Vpon the Saturday before his Coronation, the * new worke of the Abbey Church at Westminster, (Paris calles it the Chappell of our Lady,) was begunne, whereof the King himfelfe in perion laid the first stone, as if hee

ment the world should know, his intention was to confecrate his future actions to raise the glory of

King Henry crowned again

Mat, Paris,

Christmas with great royalty at Oxford, in the company of the Prelates and Peeres of England, William de Fortibus, Earle of Aumarl; incited by Falcasius de Brent, and the like riotous Gentlemen, fodainely departed fro the Court without leave, & (whither it were vpon discontentment, because the King it were vpon discontentment, because the King | "wend Ms, had against the Earles will the last yeere taken some | Pandon Ms, Castles into his hands, or out of an cuill ignorance how to liue in quiet) he mannes the Callle of Biham. victuals it with the Corne of the Chanons of Bridlington, spoiles the Towne of Deeping, and under thew of repayring to the Patliament, feifeth on the Castle of Fotheringhay, committing many other fu-rious riots in contempt of the King, and breach of his peace; many * others in other places following his lewd example. Yet at length the Earle comming in under the conduct of Walter Archbishop of Torke, was at the fuite of Pandulph (who fucceeded wallo in the place of Legate) pardoned; and the like hurtfull clemency was extended toward his Complices and Retinue, whom the King(in regard belike of fome former better deferts) fet free without punishment or ransome. And to preuent any further disturbances of that nature, Hubert de Burgh Earle of Kent, for his rare integrity and fidelity(approued in all King Johns troubles) was also made gouernour of the Kings Perlon, and Chiefe Iufitiar of England, with the generall allowance of all the States. What need the land then had of a senere proceeding, wee may judge by this, that Foulk de Brent Mat Well. held the Earledomes of Northampton, Oxford, Bedford, and Buckingham, with the Castles and Holds; Philip de Marc, the Castles of Peke and Nottingham, Nottinghamsbire and Darbsbire; and others detained other portions, without any other right, then nesse of this time, that certaine * Lords of Wales, and (as * some say) Prince Lewelin himselfe, desirous to " Met. Paris. ridde their Marches of the English, role in Armes,& laide fiege to the Castle of Buelt, which inuited king Henry to draw thither with an Armie; but the worke was made ealie by the voluntary departure of the Wellb supon the fame of the Kings approch : which appearances of some ensuing stirres, moued the king to thinke of strengthning himselfe with faithfull alliances; and not long after, Alexander King of Scots came to Yorke, (who in the yeere* before had met King Henry at the fame place) and there tooke Mar, Parabil, to wife the Lady Ioan King Henries fifter; and Hubert de Burgh, in presence of both the Kings married the Lady * Margaret sister to Alexander; Boetius faith, that two great Lords of England married two fifters of King Alexander at that place. About which time, * Ifabel Queen Dowager of Englad, without the leave of her sonne the King, or of his Councell, crost the seas, and tooke to husband the Earle of March in France. The young King supposing his estate at home now somewhat settled, and his eyes beginning to grow cleare-fighted by the benefite of experience, forgets not to looke about his affaires abroad: and first sends * Sauarie de Malleon taires abroad; and mri tenus " ommers at an aucon" popul Pre l' to bec his Lieurenant in Aquitaine, where yet the tagliff held the greater part, and dispatcheth Am-balladors to Philip King of France, for refitution according to the Articles with Lewis; whereunto Manl'ar place answere was made that nothing ought to bee restored which by right of warre had beene atchieued; concerning the County of Poicton. (13) The State both of Church and Commonwealth in those troubled daies, seeme to haue much refemblance; cuery man daring to attempt in either, what his own audaciousnes would suggest, or others conniuency permit. But Stephen Archbishop of Canterbury (who himselfe was lately the ring-leader of disorders both in State and Church) is now beccome very diligent in his Prouinciall Synode at Ov(bap.9.

Mat. Paris.

Book.9

Articles ofper

mie, whereupon this discomfiture was called Lewis Fair : Neither did the clergy of the place escape, for the Popes Legate had commaunded that they also should be rifled to a penny, as persons excommunicated in partaking with Lewis. The Chase was but coldly & fainedly followed vpon the flying Barons, otherwise not a man could have escaped; wherein vet the chiefest Barons were taken, with about * 400. Knights, belides Efquiers, and of other forts without note or number, though a fome lay that this number of Knights were flaine, & matrons and women of the towne flying by boate, which they had no skill to gouerne, were drowned. Such as escaped the fight were not therefore past the danger; for the Country people fell vpon them as they fledde, killing great numbers, so that almost all the footmen tooke vp their last lodgings before they could reach to London, where Lewis was. The Marshal of France, the Chastellan of Arras, and about two hundreth Knights came fafely thither, but were not otherwife then fowerly welcome of the Prince, who laid vpon their cowardife the loffe of all the reft. His feare of being taken Prifoner inftly encreasing, hee fortifies London by the best meanes hee can, and dispatcheth Posts into France for more reliefe. This great victory was much the stranger, if (as * some write the same

na# Per hift

God. This calme but new beginning, was almost as speedily distempered and disturbed by sodaine stormes; by reason that, while the King kept his Ann. 122 that which the iniquity of the late tumults gaue.

(12) It was no small addition to the troublesombut (asit feemes) there was a Truce for * fowte veeres agreed vpon betweene the two Monarches, . rpod News.

512	Henry 3. THE SVCC	E	2001.9
An. 1222.	ford, *about reformation of the Clergie; where also	1	deposed the Magistrates, though some write that the
The Walf in Tood Newft,	was convented before him an execrable Impostor,	1
Canul Celle:	who feeing how current all groffest delusions pas-	1	King found, that onely the * baser fort were interes-
Man.l.7.4.34.	fed in those dayes of blindnesse, was emboldned to	1
-	lutter himielte to be wounded in his hands, feete, and	1
Mat.Park	* fide,(an horrour to thinke) that by the retemblance	1	Engujo Empire, and pluckt vp by the rootes the ma-
Pfeudo-Christ	of those bloudy impressions, he might perswade the	1
lifcovered and	people (apt to beleeue any thing) that hee was their	1	(15) This dangerous beginning might haue had nmared.	verie Saujour: whose deserted punishment was by immuring betweene two walles, as a monfter too im-	1
Ish-Stowes	pious and vnworthie to die by anie humaine hand.	-
pod.Neuft.	There was immured with him a curfed ould Beaft,	1
Death by immu-	who preteded to be Mary the mother of this Christ,	1
ation.	and well might bee, if their manners bee compared;	1
dutiquit, Brit,	* fome adde a third also, who named herselfe Mary	1 unit.Steph.	Magdalen. The punishment by Crucifixion which
24. Para.vit.	* fome thinke was executed vpon the man at Arbor	4
rchiep,Cant,in	bery, is neither to credible nor tollerable, as in which	1	Which they demained ought not to bee observed beaute
teph.	Christianity it selfe might seem to sustaine reproach	.1
Euf-biss in vita inflan,	it being also against the * ancient law of Constantine injtan. Kanul, Ceft.	the first famous Christian Emperour, that any should from thence forth die by crucifixion; but it may be	1 that it was first so judged (which might cause the	1	Mil of vs have sworne to those Liberties, and that relators errour ,) though afterward vpon founder		which wee have fworne, all of vs are bound to observe.
	deliberation changed into a more fitting centure.	1
	But strange it is, that this man deseruing (as hee did)	1	heedurft doe no other,) and Writs were fent foorth, fo feuere a judgement at Oxford, Saint Francis, whole	1	to enquire vpon Oathes, what Liberties or free cu-
	fiction and imposture was the very same (for the	1
Mat.Paris.in	*wounds, though not for the name, of Christ) " fo foor	1
lent.	after deserved for it to be canonized at Rome, for a
An, 1217 apud LatiParis	Chiefe of Saints; and perhaps if this Monster had	1	all those grieuous contentions, which had so long en a arm,	been at Rome, hee had beene likewife Sainted, or if	1	encombred the Kingdome. The like hope was Saint Francis had been at Oxford, he had been like-	1	conceined of better (incoeffee short of wile immured.	1	conceined of better fucceffes then before, in formain
	(14) In the State of the Common-wealth incredible	1	affaires, vpon newes of the death of King Philip of France, the euer-deadly (and now-dead) Enemy of France dieth.
he tresfonable	darings(though of inferiour quality to that former)	1	Englands welfare; which moued the King to fend prore of C. witan-	were not wanting, against the maiesty of the Kings	1	the Archbiftonne of Control and a line to fend
ne Fitz Armif.	as appeared by Constantine Fitz-Arnalf, a Citizen of	1	floors to Lewis now crowned Vine - Co London: who vpon colour of a popular tumult, by him purposely cherished, (which rose at pastimes		Lands on that fide of the (so as he for the demands his of wrestling, and like masteries betweene the Citizens of London, and others of the Suburbes,) attemp-	1	Gwere was a Then he hall do Co. Co.
	ted to fet vp a Lewis againe, and in the heat of the fe-		as been as good as Come with the polyer sons by a suft title, dition, he traiteroully cried, * Mount-loy, Mount-	1	as hee was ready to flow King Henry, if he would come to his Court to make his demands.
arif. bift.	loy, God for vs and our Lord Lewis. Though the		to his Court to make his demands 2. that the King of Lewis presents
	*Lord Maior, a discreet man, earnestly perswaded Robert Serle	dutifull behauiours, yet Conflantine had made the en L.Maior.	people incapable of good Council with his Galia		ties of England, for which the warre was first moned go people incapable of good Counfell with his fedici-		had been granted at his departure, and fince confirmed by oath, were not only not observed, but the old wicked ones reduced, and approval.
,	ous Proclamations, which hee there caused to bee		of vain, were not onely not observed, but the old wicked his was done	* published. The secret of this conspiracy was * re-
Aug.	ucaled by another Citizen, and without question
abian. ly one Walt.	was farther fpred then the compaffe of one City, c-kerel.	uen as farre as into the hearts of all fuch turbulent people, to whom warre was beneficiall, and Quiet		(16) The king wall managing to the second too de 1717-a	banefull. The chiefe Iufliciar hearing of thele mat-	ı	should be either to recouer those his Trausmarine An. 1224.
Rog.de VV end. S.	ters, with forces affembled, entred the Tower, whither hee commaunded the principall men of the		eftareat home, if fuch, as by the vnrulynes of former the King to re-
	City to come, who easily put off the blame from		times having gotten possession of Crowne-lands court his king to re-themselves vpon Fitz-Arnulf. But hee as resolute		might fill with-hold them, refolued to refume them;
1	in his answere, as desperate in the sedition, complained of him felfe in the hearing of all, that he had done lesse therein then hee ought; yet fifteene thousand Markes sterling hee offered for his life, when hee
Cryce banged	Markes sterling hee offered for his life, when hee
ł	law the halter about his necke, (for with his Cryer,		mony, though it were no leffe needfull then lawfull and his Nephew the next day hee was hanged,) but
- 1	no price could redeeme him out of the hand of Iu-		fuch as wanted no will to toffe the whole Kingdom, tat.Perk.	frice. It is faid, that he so considently answered, vp-		rather then forgoe their holdings,)they wifely vied
- 1	on trust of the Articles and Oath between the King		all the firengthes which Religion or humane policy
1	and Lewis, that the partakers of Lewis should not be
1	troubled; and that, vpon this occasion, Levis de-	- 1	Briefe from the Pope, by which both the King was declared to bee at libertie to choose his owne
	nied restitution of such things, as the Articles did		was declared to bee at libertion both the King Aut Pan, bil.
	mention, pretending that Henry had herein broken	- 1	Councell and governe by him CIC
	first his faith, and thereby made the whole con-	- 1
	traffruftrate Execution thus done with the mail
1	tract frustrate. Execution thus done without noise, or the Londoners privity, the Infliciar accompanied with Falcafius and his armed troupes, enters London,	- 1 and me and me and troupes, enters London.
lands and Care	apprehends fuch others as ands and feet	apprehends such others as were culpable, and for	- 1	the interessed into a will to raise Armes; meeting
ands and feer offenders out	apprehends such others as were culpable, and for a terrour to the rest, causeth their * hands or see to be cut off, and then set them at liberty. The King		the intereffed into a will to raile Armes; meeting for that purpose at Leisesfer, where the Cestraing Earle and his * Confederates cogssist, how they (vn. Falissian de Frent and mirror).

513 der the specious pretext of remouing the Earle of Kent, as one whose predominating greatnes, and possessions seized by the King, he procures Alexander Bishoppe of Countree to lase conduct him to euill offices against them, were not to be by them endured) might deteine the Castle and other pos-Bedford, where hee throwes himfelfe at the Kinges feet, imploring mercy for his former good feruices. fessions demanded. But upon notice, that (if forth Hee was, after pardon of life hardly gotten, tent into perpetuall *banishment; at which time he with He died afterwith they did not render backe what they vniustly to perpetual shanilhment; at which time he with the facile of persons, who had in which are to the hard of persons and the persons and the persons are the same persons and the persons are the persons and the persons are the persons and the persons are t held) they should by name bee presently excommunicated; and that the King (now at Northampton) had with him not onely an honefter cause, * but a feared then all their flathes of Excommunication) they following a*wifer course, repaired forthwith to the King, rendring vppe into his handes all that belonged to the Crowne; but did not lay him, that hee commaunded all * Strangers to dedowne their difpleafure for that, on their perition part the Realme within a time there limited vnde the King would not put from him his chiefe Justin great penalty.
(19) The interrupted Counsels of Parliament, and the object of their Enuie. (17) Meane while Lewis King of Prance not conpurpoles of the King for recourie of his Poictoum tented to deny the demaunded reflitution vpon his inheritances, were now againe refumed; yet the King innerrances, were now againe returned; yet the King could not there (but vpon condition * that he should graunt their Liberites, the string which was ener har-ped on,) obtaine a fifteenth, nor the good will of alleaged pretexts, inuades fuch other parts as * King Henry peaceably held in Postou and Xunctions; the best colour and reason given for it, * is, That whereas Aquitain (whereof X ainttomy and Poicton were part) the States to furnish him in his French hostilities: was holden of the Crown of France by homage, the King of Thus the king, adrawne with defire of money (wherwas tolden of the Crum of France by boning, the King of England, being so blonder by fibeling in me ther well of the first many the first man of his want was very vrgent) grants thole his Cher-ters vnder his Seale, and was so further wrought on, that oathes were by royall commandement) taken, to tie all men to the observation of the said Graunts, according to the very letter, if that bee the meaning of * literatorium juramentum, and not forn-thing elle. Vpon the firength of this money (whole Mar. Patiente Henry in Aquitaine: vpon which ouerthrow the loffe of those foresaid Townes with the whole Countrey thing elfe. V ponthe thrength of this muney whole AD. 1878 John Adayly expens, like vitall nouriflument, keepes in retalerancing legrest actions aluse.) Richard Earle of Commad the Kings brother, William Lengy Earle of Saldivise, and about ehreefcore Knights with competent for sewer fent into Geigeju in the Springs where they fiftely arrived at Bandesses, and were honourably entererained. This interly arrival had good effect, on the continued the well-the whole followed the sewer for its confirmed the well-the whole followed the sewer for the confirmed the well-the whole followed the sewer for the of Poitton (as a one faith) enfired. Withall, the king of Pactions as wone ratery entered. Without, the king loft the ferruice of the faid Sanarie, a valiant commander, who for forme indignity offered watch him by william Longife Earle of Salisbury, (* fent ouer by King Henry, vpon some distaste of Sanaries do-Pol.Verg.H.l. 16. ings, with commission to oueruiew his courses,) so-dainely turned French, among whom hee had great credit and preferment. King Henry ill brooking fo great a defalcation of his forraine estates, determited by the French. Hugh Earle of the Marches of Polyd, Virg. 1, 16 ned to have recourse to the generall aide of his pro-Poicton, comming by the French Kings direction to compaign, and remove Earle Richard and the English from the flege anish be both. ned to hane recourie to the general laide of his peo-ple, for meanes to recouer his loffes, but while (for that purpole) hee held a « Parliament, the whole affembly was fodamely troubled with inft com-plaints of an unfufferable ourage.

(18) For Hanry de Braitracke, a Inflice Inneremote Earle Richard and the English from the lietge on it is being to the Rinks, was with all his Forces intercepted by an Antholycada, and discom faced with no finall loffe offmen, munition and carriages. All fides were in the end * contented to paule without parliance; Fred, and the English held Ansitizate deligite their Porce or practities. But William Languye the Kings vincle farmined not long his good ferroise in tholy parties who returning (yrom balines of Sale College Colle (18) FOR NEWLY as ENTARTHERS, A LUJIES TIME-rant, who with other held the Affifers to Dunftaple, was fodainely furprifed (and imprifoned vider fitrong Garrifon in Bedford Castle) by the com-mandement of Falasius, entraged, for that thirty wermandement of Facajus, entraged, for that thirty ver-dicts had there paffed against him, vpon trials of ti-tle for lands which hee had forceably entred. The Iudges wife with her teares so moued the whole with fo great humility and pietie, that at point of death hee would not receive the holy Eucharift in his Polyd.Perg.lib.16 Bed (which denotion is also reported of King Hen-Parliament to indignation and pitty, that all other ry the eight) but vpon his bare knees on the ground businesses set a part, the Clergy aswell as the Laity which hee moistned with abundance of penitent teares, Vpon which great Earle this Epitaph was forthwith attended the King to the fiege. Faleafine himselfe flying into Wales, thereto contribus a greater body of rebellion, did leave his brother, Lieutenant in the Caffle with a desperance rew, having vic-Plos Comitum Vilielmus obit, stirps regia; * Longus Enlis, vaginam capit haberebreuem. tuals and munition for an whole yeeres reliftance. Yetafter two Moneths fiege the Castle being taken, the Iudge was enlarged, the Lieutenant and his whole retinue hanged, the pile it selfe (as a denne of theeues) demolished; and an example given what o-Royal-born William, Flower of Earles lies here; A fleath thus fhort, doth Long-Sword ferue to bear thers should trust vnto, who did not in due time fubmit themselves to their Soueraigne. This * Fal-castus was a Norman by birth and a bastard, who (20) About these times the Pope(say his Monks) fent abroad into the world his Nunces, requiring enerie where undue exactions, with purpose to settle a cer-tainty of contribution to his See of Rome, out of all comming ouer in poore fort vnder King lohn, so b:-haued himselfe in the Kings seruices, that in renauen nimente in the Kings terutices, that in re-gard of his al-daring forwardnesse, Bedford was gi-uen him to desend against the Barons; where by rapine and violence hee had drawne rogether the shew of a great forpune, besides that which he had the Cathedrall and conventual! Churches in Chrithe Catheural and contention. Contents of the Adheric from that See, that entite frankall of America and Briberie, which otherwise their pensory must fill enforce them to vole. Neuerthelesse, aiweil the Messenger, as in marriage with Margaret de Ripariu a great inhe-ritrix, whom King John, to her no leffe discontentthe Message found but slender welcome here. For ment, then disparagement had bestowed upon him. But now when this Castle, beyond his imagination was thus beaten to the earth, and all other his burn) the Popes Agent Otto, received letters from Rome commaunding him prefently to returne: ot-

Chap. 9. Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46.

Polyd. Pergil.

i.10. Mat.Patis.

to, in rage of this vnexpected renocation, like a brane Romane threw the Popes letters into the fire, vet durst not disobey the Contents. And whereas the meffage it felfe had beene scanned and sifted to the very branne, both here and in " France, and indged to sauour of so universall an oppression, as might cause a generall discession from the Church of Rome; the King in presence of his Prelates and Peeres, turned off The King puts off the popes demaunds, Mat.Paru. the Popes couctous demaund with this thrifty anfwere: The things which the Pope would perswade us onto, doe stretch themselves as farre as the Christian world is wide, and because England is but an Out-Angle thereof, therefore when we fee other Kingdomes give vs an example, hee shall then finde vs the more forward to

(21) That difficultie so avoided; the King was carnelly bent to make a voyage in person to the aide of his brother Earle Richard, who pursued the affaires of Gafeoigne; which though by the late Earle of Sarisburies death it received some maime yet by the fortitude and counfell of other noble persons, it did still prosper. This intention and delire was staide by the receit of letters out of France which declared the Earle his brothers health, and the good fuccesse of affaires. The King (some say) among his Counfellors of State, had one William de Perepound a great Aftrologer, who fortold that Lewis King of France should not preuaile; and this affirmation did the rather withhold him at that present There is who* writes, that King Henry (vpon the Popes letters) forbare to attempt any thing in France at that time, left he should hinder Lews, who was then upon an enterprise against the remaines of the Albigenfes in Languedoc, Province, and the parts a-What kind of Heretikes the Albigenies of Waldenies were. bout. These men were traduced for Heretikes, and fo condemned by the See of Rome; but what their Herefie was,a * Fryer (who writes against them.) reports, faying, they were of all other the most pernicious Sect; for antiquity, some holding they were from the Apostles time; for generality, there scarse being any Nation where they are not; and lastly, for shew of prety, in that they line insthey before men, and beleeue all things *The Mafter he-rafie of the Albi touching God aright, or all the articles of the Creed, only they blaspheme and hate the Church of Rome. No maruail if this horrible herefie did trouble his Holinese; and therefore, whereas his Predeceffor, and himfelfe had kept much adoe in Christendome, to excite men to take the Signe of the Croffe, and warre against the Turke; (which the Fryers did perswade men vnto, teaching, that * who seuer were polluted with any hai-*April Aventinous offence, as Parricide, Incest, Sacrilege, hee was prefently acquited both from the finne, and the punishment of it . if hee thus tooke the Croffe voon him. \now. because the Earle of Tholous, and his people entertained the forefaid Herefie, the Croffe, and bolie warres The holy warres were by the Pope denounced against them. Of denounced 2-gainst Christian Princes, * Math. Peris. which Earle yet let vs heare the judgement of another * Fryer then living. Those (laith hee) who thus tooke the warres and Crosse against him, did it more for feare of the French King, and the Popes Legate, then for zealeof Justice; it seeming to many a wrong thus to infest a faithfull Christian man, and one who with many teares defired the Legate to examine the faith of euerse one of his Cities, and if any one held against the Catho-like faith, hee would punish him, according to the iudgement of the Church and if any City Should refelt him, hee would enforce it to make satisfaction. As for himselfe. hee offered to bee examined by the Legate touching his faith, andif hee were faulty, hee would make fatisfaction to God and the Church. But all thefe things the Le-gate (corned, nor could that Catholike Earle find anie fauour, vollesse hee would for sake his Inheritance, and abiure it both for himselse, and his heires sor euer. These were the Herctikes against which Lewis was now imployed by the Pope, and King Henry the while *commanded to furcease from impeaching his holy enterprize. Wherein Lewis had spent a moneth in the fiege of Aumion and endured (for all his facred Crossings) maruailous losses, by a terrible plague de-denouring his Army, by a strange kind of venemous The Popes ero flies, dispatching many, by a sodaine drowning of sings attended a great part of his Armie; and lastly, by being him with the bleffeife * poyloned by * one of his Earles(an vnchaft fings. Riuall of his Bedde) though it was given forth of The Earle of him(as * of his late Enemy King John, whom some thinke that Lewis his friends did make away) that hee ninke that Levis his friends did make away)that hee legite, were publiquely character (22) The newes of the French Kings death feath Levis his aied onely of a Flux.

conded with fure relations of fundry discontentments, and open factions under the young King (who was but * about twelue yeeres of age) bred an hope in King Henries mind, that now the time was come, wherein hee might recourr those ancient Roger Wand. inheritances which his Forefathers held in France: Math Park. and to advance his hopes, he had his mother Queene "Titima.

If abel (wife to the Earle of March in those parts,) "Melling shirts.

Membrase shirts. an earnest follicitor. Peter Duke of Britaine was the Para, tearce 10. principall man who tooke offence that himfelfe had Lifethers for not a chiefe hand in directing the young King Lewis ; but his prudent mother Queene Blanch * weakned his party by drawing his brother Robert Earle of Dreux from him; and albeit the Duke had re- m Lud 80. paired the breach, by affinitie with the Earle of Champain, (one of the twelue Peeres of that Realme, to whom the Duke marrieth the Ladie Blanda his daughter and heire,) yet watthe Earle driven by a short warre to continue quiet. The Duke hereup-on castes himselfe vpon King Henrie; Sed sera auxilia Anglica, the English sides come flow lie faith Eny-King to fend walter Archbishoppe of Torke, with others, to the chiefe men of Normandie, Angiou and Paicton, that by large promifes they might procure them to acknowledge Henrie for their King or by partakings, facilitate their reduction to the English Sourreigntie; who accordinglie profecuted their emploiment.

(23) These opportunities for that designe, mo-ued the King to bethinke how to gather money, to furnish so chargefull an enterprize; whereby while The King begets he fought to prouide to recouer that which was loft, he ministreth occasion to hazard that which he had. The onely great man in Court now was Hubert de Burgh: For the King protesting himselfe of age to gouerne without a Tutor or Protector, did principally conferre with him about all his most weightie affaires. Hence grew more enuy against Hubert, and perill to the King. From * the Londoners (besides the granted aides of a fifteenth, which all degrees Ms. Paris. were subject vnto) he wrung fine thousand Markes, were (tiblect vnto) he wrung nue troutant read to for that they had (as was alleaged) to his prejudice, span had this given Lewis the like fumme. In the Parliament at Oxidate have been supported by the like fumme for the ford, by aduice of Hubert his Lord Chiefe Inflice, he reuokes the Charters of Liberties , which now for about two yeeres had been practiled through the Realme:

The Charters two yeeres had been practiled through the King was of likeries reprecending, that at the time of their Grant the King was of likeries reunder use and had then no liberty either of his perfon or week and called Signature; though otherwise, the royall power of the English Monarchie neuer pleads pupillage or minoritie. It served the turne for the time, and all men were faine to pay, what Huberts * pleasure was to asfesse, for obtaining the new Seale. The fortune of fuch Arts, whereby they were wont to fill Princes Treasuries, was not alwaies without repentance to the Authors, and Authorifers. The Clergie was compelled (vnder paine of Papall Censures) to pay the Fifteenth, not only for their temporall goods, but also for their Ecclesiasticall; and yet in the end, (after so much toffing of the People,)the Kings Ambaffa-dors returne out of France, without having effected that which they went about, fo that the whole enterprize quailed. For Queene Blanch by fweet and prudent courses, so preuailed among the factious, hat there was left no place for Henrie to take sure hold vpon. The Duke of Britain (who expected the English fuccours not till the Spring,) was fo ncerely preft, and almost opprest, with a winter war, that he thought himselfe beholding to his bro-

Campaigne, and the Poper

Otterbrente de d

enemies at home by railing

*Rog.de Wend,

ther Robert Earle of Dreux, for procuring his peace though it were with such a condition, as euer after, left vpon him, the by-name of Mauclerk or Male-Met.Paris.ed doctus. He acknowledged the Dutchie of Britain, to be An. 1234.
Scriptorts Brit, apad Paul. Acmil, in Ludon 9. the Fee of the Crowne of France, and that by right it ought to hold thereof; this acknowledgment, because against all apparant truth and Record, procured to him that By-name. Such conclusion at this present had King Henries French delignes. Our * auncient *Reg.dt VV end. Authors write, that this dishonourable homage Mat:Paris, at was done long after, and with an halter about his necke, at such time as the King of England refused to goe in person to his succours, but offered source

Chap. 9. Henry 2. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46.

Earles, and other competent Forces, which hee refused, as harbouring a revolt in his bosome, and tur-(24) The enill will which the other great Lords fecretly harboured against Hubert, (whose Enuy the

Kings fauour in * creating him Earle of Kent had Rings randor m - creating interaction was naturally accorded, now openly discoured it felle, vpon this occasion. Richard Earle of Cormula, the Kings brother, (lately returned with honor out of Galeograe...) had feized into his hands a certaine Manour, then in the tenure of one Waleran a Dutch-Gentleman, (to whom King John, for his good fer-uices had formerly giuen it,) which hee alleaged was parcell of his Earledome of Cormwall. The King hereupon directs his letters to his brother, commanding him to come immediately, and shew a reason of his fact. He doth fo, and without any pleaders helpe defended, as just, the feifure which he had made, concluding,among other words, that hee was ready to stand to the indgement of the Kings Court, and Peeres of the Realm. When the King, and the Chiefe Institut heard him name the Peeres of the Realme, they (fu-(pecting his bent that way) were exceedingly offended; and (faid the King) eyther restore the Manour to Waleran, or thou shalt depart out of the Kingdome, neuer to returne: at which peremptory sentence, the Earle boldly (but too rashly) answered; that heeneither would give his right to Waleran, nor without the indgement of the Peeres depart the Realme. The *Earle in this heate returnes to his lodging; thence (vpon furmife that Hubert had perswaded the King to lay hold on him) he posts to Marlebourgh, where sind in William Marshal the young Earle of Pembroke, hee enters into a sast confederacy, ratified by oath; and Rasulf Earle of Chefter is easily drawn to make

The Barons to

*Weed.MS. Mat.Park.

of Kent before another, Letters thence flying about to all their friends, at Stanford there affembled vnto them, the Earles of Gloucester, of Warrenn, of Hereford, of Warwicke, Earle Ferrars, many Barons, and an huge multitude of armed men. Their strengthes being in likelyhood able to beare out their darings, they ad dreffe a bold meffage to the King, by which they require him in lofty Phrase, to make preset amends to his quire him in lotty Private for make projection and to the for the wrong bee had done; the fault whereof they imputed not to him, but to the chiefe Iustitiar: and that if he did not without delay restore the Charters of Liberties, which hee had cancelled at Oxford, they would drive him by dint of fword to give them therein competent atisfaction. The King seeing it no fase time to deny their requests, appoints to meet at Northampton in August next; where the Earle of Cormpall(vpon his Affociates resolute demaund of the King) had large amends of any iniury furtai-ned, his Patrimony being augmented with large accessions. The moderation and equanimity of the accettions. 1 ne moueration and equalitarity of the King (terrified by his Fathers example) peaceably finished this contention (the matter of the Charters being for the time hush, as seemeth) which might otherwise haue cost many thousand lines, and haue hazarded the ruine both of King and kingdome. (25) That daunger was not a little augmented The Welfh in by the infurrections of the Welfb. The King had given the Castle of Mountgomery to his most trusty Counsellor Hubert de Burgh; the Garrison of which place, iffuing out, meant to stocke vp the Trees, and shrubbes, which grew necre vpon an high-way leading through a great wood of fine leagues long; that transiters (ordinarily there spoiled) might passe, more fafely. The welf not suffering that waste; violently affayled the Workemen, and not without flaughter on both fides, draue them into the Caftle; which drew the King (who even in litle matters vied to make one) to come thither in person . who, with a competent strength, giues not ouer, till hee had with fire, and other force, confumed the whole Forrest. From whence hee peirceth farther into Wales, and confumes with fire a place called * Cridia; where whiles the King is building a Math Paris, Caffle to bridle them, * Levelin drew thicher critish his forces, where many were flaine on both fides, Powel in Hist. and a man of speciall worth William de * Brausia (or de Brufe) by the Welfb intercepted, as he went to "Hip. cambre forrage in the Country; * many great persons there in the Kings Armie being secretly confederated with Lewelin. By which trecherous practife, victualles grew fo fcarce, that the king was compelled to yeeld to a very dishonourable peace, the conditions wher-of were: that the King should raze to the ground the new Fort now almost finished; that William de Bruce should stillremaine Prisoner till the Welst thought good; that Lewelin should give the King toward his expenses three thoufand Markes.

(26) These home-bredde garboyles thus appea-sed; whereas Ambassadors had formerly repayred to the king out of Gascoigne, Poicton, and Norman-die, to offer him their services for recovery of those his inheritances, if himfelf would com in person with a royall Armie, hee about Michaelman's now read at 48.1235.

dy at Portfrouth for the exploit; whither all his Nobles were come with so great a multitude, not onely out of England, but out of Ireland, Wales and Galloway, as none of his ancestors ever had. Many were the motiues which encouraged the king to this attempt, but none greater then the business of Queen Downser his mother. Lewis king of France had created his brothet. Alfonse Duke of Poilton, commaunding the Lords of that Country to doe their homages to him; one of these was Hugh Earle of March, now husband to Queene Ifabel, who because thee had once beene the Wife of a King, and now the Mother, disdained that even her present husband, though but an Earle, should doe homage to a Subject, and thereby her felfe (bearing the file to a Superer, and thereby her lette (bearing the time of a Queene) feeme inferiour to the Lady loss, wife of Duke Alfins. The Earle was hereupon drawne to a refulail of homage; and the like spirit shee had breathed into the hearts of the princely family of Lufinian, whose Ancestors had been Kings of lerusalem and Cyprus. Northus contented to haue plotted a party, for her Sonne among the French the is charged to haue fought by poyfon to make that purpose were discouered, and executed. But Oneene 1/abet and arture same time great Lituitons among the The moble for French Nobility, but the English (laith English warns among himfelfe) wrought not by treachery, but after the manner of faire warre, which they lift by defiance get. denounced, and then did openly profecute with (27) The King of England being thus provided of men, munition, and other necessaries fitt for the field, and now ready to embarke; there was not shipping sufficient to transport halfe the Company. Barle Haber Which enraged the King io farre, that turning himfeife to Earle Hubert, (vpon whom hee charged the blame, he called him ranke old Traitor, affirming, indgement, as also in thinking her the Author of suborning Assaines to murther the King; for that wee find him fingular therein, the * received opi-

Nnnn

Sarazens out of Afia, to take away the daunger which they forefaw was comming, in regard King

Lewis was fo devoutly addicted to Christian piety, and the hatred of Mahomets Infidelity. There were +Ropertend.Se Cambr.

* This William hanged by Lem-elin for lying with his wife, as is reported in Mar. Paris.

Alex. Perm.

ad. As., 1230.

though elicowhere he fath it was by reason of Hubert de Barght
letters to Lewelin. 2dat. Paris.

Queene Ifabel practiles for he

* Wish Guilles nion being, that they were fent under-hand by the chr. Fran.

also at the same time great Diuisions among the The moble for

* Math.Paris.

Chap.9. | Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46. and also put him from his place, into which (by the Bishoppe of Winchesters suggestion, who now predominated in Court) hee substituted Peter de Oriuail a * Poictouine, the Bishoppes * Nephew or Sonne, if Paris fay true; and fo, laith hee, the Kings coffers otherwise empty and leane, were by these means suffer againe, though not to their full surfet. For their were but preparatives to a farther scrutinic and ran-sacke, intended against the Earle of Kent, whom (vpon the * Bishoppes suggestion) the King remoued on the 'Bimoppes toggettion, the Kim Termouse.

Trom the 'Bran-lughtiar/lippe (or high office of his Chiefe triffice) and put in his place Six Stephen Sergesea Kinight onely in name. Then is a first and captious account demanded of the Earle of Kent, for all finch things as he wait any fort chargeable with as, I. For lich receipts or debts, as were due. The principall to King Iohn, or to this King Henry himselfe: 2. For the meane profites of fuch lands, as the King was feifed of, from the day of the death of the first great William, Earle of Pembroke, his Institutar and Mar-shall, whither those lands were in England, Wales, Ireland, or Poicton: 3. For fuch Liberties or free Customes which the King had in Forrests, Warrens, Counties and else where, and how they were kept or alienated. 4. For such things as the King lost by Huberts negligence: 5. For the wronges and dammages offered to the Roman, and Italian Clerks, and to the Popes Nuncios against the Kings will by authority of Hubert, who would take no order to correct the mildoers, as by vertue and na-ture of his place hee was obliged: 6. For the many escuages comming by Carrucages, gifts and pre-fents, or for the rents of Custodies belonging to the (32) To all which heades, the Earle answered. The Earle of that hee had the Charter of the Kings Father, by which hee was freed from giuing any account eywhich nee was treed from guing any account ey-ther for things passed, or to come, and that hee had given such proofe of his fidelity unto King Inhm, as he would not endure to leare him make an account. Peter Bishoppe of Winchester replyed hereunto, that such a Charter after the death of King Iohn had no force, Jack a Charter after the actump a two journs an object and therefore the Fathers Charter, and grants of Privilege., was no reason why he should not stand accountant to the Somme. This defence for money dangers in this for transered or anoughed, they labored to draw him in for his head, by charging him with fundry Arricles or ca Articles founding treasonable; as, t. That Hubert had dissiwated the Duke of Austria from matching his Daughter with the King who fought it; 2.that he had hindred the King from entring vpon fortain lands to him belonging, whereby the King, Peeres, and People confused their Treafures vainely: 3. that hee had enticed the Daughter of the King of seast (whom King Isbin and entruffed to his cu-flody, meaning himfelfe to marry her) & traiterou-fly defiled the noble yong Lady, whom he married in hope to bee King of Sestland in her right, if thee furnised her Brother: 4. that hee had flohic out of his lewel-house a precious stone of wonderfull value, whose vertue was to make him who had it, inuincible in Battle,& that he gaue that stone to Lewelin prince of Wales, the Kings enemie: 5. that he by his letters had caused Lewelin to hang William de (33) The Earle much perplexed with these ac-culations (whither true or false) could hardly obtaine a short respite to make his answere: Thus; that taine a fhort respite to make his answere: Thuir, that Hubert ([13]* the Monkey) hope for lawe, of the King Hubert ([13]* the Monkey) hope for lawe, of the King and defence of the King dame, had prouched the harred of all the great Lords, now being for fact on it is King, it of the folds and bitters—y without privades a compart. One by Luke Archbishoppe of Dubin, neuer to look thing, on with prayers and tearse belough the King, on his behalf, but could not be cheard against fig great nearly the contractions of the country of The Earle to Sanchaaryt * Wesdower. Mat.Parii. opposites, on so great pretenses. When the cry was thus vp, and that the world faw it was no fu-with the mutable King, there rife forth many accu-fations(fauouring of much malignity) round about, Other malicious nations (audouring or much maignivy round about) youn hoper opprelle & bury Hubert vinder them foreuer;as, Likal he had poigned the two noble Earlie

foreuer;as, Likal he had poigned the two noble Earlie for Editing and Pembroke; 2. that hee had also procured Fiduciju de Brent, and Richard Archispop of Canterbury to be made away; 3. that by Sorceries and Enchantments, hee had drawne the King to fauour him acomments, peecha at whe lim hing to plant man bused lother; 4, that in the victiony gotten against the Erench by Sea, hee forecably tooke many Prijoners from the King Sailers, and made his benefite of their ransjoms, contrary to right, and this hee had foiled and disherited many; 5, that hee had without triall uniusty put to man conjustine for which except the Citizen of Long companies of the many conjusting the conjust should repaire to Court, and there receive immediate redresse. This strange course of proceeding did fled to the Priorie Church of Merton in Surrey, where among the Chanons, hee sheltered his head Kenetakes (34) The King with his Prelates and Peeres mee ting at Lambeth, at the * day appointed for Huberts answere, hee (being made to beleeue that the King would put him to a most foule death) durst not appeare, or peepe forth of his facred refuge. The command) to the number of about twenty thoufand vnder banners displayed to dragge the Earle ont of Sanctuary: but vpon the Earle of Chesters wifer Counfell, the prey was taken out of the hands of a bloudy multitude (who mortally hated him for Constantines death) and they returned agains to their City. The Archbishoppe of Dublin still per-forming the office of atrue friend, ouerslips not this occasion, and by his importunity obtayned day for Hubert, till about Twelfe-tide then next enfuing, and the King for his affurance during the Interim, glues him letters Patents. Hubert thinking himselfescure for the present, is now upon his way toward his wife at the Abbey of Saint Edmund in Suffolke, but his enemies so prevailed by their sug-Suffiels, but his enemies to prequated by their ug-gethons, that Sir oddry at Censemb Knight, with thre hundred armed men, was fen to apprehend the Earle in 2/6r. He haing inclligence of their approach, fledde into a Chappell at * Breatwood, which adioyned to his lodging, from whence thole rough Souldiers hated him. (hee holding in one *handa Crucifix, and in the other the Sacrament) and fent for a Smith to make for him shackels of yron. Bus when the Smith understood, that it was from Bus when the 3 mind whethout, that it was for Hubert de Burgh Earle of Kent, he refuled, vitering fuch words (it Mathey Park doe not Poetize) as did well thew that honourable thoughts are fomtimes found in the hearts of men, whose fortunes are farre from honour; for having first drawne a deepe figh, hee faid; * Doe with mee what yee pleafe, and God have mercy on my foule; but as fure as the Lord lines, I will never makeyron shackles for him, but will rather die the worst death that is. For is not this white after are the work acan that is, for it not that that most loyall and couragious Hubert, who so often hath preserved England from being destroyed by strangers, co-restored England to England & He who faithfully and con-Stantly served his Soueraigne Lord King John in Gal jeanty jeruca nis souerangue Lora Aung tem in Sig-coigne, Normandy, and elfe where, that he was com-pelled to eate the fielfo fhorfes, whose high courage euen Enemies admired? he, that so long defended Douer Caenemies ammrea: ne, that je wong adjenaed Douer Ca-flic, the Key of England, againft all the exquisite slege of the French, and by wanquisings them as Sea brought safe-ty to the Kingdome? What need I rehearse his excellent doing: at Lincolne and Bedford? Let God be judge between him and you, for ving him so vinishly and inhumanely, repaying good with enill, nay requiting his most excellent deserts with the worst recompence that can be.
But Sir Godfrey, and his blacke band regarded not fuch speeches, but otherwise binding the Earle hard, they fet him on horsebacke, and so conuayed him to perficiall displeasure, into which the Earle was fain

the Tower of London.

rakes Sanctuary. * Fab.Conc. MS.

The bonest and

(35) This

(35) This breach of Sanctuary being made knownet o Roger Bishoppe of London (whose Dio-cessei was) he considently tels the King, that if the Earle were not restored to the Chappell, hee would excommunicate all the Authors of that outrage.

The Earle is accordingly restored: but the Sheriffes of Efex and Hertford, at the Kings commandement, with the powers of their counties beliege the Chap-

518

Ra.Wend, M.S.

The Archbifhop of Dublin a faith-full friend to

to the King.

pell fo long, that at last (they having cast a Trench about it that none might goe in or out) the Earle was compelled to come forth and render himfelfe, bearing all things with an equall mind, as one that had a cleare conscience before God, which hee professed to haue. While the Chappell was thus beset round, the Kings indignation was fo violent, that hee forbad all men once to make mention of Hubert in his hearing. No maruaile then if it bee faid, that the Princes indignation is death. The Archbishoppe of Dublin neuerthelesse was not deiected, but with praiers and teares belought the King, who remained as yet inexorable, Huberts enemies possessing his foule and fenses. Hubert therefore is againe impri-foned in the Tower. There was no facrifice as it feemes could appeale the Kings ire, but that of the Earles Hoord of gold, and other riches, which the Knights Templars had in their custodie vpon trust, & without Huberts consent refused to deliuer. Hubert therefore willingly yeelds; which when the Depositaries did giue vp, the value feemed incredible. This hoording perhaps was Haberts crime, whereof being thus purged, he had hope to recour out of thele deadly pangs and consulfions of fortune, and himselfe to bee made capable of curing. Well, the king obtains this precious booty, but his enemies would have his bloud allo; faying, fifth hee was constitled of theft and fraud, it was meet he should die a moss shame-full death. It seemes, they thought, that the verie finding of fo much treasure was a conuiction of fraud in the getting, and that the King must bee interpreted to haue loft, whatfoeuer the Earle had gained. But the displeasure of the King was mollified with this golden balme, for hee answered The King relactime that year the properties the child of the district of the control and the learning strength on the child of the district of the child one cake has like the control and the child one cake has like the child one cake has like the child one cake has like the child one child of the child one child of the child one child of the child one child of the long ferued mee and mine ancesters; nor will I weigh more his euill deedes, which are not as yet manifest, nor proued true, then all his good deeds, which are plainelie knowne to the Realme, and to vs all. Hereupon Hubert had all fuch lands granted vnto him, as eyther King 10hm had given, or himselfe had purchased. There vndertooke for him to the King(as fureties) the Earles of Cornwall , and Warrenn, Marfhal & Ferrars, and himselfe was committed to the *Castle of Deuifer, there to abide in free Prilon, vnder the Custody of foure Knights, belonging each of them to one of these foure Earles. This Court-storme thus in part ouerblowne, let vs take our standings, to view what other weather followed, and what countenance of things in this Kingdome did next present it felfe to the world. (36) The King being naturally, as it seemes, addicted to repose himselfe vpon some one mans coun-An.1233. fell, was now wholy swayde by Peter de Rapibus Bishoppe of Winchester, who had therefore wrought the Earle out of grace, that hee might foly raigne, and predominate in the gentle King. Which the better to effect, the Bishoppe procures him to dis-place the * English Officers, and in their roomes to furrogate Poictonines and Britons; who comming ouer to the number of about two thouland, he stuffes his Castles with them; and (in briefe) did as it were wholy entrust himselfe, his treasures, strengthes, and the Realme to them. So that * Indgements were com-mitted to the winds, Lawes to the Out-lawes, Peace 10

Wranglers, and Instice to wrong-doers. Such as would haue praied redreffe for these abuses, were interrupted, and put off by the Bishoppe of winchester. Among them who were removed from their places in Court, was one Sir William de Redune a Knight, and Deputy Marshall to Richard Earle of Pembroke. This

The kingby adwas to the Earle very displeasant, which ioyned with uneng stranger a consideration of the publike cause and danger, he are discontent his Mobles. affociates vnto him certaine of the great Lords (as was the fashion of those Lording times, vpon enery discontent,) and in the Company of them aduanceth confidently to the King, whom in the hearing of many hee reproueth; for that he had, through finiof many uccreptonents for man we may move in meller adults, called in the Poitsouins, to the oppression of the Realme, of his naturall subjects, of their Lawes and Liberties: humblie therefore hee beseecheth him that hee would spedily reforme such abuses, which threatned the imminent subversion both of the Crowne and Kingdome: which if hee did not, himself and other Lordes, would so long withdraw their attendanc, as he entertained Strangers. The Bishoppe hereunto makes tained strangers. The Billhoppe hereunto makes andwere; That the King might well and largishly call in what Strangers bins/felf thought goad, for the adjence of the Crowne and Reader, and fach, and for many of them, a might be able to compell his proad and rebellious people take obedience. When the Oracle would return can inchase no otherwise, they demonstered from Count feetine can inchase no otherwise. speake no otherwise, they departed from Court greatly discontented; firmely promising one to the strangers. other, that in such a cause which did so touch them all, they would like men stand together while anie breath was in their bodies.

(37) Those who were now most potent about the King, nothing forry for the discontentment of so great a Peere as the Earle Marshall, but counting it a part of their strengthes, to vie the regall power toward the weakning of the English, nourish in the King his auersion. The minds of men sufficientlie inclining of themselues, to doubt the worst vpon such diussions, had their seare increased by sundrie prodigies of strange thunders and raines, but especially of source redde Parbelions (or resemblances of Fine Summer in the Sunne) befides the Sunne it felfe, (appearing a bout the parts of Hereford and Worsefer) from moning till night in the Skies: and indeed much troubles mediates the felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates to felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates to felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates to felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates to felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates to felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates to felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates to felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates and felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates and felfer in the skies and indeed much troubles mediates and indeed much t ble immediatly enfued aswell in England as 14 ales, & Ireland, The Poictouins, and other Strangers thus bearing the fway, fo as the Kings person went guarded with troupes of fuch, the Earles and Barons being by the Kings command furmoned to another Parliament at Oxford, refused to come. While the King was there, one * Robert Bacon, who yied there to preach before the King and Balance Condition there to preach before the King and Balance Condition the King was inere, one * Lovers Bacon, who vice here to preach before the King and Prelates freelic told him, that if hee did not remous from him Peter Bi-floor of Wincheller, and Peter de Risallis, he could near force to the work of the work of the told the work of th be in quiet. The King did hereupon a little come to himself, & Roger Bacon a Clergy man also of a pleasant wit, did second Roberts aduste, telling the King that * Petra and Rapes were most daungerous things at fea, alluding to the Bishoppes name, Petrus de Ru- and Stones. pibus. The King therefore (as he had the happines in his mutability, to change for his more fecurity taking that good aduise of schollers, which he would not of his Pecres, summons a Parliament to be holden at * Westminster, giving the world to know withall, that his purpose was to amend by their adusse, * 11 July. what soener ought to be amended.

(38) But the Barons, confidering that still there arriued fundry ftrangers, men of warre with Horse and Armour, and not trufting the Poictonine faith, came not, but prefumed to fend this traiterous mefcame not, but pretuned to tend this traiterous melo diagnoto the king, that if our of hand her remarked met Peter Bilopo of Winnehoffer, and the Polifaniuses out of his Court, they all of them, by the countens affect of the third was with the common affect of the third was with the common affect of the third was a state of third was a state of the third was a state of third was a state of the third was a state of the third was a state of the made more timerous,) could easily haue beene drawne, to haue redeemed the loue of his natural! Liegemen, with the difgrace of a few strangers; but the Bishoppe of Winehester and his friends infused more spirite into him. Whereon, to all those whom | hee suspected, the King sets downe a * day, within which they should deliuer sufficient pledges to secure him of their loialty. Against that day the Lords in great numbers make repaire to London, but the Earle Marshall (admonished of danger, by his sister the Countesse of Cornwall) flies backe to Waler, and

The Barons fe

*Rog de VP and chiefly for want of his * prefence nothing was concluded. The King not long after is at Glaffer with an Armie, whither the Earle-and his adherents required to come, refused, the King therefore burns their Mannors, and gives away their inheritances to the

The Earle Mar-

Mat Rais.

* The Sunday

mar. Hubert de Burgo

Chap. 9. Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46.

(39) This Rebellion had not many great names n it, but tooke strength rather by weight then number: the known Actors were the Earle Marlbal, the Lord Gilbert Baffet, and many other of the inferiour Nobles. The Bishoppes Arts had pluckt from him, the Kings Brother, and the two Earles of Chefter and Zincelne, (who dishonourably sold their loue * for a thouland Markes,) and otherwise, as it seemed secured the reft: neuerthelesse, these may well bee thought, not to have borne any euill will to their now forfaken confederate, the Earle Marshall, who tooke himfelfe to handle the common cause; certainely hee handled his owne fafety but ill, as the euent shall demonstrate. The Earle hearing these things, contracts firict amity with Lewelm Prince of Wales; whose powers thus knit together, by aduantages of the Mountaines, were able to counterpoize any ordinary inuation. To the Kings aide Baldwin de Gifnes with many Souldiers came out of Flanders. The King now at Hereford in the midft of his Forces, fends from thence (by winchesters counsell) the Bishoppe of Saint Danids, to defie the Earle Marshall how farre soeuer this word defie extends it felfe, fure it feems that the Earle hereupon understoode himselfe discharged of that obligation, by which hee was tied vnto the King, and freed to make his defence. The King notwithstanding after fome final attempts, and better confiderations, did promife and affirme, that by adults of his Coun-cell all that was amife (bould (at a * day appointed) bee rettified and amended. About which time, thebert de recipes and amenaes. Adout which time fishers de Burgo, haing intelligence that the Bishoppe of Wim-chester (who was a Poistowne) plotted his death, escaped out of the Castle of Deuiser (where he was prisoner) to a neighbour Church, but was haled from thence by the Castle-Keepers. The Bishop of Sarisbury (in whose Diocesse it happened) caused him to bee safe-restored to the same place, from whence by the Earle Marshall, and a *troupe of ar-York Nest. med men his friends, hee was refcued and carried (40) The King, at the day and place appointed, holds his great Councell or conference with the Lords; but nothing followed for the peace of the Realme; it was not an ordinary paffage of speech, which hapned there betweene the Lords, and the Bishoppe of Winchester . For, when the English Bishops and Barons humbly belought the King for the honour of Almighty God to take unit grade his natu-rall Subtetis, whom without any triall by their Peeres) becalled Traitore: the Bishoppe (offended it seems, at Peeres) takes the words out of the Kings mouth, and antiveres; That there are not Pereis in England, as in the Realme of France, and that therefore the King of England, byfuch tulkitars as himfelfe pleafeth to daine, may hantly offenders out of the Realme, and by indicially proefic condemne them. The English Bishops relished his speech so harshly, that with one voice remneuns specen sonarmy, that wan one voice they threatned to excommunicate and accurie by name the Kings principall wicked Counfellors; but strinehoffer appealed; then they accuried all such as alienated the heart of the king from his naturall subjects, and all others that perturbed the peace of the

(41) The Earle Marshall, this while had by force resumed a Castle, which he had a little before sur-

rendred to the King, which stirred the King to gather his forces at Glocester, and thence to advance towards Wales. But the Earle had politically barred the Country of al Provisions, for man and beaft, that the King was faine to strike aside to Grosmont Cafile; where the Earle, with his Confederats and the power of Wales, so awaited their time, that assailing the Kings Campe vnawares, there were taken Cambr. p. 189. about fine hundreth horse, with the Sumpters, riches, and carriages of the Armie; vpon which loffe (his men also greatly scattered) the King leaving two noble Gentlemen with the Poictouins, to make good the Marches against the Welfb, returned more empty and inglorious then before. The Earle found them worke, whom the King had left behind, and (as hee was a man of no leffe courage then deepe witte,)whereas Baldwin de Gifnes (the valiant Flemish knight) with a thousand Horsemen, thought to haue furprized him, who having but a tenth part of that number, came to view the Castle of Monmouth; the Earle alone defended himselfe against twelve of his enemies, and when his horse was cowardly flaine by them, he pitcht one of them by the legge out of the Saddle, and leapt into it himfelfe, neuer giuing ground till his Armie came to the ref cue, and obtained a faire victorie, with the flaugh ter and captingtion of many Poistonines and others. His other exploits in and about wales, were not few nor vnfortunate; if it were not onely in this, (as what indeed could be more gricuous or vnglorious to a noble mind?) for that his Soueraigne was youn the contrary fide. (42) The King about this time, to ftrengthen his life and State, with the prayers of Beneficiaries, and other denoted affections, founded the * houle of Connerts, where such as for sooke the Indaicall in Ch Superflitions, had provisions for maintenance vner a fober rule and ruler; he also erected and endoweda * famous Hospitall at Oxford, both for the entertainement of Forrainers and Pilgrimes, (who thither much frequented,) and for reliefeallo of fuch as were discased: So that Leoline Prince of fuch as were difeafed: So that Leoline Prince of whiteforwas was threatmed fore, if he would not liue in quiet, did not speake more magnificently of charity, the following the Maries of the Maries o honourably of the King; I more feare (quoth hec)

Mes. Res.

Mes.

(43) The Earle Marshall encreasing in strength and hatred against such as were the Kings reputed Seducers, makes spoile and booty on their possesfions, and loyning with the power of Leoline, puts all to fire and fword, as farre as Shrewsburie, part whereof they burnt to Ashes, and sackt the residue. The " King then at Glofter for want of fufficient Forces, departed thence (greatly grieued) to Winche fer, abandoning those other parts as it were to wast and ruine. It therefore seemes, that he was not growne stronger or richer, by the displacing of Hubert Earle of Kent, and the rest, and by taking new into their roomes, who commonly bite and fucke hard till they have glutted themselves, (if at least wise there be any fatietie in auarice) whereas the old of-chance, haue the leffe reason to be grieuous. (44) Therefore the Lions skin not being large enough for the Bilhoppe of winchester, and his factious purpoles, they piece them out with the Foxes case; an ineuitable stratageme is deuised. The Earle Marlball had in Ireland all the ample Patrimonies of his Grandfather, the famous Strangbow. To make that member of his strengthes improfitable. if notalfo pernicious, they deuise certain letters directed to Maurice Fitz-Gerald (Deputie Iustice of A practifeto ru-Ireland) and other principall men, who held of the Earle. In them they lignifie, that Richard, once Marshall to the King of England, was for manifest trea-fon by the judgement of the Kings Court, banished the Oòoo

ficers, having provided in a fort for the maine

Now the Rall

An.1234.

*Rog.VV end.

leger,ex legibus, pax discordanti-

Book.9

The peftilent te-nour of the let-

Realme, his Lands, townes and Tenements confumed with fire; other his Hereditaments destroyed, and himselfe for ever disinherited; that if upon his comming thi-ther, they did take him either alive or dead, the King did give them all the Earles lands there, which now were forgue them at the Earles tands there, which have perfeited by vertue of his Attainture; and for a flurance that the faid gift floudd continue frine and good shey, by whose admissible King and Kingdomenaga governed jaithfully undertooke. To these letters which the Monkes call bloudy) they caused the King to set his Seale, as they themselves also (being eleven) did theirs; vpon receite of which lines, the parties fignifie backe under the feale of feeresie, that if the Contents of those letters were confirmed by the Kings Letters Patents, they would performe that which was defired. The Letters patents bee made accordingly, and having fraudulently gotten the Great Seale from Hugh Bishoppe of Chichester, Lord Chancellour, who knew

Alexander Bishop of Chichester clea-reth himself from

* Ra Wend, MS

The English Bi-shops deale wit the King about redresse of the Objections a-gainst the Bishop of Winton and not thereof, they make them authentike with the (45) The Kings mind therefore being fill exul-cerated towards the Earle Marfhall, hee grienously charged Mexander Bishoppe of Chefter, that he had too much familiarity with the Earle, affirming that they fought to thrust him from his throne; the Bishop to cleare himselfe from so hainous a scandall, puts on his Episcopall habite, and solemnly pronounceth his Epilcopall habite, and loteranly pronouncern all those accurs, who did but imagine a wightenesse of so foule a nature, against the Maiely or perface of the King: and thereupon by the intercession of other Prelates, he ewas received into grace. The King was then at westminster; where Edmund the Archbishop of Canterbury elect, with other his Suffragan Bishops. bewailing the effate of the kingdome, prefent thembewaiting the create of the kingdome, precise there for him, telling him, as his loyal Liegemen, et that the Counfell of Peter Biftop of princhefter, and his eComplices, which war be had, and offel, was not found or nor fife, but cruell and perillone to himselfel, and et his Railma. Erift, for that they hated and despifed the "his Keatime. Et fly or that toop bates and adjujes toe 'englift, calling them Trainours, turning the Kinges, chear from the lone of his people, and the hearts of the copcing from him; as in the Earle Marifall, whom (be-ing one of the worthieft men of the land by flowing felfe clales they druse into discontentment; 2. that by the Counsellof the Same Peter, his Father King John "Completed the hearts of his people, then Normandie, then "other lands; and finally, wasted all his treasure, and "almost England it selfe, and neuer after had quiet; 3: "that if the Subjects had now beene handled according to Justice and law, and not by their ungodly counsels those present troubles had not hapned, but the Kinges alands had remained undestroyed, his treasures unex-"hausted; 4. that the Kings Councell is not the Coun-cell of Peace, but of perturbations because they who cannot rife by Peace, will raife themselves by the trouble. s and disinherison of others; 5 that they had the treasure, Castles, Wardships, and strengthes of the Kingdome in their hands, which they insolently abused to the great hazard of the whole estate, for that they, made no con-"science of an Oth, Law, lustice, or the Churches censures. "Icenee of an Oth, Law, uptice, or the charlest cenjures.

"Therefore we, & King (laid they) fleake the ethings "faithfully unto you; and in the prefence both of God and "man, doc counsell, besech, and admonish you, to remove
"such a Councell from about you, and (as it is the usage "in other Realmes) governe yours by the faithfull and forme Children thereof. The King in briefe answered hereunto, that hee could not fodainely put off his Conneell, and therefore prayed a short respite, till their accounts were audited. Meanwhile the behauiours of the Marshalline taction (having this backing at Court) grew more and more intolerable; for while the King was at Huntingdon, the Lord Gilbert Basset and others, set fire vpon Ackmundbury, a Towne belonging to Stephen de Segrane, the flames whereof were seene of the owner, being then with the Kingat Huntingdon. They also tooke prisoners vpon the Welfh Marcher, and according to the Law of VV arre(which, faith one, is *lawlesse) did put them to their ransomes.

(46) Nothing had hitherto preserved the King in taking and lea more, then that hee could, without great griefe forgoe any fauourites, if hee were neerely profled; the contrary quality whereof hath beene the cause of finall defolation to fo many Princes. For albeit the choice of Counsellors ought to bee free, yet by com-mon intendment, they should bee good; or howsocuer they are, or are not, it is madnesse to hazard a Crowne, or leefe the lone of an whole Nation, rather then to relinquish or diminish a particular de pendant. The rights of amity ought neuerthelesse to remaine inuiolable, but in such distance, that the publike be not peruerted, nor interuerted for a priuate. The King therefore, in this point not vufortunate, commaunded Bishop Peter to betake himfelfe to his residence at VV inten, without once medling in affaires of State; but against Peter Rinallis his Treasurer, hee was so vehement, that he sware, hee would pincke out his eyes, were it not for reuerence of hely Orders; commaunding also their Poi-Commes to depart the Realme, neuer to fee his face

(47) Then are the Archbiflop of Canterbury with the Bishops of Chester and Rochester sent anto Wales to pacifie things there. But the inuincible Earle Marshall had now crost the Seas into Ireland, to take reuenge for the spoiles and diffeisures, which his hired enemies had made in his lands there; by whole plots, according to that fecret agreement, hee was finally taken, and died of a wound given him in the backe, as hee with admirable manhood defended himselfe. His Body was buried in Kilkennie (which pleasantly-situated Towne our Soueraigne King lames erected into a City,) where himselfe in his life had appointed, in the Oratorie of the Minorites: in which Town, as yet some small tokens of this great name are remaining; for in the East window of the Abbey-Church of S. I ohn Baptist, and in the Abbey of S. Dominieke, the ancient Armories of the Abbey of S. Dommiere, the anticus and the Patri*Marfbal, Lord of Kilkenny, are yet extant. The Patrimony of this Earle was finited by the Contractors ore very outer

all a Lyon ran. according to the purport of the Letters patents; but when the King heard of his death, hee(to the wonder of all that were by) brake forth into teares, be-walling the loffe of 60 braue a Knight, affirming that he had left no Peere behind him in the Kingdome. A blok fed King, faith Paris; to love even those who had offen

(48) The Archbishoppe of Canterbury with the Ann. 1235. other Bishoppes, repaired to the King at Glocester. vpon their returne from Leoline Prince of Wales, who pretended hee could not conclude, till the King had received into grace such of the banished No bility, with whom himfelfe had beene confederated during the late displeasures. The King hereupon moved with Pittie, sends forth his Proclamations, homehis rebel that all fuch as were outlawed or proferibed, should bee at Gloucester upon a certaine day, there to be receiuedinto the Kings fauour againe, and to haue restitution of their inheritances; but less they might reflitution of their innertrances, out left they magne fulped any cuill measure, it was ordered that they should bee in the Churches protection, and come vnder the safe-conduct of the Archbishoppe and the other Prelates. Thither at the time and place limited doth Hubert de Buree Earle of Kent (and lately chiefe Infliciar of England) repaire; vpon whom, by mediation of the Bifbops, the compassionate King looks gratiously, receiving him in his Armes with the kiffe of peace; in like fort was the Lord Gillert Baffet, and all others of that fellowshippe, receiped into fauour, their feuerall livings and rights fully restored; and both Hubert and Baffet admitted to bee of his Councell. And, that nothing might bee wanting to make the ioy vniuerfall; Gilbert, Brother to the late Earle Marshall, had the whole Earldome conferred upon him with all the lands and rights thereof wherefocuere notwithstanding the foresaid treacherous conveyance; whom also the King made Knight at V Vorcefter , and delivered into his hands

Of Princes Cos

The king re-

The Earle Man

Hubert de Burgh

prothets lands &

Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46.

the Rod of the Marshallbip, according to the custom. Howbeit in all these points the King may sceme but to have temporized (as thereto driven by overbearing inducements) or elfe greatly afterward to haue changed his judgement, because hee open ly at one time * called the faid Richard a bloudy Traitour, and caused this Gilbert to bee forcibly kept

The practife to destroy the late Earle Marshal

"Rog. de Wesd. M.S. Math.Paris.

geries Armie against the mu

Mach. Paris ad

Chap.9.

out of the Court vpon a Christmas day. (49) Vponthis reconcilement the practife,by which the late great Marhall was deftroyed, and his poffessions difmembred, came to light; the copy of the letters, which had beene fent into Ireland, being by commandement of the Archbishoppe of Canterbury, openly read in the presence of the King, the Presates, Earles and Barons. It moved teares in all of them; the King with an Oath affirming that hee knew not the contents of the faid letters though by the vrging of the Bishoppe of winchester Rinallis, Segrane, Passelen, with other of his Councell, hee had caused his Seale to bee put vnto them. At the found of Summons to make their feueral appearances, the Malefactors take Sanctuary, the Bi-floop and Peter de Riuallis in Winehefter Church, Segraue in Leicester Abbey, Pascleu in the new Temple and others otherwhere. In the end, vpon the intercession of Edmund Archbishop of Canterburie who piously endeauoured to extinguish all occasions of further diffention in the Kingdome, and vndertooke they should have a lawfull triall, the delin-Easter at Norwich. dertooke they inould have a lawful trian, the climing quents appeared at Westminster before the Kings who * sate in person with his sussiciars upon the Bench.

Peter de Risallis was first called (for the Bishop came not.) whom the King shot through with an angrie The king fits in Weltwinster with the Judges on the eye, faying; O thou Trastour, by thy wicked aduise, 1 was drawne to fet my Seale to thefe treacherous letters for the destruction of the Earle Marshall, the Content yor sic aestrussion of the Earle was jume, the contents whereof were to mee unknowne; and by thine and he like counsell, I bandhed my naturall Subjects, and turned their minds and hearts from me. By thy had counsel, & thy Complices, I was moved to make warre upon them to my irreparable loffe, and the dishmour of my Réalme, in which enterprize I wasted my treasure, and lost many worthie persons, together with much of my royall respect Therefore I exact of thee an account aswell of my treafure, as of the custodies of wardes, together with many o ther profites and escheates belonging to my Crowne. Pe-ter denying none of the acculations, but falling to the ground, thus befought him. My Soueraigne the ground, this belought nim. Crys Someraigne Lord and King, I have been ensurficed by you, and made rich in worldly fubliance, confound not your own Creature, but at leafivile grant mee a time of delibe-ration, that I may render a competent reason for fach points as I am charged with. Thou shalf (faid the King) The king himfelt gives fentence of the Bench be carried to the Tower of London, there to deliberate till I am (atiffied.He was fo, Stephen de Segraue, the Lord Chiefe Inflice (whom the King also called most wicked Traitour) had time till Michaelmas to make his accounts, at the Archbishops and other Bishops humble entreaty; and for other matters, he shifted them off from himselfe, by laying the blame vpon against the muu-ned Romans, (sy both Wendeuer and Paris, ad An. 1335. fuch as were higher in place then hee : into whose office of Chiefe Luftice, Hugh de Pateshull is aduanced. The like eualion Robert Paflew hald, by leaving the fault vpon Walter Bishoppe of Carleil, who was aboue him in the Exchequer: and thus were these civill enormities reformed, not without reducing

> (50) As those continuall turmoiles, and plagues of the Sword, much afflicted the land, forthis was the third y eere, wherein God inflicted also for sin the plague of famine, whereby the poore did miserably periff, there being no Samaritan to pay for their harbouring, or to annoint their wounds with the oyle of confolation. Our Authors, to make manifest, how odious the mercilesse heart is in the fight of God, relate a storie of that time with protestation, that they doe it, lest so memorable an example should be in time forgotten. Certain*poore, while as yet the Corne was greene, pluckt the cares ftore of Coine to the King.

in the common fields, to fuftaine their lives; whereupon the Owners call on the Prieft, to curfe all fuch as had so done: but one in their company adjured the Priest in the name of God to exempt his corne from the sentence, saying, it pleased him well, that the poore drinen with samine, had taken his corne, and so commended that which they had left to God The Priest, compelled by importunity of the rest was entred into the sentence, when by a terrible in terrupting tempeft of thunder, lightning, wind haile, and raine, all the corne-fieldes about were desolated, as if they had beene troden downe with Horse and Cartes; that no kind of beaft or fowle would feed vpon the corne thus laid. But (as fay our Authors out of the * Scripture) feeing the who are pitteous find mercy, that honest and compassionate hearted man, found all his corne and grounds (though interlaced with theirs,) altogether vintoucht and vinharmd. Wher-tipon (fay they) it is more cleare then any light, that as glory to God on high is Jung of Angels, so there is peace on Earth to men who are of goodwill. This dearth was in * France and Gascoigne aswell as in Regiand. A Isrific improry may well be annexed to want of Chrifisias Charity. There were brought before the King at Wiffmingfer liven I leves, who circumcifed a Child, and purposed in contempt of The Israel State of the Child, and purposed in contempt of the Israel State of the Israel Christ and Christianity) to have crucified him in pireto crucifie

(51) These now calmer times, were made more happy, by the marriage of the Emperour Fredericke marriage of the Emperour Fredericke marriage with the Lady I label, the King of Englands fifter, a beauteous young Lady about twenty yeeres of age. The messengers arrived in March with the Em perours letters, closed under a Seale of gold; and there were fent to conduct her ouer, the Archbishoppe of Colein, and the Duke of Louain. The King brought her to Sandwich with about three thousand horse in his traine; and being imperially furnished with all worldly abundance, shee tooke shipping in May, and in one dayes and one nights space arrived at Antwerpe, a City of the Empire, & was every where most magnificently entertained; her sweet humility, and excellent beauty, drawing all to lone and honour her. At the solemnitie of her * marriage were prefent three * Kings, eleuen Dukes, thirty Marqueffes & Earles, befides the number of great Prelates. On whether superstition, or observation of the Emperour is noted at this marriage, that he forbare the Empresses company, till a age, that he forbare the Empresses company, till a certaine howre, which his prisards or Astrologers to not the state of t had assigned, and in the morning hee caused her to bee carefully tended as a woman with child, and fent word to his brother the King of England, that hee should have a sonne, so skilfull or confident hee was; and God did fauour his judgement, for it nee was; and Good did tauour nis truggenein; for it proued fo. This Imperiall affinity gaue a *wor-thy Hittorian occasion here to display and embla-zon the Maiesty and glory of the English Princes; but amongst them all, none were higher aduanced then the Children of King Iohn, one of whose sons was now a * King, the other afterward chosen to be

(52) There were spread through England about this time certaine Romane V surers called * Caursini, who had entangled the King himfelfe, most of the windename great men, and all others as had to deale with the Court of Rome, in their cunning fnares. Their first entrance into England was some few yeeres past, when the Pope requiring the * tenth of all moneable goods in England, Ireland and wales, towards his wars against the Emperour Fredericke, sent Stephen his Nunce hither to collect it, * who brought with him that race of deuouring-Monsters under humane thape, called the * Popes Marchants, vnder colour an * Emperour, and one of his daughters a *Queen, can enjoy his good company no longer.

confusion of hard heartednesse

*An. 1235.

* At Wormer in Mat.Paris.

* Rog Wendoner in bill, MS, in this other (here mentioned) an * Empresse. And here doth V endouer end his history, to whom we have hitherto been beholding for his labours, forry wee after requested the King to send him his brother

Richard, Earle of Cornwall, to make him Generalla-gainst the French, whereby the English also might re-couer their right : but the Emperour was delired to choose any other; for him the States of his Realme,

(which were affembled to confult thereupon) ruption or fale of Juffice; and finally hee conditioneth, to relie whollie upon his naturall Subjects for ad-nife, leaving all others. The money gathered (the seue-rest and most mistrustfull point of all,) was not to be paid into the Escheequer, but to be deposited in some religious house, or fortresse of enery Countie, Popes Pensioner then a King. Notwithstanding the King was to proudent of his State, that the Legate to bee expended in the generall feruices of the Kingdome, as occasion required; so that if the king calling his * Nationall Councel, thither came from the failed to performe his part, every man should have backe what hee had disbursed. One great and or-King, John Earle of Lincolne, John Fitz-Geoffrey, & was makes vo-luctary houses. dinary cause of waste, seemed now taken away, for that Lealing such bad a Co. William de Rele a Canon of Pauls, to forbid the Le- The king forbid gate on the behalfe of the King and Kingdome, not to attempt any thing against the corne or royall digthat Leoline (who had * first taken homage of all his owne Barons) did * voluntarily yeeld to hold his whole Principality of the Kings of England; mo-(58) Simon de Montfort (afterward created Earle ued thereunto (though with much millike of the Wellb) to ftrengthen himselfe against his son Grifof Leicester) had now wrought himselfe into such fauour, that the King with his owne hand secretie fin, who greatly infested him, being also assayled gaue Elienor, (widdow of the last William Mar-fhall Earle of Pembroke) to him in marriage, notwith a palfie. (57) There is in Mathew Paris much complaint of the State of England at this time, which by the Kings flexibility (laith he) was become the ordinarie withflanding that she had vowed herselfe a Nunne. Complaint of the Kings raigne more grieuous then suft, When this was once knowne to Richard Earle of Cornwall, and the angry Lords, they all took such frusfe thereat, because they were not first consulted prey, sometime of one fort of strangers, and sometime of another, Poictouins, Italians, Alemaines, with, in regard the King had promised to doe no and Pronincois. Indeed the Genius, and common weighty matter without the, that none but Hubert humour of a Nation, is not easily alterable: and The Rule of de Burgh Earl of Kent adhered to the forfaken King . our Microsie (or harred to Strangers) was no new quality, for * Horsee noted it before or about Christs birth and Englishmen can hardly see when The head of this decidion was the Earle of Ceri-wall, of whom men generally had hope, that he would now free the Land from the milerable operations both of Romans and other Straggers. Him therefore the Le-gate vndertakes, but found him fifting and vntractathey are well to keepe them fo. But no kind of Strangers at that time more infefted England (faith our*Monk)then the Romans, of which here iwarpace v nucreases, our round immanie and vitracea-ble as first. For when hee truly and fatherly vold-him: T has if all the people of the land rose against the King, get be being his own brother ought awayes to stand fast with him against the whole world, and not a make himselfer Captain of the nemies, to e. The Earler gound-*Parif.bifl. mt. med three forts, V furers, which were the Popes Merchants, Italian Clerks, most vile and illiterate persons which armed with the Popes Bulles possessed themselves (against all right of Priusleages) of spiritual revenues, and if any withstood them, they were by the Popes owne investige upsain of the entertainty. The carrier to the being the confliction of the thing the confliction of the thing the confliction of the carrier than the confliction of the carrier than the confliction of the carrier than the carrier to the public soft of the carrier than warrant excommunicated; lastly, the * Farmers and Proctors for the Romans, who cunningly scraping toge-ther whatsoever was of price in the Land, sent it over Firmarii d Pescuratores Rom.Parif. ther whateners was of price in the Land, lent it our-ces other Adjers, who there lines in additionalises we the Patrimony of from that was crusified, and in price on other mens goods. Informuch, that body more pro-tected in the price of the price of the price of the lit was better for thems to die, then toge the price of the little of the price of the price of the price of the good letter that the price of the price of the price of the price of the price of the price of the price of the good letter of the price of the defines through from the west emuseans with neumaric Thair was more reconstruct by for function to the Thair was more reconstruct by for function to the Ring his brother did most fland in med of belop-, and year differences, that in would not take example by fush as were welf, a neutier of the Emperous, who having married heir fifther, returned the with him, but four lacked all that attends for, not giving to any of them entire lands or many although himself & did about all bothymore than the second of the second o Sion was become like an impudent Harlot. And as these Papall Engines dealthere in England, so did the example of the King of France, who tooke the same course though he married the class sister of the English they with others * at Rome, the Gouernours of that Church not feeking to winne mens foules, but their mo-Queene, Gre. The Legate vpon thefe and many o ney, oppressing the religious by punishments, vsuries,& Simonic, without any care of instice and honesty. Which ther shrewde sharpe speeches, takes with him Peter Bishoppe of Winchester, and deales with the King, made the Greeke Church at this time to fall quite away, minoppe or remorper, and cause with the Aung, who required time to answer; which the Lords granted, and met at London stronglie appointed vpon the day. There, while the quarrell hung in suspense, simon ale Monifort had with money, faire and oppose it selfe against the Romane. Doubtlesse England had no lesse cause so to doe, then had the Greekes; but as Pope Gregory knew that his onely way to keepe England falt, was to hold close with wordes, and much entreaty of Mediators, reconci the Kings fo the King also saw no way to strengthen led himselfe to the fierce young Earle, and so also himselfe against his Barons, but by holding in with had tolm Earle of Lincolne, another marke of the the Pope, though with so many vnsufferable mispublike enuic. This practife (which Earle Richard entertained without his Confederates printity) had chiefes. And for some such purpose of the Kings, newly now arrived Cardinall Otto, the Popes Leprofitable effects; for the controlling Lords loft thereby their Generall, and hee greatle weakened gate, greath against the liking both of the Peeres, and Mat Paris, gate, greate against one using voting the recess, and of the Archbriloppe of Canterbury, who not onely repromed the king thereof, as of a thing dangerous to the Kingdome, but foome after also tooke his iourney himselfe in the opinion of the Lords and People nimetre in meopinion or the Loras and People's both which were points of aduantage and farley for the King. But Simon feeling himfelfe as yet vpon no fitre ground, left his wife with child at to Rome, to make formecomplaints, neither monid he flay, though the Legaterecalled him by his authoritie, which ener after cassed much hatred between them. Yet Kenilworth, not ceasing, till by the fauour of the Emperours letters and * excessive bribes, (by which so said the fundry good offices were at first performed by the Emperours letters and excelsue orives, (of winen king bimielle suffice was ourroome, and made captine to the Romana-that dispensaise Legate. The treatie of peace begun betweene the Legare. 1 ne treatte of peace begun betweene the two Kings of England and Seotland at Tork, was again refumed in the fame City, where Otto interpoled himselfe coward making a finall agreement, which enflued. There were also affembled the Earles and serice) hee had obtained at Rome a dispensation for Paris. that marriage, which yet was * doubted, whether it could bee lawfull, because shee had taken the ring, though neither the hebit of a Nunne, nor * ring, though neither the habit of a Nunne, nor and Met. Parkthe vaile. Howfoeuer, the King did afterward Hallings, 232. Barons, who by the princely offices of Alexan fodainely breake with him, objecting that Montford der King of Scots, were reconciled to the King their had * first corrupted her, and hee to couer his Si- "Matteria, Sourraigne, if this be the time which Boetius meanes. fters shame, was content to giue her in Ma- P480. and not the next yeere. Otto had formerly accorand not the next yeere. One had formerly accorded many of them among themselnes, whose difagreements had emperild the State of the Realme, so that for a time nothing but calmnesse and amity riage.

(59) While the Kingand his Queene abode at Woodliecke, a Traitour was apprehended, who vpon examination, confelt that others had vowed the The King in day appeared. Yet soone after they stormed to see the fame, and that hee was fent out of Ireland from Kingio * addited to the will of the Romans, especially the Legate, for which, Richard Earle of Cornwall VV eliam the sonne of Geoffrey de Marifes (one of

Ma. Paris.

reproued him, as carrying himselfe more like the those Patentees, which hoped to share in the lands

00002

Chap. 9. Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46.

1355

2

The Traitor drawne in tunde with horfes

* Because Kings

Scriprares they are called God * Mat Paris. ad A.D.1242.

Paris.

* In Walling ford Castle,

* 16 lunij, Lomini.Paris.

Ann. 1239.

bly crave absolution; which accordingly they perfor-

(60) The Legate was (not long after) called home by the Pope, * opon notice of the scandall daylie ginen in England, by the unsatiable anarice of the Ro-manes; but by the earnest workings of the King who feared left his great ones would rife against him, hee was detained as a necessary cuill to establish the good of Peace. For it was in a manner taken up for a fashion among the Lords, to glorifie themselues with the senselesse multitude, by sedi-tiously disparaging and taxing the Kings discretion and gouernment, being farre too gentle and amiable for spirites so pernerse and insolent; which might well forcehis louing nature, to feeke kind-neffeand adulife among firangers, feeing he could not haue it for any his deferts among the home-borne. A great reason why (perhaps) he did some few things rashly and passionately enough ; it being a thing forceable to diftemper a very wife man to haue so many imperious censors to obserue his actions, and few to humble their abilities to obsequious feruices, all bearing themselves rather like Turors or Controllers, then like Subjects or Counsellors. About which time, one william an ordinary Calumniator, and accuser of great men

Great faulte in the Lords to-wards the Kins of Richard late Earle Marshall) to commit that asto the King, was for that impious practife confaffinate vpon him. This execrable wretch having demned to die; though hee fought to peece out beene a Courtier, and one of the Kings * Knights. his dayes by the helpe of new appeachments and supposing to have found the King in his owne retiwas hanged vpon a Gibbet in London. Now allo the King beganne to finell out the vndirect and Promoter. ring Bed, had about midnight gotten in at the Chamber window; but God (in whose special protection, the lines of ces are) disappointed him, for the King was ellewhere in bed with his Queen. the king occurre to men our the violetee and faile dealing of his beloued Legate, whole familiar friend (Peter Saracen) being taken Captuse by the Emperour, and to pay 10000 l, Sterling for his randome; the fhameleffe Legate counfelled the king Neuerthelesse he gaue not ouer, but with naked knife in hand, fought vp and downe in fome other Chambers. One of the Queenes' gentlewomen (litting late and very deuoutly at her booke by canto bind himfelfe and his Crown for that payment. Wher-by the King perceiving what toiles were laid to entrap dle-light,) at fight of the furious villaine, with her bythe any percessing, were some over use to enjoy then, (the komanes net caring what loffe happened to the Kingdome, so they might be gainers) (worsin great rage, that it repented him be had our admitted the Legate into the land, to dispitate he wealth thereof. But the Bilhoppes of the land meeting in Conneell at fhriking noise wakened the Kings servants, who ftarting out of their Bed, laid hands upon him: & afterward he was drawne in peeces with hories at Couentree, And worthily: for(as * a vulgar Chro-Couchtree. And worthing tori 25 "a vulgar conco-nicler hereupon faith truly, Im mounding and killing a Prince, the Traiter we guilty of homicide, of puricide, of "Christiside, may of "Deteide. William de An-rise, who was saide to bee the instigator of this London to redresse the oppressions of the English Church, toide the Legate flatiy, that the Romanes importunity had fo long exhausted their Church-goods that they would no longer endure it. These English repentan-Treason, knowing his danger, became a Pyrate & ces seeme somewhat too late; but that providence fortified the lile of Lundey in Seuern, where hee did much mischiefe, the littration of that little Iwhich the King of Scotland soone after vsed, was, as more tempestine, so more commendable, when land being * inexpugnable. At length hee was furmeeting the same Legate (for now into Scotland he is going to gather coine) he denied him entrance in to his Kingdome, telling him, he was the furfi Legate which euer entred that Kingdome; yet by intreasie to prised therein, and lixteene of his Complices, who all of them after conuiction were put to death at London. William to the last gaspe denying his priuity to the former treasonous attempt of killing faue the Legates credite, hee was permitted; first the King. About the time of the Kings danger at Woodstock, the Legate was in very little better case at Oxford, where being at first honourably by the vmaking a declaration, that his entrance should neuer goe for a President of any after; whereto the Legate should put his Seale at his departure; but niuersity entertained in Ousney Abbey, the pride of his Romans there proued so intollerable, that a troupe having gotten what hee came for he fodainly stole away mithout leave of the King, and carried his wri-ting with him. By all which vile and indigne viaof the yonger students, prouoked therewith to arme themselues, not onely slew the Legates owne brother, ges, a man might thinke the Church of Rome did but would have done the like with the Legate himbut would nate upone the tike with the Legate man-lelle, whom they termed an V furer, Symbolif, Rent-raker, Money-thirfler, persenter of the King Julieriter of the Kingdome, enriching firangers with spoiles of the English; but her lawking in the Bellyer, at maningsh purposely strine to draw the hatred of all nations against her; especially, fith (as we shewed) the Greekes were fallen from the Romane vnion, to now the Church of Antioch had both excommunicated the Pope, the Church and Court of Rome, and challenged the Primacie about the Pope and the Romane Church, as being an ancienter See, wherin S. Peter

Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane
Romane escaped over the river (not without danger of drowning) and fled to the King for his protection. For which outrage, the King lending the Earle of Warren with first sate Bishoppe for senen yeeres; and more excellent and deare, sith there Peter lined with lone and renean armed band, imprisoned about 30.0f the offenders, and the Legate interdicted the Vniuerlity, till rence, whereas both he and Saint Paul were continudets, and the Legae interdirect the vinterity, the all the Billiops of England (purpole) * meeting in a Syndae) pleadedfor the Vinterfity, as being the fecond of Christendome: to whose importunity the proud Legate would not condificend, vulcife all the Bially persecuted in Rome; which Church was now also defiled with Simonie, V furie, Auarice, and other hainou (61) But(doubtleffe)it was worthy of reproofe shops would yeeld to goe on foot with the Students from in the King; that after so manifold trials of faith Paules Charch to the Legates house, (which was about a mile,) who there vingowned and vinhod, should hum-and constancy in Hubert Earle of Kent, hee should now againe affiich his honourable old-age with reuiuall of acculations, when hee rather ought to haue tendred him as a Father. Among other the Articles (engines of vexation) which the King bent against him, these were 3 new ones, by which any reasonable man may take a scantling of the rest. I That timbers had taken the money out of the barrels which were fent for the reliefe of Rockel and Poickon, and which were fent for the relief of Rackel and Railing, and Julged them whishend. 2. That to slipinde a give a light of the work which a light of the work of the state of from marriage with that King, be had faithet. Long was a figure, by death, a leave man, and a kinel for fore deciril, persured, more faint hearted then women of the trible to be unserpriend; a mod test you flip for the fait to enable Laises company. 3. The art Wedfrick, when the King was alone, for railing in with a naked fine to some the Tale did modelly and clearly refuser too so the Tale did modelly and clearly refuser. tions the Earle did modestly and cleerely refute. But with the last (being most wicked of all) he was so greened, that making low obeisance to the King, on of trespasse, brought against the Earle by the King in the Kings Bench, at which triall the King

Book.9

Hubert Farle of

Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46. (bapago

*Cambden Brit. in Kent, this man died An.D.

An.1240.

himselfe was also present. But howsoeuer the Earle answered, hee was condemned to give to the King * foure his *dearest Castles, Blanch Castle Grofmount in Wales, Skenefruh and Hafeld; and then also (as it seemes) hee was * deprined of his Title of Earle.

ty. * Mundiffman terran. Paru. Paris.

(62) After so many mischiefes patiently broo-ked, at last the King vpon receipt of letters from the Emperour whom as his brother in law, hee was loth to offend,) commanded othe the Popes Legate, in regard of the great enmittees betweene the Pope and Emperour, to depart out of England.
There was also strait commandement given to the Italian V furers, to leave the most * pure earth of his Realme (meaning that his owne people was most innocent and free from such a sinne, but (faith one, who durft write any thing hee thought) by giuingshe King money, which is too much vied to in-fishe the wicked, they for a great part remained fiill, as loth to for fake such fat passures. And the Legat himselfe also stated so long, till the Pope by wily inducements, and * forged calumniations had drawne the King, both to relinquish the Emperour his brother in law, and to fuffer the Papall Excommunication to paffe here against him, and money also to be gathered to his impeachment. A briefe rafte of all the Popes proceedings against this glorious Emperour, we may take from the Nobilitie of France, who (when the Pope offered the Empire vnto Robert the French Kings brother) in their grand Councell refused to accept it charging the Pope with the Spirit of au-dacious rashmesses, for deposing the Emperour not convi-Eted of any fault, and whom a Generall Councell onely ought to censure, not the Pope, to whom no credit ought to be given, being his Capital Enemie. For that themseives knew he was a vertuous and victorious Emperor, and one who had in him more religion then the Pope had Our Legat Otthe (who now at length is gone) was no fooner departed but Peter of Sanoy the Queens Vncle arriued, to who the King gaue the Earldome of Richmod, and entertained otherwise most magnificently. This and the like largeffe to strangers, drew on the King much eaill will, who also in fauour of his Queene, procured her Vncle Bonifacius to be chosen Archbishop of Canterbury in place of * Edmunde, who weary of his life in England, by reason that he could not Saint, thoughdy redresse the Popes detestable exactions and oppressions, made choice of a voluntarie Exile at Pountney in France, where he died with the honour and opinion

An. 1242. A reg.16, The King goes to recourt Pailler.

· calum

cie of ciuill difturbations, or in the too-patient sufferance of some forraine greeuances, nourished within his Kingdome; which gave him perhaps little leafure, minde, or meanes, to purfue any transmarine defigne. But now better prouided with money, then with men, (and yet not fufficiently with money) he takes shippe immediatly after Easter towards Poicton, where the Earle of March (now husband to Queene I fabell his mother) expected his arrivall. Hee committed the Government of the Realme in his absence to the Archbishoppe of Yorke. Thirtie Hogsheads or Barrels fraught with fterling money were shipt for that service. There alfo went with him Richard Earle of Cornwall , (who was returned with much honour out of the Hol'vland not long before) and feauen other Earles with land not long before) and feasen other Earle's with about three hundret Knights, before other fouldiers. To refull the English, the King of France (who had ginen Patien to his bottler or Hingle) affects bled an Armie royall of four thousand men of Armes, excellently wel appointed gind about verter by thousand choice Souldiers; while thousand to Carasto carries their other receiptings. Sing Parise Carasto carries their other receiptings. valeritanding that the King of France lay before Francens, (a Castle belonging to the Earle of March,) seeking to force it by assaults, sent a messenger of defiance to him as a breaker of Truce. Lewis

(63) The Kings imploiments hitherto have (almost wholly) been taken up either in the impation-

a most instand valiant Prince, denied that ever hee brake the truce, but that the King of England by maintenance of his Rebels, didrather feeme to infringe the Peace. Neuertheleffe bee offered (fo as the English would not protect his enemies the Earle of March and others) to give him Poicton, and a great part of Normandy, in latisfaction of his * Fathers Oath, and moreover, to enlarge the last trace with a longer terms of yeeres. These so honourable, safe, and profitable conditions, by the practife of the Poictonines (who feared the French Kings indignation would proue too heavie for them to beare, if the English abandoned their cause) were unfortunately refused.

(64) When the French King heard hereof, it retelling his Lords, that he neither feared his Cofen of England, nor all his forces, but onely that Oath, (for restoring of the lands in France) which his father made when hee was in England. This scruple did fo trouble the Kings mind, on the behalfe of his dead Father, that hee would admit no comfort till one of his Lords told him, that the King of England, by putting Conftantine Fitz-Arnold to death for having spoken some words in honour of King Lewis (his Father) had first broken the truce. This satisfied the French. That whole businesse is thus concluded by * Tilius; Hugh Earle of March overconcluded by "little"; Hugh Latter Order over-come with the pride and perfusions of his wife '[label, would not doe homage to Alfonfe the French Kings bro-liver: for shee was a cause to draw the English thither, where things thriuing on his part but meanely, Hugh is conftrained in the end to doe both homage and fealty onto Afonfe. This onely must be added, that he did vnfaithfully prouide for his prinate lafety with-out the knowledge of the King of England, at fuch time as he * pretended otherwife. (65) This treacherie loft the King all Poicton, prefuming vpon the Earle for men, when ir came to the point, the Earle was not onely not prouided, but sware by the throat of God, he never promised any such matter, and denied he had set his Seale to any writing concerning (uch promifes, and that if any fuch fealed writing were (as the King and his brother the Earle of Cornwall affirmed) their mother his wife had forged it. They were now in light of the French Hoft before Tailbung in Xaintioing when this improvident ex-postulation was made. The King of England mani-festly seeing his perill, and having by his brother Earle Richards mediation (whom many of the French did greatly honour because he had by compolicion been a meane at his arrivall to free them from the Saracens in the holy-land,) raised his came by night, and retreated with much more haft the good speed. Not long after this, the faire Citie of good speed. Notiong after this, the latter the way Xainties in Xaintioing*, vpon displeasure conceiled by the Citrizens against the King, because he had gi-uen the same to the Lord Hugh his halfe-brother. (sonne to the Earle of March) first contriued a perfidious resolt to closelie, that if first the faid Lord Hugh, and then Guy de Lustinian his elder brother, had not in good time fignished the danger, the King and all the English had been surprized by the French. There was none (among all the mutable Poictonins) found respective of honor and loyaltie, but onel tound respective or nonor and toyance, but oney one called Hertald, Captaine of the famous Calfic of Nirabell, who in great forrow repaired to the King of England, praying counfell and affiftance, where the King with a downceast looke gaue him where the ang with adowness tooke gate him this afficer; Fun aloff fee ferhald that my forest The Fire fee feare inflicient to defend my felfe. Our Lord and Sauiss was betraied by his Difficiple India, and therefore who falls fee fee feelood to Early of Western Lord when I tooke and remember a my Father, hat be given a sumple. whoms I tooke and reservence as my neutry, outor guent permicious prefedent; house tousfled in a flat for read, and the fluinters thereof have wounded my hand. Thouse it the onlyman who has the thoused the fels homes fly; who as fo-cient therefore thou deeft possible of mime by any sussibilities, take it to thee as thin owner, give st thre: Prouide other

Vide fupra

A molt Christie

To. Till. Chess.

for whereas he principally tooke care for money, writings to draw wife for thy selfe, as thou dost thinke it most expedient. The King of France, in whom all magnanimitie, bountie, and Christian vertues did shine, hearing what Hertold had faid and done, commended the men, and manner so highly, that, saying, He loved and allowed fuch as bee. The Castle was entrusted backe to the fame Cappaine, when with many ceares and other fignes of forrowe, he had furrendred himfelfe and it to Lepis. The farther profecution of that warre was empeached by ficknelfe and penuric which fore afflicted the French armie. An ouercure therefore for five yeeres truce being made, Lewis returned into France, and Henrie to his City of Burdeaux in Gascoigne, where his Queene Elianor (who bare him Prince * Edward about two yeeres before) bare to him a daughter called Beatrix. (66) Meane while the King looking carefullie the King.

*Prince Edward
borne at VVeftminster, An. 1239. An.1243. into the double dealings of the Poictonins, who Ap reg. 27. 4 were the limitanie or border-fubiects of the English dominions in Aquitaine, and by a nature proper to free March-men which lie betweene the hammer and the Anuill, are enured to all forts of deuices how to faue themselves and delude others, wiselie "yono I fterling besides the Earle of Marches huge withdrawes his*large Penlions, which they by deep diffimulations and improfitable flewes of affifummes. stance had shared among them, for which they repayed nothing but fecret scoffes of their Patron and Pay-mafter. The Earle of March whatfoeuer his Fees were from the King his Sonne in Law, made but an euill bargaine in the end: for, besides that the French King tooke from him no small portion of his Estate, hee was openlie appeached of Treason in the French Court, by a valiant Knight, who offered to proue the truth of his acculation by Battel. I fabell, whom the French in passion called lexabell, because her pride and turbulent practifes had procured all those euils, fled voon the newes to a Nunnerie. In the end yet her hufband being aged, by the diligence & care of friends auoided the Combat, and was suffered to returne home. The king (whose comming had been long expected in England) having ordained one Sir Ni-cholas de Molis his* Leistenant in Aquitain, is now "The King lands at Portferouth in October. vnder Saile, although the Gascages, because his pre-sence was greatly beneficiall, had sought all the waies they could to detaine him longer. Being returned, by reason of that vnaduised and losseful voiage into France, hee was compelled to be bur-thenous to his Subjects, aswell by the leuie of Efcuage, as of loanes and otherwife. The lewes also ments and showes.

felt the gripe of his wants fo farre, that even Chri-The prodicality ftians commiserated: whose gold hee received with his owne hands, but their silver by others. made onely to fill vp (uch breaches as the French affaires had produced, but also to spend in entertainney, 0.367, faith fhe was mother to 5. Queenes, adding to the 4 forementioned, should bee wanting, when publike occasions do re-quire; in which respects they are not onely vsefull, but absolutely necessary, because Common-weales are partly founded upon the opinion which Subiects and neighbours have of their power and riches, and their estimate is commonly made by that which is outwardly seene at such times. This care, besides the great loue hee bare to his wives kindred and Countrimen, made him puruey for money in this manner; for in December the Lady Beatrix Counteffe of Province * mother to the Queenes of England and France, having with her the Lady Cinera, Cynthia, or Scientia (for by all those names shee is called in Authors) and a princely traine in all points excellently well furnished landed at Dower . loss married to Philipking of Naucre. Richard the kings where innumerable of the best forts gaue her welcome and attendance. London was hung with rich Ornaments, from the Bridge thereof to well with a This noble young Lady Cineta, was brought hitherto bee married to Richard the Kings brother

These and other importunate corrasions, were not

(67) Neither will the Maiesty and honour of the

Kingdome permit, that fuch kindes of expense

Earle of Cornwall: At whose Nuptiall fealt, there were thirty thousand * Messes prouided in the Cookery onely, and of all other things there was incredible plenty. All which notwithstanding did manifeftly proue(as Paris faith most truly) that the world is but a very Iugler, and the pompe thereof but an i-truth conce dle shadow feeing the next morrow blew away the whole the worlds varietie of so great preparations like as if it had beene a Cloude. Nor much vnlike is the life euen of greatest Princes, which hangeth on very viscousty continued of Griffin, eldeft brother of David Prince of Wales did criffin elder brother of Ender when hoping by achaine of Blankers, and fundam, limited the continued of the Tomer of Landow. Princes, which hangeth on very vntrufty termes, as An.D.1244 like stuffe to escape out of the Tower of London, enfully but where the King had emprisoned him, the line brea- his necks. king, hee pircht vpon his head, which the weight of his great body drauc (as it were)into his shoulders and miferably flew him. The King therefore punishing the Keepers for their sloth, commanded that the Sonne of Griffith (prisoner with his father) should from thenceforth bee more narrowly watched. Not long after the which, David Prince of cneu. Not long after the which, Dasid Prince of Walst prosseds by wronges, Chiefit done by the "Earle of Harsfired" in Junaded the English Nasches, whom the Earle of Glassife and Hersford, and Treebles who there mighty men in thole parts, having the Kings confers and diffiance, did withflands, yet righting but with variable fortune. Le was Prince Dasid parts of the Prince Dasid. purpose to haue freed himselfe from the obedience or tenure which hee had acknowledged to the King; for which purpose he exhibited his * complaint to *D.Powel.inbiff the Pope, pretending that the King of England compelled him vniustly to hold his Principality and Lands of him. But the Kings credite, cause, and workings, easily onerweighed the Prince of walas, (68) The States of the Realme were in those dayes nothing supple, when the King sought to handle them for money; for hee about this time labouring to draw some from them, vpon faithfull promife to keepe and observe the liberties, vnto which he had fworn at his Coronation, and whereof he had granted his Charter, they belought him to remeone grove an control cuty decough this corem-ber, how of the head wrong from his faithfull life; people (whom he ought to cherife, not cutry) empone.

"I) without performing his possif," That for the kings of Bedford, hee had Garra"with after the taking of Bedford, hee had Garra"with a first the taking of Bedford, he had Garra"with a first the same for the sam eage, that is, two shillings vpon enery Plough-"and; the next yeere after, a fifteenth of all their "Moueables: wpon his paffage into Britain, no final "fummes of money from the Prelates, Religious or ders, Burgesseand, Lewes: after his returne, hee s had Escuage, that is, vpon euery Shield (or knights Fee) three markes : then a fortieth part of all their Moueables: within a while after a thirrieth part;
"By and by, for the marriage of the Lady I fabell of perunary ale to the Emperour, two Marks vpon enery Plough."
in a yetre service of the transfer of the Carlogue of the Emperour, two Marks vpon enery Plough. " land; at his Sonnes birth, hee by Prefents heaped "wp no small flore of money. Againe, when hee went into Geseigne, hee railed almost infinite heapes of money from all forts of Subjects: upon this returne, where hee had beque desired and diffionoured, hee fleeced all manner of Subjects. They now also (vnder the name of aide for the marriage of his eldest daughter) granted him vp-on every Knights Fee, which held of the King in chiefe, twenty shillings, the one halfe to bee paide at Easter, the other at Michaelmasse. But (say they) bow well the King will keep and fulfill his vaderia-king sand promifes, in requitall of the past and prefet contributions, he need knoweds whom nathing is on-knowne. But inchast resulted to firengiten the Dopes defigned, with collections of money among the English Ciergy, found a stern and constant op polition, not onely for that they were vnwilling, but also for that the Emperour had written to the King in plan e phrase, that if hee suffered any such matter, hee would not faile in grieuous fort to punishall the English hee could get, in reuenge of that partiality.

(69) About

Chap. 9. Henry 2. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46. noured to free Danid Prince of Wales from his ho-

Met.Peris.

warre with Scotland would bring them this commodity, that the oppressions they did to the peothe Lord Ingelram de Cowcie, who (as all Frenchmen) was betweene the two Kings of England and of Scots, as a point necessarie or profitable for the tranquilitie of France. Their hope thus had ending the faid Ingelram by the stumbling of his horse in the depth of the river, while his foot hung fast in eyhanged in his Rirrop, drownd, and run through two fifter-Nations likewife died: for not long af ded, with relation to fuch Articles as had been forof England had with him five thousand horseme

The King feekes in vaine to draw the grant of them overflow.

* At Wew-Cafil

Mat.Paris.

(69) About which time many feditious persons were in the Court of England, which hoped that ple should rest vnpunished; for Lawes and Instice have no place in time of battell. Their hope thus tooke beginning. Alexander King of Scots had married the Lady Mary, a goodly Gentlewoman daughter to being a deadly enemy to the King of England, had laboured to weaken that strength of amity, which Foord, being cast out of his Saddle, and pitcht into the firrop, his fword at the fame time falling out of his fleath, and running him through, did most strangely end his life by a triple death, with whom it feemed the humour of battel between the ter, (notwithstanding the great preparations on both sides) all quarrels were absolutely * conclumerly made betweene them at Yorke. The King most fairely armed and appointed; besides a most puissant number ofseruiceable men on foot. The Welfhmen feared and expected that vpon this agree ment, the King would turne all his forces against them; but hee knowing it needlesse to vse such numbers for that feruice, fent onely three hundreth men of Armes, vnder the conduct of Sir Hubert Fitz-Mathew, to represse their attempts but through their own rashnes, & the Welshmen valiancie, hee and his people were with loffe at that time scattered. The newes of this bad successe troubled the King neerely, for finall remedy whereof, hee resolved to lead a full Armie thither. But when to furnish this designe hee prayed more Subsidie of the States of his Realme, they with one voice and with one mind contradicted; though also his debts to Merchant-strangers for wines, and other necessaries, were so many and so continually called for, as hee could scarce passe abroad without their clamors. Neuerthelesse, the newes which he receyucd out of Aquitaine, where his Senefchall Nichola de Molis had wonne the day in a battell against the King of Nauarre, did somewhat mitigate the sowreneffe of these overthwarts; and for replenishment of Coffers, Robert Paffelen io ordered the matter, by

(70) The great helps which the King found by the new supply of his Treasure, made him dayly confider, how to augment the fame, and how to stoppe all vndue Outlets, by which it was ordinarily impair d. Voon the departure of otthe the Popes Legate, who had well stuffed his owne and his Masters Coffers, (and had no lesse filled the Peoples heartes with repinings, and their mouthes with curses of him) there was some hope the Romish Horse-leaches would for a while haue left fucking the best inyce of the land; but it proued otherwife, new Agents, Legats, & Factors. ftill comming ouer, as if England had bin a wel which could neuer be drawne drie, and Rome a bottomlesse gulfe which could neuer bee filed full. Whereupon, before this, the King writ his letters both to this poper, and to his Predecessor of the string them to furceasses but neither one nor ather of them their exactions; but neither one nor ather of them would vouchfafe to bridle their owne wilfull motions, if God and Saint Peter (whose steps they follow not) had even bent their howes against that Church of Rome.

With which contempt the King had the more reafon to bee incensed, because the Pope had endeafining such as had encroched vpon the Kings For-refts, that hee vnexpectedly beganne again to make

mage made to King Henry, pretending that if it were done by feare or force, it was of no force but vitter lie void. Notwithstanding the Pope seeing the King and State refolued to the contrary, was defirous not onely to hold fast the Kings good-will, but also to come into England; to which purpose he caused his Car-tests come dinals to write their persuasory letters to the King, as a thing tending much to his fafety, and to his Kingdomes immortall glory, to enion the Lord Popes presence, who didlong to fee the delicacies of westminster, and the riches of London: but the kings Councel told him, that the Romans rapines and Simonies had enough stained Englands purity, though the Pope himfelf came not perfonally to spile & prey upon the wealth of this Church and Kingdom, The like denyal of entrance he had found both in France and Arragon, it being faid, that the Pope was but like a mouse in a sachel, or a snake in ones Iden. rope was out the among in a Jacote, or a June to one, beloom, who did but illergy a beit Halfs to their lod-ging 50 the infamies of the Popes Court deferued no other whose philosiath our Monk four forth a flowe 60 flench as hie as the every Clauds. The Pope, though he could not come himselfe, yet hee had his pipes & conducts to conuay this stench into this land, and the wealth of it backe in lieu thereof. Which was now to factoured by his Chaplaine Martin, that certaine of the Peeres commiferating the inceffant depredation of the land, tooks order for fruit watch at all the Ports in England, that all letters comming dayly from the Pope to picke mens puries, thould be flopt. But soone after a more generall redresse was intended against so vnmercifull tyranny: the King finding by diligent inquirie in eury Shire that the annuall revenues here wherewith the Court of Rome had fraudulently and violently enriched Italians, amoun ted to threefcore thousand Markes, to the great both wonder and anger of the King; which made him now wonace and anget of the King; which made him how beginne to detest the insatiable greediness of the Court of Rome. Hereupon, for that the Pope had now immoned a Generall Councell at Lions, Embassa dors were thither fent, there publikelie in the name of the whole Kingdome, both to complaine and crave re-dresse of the Popes too long fuffered extortions,

(which were particularly there rehearled, and which as being detefiable to God and man, they would no longer endures) and to disauow all subjection vniustlie pretended from King John, as whereunto both the then pretended from Ring som, as whereasto with the teach Archbishoppe openly contradicted, and the Robles and State neuer consented nor ener would. The Pope (a-shamed belike to bee so taxed in so great an assem-

(71) The Welfh affaires by reason of the casuall death of Fitz-Mathew growing dayly leffe tractable then other, the King againe prepares to reprefit their insolencies in person. Before he sets forward. hee came into London to the Church of Saint Paul, The King prepar to the intent that before his departure hee might take his leaue of the Citizens in a popular and louing manner. And because neither warre nor linity. Nnnn 2

bly) is noted to have fate long filent, not fo much as lifting up his eyes from the ground, till at length hee cut off their importunity with this briefe answere,

that so difficult a matter would aske longer deliberation which vaine delay to enraged Earle Bigod, and the reft of the Kings Agents, that with threats and terrible oaths, they fware to remedy that themselves, which the Pope would not. And indeed the Nobles at home had already begunne so to doe; having commanded Martin (the Popes Agent) to depart out of hand, for if hee stayed, hee and all his company should bee cut

n beeces; who prefently packing away, (the King

alfo wishing the Diuell to take him, having thus preyed alse withing the Disect to take nime, naming time present open his land) so entaged the Pope with tidings of this vlage, that his Holinesse lid; it is high time that we make a quickeend with the Emperour, that so we may crush these petty Kings (meaning the English and French, who both denied him entrance into their land)

who spurne against us; for the great Dragon being once crushed, those lesser poore snakes will some been troden duine service, nor preach, nor keepe hospitalitie, nor eare for soules, &c.) but only begger the Landwith carrying away the Coine. 3. that the Popes Pronifions and Penfi-

Chap-9. Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46. close-handed, and open mouthed; for, besides their vndutifull vpbrayding the King with some ouer-The editions Nobles expossulite their greemances with the King in stead of granting monyfights, they vntruly and feditionfly charged him to have done contrarie to the example of his magnificent Predecessors, in that his chiefe Instice, Chancellour and Treasurer were of his owne choosing, and not by the Common Councell of the Realme, as they ought. The King inwardly touched herewith, yet feeing no o-ther helpe, promifeth redreffe and change for the better. Whereunto they answered; that they would expect a while with patience, and as the King shall carrie himselfe toward them, so will they performe their obeyfance to him. So the meeting was adjourned from that Candlemas till Midfommer; at which time alto there was nothing done, but all parts role disconreted. The cause of that discotentment was, for that the King, in flead of fatiffying their audacious dethe Ang, in treat or tathlying their audacious est mands, answered them, That they fought to bridle him at their furlie pleasures, proudlie for bidding that in him, which was lawfull for themselves. For that everie private man may vse, what, and whose Counsell he list; enerie mafter of a familie preferre or remove what officers in his house he list; which yet they saucily denied unto him, their Lord and Soueraigne, as if Servants and Vassals were to rule their Lords; whereas indeed he is no King but a seruant, who must bow at others becke. That therefore he would neither place nor displace either Chancellour, I usti-ciar, or T reasurer as they thought good. Nevershelesse hee required money at their hands, torecover such forreine lands as concerned afwell them as him, to fee it done. Hereupon the Parliament brake vp, and the King was left to furnish himselfe otherwise so well as hee could, euen by sale of his Iewels, Plate and other precious stuffe, after a dishonourable manner, (75) The affaires of Gascoign (which one Guasto de Biard had greatly troubled) by the manhood and An.reg.33. wit of Simon Earle of Leicefle were now brought into better quiet, which made his prefence (being returned, as it feemeth for more supplies, which Simon Earle of went againe with him) very acceptable in the Court of England. The King intending to furnish that enterprise afresh against the comming spring time, left no meanes vnthought of, which either by Art or ftrong entreatie he could vie to replenish his exhaufted Coffers. In which he embased too much the Royall name and dignity, telling some (and perhaps truely) whose bountie he craued, that it was more almes to ayde him with money, then one that went begging from dore to dore. Meanewhile the king neglects not his administration of Justice; for, whereas the whole Countie of Hampshire swarmed with felons and murtherous robbers, himfelfe so ordered the matter, fitting in person in Winchester Castle, that the infamie and danger of those places were cleared by hanging the Offendors; many of which were A.D. 1250. A.reg. 34. Walter Clifferd makes an officer eat the kings writ, wax and all.

very wealthie, and some the kings owne servants. Walter de Clifferd also (a Baron of the Marches of Wales) for enforcing an officer (whom he had otherwife handled badly) to eat the kings writ, waxe and all, ranio fare into the kings dipleasure thereby, that while he lined, he was made the lesse able to feed himselfe; paying to the king a very great sum of money, and hardlie escaping without confiscation of his whole patrimonie. The king defirous to be friends with the Citizens of London, to whom of late he had beene oner-hard, publikely reconciled himfelfe vnto them, whom for that cause he had commanded to appeare at Westminster, and there immediatly received the badge of the Crosse at the hand of Boniface Archbilhop of Canterburie; but whatfoeuer his intention was, it neuer came into action on his part. In the meane time contrarie to his Fore-fathers example, he so much abridged the expences of his house, and his Almes, that he vnderwent fome dishonourable imputation. Neuerthe-lesse he wisely wound himselfe out of many a Merchâts debt; whereto he wrung great helps from the Iewes, (as the ordinary Clippers and defacers of his Coyne,) and the forgers of seales and Charters;

from one of whom hee had at times drawne thirtie Thirde theuthousand markes Sterling, besides two hundreth

markes in gold. (76) It feemeth an inseparable qualitie in his nature, to bee extreamly violent, in doing what seeuer hee had a mind to doe, and that sometime without the due respect to secular Maiestie; as in the Course her tooke for advancing his halfe-brother Ethelmare to the Bilhoprick of Winehefter. For not contenting himfelfe to have fent his meffengers to the Couent by them to worke the election, heecame thither in person, where the Chapter being fer in the Cathedrall Church, hee entred, and placing himselfe in the Presidents seat, makes to them check to the Co a speech in the nature of a sermon, taking for his uent. Theme those words of David : Inflice and Peace kille each other, Whereon hee shewed them, That subereas luffice belonged to him, and to fuch as had the rule of Na-tions, and to the Clergy commelfe and Peace, both thefe flowld that day kiffe together of they elected his brother for their Biflop: For which he gaue them many reasons, but concluded, if they did otherwife, they should feele his Princely displeasure. When therefore they published to the King their Choise, they did it with this refernation (because Athelmare was to remaine under the title of the Elect of Winchester, for that he was not a Pricft) if fuch an election might stand by law, or lawfull fauour. But the Pope, who meant to make his aduantage hereof, as well as the King, exacted of him for confirmation of the same election, five hundreth Markes of Church revenewes, to be paffed ouer vnto the Earle of Burgundies fonne a childe; which makes * the Monke to breake forth into this bitter lamentation; O Pope, the Chiefe of Fathers, why doft thou suffer thus the Christian world to be defiled? worthily, worthily, therefore art thou * drinen out of thy owne Citie and See, and like a runnagate and another thy owne citie and see, and are a running us and awence.

Cham, art inforced towander up and downe. 6 God, thou God of suftreuenge, when with thou draw forth thy fword to imbrue at in the blood of fach oppressors? Though in these vniuerfall abuses, the Pope would neither redresse himselse nor others, yet God raised vp aftout and learned Prelate, Robert Grofteft, Bithop of Lincolne, who undertooke to reforme the Monks and Friars; but they (who knew Rome was from the beginning* Afylum Latronum) appealed to troin the Deginning A journ Larronium) appealed to the Pope. Whereupon the aged Bishop going to his blineste, tolde him that all offenders escayed, by his opening his bosome to such as brought him bribes; who snapping 1 im vp with angrie Countenance and speech fent him home with reproach. The Pope was at this time at Lyons, where not long after the Coucel breaking vp, Cardinal Hugo made a Sermon of farewell to the Citizens; wherein among ft other benefites which the Popes lying in their City had brought them, he fold them this was a " Principall, that whereas at their comming there were three or foure Whore-houses in the Lyons, now at their departing they left but one, but indeed that reached from the East-Gate of the City to the West. Whereby wee see France had some part of the

(77) The King now whollie intent vpon encrease of treasure, neither game any rich presents ac-cording to the ancient Custome of England, and alto thortneth yet more the allowances of his Househould and entertainements, without any regard to Maicstie or rumor. And to spare his ownecharge the rather, he inuites himfelf fometime to this man, and fometime to that, but no where contenting and nometime to that, but no wherecometing himselfe with his diet & hospitage, vnlesse both he, his Queene & some Edward, yearnd chiefe fauouritees in Court, were presented with great and costly gifts, which they tooke not as of Courtesie, but as duc, This was the vnhonourable face of the Kings effare at that time. But in the depth of his wants and rigour of his Parcimonie, he could not that vp himfelfe against the suites and advancement of his Popes Almes, as well as England.

Poictouines and Provinceis, so that it was become a common murmur in England; Our inheritance is con-

*The pope wa Remetal fear e of mandement, where after so much purloyning by others, now the Kings owne errand and affaires was to get money for himselfe. But they (who gaue fuch way to the Popes collections) were now all the clause Non obstante (brought in first by the Pope) was taken vp in England by the King, in his grants and other writings, as " Non obstante priore mandato, Non obstante * antiqua libertate, &c. This ding any tormer dement our ancient Author cals an odious and detestable * Or former prielause: and Roger de Thurkeby Iusticiar, fetching a deepe figh at the fight thereof, cried out both of the times and it, faying, * it was a streame derived from that sulphureous fountain of the Clergie.

(78) Another of the Kings Iusticiars, and a learned Knight, Sir Henry de Bath, (whose Lady,be-cause herselfe was well descended, filled him with pride,) was so considently greedy, the better to latisfie her ambition, that in one circuit, hee appropriated to himfelfe aboue two hundreth pound lands. Corruption in Iustice (which must needs be suspected to be there, where excelline wealth u cotten by the Officers of inflice) is but a fandie ground-worke of a vainely-hoped greatnesse, and may well beereputed in the number of crying sinnes; and this mo-Sir Philip Darey appeacheth Sir Henry Bath a briued a Knight, Sir Philip de Arci, to appeach him before the King, both for vnfaithfulnesse in his office, and treason against the King. The King had no hold of himselfe, after hee was once throughly kindled. Bath knowes it, and therefore writes to his wines friends to come firong in his defence, that the King should not dare to call him to his triall; yet withall hee feekes all fecret meanes how to appeale the King; who understanding of this combination, was the more enflamed. The Earle of Cormuall his brother could not appeale him; no.

not though hee knit vp his intercessions with these minatorie words; Wee must not ferfake Gentlemen in of Inftice, which he deferuedly feared. The accusations were many, (for all me were called to fay whar they could against him,) and among all, these two, most hainous: that he troubled the whole Realme, and stirred all the Barons thereof against the King, so that a generall rebellion was to be feared, (which one of his fellow-Iusticiars did openly testific:) that bee had for remard discharged a connicted Malefattor out of prison without punisment, in presudice of the King, and to the perill of his associate Iusticiars. The King was to enraged-herewith, that feeing no other way to punish him, being fo strongly backed, hee mounted into an higher place then before, and cries out, Wholesuer kils tienrie de Bath (ball be quit of his death, and

I here doe acquit him; and prefently departs. Nevertheleffe, although hee left behind him many men, who would have readily executed the Kings terrible doome; yet by the wifdome of Sir John Manfel,

(one of the Kings private Councellors) they were restrained. His wordes are worthy to bee remem-bred; Gentlemen, and friends, it is not necessary for vs to put that presently in execution which the King hath in his anger commanded. It may bee when his wrath is ouerblowne, hee will bee forry hee faid it. Moreoner. if any outrage be done to Bath, loe here are his friends who will take all forts of revenge. Sir Henry escaping

thus from so present a danger, found meanes vpon promise of money and great mediation of friends, to obtain his peace & fafety; for at this time, Instice and all things grew saleable. The North-East part of Wales was committed to Alan de Zouch, who had it in Farme for elegen hundreth Markes yeercly, uerted to aliens, and our hou fes to strangers. The matter seemed the more gricuous, for that their pride and violence were intollerable. About this time their right, nor in preserving the peace of the tottering Kingdome. In March there was holden a Parlia The diforderly weake and rio ment at London; there the King caused Bath to bee lent carriage of sharpely prosecuted. Thither Sir Henry Bath repairs. strongly attended with Knights and Gentlemen of his owne friends, and his wives, to daunt the edge

Sir John Manfei Rayes the Kings

An. 1252.

whereas tokn de Gray (whom he supplanted in the place) paid but fine hundreth : fo * miferable Wales was let out to such as would give most.
(79) Alexander the third, succeeding his Father in the Kingdome of Scotland, comming in Christmas to Torke, there espoused, though very young, Alexander the the Lady Margaret, daughter to King Henry. There Sens esponsets were present the two Kings in person, with a most the Lady Marga choice multitude of either Nation, the English being in number aboue a thousand Knightes, befide greater States, as Prelates, Earles and Barons, and of the Scots about fixe hundreth Knights and Gentlemen, all of them well appointed. There was also two Queenes, the Mother of the Bride, (who was to be Queene) and the widow or Queen Dowager of Scotland, who for that cause was returned out of France, attended vpon in royall manner with many Lords and Gentlemen of France. The Scots were lodged in one place of the City by them felues. Vpon Christmas day the King of England gaue the order of Knight-hood to the King of Scots, and at the same time to twenty others richly apparrelled. Vpon the next day the princely couple were espoused. Take a scantling of the cheere and multitude of guests by this. The Archbishoppe of Torke, who was Prince (as it were) of the Northerne Six bundreth parts (and the common hoft of all that most noble Oxenspental fellowshippe, which cost him about foure thousand marks)gaue toward that feaft fix hundreth fat oxen, all which were spent in the first generall service; and whatfocuer the vaine * Stage-play of the world might afford eyther for pompe or delight, was there all enioyed. More worthy to bee remembred, then that magnificent gluttonie, (the natural vice of these our Nations) was the orderly and no childish actiour vactions) was the orderly and no children action of the young Bridegroome, in reconciling Philip Losell (whom King Henry had latelle fined and discourted for taking Bribes) to the King his Lord K.

The young King Alexander value patients of the buffine fle, and finding of some a fitte time, prefents himselfe to the King of England you his knees, holding vp his hands, neither Leading Fallon. would hee rife, though earnestly requested, but againe. with a gesture which seemed to draw teares of ioy and loue from the eyes of such as * fate round about, prosecuting his intent, faith; My Lord King, your Maiely howes, that I am withall both a Child, a fivel I had princely is and princely in a princ in age as in knowledge, and also an Orphan, my father being dead, and my mother leaving me, though at your sending for, she is now pleased to bee present; therefore the king his from henceforth, and for euer after, I here doe take you, both for Eather and Mother, that you may supply both their wants, and with your paternall care help & protect all mine insufficiencies. The King scarse able to refraine from tender teares, or to hold down his throbbings, faid no more but onely this one word, Willingly. The princely Child replied therupon: I will make experiment of that, and know it by proofe; feeing you have graciously heard mee hitherto, in proofes feeing you name y actions mear a mee numerio, in philip Loudie-trying whether I stall reage the effect of my first sait.

Then hee declared his request, and had it sto that Lo-

(80) The State and fidelity of the Gascoignes was so desperately shaken and plunged by the reuenges which Simon de Montford (to whom the king had given the government of their Country for fixe yeeres,) had exercised vpon them, for that they had accused him to the King of tyrannous & prodirorious dealing, and affirmed that his name ought rather to be sinon then simon, that but for the vent of their wines, (in which respect their fub. sea, sate Gapiciello to England was verie beneficiall to their Common-weale) it was thought they would generally have revolted. But the King though readie thus to leese Gascoigne, would yet needshope to obtaine Normandie, and his other lands in France without blowes. The King of France (whose confcience was wonderfully tender and fincere) had indeed written out of Palestine to that purpose, as thinking King Hemies title was better then his owne: but the French, among whom their Kings milfortunes in the loffe of Damiata in Egypt, well was afterward Treasurer.

(which was wholy * ascribed to the Popes anarice, who ritism tolk event Chap. 9. Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46. for money released those who should have aided him,), had brought him into lesseraged then his excelthe presence of Christ, against also thoseyour Councellors, who bewitch and dull your sudgement, and draw lent vertues merited, did vniuerfally and constantlent vertues merited, did vinterially and containt-ly refule, adding, that before the King of England should have any more land among them, hee must passe through a thousand sharpe Lances, and a thousand bloudy Swords when the Lances were burft. On the other fide, the King of England was but in little credit with his people: for, whereas (by an agree-ment betweene the Pope and him,) the Tenths of the Clergie through England during three yeeres should have beene received toward his charges in his pretended iourney to the Holy-Land, yet in a generall affembly at Westminster very few were drawne to giue their names to that feruice, notwithstanding that two Bishops and the Abbot of Westminster laboured in their Sermons all they could to ftirre the people to that martiall Pilgrimage, and though the King himselfe in all their view took a most solemn oth, that within three yeere he would fet forward; the onlie reason of their vnwillingnes growing vpon suspition, that he onely sought (as the Pope had given him example) to draw by this colour the treasure of the Realme into his hands This their diffidence of finceritie in him, made him therather incline to foster and favour strangers, & that with a kind of peruicacie, though himselfe pinion of the Kings deligne for the holy Land.

by manifold neglects of his word, had worthilie bred that diffidence. (81) The King could more hardlie find followers in such an enterprise, for that his people had no conceit of his valour, but faid : What reason encourageth him, who was never trained up in Martiall difeipline, nor hath managed anhorfe, nor drawn a fword, pune, nor natu managea an norje, nor ar awn a word, nor charged a staffe, nor shooke a Target; to hope for a triumph ower the Sarazens against whom the Chevalrie of France hath miscarried or wherefore dreames hee of ecouery of more land, who could not keepe that which he had in forraine parts? concluding, that he was a man onely borne to draine their purses, to empty his own, and to multiplie debts. This was the opinion of men, & behind his backe; but not onely of men, for Ifabel Countesse of Arundel, widow of Henry Earle of Arundel, a young Lady receiving the repulse at the Kings hands in a matter which shee allcadged to be hers in equity, durft fay thus to his face : Omy Lord King, why doeyou turne away from unflice? we cannot now obtaine that which is right in your Court; you are now obtains that which is right to your court; you are placed as a mean between God and visbut you neither go-merne vs. nor your felfe, neither dread you to wexe the Church dinersty, as it hath not onely felt in present, but often heretofore. Atoreouer you doubt not manifoldlie to afflict the Nobles of the Kingdome. The King firedat fo free a speech, with a scornefull and angry countenance, answered with a loud voice; O my Lady Countesse? What? have the Lords of England because you have tongue at will, made a Charter, and hyred you to bee their Orator and Advocate? wherevnto the Counteffe replied: Not fo my Lord, for they have made to mee no Charter, but that Charter hey have made to mee no Charter, but that Charter which your statem made, and which your statem made, and which your statement, puraring to keepe the same involudy and conflaintly, and often exterting, showey, open promise the Liberies therein centained should be statisfially only the statement of the statement nour or conficience broken. Therefore are you foiled to be a manifelt violator of your faith and eath. For where are the Libertice of England fo often fairely engrefit in working: fo often pranted fo often bought? I therefore though a woman, and all the material loyall people of the Land, appeals againfy you to the Tribunal of the fearer of the there is the sum of the third than and the Earth fall bases on twistfull Indge, and Heaven and Earth hall beare vs wit-messe, that wee are ofed omissily, and God the Lord of resembles right on. The King abashed at these words

asked her, if shee did not looke to obtaine her suite opon

HISKOCENEY, 17 jnee and not note to containe her justice open favour, in regard fleet was his Kinfwoman? whereun-to thee answered: That setting hee had denied that which the Law gaue, how could shee hope to obtain her suit by fauour? Therefore (laid shee) I doe appeals to you out of the path of truth, gaping onely after their own commodity. But the King (faith Paris) remained incorrigible, and the Lady lost both her charges, hopes and tranell.

(82) Thus harsh were the former yeeres to the King and Kingdome: let vs see what more gentle or rougher accidents rife vnto vs in the next. But it then the first little better appeares; for the King hauing bought out the time which Simon de Montfort had in the government of Gafcoigne (which now he giues to Prince Edward) was truely aductifed that Guallo de Biard was turned Spanilb, and labored by all the meanes hee could to plucke that part from the Englif obedience. Alfons & to spaine, claimed the same by vertue of a Charter made therof by Henry the second, confirmed by Richard and John Kings of England, Simon Earle of Leicester thus difplaced to let the world fee that hee would not difflaced, to let the world fee that he would not for any preferment incurre the fulfpition of diffor- feth high honer law world most honorable offers which fofter in France to a few world most honorable offers which fofter in France to a few world most honorable offers which fofter in France to a few world most honorable offers which fofter in France to a few world most honorable of the few world for the alty, refused most honorable offers, which, (after the death of Lady Blanch, Queene Dowager, and Rectrix of France,) the French Nobility made him, if to England, he would with his counsell and Force helpe to sustaine that Monarchie, while Lewis their king was absent. In the meane time the king of England (all old matters being buried in obliuion, vpon hope of future amendment) for advancement of his martiall Pilgrimage had large aides granted him in Parliament; but vpon condition that hee should now at last, once for all, submit himselfe to gouerne by a Law, not at his pleasure, confirming the Charters of Liberties, against the breakers whereof a most folemne curse was pronounced by the kings assent The Archbishoppe, Bishoppe, and the reft of the Prelatespontifically apparelled, pronounced that curse with Tapers burning, which when they had throwneaway vpon the paucment, where they lay extinguished and smoking, the King (hauing laid his hand on his breast all the while,) sware to keep all Liberties upon pain of that execratory fentence; Thekings oath as he was a Man, a Christian, a Knight, and a King to confirmation.

The business of Gascoigne confirmation. foone after called him to a neerer warre, whether vpon his promife made to the Gafcoigns, he fet faile, leaving his sonne Prince Edward, and his kingdome to the government of his Brother, the Earle of Cornwall, and the Queene his wife : his arrivall there giuing a light and stay to all the affaires therof. Such Holds as held against him hegreduced to obedi-

offended, he was fure to fmart for it, and that rather more then leffe. (83) His feare now was, left the Gafcoigns fhould draw in the Spaniards, and relinquish his Soueraignty. To preuent this, hee verie prudently and fea-tonably fent Ambassadors to Assemble King of Spain and Cassile, to desire that the Lady Elianor his si-Zaburd. fter, might be giuen in marriage to Prince Edward. The motion was well approued, and besides that they brought Letters Patents from the King of Spaine, in which, among all other Clauses it was Spaine, in which, among an other Claules it was conteined, that the King of Spaine did quit his claime and whole right, which by vortue of any Grants from Henry, Richard and John Kings of England, he had, or ought to hau. Hereupon hee fends both for his Sonne (whom the king of Spaine defired might be conuaied to him, onely with a noble intent to see and doe him honour) and for his wifethe Queenc. Among other Acts of fincerity and love, Alfonfo fent to the King of England good aduile: that, after the example of good Kings and Princes, he should be Theking of ter the example of good. It mig and Princes, he found of Spainer adule a Lambe toward his Subjects, and Seruitours, and a Lion the king at Angele Simon Farle of Leicether with land. to Aliens and Rebels. Simon Earle of Leicefter with a gallant Troupe of Souldiers offered his feruice to the King, who admiring the Earles charity, received him with all ioy possible; at which reconciliation PDDD

ence, but with too faulty a Clemency sparing most open Traitors, whereas if an Englishman had uoid the fulpitia on of difloialty

533 * Mat. Farm. * St. Matim.ib.

* Romanorum malleus & con temptor. Tarie.

Mat Perit.

to appalled, that they came * droppinglie in, and became good Subjects. That valorous Earle was thereunto moued by that great, free, and noble Prelate, Robert Grofted called the * Maull of the Romans, as being a great curbe in those dayes of the Popes vigodly courses towards his State of Eng-land; against which hee writa * famous letter to his Holinesse, learnedlie prouing, that his detestable, abhominable, foule-murdering actions, did cuince him to be an Heretike, worthy of death, to be Antichrift, and to fit in the Chaire of peffilence, as next to Lucifer himselfe, and that he had no power to excommunicate such as resisted those his actions. With which Catholike Letter, the Pope was besides himselfe for rage, swearing by Saint Peter and Sasnt Paul, that he could find in his heart to make that doting Prelate a mirrour of confusion beart to make that asting treates mirrour of conjuguon to all the world for his faweinesse. But some wifer Car-dinals assisted him from any sharper course against him; telling the Pope that all was true be said of their Courts abuses; that he was holier then any of themselues; and one who had no Peere amongst all other Prelates for fantitity or learning; and therefore it were best to hush the matter, for feare of stirring coales, especially sith it was knowne, that at length there would bee a departure from their Church. This noble Prelate dyed this very yeare, with opinion of a Saint (in delpite of the Pope, who would have had his bones throwne out of the Church) leaving this * Propheticall farewell at his verie last gaspe; that the Church would never bee set free from such her Egyptian servisude, but by the dint of blow-

(84) Soone after the Queenes arriving in Gafthe Gascoignes * who feared him like lightning, were |

Ann. 1254. igne, when all things were rightly prepared, Prince Edward was thence fent into Spaine, where, at the City of Burges hee married the Lady Eleanor, lifter to the King with great honour, hauing first received Knight-hood at his hand; which done, hee returnes with his Bride to Burdeaux, from whence they all together came fafe through France into England. What treafure this noble young Princeffe brought in portion to her husband, wee cannot The effate which fay; but the King forthwith gaue his sonne Gascoigne, Ireland, Wales, Bristow, Stanford, and Grantham. He had drawne vpon himselfe a debt, in this The kings debr. and other his actions of about three hundred thoufand Marks; the King of France being not long be-fore returned from the Holy-Land, gaue them both safe-conduct in their passage, and did to him, & his whole noble company all the honor which the wit of man, or the most goodly kingdome of France could afforde. There were at Paris in this entertainment Beatrix the Counteffe of Province; and foure

Queenes her Daughters. The King of England had in his owne Houshold traine, a thousand choice & excellenthorfe, beside Carriages, Sumpters, and Coursers. Hee was lodged in the Pallace of the olde Temple, being an house almost capable of an Armie, where the next morning hee comman-ded that all forts of poore should be relieued with his charity and Almes. The magnificence of the great Fealt of the Kings, at the King of Englands charge, shall be expressed in our Authors owne words, who is bold to affirme, that Affuerus, Arthur, Charlesthe Great, had neuer any fuch. After dinner, the King fent to the French Lords, and men of Armes, Plate, Buckles of Gold, and other royall preferts. The King of England are at the Table on the right hand of the French King, and the king of Nauarre on the left. But the French King contended much in curtefie to the contrary, till K. Henry obstinately refused saying, the King of France was his Lord, fould be for there was reafo, mening, because hee held his Lands in France of him. To whom the most inst and gracious King Lewis with a soft voice answered; Would to God every one had his right with-out offence, meaning such other lands as the English Crowne had right vnto. At another time he gaue the reason, why the Peeres of France would not confent to the restitution of Normandy, for that the Normans would neuer learne to keepe their Borders in quiet. The English King did to himselfe, and to the English name great honour, in his whole behaviour and carriage, which was full of Charity towards the poore(a vertue for which in those dayes Kings chie-flie fought to be commended) of Maiesty, Magni-ficence, and all forts of royall liberality and gentleneffe. The King and Court of France brought him an whole daies iourny vpon the way. He staide a while at Boloigne for a wind, but returned fafe, hauing peaceably measured a way through France, out of Gafeoigne, which his martiall Nephews kings of England trode afterward in another maner, drawing lines of bloud and fire ouer all France, the most pleasant, rich, and spacious realm of Christendome. (85) Elenor Prince Edwards wife landed at Do- An. 1255.

(8) LERROY PHICE EARDWAY WITE BRINGER AT DO-ther in great State. On the other fide, Edmund the Kings fecond fonne, by a king, which the Pope fem (fo to ingage King Henry in his warres against state. Kings (coond fonne, by a king, which the Pope firt (fo to ingage King Henry in his warres against Mansfredus, the sonne of the late Emperour Fredericke) was folemnly inuefted in the kingdom of Sicilie. The Ambaffador was a Bishoppe, who forthwith departed, for indeed his errand was in show glorious, but in truth both delutory and vnprofitable, aswell because the King had already vnreasonably interessed himselfe in this quarrell (the Pope hauing changed his vow against the Turkes, into this against Christians,) as also, for that the Romane Armie which (by the Popes fetches) warred most at his charge; was not withflan-ding the Popes blessings) vtterly ouerthrown, be-fore this ayrie honour could bee settled in the Lord Edmund, whom yet his Father(whose credulity the Pope for his owne ends had shamefully inneigled, by drawing him into obligations of *two hundreth and fifty thouland pounds) openly tearmed and vfed as the King of Sicily, (for which also he vsed this anexed Seale) highly pleasing himself in the varietie of a wastfull Title to his owne, and his whole Kingomes*extreme imponerishment.

* In totine regni xtermintum 1774 leurabile, Paris.

Edmund

King of Sicil.

A.D. 1256. A.reg.40.

(86) The Calamities of the Kingdome in these exhaustings, was the more lamentable, because they were countenanced by the King, who should have repelled them. But the Pope having no fo easie way to be supplied as by the King, nor the King any but by the People, both Pope and King were well accorded to grinde the people each for the others vies, the King to latifie the Popes Aparice, the Pope to aduance the Kings Ambition. The gayning of the Kingdome of Sicilie must bee the colour, for which the King was resolued to goe in person; and therefore Rustandus (the Popes Agent) sent to ga-ther the Tenth of all England, Scotland and Ireland, for the Popes vie and the kings, indifferently, had called a great Councel the former veere, and adjourned it * till this; where he also required all the Prelates to binde themselues to the Popes marchants, as having received of them a great fum of money, which was imploied to the vie of their Churches. At which guilefull and vntrue deuise the Prelates replyed they would rather diethen fuffer fuch oppreflion, and that they held it a manifester Martyrdome to die in such a cause, then was the death of Thomas Becket. The Nobles also peremptorily refufed either to recouer Sicilie, or to beare the charge thereof, being both impossible; the one for the ftrength of Manfredue, the other for the present pourrie of England. And indeed soone after the Pope and Manfrede were made friends, and fo King Henrie and King Edmund beguiled one of his great expenses, the other of his high hopes. The King was herewith wakened out of a sweete dreame wherein till then he continued, feeding his minde with the hope to leauc to either of his fons a kingdome; though neither to he refled quiet till he had almost throwne the Crowne into the gulphes of irrecouerable debts and viurie. The yong King of Scots and his Queene, about this time came into England to visite their best friends, the King and Queene of this Kingdome, which lay wholy open to their honor and vies. The King to let his fonne in law fee how welcome he was, did befrow voon Alexander king of Scots and his Queene highlie him the Earledome of Huntingdon; They and their Queenes with almost all the great Lords and Ladies of England met at Woodstocke by Oxford, from whence they came to London. The King was vnwilling to denie his fonne in law and daughter any thing, for at their earnest suite he pardoned Sir Willia de Lile, Knight Sheriffe of Northamptorshire, who was proued to haue practifed by most foule suborned treacherie to spoile another Gentleman of his estate: for which the said Lile had died a shameful paffe anothers e-flate wickedly, judged worthy of death. but a worthy death, by drawing and hanging, had not his wines teares and praiers made the King and Queene of Seets their interceffors. Thus the yong Princes returned into Scotland, worthily well conrented.

The King comes in person to the Court of Escher-

(87) The King much the fresher to vndergoe ferious affaires, by reason of the late comfort he had in his Childe the Queene of Scots, bestirres himselfe, and comes in person into the Exchequer among the Barons therof, when the Court was let, and made fharpe orders against all Sheriffes and Baylines of at the Eschecquer, to pay such money of the Kings as was come to their handes. At the same time all the Sherifs of England were amerced, because they had not distreined all those which had such estates in land, as the law limiteth to take the order of in his bosome. The Welsh therefore would not for any perswasions be drawne to lay downe weapons, but having about ten thouland of their coun-

Drines Edward having no helpe of the King for his Welth wars

Towns incorporate, who did not yeerely appeare Knighthood, or pay their fines. Which of the Lords could fay now that the King would not proue a good husband? Howbeit the case of the people seemed nothing relected, for (faith Paris) there were fo many petty Tyrants by the negligence or conniuence of one, that the ancient State of England when it had many Kings, feemed to be brought in againe.
(8 8) Occasions of expense like the heads of Hydra daily encreased. The Welsh (oppress by Geoffrey de Langley an officer vpon the Marches) rose in armes, and ministred one of those occasions, but that Prince Edward, to whom his Father had given Wales, was left therein to himfelfe, for his Father could spare no money. The Prince therefore borrowes some thousands of markes of his vncle Richard, and with his owne and them wageth Souldiers; his fernants behaued themfelues most violetly eucry where, taking without paiment, or paying with blowes; and it was the humor also of their young Master, who had store of martiall and stirring fire trey horsemen, and many more on soots, tooke a loleme Oath, that they would stand together for ther libertie and national saves, holding it better to alter with honour, then to line a wretched life in shame and fersitude, And indeed they did great things under Prince Lewelyn ap Gruffith, by whose meanes they valiantly recoursed all the Inland-countrey of Northwales, with other places; and in one fight flew aboue two thousand Englishmen, and draue the rest out of the field. They also spoiled the land to the very * gares of Cheffer. This they had the greater opportunitie to doe, for that the King, while he built Kingdomes in the Clouds, and plunged himfelf into the Abyffes of Viury, fuffered fome few, his sonne, his brother, the Earle of Glocester, and his halfe-brothers with their families to trample right and reason undersoot, and with his hatred to enrich themselues, his owne meanes daily consuming, and mens mindes more and more alienated from him, as menthat despaired of redresse and instice. The Welfh also persisting in their enterprise, made Prince Edward retire in a battaile, and he complaining to his Father, had no other comfort but this: what is that to me ? the land is thine of my gift. Put forth thy strengths at first, and get honour in thy youth, that from thenceforth the enemies may stand in feare of thee. As for me I have somewhat else to doe.

ches, deriued and tendred to Richard, Earle of Corn-

(89) The greatest worldly forrein honour that (fince Conflantine) euer fell vpon anie English subiect, was at this time, in regard both of his birth and ri-A.D. 1257.

* Toodig. Menf.

wall, brother to the King, to whom was fent an honorable Ambaffage out of Germanie, who, in humble manner declared, that the Princes of the facred Roman Empire had elected him King of Romans, befeeching him to accept of that their common choife, In testimonie whereof the Archbishop of Colon, high Chancellor of the Empire, Prince Elector, and other great Lords of Almaine had fent their writings under seale, affirming, That never was anie one with so generall consent and universall good liking ele-Eted to that place as he, his name carrying it clearely without anie contradiction among them. Vpon receipt of this most honourable inuitation and offer, there was much debatement in the Chappell where they fate yoon the Earles behalfe, whether he should accept therof or no; but while all of the flood in doubt the king puts in a deciding voice, faving: Lest my brothe king puts in a deciding voice, saying, seep in joine ther be thought faint harted, my opinio & request is, that he wold not result accept this honor, which God & man have tedered unto him. This made the squadron of the negatives to give way, and at leastwife to become Neutrals, till all'obiections were answered, as they were all of them by one or other, concluding in their speeches to the Earle; That hee should bee wartheir specifics to the Carre; that neepoona pie war-ned, and withall firred up to the fernice of God, in ac-ceptance of this highest place, by the example of Robert Curthose Duke of Normandic classift some of William the field, King of England) to whom the Kingdome of Levusalem, for the entent to rule the inheritance of Christ was facen, for incensen to rule in the trace of Chiff, was offred, which be refußing to accept, did afterward feele the gricuous wrath of God, and neuer had happy daies after.
To these and many other reasons, the King, his halfe brothers, and speciallie the Elect of Winchester encouraged him with one voice, affirming that this ho-nour would exalt the English name for ever: The Earle therefore putting on the man with a free and cheerefull voice answered: And I relying upon the goodnesse of Almightie God, though I am insufficient, unworthy, to avoide the note of faintnesse, doe thanke-fully accept this burthen and honour, which Heaven (I hope) hath put into my hands. And then turning himfelfe to the Bishops who were present, among which Richard Bishop of Bangor (from whose mouth our * author wrote those things) was one, * Mat. Parif. who hec concluded and faid. Let mee before I depart out had it o many of this Chappell, die, and sodeinely be burnt with the fire dates from the of Hell, if I doe accept thereof either for ambition, or a-warice; but onlie to restore the Empire (which God grant)

The Farlege

The king of Romans what and who.

The English tongue in the dayes of *Mati*on Para agrees ble to the Dutchto a better estate, and to governe them, who have willinglie elected me, for their Lord, in modelt, iust and honou-rable maner. These words exhaled joyfull teares from off many of the hearers, and the Ambaffadors returned to deliuer the newes of this acceptance, who from thenceforth was King of Romans, that is Emperour elect, which title is vied till they receive the Crowne imperiall; though to all other purpo-fes he is Emperour, fo that King of Romans feemes to answere to the Title of Casar, which under the ancient Roman Emperours was given to the heire apparent of the Empire or Coadiutors. After the German Ambassadors were gone, the King permitteth his brother to fend fome ouer to found the truth of the Electors and Peoples affections, which in regard the English were originally Germans, and by late affinitie incorporated, and for that English (faith Paris) was in a fort agreeable to the Almain tongue) they found entire, and with that certitude returne. The King of England hereby seemed to haue his delignes for recourry of Normandy, greatlie strengthned, the Almaines and French hardlie brooking one the other; but howfoeuer, fure it is that his brother the new King, had occasion to spend the golden Oyle, which was so long in gathering, to maintain the light of this Imperial lampe; and without question hee might bee liberall, for he was reputed to possesse so much ready coine, as would enery day for tenne yeeres afforde him an hundreth marks vpon the maine stocke, without of ready money reckoning his rents & reuenues in Germany, and the which Sichard English dominions. The Earl *was foon after crowned King of the Romans, at Aquifgraue, by Com ade this Eledion. Archbishop of Colein, with great pompe & solenity. * 6.cel tun.die

* Contra antiqua Basuta & liberta-

"Mat.Paris.
in biff : masori.
The Vniversit
of Oxford the i cond Schoole of the Church next for a weekes space at the Abbey of S. Albans, cer. taine masters of Oxford brought a great complaint against the Bishop of Lincoln, for some encroachments vpon the ancient liberties of that V niverfitie to whom the King was gratious and affigned a day: & Matthew Paris, whom the King in honor of his learned paines, admitted enery day to his table, and Chamber, faid to him upon this Complaints * My Liege, for Gods love have a care of the shaken State of the Church. The V niversity of Parie (the Nurse, and motive of for many holy Prelates) is not a little diffigui-cied. If at the same time the V muerity of oxford should be disturbed, which is the second Schoole of the Church, yea the fundamental base thereof, it is greatly to be feared, least the whole Church do fall to ruine. Whereunto the King made antwere, God forbid that (bould happen at all; but chiefely in his daies. Which the Parlia-ment then at hand, he accordinglie prouided for to their contentation. The memory of the King feemes by this to have beene excellent, for befid that hee recounted to Paris all the Kings of England which had beene Canonized Saints, all the Princes Electors, and great Princes of Germany and France, he called to minde the names of about two hundreth and fifty Baronics in England. (91) Atthis Parliament, (which was exceeding

(90) In the meane time, while his brothers

royall preparations were in hand, the King being great) holden at London, the King in fight and view of all the people, brings forth his younger sonne Ed-mund attired like an Italian of Apulia, (which Country is a member of the Kingdome of Sicilia) and vied this speech: Behold here good people, my Sonne Ed-mund, whom God of his gracious goodnesse hath called to the excellencie of kingly dignity; how comely and well worthy he is of all your fauors, and how cruell and tyranmeall they are, who at this pineb, would demy him effectuall and timely helpe, both with adulce and money. The fumme of all was to draw a valt contribution from the Clergie for atchieuement of this shadow (it proued no better) into his Coffers. Nevertheleffe he ob tained a grant of aboue fiftie thouland Marks, vpor couenant that the liberties of the Realme should be really and finally once for euer established : which was done. There were present in this Parliament fix was done. I nere were present in this rainament has Archbishops, Canterbury, Yorke, Dublin, Colin, Messana in Sicilia, and Tarentum in Apulia. The politike Ger-mans knew what they did in choosing Richard their King, for they faw a cloud of gold and filuer would diffolue it felfe into showres among them at his arriuall; and all elections of ftrangers turne to their profit, because none is chosen that relies wholly vp on the rents of the Empire.

(92) It was a worthy care in this King, that when A.Do. 1258 by the promision of his brother Richard King of Ro- A.reg. 42. mans, there arrived in the river of Thames fiftie faile of German Ships, laden with corne to relieue the great dearth, which then raigned through the Land, he caused proclamation to be made, That no Citizen of London should buy any of that corne to store up, which they were wont to doe, to the intent they might fell it the dearer afterward, to fuch as wanted. But no warning, praiers, adniscs, nor sense of wants were able to make him frugall of his expense; whereby he was miscrably streightned, neither would the Laitie in Parliament contribute any thing, but (hammering some great attempts in their thoughts) in plaine words concluded, That they neither would, nor could any longer endure such (they called them) extorsions. Moreouer they there vitered many greeuances, and Simon Earle of Leicester complained of the dishonor and iniury done him by William de Valence, calling him Traitor; fo that against the Session to be holden vpon prorogation, he, the Earle of G'ecester, and Marshall, confederated themselves and (pretending the feare of strangers the Kings fauorites,) determi ned to come firong to Oxford at Saint Barnabas day. The Barons They also sent messengers to the King of France, not hinder the good purpole which they held of praying at least so much assistance, as that he would

Chap. 9. Henry 3. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 46.

* Mat. Parif. peg.940.

ordeining and fetling the troubled estate of England. They had also taken order to watch the * Portsagainst strangers. Thus they prepared to abate (as it seemed) or banish the loftinesse and insolencie of Posttonines and of other Forreiners, by whom the King was powerfully lead, for they despaired of redreffe at his hands, who like another Proteus (as Paris faith) tooke all shapes upon him to serue his turnes, and then flipt out at his pleasure, no promifes, or ties being strong enough to hold him. These were the beginnings of bloody euils, and the feedesparks of those factious fires which afterward brake forth from the fight and fenfe whereof many thoufands were taken by death, whose mortall stroake of pestilence raged ouer England, specially among the poore through scarcity of food (93) When the time appointed for the Parliament at Oxford was come, the feditious Earles and Barons (with whom* fundry Biffigs had taken Coun-fell against the King the Lords annointed) repaired thither, and sternely propounded fundry travterous Articles to the King to which they required his al fent. The chiefe points were, That the King would unfainedly keepe and observe the Charter of liberties, which he had so ofen granted, and sworn to maintaine in-wiolable; That such a one should be in the place of Chiefe Institiar who wouldindge according to right, without respect to poore or rich, &c. Then they renewed their confederacie, solemnely swearing, That neither for life nor death nor love nor hate, they would be drawne to relent in their purpole, till they had cleared England (in which them elues and their Forefathers were borne) from upstarts and aliens, and had procured laudable Sta-tutes. Those turbulent Nobles had yet a further plot, then all this; which was first broached (faith Mat : westminster) by the disloyall Bishops, which was that 24 persons should there be chosen, to have the whole administration of the King and State , and yeerely appointment of all great Officers, referring onely to the King the highest place at meetings and fallatations of he-nour in publike places. And because they would not be croffed in their purpoles, they *came exquisitely armed and appointed, that so the King and his Aliens should

*P.Jmer erry rrime, accue în cenu ére. Mar, West. Ibidem, Mat.Paris.

Mat.Weft,

be enforced if they wold not willingly affent. To al these their ordinations the King and Prince Edward was enforced to sweare, for feare of perpetuall imprisonment, the trailerous Lords having by an Edict, threatned death to all that refifted. Whereupon all the Peeres and Prelates tooke their Corporall Oath to be faithfull in this their infidelitie, and made all who would abide in the Kingdome, to smeare they would stand to the try-all of their Peeres : the Archbishops and Bishops solemnelie accurfing all that should rebell against it. The Monkes themselves detesting this impudent treaion, alke with what forehead, especiallie Prelats, durst thus impaire the Kinglie Maiestie, expressie against their fworne fidelitie to him? This conjuration they fo profecuted, that when William de Valence the Kings halfe-brother, denied with Oathes to render up any Castle which was given him, the Earle of Leicester, and the rest of the Barons answered, they would either haue his Castles or his head. This violent proceeding to terrified the Poictouines, that fodeinely they left, Oxford, and shortly fled into France, where also the Barons had made them odious, Hugh Bigod, brother to the Earle Marshall, was made chiefe Iufitiar. The people, seemed wholy theirs, which made the Barons fo rough and peremptory in all their conferences, that when the Lord Henrie sonne to the King of Abnain, refused to combine or take their oath, without his Fathers confent, they roundly bad him know, That if his father himselfe would not hold with the Baronage of England, he (hould not have a furrowre of earth among them. And least anie thing which might tend to their fecuritie, should feeme to be omitted, they vling the Kings name, commanded London to stand vpon her guard, by keeping their Cities gates carefully thut , & by maintaining ftrong watches night by night, vpon pretence of danger to the Realme through the practifes of strangers ; and after they dispatched thither certaine fit Agents, who in the Guilde-hall made known their commission, which was directly to understand, whether they would immutably adhere to the Barons and obey ther they would immutably adhere to the Berons and obey the conditutions, by manfully aiding and effectually suptible Barone to ce phing them in the common cause. Whereunto the Ci-tizens condescended, binding themselves thereunto under the publike seale of London,

(94) The Barons did as yet forbeare to declare. what those reformatoric Prouisions should be, beeause the Earle of Gloucester (a principal) man among them) was in danger of death, whose sicknesse did perplex & suspend their proceedings, & the maner of his maladie did put them in doubt of their owne fafeties, making them grow in diffrust of their Cooks their butlers, and fewers, for the Earle his body breaking out into puffules, and his haire, nailes, teeth and fkinne it felfe, falling away, was (as many others, of which some died)thought to be poisoned. But whither they were or no, the Poictouines and strangers had the blame laid vpon them, to make them the more odious to the Commons. But the Earle partly recoue red his health in time by the benefit of medicines and diligent attendance. The * poisons were said to have beene tempered in the house of Eleas a Iew afterward baptized. The King himfelfe perhaps would not haue beene forry, if that he, Simon Earle of Leicester and some few others of the Barons had beene with God, for howfocuer his body was among them, yet his heart was not at quiet, which in this wife well ap-peared. For being in the moneth of June vpon the river of . Thames in his barge, the aier sodeinly grew darke, and there enfued'a terrible shower with thunder and lightning, of which the king impatient comviethus you proving stame in fear e of me, who name awaites beene loyall both to you and your Realme, whereas you ought to fear your enemies, such as destroy the Realme and abuse you with bad Counfels. The Barons therefore remaining firme in their first purpose, send messengers abroad to will all such as had beene wronged by the Kings halfe-brothers and other Poittowines and strangers to present their greenances to the Barons, and to prosecute them. Moreover (because fundry other petry-tyrants of the English nation, encouraged by their example, had exceeded their limits, in oppres-

the fame under their feales within a certaine time limitted.

*Mat,Parii p.951

mands himselfe to be set on land at the next place which was Durham house, whereas then, the Earle of Leitester lay. The Earle being thereof certified The King feares the Earla of Leicame out to entertaine him, faying, Sir why are you afraid? the tempest is now past: whereunto he answered with a feuere looke : I feare thunder and lightning about with actuere 100ke: 1 feare sommer som unemming acouse measure, but by the head of God, 1 doe more feare thee then all the thunder and lightning of the world. Whereunto the Earle replied: Myliege, it is iniurious and incredi-ble, that you should stand in feare of me, who have alwates fing their inferiours) they procured the King to Commissioner to certific wha appoint foure Knights Commissioner's in eueric fhire, to enquire of all fuch injuries, and certifie

(95) The Barons in the meane time neglect not Officers pur from their enterprize, at whose instance (principally of their places, Hugh Bigod the new chiefe Iustitiar) Philip Louel the Kings Treasurer, for abuses committed in the Kings Forrests and game about Stony-Stratford, and many Officers of the Exchecquer, were likewise remoued to give roome to fuch as the Barons better liked. The Sherifs likewise of Shires, their practises, Theabuses of and extortions, were diligentlic feene into, and it was Sheriffer note ordeined, that aswell the givers as takers of bribes and provided should be seuerely punisht. The welsh seeing these round proceedings in England, the peace & restorishment whereof they feared, labored for reconciliation but could not then obteine it.

(06) Rithard King of Romans, having a defire to lee the King his brother, and his lands in England, not without a purpole to bring an Armie, or fuch a number of men as might greatly strengthen the King a-of the Barons, gainst the Barons, as they suspected, was aduertifed armee in Eng Q qqq

The King co

was notwithstanding brought about againe by the

The King not fuffered to enter

Then the

that they prouided for his relistance aswell by land as sea. This-made him, his wife, and sonne, to lay alide that purpole, and to arrive in a private maner at Douer with a small traine, in which there were onely two Earles, and about nine Knights. The king met him with great congratulation at the Sea fide, but nor King, nor hee could bee suffered to enter into Douer Caftle, because (forsooth) it was the principall Key of England; for the fafegard whereof they openly exacted an Oath of him at Canterburie in this manner. The holy Gospels being laide upon the Pulper in the Chapter-house of Canterbury, the Barons reuerently brought in thither the Kings of England and of Almaine; then Richard Earle of Glocefter (for Simon Earle of Leicester was gone with others into France, to deale with the King and States thereof about a perpetual league) standing in the midst openly, and in humble fort cals Richard King of Remans vnto him, by the name onely of Richard Earle many vito nim, by the name their of kitewar Latic of Cormulal, who obeyed accordingly, to whom hee diffinely minifitred the Oath following:

Hence all men, that I Rickard Earle of Cormulal fueure upon the boly Soffest, to bee faithfull and forward to reopen the boly copiest, to over justificating and provided to re-forme with you the Kingdome of England, hitherto by the counfell of wicked men too much deformed. And I will be an effectuall Coadiutor to expell the * Rebels and troubles of the Realme, from out the same. This oath will I observe upon paine to forfeit all the lands I have in England. On the other side (had the King known how to vieit) there fell out such diffention between the Earles of Gloucester and Leicester, that Leicester departed from England discontented, saying, he tooke no joy to live among men so mutable and deceitfull. Neuertheleffe such meanes were vsed, that these two chiefe Captaines of the Barons, brake not forth into any farther division. Thus whiles the Barons vfing the Kings name, disposed of all things, and Simon de Montfort Earle of Leicester, was gone with others to transact with the French about an indisfoluble league; the King himselfe through desire not to be interrupted with forraine matters, if warre should rife at home, or through want of money or better aduife, was induced (if not betrayed) to an act of little honour, though it carried with it the face of profit and fetled quiet.

(97) For (the affaires of the realm thus ftrange- | The King failer ly managed) the King in person failes oner into to demand resti-France, there to demand a peaceable restitution of fuch Signiories as Philip & Lewis (Father of this Lewis) had injuriously withdrawne from his father King Iohn. The French replied, that no restitution was due for many respects, specially, because the * anci- * Guil Genetical ent grant made to Rolle the first Duke of Wormandy, was not voluntary, but extorted by feare and force of Armes, in the dayes of the weake state of France. The King hauing * no disposition to recouer his claimes by battell, and destitute of money wherewith to wage an Armic, but principally for that his owne Pecres and people stood on their guard against him, did *vnwillingly ratifie a conclusion; the Articles whereof were, that the King of France should quietly hold the Dukedom of Normandy, and Earledome of Angion (*Main alfo, Tourain and Poistou) for * three hundred thou fand small pounds of Tourain, and vpon promife to receive other lands to the yeerely value of twenty thousand pounds. Polydor faith, that the reputed limits of the English Pale in France, were from thenceforth the river of Charent in Xanttoing , and the mountaines Pyrenaes; and that hee should peaceably haue Angoumous, Quercy, and Tribute Limain, being Countries marching upon Gascoigne in lieu of the reft, yet so as the King of England should *hold them of the Crowne of France by homage and *tole Tillen fealtie. Vpon these Articles the king acquitted, and for euer renounced all his challenge to Normandy & the other lands, and thenceforth abridged his Stile, and changed his Seale, wing a Scepter in place of a Sword: whereon these Monkish and mockish verses

Est M.CCLIX. vtinam concordia falix, Andeganis, Picta-nis, Neustria, genterelicia Anolorum dantur tibi France Sigilla newantur. Nomina tolluntur fugit Enfis, Sceptra geruntur,

M CCLIX, God grant firme peace thou fix, Poicton, Angion, Normans, to France range you, New Seales are made old Styles for faken; Downe laid the Blade, Scepters up taken.

" Ypadig. Wenft.

Pol. Verg. 1.16

* Polyd. Ferg. faith 15 0000. Crowns in hand

A.D. 1260 A.reg.44.

An.Reg.45.

(98) The King (at these vnworthy rates) having fecured himselfe from the French, labours to vindi-cate the Regall power out of the vsurping Barons hands (whose ouer-toppings at home had driuen him to those forraine indignities,) alleadging, that the Oath which his fonneand hee had taken at Oxford, was voide, in regard it was compulforie, that the Barons alfo, who pretended the profite of the Ann. 1261. Realme, fought onely their owne honour and gain, contrary to their decrees. For his more fecurity he takes the Tower of London, preparing force by the helpe of his brother King of Romans. There followed agricuous perturbation of the Realmalthough Armes being laid downe for a little space. Edward the Kings eldest some would not trauerse the oath he had made at Oxford, but held with the * Barons for the present. The King, the Queene, and his selected friends, still remaine vpon their guard in the Tower; where hee(in the yeere before) had burst up the locks of the ancient Depositum, or dead stocke of the Crown, to employ against the Barons. Peace Crowne

A.D. 1262 An.Reg.46. The King feifeth

Queenes speciall diligence; and Douer and Roche-fer Castles (whither hee went in person) are deliuered vnto him. This makes him refolue to purfue the Barons , the rather also for that the French King (who much condemned the Barons vniust courses) had promised his assistance. Henry therefore thrusts out the Barons Chancellor, & Chiefe Iusticiar, placing Walter Merto & Philip Baffet, men of much more ring of this, haften in Armes to Winchester, where the King was, who (hauing intelligence by his faithfull Clerk, Sir Iohn (Manfel) got back into the Tow-The Barons er of London. The King of France was made Vmpue in the quartell. The * caufe was heard at Ami-AD 1263, est, where hee gate indgement with the King of An.Reg. 47. England against the Barons, pronouncing all the Sta-tutes and Aths made at Oxford to have pire in the quarrell. The * cause was heard at Amiprouided neuerthelesse, that the Charter of Liberties which King John had made to the English nation, fhould in no fort bee thereby infringed. This pro-uifo animated Simon Earle of Leicester, and the Barons, to maintaine all the Statutes of oxford, (because they were pretendedly founded vpon that Charter) notwithstanding that iust iudgement which King Lewis had given. The fecret confederacy with Lewelin Prince of Wales, ministred to the Barons no little encouragement, who about this time wasted the Dominsons of Prince Edward in the Marches of Wales. This judgement of the French King did much disaduantage the Barons, of whom divers being drawne with perswasions, gifts, and promises, revolted from Simon Montfort. There was now a taking of Townes and Prisoners on all hands. Prince Edward (who now was wholy for his Father in despite of the Barons) takes the Castel of Briftol, and fines the City at a thouland pounds Simon Montfort executeth his greatest reuenges vp. A.D. 1264. on the Queenes friends which were Aliens, not fpa ring the Kings. Marching forward, he recours Glofer Castell, enters Worcester and Bridgenorth; lastly, surpriseth the Ile of Ely, subduing that fastnesse or fenny ftrength to the Barons vie. Sir Iohn Manfel the Kings Councellour, fearing the euent of things, flies secretly from the Tower where the King was. Henry sonne to the King of Almain, was after this taken by the Barons. Meanewhile Prince Edward fortifies wind/or Castle with strangers. Mutuall wearineffe at length begat a defire of peace, and the * King had yeelded that the Statutes of Oxford should stand: but the Queene was otterly against it, not without cause; for it did enfeeble the arbitration which the French King had made. The Queenes opposition in this point was knowne to the Londoners; which put the baser sort into so lewd a rage, that finee being to shoot the Bridge from the Tower toward windfor, they with durt and stones and villanous words forced her to returne. Prince Edward under the conduct of the Bishoppe of worcefter, came from the Castle of Bristol (by reason of quarrell betweene his men of warre and the Bargers) and contrary to his promise entred into Wind-for Castle; but afterward going forth to meet Simon Montfort at King ston vpon Thames, with purpose to offer peace, the said Simon got Windsor Castle, & would not permit him to depart. At London yet in a Parliament, matters were pieced againe, and the Kings fide grew fronger dayly.
(99) There were with him his brother King of

by reason of their multitude, * being abone 15000 1 *W.Rufbager MS (laith william Rifhanger who then lived) of those only whose names were entred into the Matriculation booke. amongst whom being so many young Nobles, the King doubted how they might bee affected to the Barons. Whereupon many of them went to Northampton, wherethen the Barons were strong; and thither the King comming with his hoaft, and breaking in arthe Towne-walles upon Passion Sunday,encountred his enemics, amongst whom the * Students of Oxford had a Banner by themselves advanced right against the King, and they did more annoy him in the fight, then the rest of the Barons: which the King(who at length preuayled) had vowed sharpe-ly toreuenge, but that his Councellors told him, those Students were the sonnes and kindred of the Great-men of the Land, whom if hee punished, even the Nobles who now stood for him, would take Armes against him. The King there tooke Simon Montfort the younger, and foureteene other principall Baronsand * Knightes Banerets, forty other Knights, besides Esquiers,&c. Encouraged with this successe, hee advanceth the Standard royall toward Nottingham, burning and walting the Barons lands where locuer her came. To divert this tempest, Simon Montfors hastneth to Lon-don, and attemptes the taking of Rochester Castle, which Iohn Earle of Warren defended for the King: who comming to raife the fiege, takes Kingfton Ca file, which belonged to the Earle of Gloucefter; then vnexpectedly falling vpon fuch as maintained the fiege of Roshefter, while Simon was absent, kils verie many, and scatters the rest. Then seifeth hee the Castle of Tumbridge, and therein the Countesse of Gloncester, whom, notwithstanding he nobly set at large, as professing not to warre against Ladies; from thence the Cloud of power borne vpon the winges of indignation, speedes to Winehelfen, and receives the Cinque-Portmen to grace, fetling at last in Lewis where himselfe rested in the Priorie, and his sonne in the Castle, whither the Barons sent letters to him, protesting their loyall observance to his person, but all bostility to their enemies which were about him.

(100) But the King flaming with defire of reuenge, fets flight by thefe vowed (but fained) fidelities; sand returnes a full defiance as to Traitors, professing tha hee takes the wrong of his friends as his owne and their enemies as his. The King of Almaine, Prince Edward, with other of the Kings chiefe friends, fent their like letters of defiance. The Barons, loath to let it come to the hazardous and vnkind triall of steele, (though they then encamped about fixe miles from Lewis,) not acquirting themselves in this repulse, iterate their meffage, with an offer to pay to the King thirty thousand pounds, in satisfaction of such there as their people had done through the Realme; so me the Statutes of Oxford might stand. The king of Almaine (whose honour they had toucht, and spoild part of

(101) It came to a battel; wherein Simon de Montford commands his traiterous Army to weare white Crosses on breast and backe, to show they fought for Iuflice; great was the effusion of bloud on both parts; chieflic of the Scots vpon the Kings fide, & of the Londoners vpon the Earles fide; whose Battalion, (lead by the Lord Segrane,) Prince Edward most furiously charged, and had the execution of them for about foure miles, which he purfued the more bloudily, in reuenge of the extreame difgrace which they had offered vpon London Bridge to the Queene his Mother, and after that the Garrison of Tumbridge followes, and flew many at Croyden. But while the Prince [penthimself in that revenge, his Father (who having his Horse slain under him, had yeelded himfelf prifoner to Simon de Montfort)his vncle the king of Romans, and others great Peeres were taken. and the whole hope of that day loft. There fell in all his inheritances) hindred all harkening to any their on both fides, about five thousand. Prince Edward returning from the flaughter of the Londoners

The Scots aide

Romans, his sonne Edward, William de Valence (whom Prince Edward had brought out of France) John Comyn of Seotland with a multitude of valiant Seots, (whose King was Henries sonne in law,) Iohn de Baliel Lord of Gallway, Robert de Brus, & c. with whom hee marcheth from London to Oxford, where the Rendeuou of his friends and forces was appointed. The King meaning to make that place (where his chiefe blow was guen him) his chiefe feat to confult for remedies, difmiffed thence all the Students.

The kings leres

The king of Al-maines letter, &c

the kings of Eng

538 Prince Kdward

would haue reenforced the Battaile, but the Barons offered peace; which vpon the next day was concluded for the prefent, fo that Prince Edward and Henry fonne to the king of Romans, should also render them felues prisoners, and the two kings, till such time as all quarrels might receive an happier conclusion by calme deliberation. Thus was Simon Earle of Lei-cefter in possession of both the kings and of their elder sonnes; so fortunate may Treason and Rebellion bee for a time, but in the end it speeds as it deserues. (102) By this advantage this Kingly Rebell got all the cheif Castles of the Kingdoe into his hand, leading his Soucraigne as his Prifoner about the Country (yet with all outward respect and honour) the rather to

An. 1265. An.rcg.49. The Earle of Leiceffer catrie till he had gotten all the chiefe firengths of the Realme.

menfem. Mat. Weff.

procure a more quiet furrender. The King of Romans hee imprisoned in the Tower, Prince Edward and the Lord Henry in Doner. The Earle feeling now his owne greatnesse, began to be lesse tractable; neither could the Popes authority interpoling it selfe for the King, preuaile. For as the Pope by Apostolike fentence before had absolved the King and others from his Oath to the Provisions of Oxford, to now he lent his * Cardinall Legate to excommunicate all the Fauourers of those Acts & impugners of the King but these men *haing the material frond to trust vnto made no reckning of the Spiritual, pretending they appealed to the Pope, or to better times, or a generall Councell, or to God himfelfe: fo great account made these croffed souldiers of the Popes curie. Notwithstanding the loyall blood of Roger de Mortimer, and many other high spirited men of Armes, could not brooke their Kings so base viage and dangerous estate, but make head, in vaine. For Simon treacherously combines himselfe with Lewelin Prince of Wales, and with their ioint forces takes Hereford Castle; thether they remoue Prince Edward from Douer. The loyall band was hereby compelled to capitulate, and deliuer hostages. 6 the fearefull point to which England was brought at this present, but God (in whose protection it was) deliue-

Suffex, and William de Valence Earle of Pembrooke with others are joyned ; and not long after, Prince Edward by escape from the Castle of Hereford, commeth in safetie to Wigmore. There were that laboured to attone the two Earles of Leicester and Glocester, but offence and indignation had taken too deeperoote. Meanewhile thou, ô Henrie art shewed up and down by the Arch-rebellious Earle of Leicester, to countenance thine owne destruction. (103) The Prince therefore feeing that he must refolutely stand for the liberty of the Realme and of his Father, friends and posterity, raiseth an Armie, confederates himfelfe with the people and Counties of Hereford, Worcester, Shropsbire and Chester. Glosester hee enters by force, and drives the defendants into the Castle, which after yeelds. Simon Montfort with Lewelin Prince of Wales, doe in the meane time spoile their enemies lads in " Momouth & Glamorganshires, the King in person, not in spirit being present. Prince Edward and the Earle of Gloceller on the other fide.

speed to the Castle of Kenelworth kept against them by Simon, sonne of the Earle of Leicester; there they intercept the Earle of Oxford with about thirteene

Knights Bannerets before they could reach the Ca-file, whither they were hastning. Newes came then that the Earle of Leicester was returned with the King in his companie out of Southwales, neere to Wor-cefter. Thither the Prince advanceth to fight with him. The Earle hearing of his approach, encampes at Eucham with his whole power. Vpon the third of August the noble Edward fets out of Worcester, and red it. Simon and the Earle of Glocester fall at debate about their Dividend and shares in the spoiles, (for what cuer they pretended for the Kingdome, their owne greatnes and gaine was the motiue,) and somewhat also the vnequal latitude of his said partner the Earle of Leiesser, together with the perill of his Country moued him. Who thereupon confe-derates, with Roger Mortimer and his affociates, to whom not long after, John Earle of Warren, Surrey and

*Nic. Triest.

firikes betweene Simon Montfort and his way to Ke- Simon Barle of nelworth, and the next day turnes backe toward Eucher enclose by the Princes hely or the Earl of Gloseffer with his force, and Roger he hey had agreed) with his bartalion, worther the hey had agreed) with his bartalion, worther the hey had agreed with his bartalion, worther the hey had agreed with his bartalion. drawing thither by two other waies; fo that Simon thus thut vp and enclosed, must either fight or yeeld They ioine in bartaile in a goodly large field before the Towne of Eucham; where the Earles hoft being affailed on all fides, was with much flaughter (of the Welfhespeciallie) vtterly in the end distressed and discomfitted. At the houre of his death it thundered and lightned, and so great a darknesse spread the skie that men were amazed. The Earles head. (which was fent to Worceffer Caftle to the Ladie Mortimer his hands, and feet, were chopt off. In this cruell Battaile the King himfelfe (being wounded vnawares with a Iauclin) was almost slaine. Let vs now behold how this victorie is vied. The King being thus restored to liberty, cals a Parliament at Winchester, by authority whereof hee feileth into his hands the Charters and freedomes of the Citie of London, and of many other Townes for their Rebellion. Those that were taken in the battel are committed to fafe Guftody, and all fuch as had been younthe Earls fide were difinherited, a ratable distribution being made of their estates to the Kings well deserving friends. Simon and Guy de Montfort, the Earles fonnes, were chiefe of the attainted; their mother the Counteffe with all her goods was fent in fafetie out of England neuer to returne. Simon the eldest brother sought to preserve himselfe, and the remaines of his Fathers (104) The King meaning to take all refuge from him, is together with his brother the King of Ro-mans, Ottoben the Popes Legate, (who was lately ar-rined) and a pui Gray are resident. riued) and a puissant ar mic, at Northampton, with purpose to oppresse him by warre. Simon had friends about the King, but the Earle of Gloesser maligning his restitution to full grace, it was concluded (vpon his fubmission) that he should live in exile, and for his maintainance receive onely five hundreth marks by the yeere. But the Castle of Kenelworth would not yeeld, driving the King to an halfe yeeres fiege; who also in the end was content to give the garrison pardon for life and limme, licenfing it to part with bag and baggage. In the meane while the other outlawes and difinherited men, made fundry excursions out of the Ile of Elie. Temperate men, desirous to pacific all these euils, would gladly have had the king to pardon those transgressions, and restore their lands vpon reasonable fines. This proposition found a fowre enemie of Roger Mortimer, who had by the kings gift gotten much of their land; which moued the Earle of Glocester (who favoured the other course) to indignation and distrust, so that he withdrew himmisfortunes in the Ile of Axhelme.

felfe. Not long after which, hee by his messengers An. 1 267. belongs the king, to remove frangers from about 1.67, him, to fee that the Statutes of Oxford were obscued through the king down and to keepe fisch promises as he had made at Esoform. Otherwise the king must not marviel, it she did that which himself is thought best. The Legate Cardinall Ottobon, about the same time (to hinder the growth of anie new rebellion) excommunicated the Bishops of Winchester, wercefter, London and Chichefter for having adhered to Simon Monifort, and also declared that the Clergie were to pay their tenths, for feuen yeeres next enfu-ing, to the king. On the other fide, all the vadone and diffinerized nien (except the fonnes of Simon Montfort and Robert Earle of Derbic) were offered to be put to ransome, and for certaine fines to be restored to their lands; but they required to have them without redemption, exposulating with the king and Legate many greeuances. When words had no An.D.1268. better operation, the King and Prince Edward beliege the Ile of Ely on all fides. This being known to the The Estle of Earle of Glocester, who (although hee had vnder his feale promised neuer to take armes against the King the king taket and Prince, but only in his owne defence)gathers a force in Wales in fauour of the difinherited, marcheth vp to London and taketh it, the Citizens fauouring him. Then commands he the Popes Legate, who lodged in the Tower, to yeeld up the fame ; but he as taking no knowledge of any fuch matter, repaired quietly to Pauls, there, by preaching to fittre vp peo-ple against the enemies of Christ in the Holy-land. Peaceensued not long after, by mediation of the King of Romanes, and the Noble Lord Philip Baffet; the Earle binding himfelfe in ten thousand markes to the King, neuer to moue any tumult. Lewelm Prince of Wales, who had greatly supported the Earle of Leicesters rebellion, for thirty two thousand pounds sterling was restored to foure Cantreds; which the King had taken from him in the warre and reconciled.

at Northampton, by the delivery of Ottobon, who not long after returned into Italie. Then was the Kings peace proclaimed through England, al men be-ing yoon paine of death commanded to forbeare to make (poiles, or take booties violently, as they of late had been accustomed. The Prince, seeing the Realme thus acquitted, doth the more willingly (having his Fathers content) yeeld to goe with Lewis King of France, into the holy land, who, toward his furniture things yet might not run out of fquare, the King held a Parliament at Marlborough where the Statutes called of Marlborough were enacted. The old King and his Queene henceforward enloyed the bleffing of a quiet estate at home, with the more leisure to pray therein for their fonnes faire successe in Pale fline, whose virtues had there raised an admiration of him among the Infidels. That quiet neuertheleffe was a little interrupted by an incendiarie outrage at Norwich, where the Citizens fet fire on the Priorie

Church. The king being kindled with another kind of fire fware he would in person see a reuenge taken ;

and dispatching first away Sir Thomas Trinet, (before whom a great multitude were found guilty, and condemned to be drawne and hanged)himfelfe, hauing

in his company one Bishop and the Earle of Glocester followed; where beholding the deformed ruines, he could hardly refraine from teares. The Bishop hauing therefore excommunicated the nocent, and the King condemned the Towne in three thousand markes, toward the reedification of that Church, as alfo to pay one hundreth pounds for a Cup weighing ten pounds in gold, he purposed to returne toward London. This publike act of zeale to religion and Iustice, was the last which he did, as a King; for now he was come to that, which hee was to enter into as a mortall man: At the Abbey of S. Edmund in Suffolke, he feligreeuoufly ficke, where while he lay, * he caufed the Earle of Glocester to be sworne to keepe the Realme for his sonne; the Prelates, Earles, and Barons of the land, being affembled to be present at his departure. Therefore after hee had in Christian manner prepared his foule, by acknowledging his finnes

Creditors and the Poore shared all his goods. The fpace of time which he reigned, is almost an old mans age, and absolutely the longest number of yeeres, that euerany King of England reigned, not excepting Ethelbert the first Christian King, if (which is * written by fome) he reigned fiftic fixe yeeres, and as manie

A.D. 1269.

An.Reg. 53.

(105) Dometlick peace now beginning to finine in An.Reg. 53.
the English Hemisphere, Prince Edward his brother, the Lord Edmand, the Earle of Gloncester with many other Noblemen of England, with intent of a more honourable warfare, take the Crosse vpon them in that voyage, lends him thirty thouland markes: for affurance whereof the Prince morgageth Aguitain vnto him. But what true fetled peace may we judge The chiefe Iuir, when Iohn de Warren Earle of Surrey the Kings halfe-brother (vpon the increase of words betweene them) durft kill Alan le Louch the chiefe Iustice, with his owne hand in Westminster Hall? A plaine and fearefull example of fauorites potencie. That all

Chap.9

A.D. 1270. 1271. 1273. The Priorie wich burnt in a and receiuing fit spirituall consolations, he rendred up the same to his Redeemer. His will was short, for his daies more, as are between the feast of Simon & Inde, and * Saint Edmund the Archbishop, which are about twentie. A Prince whose * denotion was greater Police then his discretion, as we see in his permitting the depredation of himfelfe and his whole kingdome by Papall ouerswayings , the errour of whose Gouernrapan outriwayings, the errout or whole Gouern-ment, concurring with the tumultuous treafons of his Nobles, did precipitate him into many milchiefs, out of which yet God almighty did strangelie deliuer him; for if he had not beene divinely protected, there is no cause for a reasonable man to doubt, but that his end had proued as headlong, as some of his own, and his Barons actions feemed to threaten. The royall remaines of this happily-dying Prince were with all the due pompe of exequies interred in West. minster, the great and sumptuous new worke whereof he began, but finished not; the description of whose life, being full of diuerticles and abrupt passages, as a maze or labyrinth, here at last hath found a lace of reft for it felfe and vs.

Additam.ad

His Wife.

(106) Eleanor the wife of King Henry, was the fecond of the fine daughters, of Raymond Earle of Prowince, sonne of Earle Alfonfe, sonne of Alfonfe the first unee, Jonne of Earte Ayang, Johne or enjugie the man king of Arragon; her mother was Beatries, daughter of 7 homes Earle of Sausy, fifter of the Earles Amee, and Peter, and the Archbishop Boniface of Canterbury. Shee was married to him at Canterbury, January 24. An. 1236.regn. 20: Crowned at Weltminster the 19.0f the same moneth was his wife 37. yeere, his widow 19. died a Nun at Alme/bery, the 25. of June, in the 20. yeere of her fons raigne 1291, and was buried in her monastery, the I 1. of September following.

Edward their eldeft sonne was borne at Westminster the 28,day of Iume, the 24. yere of his Fathers Raign 1239, hee was furnamed Long hancke, of his tall and flender body, made knight in Spaine of Alfonfe king of Caffile, created Earle of Chefter by his Father, after the lifue male extinct of the former Earles, and fucceeded his Father in the kingdome of England.

(107) Edmund their second sonne, borne lan. 26 A. 1245. and of his Fathers raigne, 29. was furnamed Crouched-backe, of bowing in his backe, fay fome, but more likely of wearing the figne of the Croffe, (anciently called a * Crouch) vpon his backe, which was viually worne of fuch as yourd viages to lerufalem, as he had done. He was inuefted titulare King of Sias he had done. He was inucited timere a ting of the men, made cilia and Apulia, and created Earle of Lancaffer, (on whole person originally the great contention of Lancaffer, and add and hasting of the grant created Friest cafter and Yorke was founded) and having of the grant of his Father, the lands of Simon Montfort and Robert Ferrers, (difinherited in the Barons warres) was by vertue of the same graunt Earle of Leicester and Derby, and high Steward of England. He had two wines, the first was Auelin, daughter and heire of William Earle of Albemarle, by whom he left no iffue, the fecondwas Queene Blanch, daughter of Robert Earle of Artoys, (brother of Saint Lewis King of France) wi dow of Henry of Champaigne, King of Nauarre, and mother of Joane Queene of France and Nauarre, the wife of Philip the faire. By her he had iffue three fons and one daughter. Thomas who after his Father was Earle of Lancaster, and having married Alice, daughter and heire of Henry Lacie Earle of Lincolne , was beheaded at Pomfret without iffue: Henry Lord of Monmouth, who after his brothers death was Earle of Lancaster, and father of Henry, the first Duke of Lancafter: Iohn, who died without marriage: and Mary, married to Henry Lord Percie, mother of Henry, the first Earle of Northumberland. This wodden fup-portes of impo-tent men, made

Earle Edmund died at Edyorin Gascoigne, Inne. 5. An. 1296. and of King Edward his brothers raigne 24. when hee had lived firty yeare, foure moneths and nineteene daies; whole body halfe a yeereafter his death, was conuaied into England, and lieth entomb-Qqqq 2 1

*Sa we call the

liouse, and manie noble houses of that time.
(108) Richard the third sonne of King Henry and Queenc Elenor, (bearing the name of his vncle Richard, King of Romans Amaign,) deceased in his youth, and lieth at Westminster, enterted on the south-side of the Quire.

(109) John the fourth sonne of King Henrie and Queene Fleanor, (bearing the name of King 10hn his grandfather,) deceased yong, and at Westminster his bones lie enterred with his brother Richard.

(110) William the fift fonne of King Henry and Queene Eleanor, is mentioned by Thomas Pickering, (a Priest of the monastery of Whithy in Yorkeshire, who lived in the time of King Henrie the fixt, and wrote a large Genealogie of the Kings of England, and their. iffues,)'and that he dying in his childhood, was buried within the new Temple, by Fleete-streete in

(111) Henry the fixt sonne of King Henry and Queene Eleanour, is also reported by the same Pickering, to have died yong, and to be buried at Westmin-

(112) Margaret the eldeft daughter of King Henry and Queene E'eanor, borne the twentie fixt vecre of her Fathers raigne. 1241, was the first wife of Alexander the third, King of Scotland, married to him at Torke, An. 1251. by whome shee had issue, Alexander and Dasid, (who died both before their Falexander and Dasid, ther without iffue, and Margaret Queene of Norway, wife of King Erike, and mother of Margaret the heire of scotland, and Norway, that died unmarried : free was Queene twenty two yeeres, lived thirtie three, deceased before her husband, in the twenty third yeere of his Raigne, the first of her brother Edwards in England, and was buried at the Abbey of Dunferinling in Scotland.

(113) Beatrice the second daughter of King Henrie, and Oneene Eleanor, was borne at Burdeaux in Gascoigne, iune. 25. An. 1242. of her Fathers raigne 27. At the age of eighteene yeeres, flee was married to Iohn the first Duke of Britaine, (Ionne of Iohn the last Earle of the same,) and had assue by him, Arthur Duke of Britanny, John Earle of Richmont, Peter, and Blanch married to Philip, Sonne of Robert Earle of Artoys; Eleanour a Nunne at Amsbery, and Marie married to Guy Earle of Saint Paul: when shee had beene his wife twelve yeeres, and lived thirty yeeres, face deceased in Britany, in the first yeere of the Raigne of her brother King Edward, and was buried at London, in the Quire of the Grey Fryers within New-

(114) Catherine the third daughter of King Henry and Queene Eleaner, was borne at London, An. 1252, of her fathers raigne 37. Novemb. 25. being Saint Katherines day, whose name was therefore ginen vnto her, at the font, by Boniface Arch-Bilhop of Canterbuher, and was her Godfather. Shee died yong and at Wessmiller her, bones lie enterred, with her brother Richard and Iohn, in the space betweene the Chappels of King Edward and Saint Bennet.

EDWARD

6bap. 10. Edward. J. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 47.

EDVVARD THE FIRST, LORD OF Montarch 47 IRELAND, AND DVKE OF AQVI.

TAINE, &c. THE FORTIE-SEVENTH MO-NARCH OF ENGLAND, HIS RAIGNE. ACTS, AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER X.

Ann. 122

Dward, who followed K. Henry in wearing the English Crowne, but far out-went him in all regall ertues, was abroad at the time of his fathers death, still pursuing his high defires for the Hely Warres: wherein what he performed, (being yet but a Prince,) against the public enemies of Christians, it shall not bee impertinent to touch, before wee come to his actions as a King; having already remembred, with what valour and felicity hee had fubdued his Fathers domefticke enemies, fetled the peace of his Kingdome, and reestablished the raines of Soueraignty in his Fathers hands, which those potent Rebels had formerly extorted.

(2) King Lewis of France, whose perswasions had enflamed this noble-spirited Prince to affociate him in this glorious quarrell, having first set forth for the enterprise, lay now in siege of Tunis in Africa; where Prince Edward with all his forces arriving, the France King (greatly rejovcing in his withed preferect) together with the King of Maustre, and other Princes of his Army, wene forth to meet him, and received him in the kiffe of Peace. This place which they beleaguered, was (as then) not great, yet by reason of the situation, * it greatly impeached the Christians in their passages through those Seas; being built out of the scattered ribs, and wasted ruines of that mighty and famous City Carthage, riual once in Maiefty and Ambition with ancient Rome, as contending with her about the Empire of the World. Therefore to secure the Mediterranean Seas, it Mai. Par. was thought necessary to beginne that enterprife for Asia, with this in Asias is but not long after Lewis yeelding uppe his holy Souleto God at the siege, and sicknesse (by reason of the heates in those Regions, for it was August) raig-take charge of the whole enterprise, arrives; and after sharpe reenforcement of the fiege, (where Edward gaue frequent proofe of his great valour and prudence,) Charles is content to forbeare extremity, Prince Edward vn willing to any truce with the (to which the Saracens were brought) vpon capitulations with them, contrary to Edwards mind, being wholly fet to subdue, conuert or root them

Paul, Aemyl.

(3) Yetthe points of the treaty & truce (though granted for many yeeres) carried shew of honour. being these: 1. that all Christian Captines should bee let free without ransome: that in the Cities of that Kingdome, the Christian faith might freely be taught: 3. that all fuch as were willing, might freely receive facred Baptisme: 4 that the Sarazens should repay to the Christian Kings, their charges: 5. that the King of Tunis should remaine tributarie to the King of Sicilie. The fiege hereupon was raise fed, to the griefe and indignation of Edward, who would not (as is reported) partake nor share in any of the treature, which by reason of the truce was payed by the Sarazens, as accounting it to be wickedly gotten, and contrary to the Tenor of the vow, which for the honour and advancement of Christian Religion had beene made. The euent also seeming to confirme no lesse; for the wrath of Heauen (faith our * Author) purfued King Charles, brother to the late King Lewis, and finding him out vpon the sea in his returne toward Sieilie, tooke seuere reuenge by terrible weather, aswell vpon him, as almost his whole Army, which perished in the waters, together with the impious treasure brought from Tunis, and all other his furniture of State and Houshold. Which when Prince Edward understood, hee sware by the bloud of our Lord, that though all his Companions in Armes and Countrimen should abandon him, yet hee and Fowin his * Lackey alone would enter whom Lewis (before his decease) had sent for, to enterprize.

* Cuffot Palfreds.
* Aces or Acres.

* Continuatio Mat Par.

inte * Ptolomau, and keeps the own which he had made, whiles foule and body held together. A noble refoluti-on, and as faithfully performed, but not with so small attendance; for the English hearing his feruent affeueration, promifed with one heart to accompanie him, and that (in all likely hood) the more willinglie, because it is not observed, that the tempest had any way danified Edward, or his fellowship. He forthwith thereforesets saile toward doon, into which hee entred fafe not about four daies before the City should haue beene yeelded to the Sarazens, from which precipitation these succours out of England withheld it. The Sultan of Babylon, who lay about Acon with a puissant hoaft, and had begun to affault the breaches; hearing this, not long after raifed his fiege, and without the fruition of his defire withdrew to his owne Dominions. (4) Edward vndoubtedly was not more tall of personage then stout of courage, and vpon trust ther-of, doing some things, which perhaps a Prince of his hopes, and fortunes, might with good reason haue forborne. His vndaunted courage against those

Edwards volun-tarie fingle fight with Sir Adam Gurden, Infizels may bee gessed by the like against a dome-sticke Rebell. Among those who were out-lawed for Rebellion & Treason, after the battell of Eucham for partaking with Simon Earle of Leicester, was one Sir Adam Gardon a Knight of the parts about Win-chester, who with certaine his Complices kept out of the way of the Kings officers, but made the Kings high-way betweene Wilton and Farnham (which by reason of woods and windings was sitte to shelter e-nemics) very dangerous for such as meant to passe, but doing most mischiefe to the lands and goods of fuch as were the Kings friends. Edward hearing of this mans fingular courage, gets intelligence of a fit time, and comes ypon him with a strong band of followers, but he, nothing terrified, prepares himfelfe to fight for his life to the last gaspe. The Prince hereupon commands that none of his men should dare to interrupt their Combat, and forthwith with equall courage exchanged mighty blowes without winning ground each of other. Edward delighted with the brauery of Adams spirit, and proofe of his manhood, bad him yeeld, promifing him life, and his lands againe; who prefently throwing away his weapons, enjoyed the full benefite of Prince Edwards promise. The happinesse of that age, wherin Sword and Shield were the ordinary weapons, and afforded much affurance in fight, might somewhat excuse the Prince from the note of temerity, which otherwise, in hazarding his princely person against a privat Gentleman, hee could hardly have escaped. But here at Acon hee refused no occasion of purting forth the naturall strengthes of his firme-compacted body, till by the Sultans retreat the most honourable opportunities were subtracted.

(5) All this while did that renowned and vertu- Edwards wife ous Lady, Elanor, wife of Prince Edward, endure delivered of a with him an infeparable companion of all his fortunes, and was at Acon delivered of a daughter baptized there by the name of loan, But if God had not better prouided for him, thee was not likely to haue enjoyed any longer the deare company of her louing Lord and Husband. Amongst that bloody Sect of Sarazens , called Affaisini, who, without feare of torments, vndertake (vpon commaund of their *Superior) the murther of any eminent prince, impugning their irreligion, was one Anzazim, often v-fed by the Sarazen Admirall of Ioppe, as a Messenger betweene him and Edward, whom the Admiral pretended exceedingly to honour for his heroicke parts of mind and body. The desperate wretch by this employment getting credite and accesse, vpon his infinuation of certaine fecrets to be imparted, Prince traineroufly Edward commandedall men to voide the Chamber, when looking out of a window, the Affaline fodainly with a polioned knife gives him three wounds, two in the arme, and one neere the arme-pit; whom Edward presently with his foot threw to the earth. wrung the knife from the Traitour, (not without wounding himselfe in the hand,) and with the treffel of a Table smote out his braines. Then calling in his people, hee commands that the body of the villaine should bee hanged up ouer the Cities Wall and a liue dogge with him. The Admirall hearing of this trayterous attempt, is * faid to have fighed for forrow, for that hee neuer knew thereof, but meant himselfe to have become a Christian. But when the Christians understood of this cursed assault vponthe person of sorenowned a Prince, they ment in reuenge thereof, to have forthwith invaded the Pagans wherefoeuer. But the Prince (whose first care was the lafety of Christians) said, I forbidyou on Cate was the latery of Chillians plane, porton por in-the behalf of God, that none of you zet prefume to in-fest the Pagans Armie, because many of our people are gone to white the holy Sepulchre, who shall every one of them bee murthered by the Sarazens, if they shall now sustaine any (though but small) veration at our hands. The fecond care was of his wounds, which by reason of the enuenemed blade were feared to be mortall; wherein the Lady Elener gaue so rare example of conjugall affection, as her immortall memo-A rare example of winely affection ry doth infthy impart glory to that whole Sex. For when no medicine could extract the poison, shee did it with her tongue, licking dayly, while her husband Acpt, his ranchling wounds, subserely they perfectly clo-fed, and yet her felfe received no harmes so sourraigne

Centing, Math.

a medicine is a wives Tongue, annointed with the vertue fix. of lonely affection. (6) Thus while Edward abode in forraine pare for the generall service of Christianity, against the encreasing Enemies thereof, (contending then to that lamentable Greatnesse, wherein our vnhappie times behold them;) his Father king Hemie dies, and Prince Edward had the defect of his presence supplied by the faith and care of such venerable and noble persons, as his Father left behind him at his The Walling. death. Therefore Robert Kilwarby Archbishop of Canterbury, Gilbert Earle of Glocefler, with other the nenge as followed the captination of his valiant Pre-The Voalfag.

*Peol. Aemylia Philipp. 8.

"All and Men %The.PValfin Edward, z. The marusilou together at the New-Temple in London, acknowled-ged and proclaimed absent Edward for their Soueraigne Liege Lord; and by the affent of his Mother, the Queene Dowager, prouided for the com-mon affaires of the King, and the good estate of the Kingdome. The first newes of his Fathers death were brought vnto him, when after his return from the Holy-Land(which feruice hee was * enforced to forfake, having long in vaine expected the promi-fed aids of Christians and Tartars.) he rested himfelfe in Sicilia, with Charles the King thereof; where to the immortall commendation of his pietie, and filiall affection (rare in Princes) it is recorded, that the death of his some and Heire, comming first to his care, and afterward of the King his Father, hee much more forrowed his Fathers departure, then his Sonnes: whereat King Charles greatly maruailed, and demanding the reason, had of him this an "[were, The loffe of Somnes is but light, because they."

"are multiplied enery day: but the death of Pavents is "irremediable, because they can never bee had a-(7) Now, whether it were the terrour of fuch rechiefe Prelates and Peeres of the land, affembling deceffor King Richard, or his owne wifer carriage, or the calmer condition of the times, or all of them together, which secured him in his returne : certaine is is, that hee trauelled in great fafety and honour oner land from Sicilia to Rome, where he was met vp-on the way with all the Cardinals, gratulating the honourable successe of his Cheualrie against the Turkes, his safe returne, and new Kingdome. At his inflance Pope Gregory * excommunicated the bloudy:handed Guy Montford (because * his person could not easily bee gotten, by reason of his Greatneffe, and power) with all his receivers, and (vntill amends were made) put their whole Dominions vn der interdict, for that the faid Guy, (fonne to Simon late Earle of Leicefter , flain ar the battel of Enefham in reuenge of his Fathers death (*for which he mor tally hated all King Henries race,) had most butcherly murthered * Henry of Almaine, King Edwards neere kiniman, voon his returne toward England in the raigne of the late King Henry, as hee was de uoutely feruing God in the Church at Fiterbe in Ita-lie; which horrible act induceth a * indicious Author to fuspect, that Guy also had a hand in that Affalfination on Edward, who had flaine his Father. This Guy being afterward taken by the Admirall of Arragon, to gratific King Edward, was kept in prison, & the death of Henrie reuenged *with his. From Rome hee journied through the Cities of Italy, where he was generally entertained with exceeding joy and honour; and as he was * entring into Sauoy, at the nonour; and us ite was cuttring into same, at the Roope, or defent of the Alpes, very many of the Pre-lates, and Peeres of England met him, acknowled-ging their gladnesse for his lafety, and their duties to his Soueraignty. In his paffage, hee gaue notable proofe of his great prowesse and strength at a Turnament (or rather * battel) against * the Earle of Chableun, and his Burgundians: for the faid Count being a gallant man at Armes, after many blowes with the fword betweene King Edward and him, throwing away his weapon, grafpt the King about the gorget, and hung yoon him with the weight of his massic body, in hope to cast him to the earth;

but the King, fitting vpright, without any bending, put spurres to his lusty horse, and lifted the Count

io hanging about his necke, quite from his Saddle, carrying him away, till hee had forceably shooke him off to the ground, who recouering himselfe, & comming to redeeme his diffrace, had such entertainement, as hee was contented to yeeld. In our effeminate and degenerous age, to omit such an architement of a King of England in his owne perfon had beene hainous and piaculum. Thus his renowne encreasing with his progresse, hee had magnificent entertainement in France, of Philip the king, to whom (vpon condition to have such tetritories reftored, as were promifed to his Father King Hen ie when he fold Normandie to the French) hee did homage for fuch Signiories, as he held of the Crown of France.

(8) And as well to shew his owne moderation & princely temperance, (a vertue which makes every man a King in himselfe, and Kings like to Gods) as also his reverence to the Crowne of France, whose Homager hee was for his transmarine Dominions, Gualeo de Biern, a valiant man of Armes, being in actuall rebellion against K. Edward in his Dutchie of Gascoigne, was admitted to appeale for triall of his pretended causes to the French King, as the superior Lord. Many of King Edwards friends and Counsellours were vtterly aduerse to this fauour; aswell because the said Guafee had drawne the King to no small charge, and labour, as also for that now he was brought by strait fiege to fuch extremities as that hee could no longer hold out, and himfelfe, having all that while put his confidence in walles of stone; and the weapons point; there was also little reason to allow him an ordinary civill triall of his pretexts for taking arms; and many perhaps, both thought the example preiudicious to King Edward and his Successors, by giuing way to fuch appeales, and distrusted the instice of the French Court: Contrary to all which, the king decreed, and it was fortunate with him; for Gualed (not long after) was condemned in France, and fent with * an halter about his necke, to proftrate him-felfe to instice, or mercy at King Edwards feete in England, who pardoned him the forfeiture of life, & let 15s. Walf.
(when hee had for certaine yeeres kept him prifoner at Winchester) fet him at liberty, and fent him ced backe to his own, who remained for euer after gratefully firme and loyall.

(9) King Edward (his transmarine affaires thus being fetled) arrived in England, where hee was after fo long defirings most toy fully welcome, and there, in the Church of westminster (the magnificent newwork of his deceased Father, who had with great cost, and after aboue fifty yeeres spent therein, almost fini-shed the same) he and his dearest Elenor were annointed and crowned by * Robert Kylmarby Archbishop of Canterbury. There were present at this solem-nity Queen Elenor the Kings mother, * Alexander htty Queen Exerce the Enings mounter, and the strength of Sects, the Duke of Britaine, with multitudes of Peeres and others: where (as * one faith) for the more royall celebration of this great feaft, and honor wides size. of fo martialia King, there were fine hundreth great Horses let loose, every one to take them for his own, who could

(10) The finall abolishment of succession of the Welfb bloud in the Principality, or chiefedom of Wales now enfued: but yet (as great matters vie) not first without some time, and certaine degrees. The originall was this; King Edward having sent for Lewelin Prince of Wales to his Coronation, there to doe him homage; he, excusing the same, was againe (for that cause) admonished to repaire to the Kings Parliament at Westminster: whither likewise he for-bare to come, pretending it wasdanger to his perfon, but * directing his excuse to the Archbishops of Canterburie and Yorke, and their Suffragans, profeffed his readineffe, if it would pleafe the King ther to fend a Commission for taking his Oath and fealty, (who bare him a deepe displeasure, euer * fince his history of walts.

Lewelin had put him, being then but Earle of Chester, walts. to the worle) or else, to appoint some indifferent place, or give to him for hoftages the *Kings forme, and Robert Earle of Glacefler, with Robert Burnel the Kings Chancellour. But King Edward differabling the arrogancic of the demand for the present, went forward in Theftseure of his Parliament, where the first Statutes, called of Mortmain Wellminster, and among them the Statute of Mort-ther alfo; wherefore the King, refoluing (for deniall main were enacted. But after the Parliament, the King repaired to his City of Chefter, being very neere to Wales, and Lewelin foreflowed his comming thi-

The VV alfing.

Hell Bost.

Da.Powel p-331

544	Edward.I. THE SVC		ESSION	OF	Monarch	47.	Book.9
	of homage) to feize vpon the whole Fee of the faid	1	to gaine the We	//-Nation	rather by his large	Te,then	1
	Prince, marcht with an Armie into Wales; his good fortune there was accidentally augmeted by a prize	1	puillance, hau	ing to hone	urably vscd Lewel	in, hee which foure shippes of Bristol tooke about the Isles		could not yetr	etain their	hearts; for whether	it were	t D. B of Sillie, wherein the daughter of Simon Montfori		(which * lome,	to amoue	the note of ingratit	tude, &	* Da Pow.p. 33
	late Earle of Leicelter (who, according to a fector	- 1	parriality (Gd	n tnem, ar	firme) for that the	ere was	1 contract betweene their friends, went to be given in		of inflice your	ha March	lißofficers in diftri es,or(which feems	bution	1
	indicage to Legreum and Americke her brother were	• •	as likely) for the	at they allo	red in vaine to their	to lome	.1
	lurprised, but thee found honourable viage of the		liberty(being mil	rably Ceduc	ed with certaine bl	ind ove
	Aing ner neere kiniman.	1	phelies) the W	elle beton	ke themselues af	na pro-	Poly Perg. 1. 1
A.D. 1278.	(11) Meanewhile, Lewelines affaires, by the man-		Armes: for D.	und himle	lte, whom the Kin	nor had	11
Alias Camurcys	1 1000 and diligence of Pain de Canulae and others	1	laden with lo m	any benef	ftes and graces, bec	amero
	who had take Welt-Wales in, & broght it to the Kings		them a princip	ill leader, a	and to give them fo	ıll affn.	.]
	peace, untuing but poorely, and the laide Prince	1	rance of his fai	tneife to th	eir cauté(reconcilie	10 him-	1
Toward in Tale	feeling the foundations of his fafetie beginning ma-	1	leite to his brot	ter the Pri	ace) he fodainely an	ıd trea.	1
Languet.in Epit. hr.ex The.			cneroully vpon	Palmc-Su	inday feifed the Ca	aftle of	1
Faifing. Hift.Angl.L.17.	for peace, and had it vpon fuch termes, which in		- Hawardm, lu	priling Ro	ger de Clifford, a n	oble &
HIJE. ANG 12. 17.	likely-hood were not(as * Polydor Virgil would have	1	famous Knight	. whom th	e King had difpare	hed in.	100.77 0.70
	it feeme) granted by King Edward, less he should leese his cost, and care, by warring against bogs and mountaines. In the conditions of Peace (which was procu-	1	to those parts, a	s iuiticiar	of all Wales . and	flaving	1
	teiner In the conditions of Deserviting against bogs and moun-		luch vnarmed n	ien as offe	red to relift that via	alence	1
Fabian.	red * with great difficultively and an advantage of		whence marchi	ig, hee laid	fiege together wi	ith the	1
	red * with great difficulty) the most remarkeable (as carrying the shew of a farre greater riches in the		Prince his broth	er, to the	Caltle of * Rodolan	, doing	* Ruthlan.Dr.
	possession of the wells, even at that time, then some		many outrages,	and killing	g all fuch as they	could	Pow pag.337.
David Peorl.	prejudicated can easily beleeue) were these. r. That		had token st	as it is laid) whose ransomes	*they	apud Da, Powel
	the Prince flould pay to the King for his peace and	1	King Edman 10	gn againít.	Lewelins mind, And	while	E ag.339.
eg.334.& 534. Them.Walfing. Edw.t.andin	goodwill, fifty thousand pounds sterling, the *pay-	1	and afternoon	Gradel	er at the Vifes in W	sttfbire,	1
ud, Xult.	ment whereof, should bee in the Kinges will and	1	lined in the N	unca the C	Queene his mothe	r, who	1
	grace; that is (as wee conceine it) how much thereof	1	diners Carrein	mericat A	mbresberie, the welf	vnder	I the Prince should pay or not pay, and when 2. That		* frenorher and	Cables :-	ten fundry of the diuers parts. Th	Kings	1
	the faid Prince should have the Isle of Anglesey in		extant the * Co	vies of som	diders parts. In	cre are	*The Walfing.
	Fee-farme of the King, to him, and to the lawfull if-	1	to John Archbil	nonne of	aine grieuances,ext anterbury by the W	nibirea	* Da.Par.p. 336
r in Gersume,	fue of his body in generall taile, for fine thousand	1	fuch time as of	his owne a	ccord (to fay the fa	eyo, at	l ome vie the	Marks readic money, for * erellom or a fine in hand	1	nies) hee inter	no fed him	folfo (mist out at	Id Cord.	paid, & the yearly rent of a thouland Marks. The reft	1	leane) to ferrie	heir anies	felfe (without the which Articles in	Lings	1 of the articles (being about eight,) amounted to fo		(for the answere	softhe En	glish are not set de	imew, much as a plain Conquest, or dissolution of the Prin-		containe indeed	fundry or	eat abuses but th	owne)	i cipality of wates, after Lewelins death, who was to en-		of Wales had no	w inuolned	them all in a defo	derina toy the same, during his time upon conditions.
	(12) Now whereas the faid Lewelin had three		the Archbilhop	oe hadi trar	edled in perfor •	o the Brethren, Danid (whom King Edward fauoured) Ow-						* The Walling en, and Rodericke, it was enjoyined to him at this		ned without any	Conclui	On made, "commit	no vn-	* Antiq Brit,in conclusion (made by the Lord Robert Tiptoft, and		to Oxford, hee th	cre fenz ou	t the lightnings of	* ev-	* The Walfing, * Anniq. Brit, in vit. 10b. Peckam * Polyd. Verg. 1.17
Da. Pow. p 33@	certaine other * Commissioners, vpon eyther side		communication	against hir	n and his feduced	adhe-	Lights organis
	appointed) that hee should appeale and satisfic his		rents: vveetay	educed, be	cause they did cani	itulate faid Brethren: but because Danid was afterward a	1	in luch lort, as i	they had	beene able to make	their principall Actor in the calamities which fell vpon		party good.
	himselfe, his house, and his Country, we must not		(14) Burtho	igh the old	Brittifb Principalis	ty was	A.D. 1283
bassalf.	neglect to speake somwhat particularly of him. This		now to expire, vo	tit mult b	ee confessed that a	· Fame	21.10. 1203
	Gentleman for some causes, * flying into England		esen had an end vi	worthy o	his bloud, being	rather
1	from his Brother Lewelin, for his faithfull feruice		vnrortunately ila	ine, then	Otherwife, fo on 1	he o-
	to the State of England, was there honoured (con- trary to the manner of his Nation) with the order		ther lide the lam	e hapned n	ot without reueno	e:for of Knighthand and received also, by the bearing		arone encounter	in open h	eld. Gilbert Farles	of Gla of Knighthood, and received also, by the bounty of King Edward, for his maintenance, the Castle of	- 1	free lost william V	uence (a voi	nger Colen of the k	Cinnel !
	Denbigh, with lands to the yearly value of one thou-	- 1
	fand pounds, and the Daughter of the Earle of Der-	- [hodies dead and	ano, many	of the welfh left	their
i	by (being then a Widow) to wife : with all which haun-	- 1	rytothe Fnelift	bue the	together with the	victo-
. 1	ty, the King did but entertaine a reuealer of his fecrets,	- 1 bien.in Kd.1.	as fome (not improbably) doe affirme. The Stare !				fe, may not bee for
. 1279.	of Wales thus composed, and the Castle of " Abe-		Audeler and the	Tord Page	will * Lord Willia	ım de	"The Walfing.
Pow.p. 226.	ristwith (which seemes to bee the same, that by *an-		got foureteene F	niianee fra	Clifford the yonge m the English Arm	r,and	"The Walfing. King Edward repulied by the
. VVaij.	other is faid to have beene built in West-Wales at La.	ı	Edward being ent	orced to	nter into the Cast	uc,K.	Welsh,
1.	pader Vaur) being built by King Edward for affuring	- 1	Hope for his fafer	v. The	things, though not	ac of those parts, the King (as he was munificent, and roi-		temptible, bur ra	ther ceresi	ne deceirfull fauou	con-
1	all) the more to tie Lewelins faith, gaue vnto him
1	the Lady, of whole furpriseat Seawe have mentio-	- 1	conid not abuoid	the cause.	For first the Prince	re ha. I
- 1	ned, to be his confort, honouring the Nuptials with
1	his owne preience, and his Queens. And whereas	J	tome rew otners	from his	Army, which then	a wae !
	Alexander King of Scots came about the same season	- 1	in the land of Bue	th, was fer	vpon by two prin	cinal!
1	into England to treat with Edward concerning im-		Gentlemen, Tohn	Giffard. a	nd Edmund de A	farta
1	portant affaires, and had formerly lent to the Wellb		mar, with their Fo	rces,and th	tere by the band or	fone
- 1	warres, certaine aides of the Scots, the faid Alexander		*Adam Francton	was runne	through with an I-	lorfe.
	being icalous (on his Countries behalfe) that those		mans staffe, who	at the first	being vnknowne,	had	* Deu, Pow.p. 374.
rift ables	aides might bee interpreted, to have beene fent		his head strucker	afterward	off, and prefent	ed to efted not to	vpon duty, obtained letters teltimonial from King	1	King Edward , a	t whole o	ommandement in	wae
ient of duty	Edward, declaring that they were not fent of duty, or in	- 1	*crowned with I	ie,and fer	vp for a certain tim	CVP	"The Walfing.
ue.	respect of service due.	- 1	on the Tower of .	Condon.		- 1
.1282.	(13) Though King Edward were thus defirous	- 1	(15) This (fair	h the *Hi	ftory of wales) was	s the
		- 1			, , 114.	end	* Pag 374

bap.10	Edward I. ENGLANDS M	ONARCHS. Monarch 47.	545
10	end of Lewelin, betrayed by the men of Buelth, who	S.Salomon Rochester, chiefe Iustice of Assics, 4000. M.
- 1	was the last Prince of Britaines bloud: and with him	S.Richard Boyland, 4000.Marks.
	(whom one Versifier calleth the Captaine, the praise,	S.Thomas Sodentone, 2000. Marks.
he.W.djing.	the law, and light of Nations, and another defaceth	S.Walter de Hopton, 2 000. Marks.
1.	with as many ignominious attributes) the liberty of that people did also die. For it was not long but	S.William Saham, Iuslice, 3000, Marks.
1	that people did also die. For it was not long but	Robert Littelburie, Clerk, 1 000. Marks,
-	that King Edward subdued in a manner all Wales, &	Roger Leicester Clerk, 1000. Marks.
	reserving to himselfe the Coast-Towns & strengths	Adam de Stratton (beside other riches incredible)
{:	toward the Sea, diffributed the In-land Countries	32000. Markes. But with one Sir Thomas Weyland ambden in	to the Lordshis followers: therein prudently fol-	the Kings * chiefe Iustice, (being found belike most	* Stowin Edwa.
omites.Flist.	lowing the counsell of Augustus, who thus under pre- tence of defence for the Prouinces, had the brideling of all	false)he dealt farre more sternely, for he not only sei-
- 1	tence of defence for the Provinces, had the brideling of all	fed vpon all his moueable goods and Iewels (which	,
- 1.	their forces at his pleasure. Neuerthelesse the whole	he had done to others) but also vpon his immouea-	i
1	flame was not as yet extinguished, for David the	ble, and banisht him moreouer out of the Kingdome.	1
An.D. 1284.	Princes Brother, and * chiefelt-tirebrand in this fa-	At which time the King constrained all his Instices	1
Polych.1.7.6.38.	tall combustion, was at large: who being taken &	to fweare, that from thenceforth they would take no	1
- 1	brought to King Edward at the Castle of Ruthlan,	pension fee or gift of any man, except only a break- fast, or the like present. O divine and fill necessary se-	t
- 1	could not obtaine admission to his sight or speech,	fast, or the like present. O dinine and fill necessary fe-
1	but was amanded, and fent Prifoner to Shrewsburie.	" uerity onely able to breake the pernicious combination of	t
- 1	Thither the King, having fetled the State of Wales,	men that under the profession of law & offices of Iustice	1
1	repairing to a Parliament which he had fummoned,	" make merchandize of honor inflice law and conscience,	Į.
	there to bee kept after Michaelmas, caused Danid (ha-	" which cannot in the end but bring forth ruine, and con-
The Walfing.	uing first had a Legall triall . before certaine Iusti-	" fusion,
IA.D.	ciars for that cause appointed) to bee severely put	(18) That tempest now, which * Thomas Ersiston,	Scottifh affairt
Result Ceffe in	to death, by * hanging, heading and quartering,	a Scottifb Rimer, is faid to have obscurely propheci-	Helt.Bostrant.
Polych.l.7.	whose head was set vp at London, and his quarters	cd, alluding to the troubles of Scotland by reason of	49.13.
1	in foure other principall Cities of England, to the	King Alexanders death; hapned about these times;	1
	terrour of all ingratefull and difloyall persons. The	which raifed so great, and bloody contentions, that it	1
- 1	Wellb line thus thrust from the Principality, King	had almost blowne vp the regalitie of that king-	1
1	Edward vpon Saint Marks day had a sonne borne	dome by the very rootes. For when, by the violent	l
1	vnto him in Wales at Caernarum, who also was called	fall from his horle, King Alexander had most vnfor-	1
	Edward, and raigned after him; and that with the	tunately loft his life, that Realme was wofully defti-	1
n.D. 120).	birth of a new Lord, the welf b might bee inured to	tute of any apparent heire, fundry persons stading in	1
1	new lawes, the King established (by example of K.)	competition for the fame. These things were thought	1
	Iohn his Grandfather in Ireland) the English lawes	to be foreshewed from heaven by many * fearefull and offices among them.	presages, as extraordinary Mercors, Flouds, Fires,	*Hell.Bo. Gb.1
	(16) But the King that hee might not seeme for-	and Pestilence. But King Edward intending to	1
	getfull of his French affaires, repayred into France,	fway that affaire, and being upon his way toward the	i
A.D. 1287.	where hee obtained fundry fauours, though they	borders, the death of his royall confort, and Queene,	1
	continued not long, and fate in person there with	which he lamented while himselfe did live, called him	A.D. 129
	the French King in his Parliament at the City of	backe to the celebration of her funerals : as her ex-
	Paris, as a Lord or Peerc of that Realme, in respect	cellent virtues did well deserue. To our Nation shee
A.Do.1289.	of such lands as hee had in those parts. Nor may	was a louing mother, & (faith * one) the Column, and	" Walking.
	here bee forgotten an Act of fingular monificence,	pillar(as it were) of the whole Realme. In her ho- nour the King her husband (who loued her about	1
The VV alfing.	and charity in this renowned King, for the redemp-	nour the King her husband (who loued her about tion of Charles Prince of Achaia, sonne and Heire of	al worldly Creaturs) caused those many famous *tro-
	Charles King of Sicilia, who had some yeers before	pheis, or croffes to be erected, wherefoeuer her noble	*As Charing Croffs, and at W tham, S. Alba beene taken in a battell at Sca before Naples, by	coarse did rest, as it was conveyed from Lin- colnesbire to buriall in westminster. Nor coulde	tham, S. Alba the Gallies of Sicilia, fighting on the behalfe of	colneshire to buriall in westminster. Nor coulde	Dunytapic, Co.
	the King of Arragon: for whose speedier enlarge-	any thing, but the respect to other weighty matters,	.]
	ment, K. Edward disburfed thirty thousand pounds	now presently in hand, with-holde our pen from	.1
	sterling, and gaue his owne Knights in hostage, till	paying to her memory a farre more copious com-
	Charles had fent in his two fonnes , Robert and Lew-	mendation.	A. D. 129
Pol. Perg. 1.17.	is, as pledges to Alfonse king of Arragon: which done,	.(19) Those mourning offices as mournfully per-
-	King Edward returned into Gascoigne, and there	formed, the King repaires into Northumberland, whi-tooke vpon him the Croffe, in full purpose to finish	ther the greatest, and sagest persons of the Scottish na	-
	the journey which once he had vndertaken, and had	tion being come, *themselves having sought to him.	Hell.Bee. li.
	in part performed against the Sarazens.	Edward makes claime to the superiority of Scotland
	(17) In the meane time, to purge England (whi-	and requires that the Competitors would quietlie
King Edward	ther hee was now returned) from such corruptions,	affent to his award, alleaging that the Crowne of	f confilcates the	and oppressions, as vnder which it grouned, and not	that Realme was held of him: for more credit to	>
lewes, and fines his Infliciars,	neglecting therein his particular gaine, hee banished	which affertion he youched fundry books and acts	. x seeder en
An. 1290.	the Iewes out of the Realme, conficating all their	whereunto the Scots replied, * That they were igno rant, that any such superiority belonged to the King of	- VVillet Mal
nu. 1290.	goods, leaving them nothing but money to beare	rant, that am such superiority belonged to the King of	Ro. Hoved &c their charges. And whereas they by their cruelly-furies had one way caten his people to the bones, &	without a King the head, upon whom it lay to heare fuch a	in Edward,1.
	his Iufticiars (like another kind of Iewes) had ruined	without a King the head, upon whom it lay to hear e such a demunciation, and protested, that other answere they ough	1
	them with delayes in their fuites, and enriched them-	not as then to give, in regard of their Oath, which after	. [ felues with wicked corruptions, hee (like a father of	the death of Alexander their King they had made one to	'
An honourable	hie Country) out all these from their offices who were	the other and the same to keepe under paine of excommu-	-1 way to enrich a	his Country) put all these from their offices who were found guilty (and they were *almost all) and punished	nication. Whereupon the King deliuered to them	1
King. * Ibe. Walfing.	them otherwise in a grieuous manner, being fust in open	his letters Patents, in which he acknowledged, that	: .
	Parliament connicted. The particulars whereof, by	the comming of those Scots, on this fide the water of	ft
	reason of the most instand commendable example,	Twede, should not be at any other time vrged to pre-	.1
Iohn Stew ex	we will not thinke needlesse (the order of naming	indice them, for comming againe into England: that Adam, Merim. Chron Dung. &c.	we will not thinke needlene (the order or naming	is, That their example should not so be drawne to an argu-	.1
	them only changed) to recapitulate here. Sir Ralph	ment of King Edwards right over them, as if they were to	. [
	Hengham, Chief Iustice of the higher Bench, 7000 marks.	come againe upon dutie ; so prudentlie ie alous were these
	Sir Iohn Louetot, Iustice of the lower Bench, 3000 marks	Patriots of their Countries liberty.	١,
i	Sir William Brompton Iuflice, 6000. markes.

540		ESSION OF Monarch 47. Book 5
	(20) The names of the Competitors were these, ac-	whole Vinedom Ca L L
		(24) Meanetime the French King pursued thereį	peared by his Attorneys; Florence, Earle of Holland:	nenge of the Marmone dames 1
1
1	of Galway; John de Hastings, Lord of Abergenenny;
	Jehn Comin, Lord of Badenam; Patrick de Dunbar,
The Walfing Havel High Polychilder,	Earle of March; I ohn de Vesci, on his Fathers behalfe, Nitholas de Sules; william de Rosse. These all peacea-
Phijcht.lib.7.	b'y submitted themselues, for so much as concerned	white he discourred either his vitallingnes to an their fenerall titles to the Scott fo Crowne, to the final a-1	Ward and arbitration of King Famera patting thereof
7	an authorities intrument vato him; who having gi-	his possession of Galeoigne, to the great milcheife, and den clution to reffore the realme of Seatland Twithin	difaduantage of the English: whereupon K. Edward highly incenfed, called a Parliament at London, where
}	a certaine prefixed time,)to that party to whom the Bellendens translaf Hell
tranfl.of Hell Bot.l.b.14	on, or (fay the writers of that nation) they giving him power to confirmine the parties to fland to this fenneffe, being so diversly related and centured by the writers of both nations, (though for the present it be not material, both Kingdoms now blessedly acknow-Reps of truth in a middle way genefalities at the fteps of truth in a middle way, as refoluing neither to impeach the action of that glorious vmpier, nor pre-indicate the right of our noble fifter nation. The State
* Hell, Bot. lib	Or a cottand now was not without manifest perill. for estimate. W	the seas denying that their Kingdome was in ania
	Point tubalter he to the Crowne of England and King Eawara citner periwaded that it was for or refolution	his homage to aid him with all his powers against and plotting now to make it io, would not needed
So Beniface o	the advantage of this * Ake; halifis or want of a known	and traueries) the faid confpiracie. Whereupon he aduanced forward against the Sec. Whereupon he king Edward.	nead in Scotland.	armie to News flavon Tour The Coll a pullant
	(21) Vpon full ventilation therefore and fcan-	armie to Newcastle vpon Tyne: The first blood which ming or all rights, the maine doubt refled whom I and I	was drawne was of the English, of whom, the Scots * flew almost one thousand in a village under the sea-ding of one Robert de Res who had flad for The Welf.
	affect the nonour of having pretended title in blood leither of them. Great was the adule and delibera tion (as mere was caple) which King Fameratooks	the first bodies after a displeasing, (as was faid) for that therein, tor not truiting to his owne judgement, hee
Hell.Boc.lib.t	4. Caunca (laith : Hector Boetsus) twelve of the belt Clerks or learned men of Scotland, and twelve of England to concurre as Affeffors with him in that
A.D. 129	great decision.
	ment , there fell our deadlie strife betweene the Eng-lift and Normans, occasioned by one of them casually flaine by the English; which mischiefe the King of France forwardly nourisht, as thirsting for the dutchy of Galegiane, which hold has might establish the dutchy
	of Gasesigne, which best he might attain by troubling the forreine affaires of King Edward, whom they saw	English Marriners, who rashly entring, with twentie
	now entangled at home in fo weighty emploiments.	and foure Ships into the harbour, were repelled
	I W nercupon the Normans flew fundry of the Fundal	with the loffe of foure of their veffels, which was and nong vp one vpon the maft of a Shippe whom	whomas it of the forceable taking of Berwick, famous Sea- Borie of the	they had taken at Sea: but, ere long after, threefcore	where Helfor Bottus faith, there was exercised great
glifh againft	English thips encountring with two hundreth faile of Normans
b·m. Walfingle. h 1500,	tel (wherein many * thoulands of the French word)
1300	flaine)tooke, with their whole fleete, their full re-	er, from whence they leueld, at the entring of the denge, and prought them into England.	ly flew Richard of Community one of which calualell Boedb.14.	(23) At last yet King Eaward returning to Reval	ly flew Richard of Cornewal, a gallant Gentleman brother to the Earle of Cornwal, which, in an army hea-dwardi litere Popum anud		fed with former contumelies, for the Scots vpon the Papam apad VValjagh	good will and allent of the Scottill I ords, gane for eement et-		English marriners, published certainerimes in deriby king Ed.	the elder daughter of Dauid, Earle of Huntington a
-	yonger tonne of Scotland; whole iffue the line of the elder brother being extinct) was to inherite, without	Towne wome Derwicke, all our unthancks ? (5.6.)
	denisor the laid Danid, of which the Lord Robert	together with the remembrance of many fresh the Towne was thus taken to Cook officers. After 4-cap,1.	were produced, which drew many mens indoements
		Captainerherof was descined - : C
	Growne. But according to the fentence, Balolwas folemnly crowned King of Scotland vpon S. Andrews	captaine therof, was detained prifoner, and (as* fome *Fab.
D. 1294.	folemnly crowned King of Scotland vpon S. Andrews	write) Sir Robert Bruce : others were suffered to de-against the King of Tandard Tom thenceforth П.Вост. П БЬ.14.		against the King of England. The loss of this important Towne, and Castle was very great, for it was the key, and common Rulworks of south, for it was minds of many Seots) did homage vnto him for the	the key, and common Bulwarke of Scotland.
3.

Edward I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 47. bap.10 (27) While the English, at this place, were busie, might not passe toward Stotland, upon paine of life: tocast a very deepe ditch, to hinder the sodeine in-The cultody of Scotland was committed to John de roades of their enemies, John King of Scotland fent Warrenn, Earle of Surrey and Suffex, and the Trea-The Walf. two religious men to the King of England with *letfurershippe thereof to Hugh de Cressingham, but William ters; in which, alledging that he was by Oath bound to de Ormesby was ordained Justiciar, with this particudefend his owne kingdome, and people, he renounced his ho-mage, and fealtie, as extorted by violence, and void in st lar commandement, that hee should take the homages and fealties of all fuch as held lands of the King. Telfe, being made without affent of the three estates of his And the more to thew his purpote, veterly to dil-Realme. The refignation was admitted, King Edward folue the diftinct Regality of Scotland, and to vinite commanding his Chancellor to record the same for it to the English Monarchie, as hee had done Wales, perpetuall memorie, as a justification of his procee hee tooke out of Edinbrough the Crowne, Scepter and Cloath of Effate, offering them vp at * Saint Edwards + Febian. (28) The Scots hereupon, ander the conduct of thrine in Westminster, if the Author mistake not, for the Earles of Burquhan, Menteth, Strathern, Ros, A-thol, Marr, and other of their nobility, made an incurat Saint Thomas at Canterbury, * hee offered up Ba-liols Crowne faith another; and (besides many other fion into England, whence with the spoiles of two re-Acts rending to the abolishment of the Scottish ligious houses, and other booties they returned : But Name, which * Hellor relates, as the burning their Patritk Earle of Dunbarre came to King Edward fub-Records, abrogating their lawes, altering their forms of divine feruice, and transplanting all their learnedst men Bellind tranf. mitting himselfe; and the Castle of Dunbarre (by this fübmittion being vnder King Edwards protection) thence unto his Vniversity of Oxford,) hee tooke out was regained by Scots: For recouerie, or furregaining of the * Abbey of scene the Marble Chaire, in "The TVIS. whereof; the King fent Iohn Earle of Surrey, and Sufwhich the Kings of seatland were wont to bee crow- Santage 14 fex, and William Earle of warwick, who were entertained, and fent the same to Westminster; for Priests to such the was a sit therein at Celebration. This Chaire is the same stone inclosed hed with battel by the Scottish nation, of whom the English, *after crucil fight, obtained a victory of great "Tho, Weifingh. Heff. to:l.14. Fabian. vpon which was engranen, the famous Propheticall within a worders importance, the chase holding about eight miles, in which the flaughter was not imail. The fiege of Ni fallat fatum, Scott quocunque locatum Dunbarre being reinforced, King Edward had it yeel-Inucnient lapidem, regnare tenenturibidem, ded vnto him, at his comming, wherein were taken three Earles, fixe or feuen Barons, besides many If Fates goeright, where ere this stone is pight. knights, and Efquires, which were all fent prisoners to The Regall race of Scots shall rule that place. diverse Castles of England, and (if some say true) not put to the fword (as Helfor transported perhaps with Which by whomfoeuer it was written, we who now hatred to Edward writes) contrary to his word, and liue, finde it happily accomplished. But these great Acts of this yeere brought to the Commons of (29) King Edward knowing as well how to vie a England final! commodity, vpon whom the charge victorie, as to get it, hatting a prefent spirit vpon all of the warres lay heavily, and it is not often found, aduantages, and turnes of fortune; takes the Castle that the people gaine much by their Princes Conquests. of Rocksbrough, and (for a finall end to this affaire) marcheth to Edenburgh it felfe (the chiefe Towne of (32) The force of Scotland with a greater force being thus for the present broken, who would suppose, that it could once again haue lifted up the head. Scotland) which * was shortly rendred : Then tooke Telyd. Fire 180-7 they Strineling allo, and drane Ballol to the Caffle of The VP alime Forfar where 16hn Comin Lord of Strabogie submitted and that chiefly by the particular vertue of a private man as it after hapned? which hee had the more oporhead. Socials, 14. himselfe to King Edward. About this time there came to the English campe great numbers of Welsh tunity to doc, for that the King of Fneland was diuerfly discreed by occasion of waters in Gascoiene Welsh aid against fouldiers, with whom he releeved many of the Engfor recourry of his owne, and for aid of his friends Stell and against lith footemen, tyred with fernice, fending them backe in Flanders, whom the French did afflict in hostile into England. Thither also came the Earles of Vifter manner. The Captaine of the revolted troupes in with bands of Irifh. Stotland, was one William Wallace (the fonne of * Sir *Bellenden (10) The King of England prospering thus, pas-feth with his army over the * Scottish Sea, where Andrew Wallace of Cragic Knight, though some * vp. warfl of Hest, on hearesay, write contemptibly of his course of life, * 7h. way. while he kept the feaft of Saint John Baptiff * at Perth as of a publike robber) who, by the assistance of such as were outlawed, for refusing to doe their Tolod Vers. libar (or Saint Iohns Towne) there came mellengers from Baliol, and the Lords his factors, to fue for mercy, homage to King Edward, draue William de Ormesby which was granted vpon condition, that they should "libas-(the Kings Justiciar) out of Scotland, Which King The FVAL render themselves to him as his subjects. * Hestor Bo-Edward hearing, discharged John Comin of Badenaw etim faith, that after this agreement (wherein * Anand the Earle of Bucquhan from their confinement, to the entent, that hee might by their endedours, the thonie Bishop of Durham was vsed) John Comin The Belief rebrought Baliol, void of all kingly habiluments with a whiterod in his hand, to the English campe at Monfooner fettle matters, but withall hee gaue Iohn de Warren Earle of Surrey commission to Icuie an Artras, where he refigned his whole right that he either my: and the king (loath to bee hindred from his other destinations) easily yeelded to such requests as had, or might have to the Crowne of Scotland, into king Edwards hands, and made thereof a formall Charter in French, and at the same time also (for seare were propounded on the Seets behalfe for that time. The voyage which hee had then in hand, wasto of life)gaue his sonne Edward for hostage, and affutranisport from Winchelses an Armie, to assist the Earle of Flanders his confederate. fance of his fealtie; by which final disclaime, the Lord (33) England at this time was not without great Bruces right might feeme now vnquestionable. But this refignation being thus made, king Edward rediscontentments, which Humphrey de Bohun Earle of Hereford and Esex Constable of England, and Roger turnes to Berwick, where * all the Nobles of Seotland (at a Parliament there holden) were fworne to be loy-Bigo: Earle of Norfolke, Marshall of England, did il, and true fubicets to king Edward for euer after : countenance; for prefent fatisfaction whereof, the kTbo.Walf. and * hereof a folemne instrument was sealed by the King yeelded (among other things) to confirme (aid Lords fof whom John Comin of Badenaw was first) Magna Charta, and Charta de Foresta, and that bearing date at Berwick in the twentie fifth yeere of there should no subsidie nor taxation bee leuted upon the reigne of their Soucreigne Lord King Edward. the people, without the confent of the Prelates, Peeres. (11) John the late King, was fent to the Tower of and people. But before this time, and while the London, and there was honourably attended, haumz King was absent out of the land, the Scots under the liberty for twenty miles about. The Scottish Lords leading of VVilliam VVallas, putto*flight, the Earle Tro. PVall. leading of V villam V v along, posses in the state of the New About the English Forces which were with him Took Veg. L.Y. were confined within Trent, ouer which River they him,

on of their freedomes,) and flying before King Ed-ward, whose fortune in warre had worthily made him terrible; that day (in Walfinghams judgement) had beene irrecoverably fatall to the Scottift name, if the English had beene able to have followed them in their Armour, ouer their bogges and mountaines, or that the Welfs had with their naturall mimblenesse supplied the fame. Sure it is, that Edward held himselfe so fast in possession, that hee neither would grant the Seot. tifb Lords their Baliol to raigne over them, (which they requested faith walfingham) nor suffer them to redeeme such lands of theirs, as hee had given to the English among them.

(39) Armes failing, and the Scots having made their way in the Court of Rome, procured inhibito-suthority for the reliefed Stelland.

The Pose in

The support of the state of the support of It is the faying of Heller Bothus, that the English were about three for one, our ancient and later authors fay that the Sedes had farre the * more people; he afena. • Per fanguisem firmes that it was in the plaine field, ours that it was uertheleffe the Scots, after a few dayes, requested the nrmes, that it was in the plaine new, ours that it was "an Ambulli; he that the Seots did put to flight, and "wife, "in tooke the froiles of three whole battels, in either of "Them. welfage King to let them line in peace till they had taken tooke the spoiles of three whole battels, in either of counsell of the Peeres, and of the King of France, which were *10000. English, ours, that the Stots by *Bellind insept. reason of their multitudes did onely ouerbeare the Hell Bos bis. threatning that otherwise the Pope would take the matter vpon him. But the King with a disdainefull Vauntgard from which the nearest of the other bat-"fmile answered . Have you done homage to mee (as to "she chiefe Lord of the Kingdome of Scotland) and move "she chiefe Lord of the Kingdome of Scotland) and move "suppose that I can be terrified with fwelling lies, as if "like one that had no power to compell) I would let the "right which I have overyon to lip out of my hands! Let tels was a foure miles off. All agree in this that the Lord Iohn Segrane (Ralfe Confrey laith Hettor) who had the point or voward of the English (whose Generall he alfo was) by dividing his army into three parts for their better reliefe, weakned to his whole "me heareno more of this for if I do I fwear by the Lord I will consume all Scotland from fea to fea On the o force, that thereby, and his vnaduised forwardnes (impatient to flay for his other powers) he gaue octher fide, the scots did boldly enough replie, That in this cause they would shed their bloud for defence of iucasion to the Scots of such a victory . They had also taken the person of the said Lord Generall, but Rice and their Countries liberty (40) About this time the King made his sonne Edward, (who was borne at Caernaruon) Prince of *Sir Rebert de Mesile, who with others was at divine feruice, hearing therof, came with his troups of horse rescued segrave, slew many, put many to flight, and Wales, and Earle of Chefter, which fo greatly contented the Wellb, because (in regard of his birth place) they held him as one of theirs, that when all friends brought away backe the rest of the prisoners, without the loffe of any one man of his owne, The faid 'The Police Scottish Chronicle makes no mention of William did afterward forfake him (as the following raigne Walleys, at this discomfiture of the English, but gives will shew) they alwayes stucke most loyally vnto him, expressing wonderfull lone and affection, and bewayling his heavy fortunes in wofull songs, which the whole glory thereof to Cumyn, and to Simon Frafor: whereas we attribute all to Walleys, and make no mention of the other, with farre leffe wrong to the neither the dread of his enemies por length of time could immortali deferts of Walleys; for he vindoubtedly, ener make them to *forget.

(41) But, in the matter of Scotland, the King not The Trailings. was the only man, who kept vp Scotland, till neere the to feeme altogether to negled the Court of Rome, adtime of deliverance. (44) The Scottifb Nation(as *Helfor reports) had dreffed thither the Earle of Lincolne, and the Lord for their warrant in conscience, and instification of resi-Hugh de Spenser with manifold complaints against the Seets, and instification of his owne proceedings; of or their warran in conjectnee, and injustication of reje-if ance, the Popes indgement, who upon ripe deliberation in their matter, decreed (faith he) that the Scots had inft action of battell in defence of their liberties against King how beit at the Popes request, he granted them truce from Hallowmas to Whit Soutide. This very yeere; Edward: who not much esteeming the doome of Caffan King of Tartars gloriously slew one hundreth that Oracle, ypon the other fide was perswaded hee thousand Turkes in a battell upon the plaine of Damasses, and was baptized therupon, as acknowledging the midray to some from the some of God the ioy wherof filled England, as other the partes of Christenmight proceed to subdue them wholy to his dominion: and therefore, (vpon report that the Seots were not only vp in Armes) but encouraged to greater attempts by this late successe,) came in person with a (42) The inflice of the English Armes against the dreadfull hoft, piercing therewith * through all Seatland, from one end thereof to the other ; from Rockf-Scots, being now againe directly impugned by the brough to Catnes, which is the farthest point in the length of that Land, being about three hundreth miles: whither he marched by small journeys, not an Papailletters, comprehending fundry arguments on rapalicters, comprenenting unitry arguments on the behalfe of that Nation, King Edward in a Par-liament at Lincolne published their contents, and by confent of the whole representative body of the enemie appearing with power to empeach him. For they, vnable to make head, being so continually wa-Realme, returned a copious defence of his whole proceedings, with protestation, first, that hee did not fled, did either for their safetie betake themselues to proceedings, with proteination, intri join the ara not exhibite anything as in forme of judgement, or triall of his caufe, but for fatification of its holy Eatherboods conference, and not otherwise. But whereas the Pope had required the King to stand to his decision for the woods, and Mountaines, with their Walleys, or wholly submitted themselves, * swearing to be true to king Edward there being in al Sestland but one Calland Carlot Control of Carlot Cont file(the Castle of Striveling) which stood out, and that also (vpon King Edwards returne from Catnes) was matter of claime, hee writes, that thereunto hee would make no answere, as having left that point to the Earles and Peeres of his land: who with one *absolutely furrendred to him; and therefore no great cause, why Becter should call King Edward false Tyrant for committing the Captaine and Garrison of that Castle to sindry Prisons: So that had not God in his eternall providence, savouring the liberty mind directly lignific, that their King was not to e mind directly ignine, that then King year not is a sufferer insidenteem for any right of the Cryms of wasfurer insidenteem for any right of the Cryms of wasfured before any rishmall wade Heasen: and that (by finding Departies or Attenue), et spaces an early to the foundation make the fail with doubtfull-because it may be full that the fail wasfured of the side Cryms, which with the before of God, they would refoundly and with at Action, and the Councer also, for that Somitation and wasfured that Action, and the Councer also, for that Somitation that when the deep at pome, by reaction of form cereat conof that people, ordeined some inacceffible places, and natural strengths, where no Armie could march nor be maintained, the Scots had in all liklihood perpetually vndergone the same fortune, which we the Englifh were brought into, for want of the like, by Willi-

Edward I. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 47.

Chap.10

3

much to doe at home, by reason of some great con-Ä.D. 1303 trougries between the French and him. Meane time troucries octween the French and man-meane time Sit tolm Segram, Lord Segrame, a renowned Sould-ter, was feat Gouernout or Cuffer into Sculard, with an Army, after the Truce expired, which at the French Kings inflance, King Edward had yeelded ynto for a time; tolm Cumin, who had also beene a Competitor for the Crown, was chosen by the Seets * for their Gouernour.

(43)We may not here overpasse a victory (at Rosse lin) which the Writers of that nation celebrate, where in the English were by them ouercome, howbeit there is in our Writers much variety in that relation. me the first, anonis Normans:

• (45) Thereforelet prophane discourses (with their • Father Epicurus and Lucretius) shall and tremble, as of • ten as they shall dare to instinuate any thing against

• Gods wisdome in the Fabrick of the world, as if the · Craggy, and defert places, thereof, had no we in nature when omitting all other reasons of their being) the con

The VV alleg

Mat. Perkl

349

Them. VVal

* Pol. Virg. lib. 17

fernation of kingdomes, and nations was thus by them effected. We had an " Herward in the Conquerours time, aswell as the Scots had a Walleys in this ; and we am the first , and his Normans :

reme, surveu so no construct or surjoin the state of the survey of the hourse have been without French within terms, if God had provided our Country of such Wastes, and deserts as either they or the Welshmen did enioy, who for manie hundreths of yeeres, after the ruine

548

A.D.1299

The Welf.

*Hell,Bott, L 14-betweene the two Nations, in which more

Scottifb bloud was spilt then in this, for thereof * Sebaftian Amufer feemes to meane, faying, that there were flaine threefeore and ten thousand, which though wee take not to bee the true number, (for fome have * threescore thousand , * others not so many) yet shewes it that the slaughter was vast, as it eould not otherwife bee, the Scottill footmen valiantly * fighting as it were to the last man. Bloud worthy to have beene shed on both sides, against another 'kind of enemy, them Christians, the deformits of which effulious may iusth represent to us the blessed estate of our nowsetted union. This victory was obtained

Tpod. Neufir. Ren. Ceft. Po'yeb lit.7. *Fabian,&

Harding. "Po'yd,Ver.lib. 17.Hcl.Bost.l.

. Menfe Iunij di

*/ib.14. A.D.1305. After reigne, and fo farre as he wrote being till Hems Thom. Walfingle.

550

their liberty, when the English had twice by Danes, and Normans, in the meane time, vtterly loft it. (46) Scotland (laith * Hector) being in this manner subdued and all the strengths of buildings; and the Nobility thereof at King Edwards disposition, he hauing ordered the affaires thereof as himfelfe thought best, left the custodie thereof agains to * Segraue, and in his triumphall returne through England from Dunfermelsn in Scotland where he kept his hi-Boot-halers, Incendiaries, and other perturbers of and otherwife, which brought to the Realme much

A.D. 1306.

*Militle. with the girdle of * Knight-hood) was brought vp Hell Roet *Helinfb.p.303.

*Bellind.tran.lib ple, the Scots had their spirits keptawake, and quicke wishing many the like in our owne.

(48) Let no man now make doubt to write vp one of the grea-test English Mo-narche. beene folong, and well acquainted; and to gratifie the same Edward the King of France also banished the Scots our of his dominions. Thus was King Edward po! feffed of Scotland; which neuertheleffe (that the world may fee Gods band in translating of Kingdomes, being a* point of his prerogative) was not long after plucke from his fo nne; and the calamities which the Scots had fuffered, whelmed backe vponthe Englift.

> (49) Wallace therefore being taken our of the way, the Lord Robert Bruce (betweene whom, and the vnfortunate Baliol the maine strife lay for the Diadem) beholding the state of his Countrey, for which Wallace, without interest to the Crowne therof, had stood so nobly, and desirous to gine it a new head by making himselfe King (whereto by Baliols surrender his other right was made more paffable) had for that purpose entered into a conspiracy with Cumyn, whose disclosure thereof (as Seois doe write) brought into apparent danger the Lord Bruces life, who was then attendant in the Court of England. King Edward vpon the first discouery of the plot not crediting the fame, Bruce, most constantly denying it, and casting the accuration, with good probabilitie, vpon Cumyus enuic, had time, and warning to escape. For an Earle (faith Boetius) fent vnto him twelue Sriueling pence, and a paire of sharpe spurres, presently ypon his departure from the King, which he wittily interpreted to be a Symbole of foeedie flight. According whereunto he forthwith iped from London, where K. Edward kept Christmas, shooing his horses backward, that he might not be followed by their prints upon the fnow, and with his owne hand thrust his fword into Cumyn . in the Church of the Friers Alinors at Bunfreis in Scotland , whom two of Bruces friends Hill. Bum. with other mortail thrusts dispatched. Brace knowing now no way to answere the fact, but by open defection, which he did resolute vpon, did thereupon Brace of scaland. procure himselfe to be crowned King of Scotland about our Ladies day in March in the Abbey of An.D. 1307.

(50) Such an attempt as this could not be long hidden from King Edward, who having at the whit-Sontide nextafter honored Edward Prince of Wales, his eldest sonne, with the order of Knighthood at London , fent him against King Robers into Scotland, attended with a troupe of noble yong gentlemen, Aimerie de V alence Earle of Pembroke; Robert de Clif- Thom. VValf. ford, and Henry de Percie being gone before with an Armie, and King Edward preparing to come after, appointing the Rendenous of his owne hoft to be at Carleil. Where, in a Parliament, belides provisions A Parliamenta for the warres, fundry confultations and courses cartes were entred, for repelling another kind of enemic no leffe dangerous to the State, to wit, the Pope, and his*fill continued extortions in this Landwher eof greeuous complaints were made in that Assembly; and both Rens complaints were make in the Appenois; and both the Clergy there? a speaked from the Popes Bull, and his Cardinal-Legats exactions: and also the Kings Conneell Was drines to enact fome orders for brideling their excessiue depilations.

(51) Meane time Aymery de Valence at Perthin Scotland had pur to flight king Robert Bruce, & pursued him so neer, that he tooke his wife, his brother Rie gellus , and others, but himselfe escaped into the vtmost Iles of Scotland. This handell taken at the entrance to his Regalitie, draue his people into such despaire of his future better fortunes, that there remained only two friends vnto him, the Earle of Lenox, and Gilbert Haysthe reft, as the Earle of Athol, at London, (who had twife revolted) and his brother Nigellus at Berwick, were put to death as al others his chiefe partakers were, or else kept prisoners in England. In which number was King Roberts wife (daughter to the Earle of Vifter in Ireland) and his daughter, the Bishops of Glasco, and Saint Andrewes, the Abbot of Scone and others. The Counteffe of Bucquhan, fifter to the Earle of Fife (then absent in England at his mannor of Whitwick in Leicestershire, whose office it was to have crowned the Scottish King) was also taken; and because (in her brothers absence) shee had stolne from the Earle her husband, with all his great horse, to *fet the Diadem vpon Bruces head, it was deuised that shee should be set in a woodden Cage (made * Crowne-wife) vpon the wals of Berwick Cafile, for all to wonder at. This ridiculous reuenge was held sufficient, without taking her life, though shee were a manlike woman, and did herein but the part of a noble spirited Lady. Thus was King Robers (faith the Scottiffs translatour of Boesius) brought to fuch milery , that hee was sometime naked and hungrie without meat, or drinke, faue only water and rost of the hard clause of the hards, and his life perpetually in danger. Howbeit, her muler for fooke himfelfs, but as one that had firme trusk in God, cherished an hope in his minde, at one time or other to recouer the Crowne. In which condition hee exhibited himselfe so noble a spectacle as in care to prefer mies would make a fonne of the king.

* Holinfh.pag 314

Matwell.

*Peirs Gaueflett

among his laft warnings.

land, and subdued all his enemies, for that none fhould becable to * ouercome him while his Skeleton marched with him. Moreover, hee com-"manded the faid Prince to loue his * Brethren "Thomas and Edmund; but specially to tender and "respect his mother Queene Margaret. * That wp-on paine of his malediction, and surse, hee should not es presume without common consent to repeale Piers de Gaueston, who for abusing the tender yeares of the Prince with wicked vanities, by common decree was banished. That whereas himselfe, by the conti-"nuall, and new attempts of Bruce, could not in person (according to his vow) make warre in the Holy-land, therefore hee should send his Heart thither, accompanied with feuenfcore Knights, and "their retinues, for whose support hee had proui-"ded thirty & two thousand pounds of siluer. That "his Hart being so by them convaied, he did hope in "God, that all things there would prosper with "them. Lastly, That upon pain of eternall damnati-on, the (aid money should not bee expended upon any o-

(55) With these admonitions dismissing the light young man from his prefence, to accomplish (fo prouident was hee to the very end of his flate affaires) the mariage with the French Kings Daughter, which had beene formerly agreede voon between the Parents; hee aduanced neerer to the enemy vnto Burgh upon Sands, where his lingering Diffentery encreasing (for that was the sicknesse whereof hee died, though one maleuolently fayth, hee died fodainely, without thew of repentance for his finnes) hee tooke his * leave of this world, after no leffe preparation (no doubt) for his owne foules health, Venn then carefull premonition for the carriage of his sonne, and ordering of his Kingdome. Which puisfant Princes raigne and life, wee cannot here shut vp with a nobler Euloge, then that wherewith our Great and Iudicious Antiquary hath already deportrayed him , as a Prince of chiefe renowne, to whole heroicke mind God proportioned (as a most worthy man-sion) a body answerable, so that as well in beauty and goodly presence, as in wisdome and valour, hee was sutable to the height of his Regall Dignity, whose flourishing youth his Destinie did exercise with many warres and troubles of the State, so to frame and fitte him for the British Empire, which, being King, hee so managed with the glory of his Welsh and Northerne victories, that by due defert hee is to bee reputed a chiefe honour of Britan-

His Wines.

(56) Eleanor, the first wife of King Edward, was fifter to Alphonfus King of Castile, Daughter to King Ferdinando the third, and onlie Child of Ioan his second wife, Daughter and Heire of Iohn Earle of Ponthieu. Shee was married to him at Bures in Spaine in the thirty ninth veere of King Henry his Father, 1254, fhee was crowned with him the day of his Coronation, and living his wife (in lovely participation of all his troubles, and long voiages thirty fix yeeres, died at Herdeby in Lincolnsbire, Nouember 29. of her husbands raigne 19. An. Do. 1200. face is buried at Wellminster at the feet of King Henry the third, vnder a faire marble Tombe, adorned with her portraiture of Copper guilt;* other cost-ly monuments of her husbands loue being in euery place erected where her Hearse rested, as it was conueyed from Herdeby to Westminster.
(57) Margaret his second wise being sister of Philio the fourth, furnamed the Faire, King of France, and eldest daughter of King Philip the Hardy, sonne of S. Lewis, was married voto him at Canterbury, on Thursday, September 8. of her husbands raigne 27.An.D. 1299, after almost eight yeeres marriage. furniting him, thee remained a widow ten yeers, and deceasing 10. of Edward 2. An.D. 1317. was buried at the Gray-Fryers in London before the Altar in the Quire which her selfe had built.

His Ifue.

(58) John the eldest sonne of King Edward and Queene Elenar was borne at Windfor in the raigne of King Henry his Grandfather, before his Fathers voyage into Syria, and in his absence, was commitvoyage into syria, and in insanience, was commit-red to the charge of Richard King of Romans, his great vncle, and others, who procured principall men of euery Hundred in each County within the Realme, to sweare their fealty to his father and him, but hee died shortly after, being a Child, & was buried at westminster by the wall, betweene S. Edmunds and S. Bennets Chappell, August 8.in the last yeere of King Henry his Grandfathers raigne; there is remaining ouer him a Tombe of Marble inlayed with his picture in an Arch ouer it.

(50) Henry the second sonne of King Edward and Queene Elenor, deceased also being a Child, the newes of whose death was brought to his Father. being then in the Isle of Sicill in his returne from the Holy-Land, not long before the report of his owne fathers death came to his knowledge: he was buried SIII

The.VV alfing, 26

* Daniel cap.2

The Lord Web. Bruce, purfues his right to the Crowner.

stmas, caused the Courts of the Bench, and Eschecquer, which had beene feuen yeere kept at Yorke (for the more commodity of his Scottish (xpeditions) to be reduced to London, their ancient relidence. Moreouer he ordained Iufitiars for Trailbafton, who were to inquire of man-flaughters , Ruffians, Diffeifors, the common quiet, and them to punish, by fine, death rest, and to the King much riches. (47)But, the more to secure king Edward in the Scottish kingdome, it was not long, but that william Walleys (whom an Earle of Seotlana in the beginning of his reliftances had honoured (faith Walfingham) prisoner to London, being treasonably taken at Glasco by *one Sir Iohn Menteth (though * Polydor Vergil faith the English tooke him in warre) where he had publike triall at Westminster, and * denying that he was a Traitour to the King of England, was there for other his crimes(as burning of Townes, taking of Castles, killing the English,&c.)adjudged to death,which sentence was executed vpon him, and his head and quarters let up in seuerall places ouer the Iland, his right eg at Perth or Saint Johns Towne in Scotland, and his left at Aberdein. This was the end of Wallace, whom his Countrey had once by common confent chosen for their defender, and *Captaine Generall, and, for his deferts towards her, doth place in glory faire aboue the starres, as the only person, by whose examvpon all occasions, by which they might recouer the Gouernment out of the hands of the Engish, whose reigne ouer them this Wallace neither by faire meanes, nor by force could euer bee drawne to endure, or looke vpon with a patient eie; whom though Bellind.lib. 14.

(with Heltors * translatour) we doe not call a Martyr, yetmust wethinke his Countrey honoured in him,

King Edward among the greatest of our English Monarchs, for (belides the whole Ilands of Britaine and Ireland) heeallo held Aquitaine, which about two yeers before, the King of France (entangled with tronbles otherwise) did restore, and the City of Burdeaux of the owne accord submitted it selfe agains to the English Scepter, as that wherewith it had formerlie

Which peculiar art of diuine prouidence you will mote easily acknowledge, when you shall behould by how naked an instrument he raised againe the Scottifb Common-wealth out of that dust, in which for a little season it seemed to lie buried.

Chap. 10

• Seneca lib.de

King Edward recals his Char-ters of libertie

An.Reg. 35

Braces fortune

& vlt.

which even the * morall Heathen doe teach, that the Gods themselues took pleasure; how then can Chriftians looke off? Certainly, all generous spirits, whom cruell injuries oppresse, have reason to dwell in this

(52) King Edward also on the other side (like a Christian Prince) as hee had some yeeres before, by his speciall letters (directed to the * Archbishoppe of Capterbury,) requested that publike prayers should bee made to Almighty God for him, his Realme and people, that the heavenly Maiesty would direct his way and workes to the glory of his holy name, and advancement of the Kingdome; so now repayred hee with his Lords to Westminster, after this discomfiture of his enemies, there folemnly to render vnto God his humble thanks for the Conquest, whereof hee thus held himfelfeaffured. Which confidence drewhim on fo farre, that now (his turns being ferued, as he thought against the Scots) hee refused to stand to the confirmation which hee had made to his Barons, of fuch lawes and liberties as haue before beene mentioned.

doubtleffc, as great was the Kings fault thus to renounce what hee had folemnly fworne, (* though in deed it was on some necessity and enforcement) so the Popes warranting thereof (which certaintly encouraged the King thereunto) is most execrable, who afterward absoluted him (as other Popes had done to 53) The miraculous deliuerance of Scotland was now at hand; for the noble Bruce, not staying till King Edward were dead(who was now about three-score and eight yeeres of age,) came forth out of the Scottish Hands with such powers as hee had gotten together, taking the Castles of Carricke, Innernesse, and many other, doing many things about the opinion of his meanes. To put an end to all which troubles, King Edward refolued once againe in person

(notwithstanding his age,) to enter Scotland with a mighty hoalt, which hee appointed to attend him at Carliel in Cumberland, three weekes after Midiommer day: where God viliting him with his laft fickneffe, hee commanded his Sonne the Prince to repaire with speed vnto him, vnto whom being come, hee vetered many admonitions and precepts, the

(54) That he should be mercifull, iustand cur

"teous, constant in word and deed, familiar to the "good, and toward fuch as were in diffresse alwaies pit"tifull. That after his death he should not haften to take the Crowne of England, till hee had ho-

" nourably reuenged the injuries of his Father, and "accomplished the present service. That hee

" should carry his Fathers bones about with him in fome coffin till hee had marched through all Sept-fumme wherof was* this.

his Predeceffors) from objet Jance of that oath.

pretending that they had forced his confent: and patterne of Christian magnanimity and patience.

in Saint Peters Church at Westminster, the twentieth day of November, in the first year of his Fathers raign, Ann. Dom. 1272. in the same place, and vnder the fame Tombe where his brother John lies with his picture also in the Arch aboue it.

(60) Alphons, the third sonne of Edward and Queene Elenor was borne at the Towne of Maine in Gafeoigne, as his father and mother were in their returne towards England from Ierusalem, November 23, in the fecond yeare of his fathers raigne, 1273. hee deceased at Windfor, August 4. in the twelfth yeere of his age, 1285, and was buried at Westminfter in Saint Peters Church by Saint Bennets Chappell, where his body lieth under the Tombe of his Brothers, John and Henry, his Image also there portraied with theirs.

(61) Edward, the fourth sonne of King Edward, and Queene Elenor, was borne April 25, in the thirteenth yeere of his fathers raigne, 1284. at Caernar-san in Northwales and after the death of Lewelin an Griffith, in regard of the place of his Natiuity, was by his fathers Creation, with the confent of the welfb made Prince of Wales, the first of the sonnes and heires apparant of the Kings of England, that bare that Title, which afterward became ordinary to most of the rest: hee was also Earle of Ponthien and Chefter, and being made Knight by his father at London on Whitfunday, in the thirty fourth yeere of his Raigne, 1306. Succeeded him the same yeer in the Kingdome of VV ales.

(62) Elenor, the eldest daughter of King Edward and Queene Elenor was borne at Windfor in the fiftieth yeare of King Henry her Grandfather, shee was married with all Ceremonies of Proxie to a Deputy for Alphons King of Arragon, sonne of King Peier, who deceased A.Do. 1292. before the solemnization on of marriage, leaving his Kingdom to his brother I ames, and his new wife to another husband, who was married at Briftow in the two and twentieth yeere of her fathers raigne, 1293. to Henry the 3. Earle of Barrie, whose Earledome lay in the Eastborders of Champaigne in France. Shee had Issue by him Edward Earle of Barrie, from whom descended the Earles and Dukes of that Country, whose inheritance by Heires generall devolved to the Kings of Arragon, and from them again to the Dukes of Anion that were Kings of Smill. Henrie another some of hers was Bishoppe of Troys in Champagny, Helen her Daughter was married to Henry Earle of Blors; and loan to John Warren Earle of Surrey, the was his wife fine yeeres, and deceased 27. of her fathers raigne, A.D. 1298.

(63) Ioan the second daughter of King Edward and Queene Eleanor, was borne in the first veere of her fathers raigne, 1272.ata City in the holy land sometime named Ptolomais, commonly called Acon and Aker, where her mother remained during the warres that her father had with the Saracens : Shee was, at eighteene yeeres of age, married to Gilbert Clare called the Red, Earle of Glocester and Hereford, by whom shee had issue, Earle Gilbert slaine in Scotland without iffue ; Eleanor, married first to Hugh Spences (in her right, Earle of Glocester,) and after to William Zouch of Ricards castle. Margaret, first maried to Peter Ganeston, Earle of Cornwal, after to Hugh Audeley Earle also of Glocester; and Elizabeth Lady of Clare, matried first to John son and heire to Richard Burgh Earle of Vifter in Ireland, mother of william Burgh Earle of Vifter, and Grandmother of Elizabeth, Dur-cheffe of Clarence; secondly, to Theobald Lord Verdon, and laftly to Sir Roger Damary. This loan furuiued her husband, and was remarried to Sir Ralph Monthermere a Baron, father to Margaret the mother of Thomas Mountacute Earle of Salisbury, of whom the now Vicount Mountacute is descended; face lived thirty eight yeeres, and deceased in the first yeere of her brother King Edwards raigne, and is buried at the Fryer Austines in Clare.

(64) Margaret the third daughter of King Edward and Queene Elenor, was borne at the Castle of Windfor in the third yeare of her fathers raigne, and of our Lord, 1275. When thee was fifteene yeeres of age, shee was married at Westminster, July 9. in the eighteenth yeere of herfathers raign, A D. 1290. to Iohn the second, Duke of Brabant, by whom shee had iffue Duke Iohn the third, father of Margaret, wife of Lewis of Mechlin Earle of Flanders, and mother of the Lady Margaret, the heire of Brabant and Flanders, who was married to Philip Duke of Bur-

(65) Berenger the fourth Daughter of King Edward & Queen Elenor, was born the 4, of her fathers raigne, An. 1276.as Iohn Eueresden the Monke of S. mundsburie in Suffolke, hath recorded in his booke of English Annales, but other mention there is none, but onely from him: whereby it is likely that fhee did not live to be married, but that shee died in her childhood.

(66) Mice the fifth Daughter of king Edward and Queene Elenor, is by Thomas Pickering of the Monastery of Whithy, (who wrote the large Genealogie of the Kings of England and their iffue) reported to have deceafed without Iffue.

(67) Marie, the fixt daughter of king Edward and Queene Blenor, was borne at Windfor, April 22.in the eight yeare of her fathers raigne, 1279. and at ten yeeres of age, A.D. 1289. September 8. shee was made a Nunne in the Monastery of Ambresberie in Wiltsbere, at the instance of Queen Elener her Grandmother, who at that time lived there in the habite of the same profession, although her Parents were hardly enduced to yeeld their consents to that courfe.

(68) Elizabeth, the seventh Daughter of king Edward and Queene Elenor, was borne at the Castle of Ruthland in Flintsbire, in the thirteenth yeere of her fathers raigne, An. 1284. When the was foureteen yeeres of age, shee was married at London to John the first of that name, Earle of Holland, Zeland, and Lord of Freezeland, who died within two yeeres after without Iffue, and fhee was remarried to Humfrey Bohun Earle of Hereford and Effex, Lord of Breknoke, and high Constable of England, by whom shee had Issue John and Humfrey, both Earles successively after their Father ; Edward, that died in Scotland without iffue; and William, who being created Earle of Northampton, while his Brothers lived, after their deceases, was also Earle of Hereford and Esfex, Lord of Breknok and high Constable of England, and father of Earle Humfreythe tenth of that name, and last of that house, who died without Issue male: she had also by him two daughters, Elenor married to Tames Butler Earle of Ormond, and Margaret to Hugh Courtney the first, Earle of Denonshire, Shee was this Earles wife foureteene yeers; liued thirry three, deceased in the ninth yeere of the raigne of king Edward her brother, A. D. 1316. and was buried in the Church of S. Iames, at the Abbey of Saffron VV alden in Effex.

(69) Beatrice, the eight daughter of King Edward and Queene Elenor, bare the name of Beatrice Dutcheffe of Britannie her fathers fifter: fhe is by fome Genealogists mentioned to have lived till she was marriageable, but yet no mention being made of her match it feemeth she died ynmarried

(70) Blanch, the ninth daughter of king Edward, and the last of Queene Elenor, is so mentioned by Thomas Pickering, and some others, but not at all by Thomas Elrahama Monke, who made a Pedegree of the Kings of England, but shee is by the rest reported to have died in her childhood.

(71) Thomas, the fifth sonne of king Edward, and the first of Queene Margaret his second wife, was borne at a little village in Torkshire called Brotherton, Iune 1. in the nine and twenteth yeere of his fathers raigne, Ann. 1300. hee was created Earle of Norfolke, and Earle Marshal of England, which Earledomes the last Earle Roger Bigod, leaving no Islue,

Chap. 10. Edward. J. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 47. left to the disposition of the King his father. He had two wines, of which the first was elicethe daughter of Sir Roger Hayles of Harwich in Suffolk, by whom hee had iffue Edward, who married Beatrice the daughter of Roger Mortimer the first Earle of March but hee died before his father without Iffue, and two daughters, Margaret twice married, first to John Lord Segrane, by whom shee had Elizabeth Dutchesse of Norfolke, wife of John Lord Mombray (from whom the Mowbrayes & Howards Dukes of Norffolke, and Earles Mariball descended:)lecondly, to Sir V Valter Manny a Knight of Cambray, and by him had Anne wife of Io'n Hassings the elder Earle of Pembroke, and mother of Earle Iohn the yonger, that died without Issue; his yongest daughter Alice was married to Sir Edward Montacute, and had by him three daughters, Elizabeth and loan married to VV alter and VVilliam two of the V ffords, and Mand that diedynmarried. The second wife of this Earle Thomas, was Mary the daughter of PVilliam Lord Ros, and widow of Sir Ralph Cobham, who Iurnining him without Issue by him, shee was married the third time to VVilliam Lord Brerofe of Brem-

(72) Edmund, his fixt fonne by Oueene Margaret, was borne at Woodstocke in Oxfordsbire, August 5 in the thirtieth yeare of the raigne of his Father, A. 1301. Hee was created Earle of Kent, and married Margaret daughter of tohn, and fifter and fole heire of Thomas Lord VV akes of Lydel in the County of Northampton, by her he had Iffue two fonnes and one daughter: Edmund his eldest sonne was Earle of Kem after his father, and died under age without wife oriffue: John the yonger was Earle also after his brother, he maried Elizabeth the daughter of the Duke of Gulike, and died likewise without Iffue; His daughter was Ioan, for her beauty called the faire Maid of Kent, first maried to William Mountacute Earle of Salisbury, and from him dinorced, and remarried to Sir Thomas Holland, in her right, Earle of Kent, and by her, father of Thomas, and lohn Holland Duke of Surrey, and Earle of Huntington: and laftly, fhee was the wife of Edward of Woodflocke, the Blacke Prince of wales, and by him, mother of King Richard the second. This Earle Edmund was beheaded at Winehester the 19.0f March, in the fourth yeere of King Edward his Nephew.

(73) Eleanor the tenth daughter & fifteenth child of King Edward, and the last child of Queene Margaret his second wife, was borne at Winchester the fixt day of May, in the five and thirtieth, and last yeere of her fathers Raign, being the yeere of our Lord 1305. thee deceased in her Child-hood, and was buried in S. Peters Church at Westminster, by her brother Iohn, Henry and Afons, under the monument before named with her picture ouer it.

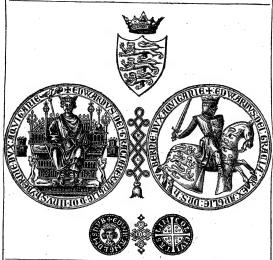

EDWARD

A.D. 1311

Edward II.

EDVVARD THE SECOND LORD OF Monarch 48 IRELAND, AND DVKE OF AQVL

TAINE, &c. THE FORTIE-EIGHTH MO-NARCH OF ENGLAND, HIS RAIGNE. ACTS, AND ISS.VE.

CHAPTER X I.

rived from Parents, cer-tainely the second Edward (called of Caernarwon) might (if nothing else) abundantlie shew, being of a most valiant, wife and fortunate father, an vnlike fonne:

Hat the Mind is not de-yet not to beginne our description of his courses, with prejudice of his perfon, we will so temper our stile, that by his owne actions fincerely related, rather then by any verball censures the man may beeiudged. This cannot be denied, that whereas from the Conquest till his time, England though it endured (by Gods iust iudgements) many bitter, sad and heavy stormes through some headinesse, ambition, or other sicknesses. fes of mind in the Princes thereof, yet had she Men to fway and gouerne her, and those distempers were as the perturbations incident to vigorous difpolirions; whereas under this Edward, who could neither get nor keepe, it seemed to endure the leuities of a Child, though his yeeres, being about twenty and three, might have exempted him from so great infancie of judgement, as his raigne discovered.

(2) Neuer came Prince to the crowne with more generall applause then he: so great hopes of doing well, his Victorious father, Edward of * VV inchester had left upon him, befides the right of succession, whose last warning and terrible adjurations you haue heard: with the * vtter contempt and breach whereof, to the destruction of himselfe, and his friends, hee in a manner auspicated his gouerne-

(3) After that Edward had in his best maner prouided for the * affaires of Scotland, where (at Domfrees) many of the Seottifb * Lords did their homage to him, as they had to his Father; the first taske which hee gaue of his future behaulours at home,

"The VV alfag.

* Pol. Virg.fib, 18. Hell. Bee lib. 14

Chap. II. Edward. IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 48. Spint Albana to pay great hee ought to Bishop and king acquited lam, Lib, Mon S: Alban, MS. A.D. 1309. The meeting of 5 Kings and 4 Oncomes. Peirs de Gaursto aThe.Walf. Tood Need. "Bellind tranfl, Eb. 14 csp.9-AQ.+ 34m. "The VVall.

The VVdf.

was a rigorous reuenge taken by him vpon Walter de Langton Bishoppe of Chesser, Treasurer of England, and principall Executor of the last Will of the deceased King, whose body was not as yet interred, but by the care of the Executors, conucied with funerall pompe to VV altham, and (after fixteen weekes) to VV estminster, where vnder a plaine monument the same at this present rests. The Bishoppes crime was a kind of good freedome, which hee vied in the * Thom. Walfage. late Kings daies, in * grauely reprouing the Prince for his misdemeanors, and shortning his waste of coine by a frugall moderation; and particularly, * for that he had complained of Peirs Gauefton, wher-upon enfued Prince Edwards imprisonment, and the others banishment, and therefore comming now to the Crowne, hee arrefted the Bishoppe by Sir Iohn Felian Constable of the Tower and imprisoned him in * VVallingford Castle, seising vpon all his tem-porall goods and * credites, there being not a man in the Realme who durst speake a word on his behalfe, (fo great displeasure hee had conceived, see-king vtterly to ruine him) till afterward by means of the Papall authority, hee was restored, and in a faint fort reconciled. (4) The thing which fuited best with his youth (4) The raing which interdest with an syouth-full affections, to wit, the marriage of young I fabel, daughter of Philip the Faire, King of France, the per-formed with wonderfull magnificence at Bolein, at which folemnity were prefent besides all others, The King of France Father to the Bride, The King of King of France Father to the Bride; The King of Massare his founce; The King of Assains; The King of Saidli; Marse Queene of France; Mangare Queene Demogrape of England, her daughter; The Queene Demogrape of England, her daughter; The Queene of Nasarre. There was also preferr (as no Sunne-fhine but hath flastow) "Perer of Gassfion, the belowed Minion of this Edward, whole reentryture cerouscy rannon or this campa, whose reshirt-tainement the dying King had so feriously forbid-den, whom notwithstanding, together with his own new wise, he brought into England.

(5) This fatall fanourite of this young King was a stranger borne, but a * Gentleman, and (in regard of good service done by the Father of Peirs in Gescoigne, * brought vp (at old king Edwards owne ap-pointment) with this Prince: from whom not to derogate in any point, as if hee had without some appearances of worth and value embraced Peirs, it appearances or worth and value embraced rens, it is certained by that which a * Knight and feruitor of this very King hath left written) that he had a sharpe witte in a comely shape, and briefly, was such an one, as wee vie to call very fine; Neither yet was he vn-hardie in Arms, but of commendable performance, whereof (faith de la Moore) hee gaue proofe against the Scots, (to whom * hee was alike hatefull as to the English) till hee was recalled to satisfie such as (saith their Courtier) did enuie his graces, and good fucceffe; but of his Christian or morall vertues (which onely make men truly commendable)there is great filence in Authors, though not of his vices, wherof wee shall haue occasion enough to speake hereaf-

(6) At the Coronation of the King and Queen, (which the Lords would have empeached, had hee not promifed reasonably to * satisfic them about Gaueston) none was * neere to Pers in brauery of apparrell, or delicacie of fashion, which (and for that the King gaue him *S. Edwards Crowne to carrie in the King gaue him '5. Easter's Crowne to currie in that pompe,) greatly encreased the offence of the Lords against him: But hee that (hauing a King to backe him) knew no other means to extinguish habacke him) knew no other means to extinguilh have they be daring it to the vetermost, fipared not afterwardes to fooffe and reproach the principall Perers, "a calling "Numer Earle of Lunciffer, Stage-plai-ers, Aimerin de Valence Earle of Pembroke, 10fgh Me. 1em, because the was pale and tall; and Goy Earle of warnische, the black dogg of Ardern: all whom, and others, he at a * Turneament by him proclaimed and holden, handled vilely.

(7) But King Edward was dayly more and more pofferfed with the familiarity of Peirs, who to establish his interest in the vnprudent Prince, by sensualities and riotous practiles, filled the Court * with buffons, parafites, and the like pernicious inftruments, drawing Edward from the thought of al great enterprises, in accomplishment of his fathers will, or discharge of his particular dutie, to all forts of vn-worthy vanities, and finnefull delights; while himfelfe in the meane space reuelled in all outward felicity, wasting the riches of the Kingdome, or conuer ting them to his private vies. For (fearing belike that the time might come agains to vndergoe banishment) hee transported much treasure into for raine parts, and much hee had to transport; for not onely by the *fale of his fauour with the King, to which there was no speeding approach but by Game-flow, (who wied to peize the gifts, more then the cau-les) but also by the kings prodigality, hee had whatfocuer could bee powred vpon him for (though it might feeme incredible) he both gaue him his iewels and ancestors treasure, and * euen the Crowne it selfe of his victorious father, not sticking to professe that (if it lay in him) hee should succeed him in the kingdome. (8) The Lords (who for reverence of the King fate downe by their private injuries, in hope there would be a feafon, in which their Soueraign might by timelie and sweet admonitions recourr the vse of himfelfe,) not thinking it tollerable to bee now any longer filent, (and the rather, left that Peirs, farther a buling his greatnesse, should thring in Forreiners, not onely to the prejudice of the English lawes and customes, but of their authority also and places,) prenailed so much with the King, in a Parliament holden at London (where fundry provisions concerning the liberies of the péople, and execution of luftice, were enacted, and by corporall oach confirmed by the King himleles) that among them, the decree of Gaustinos perpetuall banishment, was by the king (ouercome with a meere necessity for satisfaction of the Kingdome, to whom the faid Earle of Cornwal was odious) vnwillinglie fuffered to paffe; and the king was thereupon regratified with a Subfidie of the twentieth part of the fubicets goods. The king alfo tooke his Oath not to revoke the faid Earle of Cornwall fro banishment (if it may be called a banish-ment) wherin *he had the kingdom of Ireland entruthed to his charge, and for the fecuring thereof against rebels, was turnished with men & money by the king. (9) Yet forgetting, that those affections, which oftentimes deserue praise in a prinate person, are subject to much construction in a publike, and neglecting both his deceased fathers so solemne adjurations, and also his owne oath, as carelesse of the sequele, hee cals Earle Peirs home, with whose loue heewas most fondly, and most passionatelie transported, and (as if hee had received some diuine benefite) gaue him most ioyous welcome at the Castle of Flant in Northwales and * bestowed upon Latte of Fins in Neptomates, and * bestowed upon him for wife loan of Aeres, Countesse of glosester his fifters daughter, resoluting with himselfe to retain his Gaueston, maugreall his Earles and Barons, or (for the loue of him) to put his Crowne and life in perill when time should serue. In which, whether the king or his fauourite showed lesse discretion, it is not at the first fight easily determinable; it being as vnfafe for the one, with so offensine behauiour, to affect immoderate shew and vie of grace, as for the other, to the injury of his name and realme to bestow the same.

(10) The contemptibilitie and vanitie of this effeminate argument detaines ys longer, then for the qualitie thereof were fitting, did not lo much mifchiefe iffue out of it . For Peirs (of his owne nature infolent)being thus (aboue reason, or his own dareings) advanced to alliance with the bloud royall was fo far from all amendment, as hee rather feemed to ftrine to outgoe himfelfe in his former courses, confuming so much of the kings treasure and meanes. that he had 'not wherewith to defray ordinarie char-SIII 2

Is she third time

The Earle of

556	Edward.IJ. THE SVCC	Œ	SSION	OF	Monarch 48.	Book.9.
	ges, or to pay for the necessaries of his Court. The	: 1	to drive him fro	n his con	nany our of Feelend Bu	-
1	young Queene also tooke her selfe not to be a little	-1	the felfe-wild Kir	z * prefer	ring the dearenesse of one
1	wronged by this vngracious mans predominancie. &	t i	stranger before th	he loue of	the whole Realme, would	* 48.6 Mm.
ļ	thereof lene her complaints to the king of France her	11	not conditiond.			Pag.401.cot.t.
1	father, which concerned injuries in the highest kind,	,	(14) Afterwa	rd, Peirs(whom * the Earles purfit	*Total Min C.o.
	as in her bed (the King being drawne by Gaueston to		ed with an Armi	e) being	whom * the Earles purfu entrufted for his fafe-	*Polyd Pirg, L. 18
* All & Men.p.	*adultery) and in her honour and *maintenance.	٠/	guard to Aimerie	ae V alence	Lattle of Pembrok was lof	. Dayse.
Febian. *TheWelfingh.	Whereupon the Peeres of the land, animated by	1	Dy nim out one i	nghtata'	Village or Manone collect	76. 1545 10
* The Walfingh.	the King of France, so confidently dealt with Edward, that his Earle now the third time did abiure the		Dathington Detwe	ecne Oxfor	rd and Warmieke Chains a
	Realme: but (the King of France and his enemies		prace neither + ra	rre enoug	h off, nor ftrong enough)	*Tho.de is Mere making forraine parts vnfure for him to abide in) he		to the Callla of	ue contiat	ed him on the next day	1
	returned in Christmas to the generall permulation	.1	meane frace den	raungjora Pringrole	the faid Amerie in the	1 of the Kingdome, and to his owne certaine ruine, for		who lay hard by	hor the	odge with his Counteffe,	1 1
	that the Barons (his adverlaries) had gotten him ba-	-1	thereat(as our *	Conrrier	faid Amerie conniuing
* All & Men.	nished with this Prouiso, * that if at any time after-	.[
The VV df.	ward nee were taken in England, hee should be forth-		to doe his beit to	lare-con	duct Gauetten the Line with apprehended and suffer death. But an Angell	1	Purponngm the	: meane (ime to labour his peace	1 from heaven could not seeme more welcome, then					* Rau, Cefte 1.7.
* Thode la More.	this most faithful friend (as that * Courtier cals him)	1.				Call.
* Continuator	was vnto King Edward, who * forthwith aduanced him to be his principall Secretary.
Trinet.MS.	(11) Vpop report of Guardens record					*All & Mon, pe.
	(11) Vpon report of Gauessons returne, the chiefe Lords, aswell Ecclesiasticals as temporals (Watter Bishoppe of Couentree excepted, * who allowed the		the bretelice of	ne maries (Of Lancattee Wesmicke	*The de la More. *The UValy.
*The.PV alf.	Kings affections towards Gaueston; and procured him		and here at a sa	or one tha	It had beene a finbuorter	200.00ay.
	to breake the former agreements, which were made	4 I	In which holders	an open T	raitour to the Kingdom.	1
	and fworne in the Parliament at London,) confulted		ded fo much flan	ding for d	mselues (who yet preten-	1
	vpon a delperat course of reformation in this point.		did most vnadnis	edly infe	ne liberties of the land,) nge a Capitall branch of	1
	and made choice of Thomas Earle of Lancafter to be		the same Franchi	iles, in on	tting to death an Earle, their leader. This Thomas was sonne of Edmund Earle	1				* Cantinuates of Lancaster, Leicester and Ferrers, second sonne of	1 1				Nich.Tringt.
	Henry the third King of England, and in right of his	1 1				1
	wite(after her fathers decease, which happed about	ı				ł
	this time) Earle of Lincolne, Salisburie, and (besides	ŀ				ŀ
	many other great Lands in rorkeshire, Cumberland, and Wales) hee had the Earledom of * Arroys in Pi-	1 1
* John Stow.	and water) nee had the Earledom of " Artoys in Pi-	1 1				į
	cardy fo that without comparison hee was the greatest lubiect of the Kingdome.	1
	(12) The Issue of which combination before we	1
	purfue, wee may not here in our way ouerslippe a	1 1
	strange alteration both here in England, and in all	1 1
	Christendome. by the uniterial extinguishment of the	1 1	finger forme part	of the S	Nobles themselves might
	Order of the Templars, wrought about this time by the procurement of the French King, who being to		The King was the	nor I and	oueraigne gouernment. m,and the Lords at Dun-
	the procurement of the French King, who being fo	П	faple: but by th	e continu	all interdealings of the Wie Triets ad
m.1306. In those dayes	Amballadors to crave of his holine le with great impor-
in thole dayes	tunity, that the bones of his Predecefor Pope Boniface it was thought the Pope might	might bee burnt as being an Heretike; so now also he be an heretike.	fo farre preuailed with him, that in the Councel at				ken at Newcastle, which Prenna this io nighty encemed Order, was youn clear					- 1
	proofe of their generall odious finnes, and fearfe cre-	H	(16) King Edi	pard neuer	thelesse, as if his soule	ı
	dible impieries, vtterly abolified through Christen-	1				Edward of Wind- for booms.
Fox Martyrolog.	dome. The French King * caused 54. of that Order, together with their Great Maister to bee burnt at					Jar Dorme, pag-460.	Paris; and though that King hoped to convert all the Lands of that Societie to his fonnes vie, whom					- 1
	hee intended to make King of Ierusalem; yet the					- 1
	Pope and Councell annexed their pofferfions to the	1	cleared the mind	of the Co	me, and at this present rowfull King his father.	- 1
	Order of the Knights Hospitalers, called commonly Knights of the Rhodes. Notwithstanding, in England					- 1
	Knights of the Rhodes. Notwithstanding in England					* Ren.Ceffr.lib.7.
	(where such Papali commands went not alwayes for		reioycing through	the King	iome, Her French kind-	cap.41.
	lawes) the heires of the Donours, and fuch as had en-					Fabias.
	dowed the Templars here with landes, entred upon		of either fexe) & :	mong the	m as chiefe, the Queens	1
	those parts of their ancient Patrimonies after the Thomas la More,	diffolution of the Order, and (faith our * Courtier)		haue had the Infan	rat his B	aptilme named Lewis,	- 1
	detained them vntill not long after, they were by					Allerman
lahu Stow.	Parliament wholly transferred vnto the Knights of	- [tore was after his F	athers an	d Grandfathers name,	462 Col. 1.
rpod.Neuft.	the Rhodes, or of S. Iohn of Ierufalem.
	(13) King Edward was now at Yorke, and Earle					1
A.D. 1312.	Thomas, according to that which had beene conclu-			ons victo	ries in France and elfe-	- 1
.	ded among the combined Lords, who refolued to	- ['				1
	trie all extremities, rather then any longer to endure	1.	mind again 0.	will which	the King bare in his	1
-	Peirs Gaueston, (as being perswaded while that King- bane breathed, peace could neither be maintained in	1	Fortione and al	varous ror	their oner-ruling his	- 1
l	the Realme, nor the King abound in treasure, nor	li	and officer and for	e death	of Gaueston, by fundry	1
	the Queene enioy his love) fent humble * petitions	17	for was rabd 6 km	pnancies	or the French at Wind-	The.VValf.
Thom. Walfingh	by honourablemessensers to their Soueraigne, re-	K	octore it was halfe	u vpon, t	of the French at Wind- hat it grew raw againe Therefore in a Parlia-	1
	quefting him to deliuer the man into their hands, or	ı	nentat London the	inaicu. kina (ho-	I herefore in a Parlia- ely charged those pre-
1		- 1		great p	ery charged those pre-	- 1 fump-

Chap. II.	Edward. IJ. ENGLANDS 1	MONARCHS. Monarch 48.	557
	fumptuous Lords with their contempt against him	more then religon, discipline, and valour,) to hau
	In the ipolies they had committed at Wencefile and	effected more then it felte did fuffer. But King Ed	-1
	(which most afflicted his languishing spirit) in taking, and wickedly killing Peirs Gaueston. To all which,	ward and his people rather feemed to goe toward	al
AA. or Min.	they floutely answered, that they had not offended	Weading or a Triumph, then to a battell * adorning	• 1 / 2 / 3
WAY COMME	inany point, but deferued his rotall favour, for that	themselues with all forts of riches, gold, filuer, and they had not gathered force against him, but against	the like toies, in a kind of wanton manner, correspon
	the publike enemie of the Realme, &c. Howbeit, to	dent to the humour of the Prince whom they fol	Scotifb transl Heil Bee, bb.s
	preuent the teared milchiefe of civill Armes, by the	(21) In this journey it was made manifest, wha	Heis Hoe, lib.s
	working of the young Queene, of the Prelates, and	true and fober valiancie could effect against light
	Earle of Gioceiter, the Lords in open Court at Well-1	brauery and infolency. King Robert lodged with minster humbled themselves to the King, praying	his forces (being inferiour in numbers to the English	51
	grace; and the King granted to such of them, as would	not farre off, where was nothing but a religious	.1
	defire the same, his gracious pardon. The whole	*denour and modeft care, quickned (after manifold	11
	house of Parliament seeing the kings wants, of their own accord granted a Fifteenth & al parts hereupon	calamities, with a most noble delire to recour the	Heff Beet.
	returned with joy and peace, but not long after the	libertie of their Country, and to settle the same in	-
	Lord Guy de Beauchampe Earle of Warwicke, who in	to the hope whereof they were the rather erected by this Parliament was appointed to be of Prinie Coun-	a fresh victorie, which they had obtained that day vpon certaine of the English*horsemen. King Edward cell with the King, deceased, being (as by the Barons	on the contrary part nothing effecting fo fleight	The O'Valfer Heff Beer lab. 1
	wel-willers * it was laid) impoisoned by such of the	prefage, refolued vpon the very next (being Mid-
The Walf.	Kings fecret friends as did maligne him.	fommer, or Saint Iohn Baptifts day) to take a terrible	1
A D. 1212.	(18) The milchieuous effects of the Kines for-	reuenge vpon the Seats: but how to effect the fame
D. 1313.	mer milgouernment, beganne now most perillouslie	the care was not excessive; for in his Campe, * was-	* Th.de la Stein to discouer themselves. For the seets his neighbours,	faile, and Drinkehaile were thundered extraordina-	Lune in well who could not bee ignorant of all such griefes and	rily, as accounting themselves sure of the victory ;
	maladies as festred in the heart and entrals of Eng- land, had long since made their timely vie thereof.	which kind of impious selfe-trust, if God Almighty	1
	adhering to the vindaunted Bruce, that by degrees	did not fometime foourge with ink and terrible	1
	hee had gotten a great strength and was againe pub.	confusions, what outrages would not bee exe-	1
The de la Ster.	likely receined, and obeied for King of Scotland, from most places whereof hee * draue the English, and (in	(22) Farre otherwise the Bruces Army: which his according	most places whereof hee * draue the English, and (in	by his commandement fpent * the euening in ma-	*Bellind. tranft.
Hefter Rection.	contempt of Edward) committed great ipoile by	king humble confession of their sinnes, that they	16.14 cap.t.
.14. hapned D.1309.	flaughter of People, burning of Townes in Nor-	might (faith our Author) beeready on the morrow	1 thumberland, and other Acts of hostility. The prin-	to receive the bleffed Sacrament, as accordingly they cipall charge of Scotland for King Edward had beene	did. Moreouer to leane nothing vindone which	1 - entrufted to the Lord lohn Cumin a Scot, Earle of Bucquhan, whom * King Robert had vanquished in	might advance their cause; the Scots had diaged	* Hell, 3set, 56.
Hell Beet.l. 14.	battell, and was now (while Edward fate bewitched	before their Battalions, certaine * trenches or dikes	caett.
со,Висаналии.	with most vnworthy languishments) grown potent,	*three footdeepe, and three foot broad, which (hauing fixed * fharpe stakes in them with their	tasts. * The de la Hen a Hell Boet, la ge fending his Brother Edward Bruce to beliege the Ca-	points vpward) they courted fo with * hurdles, that	fapra.
	file of Strinelin, which was in the hands of the Eng-	fooremen treading warily) might paffe, but not	"Thoda la Man
-	uß.	footemen treading warily) might paffe, but not troupes of horfe. Next to Gods anger against the
	(19) The King of England awakened out of his	English, (whom courtly Pride and Slath had now ef-	1
n.D.1314.	flumbers with these Alarums, marched thereupon	feminated) this stratageme was the cause of their	l ing Edward ith a mighty	with a very great Armie toward the faid Castle. It	ruine: for whereas they reposed much vpon their	l
rmy in Scotland	pleafeth Heller Beetins (putting off, as it were the	Canallerie, in these Pis-falles, the fury of their charge	ł
•	Historian) to report maruellous thinges of the num-	was intercepted and broken, the riders being mile-	, bers of Souldiers which came with King Edward in this tourney; for (if he fay true) there were not few-	rablic flaine by the Scots, whom King Robert mar-
	er then one hundreth and fifty thousand horsemen,	ching formoft on foot, had prefented most coura-	-
	and as many thousand footmen; and that we may	giously to the enemy. (23) The King of England not altogether care-not sufpect the multitude to bee far greater then ei-	leffe, neither yet by his care able to doe much (as	The English other the cause required, or the realm of England could	one whom God was not well pleased with had or-	merthrowne of well afford, hee informeth vs, that belides the Eng-	dered his battels with some advite, but vpon the	Bannech bengue.
- 1	lifb there were in his aid at this time, Hollanders, Ze-	difmall and vnexpected discomfiture of his horse in	1
	landers, Brabanders, Flemings, Picards, Boloners, Gaf-	those mischienous holes or ditches, was enforced, coignes, Normans, with much people of many o-	(after some troubled relistance) to leave to the Seas
	ther Regions; and that belides these three hun-	the greatest victory that euer they had before or af-
-	dreth thousand men of warre, there were infinite families with their women, children, seruants, and	ter. *Hardly could K. Edward bee drawne to flie:	"The, VVailer.
1	houshold-stuffe: but because other Writers doe in-	the courage which it became such a Monarch to	Too, PY TURE
- 1	genuously grant, and containe probable matter en-	haue then first disclosing it selfe, till by his friends hee was enforced to seeke his preservation by that
- 1	ough for the honour of the Scottish Nation in this	more necessary then noble meanes, and with him
	iourney, wee will as neare as wee can, (being things	(helides others) the lord Hush Spencer (whom our
1	to vs neither vp nor downe, in regard of the long	(befides others) the Lord Hugh Spencer (whom our *Courtier cals a faint hearted Kite) betooke himselfe	° Thoule la Moir time fince thefe hostilities happed.) truely and free-	to like remedie,	Vasors Milum, ly, though briefly informe our felues hereof.	(2.4) All things proped unfortunate to the Eng-	,
	(20) The Earles of Lancaster, Warren, Warwicke,	lift in this iorney, for when they perceived their Ca-
the Walf.	and Arundel (the greatest Peeres of the land) refused	uallerie thus milerably ouerthrowne in the ditches, to attend their King in this service, for that hee had	they that their arrowes compatie, with purpole to !
	delaied to ratifie the points of their defired liberties,	kill or gall fuch Scots as came to the execution, but
	and provisions for the pretended better government	did them little or no harme, as they who were armed in the fore-parts, and in fread of that, * flew their	*The de la Moor of England, by himselfe so often consented vnto. In	in the tore-parts, and in itead or that, " ilew their which as their loyall affection cannot bee much ad-	friends, whose backes being toward them were yn-mired: foit is certaine, that King Edward hereby vndertooke that voyage with farre the leffe force ey-	(a.c.) The loffe fell much youn the Nobleft, for ther of men or counsell. Neuerthelesse his hoast was	I show ware flaine in this Rarrell *Gilbert Parte of Glant	* Hoff. Boet . 1.14.
	great enough (if numbers did fway in fuch affaires,	there were manie in this Dancer,	The de la Moore. Ypad Neuft,
		Robert

honourable Scots, belides the new King Edward, and did God temper one with another, and the inft re-ioycement which the Scots had conceined of their aboue * five thousand others . his head was cut off at Dundalke (faith FV alfingham) but Heltor Boeting "The way.

writes that he was flaine in the battell it felfe. Thus Tool Ness.

558

The Walf.

Tpod.Ness,

The de la Mare. The VV46

A.D.1316.

"Ybe.UUall.

creased. The famine was growne so terrible, that horse, dogs, yearmen and children were stolne for food, and (which is horrible to thinke) the theeues newly brought into the Gaoles, were torne in pecces, and eaten presently halfe alive, by such as had been longer there.In London it was proclaimed, that no

Chap. 11 Edward IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 48. The Walf. Pol Virg.lib.18, * Cap 174 * teb.Stow. Harding 6.172. The beginning The Spenfers ba-The VValle A.D.1321. * Helish p.331. King Edward purious the Lords. Polyd. Verg. li. 8. A.D. 1322.

To happie victory ouer the English at Banocksbourne, was fowred with this losse, (34) But King Robert (as a most expert and vigilant Prince) did not suffer this toy to continue long to the English, for by practise with one * Peter Spal ding to whom King Edward had entrusted the kee-ping of Berwicke, heerecouered it from the English, faith * Harding, By treatie, with Peace, Spalding, and treafon; after it had remained twenty yeers in their possession; which when King Edward thought to haue wonne againe, the Scots diuerted him from the liege, with incursions and slaughters of his people in other parts of England, not failing much of furprising the Queene in a village not farre from Yorke, where the followrned during the fiege at Berwieke, the plot being laid, and drawne between the Scots and some perfidious English, whom King Robert had monied for that purpole, But Spalding after the treason done had the reward of a * Traitour. for King Robert put him to death, (35) To give some breathings after these so manifold troubles, a truce was agreed vpon and confirmed betweene the two Kings of England and of Scotland, for the space of two yeeres, which brought forth confusion and not refreshment. For thus it hapned; The King vpon the commendation of the *Lords themselues, had made Hugh de Spenser Lord Chamberlaine, who being at the least of equall infolence, vices, and ambition to Gaueston, so wrought that hee succeeded in short time to all the graces of familiarity and power which ever Gauefton enjoyed, as in like fort to all his hatred and enuic. Bugh his father an ancient Knight, the better to strengthen his sonnes courses, was likewise imploied, and grew in speciall fanour with the King, who afterward also created him Earle of Winchester, but the father in manners vnlike to the fonne, was ruined rather by a naturall tendernesse, then any malicious will. The fonne, as hee was of shape most louely, so the verie Spirit it selfe of pride and rapine, carried him to all sorts of intollerable behaviours and oppressions, that Gaueston might with good reason seeme to be wished for againe. Against these two, who wholy swaved the vnfortunate King, Thomas Earle of Lancaster and in a manner all the Barons of the Kingdome, (who meant the King should loue none but with Pontfract. (not contented with the wast of their lands) they neuer rested till(by the terror of ciuill Armes) those two fauourites (father and fonne) were banished; they that reuenging under publike pretexts both publike injuries and * their owne. (36) In all contentions which hapned betweene the King and his Lords, Queene Ifabel had euer hithe rung and his Lorus, Queene jaser had ever in-thereto beene a maker of Peace, doing therein wor-thy offices, but the euili flatres of the Earles of Lancafter and Hereford would not fuffer her to continue any longer fo: for the Queene being denied lodging one night at the Castle of Leedes in Kent. which belonged to the Lord of Badlesmere (one of the Earles faction) the withdrew her good conceite, and was an author to the King of presently reuenging that dishonour, who you her complaint, came in person with many thousand Souldiers before the Castle, tooke the * Captaine, and put both him and all the men therein to shamefull death. Moreouer, longing to bee righted against the Lords for their late infolencies, marched on to Circefter taking many Caftles, and besieging others: The Lords (who little Liberties. suspected any such sodaine assaults) providing in the meane time for their defence. (37) Thither repaired to him (at his commandement) Hugh Spenfer the lonne, who had houered vpon the Sca, expecting from thence the successe of things upon the land. The Lords, who had falne from their Soueraignes good conceit, and wanting now their wonted Mediatrix the Queene, lay open to all the mischiefe which enemies could workthem by the King, who (as taking his regall power and authority to be in danger) refolued wifely and manfully, to die in the quarrell, or to bring the Lords to be at his commandement. Meane time the judgement given against the Spensers was reversed as erroneous, and their reuocation decreed at London by the Archbishoppe of Canterburie and his Suffragaus, (18) The Lords not all of a like temper began to mildoubt, and many of them for looke their Chiefe. (the Earle of Lancafter) and rendred themselves to the King, or were apprehended; among which were the two Rogers Mortimers, who were commit-Castle, The faction weakened by this defection made head in the North, under the Earle of Lancafer, who now was to fight for his life. Thither the King marcheth, and with the onely flew of his Ar-mie, made the Earle to flie from Barton upon Trent, whose forces in their retreat or flight behaued themfelues outragioufly. (30) But Gods heavie displeasure, and the Arme of the Kings power left them not so: for at Burrow-brigge, Humfrey de Bobun was flaine by a Wellfman; who thrush him into the body with a Speare from under the Bridge; and the Earle of Lancaster himfelfe with other principall men, Barons and knights, to the number of aboue * fourescore and ten were taken prisoners, by a man of small fortunes, Andrew de Herekley Captaine of the City of Carleil, and Sir Simon Ward.* Captaine of Torke, who with great forces out of those pares, stopt their farther passage at Burrowbrigge, as the Kings forces tooke all safegued from them behind. (40) The third day after their apprehension, the King in person being set in sudgement at Pontfract. and with him Edmund Earle of Kent, Aymerie Earle of Pembroke, John de Warren Earle of Surrey, and among * others, the Lord Hugh de Spunfer the Father, as allo * Hugh Spenfer his sonne; the Earle of Languager was brought before them, and had sentence pronounced against him * by the said Andrew de Herekley(created afterward Earle of Carliel) and the Kings Iusticiar, the * Lord Maplesihorpe, as against an Arch-Traitour; neuerthelesse, for reuerence of his bloud (being the Kings neere Kinsman) drawing and hanging were remitted vnto him, but his head was firicken off the fame day without the Towne of (41) Nor fatisfied herewith, the King gaue full way to reuenge, putting to shamefull death, by drawing, hanging and (as some write) *quartering in sun-dry places, all the Barons (the Lord Roger D'amarie onely excepted, who died of his naturall death) with fundry Baronets and Knights taken at Burroughbrig and elfewhere. The Lord Badlesmere (at whole house this tragicall fire beganne) was executed at Canterburie. And that so great and mighty a man as Thomas Earle of Lancaster, should not seeme to die without a bloudic complement sutable to his conditions there were hanged and quartered upon the fame day at Pontefract * five or *fixe Barons; and the next day at Yorke were hanged in yron chaines, the Lords Clifford, Mowbray, Dej-will; and others afterward in other places to the number in all (though (42(As for the faid Thomas Earle of Lancaster. there are fo many reasons why he cannot reasonably be iudged either a good subject or a good man. that we may worthily wonder why some at that time should repute him a Saint. Certainely, the wife and diferent old Writers are not fo opinionated of him ted to the Tower of London, and others to Wallingford Too de la More. *Th de la Odori The VV alfag Holinfb.p.330 ol.2. Tood.Neaft. Hollinfb.p.331 40.5 Men. *Holinfb,p.331. tol.2. * All & Hen pe chiefest Captaines of the Realme suffered death for Trines.MS. their difloyaltics. Threefcore and twelue Knights more were dispersed into sundry prisons, who (laith

18. and 5, banithed,

De la Moore) vpon fines paid had afterward their thed, but note his private life for * vicious, himfelfe to be nothing * valorous, and of the publike * not well | Monething * Paylo, 1,7,4,000 deferuing, omitting his contumelious behautours "S. Th. de la More toward the King his Sougraign Lord in his difcom-

550

*Thode la Mare

hee was consinced to have entred into with the т	, , , ,

aThe.Walf.	Scots, vpon * whom he had before done special fer-	and negociate her husbands affaire in France. She nices, as having for that cause the Castle and Citie	did fo; and whereas before her departure, things of Carleil committed to his gouernment. The truce	were in great extremity between the two Nations,
*Tpod.Newft,	with Scotland being thus confirmed, the King makes	informuch that all the French were banished out of a pomeroup.	his progresse through the * Counties of Yorke and Lancaster, and the Marches of Wales, from whence the	England, not they who were attendant on the Queen her felfe in neerest place being spared, all matters	i late feditious had their nourishments, taking wife &	by her negotiation and fuite were quieted, vpon concarefull courses for ministration of Justice there, and	dition that King Edward should give to his sonne Ed-	1
	preuention of like inconveniences, by punishing	ward of Windfor (afterward King) the Dutchy of A-
* Chron. Dunft.	their Authors scuerely. And Justices * void of all	quitaine, and Earledome of Pontine, for which the king	1
apad John Stew.	corruption, were appointed elfe-where.	of France was pleased to accept his said young Ne-	i
	(49) In the meane space, the new King of France	phewes homage,	l
A.D. 1324.	Charles the fifth, a most earnest enemic to the English	(53) This was done, and the Prince fent ouer
An.Reg. 17.	mens polleflions there, fought occasions of quarrell	for that purpose to his mother, to the vtter vindoing
The L-Roger Martimerescapes	with King Edward, who while hee confuled at home	of the King his Father, and of all his fauourites. For
Mortimerescapes out of the Tower *The de la More	how to order that affaire, the yong L. Roger Morti- mer, one whom the Diuell (aith our * Courtier) re-	the heire of England being in forraine parts, among
" 1 DV AC 14 ONENCE	ferued to kindle new differtion with, and to furre vp	the contrary faction, all the confulration was (vader colour of ruining the Spenfers,) to accomplish far-
	a most miserable civill warre, having consupred his	ther matters. The Prince, having (at Boys de Vincens)
	Keepers or (as some others write) having potioned	done his homage for that Dutchie and County to ·Ypod.Neaff.	Keepers or (as some others write) having potioned them with a sleepy drinke, escaped out of the Tow-	done his homese for that Dutchie and County to his vncle Charter de Valois King of France, was (as also er of London, getting ouer clearely without any em+	the Queene his mother) sent for backe by the King peachment into France.	about Michaelmas; but the Queenes conspiracie be-
	(50) The Spenfers both father and sonne, the one	ing not yet ripe, thee deferred to obay, detaining her thus created Earle of winchester, and the other Earle	fonne still,
	of Glosefter, afpiring to the fulneffe of command, and	(54) There went ouer with the young Prince,	Polyd.Verg liats defirous to leaue nothing in their eye, which might flumble their fway with the King, failed not to beget	among many others, Walter Stapleton, Bishoppe of immortall enmities both against themselues and the	Excefter, who perceiving into what familiarity the Lord Roger Mortimer was growne with the Queene,
	King. The Queene tooke their carriage so heinou-	which * feemed greater then either stood with her	* The Walf.
	fly, because (besides other things) they had abrid-	honour or dutic, and feeing both him and other ged her meanes of maintenance, (while themselves	of the Kings enemies, and fugitiucs enioy that priva-abounded in all tiches and magnificence) as free	cie in conniell which was affigued to himieite. Who
°S,Thedt la More	complained * That the daughter and fole heire of	was now (as being none of theirs) * excluded, retur-	*Tis-de la More the king of France was married to a gripple miler,	ned fecretly (though vnfent for) into England, faith-and that being promifed to be a Queene, thee was become no better then a waiting woman, living vp-	fully (as it became a good man)declaring his know-on a pension from the Spensers.	ledge. (55) The King now clearely beholding his er-
	(51) Thus was the matter, and as it were, the Em-	rour in his dangers * folicited the King of France to	Polyd, Ver.li. 18 The Queens and brion, of their common destruction laid, and begun	fend home his wife and fonne, but that not fuccee-	Prince proclai- med Traitors.
	in the impotencie of a womans will, to helpe out	ding, he caused them * openly in London to be pro-
•	the which with shrewd drifts and directions, they	claimed enemies of the Kingdome, banishing them	Pohd, Verg. kb.18. Fabian. Their death encrease her side with Adam Bishoppe of Hereford,	with all their adherents out of the same. For his more	Fabian. Their death by ftripping him out of all his Temporalties as a	affurance also hee caused the Ports to bee most nar-
	Traitour, for that hee had supported the Morti-	rowly watcht. Finally, to draw all his dangers to a	King.
	mers in the Barons quarrell. This Adam (faith our	fhort dispatch, there was (as was supposed) a plot laid for *making away the Queene and Prince, but	* M. Fox. AR,& Knight) was a man of most subtle witte, and in all worldly pollicies profound, daring to doe great	Gods will was to frustrate it.	Mem.p.454.cel.1.
	things and factious withall, who for this cause con-	(16) The Queen, on the other lide, fearing that the ceining deepeft hate, and therefore casily growing	* Spenfers gold had laid traines to blow her whole deare to the Queene, made a great fecret party. To	proceedings up in France, kept herselfe out of the	*Tpod.Neuft.
	which Henrie Burwash Bishoppe of Lincoln, who(for	way, till with the Prince, the Lord Roger Mortimer, like causes) had beene kept from his temporalties	and other their adherents, they were fafely gotten
	(about two yeeres) ioyned himselfe, Neither would	into Hemalt: There might bee some other reason also and necessary to move Queene Isabel to depart	1
	the Spenfers avarice fuffer them to weaken the multitudes of their enemies, for they fold the Kings	out of France, belide the doubt of that kind of cor-	4
	gracious fauour to fuch as had beene in the Barons	ruption in the Peeres thereof: as to turne off a warre	1
	quarrell, at fo great rates that they by granting a-	from thence being her native Country, which for way lands and Manours to the faid Lords Spenfers	her cause was afflicted in the Sea-strengthes theref;
	for their pardons &c. verie many of the Nobles	for Sir John Oturwin , Sir Nicholas Kiried, and Sir	The English were empouerished. To be short, the royall pow-	Iohn de Felton, with the Nauie of the Ports, and of o-	I'm feat, er being in the hands of the Spenfers and Roger Bal-	ther places, had by commission from the King fo
	dock Chancellour, or of their Creatures and Fauou-	scowred the narrow Seas, that they within a short time brought into England as lawfull prize, *an hun-
	rites; this other faction had the generall discontent-	time brought into England as lawfull prize, an hun-	*Tle Walf.
	ments of the Realme to worke vpon for their ad-	dreth and twenty Norman shippes or vessels. Moreo-
	(52) The King thus guiding himselfe, and ha-	uer, whereas those two Bishoppes which the Pope had sent, were returned forrowfull out of England,
An.D.1325.	uing sent his Brother Edmund Earle of Kent (vpon	not onely without doing any good on her behalfe, notice of the first troubles) with Forces into Gaf-	but also without hope of doing any, thee might ea-coigne, who gave fome little flay for a time to the	fily be perswaded that the sword must doe it, or no-
	French proceedings, till they might otherwise bee	thing.
	prouided for, it came to this point at last: that	(57) But in Hensult thee found most honourable	An.D.1326.
	whereas the King had a purpole to have gone in	and louing welcome of the Earle, where, therefore	A.reg. 19.
	person into France, the Spensers who were asraid to	(without the confent or aduife of the Peeres of Eng.
	bee severed from his person, the onely reuerence	land) thee enfured (faith our * Author) that delight and terrour of the whole world, her sonne, being	" The de la More,
ı	whereof they knew to bee their fafegard, and yet not daring to attend him thither, or stay behind, * per-	then about four eteene yeeres old, to Philippa the faid
1
* The Walfagio	fwaded the King contrary to the minds of all the	Farles daughter, and with the money of her portion
* The Walfagh	fwaded the King contrary to the minds of all the	Errles daughter, and with the money of her portion waged fouldiers out of Honault and Germany, to tran-
* The Welfagh	fwaded the King contrary to the minds of all the reft, that the Queene (who fought it) should goe	Eirles daughter, and with the money of her portion waged fouldiers out of Honault and Germany , to tran- iport

Chap. 11. Edward, IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 48.

where the King concealed himselfe, were sent with coine and forces to discouer and take him. The Outer and forces to uncourt and task inth. The Toolde to Mon Queene and her people lay in the City of Hereford, it him, Omiti the Epifcopall See of that great Arch-plotter of her seven mediately about the Courtes Adem de Orlion, where by adulte and confent Ador was of the Lords, her sonne the Duke of Aquitaine was doubles Ro er flos of the same, did sweare him fealty. And here al- caffes or high fothe Bishoppe of Normach was made Chancellor of I made High Keeper of England, and they as to the Ca-of the Realme, and the Bishoppe of Winchester (65) What will not money, diligence and faire words doe; with corrupt dispositions, even to everting of all bands of either religious or civill duties? By fuch meanes therefore the desolate, sad, and vuwade his refigfortunate King, * came into his colen of Lancasters hands, and with him the yonger Lord Spenser Earle of Glocester, Robert Baldock Lord Chancellour and simonde Reding, there being no regard had to the detention of any other. The King was conneied by the Earle from the place of his furprise to Monmouth, to Ledburie, and so to the Castell of Kenelworth belonging to the Earle of Leicester, who was appointed ging to the East of Letelers, who was appointed to attend him, thatis, to keepe him fafe. The other three, Spenjer, Baldself and Reeding were firongly guarded to Hereford, there to bee disposed of at the pleasure of their most capitall enemies. (66) Before whose comming to satisfie Roger Mortimer, the Lord Edmund Earle of Arundel, and two Gentlemen Daniel and Micheldene were beheaded at Hereford: The Lord Mortimer was fo high in the Queenes fauour, that she could doe no lesse (as week may suppose) then gratifie him with a few hared heades. But (Mortimer) there will bee a time, when the cry of this, and other bloud facrificed to thy private revenge (while thou abusest the publike trust) will neuer give over the pursuit, till it hath deseruedly drawne thine in lieu thereof. (67) The Lord Spenfer and the reft, * on whom Villiam Truffill the ludge gaue fentence of death, being now drawne to Hereford, the faid Lord being clad in his coat-armour, was most despitefully dragged to the place of execution, where being first hung ypon a gallowes fifty foothigh, hee was afterward headed, and cut into quarters; they who brought him to the Queene, having the promifed fumme of two thousand pounds distributed among them for reward. His head was let vp at London, and his quar ters in foure parts of the Kingdome. Simon de Reding was hanged ten foot lower then hee in the same (68) This Execution(faith walfingham) was done vpon a Munday in revenge of the death of Thomas Earle of Lancafter, whose bloud was likewise shed vpona Munday. Robert Baldock late Lord Chancellor was committed to the keeping of the Bishop of Hereford, who after a time caused him to bee brought vp to Hereford-house in London, where the tumultuous people (not without the Bishoppe of Herefords secret approuement as was said) tooke him violently away, and (though he were a Prieft) thrust him into Newgate, where they vied him so vnhandfomly, that albeit they had no accusation, but onely for being faithfull to his Soueraigne, wherewith to *charge him, he not long after died in prifon ; to whom (faith De la Moore) might be applied that of Quintilian, * Torquentem umcit quifquis occi-(69) The mournefull King being at Kenelworth Castle, there repaired thither the Bishops of *Win-chester, Hereford, and Lincolne, *two Earles, two Ab-(as knowing, faith he, that a good shepheard should giue his life for his flocke,) made at the last his anbots, foure Barons, * two Iustices, three Knights for enery County, and for London, and other principall "fwere to this effect, "That hee knew that for his Pol Pirg. 18,18 many finnes hee was false into this calamity, and places (chiefly for the fiue Ports) a certaine chosen therefore had the leffe cause to take it gricuously: "That much he forrowed for * this that the people Thom. a la of the Kingdome were so exasperated against him, number felected by the Parliament, which then the Queene and her Sonne held at London. The Bishops of Winchester and Lincolne (as it was agreede vpon) as that they should veterly abhorre his any longer came thither before any of the rest, aswell to give the Frule and four aignety: and therefore he befought Fall that were there prefent to * forgine and fpare, rbs. Praise. King to vnderstand what kind of Embassage was "all that were interepretent to "torgute and ipate [res. Profile in being for affilied. That neuerthelefte is "point," or in a

""but being to affilied. That neuerthelefte is "point," or in a
""to be in a "point of the in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a ""to be in a "point," or in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be in a ""to be in a ""to be in a
""to be approaching, as to prepare him by the best Arguments they could to satisfic the desire, and expectation of their new moulded common-weale, which could onely be by refignation of the Crowne, that his Sonne (whom the body of the then confused State had elected) might raigne in his stead. their King. (70) When they were admitted to his presence, (the Earle of Leicester being by) they together so wrought him, partly with shewing a necessity, partly

Chap. 11 Edward IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 48. with other reasons drawne out of common places, throughly studied for that purpose, that (though not without many fobs and reares) hee finally did nor diffent, if his answere were truely reported (which *fom doubt of) vnto the Parliament. *For they tolde "Hift, Bruti MS. " him that the Common-weale had conceived so irreconciliable diflikes of his government, the particulars whereof had beene opened in the general affembly at London, that it was resoluted neuer to endure him as King any longer. That notwithstanding, those dislikes had not extended themselves fo farre, as for his fake to exclude his iffue, but that with vniuerfall applause, and ioy, the Commonweale had in Parliament elected his eldest sonne the Lord Edward for King. That it would be a ve-"ry acceptable thing to God, willingly to give ouer an earthly Kingdome for the common good and quiet of his Country, which they faid could not otherwise bee secured. That yet his honour flould be no leffe after the refignation, then it was before, onely him the common-weale would no uer fuffer to raigne any longer. They finally durft tell him, that vnieffe hee did of himfelfe renounce "his Crowne and Scepter, the people would neither endure him, nor any of his Children as their So-"ueraigne, but disclaiming all homage and featry,
"would elect some *other for King, who should not *Polyd. Fer. St. 18 (71) The whole Company fent by the body of The de la Morr. State(if it may bee called a Body which then had no Head there) from London, where it attended their returne, being placed by the Bishoppe of Hereford. according to their degrees, in the Presence Chamber at Kenelworth Castle, the King gowned in blacke came forth at last out of an inward roome, and prefented him felfe to his vaffals, where(as being Privie to their errand) forrow stroke such a chilnesse into him, that hee fell to the earth, lying stretched forth in a deadly fwown; The Earle of Leiesser, and the Bishoppe of Winessester beholding this, ranne vnto him, and with much labour recovered the half-dead king, fetting him vpon his feet. As rufull & heavy as this fight was, we read not yet of any acts or effects of compassion expressed towards him at this present so fetled (as it feemed) was the hatred and auersion. The King being now (we cannot say) come to himfelfe, but to the sense of his misery, the Bishoppe of Hereford declares the cause of their present Embasfie, and running ouer the former points, concludes ne, and summing user the turner points, concludes as before, failing, (as in the person of the common-wealth). That the King must refigue bis Diademete his eldest some, or after the refullit suffer them to elect such as the subject of the best beautiful suffer them to elect such as the subject of the subject of the subject of the Kingdome. (72) The dolorous King hauing heard this speech, sir rbode to brake forth into signes and teares, and being (faith the strength in strengt fice his body for Christs cause, then once to behold the difinherifon of his fonnes, or (through his occafion) the perpetuall diffurbance of the Kingdome.

(73) This being faid, there was forthwith a proceeding to the short ceremonies of his resignation which principally confifted in the furrender of his

Tttt

Tood Neuft.

Councell of warre) taking first her way to Oxford:

where the *whole Vniuerlity being called together, in the presence of the Queene, the Prince, Roger Mortimer and the rest of that troope, the Bishop of Hereford(the Queenes bosome Counsellor)preaching to them on this Text, "My head, my head aketh, dcliuered to them the reasons of the Queens comming with her Army, concluding (more like a Butcher then a Diuine)thatan aking & fick head of a kingdom,was

The PVAS.

* Hif Pret. MS.

Diadem and Enlignes of Maicity, to the vie of his fon the new King, Thereupon * Sir William Truffel (as being a Judge who could fit them with quirks of law to colour fo lawleffe and treasonable a fact) on the behalfe of the whole Realme renounced all homage, and alleagiance to the Lord Edward of Caernar non late King.
(74) The forme of that renunciation, as being ob-folete, you shall have in the like * obsolete words of Treuisa, which was this; I William Truffel, in name of all men of the land of England, and of all the Parliament Procurator, refigne to thee Edward, the homage that was made to thee sometime; and from this time forward now following, I defic thee, and prine thee of all royall power, co-I shall never be tendant to thee as for King after this time. Which being done, Sir Thomas Blunt Knight, Steward of the houshold, by breaking his staffe, refigned his office, and declared that the late Kings family was discharged.

(75) Edwardbeing thus dekinged, the Embassie rode toyfully backe to London to the Parliament, with the refigued * Entignes, and difpatch of their employment. Here (for that this feems the laft houre of his raigne and kingly flate) wee will make a stop, referring you for the rest to the next Kings life, ander whose name and abused authority they were acted. (76) Notwithstanding, wee may not forget in all these doings to call to mind, who it was that sate at the helme of State, ouerlooking, and ouerfwaying Queene, Prince and all; to wit, the most ambitious and vindicative man living, Roger Lord Mortimer of Wigmer: for, as for the * Queene, when shee was (God knowes how farre guilty,) aduertised of her husbands dethronization, shee outwardly expressed so great extremity of passion (notwithstanding that at the same time shee was tolde of her sonnes furrogation) as if thee had beene diffraught in her wittes: which the Prince her fonne (then about fifteen veers of age) beholding, hee made an oath, neuerto accept of the Crowne against his fathers good will; and thereupon it was (faith Walfingham a Writer worthie of beliefo) that the faid Embassie was sent to Kenelworth Castle, (where the now no more a King remained) to worke his affent, whose answer thereunto.

(saith "another) was by those Messengers related at full, and fuller then in truth it was sent by the Kingsbut the Peeres then in Parliament made their vie thereof, in procuring such a Prince to take the rule of the,

whom they hoped, by reason of his tender yeeres, themselves should be able to rule and overmaster. His Wife.

(77) Ifabel, daughter to Philip the Faire, King of France (fifter to Lodowicke Hutin, Philip the Long, and Charles the Faire, all Kings of France) was married to Edward the fecond, attwelve yeeres of age, in our Lady Church of Bulleigne, the 22.of January, 1308.

Shee was his wife twenty yeers, and his widow thirty, and lived threescore and three yeeres. Shee died at Rifings neer London, the two & twetterh of August 1357 and was buried in the middeft of the Gray-Fryers 2 sire in London, the 27.0f September following.

His I flue.

(78) Edward (furnamed of VV indfor) the eldeft fon of K. Edward and Queene Ifabel his wife, was born at the Castle of PVindfor, the thirtcenth of October, the yeere of Christ, 1 3 1 2 and the fixt of his fathers raigne: hee was created Prince of Wales, and Duke of Aquitane, in a Parliament holden at Torke, Anno 1,22. and in the troubles of the Realme and ab-fence of his Father, in an affembly of Lords met at Hereford, and in presence of the Queen, was made L VV arden of England by a common decree: vnto whom all the Lords made their fealty, in receiving an Oath of Allegiance to be faithfull and loyall vnto him as to the Lord Warden of the Realm : and shortaim as to the Lord waves of the Realm: and inortly after, the Father deposed, he was crowned King of England, by the name of Edward the third.
(79) Islam (furnamed of Elitham) the second sonne of King Edward and Queene I Jabel his wife, was borne at Eltham in Kent, the 15.of August, and yeere of Chrift, 13 15 and at twelve yeeres of age was cre-ated Earle of Cormuell in a Parliament, Anno 1327. and third yeere of the raign of King Edward his brother: hee died in Seatland vnmarried, in the flower of his youth, the tenth of his brothers raigne, and yeere of Christ, 1314. (80) Isam the eldest daughter, and third child of King Edward and Queene Ifabel, was borne in the Tower of London; thee was maried being a child at Barwicke the eighteenth day of July, in the fourth yeere of the Raign of King Edward her brother, 1 3 29 to David Prince of Scotland, sonne and heire apparent of King Robert Bruce, whom he succeeded within one yeere after in the kingdome, being but seuen yeares of age, and was the fecond King of Scotland of he name of Danid; thee was his wife twenty and eight yeeres, and being come into England to visite her brother, thee deceated here without Issue, in the two and thirtieth yeere of his Raigne, 1357 and was buried at the Groy-Fyers in Landon.

(81) Elmo, the second and yongest daughter, & fourth child of King Edward and Queene I fabel, was the second wife of Reynald the second, Earle of Gelder, married vnto him with a portion of fifteen thou and pounds 1332. being the fixt yeere of the raign of king Edward her brother, who being the Vicar ge nerall of the Empire, to the Emperour Lewis of Ba war created him first Duke of Gelder : shee had iffue by him Reinald and Edward both Dukes successivelie after their Father without Iffue; the later of them leaving his Dutchie and his wife to his Nephew Wil. ism Duke of Galik his halfe fifters Sonne.

EDWARD

Chap. 12. |Edward. II J. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 49.

EDVVARD THE THIRD KING OF Monarch 49 ENGLAND, AND FRANCE, LORD

OF IRELAND, &CT HE FORTIE NINTH MO-NARCH OF ENGLAND, HIS RAIGNE, ACTS, AND ISSVE.

He fickneffe and wounds which the commonweith fustained by the raigne of the late deposed king, vpon the change of her Leach and Physitian, recouered not onely health and strength, but beautie also and ornament; and the elements themselves. which in the former times feemed to fuffer and fympathize with the publike grievances of the English grew * gratious and propitious to the vie of man, the Aire becomming more healthfull, the earth more fruitfull as if Nature herfelf were privic to the worth of the succeeding Prince, But this his worth did not display it selfe, vntill hee had plucked the sway of things out of the hands of the Queene his mother and of that aspiring danger and tempest of England, Roger Martimer who wholy possessed her. yeeres of age, when (without any guilty thought in him) his throne was thus established you his Fathers ruine, tooke the beginning of his raign by publike fanction at the * twentith day of Ianuarie, and by direction of fuch as lought to colour their trealons against their deposed Soueraigne, proclaimed God King of England, Lord of Ireland, and Duke of Aquitaine, to N.N. our Sheriffe of S. Greeting, Because the Lord Edward our Father, late King of 'England, by the common Councell and Affent of the Prelates, Earles, Barons, and other the chiefe dome, did voluntarily remoue himselfe from the gouernment thereof, willing and granting that we as his eldeft sonne and heire, should take vpon vs the rule and regiment of the same, and we with the "counsel & aduise of the Prelates, Earls & Barons beore faid, yeelding therin to our fathers good plea-

(2) This Edward of windfor, being not fifteene

mischiefe, and the young King with griefe returned inglorious after an huge waste of treasure, and peril of his owne person. (11) For while the English hoast thus held the Se.ts, as it were belieged Sir lames Dewglasse in the dead of night, with about * two hundreth swift horse . Fresherd. affailed the Kings owne Paulion, and miffed fo little of killing him, that a Priest his Chaplaine a stout and oyali man was flaine in his defence, and Sir James escaped backe without hurt, but not without honor for his bold attempt. In the Seets Campe * one noteth, that the English found fine hundreth great Oxen and Kine ready killed, a thousand spits full of flesh, ready to be roafted, fine hundred Cawdrons made of beafts skins, full of flesh, ouer the fire seething, and

*Fex in Alls &

Chap-12 |Edward III. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 49. (17) The case thus seeming plaine; was not for about * ren thousand paire of raw-leather shooes, the fuch accepted by the French, who received to the haire fill vpon them. In King Edwards Armie were

(as *fome write)thirty thousand Archers, and fine Graften hundreth good men of Arms, which perhaps is one of the greatest hoasts that you shall lightly reade to haue been of our Nation, and the reason was, for that the world conceined fuch hope of the young King, that many more went * voluntary then conftrained. All which puissance was notwithstan-

A.D. 1328. The.Walf.in Edw.3 Hell.Bost. Rebert died 7. wee have therein ding thus eluded. (12) About this time died ftrucken with leprie, Robert Bruce King, and recouerer of Scotland, and the most approved Warriour of the world in that age, by whose losse it was soone found, how much the vertue and fortune of one man are worth in any Nation. But before hee died, that peace was made with the Scots by the meanes of the Queene and the Lord Mortimer, which is fo much dispraised by our Writers, and in the end proued capitall to the principall Actor Mortimer. (13) For at this treaty it was that the King (then

The peace with Scotland at the Parliament of Northampton. The Walf. * All.& Men. * Geor. Buches, Hell. Boet.

*Fox.

in his Minority) scaled Charters to the Scots at Northampton, whole contents were contriued by the Queenc, the faid Lord Mortimer, and Sir James Dowglasse, without the prinity of the English. There was alfo deliuered to them that famous Euidence called the * Ragman Roll, and the King acquited them of all * claime and pretence of right to the Superiority of Scotland, rendring backe fundrie Iewels taken by the English from the Scots, among the which was one fip caill, called the Black Croff of Scotland. There was it also granted, that all Englishmen should leefe their lands in Scotland, vnlesse they would inhabite vponthem, and becom Liege-men to the King ther-of, belides many other things to the high discontentation(as was the humor of those times) of the English Subjects. Moreouer, under the specious Englin Subjects. Moreouer, vincer the specious colour of refittution of dammages, King Robert was to pay to King Edward thirty thousand Marks sterling, with which (as the meed of treason) the Lord Mortimer was afterward publikely charged, and for the fame, and other his crimes was executed as a Traitour. Finally, vpon the feuenth of Iuly, David Bruce Prince of Scotland, a child of seuen or eight yeeres old, and fonne and heire to King Robert, married Ioan, fifter to K. Edward at Berwicke: by which peace the English were made obnoxious to some re-proaches, the Scottifb Nation in Scorne, calling the faid Lady, Jane Make-Peace. (14) And therefore sith one of this part of King Edwards raigne: that drawne aside with enile admise E.S.lib.3.com-mentariol.de reb gellu.Brit.

State, at the beginning of his Goneroment: which is also the general opinion of all our Writers, whereunto this verse is by * some applied; V a pueri terra, f.spi(sime funt ibi guerra,

Where Children Rulers are, There oft is woe and war.

(15) There died likewise about this time Charles the Faire, King of France, (to whom King Edward had not long before done homage for his Dutchie of Gastoigne) the third and last sonne of Philip the Faire, King of France, by whose decease the Crown of that noble Kingdome, devolved to this our Edward King of England in right of his mother Queene Ifabel: And because vpon this * Title king Edward did afterward claime the faid Crowne, wee will here once for all instruct you in the instice thereof.

Pantvor.

(16) Three fonnesthere were of King Philip the Faire, (to wit, Lewis Butin, Philiple long, and Charles the Faire) who all incoeffinely raigned in France one after the other; and none of them leaving any Issue, Prince. King Edward not long after with a small companie went into France, and did homage to Phiat fuch time as king Edward made his claime, the whole right seemed to be in Ifabel the onely Child of the faid Philip which had any iffue, for an other fifter which shee had died an Infant.

nenged.

Crowne Philip of Valoys, whose father Charles of Valois was yonger Brother to Philip the Faire, aduancing the Brothers sonne before the daughters son. not following the propinquity or descent of blood. but the meliority of fexe ypon which ground they had also freshly put by Ioan daughter of Lewis Hutin, preferring Philip le long her vncle. The French in barre to her interest, pretended a fundamentall law or entaile, by which * no woman was inheritable to the Crown of France, and in defence of that opinion with their greatest with the greatest with the control of the contro flood King Edward afterward with so much losse and Lawyes since calamity, though that very law made Edwards title whit concerned the ftronger (*as himfelfe truely pleaded) hee being the French the Male, albeit his right descended by the Feengallie.cop.8.
* Chart. Original (18) This Title to fo glorious a Monarchy though is accrewed to the English, by this match with Queen is accrewed to the English by this match with Queen if abel, yet doth Walfingham * freely pronounce; That Typed Needs. neither that affinity, nor any other contracts with the French, was ever availeable or brought any benefite to England: which opinion as it may feeme strange, so will it answere a wise Readers paine in the froit, to observe through the course of our stories, whether the faid grave Writer had just occasion so to speake or no. Another conceit there was of this Edwards King Edward marriage with Philippa the Earle of Henaults daughthe Earle of the which about this time was confumated, though the Earle of the was also discussed the Earle of the saids a single the saids and the saids and the saids and the saids and the saids and the saids and the saids and the saids and the saids and the saids are said to said the saids and the saids are said to said the saids and the saids are said to said the sai Philip de Valoys (king of France by intrusion as our ter.

Annales repute him) was her vnele, her mother being his owne fifter. (19) There stood now at home against the stream of the Queene, and her Lord Mortimers absolute fway, some great personages, who did not wholy allow their doings, among which was the Kings vn-cle, Edmund Earle of Kent, whose death they shortly procured. Meane while the more to despite and dare their ouerlookers; Roger Afortimer was created Earle of the Marches of Walet at a Parliament holden at Salisburie; at which time also Iohn of Eltham the Kings Brother was made Earle of Cornwall and the Lord Butler of Ireland Earle of Ormand. From whence the Lord Hemy Earle of Lancaster, and fundry other of the Peeres, feeing the King * troden (as it feemed to them) under foot, did absent themselues, meditating civillarmes for redreffe, who notwithftanding(by the labour of Simon de Mepham Archbishop of Canterbury) was reconciled: This Archbishoppe very worthily also excommunicated all such as had any hand in the facrilegious parricide of that noble and loiall Prelate Walter Bishoppe of Excesser, or any and loiall Prelate Water Billioppe of Excefter, or any waies violated him, their aiders, complices or abettors whofoeuer. But after the Coronation of Philip the yone Chapter is and also lip the yong Queene, in another Parliament at Win-chefter, the faid Earle Edmand was condemned for Conspiring to deliuer his brother, late King of Eng-land, whom (likely inough by Mortimers practile)he was drawne into an abfurd beliefe to bee fill alite.

Thus for deuiling to fet a dead man at liberty, this noble Earle Edmund the kings half vncle had his head ftrucken off, though from * Noone till fine at night,

* The Walf hee stood at the place of death without the Castlegates, none being found to behead him, till a base wretch of the Marshal-sea was sent, and did it so little

(20) To supply which losse to the regal stemme, An.D.1329 with a very large amends, the young Queene Philip Ine Blacke at Woodslocke in Oxfordshire, vpon 15. lune, being Princebone Friday brought forth her first begottensonne, the amiable and famous Edward, by-named (not of his colour, but of his dreaded Acts in battell) the Blacke liv de Valoys for his Dutchie of Gascoigne. (21) Nemefis, or rather Gods vengeance with swift Vvvv conscience did the malice and ambition of his potent aduersaries make of shedding the Roiall bloud.

which by Gods inster indgement was not long vnre-566

r Februa.

King Edwar provided for practifes.

"Grafton

Annals

dela More, you may reade at large in the collecti-ons of "Iohn Stow) to the Caftle of Barkley, where after many vile denifes, executed vpon him in vaine, they *more then barbaroufly murthered him.

was deliuered by * Indenture, to Sir Thomas de Gour-nay the elder, and Sir John Mattrauers, two mercilesse and most vnworthy Knights, (6) These two Inflruments of the Dinell, hauing conducted him first to the Castle of Corf, then to Bristol, and lastly in great secrelie, and with more The late King villanous despite, then it became either Knights, or the lewdest variets in the world, as (out of Sir Thomas

Bedford faith

Tood. Neaft.

pace did now approach and fummon Mortimer to a bloudie account; for the yong King addicting himseife to serious thoughts, and putting on the Man before his yeeres required, eafily faw his owne perill in the others potencie. The Queene his mother (to the common dishonour and eriefe of the Kingdome) being generally bruted to be with child by Mortimer, hee vpon ripe aduite fodainely and aduenturouflie furprised the proud man at Parliament holden in Nottinehams with whom were taken the L: Geofrey Mortimer his fonne, and Sir Simon de * Bedford, Adam Merimouth Bertford (21th Holmfbead Burford (21th who all three were fent prisoners to the Tower of London, vnder a strong guard. Which done, the king by common confent of the Parliament tooke into his hands his mothers excessive Dower, & put her to a narrow pension of * one thousand pounds by yeer, Adam Merim. circumscribing her within as narrow * limits for her abode, but doing her yeerely the honour and comfort of once ontwice visiting her, though otherwise scarce thinking her worthy of life, in regard of her

(22) Oh, what enchantments are Honour and Power to the minds of men! how fodainely, and how firangely doe they blow up the same with the contempt of others, and forgetfulnes of themselues? Certainely the fraile effate of mans constitution is clearelie feene in this high Lord, who drunken with felicitie, and fearing neither God nor man fell into vtter confusion when least hee scared. The probable The manner of manner whereof is worthy the relating. There was Mortimers fur-prife at Nottinin the Castle of Nottingham (and at this day is) a certaine secret way or Minecut through a rocke, vpon which the faid Castle is built, one issue whereof openoth toward the river of Trent, which runnes under it, and the other venteth it felfe farre within vpon the furface, and is (at this prefent) called Mortimers Tilde to Crower hole; through this, the young King well armed, and prinacie with Mortimer, and his many heinous pra-stronglie seconded, was conducted with drawne fwordes, by some his trustic and sworne servants, (among which was that brave Montacute, whom his vertues under this King raifed to the Earledome of Salisbury () vp to the Queenes Chamber, whose dore(fo feareles is blinded affection) was vnfhut, and with her was Mortimer (the kings Master as the ru-mor forcd him) readie to go to bed, whom with the flaughter of a Knight, and one or two that relifted) they laid hold vpon. This was not reputed a slender enterprife, in regard that in Mortimers retinue were not fewer (they fay) then one hundreth and foure-fcore Knights, befides Efquiers and Gentlemen.

(23) The causes for which hee was condemned in open Parliament at Westminster, these ragged *verses following comprehend, which without any dilparagement to their makers judgement, might veric well haue beene in Profe, but for breuitie and change wee haue here inserted them.

Fine heinous crimes against him soone were had, 1 First that he caused the King to yeeld the Scot (To make a peace) townes that were from him got. And therewithall the Charter called Ragman; 2. That of the Scots bee had bribed pring gaine. 3 That through his meanes St. Edward of Carnaruan, In Barckley Castle most traiterously was flaine.

4 That with his Princes mother hee had lain, And finally with polling at his pleasure, Hadrobd the King and Commons of their treasure.

But the most barbarous murther of the kings father, and speciallie the dishonourable peace and contract with the then professed enemies of England, were principallie infifted vpon as hainous treason. He was after sentence ignominioussie drawne to Tyburne, the common place of execution, then called the Elms, and there yoon the common Gallowes was as ignominiouslie executed, hanging (by the kings commandement) two daies and two nights, a publike & gladsome spectacle. There died with him Sir Simon de Bedford Knight, & John Deuerel Esquier, aswell for expiation of the late King Edwards death, as in complement, as it were of to great a mans fall, whose liues doe seldome, or neuer perish single.

gaine most grieuous losses and afflictions, an ordinarie effect of Childrens gouernment, whether Children in age, or in discretion: for the Lord Edward Baliol hearing of King Roberts death, and the tender age of king Edward the first had adjudged the Scotist crown, the Baliel and his English with others passing the water of Erne by a Foord in the night, when the enemy little suspected it.

(25) The flaughter even by his report was miferable: for there were flaine (faith he) the Earles of The greatflaugh-Marre and Carricke, and three thousand of the No-ble, beside Commons. Our * Writers agree that this Foord was passed in the night, but that the fight That Valing. endured from Sunne-riling till three of the Clocke afternoone, and that, besides the Earles of Marre, and Carricke, three other Earles, Menteth, Athol. and Marrey, twelue Barons, eight hundreth knights and men of Armes, belide aboue thirteene thoufand other, loftthere their lines. Of the English there were onelie flaine thirty and three *Efquiers: fo that not without cause this victory was attributed rather to power dinine then humane.

(26) Yet this was but the beginning of farther The Ballot ero calamities to the Scotish Nation, which was in it selfe diuided into factions, the one for Bruce, the other for Baliol. The Lord Edward making vie of his Hell Best, good forrune, got himfelfe to bee crowned King of Goog Bach Scotlandat Scone. But king David Bruce with his Queen fled into France to Philip de Valors, who raigned there, & entertained them with much compaffion and honor, giving them Castle Galliard for the place of their abode, till fairer fortune shone. Meane-time the Seets fulfained new dammages; for a prime man among them, the Lord william Dowglasse, was taken priloner by the English, not without losse of many his men. Before which time by * no honourable meanes the new King of Scotland was driven to feeke Tho. Dull.

his fafety by flight into England. (27) King Edward confidering those foiles which his father had endured, and the oportunity of the time, neither holding himfelfe lyable in honour to that contract made on his behalfe by the predominantsway of his mother and her Paramour Mortimer, as wherein hee tooke both himfelfe, and the rights of his Crowne to have beene wronged in his minority, which in point of government hee was more bound to respect then his Sisters estate. and for that hee was informed that the Towne and Caftle of Bermicke belonged to the Crowne of his Realme; hee raifed his power, and having with him Edward the new-crowned of Scotland, hee laid fiege to that Towne and Castel in May. But before hee did this, there is who writes, that he fummoned his Rich. Grafion:

(24) Now came Scotlands turne about to fuffera-

King Danid as son and heire of that Baliel, to whom with fuch voluntaries as hee could raife (though his Father the Lord John had *released his claime to king Robert, and though King Edward in fauour of his fifter Ioan Queen of Scotland, would not openly ar first Support him) embarkt himselfe in Tarkeshire, and in- Heal. Back. naded that Realme, where, vpon his landing, he flew Alexander Setounat Kingorn, and about nine hundred others, putting the rest to flight. Not long after (that no mischiese might come alone) neere to the water of Ern, at a place called Dupline, where the Earles of Mar and March, with two puissant armies The Palliels two of Scots, for the defence of their yong King Dauid lay encamped, the faid Lord Edward (whole small numbers, not exceeding three thouland English, the Earles as securely and as fatally contemned, as the English under Edward the second had contemned the Bruce and his Scots) obtained of them a wonderfull victorie. Boetius (who neuer, or rarely, leaues any ouerthrow purely to the manhood of the English) will needs have this discomfiture effected by a Camifado,

Chapele Edward III. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 49. | 569 brother in law King Danid to doe homage and fealty onto him, which when Danid would not yeeld to doe, nor confesse hee ought, no more then his father King Robert, hee made that a ground for the iuflice of his warre, as reputing the Acts and releases at Northampton void.

King Edwards

(28) To the rescues of Berwicke, Archimbald Donglas Earle of Angus, Gouernour of Scotland for King Dauid, came with a puissant Army, and gaue King Edward battell at Halydon-hill, where with a lamentable flaughter of his people he was vanqui-flied and flaine. This battell deuoured in a manner all the remainders of the Scottish Nobles which preferued it felfe at Dupline by retrait, or by absence from that field. There * perished besides Archim-bald, the Earles of Ros, Sutherland, and Carricke, three fonnes of the Lord Walter Steward (whose iffue afterward raigned in Scotland, when warre and death had made way to that line, by extirpation of the Male-Competitors in the races of Bruce and Baliel) and at least foureteene thousand others, with the losse (say fome) of one Knight, and ten other Englishmen. Our Writers affirm that the Scots were at this battell, threescore thousand strong, and that there were flaine eight Earles, 1500, horsemen, and of the common Souldiers five and thirty thouland; which is not improbable, for fo much as Hector confesseth they were stopped in their flight, and put to the sword vpon all fides without mercy.

(29) Hercupon Berwicke was randred, which the King of England detained as a fur poied parcell of his Patrimony, and dismissed the Baliol to the gouernment of the Scottifb Kingdome, with fundrie Lords and others of the English. And now the blou-dictallies and cruell scores seemed guen betweene the two puissant(though then vnkind) neighbour-Nations, and Edward throughly redeeemed the dishonour sustained at Banechtourn by his lace father, deliuering his younger yeeres from that contempt, in which his enemies might otherwise haue holden him, as they had done at the entrance of his raign.

Fabian.

* Hell Bort.

(30) As for the fubornation of poisoning Earle Thomas Randal, and the hanging of Sir Alexander Setons two sonnes, contrarie to faith and law of Arms, at Berwicke with the like staiges which * one would faine leave vpon this victorious Prince, wee have found no colour of warrant but his owne liberty of auouching, which therfore our freedome of not beleeuing him shall as easily take away and cancell. Neither would wee so farre have touched this iarring ftring of discord betweene these two Nations, but that each out of their owne harms of old, may have the more true sense of their felicity, by their new harmonicalleoncordance.
(51) After that the* Nobles of Scotland had thereof, and fworne vnto him faith and allegiance at Perth, hee repaired to the King of England at Neweastle vpon Tine, where hee * submitted to Edward King of England, as his Father had done to Edwardthe first, and with the like successe; for by occasion of fuch his submission, our Writers say, the Seots (as before they had done) fell off againe, Which auerlion, or defection was augmented vpon prinate quarrels, and titles of inheritance to lands of great value, betweene powerfull Competitors, and by other particular reuenges, to which a people fo continually exercised in fight and battels were playing vpon the English with Truffes and Rounds; of which this one is every where noted;

Hell.Beet.

Long beards heartleffe, Painted hoods witheffe, Gay coates graceleffe, make England thriftleffe.

vnanimously confirmed Baliol in the kingdome An.D.1333.

not flowlie prone.
(32) Notwithstanding all which (the Balliols party having once had all the Holds of Scotland at their commandement, fine onely excepted, Dumbritaine, Loughleym, Kildrummie, Vrwhart, and the pile of Lowdon) Edward king of England having with him the Balliol, and a fufficient Army, prevailed to much, that there was no appearance of rebellion; whereupon hee tooke backe with him the Lord Edward Balliol late crowned king of Scotland (of whose ftedfaftnes hee was (faith Hetter)alwaies icalous,& returned, leaving * David Ca min Earle of Athol, gouernour for the parts beyond the Scottifb fea, with fufficient force and authority (as was judged) to take in fuch ftrengthes as yet flood out, but needed not his royall power or presence for their expugna-

(33) The King of England hoping now that all The Lord Rober was well there, had newes brought vnto him not long after, at the Parliament at London, that the the Balid.

Scots were out in Armes againe; whereupon hee obtaines aid of money from his Subjects for repretfing their attempts, promiling to goe against them in perion. The Lord Robert Stewart, fonne of the "Hell Sun Lady Mariorie Bruce, daughter of King Robert (vpon whose line the remainder of the Crown of Sestland had beene estated) was the man that first listed vp the head of his Country in this dangerous, fad, and defolate condities though put into action vp-on a private injurie done vnto him by the Earle of Athol)to whom diucrs did adhere, though the quarrel feemed properly to be the faid L. Roberts, for that if the Bruces were cut off, his hopes perished in them, The Earle of & Marray and he were then chosen gouernours for King Davids party, but by reason of the diligence and power of David Earle of Atholy they were notable as yet to congene, or effect any thing against the English : neuerthelesse it was not long before they flew the faid Earle David, At this Parliament the King of England purposed to * goe value. Menis owne charge into the Holy-Land, and to King Edwards fend the Archbishoppe of Canterbury to deale with Philip deValois King of France, for appointing a certaine time, wherein they two with their valted forces, might take their voyage thither, from which the delire of obtaining the Crowne of France, vpon the fore-mentioned title, did quickly divert him. (34) Mean-while, in accomplishment of the Parliaments expectation, King Edward after * Michaelmas marched againe into Seotland with an Armie, and fent his Nauie to the Forth: The Sea-Force wherof spoyled the Coasts on both sides of the Forth, or Scottish Sea, and putting on land in Saint Colms, they spoyled the Abbey; which Sacrilege, * Hect or notes vas senerely punished, the whole Fleete being battered with tempest, and some of the ships perishing.

At another time also the like sacrilege being perpetrated there, (hee faith) that the shippe wherein the vnlawfull prize was, funke fodaincly to the Seaground without any tempest. The King himselfe comming to * Perth, to order the Scottifb affaires, whiles hee abode there, the Earle of Murray one of the Gouernors was taken Prisoner, who was after * deliuered vpon Exchange for the Earle of Namur, (who the Seets by like Art had taken) or as Hector wil the French Stories.

haue it, for the Earle of Salsbury. (35) By the mediation of the French, the Scots had a short truce granted them. But about the end A.D. 1334 of May, the King fent his cofen the Lord Henry, fonne to Henry Earle of Lancaster, with a great Atmy to the aid and service of the Lord Edward Balliol Armie. King of Sestland, which wasted all the Countries about Perth; where, while they lay, the King with a very fmall Company came fodainely vnto them, and from thence pierced farther one way then euer his Grandfather Edward had done, fuffering fire & death(the common furies of warre) to worke vpon all that might suffer destruction to establish a Conquest. Hee marcht vp as farre as * Elgin and Buguhan and in his return to Marre, *burnt the Towne *Adam Merits of Aberden, in revenge for * Sir Thomas Roffelin, a *Heth.Boes, Knight, whom the Townef-men thereof had flaine. The Lord Robert Steward had great landes in those parts, for Murrey and Buquhan were his; which also of Helf. Bost,

The King of England once more with an Armie in Scotland.

Tood New !. Lik te.

feeke the amity of the Emperour Lewis of Bauare, with whom hee made (as by the event was manifelt) but an * vnprofitable confederation, though for the present it seemed to serue his vies with the countenance: more to his advantage were the fingular endenours of some other his private instruments. as chiefly of lames de Artenile, a wealthy Burger of Gaunt, one of a rare dexterity of witte, and so popularly acceptable among the Flemings, that he feemed to fway Flaunders more by far then the Earle thereof, whom they had expelled. By the speciall diligence of this laques van Artenile, and of one * Siger de Courtray a Nobleman of Flanders, there was prepared among the Artizans of those parts (whose chiefe enrichments depended vpon the handling of English wooll, as Cloth-workers, Weauers, and the like a mighty party for the English against the French. This amity with England(as most profitable for the common benefite, and weale of his Country) the faid Ismes most constantly supported to the death.

(42) Meane-while King Edward (the life of this high affaire) proceeded in all things with ripe deliberation and judgement. Therefore to let the Flemings know the want of his triendshippe, hee had for some yeeres before inhibited the transportation the Flemings. mings know the want of his friendshippe, hec had of his Wools; which, and for that the English were

Chap-12 |Edward III. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 49. in a manner become all one with them, by king Edwards marriage with the Lady Philip, not a little advanced the practife of James on his behalfe; which was fped at laft, by occasion of * an ouerthrow giuen to the French-Flemings, who under the conduct of Guy the Bastard of Flanders, brother to the Earle (both of them being wholy French) were placed in the Isle of Cadfant to empeach the arrival of the English, who tooke the said Gay, and slew the most part of his people. This victory was atchieued in the quarrell of the king of England by the Earle of Derbie, the Lord Beauchampe, the Lord Reynald Cobham, the Lord Walter de Manny (an Hennoway) and other of the English Captaines: Of the fame and lucky fortune whereof the faid D' Artewelt, and other of the kings friends, made so wise and seasonable vsc, by letting them see the English were able to protect them, that the Flemings (without any great ftay) became his firme confederates, in presence of the Earle of Gelder at Gaunt, notwithstanding that at the same time the great K. of France, and their own naturall Lord, the Earle, laboured all they could to the contrary.

King Edwards

* Froffard.) Ia Meir. The Walfingh.

(43) But as king Edward was (in the mean space) wholy intent, vpon furnishing himselfe with all convenient things fitte for his warre, (having Captaines and Souldiers, such as his owne noble heart could wish,) so when hee found that the industrious Dutch by their manuall labours, grew to fo great ftrength and opulencie, that their friendshippe bred riualitie in puillant Monarchés, hee, like a father, regarding the publike wealeof his Country, ordained that al Clothworkers, who would repaire hither out of forraine parts, and exercise their trades, should have free accesse and sundry priviledges.By which inuitation as very many were drawne, to was it the principall cause of advancing that honest, best and most beneficiall Trade in the Kingdome, to the great enrichment, strength, and honor thereof. The English Nation was very desirous to set forward this warre, and therefore contributed plentifully, and the King made bold with Lombards, and the moueable goods of fuch Priories in England, as were Cels to Monasteries in France, thereby to make his coffers (44) The warre which all this while seemed but to be talked of did now beginne to blaze (and indeed a blazing starre of 30 dayes continuance, was supposed by some to foreshew it) whose first torch was lighted by the * French at Southampton, which they almost wholy consumed to ashes, but they with loffe of their Captaine, (a yonger sonne to the Sicilian King) and about three hundreth others, *were driuen away the next morrow. The French had fundry shippes of warre or Gallyes, which vnder colour of passing to the Holy-Land, the king of France had(with purpose to affaile our Coasts) affembled, as the*king of England chargeth him:which loffe, yet was not long vnrequited, either Nation griening other with mutuall mischiefes.

Edw.3,and Tood.Neuft Lab.Stow.

The French burne Southams

Tho, VV alf.in Ta literia ficie

An.D. 1338

(45) To appeale and extinguish this deadly quar-rell, there came from Pope Benedict the 12. two Cardinals hither; but one of them in a fpeech to the Clergie, feeming to fauour the French faction; John Archbishoppe of Canterbury, immediately stood vp, and protested, that the Cardinals Arguments were vaine and friuolous: whereupon they foone after departed, and it was every where published through England, that the King had right to the Crown of France, which also hee meant by honourable force to prosecute. Notwithstanding King Edward for avoiding Christian bloud-shed, gaue instructions to the Cardinals, that vpon certaine equal conditions, hee was willing to make an euerlasting peace with the French, & would have beene verie glad (the hazards of warre confidered) to have taken any honest or proportionable offers; one impediment whereof was this , that the French would include the Scots within the

Treatie, whom King Edward would not admit ther-unto, as purposing (when he had singled them from supplies) to make a full and absolute annexation of their obediences to the English scepter: so the labour and hopes of the Cardinals proued vaine. (46) Philip de Valoys in possession King of France, had lundry great and high motitees to embolden his tanger reasons for flanding-off. First, the regard of honour, and profite, and the abundant meanes which he had, having the whole puissance of France (the fairest kingdome under heaven) at his commandement. Then a confidence which hee reasonably conceived so to divert. or diffract the English forces, by the assured aid of the Seats, as that it should finally ruine the whole enterprife, if not also the principall Actor Edward himselfe. Againe, considering the vastnes of the enterprife, hee judged King Edwards wealth not to bee proportionable, but did well hope, that a short dalliance would confume his treasures. Moreover, hee judged perhaps, that the very thought it selfe of conquering France, was no better in Edward then a young mans dreame, confidering the Realm of England was farre inferiour in bignesse, and multitudes of Subjects, and that there was a Sea betweene, the crossing whereof must double the charge. Lastly, for the friends which King Edward had procured in Dutebland with wonderfull largesse, he knew, would not be held together but with infinite cost and expence, and that by some good meanes or other, hee should make them in whole, or in part vnpro-

(47) For inftification of his cause he had no slen-(47) For inftification of his cause he had no slen-der colours, or reasons. As the before alleadged law or softoms of Fence which they call the called law or custome of France, which they call the Saliek, by the which the French exclude * Gyneiocracie, or " Bodinde Rep. by the which the French exclude "Green French the Whomens Government in Chiefe. Then an Act of the whole French State, by which his right was acknowledged and chablished. Thirdly, King Edwards birth place, by which hee feemed to them a stranger, and for that cause was farre the lesse capable, or rather was directly incapable of popular goodwill among the French. Laftly, for that King Edward in the * beginning of his raigne (though when hee was as yet vnderage,) did in his owne person, both doe Anteg 3. his homage to this very Philip de Paloys, as to the king of France, for his Dutchie of Aquitaine, and alfo*by his Letters-Patents vnder seale did testific as much.

This homage, (the more to bee remembred because * fome attribute much of K. Edwards discontent-*Iome attribute much or n. Laparas Cancinent-ment to the hauty manner of Philip in taking the fame) was performed at Amiens in Picardie. I trou-lead King Edward greatly, to see himselfe making France, 18 years. fubmission to the viurper of that Soueraignetie, which hee thought belonged to himselfe, but to let the French see what kind of Prince he was, he came in fo royall maner appointed, as if he meant to have flrucken them with feare or admiration: Earles, Barons, and 1 000, horse hee had in his retinue. At the day, his robe was of crimfon veluet, powdered with golden Leopards, his crowne on his head, a fword by his fide, and golden spurres on his heeles. To receive this Duke for the Dutchie of Guyen and Earledome of Ponthieu, Philip de Valoys sate crowned in violet veluet, femined with golden lillies, with all the other Enlignes of royall maieftie, but the homage was done only by word (if one fay true) and not in that full manner which Serres mentioneth. Probable it is, that the haughty carriage of Philip did Grafism greatly incense the Spirit of King Edward, being one of the most gallant in the world. (48) There is among Writers much time, and labourspent in description of King Edwards iourney, flay and contracts of amity made in Dutchland; but in regard that no greater matter was effected thereby, then the purchase of an opinion of magnificence & nobleneffe among the Queenes Countrymen and Dutch-landers, few lines shall serue to comprehend the narration. The King (having first in Parliament prouided for the gouernance of his Kingdome) with the Queen (then great with Child)

V v v v 2

Bury Welfing. the

Zab.Stow

The French

571

* A.D.1319. Ani

*Fox. 48.0 Mm.p.

The L.Robert Hell Rest. Gee.Buchen.

The matters of land from the former expedition, but the Brucea party (vnder their chiefe leader Andrew Murray) issued from the Loughes, Mountaines, and other their places of retreat and taftneffe, to readuance their cause. King Edward once or twice sent Armies, vnder valiant Generals to support the Baliols possession against their violence, whose si cesse was variable till the death of Murray. After whom the L.

Stewart tooke charge for the Brucean fide, and (vpon the advantage of King Edwards flacknesse, to finish his Scottish affaires, the matter of France so far preponderating it) endeauoured to prepare a quiet entrance for King Danid. The aide of the Lord William Donglas to that purpose was very available, howbeit not alwayes fortunate, being onerthrowne in a fet battell by Sir Thomas Berckley at Blackbourne, hauing there with him King Edwards power. To the vp-shot, and as it were deciding stroke of these late mileries, there arrived great store of munition out of France at fuch time as the Lord Robert Steward hauing lien ten weeks at the fiege of Perth, was almost ready to haue abandoned the same in despaire. Perth being rendred, the Baliol (whose the quarrell was) betooke himself into England having small strength of his owne in the hearts and affections of the Scots,

570

*Notes of record

Creation of Helinbead.

572

Captaines, with a gallant Company of men of war, failed to Antwerpe, whom Lewis the Emperour met at the City of Colein, where amity was confirmed, and King Edward was conflicted his Lieutemed, and king Earwara was constituted his Lieute-nant, with full authority to gouerne in his name on this fide Colein. By reason of which Vicegerencie King Edward* made out his commandements, and did many things to his advantage and profit. Howfocuer it neither lasted long (for Lewis within a while dishonourably reuoked it,) and did vndoubtedlie scarce quit the cost: for the brauery of that meeting was fo exceeding great, as Edward eafily wan the ge neral opinio of a very noble & puissant king.* Polydor writes, that Edward refused not the office, yet would not exercise the same because he would not displease Pope Benedict, whose enemy the Banarian was.

in his power, and therefore ought not to submit himselfe, so much as an other King that was not an-nointed. After his returne to Antwerpe with his

(49) This Emperour (whom belike the Pope The King of hated, for being as proud as himselfe) rooke it ill (as report went) that the King of England humbled not himselfe (at their meeting) to the kisse of his gatiue The Walfes, foot. But it was answered; that the King of England was a King annointed, and had life and member new power, hee seriously prosecuted his affaire of confederation with the Lords and people of Dutchland, among whom(with great loue and fauour) he and his royall family abode aboue an whole yeere The principall Nobles which entred into this league against the French were these. The Archbishoppe of Colein Prince Elector; The Duke of Brabant; The Duke Coccin Frince Lectury, The Dunce of Braduary, The Dunce of Gelderland, (who hadmarrica the Lady Ifabel King Edwards owne fifter, and about this feafon was of an Earle created a Dunce; The Marquesse of Gulick, Gr.c. And finally, the Hanse townes.

(50) The Flemings, being the most necessary part of this affociation, in regard of their neerenes to the An.D.1338. French, would not engage themselves in an offensive The first quarte warre against the Crowne of France, vnlesse King Eding of the ward would first assume the Title and Armories of that Realme, as the onely lawfull King therof. This of Manner. Proposition was throughly debated and the law of Armes allowing it, hee with the common affent of Tpod. New P. the Flemings and others, tooke the Stile, and quartered the Flower de Lize with the Leopards, or Lions of England, as here we fee annexed; albeit wee fee his former Seale also adorned with two Lize or Lillies: whether in token of his mothers French descent, or as a couert note of his own right to the Frenchcrown it is vncertaine.

(51) Polydor * Virgil must have a warie and favourable Reader, or hee will beethought to bee of opinion, that William the Conqueror bare his Leopards quartered, then which nothing is more vntrue, nor more vnlikely. Others againe may suppose, that we have not here described them according to their right bearing, as certainly according to their present bearing wee haue not; but the truth is, the golden Lillies of France, which now are borne in triangle. were in those dayes born, and advanced Semi.

(52) And whereas the Armories of France are placed here in the dexter and more honorable quarter, yet there are probabilities, that it was not fo at France at the this their first conjunction. For in the Seale of Queen Isabel (this King Edwards mother) the Armories of Sin Ribert Letten

If abel (this King Edwards mother) the Armories of lath inch a feale

of O. Utable

Armories of the husbands line

of O. Utable

Armories of the husbands line

of O. Utable

Armories of the husbands line

of O. Utable (and therefore to have precedence) were marshalled where now the Flower de Luces shine. But whether to gratifie the French, or because that was the more

> Kings raignedisposed as here we see. (53) When King Edward had thus affumed the Title and Armes of that Realme, hee published the fame vnder his seale, setting the name of England first, and sent his Letters Patents to the frontiers of the cnemies Dominions, fixing them younthe dores of Churches, aswell to declare the right and reason of his doings, as to exempt fuch from the danger of the comming storme, who vpon this notice would ancient and greater Monarchie, they were in this acknowledgehim their Lord and rightfull Soucraigne. These proclamations or admonishments thus disulged, he burnt and spoiled the North parts of France vp as farre as * Turwin, though the time of the yeere were very vnfeafonable, and contenting *AdamMerim himselfe therewith for a beginning, gaue place to the sharpenesse of Winter, returning to the Queen his wife at Antwerpe where hee kept a roiall Christmas. In which Citythis yeere was Lionel (afterward Duke of Clarence) borne.

(54) His affaires growing ripe in those parts, he leaves his Queene and Children in Brahant, as an asfured pledge of his returne, and about Candlemas fured pledge of his returne, and about candemas hippes himselfs for England, where in a Parliament in Programment in the Companies of the Control of the Con Farmers and Accountants till the tenth yeer of his Raigne, and all old debts due to any of his Pre-decessors. Finally, hee confirmed that famous Magna Charta, and of the Forest with Some other.

(55) There was no talke now but of conquering France; Musters taken throughout the Kingdom, Armourers and trades of warre(to be cherished even in the securest peace) were full of employment, and the desire of battell waxt feruent euery where.

Chap-12 |Edward III ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 49. 1

Meane while to hold the world in suspense of the successe, God distributed the fortune of attempts diversly. Burdeaux (the capitall City of Aquitaine, and then English) gaue an excellent testimony of her loyalty, nor lesse of martiall witte and valour. For the French Armie comming before her, she to abuse their hope, set open her gates, and displayed vpon her Towers the golden Lillies, as if shee were theirs; but the French which securely entred found little good hospitality. Sir Oliver de Ingham was Captain and Lord Warden there for King Edward, who with his Garrifon-Souldiers, and aide of the inhabitants, flew of them great multitudes, and preferred Burdeaux. But in the opposite parts, william Montacute Earle of Salisbury, and Robert Vfford Earle of Suffolke,* after many honourable decdes performed for aduancement of King Edwards affaire, were by the French taken Prisoners, while presuming too much vpon their courages and fortune, they * ran too far into their danger, at the Towne of Lile in

The Walf.

(56) But King Edward being ready now to repassers Seas, had certaine intelligence that the French lay in wairabout Sluice in Flanders, to inretrient, in with a night, Nation 400, hippes, who therefore, prepared accordingly, intending to open his way by force. He fet faile from Harried you Saint khom Baptilis Bear, toward the Coast where his enemies attended, strengthning himselfe with the Northerne Nauie of England, which the L Robert Morley brought vnto him, fo as hee had in all about two or three hundreth faile. His battels having the advantages of windes and funne, hee fet on the French with incredible furie and force, in the very mouth of the Hauen of Sluice vpon Midfommer day, where begannea most bloudy and ter-rible fight, the end whereof set the Garland vpon King Edwards head. Himselfe was * wounded in that fight, and loft * foure valiant Knights (Montbermer, Latimer, Boteler', Popnings) with fundries other of his English slaine therein, Butthe slaugh ters of the French party were lamentable, for thirty thouland are confelled to have perished not halfe of their shippes escaped vntaken or vnsuncke. A greater glory then this, the English are scarse found to have atchieued at any battell at sca.

(57) The Crowne of France seemed already to bee placed vpon King Edwards Temples, fo much was attributed to this great victory, but fuch a Con-queft was not the worke, of one day. Which King Edward well understanding; refreshed his victori-ous Armie, and upon thing if with his Confeeds rates forces (which repaired to him on all sides) matrates forces, when repaired to find on a fide's final-ched forth, hauing one of the most puillanc highs that euer any King of England led, as wherein were neere an hundreth thousand Souldiers English, and Dutch. Hee had also in his Company the Dukes of Brabant and Gelder, and many other potent mem bers of the Empire, and (as * some write) the imperiall Eagles displayed in the head of his Armie.as hee that was Vicegerent of the facred Roman Empire. In this wife hee approached the Northerlie parts of France, where exposing all to spoile & fire, he fare downe with his whole Forces about Turney, meaning to take in the same, aswell to bee a seate of meaning to take in the lame, anyel to be a leate of Warre, as place of fure retreat and refuge. (58) Philip, though inftly gricued with his wofull loffe fullained at Sea, yet to encounter, and crash so great an cuill in the first approaches therefore. of, had provided such an Armie, as beseemed the Maiestie and greatnesse of that renowned Kingdom. Writers speake of an hundreth thousand fighting menassembled under his command, and that befides Princes, Dukes, Earles, and other illustrious Persons, there was the valiant old King of Bohemia, and *Lewis king of Nasarre. K.Edward hearing the fame, drew forth his people into the open field with purpose to giue battell:

(19) It may seeme a thing greatly tending to

King Edwards glory, to remember the * offer which the what hee fent to King Philip before hee laid his fiege to Transp. In which without faluting him by any o-ther title then of Philip of Valey, hee challengeth him, for avoiding the effution of Christian bloud, to fight with him hand to hand in fingle battell; or (if that milliked) then each to bring an hundreth to the field, and trie the event with fo (mall an hazard) or otherwife, within ten dayes to joyne full battell with all their forces neere to Turney. Whereunto Philip made no direct answere, neither with his honour could, alledging that the letters were not fent to him, the King of France, but barely to Philip of Valote. Neuerthelesse, hee gaue him to vnderstand, that his meaning was to beat him out of France, hauing hope in Christ (from whom hee derived his power)loto doe.

(60) The honour of the warre in those ages cannot bee enough commended, in which the noble old formes of hostility were put in practife, by defiances, Heraldes, and publike affignations of day and place of fight, and not by skulking surprises and vnder-hand stealthes, more neerely resembling high-way robberies, then lawfull battell,

(61) Thefetwo huge hoafts (which had they beene vnited for the good of Christendome, might haue worthily made the Turke looke pale) being now in fight, and the cloud of warre ready in a manner to diffolue it felfe into showers of bloud doe neuerthelesse without one stroke fall off, and returne to their fenerall Countries, not without the wonder and reioicement of peaceable men, but not of the English and German Souldiers, who propounded to themselues death with glory, or riches by Conquest and victory, who now had scarse their

(62) It is not meet that the name of that person who did performe to bleffed an office, should bee concealed. It was a woman of honour (but at that time a professed * Nunne in the Abbey of Fontenels) the Lady Inne of Valoys, fifter to this Philip, widdow of William late Earle of Hennult, and mother to King Edwards wife; her charitable endeauors were ftrong ly holpen by * two Cardinals, who follicited peace together with her. Great interest of mediation she had in either respect, here a brother, there a sonne in law, and shee sailed not to plie them both. The Truce was concluded; the rather for that King Philip was aduised from all parts, not to set his whole fortunes youn the Die and chance of a Battell. And Torunes you the Die and chain crow a batten. And Edward (on the other field) meaning nothing lefte, then not to haue profecuted the war you the en-couragement of his late Sea-victorie, was fo defit-tute of money through the fault of fits Officers in England, as heewas the fooner drawne, if not enforced to embrace to honest a colour of returning from the fiege of Turney; which neverthelesse did but deferre the miseries of France, not determine them: & whereas that glory, which the vpper hand in this journey would have brought, could not have beene pure and meere vnto him, because the Dutch (whose aide hee vsed)would have claimed no small

The chiefe Articles of the truce were; That it should endure till Midsommer day then Thechiefpoint next enfuing, and that the Prisoners should be fer of the Truce, at liberty without any ransome on both sides, vpon condition to render themselves againe, or pay their fenerall ransomes, if peace were not in the meane time concluded. By vertue of this treaty and truce, the Earles of Salisbury and Suffolke were delinered.

Here it troubled our *VV alfingham, that King Edward should bee left so destitute, and needy by the anarice or fraud of his officers at home, as for that respect to give oper so faire an oportunity, by which hee might as it were by a continued line, and by infifting and preffing youn the steppes of his late sucthare therein, the English Cheualrie onely had the name and burthen of such great Acts as after fol-

74		ESSION OF Monarch 49.	,			Chap.12	Edward II J. ENGLANDS N	1ONARCHS. Monarch 49.	575
1	ceffe haue happily proceeded, when as yet his friends were vacorrupted, and in prefence; and therefore	"full by putting it to any arbitration. That it could not but bee admired, why he should now enter a	1	į.			&c. That their kinimen are in Wales and Cornwall)	his courage know him worthic of fuch a fonne,)	1
j	bemones the vn worthinesse thereof towards so wor-	"mitie with Philip de Valoys the wrong-doer, fith, ha-	Adam, Merim.				was become the field of Mars and martiall furies.	brake irefullie forth into these words. Though	1
	thy a Prince, adding; "That if in very deed they had	"uing scene his apparent right, hee had entred with	in Edw. 3.	l .		- 1	But the powers of those two mightie Kings being	Lewis take the French kings part, I will fight with
- 1	scanned and exactly weighed with themselves the Acts	"him into league against the said Philip: That it was				1	vpon point, before the City of Nants in high Bri-	them both. And whither he were innited with the
l	of all the English Kings past from the very first Mo-	"alfo agreed, that he might conclude any tempora-					taine, to cut out their divers shares in fortunes Patri-	fame of King Arthurs Table, and the Knights ad-	A.D. 17
1,	narch, they would not have found that ever this Iland	"rie Truce(though not a finall accord) without his	1				mony, with the edge of the fword, loe againe God	uenterous thereof, or for that he knew honourable	1
- 1	brought forth a Prince of Juch excellency at 6 * vmipe-	"confent, if need should be, as in this case at Turney				1	inclined their hearts (as if he would faine haue done	Company and exercise in Armes, to be the naturall	"Tpod.Nen
ENT.	ned yeeres.	"investigation of the calculation ļ	l		1	nothing but flew his vengeance in the (cabbard) by	parents of excellent fouldiers, it is agreed, that he e-	* }*******
- 1	(64) King Edward greatly discontented with	"it was, That this renocation feemed to bee made	Ì	1		1	the carefull diligence of two Cardinals, to accept of	rected a building at his Castle of Windfore, which
ntof	fuch of his officers, through whose default he was	"fomewhatabortiuely, for fo much as the Imperia-		1		1	a truce, which was concluded fanuary the 19. at the	Chould be called the Paum of the sub of sismumber
at had	thus in a manner constrained to let slip the present	"lifts had promifed the Vicar-shippe should stand	i.	1		1 .	Priory of Malestret, vpon fundry points, whereof	rence was fixe hundred foot, where Knights and	Round Ta
e King	profession of the design of the present	"good till hee had conquered France, or the greater		1		i	these (as to the purpose of our Story) are the prin-	men of warre should have their entertainement of	rected for füre.	profecution of his designe, returned with his Queen	"portion thereof. Dated thus; Londini, Anno		ł			cipall.	dier, at his charge by one hundred pounds by the	at at the s
1	into England, to take revenge of their mildemeanors,	regninostri Francia, 2. Regni verò nostri Anglia, 15.	"Y pod. Neuft.	i		1	(71) That the two Kings of England and France	weeke, though afterward through occasion of his	ĺ
burie.	where hee committed * some to prison, put others	But Lewis of Bauar to Edward thus * inconstant, and		l			should fend certaine of their blood royall to the	warres he abated that fum to twenty pounds weeke-	1
	from their places, and so bestirred himselfe, that by	faith-breaking, continued toward Philip stedfast,		1			Court of Rome (by a day certaine) there to argue	ly. In emulation whereof, Philip de Valoys (know-	1
- 1	occasion thereof much displeasure grew betweene	without either amending Philips fortunes thereby,	i	1			their feuerall titles, and rights to the French Monar-	ing that all this tended but to preparations against	1
- 1	the King and Iohn Archbishoppe of Canterbury, who complained of manifest violences done against the Li-	or himselfe increasing in Iustice or honestie, that it	1	i		# How was be in.	chy, not as before a Inage, but as a friend * indifferent	him,) erceted the like in his Court, to invite the	ł
-	complained of manifest violences done against the Li-	might eatily bee seene hee was endued with qua-	1	l		# How was he in- different, who interdicted Flan-		mm,) erected the like in his Court, to induce the
- 1	berties of the Church and English Nation, comprehended	lities, which ill became the Imperial height.				interdicted Flan-	to both, and that the King of Scots, and the Earle	Knights and men at Armes of Almain and of Italie	1 in Magna Charta. And whereas the King did open-	(68) You have heard a part of great king Filmerde			9	ders for fiding with Edward?	of Henault, should likewise send to give their assent	from repairing to King Edward. One thing Philip	1
- 1	ly charge the Archbishoppe to haue beene a prin-	victorious fortunes in battell, both by land and fea.	ceffione required			MAN SHARING	for so much as concerned them.	did shrewdly and politickly, in giving leave to his	1
- 1	cipall perswader of his entring into league with the	bee not ignorant of his Pietie (the foueraigne orna-	ceffions required of the Bifhops	1		1	(72) That eithers friends, adherents, and sequels,	subjects to fell downe his woods freely for building	i
- 1	Almaines against the French, willing him to take no	ment and latery of Soueraione Princes I whereof in	by the King.	1			should be comprehended in the truce, and that the	of Ships, whereby his Nauie was greatly augmen-	1
- 1	care for treasure, because himselfe would see him abundantly surnished from England, out of the leuie of gran-	one act of his wee will tender unto you in the file of	1	1		1	truce should extend it selfe to the titlers in Britaine	ted, and the rather wrought much mischiese after-	1
- 1	dantly furnished from England , out of the leuie of oran-	that age an Effay and tafte. He having a purpose to	1			1	and their fides; and that the Cardinals should doe	ward. About this time one of the chiefe starres in	1
- 1	ted Subsidies, and profits of the Crown: and that through	pursue his enterprise for France, after sundry Chri-		1			their best to obtaine absolution from the sentence of	the firmament of the English Cheualry fell into the	1
j	defect of the Archbishoppes performance, hee was	ftian and holy confiderations of Gods judgements,		1			Interdict executed vpon the Countrey of Flaun-	Graue, William Montacute King of Man, and marshall	1.
- 1	not onely contrained to give over his hold for the	and of his owne effate and rightfull cause, he turnes	1	}			ders.	of England of * whose noble acts to write worthilie	"Tood D
- 1	present, but also to embogge himselfe in the Bankers	bis forces his Difference in 1 C]			(73) That the truce should continue for three	were a commendable matter.	1
- 1	and Viurers bookes, the Archbishoppe thereunto	his speech to his Bishoppes in these words. Cum "igitur constitutisitis, & Seeing therefore you are	1	1			yeeres; that prisoners or moueables taken on either	(77) But the French King, perceiuing that a terri-	-
. 1	made answere: That hee desired in open Parliament it	igitur confittuititis, &c. Seeing therefore you are		1		l l	fide (hould be mutually discharged; that traffique	ble tempest was likely to fall vpon him from forth of	1 hop	might appeare, through whose default the City of Tour-	"ordained of God on the behalfe of men, that you	1	1		i	and paffages should bee open; and that all other	England, waxed cruell in his icalousie, and * put sun-	*Serres
ie •	nay was not taken, and directly laid the whole blame from	"fhould offer gifts and facrifices for finne, liften wee	1	1		A.D. 1342		dry principall men of Normandy, Picardy, and Guien
٠ ١	him Gle I C	"befeech you to the premisses, and not to our on-	l .				truce made: which being fairely engroffed in an * In-	to death, for no other crime, but that they were	:1
- 1	bimselfe and from his, upon such as were dayly Courtiers,	"ly, but to the publike dangers, powring forth	1			* The VV alfin. Hardeng,	ftrument, two great Peeres of each part, took oathes	English in affection; among whom are reckoned Sir	-1
- 1	(whom walfingham cale Angliciregy, Englishmen for	"prayers to the molt high for our happy fucceffe.	1	i		marang,	vpon perili of the foules of their Kings, to observe	Oliver de Cliffon * Recen Perfe and Genfrey of Male
- 1	the King) who serving their owne turnes with the gene-	" Supplying the place of Moses, so that wee and ours	1	i			the contents fincerely.	Oliner de Clisson, * Bacco, Persie, and Geoffrey of Male- fireiet Knights of the best note; Sir Godfrey of Hare-	*Polyd.
- 1	rall abuse, would expose him, and his vniustly to the enuy	"may prevaile against adversaries, in the lifting of		1		1	(74) The possession of the City of Fanner in	court brother to the Earle of Harcourt being also	1
- 1	of their fact. Yea, some there are, who, more then so,	"your hands to heaven; and that God would bee	1	0.1			to C. Print in the Emplifymen Gillians the Gold	fummoned to Paris, appeared in England, whither
- 1	will have the Archbishop seeme to practise against	"the rather pleased to enlarge his fanour rowards					bale Brittain, the Englishmen still kept, that(if setled	he fled, and became a special firebrand in the ap-	1
- 1	the kings farther good fortunes in France; which, if	"vs,(the number of Interceffors being multiplied,)	1	1			peace followed not vpon this truce) they might	he ned, and became a speciali mediand in the ap-	1
- 1	it be true, it is no hard matter to find out the prin-	"Caule preachings and proceffion and other offices	1	ł			haue some hold and certaine footing-place, from	proaching combustion.	1
- 1	cipall motiue thereunto.	" of appealing his displeasure, to be mercifully exer-	1 .	1			whence to make head againe, and march into the	(78) It was not Pope Clements mediation, or di- ligence in discussing the Titles and Pretences of these two puissant Monarkes, which could preuent	King Ed
. 1	(65) For certainely the Pope (Benedict 12,) was	"cifed through our Cities and Diocesses, that the	,	l			heart of France. In this warre Robert de Artois	ligence in discussing the Titles and Pretences of	clares th
12-	nothing pleafed with the fucceffes of Edward, at least	"God of mercies would extend ouer vs, and our Ar-	1	1		ł	Earle of Richmond, a principall inftigatour of King	these two puissant Monarkes, which could preuent	ken.
:r	wife with the war it felfe, as pretending it was perni-	"mies the hand of his Benediction, and so direct our	l	1		1	Edward, died of a wound, and Iohn of Montford did	the fatall punishment of France, yet according to the	:1
the	cious to Christendomesthe blame wherof the French	"Acts in his good pleasure, that they may redound		1.		. 1	not long ouer-live this truce, after whose death most	Articles of the treatise at Malestroics, either Prince	:
- 1	charged vpon the Englifb, as vnlawfully claiming,	to his glory and our profite, and to the commodi-	1	1		* Falian.	part of Britaine came into the hands of * Charles of	fent his particular Orators, where the difficulties	s
- 1	as the English did vpon the French for vnlawfully	Second arise of all any fairle full Call Commodi-	1	i '			Blois,	rose so thicke and intricate, as Clement * dispairing to	Polyd.
- 1	detaining. This Pope therefore interposeth him-	"ty and quiet of all our faithfull Subjects. This ô	1	l		An.D. 134	(75) King Edward returning home after the	cleare them, put ouer their farther view till another	rl
2.	Colfo and mark The Journal of the Life of the Lorine	Edward, was indeed to beginneat the right end; for		!		A.reg. 17.	Truce, neglected not his domesticke affaires, but en-	time. But King Edward affirming the truce to be ma-	- 1
	felfe, and puts * Flanders vnder Interdict, as having	euen the Heathen taught, * to beginne with God, and	* Ab Ion e princi-	l			acted the Statute of Provisors, vpon this occasion.	nifeftly broken, * by the beheading & perfecuting of	flore .
	difloyally left their own Earle, and their chiefe Lord	euen the Heathen taught, * to beginne with God, and thy following fuccesses declared that thy prayers	pium.	1		Prouifors.	Pope Benedict being dead, Clement the 6, succeeded;	his friends in Normandy & elfwhere, fignifies fo much	h , r
ì	Philip, King of France, contrarie to their Oath and	were acceptable.		Į		-Platina.	a man of *fingular learning, but *extreemely profuse	to the Pope, that Battel and not Parlance should de-	-1
!	Allegiance; but they for their defence and inftifica-	(69) And now once agains the French and Eng-	1	I		*T be. Walf.	in giuing, who, by way of Provision, had bestowed	remine his right and ritle: His promitions of men.	ı. I
. 1	tion answered, that Edward was the onely lawfull	uh powers were at point to tric their forming by	I	1			fundry choice Benefices in England vpon Forrei-	of ships, of weapon, of victuals, of treasure, of al	úl
.	King of France, and Philip (to whom they had Iworn)	battell, vpon fiding with others Claimes as erft they		1			ners. For preuention whereof (as of athing which	things, needfull to so braue and daring an enterprize
- 1	a meere vsurper, and therefore notwithstanding that	had done for their owne. The quarrell was founded	1			1	the King and Peeres would not endure,) it was made	were worthy of the greatnesse, courage, strength, ri	61
- 1	Interdict, or the Papall decision of the controuersie,	vpon a title to the Dutchie of little Britaine. Arthur		. 💲		Treafon to brig	high Treason by law, for any to bring such Papall pro-	ches, and maiesty of a King of England. Into Gas-	cl they perfifted still in their adherence.	Duke thereof had two wines: by Reatric his first				in any Papall	mgn treaton by law, for any to oring such Papali pro-	coigne he fends that valiant great Lord Henry of Lan-ip of	(66) But the more to draine and weaken the	wife, her had two former toler of resugged Dules a	1			Prouifions.	uisions into the Kingdome. And for instification	- de Gorde of Darke with anallant company of	F ra- ra-	mighty streame of the English supportations, Lewis	Guy; and by Iolant his second wife, he had Iolin of						eafter, Earle of Derby, with a gallant company of leaders and troups of fouldiers, where he atchieuce	äl
ung	of Bassar the Emperour fodainely (by fuch practifes	Montfort, Duke John living without Iffue, affured		1		Ward 3.		leaders and troups of founders, where he attituded	41
42.	as were vied on behalfe of the French) recalled his	to /ane (daughter of his brother Graniba diad ha		•			moue admiration, but aftonishment; and indeed	many great things, for the defence and enlargemen of that Dutchie, taking Cities, Cassles and Towne	11
	Vicar-shippe or delegation, which hee had made to	fore him) the Ducall Crowne of livele and in		1		Edward creat	ed this pruned age affords few so graue and solide. In	of that Dutchie, taking Cities, Carries and I owne	15
ı	Edward, to exercise imperial power in lower Germa-	fore him) the Ducall Crowne of little Britaine: vp- on which entaile, Charles of Bloys (Nephew to Philip		1		Prince of Wale	which Parliament also the Lord Edward, the Kings	of which lake the French Kings eldelt lonne recour	:-1 wie, offering his best helpe notwithstanding, (as ha-	King of France) marrieth the Lader to Philip		I		1	eldeft sonne, was created Prince of Wales. He was	red divers not long atter; and discombited the end	* 1
	uing power from Philip to that purpole,) to procure			ı		1	fo renowned a Gentleman, (why doe we say he was,	red divers not long after; and discomfitted the ene my in battell. The Scots artempting against the	e him honorable conditions as a Mediator betweene			1			as if he could at any time cease to be, whom fame	West Marches of England, by the vigilancy and pro) -
1	them The presence of his falling from Vine P	full possession: but Duke tohn being once dead, tohn	1			1	harb made immorrall?) that the high praise before	wolfe of fuch as were in trust for those parts. as the	el
- 1	them. The pretence of his falling from King Edward,	of Montfort raileth warre as the furning heire male.		i i		Wal for	given by Walfingham to his father as * excelling all the	Bishop of Carlil, the Lords Percie, Neuile, and Lucle	6
1	and concluding amitie with his enemie, was for that	Philip King of France tooke part with Charles of Plais				1	Prince which went before him, may be paralelled in the	very valiant gentlemen, were forced to * retire into	O Tool.
1	King Edward without his privitie, had confented to	and Edward king of England with the Lord John of				i i	Sonne, as surpassing in martiall deeds, all the Princes	Scatland It was the practife of either Prince to di	i-
. 1	a Truce at the City of Tourney with Philip.	Montfort.		1	1	1	that haue liued after him.	nort and diffract eithers puillance, we Philips in Gal	( -1
de	(67) To these renocatorie lines King Edward	(70) Great and bloudie mischiefes sprang out of		'		1	(76) His noble father King Edward (who had	legione and hee ours, by his perpetuall, and conitan	181 rour.	" made this wife and noble answere; That the Em-	their firongly improrted factions, which had now				1	(70) Fits noble father King Edward (Who had	confederates, the Scots. Our Edward notwithftan	n-1
	"perours zeale to make attonement hee could not	drawne king Edward thither in person; and little Bris	A kind of VP alez	l		1	ftill his eie fixed vpon France as the marke of his	ding could doe it the leffe, for that his conflar	nel
- 1	"but greatly commend, withing, that at the instance	lathe (which may well in a fort hee called water in	in France.			1	Conquest) having notice among other things, by a	friend I aques van Arteweld (who was become as	ir
1	"offo potent a Mediator, an honourable Peace (if	France, the Britane chieffy the Britant Protessing)		1	messenger from the Pope, that Lewis of Bassar had	mend laques van Arteweia (who was become as	ne
1	"that were possible) might bee made; but his Title	ruder Britons, declaring at this present by their lan-		l		1	whollie submitted himselfe, and was fully absoluted	were the popular Tribune of Flanders) was * flair	ne "face-
	"being cleare enough, he meant not to make doubt-	guage, and fundry locali Names, as Lanion, Triguier,		ł		1	from all censures, with confirmation vnto him of	in a mutiny by fuch as were of the French faction.
- 1	5 Golden and a control of the	guage, and fundry local Names, as Lamon, Triguier,	1 1			1	the Imperial diademe : the King, (that you may by	(79) Edward not being able to recall his flair	,,e

Saile. No man is faid to know whether he bent his them to fland. We professe that the nature of our course, so well he could trust himselfe, and so wisely undertakings will not brooke descriptions at large a King Edward in France with bloody colours. free his Councels from the possibility of discoucrie. you shall haucit as we may, that is, as remembring; He went not to warre by rote, but by book; wifdome that innumerable great atcheiuemenrs reft behind. was Herbenger and marshall of his valour; who shall fomewhat impatiently attending their relation. The English painted fay he knew not how to conquer? It was not long (87) Therefore, the holy name of God first ritely but he came to anchor in the Hauen of Hogy Saint innocated, King Edward, without shewing the least Vaft, in Constantine, a great cape of land or penile in Normandy. His*land forces did muster twenty and figne of perturbation, but full of an Heroick affurednesse, had ordered his people in three battels, with their wings and fuccours. The Vaward dispofive hundred horse, and thirty thousand foote, most fed into the forme of an Hearle, where the Archers of which were Archers. The lights, and glories of his Armie, were the Prince of wales (then about fixflood in front, and the men of armes in the bottome teene yeers old, who was then by his father knightwas under the yong Lyon of Wales, Prince Edward ed)many braue Earles, Lords, Knights, and expert and with him many of the prime and fagest Captaines: Beauchamp Earle of warwick, Godfrey of Hare. Cheifs, the English going cheerefullie, as having gotten such a King as answered their warlike dispositions. The Earle of Huntington had charge of his court, The Lords Stafford, Laware, Bourchier, Clifford, Cobham, Holland, &c. In the second battell were, The Earles of Northampton, and Arundell; the Lords, Ross, Willoughby, Basset, Saint Albine, Multon, Gre. The third and last battell was commanded in cheise by Nauy : himfelfe takes & were revenge for the blood of his friends upon the Norman Townes and people, protesting he facrificed them * to Cliffon, Baro, Percie, and the reft. Their heads were fet vpon the chiefe King Edward himselfe, with the residue of his No-Gate of Carentine, for which cause hee slew all that bles and people. In every one of these battels, becould be found therein, and turning the whole town fide the wings, were a just proportion of men at armes and Archers, but nothing so thinne and few into Cinders gaue it to their funerall. He tooke the populous and rich City of Caen, & with his dreadfull hoft burning and spoiling round about, marched vp as some of our * writers alledge, who mention not aboue 9000, all together, who were at least thrice almost as farre as the very walles of Paris, brauing as many in their whole numbers, and not without King Philip to neerc.
(74) Who had not flept all this while, but was * purueied of one of the fulleflarmies which euer (88) King Edward closed his battels at their back, (as if he meant to barricado them from flying,) by were seene in France. King Edwards people rich with felling and plashing of Trees, placing his carriage spoile seemed not vnwilling to return. They were now there and other impediments whatfoeuer, having in the enemies Country between the two good rivers of sein and some, for they had passed the sein at Poisse, commanded * all men to put from them their horses, which were left among the carriages. Thus all whose Bridge (as all other betweene Rose and Paris) waies of fafety by flight being preuented, the necel-fity did vndoubtedly double their courages. Thus had beene broken downe by the French, and now (notwithstanding any opposition) in a short space placed to the best advantage, King Edward visiteth repaired. It was thought fit to feeke pallage out of their ftraights, which could not be by Bridges, for they were broken by the French. This search the ranckes in person, riding upon a pleasant * Hob-by, (hauing onely a white rod in his hand, as if hee would chaftise fortune,) betweene the two marshals for paffage, was by the enemy interpreted a kind of of his field; whose very presence, with a few seaso-nable and vnenforced words on behalfe of God and flight, and Edward could not but be willing to nourish their temerity, to draw them on securely to de-firuction by such a seeming searc. his right, in fleed of long Orations, did inspire the (85) The river of Some, betweene Abeuille and the Sea, at a low water bath a paffable and grauellie (89) Our writers describe not vnto vs the quality foord, knowne by the name of Blanch Taque; this or face of the gound of Crefey where this battel was was discouered to him by one Gobena prisoner. But determined (though verie much doth depend vpon choise of place,) neither the exact figures, or severall the French King (best acquainted in his owne Countrey)to empeach this paffage, had before sent thether numbers of euery feuerall battel, their distances, a Norman Baron of special note, one Godmar du Foy, and a 1000 thousand horse with at least 6000 foot; wings or other warlike formes, nor finally what Pallifado, trench, or other denife was in this or that quarter vsed, to keepe-off and breake the furious but Edward, (whom as obstacles made impetuous, fo nothing could dismay,) enters himselfe into the charge of men of Armes, beforethey came at the Archers, principall workemen at this bloody iour-Foord, *crying, He that loves me let him follow me, as ncy. But thus lamely are things commended to Posteone that resoluted either to passe, or die. Who can tell the efficacy of fuch a Generals spirit, but they, who have had the happinesse to follow under the rity, where the Actors themselnes take no careto see the particulars orderly and according to the truth delineated; but either are vnlearned, or give themconduct? The paffage wan, and Du Foy defeated in feluesto the bodily fruition of their passed trauels, a manner, before he was almost fought with, (the incomparable courage of his enemies appalling him,) rather then to exercise their minds in profiting he brought to King Philip fewer by a paire of thouthemselves and others by such relations as are made fands, then he carried forth, besides terrour, and an with life and art. This we find, that the place of euill figne of that which followed. The English, the Englishmens battels was the Towne of Crescie, and Forest, and therefore apt with small labour to be who knew not what it meant to run away, but were made inaccessible, or at leastwife difficult for horse before resolued to line & die with such a Souereigne. had reason now much more to resolue the same, to enter vpon; that also the English battels were marshalled to the most advantage for giving succour one vnto the other; and that there were * Shields (86) King Edward was neere to Crefcie in the County Ponthies, lying betweene the rivers of Some or Pauises to shelter our Archers from the Genoand Anthy (which viquestionably belonged vito him in right of his mother,) there most vigilantly prouides he for his defence. King Philip, fet on fire with this difafter, precipitates to battell for accom-(90) By this time King Philip (whose countenance is * faid to have changed thereat,) was in fight plishment of Godsanger against France; being the of the English. Hee had with him the two Kings of Boheme and Maiorea, and almost innumerable other rather drawne, by the varuly vanity of his huge great Princes, Dukes, Earles, Barons and Gentlemen multitudes, (for by what other words doe * an hun-Serves Faich bus dred or fix-score thousand men deserue to bee calof inferior marke bearing armes; nor those onlie ed?) who never left ouer-taking one the other, French, but very many of them Almains and Dutch, left you should suppose, he had drawneaway Lewis rill the view of the English banners and battels put reill ard.

Chap. 12. Edward, IIJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 49.

Serres

577

(95) Therefore King Edward himselfe was sent vnto, whose battel houered like a tempest in a cloud, resident o aide ouerwhich, vpon the hillocke of a Windmill, with Prince. his helmet on, (which neuer came off till all was done) he indiciously watcht, beholding the whole field, and ready to enter into the conflict when just necessity should inuite. You shall heare a most noble answere: The messenger dispatched from the Earle of Northempto, and others, vpon a render repect to their young Princes fafety, having declared to the King, that the Lords required his presence, for that his sonne was in danger, the bad him return and fay; Let them fend no more to mee for any adven-

hee brought not men to their fuccours, hee brought such accession of courage and spirite, as hee that should say that King Edward failed them at their neede, should neither vnderstand what belongs to magnanimitie, nor the effect of such a checke from so excellent a Generall: of note a current rules to executive who neutriheleste, was maturely watchfull our the good of his childe and people : on the other side King Philip (whose quarted it was) did not forsake the duery of a noble Childe: personaure personaure in the contract of the contract but fo long contended in his owne person, till his greedescapes b horse was * slaine vnder him with arrowes, himselfe "Sorre. horse was *slaine vinder nim with allowes, miniment *twice dismounted, and wounded both in the necke *Tyod.News. Adam Merin and thigh: but then the Lord Iohn of Henault, Earle

Chap-12 Edward III. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 49. 1 of Beaumont, (who had long fince quit King Edwards Server faith, that King Edward came at last to scruice) sets him againe on horsebacke, and the French (out of a loyall defire to his preferuation) crithe battell, and ed to retire him out of the fight, who rather feemed willing to end his dayes in so noble companie: which ming made an end thereof, The voice was as it were the vp-shot and last Gaspe of that most cruell consist, where none as yet were taformer words fept to his forme ken to mercy vpon any termes. (which are also in Serres) mfinu-are nothing leife. After their King had preserved himselfe, the whole power of the French gaue away, and fought to faue it lelfe by flight, whom the English, warely fighting vpon the defensive, and loath to hazard such a victory, by breaking their rancks to pursue the enemie too farre in the night time, (which now was come ypon them,) fuffered them to be holden in chase by their owne just feare, contented to make good their ground, by standing still vpon their guard according to true discipline. For they saw not as yet the bottome of their danger, and knew that there were fo many escaped, as might well serue to ouerwhelme their Army with their multitudes. (97) King Edward seeing the coast for the present

cleare of all his enemies, advanceth with his vn-King Edward and the Prince tought battell towards his victorious fonne, & most affectionately embracing and kiffing him, faid, Faire Holling.

*Grafrent

"Tood Neuft.

Some, God fend you good perseuerance to so prosperous beginnings; you have nobly acquit your selfe, and are well worthy to have the Governance of a Kingdome entrusted unto you for your valour. To which the most cheualrous of young Princes replied in filence, most humbly falling on his knees, before his triumphant farher.

(98) Here there may be some controuersie, whetherehe exemplary manhood of the English, or their fingular pietie, were moreto be commended: but who will not infinitely preferre the latter, chiefly in Souldiers, among whom it is viually most wanting Great was the victorie, great was their proweffe, & great the glory; but they like true Christian knights and Souldiers, forbare all boast, referring the whole thankes and honour of their prescruation to God the true Author thereof. The night was fo very darke, as if it had mourned for the day times bloud fhed, therefore they made * store of fires, lighted torches, and candles, carefully tending their wounded companions, and modestly reioycing in their owne faire aduenture. (99) But the next morning presented new works for such a mist having overspread the earth, that they could scarse see hard at hand, yet were * new swarms of French abroad, who came from fundrie Cities Holingto.

The French are and good townes, as Roan, Beaucis, &c. to have joy ned with King Philip in the deligned spoile of the againe encoun-tred and viter! English; these being mette with by King Edwards broken.

Paul, Aempl. faith that the English fet vp French Banners, and by that stratagem drewthem to destruction. people, were in fundry places ouerthrowne and flaine, and multitudes of fuch as had loft their way in the last flight, were severely put to the sword, as the English chanced vpon them, * where they lay lurking in hedges, bushes, and by-wayes. The Earles of Northampton, * Suffolke and Norfolke, * had the execution of the French which fled from this laft ouerthrow, for the space of about nine miles English Ypod.Neuftr. from the ground where they encountred.

(100) There was leafure now to take an account of the flaine; which vpon the enemies fide amounted, not onely in the number to very many, but in their quality to very great. For learch hereof, king Edward caused certaine principal commanders, & three Heraldes, (who by the Coat-Armours might iudge of the persons, it being then a thing perpetuall and solemne not to fight without those fignes of Noblesse,) to take an exact view of the field, who about supper time returning, made report to the King, that they found the dead bodies of *eleuen great Princes, and of Barons, Knights, and men of Armes, aboue * one thousand, and fine hundreth. Among the owners of such bodies as were beaten to the Earth vpon the first day, these are worthily reckoned chiefe: The * King of Bohemia, the * King of Maiorca, * Charles Earle of Alanfon, brother- sir Thode Is German to King Phile, the Duke of Loraine, a the Mere sput Duke of Burbon, the * Earle of Flanders, the * Earle United States of Sauoy (both great Princes,) * the Dolphin of * Serre Viennois, sonne to Himbert, the Earle of Sancerre, and Harecourt (whose brother Godfrey in pirty of his "Poly, Jurg." MALNet ob. house, his two Nephewes being flaine with their houte, his two Nephewes being flaine with their father, forfooke the King of England after this bat-Earle of Eloys flaine at this battell, and returned into Grace with the French, the * Earles of Aumarl, Neuers, &c. fixe Earles of Almaine: beside others of great account of all forts. Vpon the fecond day, the Grand Prior of France, who with his Archbishoppe of Roam, had on the behalfe of their Prince and Country put on Arms. Of the Commons, in a both of these blacke dayes, there fell about thirty thousand, and some say, A.D.1346. foure times more in this last, then in the other.

(101) We finde not one man of honour, or note

*Polid. Pere-

*VV4 Northin

Calais befieged.

* Severe fish: 30 September.
A.D.1346.

flaine upon the English fide', fo that this victorie may fafely bee accounted among the wonderfull. The * fpoiles of the Enemies bodies and carriages. King Edward gaue wholy to his well deferring fouldiers. The rule of their fafety (they being in a most populous enemy Countrie) would not permit them to vie much currefie to others, asthat which might have proved cruelty to themselves, but v pon the fecond day they tooke many * priloners, though none of great name, for they were fpent in the day before. It pleased the conquerour to proclaime a truce now for three dayes in the Country about that the people might come in to burie their dead but the bodies of the most noble, hee himselfe caufed to be conveied to Monstreal, and there (in his March towards Calais) enterred. (102) Thus by Gods fauour, and the vnresiflable force of the English Archers, (who in a man-ner did * onely fight) was King Edward put into a full and peaceable possession of a perfect victory; which after hee had one night onely enjoyed in the Forrest of Cressis, hee dislodged with his conquering hoaft & marched ftraight toward Calais, which hee a presently inuested, having decreed neuer to rise with his Armie from before it, till without asfault hee had carried the same. For which cause he entrenched and fortified his Camp on all fides, built vp * Sheds couered with Reed and broome, and other places and offices as to dwell in, and stopping all reliefe by Sca, (whereof hee was Matter) with his Nauic. There commanded in Calais for the French Sir John de Vienne, * Marshall of France, and the Lord Dandreghan, with a very strong Garrison, who concluded like good men of war, to trie all extremities, rather then to furrender the Piece, which was so firong, that to affault the same, otherwise then with famine had beene friuolous. These great Captaines sceing King Edwards resolution, thrust forth of the Towne (for sparing of food) their poorer people, aboue sifteene hundreth; whom hee, like true Christian Prince, turned not backe vpon the Towne, but relected for Gods cause with fresh Charity. victuals, and two pence sterling each; permitting them freely and fecurely to passe through his Camp, to his great glory, and (vindoubtedly) profite also, having their hearty prayers for his happy successe, and God for pay-mafter, and rewarder of fuch his Beneficence. (103) Many wayes were thought vpon by king Philip to raife this obstinate siege: two principall; wife to succoute an Army of French to fight with King Edward, and a diuersion by inuasion, wherein the Scots (their perpetuall allies) were forward. Both in their senerall times, were put into execution: That of the Scotist invasion was first, but with such succeffe, as well declared it was Gods will (all people hauing their encreasings, zeniths, and declinations) that the English name should now be brought to the verticall point thereof, without any thing being able

(104) For Danid the fecond King of Scots, to gra-Xxxx to relift it

*Serrer

*Walfingbane.

* Cia Villam. The Genowayes

The Earle of

Alenioss fu

Seren.

commandement(derived from K. *Philip himfelfe)

his horse gaue in among the to drive them by plaine murther from the honour ofhauing the point, vpon onely pretence that they hindered their race. This ouer the French hoaft.

hote young Count (contrary to good discipline,) had also otherwise unjustly discontented and disgraced them, euen when they were ready to ioin in battell, whose bodies (being as most write about twelue thousand) bybeating the first brunt might haue

haue hid his face, by thrufting it vnder a partill * E clypfe; but God (who meant good to the Englifb) would not fuffer him to withdraw his more neceffary office, fo that freed from that temporary fha-dow, he shone directly into the Frenchmans eyes. At the same time also * sholes and cloudes of balefull

Rauens, and other birdes of prey and rauin, as forethewing the haruest of carcales at hand, came flying

93) The figne of battell being given by King

Philip, and entertained with shoutes and clamors, all things showing the horror of war, Drums & Trumpets founding to a charge, Banners flying in the winde, and euery where thining weapons, menacing brane extremitie, reason her selfe acknowledged it onely fafe to leage them to their brute faculties, paffion and furie, and the event it felfe to God. The French calamities began at their Genowayes, who vndet * Carolo Grimaldi, and Antonio Dorta their Coro-

nels, being all of them Croffe-bowmen, were to open a way for the French horse with their shot. This was the fuccesse of their service : Their Crosse-bow ftrings wet with the late raine, their bodies wearie with a long march, their rankes (after the English had intercepted upon * targets their first volue.) filledwith innumerable gappes, occasioned by the fall of their fellowes slaine, or ouerthrowne with home-drawne arrowes, were lastly most outragioufly scattered by Charles Earle of Alanson, at whose rie, but finding the mettall infinitely more tough which they had to deale vpon, then they could posfibly have supposed, were beaten to the earth in great numbers. The young Princy neuertheleffe was not without danger, though now the second battell of the English, for preservation of their Prince, dashing in among the enemies, fought most couragionfly.

and thy; Letterm genus memore to more grants autonity that the best letter that may befull, while my spense is thus; but he's him either vanquilly or die, because the homour of this brane day spell hee he is, if of a suffer him speriouse.

(96) The Messenger returned, and though

The first confu-

The French horfe charge the English batta-

His most noble Strres.Helinfo.

* Grafton.

* wil Northi

		_
580	Edward.IIJ. THE SVCC	E	SSION	OF	Monarch 49.	Book.9
The Scots in-	tific his most deare freinds the French, comming	-	here (se of show	se chieru fon
The Scots in- uade England and are vanqui-		1	Knight was he	ten our of	one,) affailed that brane he field with maruellous and are vanqui-	fand into England, as farre as Durham, fupposing none		loffe of Nobles	and others	laine or taken. Not long
1	but Priests and Shepheards were left at home, (con-	1	after that the far	ne Sir Thom	as also having only three	bean prowelle in
1	fidering what great numbers were abroad upon fer-	1	hundred men o	Armes, and	foure hundred Archers
* 17. October	nice, in Pitardie, Britaine, and Gascoigne,) was (vpon	1	in his company	, aliatied the	lame Lord Charles ly.
Fabian	* Saint Lukes Eue) undertaken and fought withall,		ing at nege of	Roch-Darien	With twelve bundred	I i
Hell neet.	his whole armie by faire force vanquished, and him-	1	Knights and E	iquires, fix	hundred other armed	i t
2.0.27.	felfe taken prisoner at a place by Durham called Ne- niles Croffe. Chiefes among the English at this tri-	1	men,two thous	and Steel-beg	e-men & of other Infan-	. }
*Ypod,Neuft,	umphant iourney were * The Archbithop of Torke,		Charles of The	and tooke	Prisoner the faid Lord	1
	Gilbert Vmfreuile Earle of Angos. William Lord la	1	Durchy of Buys	(wno as you	have heard claimed the	1
	Zouch, with eight other Lords, Percy, Membray, Ne-	1	whole forces wi	thaine againi	h Montford) driving his manhood and great de-	i
	uile, Deincourt, Mauley, Leyburne, Scroop, and Muf-	1	ftruction out of	the field 7	This in Pretains	1
	graue. Six Robert de Bertram Sheriffe of Northum-		(107) In G	Scoiene the	magnificent and noble berland, and other noble Banarets. In this battell al-	1	Henry Earle of	Derby, and	now (by his fathers late	The Earle of
"Pol Virg.lib.19.		1	death)Earle of	Lancaster also	now (by his fathers late , purluing his faire for-	cheiuemenes in to whom necessity for defence of their Countrey,		tunes in Agusta	#. X atnet otn	V. Fore drane lake Duke	a lange and made the bloody vie of Iron and Steele warranta-	1	of Normanay,cl	delt ionne c	of King Philip, vnfonohr
	ble: nor could the Seats be accused to have lost any	1	with, troth mer	icge or Aqu	tuon ; though it is faide.	1
	thing for want of manhood, specially the king him-		heleft it, as co	mmanded to	Drepaire to his father for	1
	felfe, who had two speares hanging in his body, his leg almost incurably wounded with an arrow, his	1	Conciett in the	mes i ne alio	tooke fundry places of	*Serren
	fword and weapons beaten out of his hand; who dif-	1	many probable	uice,iome by	ender, some by affault,	1
	deining captiuity, inuited the English by opprobri-	1	triumph remeas	d fafe to 8-	indrich spoiles, and with deaux. Not long before	1
	ous words to kill him, and when Iohn Copland (an E.	(this, at the rakin	agof the gor	od Towne of Brigerae by
* Heff.Bett.	fquire of the North-country, * Captaine of the Ca-	1	affault, he had p	ermitted en	ery fouldier to feife any	1
King Daud ta-	file of Rexberough in Scotland.) adulfed him to yeeld.		house, and con-	uert all there	in to his proper benefic	1
ken priloner by Ioha Capland an	he stroke him on the face with his Gantlet so fierce-		Hereupon it ha	pned,that a c	ertaine*knight or Soul-	"The Frais.
Elquire.	ly, as that two of his great teeth were fmitten out		dier called + Ke	th, bad bro	ken into a Tenement	Quidem miles
	there with: but feeing he could not force a death but		where the mon	iers had for	fafety stowed the monie	1
	must be Prisoner, John Copland conveighed him away with eight of his owne servants out of this field.		of that Countr	in great lo	ng facks, who (thinking	ł
* Heff,Bost,	There lay dead upon the ground the * Earles of		fire (bould co	renerals int	ention that fuch a trea-	1
111400441	Murray and Stratherne, the Constable, Marshall,		the Lord Henris	ne to appe	rate Share) acquainted what was his answere?	l
	Chamberlaine, and Chancellour of Scotland, with	ı	he with a kingle	magnificer	what was his aniwere?	A Generall
	many other Nobles: There were taken Prifoners	1	" Houfe, and all	therein were	nce told him; That the	worth the fer(befide the king) the Earles of Dowglas, Fife, Souther-					wing.
	land, Wigton, and Menteith. Thus the fortune of king	l	" would. The p	artie return	s and while he is bolic
. Alte	Edward, by the vertue of his valiant subjects, preuai-	l				1
1		1	more pure filuer	in Come.	that hee could not but
* Freifferd.	(105) It could not be excused, if we forgat the Offices of Queene Philip in her Husbands absence;	1				1
Philip Oucene	who being then in England, and great with Child of	ı	can be added to	tee nonour	of the aniwere which to d time made ? Why tel-
of England her princely demea-	a daughter (afterward called * Margaret) rode in Per-		" Left thou mee of	the overtue (of the treafure? go, take
nour.	for addit the datters of the English, encouraging	1	ec and enior it :	For to vine. A	nd then to take it backe a	1
Tood Neug.	them with lo wife, princely and gratious words, as did not a little tharpen and affure their otherwise		DAILCA MAY NOT	with my hon	once jara it, and my word our be reuoked, were it neferuent courages : which done, thee retired her felfe to Newcastle vpon Tine, there to attend the successe		(108) Iohn	Duke of 170	rmandy, comming into	1 which God would lend. After the battell, vnder- flanding that King Danid was taken, shee by letters		Picardy, had two	o repulles ar	id foiles, being driven	1
	willed the Esquire to render up his roiall Prisoner;		Edwards for	or Caffels	nd foiles, being driven , and Lile, fo that king	"Serres which he refuting thee (imparient) lends over a com-	i			le, afwell to his Confe- and now, to confum-	"
* Grafter	plaint to King Edward. At* whose commandement.		mate his plore	e whole no	er of France, led forth repairing to the Campe before Caleis, he to difcreet-		by king Philip to	preferue tha	tele of his Empire Records.	ly aniwered, that he was fent backe into England with		was returned wi	mout doing	any thing. For when the reward of *500.pounds land by the yeere, (to lie		mediators could	effect not	hing, and Philip would Grafica.	* where Copland himfelfe should chuse, neere to his	Ī	notict vp his tru	it vpon batte	II. left while he fought
	owne dwelling,) and warrant to deliuer vp his Prifo-		to taue a Towne.	nee (hould	leefe akingdome, hee	1 1
	ner to the Queene, which he accordingly did at the City of Yorke, with to fober and honest an Apology,		mournerully reti	red himfelte	with loffefull haft into
	as both shee, and the Lords of Councell were satisf		trainer and person	rance, leau	ng his desperate Cap-fied. This Copland (who had lands of King Edwards		cv. So Farmed	hadehe Tou	the Conquerors mer- ne deliuered vnto him,	Calais yeelded Copland a knight	gift at * Viner flow in Lancashire) was also advanced.		when he had alm	oft abidden	in leaguer before it one	3. August. An.D.1347.
Cambden in	gift at * Viversion in Lancashire) was also advanced, for this most valiant atcheiuement, to the dignity of		whole yeere. I	he picty of	Queene Philip toward	An. Reg. 21.
l ancofhire,	a Knight Baneret, which writers corruptly call a Bare-		the priionersiel	ected to die.	and the worthy demons.	*Tood: Neufle Heimfread.
	net, Honour having at that time no fuch kind of crea-		ment of tome C	alilian Town	elmen, to that certains	Heinfhead.
	ture. King David was lodged vader fure guard in the		perm, for fatilit	action of k	ing Edwards incensed
The flow of king	Lower of London.		minde, deciarin	e themicius	s thereby to be good !
ottunes.	106) Wonder it is to confider, with what golden linker one good has more assessed as constant		true and loyall F	rench-men.	are by all Authors cele.
·····nes.	den linkes one good hap was annexed to another, in this full moone as it were of King Edwards reigne.		praced , finding b	oth buy the	a. and honour for ever 1	1
	For within a small compasse of time, all these great		keeping of this	ung as wile	ly taken order for fafe- as he had costantly en-	- 1 atcheiuements fell. Sit Thomas Dagworth like ano-		dured to carry is	gramina one	Ta fishfantic! C.	i
Test.Nort.	ther * Machabee (faith an Author) with 8, hundreth				r a fubstantiall Colony aile at last for England,	ı
	men of Armes, and one hundred Archers, in Britain		whether with mu	ch trouble a	Sea (remnelle foden)	ì
	ouerthrew the Lord Charles of Blois, who having	į				1
	twice in one date with incredible ods in the num-		hee had alwaies	faire weath	er at his paffage into	"The Walf.
		- 1			France

	Edward.IIJ.ENGLANDS M		581
1	France, and foule vpon his returne. (109) Neuer was the English Name so great, and	Lancafter and Derbie, in honour of his princely bloud, and reward of feruice, was created Duke of	The first Duke of
A.D.1348.	glorious as at this time, nor did England her felfe in		An.D. 1353
	any foregoing age enjoy a King more renowned for	ment was his jorney rogether with Pickerd Farle
	wildome, cheualric, and felicity in actions; the iust	of Arundel, the Bishops of London and Norwich, &	Tood.Neuft.
- 1	brightnesse of his irradiant vertues, not onely ador-	day at Brian to the Romane Court, there to ree that
- 1	ning her with Garlands, conquered Spoiles, and	Inftrument of a finall peace, which had been drawn and fworne vnto betweene the two Kings, confir-	- 1
	Trophees, but seeming also (such was the abundance of all things) to insufe fertility into the earth it selfe,		An.D.1354
The. PValf.	like some * new shining sunne. Meane while faire	Couen of the French (as our * Writers impute) and	The VVall.
	France (whose wofull turne it was) sate mournfullie	the Pones Conninencie, who fauoured the keeping	Reb. Amesia.
	weeping, and with great anxietie of mind prouided	of France entire, all proued burvapour, and the	1
	the best shee could against such a deluge of calami-	voyage fruitleffe. King Edward greatly kindled here-
1	ties. Neither yet was King Edwards glorie at the highest, for God was inclined to make him yet more	with, determined to take deepe reuenge, and (as wal- fingham and others write) entred then prefently with	Froifferd.
1	bounden and beholden. Howbeit as it is a mighty	an Armic and walted France.	1
1	worke to ascend to such an eminencie of renown, yet	(112 The Staple of Wools which had beene in	ı
	when the most of man is knowne and done, let none	Flanders, King Edward about this time revoked, e-	l
	therefore loue themselves, or admire others, for nei-	Stablishing the same in Westminster, Canterbury, Chi-	- 1
	ther hath this world any thing permanent to trust	chester, Bristol, Lincolne, and Hull. Hee did not this, (as is probable) without some spleene, aswell vpon, and to God alone belongs the honour. This was found and felt when the celeftiall maieftie faw	for the * death of his deare friend Inques Artenill,	Supra.$
An valuerfall	the abuse of his good gifts. It rained from Midsom-	as for that the young Farle of Flanders had dilhoplagne:	mertill Christmas, and so terrible a plague ranne	noured him, by a flying into France out of Gaunt,	* Serres through the world, that the earth was filled with	when he monid have married his daughter.
	graues, and the aire with cries: which was feconded	(113) It had moreouer beene fignified to King	An.D.1335.
,	with murren of Cattle, and dearth of all things. The	Edward, that Iohn the new King of France (his Fa- ther being dead) had given to Charles the Dolphin	.,,,, plague beganne among the Turkes, and pierced by degrees into France, where it mowed downe many	the Dutchie of Aguitaine: whereupon being excee.
	thousands. In London it had so quicke and sharpe	dingly incensed, hee bestowed the same upon his an edge, that in one yeeres space, there were buried	owne fonne, the Prince of Wales; commanding him
	it, * one Church-yard (commonly called the Citter-	to defend that right with his fword against hisaduer-
* Rch. Ausfburis. Iobn Stow.	tian, or Charter-house) aboue fifty thousand, The	faries. All things being ready for his voyage, and having the Earles of warwicke, Suffolke, Salisburie,	The Prince of Wates failes to Fabian. Holinfb.	French notwithstanding practise to recouer Calais by briberie, but treason being not true to it selfe, King	and Oxford; the Lords * Chandoys, Audley, * Bute-	take poficition of Remard came fordainely in person, and preserved the	fort, Lile, & e. athousand men of Armes, as many inestimable lewell by policie, and princely man- hood, killing many of them who came vpon that	Archers with others, hee fet faile towards Aquitain,	letters apad Halinfo
	hood, killing many of them who came vpon that	where hee betooke himselfe to do things worthic of blind aduenture.	his Name and courage. (113) On the other fide King Edward, flirred	1
	(110) This innincible King (one great A& o- uer-taking another) hearing that certaine Spanish	with a falle Alarum, croft ouer the Seas, in hope to	1
An.D.1350.	men of warre, who had in the veere before cruelly	find his enemie King tohn at Saint Omars, but failing	1
A Fleet of Spa- ndn men of war	* flaine fundrie Englishmen, and taken away their	thereof, he hurnt vp to Heldm, and came backe in-	Tamble Simula
vanquith by K.	Wines and other wares, were come into his Seas,	to England to recouer Berwicke, which the Scots had	Ferwicke furpri-
*Trod. Nesft.	hee like a Martiall Neptune encountred them not far	gotten with mutuali flaughter by furprife. He called	"Heller Boet.
	from Winchel-fea in person, with such ships as could	a Parliament at Westminster, where toward the furni- ture of his hostile designes, hee had extraordinarie
	then bee had; and after a most bloudy fight, (for there was few or none elcaped vnmarkt) tooke	Sublidie granted vnto him for fixe yeeres next to	l .
	twenty and fixe of their principall veffels, funke	come. But Berwicke before King Edward could	i ~	others, and draue the rest away. The gallantrie &	preferr himfelfe before it with his mighty hoart, was
The Spaniards	foirit of the Spaniards was fuch that dildaining to	burnt and difmantled, and then by the Scots aban-	*Hell ,Beet, rather die then	ouerline the difgrace of having preferued their lines	doned. The French had fent into Scotland fortie thousand Crownes of the Sunne, and some men of	- [
yceld. "The Walf.	by yeelding, they * all of them to a man either died you the English weapons, or were drowned in the	Armes to maintaine them in comity against the Eng-	1
Rob.Auesburie. Holiofo.	waues. Thus was King Edward dignified with an-	Life while as ver their King Danid the second was pri-	1
1	other Nauall Crowne. In this * yeare Philip de Va-	foner; but King Edward, not contented to have regained his owne, vnlesse hee made his adversaries	1
*Serres An.D.1351	Loss having raigned about three and twenty yeeres,	regained his owne, valefie hee made his adderiaries
A.D.13)		fmart for their prouocations, proceeded in hostile manner against the Scots both by land and sea. At
i	merly hee had changed the flampe of his Seale, fo	Roxbrough the Baliol * furrendred to King Edward	*The Wall.
ı	changed the stampe of his Coines, coining (by ad- uife of William de Edingdon, Bishoppe of Winchester,	all the right and ritle which hee had to the Crowne	I HE DELIST COL
	and High Treasurer of England) the groat, and halfe	of centland or any the appurtenances, releving only	m the Crowne o
1	moat, whereas before there was * no filuer coine,	to himfelfe a yeerely pention of * two thouland and	2 tolland to will
* Helisfe.	oroat, whereas before there was * no filuer coine, but the feelings onely.	6 few mounds	Allerand Lat
Sir Walter Bent-	[] [] Let vs draw King Edwards manifold acti-	(114) The Prince of Wales as it were in emula- tion of his Fathers gloric, doth wonders in France;	Patent.25 Jan.
less great vi dos	ons closer together : vnder his fortune and auspicie,	for with his victorious Armie, he recoursed multi-	A.D.1356. The Prince of VV aler his hig
	Sir Walter de * Bendeley had in little Britain(wher-	tendes of Townes and Priloners (while the * Earle	atchieuement i loin Fox.	of hee was * Warden) a faire day of the Marshall of France, putting his puilsance to slight with much	of Glaffer with the English on behalte of Charles king	2 Comes
1	flaughter. Thirteene Lords, one hundreth and for-	of Western prenailes greatly in Normandy, piercing	*Sir John VV mg
1	er Knights one hundreth Esquiers, & store of com-	like a shunderholt through Languedec, till nee came	beitet merceren.
ı	mon Souldiers were killed : nine Lords, and one	to the City of * Narbon , in light of the Mid-land fea, which City (being little lesse then London) he
1	hundreth and forty Knights and Elquiers taken pri-	I I force as (beliefe many others) he had done	: 1
	foners; which bred great aftonishment among all	Care Con which for bignetic, itrength and beautie	• 1
l
	King Edwards enemies. Neither had the French in	avealled (faith our Author) I orke in Estima. I in	? 1 other places better fortune, fauing that iomewhat	excelled (faith our Author) Torke in England. I in	5
"Enifferd.	King Edwards enemies. Neuther had up Frence in other places better fortune, fauing that fornewhat before Sir * Rasul de Cabors flew in a skirmith the thrice valiant Sir Thomas Dagworth, and about one hundreth men of Armes with him. Henry Earle of	avealled (faith our Author) I orke in Estima. I in	5 worke as yet his fathers liberty . Moreouer, the Eng-lisb under Sir Robert Knowles, Sir Iames Pype, and and heaped huge wealth by incursions, ransomes, and other warlike licence, in Britaine, and Norman

Thomalin Foulk, and others, did commit great wafts, A.reg. 32.

An.D. 1358

ries. The English at this iourney tooke an *hun-

(117) Now albeit nothing wanted to the title of a perfect victory, yet in two points the incompara-dreth Enlignes.

* Serres.

pap. 14. 1	Edward. 11). ET CO ETT TE DO TO	OTTITION MONATON 49.	703
14	dy, under the title of feruing the Nauarrois. To bee	hundred Esquires and Gentlemen with the Order	The English be-
[1	briefe all France swarmed with dissolute souldiers of	of Knighthood. Charles the Dolphin, Regent of	fore Paru.
- 14	fundry Nations, which having no Generall, made I	France, was within Paris with a great force, but could	Fourehur dred Knights made at
- 11	hauockeat their pleasure. They were called peo-	not by any meanes bee drawne to hazard battell.	one time.
- 1	ple without an head, and by innumerable infolen-	There were ample conditions in humble manner
13	cies made the wretchednesse of Amarchy apparent.	tendred to Edward, but he was as yet inflexible and
	In England also swarmed another fort, no lesse bur-	deafe against any other, then such as himselfe (like a
1.	thenous to the commonwealth and Church, which	Conquerour) propounded. Paris (vp to whole) were the foure orders of Franciscan Friers, whom the	* very wals King Edward ranne) not being fefible, he
	* English Clergy found to be so pernicious to the regi-		Polyd, Verg.
Valf. in Ed-	ment of the Church, that they felected that renow-	his returne finding it stronger then before, he turnes	*Serres and Polyd, Verg
		his wrath into the very bowels of France, exercising	evya, vag, ned Clerk, Richard Fitz-Ralph (who was Chancelour of		*Paul Acutt.
1,	the valueraty of Oxfora, Archomop of Armaga,	and and an analysis and increasely Codered it	*The.VV affing, machen in	and Primate of Ireland) to appeare in perion before	ans, and as yet continued inchorable. God was dis-
Suferio curato-	the Pope, and there alleage the "intollerable narmes
	by them accrewing to the Laity, the Clergy, and the	he cauled the Minister of his wrath, a terrible tem-
	Vniuersities, together with their disobedience to Gods	peft, to affaile his Hoaft, and a to kill therein many	*Street
1 13	word, their avarice, and pride. All which that noble	both men and hories. King Edward is ? faid, vpon	Paul. Acmyl. * Tho. Walf.
- 1	Prelate learnedly performed, as appeareth by the	this occasion, to be so wounded with remorse, that	Ran.Ceftr.
- 1	handling of his o, propositions against them, which	repairing to our Lady-Church of Charters, he pro-
1	are extant. In his second proposition, he sheweth	strated himself to God and forrowing for the blood-
1	how ordinary a matter at was with them to allure	thed and wast-full burning which hee had made.
	now ordinary a matter it was with them; to anter	wowed to give quiet to the Christian world upon e-
1.	shair Orders which made men withdraw shair	quall conditions This and the Duke of I weeklere
- 1	their Orders; which made men wirndraw their	perferences Comed him to that finally he mediani
- 1	ionnes from the v niucrities, leaft the r-yars hould fo Reale them away ; whereby (faith he) is came to	on of the ropes Legar one smon at Langres) a peace	rabien.
an ib.	passe, that * whereas in his owne time there were thirty	was concluded at Bretagme neere to Charters vpon
- 1	thousand Students in Oxford, soone after there were left	the eight of May; and in November following K.	Tillim,
1	but fixe thou fand. But how infinitely these Friarlie	John himielfe was transported to Caleis, and there fwarmes encreased in all lands, may appeare by that	by King Edward (according to the Capitulations of belli, sead. 9 l.6.	*Strange offer made by the Generall of this one Order,	the Treatie) fet at liberty, after he had been a prifo-
10aa. 9 1,0.	to Page Pine mho tramifed to bring him (being then 4-	ner aboue foure yeeres,
1	hout a Turkilly Expedition thirty thouland cunning warris	(123) Articles of this accord, fo necessarie for	Articles of
- 1	out at a writing Expension plant of thempire Comming warren	the diffrested Effare of France were thefe. I That to	peace,
1	ors, out of the number of Saint Francis Tryars, and feet	the intent thefe conditions which the French condefeen-	,
l	nough house remaine at nome to performe the denotions.	Jalanes Could Lemma forceable and not forme to be an-	1
1	But the Pope had luch vie of thole Fryars, that Ar-	ded onto possed be more jorcesore, and not jeeme to be ex-	1
60,Walf.in	machanus prevailed not in the matter, though he pro-	tortea by aduantage, out; or inquitie of the times) the two	!
ourd 3.	ued the cause stoutly and manifestly against them, because	Edwards, Father and Sonne, bould for ever release to K.
	(ahfar vity, faith our Authour,) the Clergy Itucke not	I ohn and to his heires, all the right and clasme which they
,	elate at they promifed, and the Friers had erest flore of	had to the Crowne of France, to the Dutchy and Estates	*Paul. Atmylia money to procure favour in the Court of Rome. But here	of Normandy, Aniou, Turain, and Main, as also to the	feach.
- 1	in the Feeliff Court two Cardinals, (one of them.	homages of Britain Armorick and the Earldome of Flan-	Serres Estima
- 1	has of Bigmened, upho had so diligently travelled for	ders. 2. That King John and his fonne, for them and	Halinfb.
1	a conclusion on the bertall of Pairfiers) could not	their heires. Bould by a day certaine reftore, and release to	Pani, demyl,
- 1	a concidion at the batter of restairs to fish on	King Wanged and his beires fore the whole Countries of
i	with two yeeres labour, draw any thing to facilitate	Aguitain colorned with the hardering and hacious Coun-	l
	head, as the French would, for their kings denue-	Anna Comain Bailles Dispenser Limely Ouerein
	rance, performe; which put King Eawara into a new	to de Carrente de mith ell the Cities Caffes and	l.
- 1	refolution against France.	Angolejm, Konergne, O'c. With au the Cities, Cajetes, and ng Edward 2-	(121) King Edward (houlding himselfedeluded	appurtenances, to be notaten free, without any acpenaence	1
ine in France.	by the French) with a fleete of eleuen hundred Saile	but of God. 3. That the County of Pontheun (the pro-	*The Walfing.
	pafferh oner from Sandwich to a new inuation. Hee	per inheritance of Ifabel late Queene Demager of Ottober	arrived at Calais, from whence he let forward in three	Fugland mother of King Edward) the Townes, Coun-	1
	great battels, whereof the first, being least, was under	tries, and Lordships of Calais, Guines, Mountril, Haim,	I
	Henry Duke of Laneafter, the fecond being greater.	Wale, Oye, Merck, S. Valary, & c. and all the Ilands	1
	under the brone Prince of Wales, and the last which	which either the English then held, or which lay before any	1
	was a seed of by King Edward him falls They	of the Premilles with only certaine limitations concerning	1
	was greaten, was red by King Edward initiente, they	private meny interest should remaine in like freedome as aul.Aemil.	marched through - Arios to the Citie of Khelmi in	hoftile Actions yas aftereas « Charters, and "Orio- firstand) to oppose ein perfon before thereal leage the 'intollerable harmes' thereal leage the 'intollerable harmes' wings to the Laift, the Clergy, and the together with their displacement of Galt thereal leage the 'intollerable harmes' wings to the Laift, the Clergy, and the together with their displacement of Galt thereal leage the 'intollerable harmes' performed, as appeareth bythe ins p-propolitions gamithtem, which in his fectord propolition, he flewwith, ya matter the was with them, to alluge to and was with them, to alluge to content of their parents, to enter si, which made men withdraw cher the V interfliets, leaft the Fiyrar should many y, wherey (faith he) is came to whereas in his owns time there were librity deaths to Vyrind, some after three were librity deaths to Vyrind the variety librity death to the clean three	I
	Champain, where the Kings of France vie to be crown-	with the hould newfor be renforme (nart shore of to he	1
Serres,	ed and annointed. The City of * Sens (an Archbi-	King tonn inouta payfor his ranjome (parethereof to be	The large renfhops See) and Nesers doe yeeld without reliftance.	in nand, and part vpon dates jine jumme of *thirty num	forne of Jahr King of France, "Paul Acoupt.
Paradine la les	The * Duke of Burgandy, for two * hundreth thou-	areth thousand scutes of Gold, enerte two of which should	King of France, imals de Burge.	fand florens of gold, obtained that all Burgundy was	be * fixe shillings and eight pence sterung. And that for	Poled, Ung.
Froissard-	spared from sackage or spoile. It was told the King,	assurance there should be assigned certaine number of Ho-	Fruffard.
ith 100000.	that the Normans had landed at Winchellea in the	Ganet (In Kino Edward named) to remaine in England.	"Tho VV alf.
OWNES.	rime of dinine fernice, and among other their most	That the Evench (hould not aid, nor alst the Scots a-	Fabian. The City of Pan limpious ourrages a like execrable villanie, as that!	gainst the English, nor they the Flemings against the	gaue toward miplous outlages, anne exceeded vinning, as that	French 6. That it Sould bee lewfull for either Kino	this ranfome which discountes, (ionnes of Benan) are recorded to		one hundreth thousand rolals
Bd,19.11, 25.	naue committed vponthe Lentes wite, was more	There were fundry other Ar-	Edw. Grimfian nd 16.	wickedly perpetrated by them in the Church it	tame as meet pleasures. I store were funding other rate	his English
	felfe, where the woman, being of lingular beautie,	ticles, as in cales of to transcendent quante mut	Serres
	l was by their infariable violations murthered; and	needs happen, but, as these were principall, to the	1
	they got backe to their Ships before the Countrey	of them might have beene well lett out here.	1 .
	could rife vpon them to take due vengeance. Here-	vnleffe they had more exactly beene observed by upon * King Edward presently raised his Standard.	the French. Yet were they ratified with hands, scales,	24 Oftober,
The Walf.	and for forth our of Chempsin (where nor farre from	and Oathes at #Calass, where the Iwo Kings, in Iteau	1360.
	and ict to the out of Champan, (white and the country of	actificathe Pay at matte (either hauing for honors	1
Polyd.Verg lib.		Glarefuedtorake it first) * faluted each the other	-1
19.	ward Paris.	lake returned beatherlie embracement and loning	A
	(122) He came before it with his armie divided		* Pabian per.7.
The VV all.
r w.vvalf. An.D.1 360.		Kilic,	.1

Chap. 12 | Edward III. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 40. 1

* Rode, San, vbi "Genel,cap.7. The causes of K Peters dilinhei of a Iew fo enchanted a rich Girdle of King Peters, which Queene Blanch had ginen him, that the next time hee ware it, the same * appeared to himselfe and the beholders like a snake. This cursed disciple of * lannez and lambrez hated the vertuous Queene, for that shee had so prevailed with Don Pedro her husband, that no Iew was suffered to beare office, or entoy any fauours in Court, neither wanted shee much of expelling them wholly out of Spaine. But by this practife Maria de Padilla (who * fome erroneously say was a lew) got al the king to her self, and so persecuted the innocent Queene, that it was not long before shee died, the Popes intercessions failing to effect any good with the Tyrant. The Nobles of Spaine who laboured to have brought her againe into deserued grace, are by him pursued as fautors of her supposed witchcrafts. Other things also whetted him to fauage, and Turkish Butcheries, as thirst of Gold, and somewhat which had by diuelish arts beene fore-told him concerning his end. His brothers, kinffolke, Nobles, and others, he causelessely massacreth or forceth to seeke their fafeguard by flight, among which the Lord Henry, his foresaid bastard brother was one. Peter notwithstanding was in the trueth and right of blood King of Spaine, but his faide brother (a Gentleman and or spame, but its laude trottler (a Genterman in whom nothing was to bee taxed, but that which he was not to be blamed for, his birth being worthily popular and potent, had now obtained both the Title of King and possession of the Crowne.

*The Walfing.

Alfens & Carthag.Reg. Hilp. Anacepool.ca.88. * Polyd.Virg.L19. * Rod. a.cep. 33thewes Cooplance eldest. John Duke of Lencafter marti-ed Conftance. K. Peterreldeft daughter in An D.1372. "Paul, Empl in car. 5. "Serres in his in pentarie of France.
Serves the French Authous
infily taxed.
 Roder. Same Epifcep. Patent.

rege Hi/p-lib-3. Street.

The Prince of Sparae. *Panl.EavilQueene with that which her selfeacted, by meanes

(132) Peter, before this hapned, fo foon as his wife Queene Blanch was dead childlesse, *married his late Concubine Maria de padilla a woman of a noble house, though not so rarely honest, as to refuse the vnlawful loue of a King: who having iffue by her Alfonso a sonne (who dyed yong) and three daughters * Constance, Beatrix, and Ifabel, made to her and them the belt amends he could for what was passed. It is the fitter this truth should appeare, for that within a few yeeres after John Duke of Lancaster, one of the fonnes of England, married Conflance the eldeft fifter, claiming the Crowne of Caftilia in her right, as *the Earle of Cambridge had another, and for that *fome (either through hatred of a wicked Tyrant, or through haft or milinformation) haue in many points foullie erred, and in particular, vntrulie leaving upon the Lady the Title of a Strumpet, who was honested by lawfull marrimonie. Diners notwithstanding of * the Spanish Lords, like good fubicas acknowledged their duty to Peter (though most violent Prince) nor could the vsurper Henrie but by deepely impairing the reuenewes of the Crowne of Spaine with immoderate gifts, winne anie of them. Peter thus driven from his kingdome, with his wife, children, and (if * some say true) but one servant, repaires to the Prince of wales (at * Bayon)that is to honour and humanity it felfe: who feeing it a dangerous prefident against all lawfull Kings that any one should be so dethroned, and not look ing into his vices but his right; fignified the same to his father: who enioines him to aid Don Peter, lo that now the Prince, (burning with defire of renowne (vpon trust of pay for his Armie and of other com-modities by King Peter, when hee should be reestablifhed in his throne) is ready to passe into Spaine. (133) Hee makes his way through the famous straites of Rounceuallux in Nauarre by permission of the King thereof, who * yet suffered himselfe (as most men write) to be taken prisoner by the French, and carried into Castile, that he might not in person seeme to crosse the French Kings designes on the behalfe of the viurper Henry. The Prince of Wales had with him an armie of about thirtie thousand men, and in his company besides most of all the prime Captaines of the English, there were in person two Kings, Peter of Caffile, whose the quarrell was, and the King of Maiorea and John Duke of Lancaster who some while after Don Pedro his death writhim-felfe King of Castile and Leon. On the other fide K. Henry, for defence of his new Diadem, had affembled a very great number aswell of French (vnder Glequin their famous Captaine) as of Castilians and other both Christians and Saracens, not fewer then fourescore, or an hundreth thousand, Vpon the Borders of Callile it came to a battell : where the Prince of Wales obtained a veric great victorie, killing many thousands of his enemies. Henrie himselfe was wounded in the groine but escaped. There The #1. were taken the Earle of Dene, * Bertram de Glegain in Edward, himfelfe (who shortly after by paying a great ran-fome had liberty) the Marshall Dandrehen and manie others. Neither was it leffe worth to King Peter then a kingdome; for the most noble Edward left him not til he had fet him in Burgus vpon his throne

(134) But his falthood and ingratitude were monstrous: For the Prince notwithstanding his so great goodnes extended towards him, was enforced deathto returne to Burdeaux without mony wherewith to pay his armie, which was the cause of exceeding great mischiese to himselfe, and to the English dominions beyond the Seas; as if God had beene difpleafed for fuccouring such a Tyrant. The Prince to pay his fouldiers (who were not able to tarry King Peters leafure) coined cuen his plate, and when all would not fer ue, fought to lay vpon his Subjects in Gascaigne and thereabout, a new taxation, which bred a most dangerous revolt. God notwithstanding found out Peter, for it was not long but his baflard brother Henry returned with new forces, and by the aid of Glequin and the French , hee both thrust him againe from the Throne, and * murthered him *Fran.Tárapha de regions Hife, cromes. alfo with his owne hand. The Prince of Wales himfelfe was in this iourny fo poisoned (as was thought) he neuer after had his health. Duke John his brother is not freed from the suspition of having hafte-ned the Princes end, but whether it is meant of anie in Edward 3. practife at this time or no, appeares not. Now notwithstanding he is safe as yet within Burdeaux.

(135) Now beganne the peace between England and France to vnfettle and vntwine. For while King Edward rejoyced in the excellent vertues and actions of his sonnes and people; Charles the fifth, king of France, warned by so manifold calamitics, as his Dominions had fustained by the English in faire warre, & yet most earnestly coueting to recouer the honor of his Nation, betakes himselfe wholy to other arts and traines; neuer aduenturing his owne person, but executing all his designes by Deputie, wherein the feruice of Bertram de Glesquin Constable of France stood him most in steed: neither neglected hee before hand to lay vp colours wherewith to ouer-paint his * collusions and deniles for fauing his honour; infomuch that when it came to fcanning, the loffe was clearely vpon King Edwards fide, and the cause of the breach made at leastwile doubtfull. His practifes notwithstanding were palable, and it must bee confessed that our truly noble King (without suspition of craft) reposing himselfe pon the rules of " magnanimitie, did not reape the ftable effects of so great and important victories, nor of a peace to ceremoniously made, that (in the worlds opinion) it might neuer bee infringed with-out the manifest breach vpon one side of all bonds both divine and humane. The Prince of Walesby letters aduiseth his father not to trust to any faire words, nor ouertures of farther amity made by the French because he said they entertained practises vnderhand, in enery place against him. But the Prince was*iudgedto speake out of arestlesse humour de-effects disclosed that his words were true. (1;6) For now king Charles furnamed the wife, reigne Empire having by quicke payments, and by one meanes or wadermined by other gotte hom al the hostages which had bin empledged for performance of the Articles of peace pefore mentioned, fets all his wits on worke to alighting in warre, and therefore prenailed not. The Ramard L.

The English fo

584

Anisa differences
rably fled away,
after he had giue
faith to bee true Paul Armel. Polyd. Vergil Serres. Walfingham.

*The.VValfie, Wil.Lemberd An.D. 1362

Paly. Very. lib. The first rule of the nuber fed by

A.D. 1364.

A.D. 1364 " Hugo of Lufgn lan.6.
Peter , laith Longlius, in Charlet ç.
In Rich 1.
Serres, Innen. France.
John King of France dyeth in England.
This Pope Viban

faith VV alfingba was an English-man by birth, ence of the King of England, when Lime for was Eng-Life, of which

* seised upon him here in England at the Sawy, From whence by the pietic of Charles his sonne, then king of France, his body was in most royall manner conuaied to Doner, at the King of Englands voluntarie charge, and entombed among his forefathers at S. Denys with all funerall maiefly, not farre off from the Soucraigne City Paris, feat of the French Menarches, as the other their place of Sepulture. Likewife Inne Queene of Scots comming into England tyrannical cruelties by the Spanish Stories, are reported fo foule, and fo many, that they * scarce suffer Nero or Caligula to goe before him; though he Hijpen per 4were otherwise a Prince, who had such parts of mind (faith Rodericus) as doe set forth and adorne the Owner, but cannot make him happy. His naturall blood thirstinesse was encreased, and precipitated, fome fay, by the magicall practifes of Maria de Padil-Is his concubine, who (calumniously " charging the

*Pauli Emylin a Carels. Queene

*Reder, Sen, Hill

587

* Inventorie of France in Charle

letters and presents, while in the mean time his plots ripen abroad, and the County of Ponties (the king of Englands vndeniable inheritance) was first surprifed before King Edward heard thereof. And whereas the Prince of Wales had at a Parliament in Gascoigne propounded a demand for fowage, or of money to beclevied by the chimney, the Earles of Armignae and Cominges, and other Lords the Princes Subjects, bearing no found affections toward the English Empire (the leffe for that by the pollicy of Glequin, and the Chancellor of France * Dourmauns, all or most of the Countries and Townes(which by vertue of the peace made at Bretigney) were annexed thereunto, were cliningly wrought to return to their old Lords) repaire to the French Court at Paris, there to purfue an appeale for redreffe of this oppression against the Prince (who was not so happy as to follow the counfell of Sir Robert Knols and other wifest Captaines who diffwaded this impolition,) pretending that hee was to answere before King Charles as before his superiour Lord, of whom (they faid) he held by homage and fealtie. This practife of the diflovall Lords (for what could they bee elfe? feeing King Edward and his heires were absolutely freede (by vertue of the faid Treatie) from all manner of service for any of their Dominions in France) King Charles did openly at last entertaine, and (vpon hope to reco-uer by surprise, and plot, what the English had won by dint of fword and perfect manhood) proceeded to fummon the Prince of VVales to Paris, there to answere such accusations as his subjects made abuse the King of Englands credulitie, till hee had got-ten before hand as farre as diffimulations could ad-

uance: hee Courts the good old Prince with louing

(137) To encrease the indignitie of these deni-ses, you should hear the French kings Orators before the Pope and Emperour, to whom king Edward had feuerally fent Ambaffadors, full of complaints against King Charles, laying wholie vpon the French, the blame of the new warre, as vpon open breakers of faith, and violaters of the league, most confidently on the contrary part charge the English.

We had fuffered the French hoftages to visit their friendes at home vpon the French Kinges word, that they should come backe by a day, contrary to which word, they, nor any of them, either were or are returned. That not fo much as the Law of "Nations was kept with vs, which ties Princes to demaund reftitution by their Officers of Armes, or vpon deniall to defic them, but where (fay we)

*Serret rathly

Pol.Virg.in E.3

are the *Heralds which King Charles did fend?We fay, that without notice hee furprifeth by flealth the Earledome of Ponthies, King Edwards vnque-"ftionable right, and hath diffeifed vs in Aquitame, "which doth no leffe belong vnto vs then Pontheis. That * Margaret the Inheritrice of Flanders, which had beene promifed to the Lord Edmund, one of "our Kings fonnes, was by their injurious practife" wonne away, and bestowed in marriage vpon Phi-"lip Duke of Burgundie. Finallie, wee fay, that Lew-" is Duke of Anion, one of the pledges, making "an escape by that, contrary to honour, and the "league, was by them received, and not returned, which points being all of transcendent qualitie, are "(say wee) directly contrarie to the Treatie and 'fworne agreement at Bretigny.

The French hereunto answere, and charge vpon vs, to shew the fault of first breach, not theirs, but "That we by vertue of the faid Treaty were bound of Iohn their King. That the peace was made thereby more noyous and hurtfull then the warre, and that they were faine to purchase the departure of our Souldiers

"immediately to withdraw our Armie out of France, which yet (they faid) we did not during all the raign with a greater charge then would have maintained 'a very gallant Armie: That this breach was ours, because the Souldiers were ours. That King Ed- Inchesing, ward was bound in an open affembly of the States serrer. of both Realmes, to renounce his right in the Crowne of France: when (say they) was this done Thus they, and Serres ads that the Effares of those Countries which had beene affigned by the Treatie to the English affeuered, that it was against the fundamentall laws of France to alien anie part, & that they neither could, nor would cease to be members of that Crowne.

(138) So ye behold that the fortune of the great is never to want friends to speake for them, nor occalions to flip out or in, whenfoeuer profit and aduantage doe inuite. Memorable (if true) is that part of the Frenchmens defense, in that polite and learned Italian, P. Aemylius, where it being objected with what honour and clemencie King John was vied by vs, they breake out and affirme, that wee (being their Beneficiaries or Free-holders for such Countries as wee held in France) tooke more gold for the onely ransome of King John, then they paied to re-deeme S. Lewis their king, & his brother, the Peeres, and whole French Army captivated in the Christi. and wrote French Army captivated in the Chrifti, an warres by the barbarous Soldan. But (good Ae-mylius) fay that were fo, yet cannot you fay, that the funded spainfs funded was worth the leaft Countrie in P. Assisius. fumme wee tooke was worth the least Countrie in France, and when all France was ours, was it not great bountie to take so small a pittance? If you replie that we had many Countries besides, wee reioine and trulie fay, that wee quit more then we acquired. But let vs proceed : for now all claimes & quarrels were as open, as if no obstacle had ener beene interposed: the ignominie of their late terrible toiles wounded all true French hearts, and they defire(king Edward growne aged) not to feeme by fitting still vpon so many thornes of disgrace, and loffe, to have beene outwarred, though over-warred. and though in two or three battels inferior, yet not to have beene clearely debellated. (139) What doth our King Edward now ? Hee An.D. 1369 *cals a Parliament, declares the breach, praies aid, librid Duke of botaines it, and claimes the crowne of France afreft. invade France. John Duke of Lancaster and Humfrey de Bohun Earle of Hereford are lent ouer to Calais with a great force to inuade France. No great matter as then enfued. * Thomas Beauchamp Earle of Warwicke comming o-uer in hope to haue worke for his Curtelax, for the French affronted our armie vnder the conduct of Duke Philip le Hardy (though at this time scarce shewing himselfe worthy that surname) butrosevpon the Earles arrivall, and retired, accused the Lords for floath, and fware he would abroad among them to find fighting, while English bread was as yet vndigested in his souldiers stomacks. Somewhat he did, but death by a pestilential dart presented the rest. This Earle had with him a learned man (as Scipio had Polybiss) to register the acts which hee faw done : Aworthy example ill followed by pofterity. The * Duke of Lancafter peirced vp with fterity. The * Duke of Lancafter peirced vp with his armie so farre as Roan. The same Polydor wonde-Holos, in Edm ring why they of Ponthein having for an hundreth 3 and twelue yeeres (that is, ever fince King Edward the first had it given to him with his wife) been ours, should reuolt, only daring the greatnesse of the Englift, can find no other reason for their doings but this pleasant one, that as dispersed cattell gather to their owne heard, fo Frenchmen flocke to the French, and English follow English.

(140) Stirring Princes cannot containe themselues within their owne quietly possessed rights: An.D.1370 Otherwife, who fees not how much betterit is for Sin Rabert the people, that their Princes should manage well Resilience the people, that their Princes should manage well Resilience the that which they have, rather then graspe at more?

Parts about
For King Edward (notwithflanding his continual) Private. manifold victories) comes back to the Subject (who yet had gained hugely by the warres, and therefore might the better doe it) for supportation and they yeeld it, but his age was abused, for the money was not expended as the pretences were made. Pringte

* Polyd.Verg.in

Chap. 12. Edward, III, ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 49.

Paul Emplis

*Paul Emyl. Inc. Meir Holisfis.

leffe, * after Midsomer day, that renowned Captaine Sir Robert Knols, whom martiall vertue had raifed from the lowest rancke to the highest reputation (though some also affirme him * borne noble) was fent by King Edward into France with an Armie, where (while obedience lasted to his direction) all things prospered. But by the instigation of one Sir Iohn* Mensterworth the yong Lords Grandsonne, and Fitzwalter, and other vainelie scorning to be vnder Knols, for that they held themselves his betters, and thereupon dividing themselves after they had done fundry exploits, marching vp euen to Paris, were beaten and foild by the French under Glequins conduct, but Knols wintred fafe in Britaine. Menfterworth comes into England, and knowing accusers have the vantage, complaines to King Edward of Knols: but not altogether beleeved: he ads treason to vntruth, and turning French becomes a wicked enemy to his King and Country, * promifing the French to procure the castisian Nauie to inuade England, for which being in the last yeere of King turnes were ferued with publicke loanes. Neuerthe-

Edwards raigne taken, hee by due course was con-demned and cut in pieces, dying the death he had descrued. He was laid hould upon in the City of Pampeline in Nauarre, and from thence conveighed to London, vpon whose bridge his wicked head stood

*The Walf in Edward 3

(141) *Pope Prbsn the fifth, comming from Rome to Asimton with purpose to vaire these two mighty Kings, their wils, and mights against the common enemy of Christendome, pur off mortality at Marfils, and so that holy intention ceased for the present: but the same being * continued by his next fucceffor Gregory 11. yet tooken o effect, no more then that which the Emperour to like cause would have vndergone: which the French impute to King Edward, who confident by reason of his former atchieuements, would trie it out by the fword. Wherein he seemed to forget the mutable condition of warre, the fearnesse of his bodie, and the greennesse of his Grand-Child yong Richard, who was to succeed, if the Prince of Wales died, as shortly after he did. Neither did God seeme to approue his opinion herein, for that croffes came falt vpon him, both at home and abroad. There is no greater wisdome nor happinesse then to know when we are well, and then to preferue without hazard or empairment, that honour wealth or quiet which we already haue. (142) Among the States and Townes (affigned to the English by vertue of the treatie at Bretigny) which had revolted to the French, was the Citie of Limoges in Limofin, whither the Prince marcheth, & fits down with his armie before it. Thither * came vnto him out of England his brethren the D. of Lancaster & the Earle of Cambridge, with a fresh supplie of valiant Chiefs and Souldiers. The City stood is out to the vttermost, and was forceably entred, where mercy had nothing to faue nor spare, the fword and fire for terror to other killing and defa-cing in a manner all. Hee* who writes that the Prince flew vp neere to Paris, and scarsely, by reason of Glequins valour, got backe to Burdeaux, seemes to have mistaken therein, as in many other things concerning vs of great importance. After this feruice, the Prince, (health failing him more & more) leaues his Brethren in Aquitaine, and failes into Eng-

Sentinell.

(143) The French in the meane time wonne towns and places in Aquitaine, gathering new hopes after folong and perpetuall infelicities. The losse of that expert Captaine Sir Iohn Chandoys (vnfortunately flaine) was a great advantage to their defires, whose whole care for warre rested vpon Glequin (not long before advanced for his military vertue from low estate to so great eminencie, as to bee Constable of France, the chiefest officer for warre which that Kingdome hath) and he a man of much proofe, in good and euill fortune, so tempered his courage with discretion, that he onely first bad his Country rife againe, and endeauor in despite of euill fortune to reflourish.

(144) The Prince of Wales (wanting health) vp on comming to his fathers fight, rendred up the Dutchie of Aquitaine, to bee disposed of, as to his rolall pleasure seemed good. While King Edward was at Clarendon, there repaired to him the factious king of Nauarre, whole errand was to make an ouerture of affociation against the French; but as his offers were acceptable, fo his cautions not feeming fufficient, hee returned (after great entertainement) without concluding.

(145) John Duke of Lancaster, and his brother the Earle of Cambridge, doe now returne out of A. An.D. 1372 quitame, with the Ladies Constance and Isabel daughters of Don Pedro late King of Spaine, whom they married: The Duke thereupon inftiling himfelfe King, and his wife Queene of Castile and Leon, Nor was the English name onely encreased in titularie ho-nors; for about this time, the Flemings (who had frdat fea in a sharpe fight, shout twentie and fine of their shippes being taken, and all the man share.

Hatisfied. ter with a grieuous loffe; for the French hauing befieged the ftrong Citie of Rochel in Santoin, with the aide by sea of Henry King of Castile; to relieue the English, John Earle of Pembroke was sent with about forty shippes, men, victuals, munition, and mony to the value of twenty thousand marks, for the vies of the warre; but being fodainely affailed with the Spanish Armado, which consisted of many great shippes , under the command of Ambroje Buccani. gra and others, the English after a long and cruell conflict were veterly diffressed, the Earle taken pri- by the Castilla foner, and almost all the rest either taken, or put to the fword. * Rochel held out notwithstanding , to Polyd Perg. 1.19 whose reliefe while King Edward himselfe in person, with an extraordinary force fet faile, the wind (alwayes till that time fauourable to his voyages for green is blom backe into backe. England with great griefe, and the waste (they write) of * nine hundred thousand pounds sterling. Neither did hee so give over the care of that strong Peece, which the English most manfully made good against the enemie. againtthe enemie.

(146) * Kochel thus perfifting in loyall refolution.

on, Iohn Duke of Britaine (who had married the Rebot contian the Begins Lady Marie daughter of King Edward) a Gentleman of much gratitude toward the English, the authors of his fortunes, refolues to aduenture his state in their quarrells thips away for England: hath aide ministred vnto him: hee returnes, and warres with various euent. But tohn Duke of Lancaster with a very great Armic comes to Callis, and from thence marcheth ouer the whole face of France, and (though with loffe of many thousand . horse in the The Pray. defert countries of Auuergn through famin) came fafe, but with an almost-hunger-starued Army to Bur deaux. Not long after hee drew into the field, and a day was appointed betweene him and the Duke of Anion the French Kings brother, to have tried the quarrell of their Nations by set battell, before the City of Tholonz in Languedoe, but by an untimely & apernitious fhort truce (to which K. Edward yeelded because his son the Prince lay dangerously sick) the hoped victory not onlie flipt out of the English mens hands, but almost all advantage also of doing any thing else seasonably. The French boasted themselues as of a Conquest, who notwithstanding did helpe out their valiancy with policie. Glequin makeshis vie of all occasions, and workes much harme to the English party in Guien and Britaine; But in Britaine" Sir Robert Knols did fo nobly acquit "LTillin chres himselfe on the behalfe of his Souereignes sonne in law the Duke, that he only seemed a fit parallel to Glequin, like as hee flopt the current of his fortune. Yyyy 2

T he Flemith

The English Nauie diffresse

The Walks

An.D.1374.

Some

(147) The next yeere the Duke of Lancaster re turned into England, after whose departure all Aqui-taine almost revolted, and fell to the French, who by the aduantage of King Edwards age, the Princes pining maladie (which some say was not poison but a *dropsie) and the successe of their practices more then of their valour, were growne braue againe: A treatie of peace was holden at Bruges, all was but painted: for even then the French most of all prepared underhand for new attempts. Chiefe commissioners for the English at that conference was Iohn Duke of Lancaster, and for the French the Duke of Anion. The effects hatched nothing but a short truce for our euils to breed in. (148) Among the parties which were prejudi-ced by this hurtfull truce, the Duke of Britaine was

A.D. 1375. Tood Next.

chiefe. He had obtained great assistance from King Edward, and was now with the Earles of Cambridge, March, Warwicke, and Stafford, with many other no-ble gentlemen and fouldiers returned into Britaine, making to themselues a faire way for their maine enterprize, which was to fettle the Duke, and by the commodity of his Dutchies situation to annoy the common enemy, and the better to recouer the English dominions in Aquitaine: But this treatie did that which Glequin, their indeed brave Generall, had not as yet in any fort effected ; for the Duke of Britaine had* driven the French Kings army out of his territories. But who wonders at this truce ? The Prince of Wales was likely to die; plots one foot at home; the Duke of Lancafter had an eye to the Succession: things grew troubled: the Kings age was abused by dame Alice Peirs (a most busic Court-flie) who (after Queene Philips death) kept the old man warme, and the French faw all these matters and slept not. (149) King Edward calling a Parliament, vn-foulding his effate, and wants, with demand of fup-plies, the bodie of the affembly in ftead of contributions exhibits complaints, directly chargeth the Kings Officers with fraud, and humbly praieth, that

John Duke of Lancaster, the Lord Latimer, then Lord

Chamberlaine, Dame Alice Peirs (whose * behauiours respectiesse of her Sexes frailty, would in person, time fitting by the Judges or Doctors, would also ard Sturry might be removed from the person of the King. Neuerthelesse the Parliament made offer, that if the King were indeed out of money, they would liberally advance toward his vies. The Prince of Wales fauoured their free dealing, and all the faid persons were remoued, others more acceptable

(fuch as the Prince and Peeres thought fitter) being furrogated in their places.

(150) While this Parliament (called the Good) lasted at Westminster, the noble soule of Edward

Prince of Wales vpon Trinity Sunday (which eueric yeere he vied to celebrate with the greatest honour that might be in due veneration of so diuinea myftery)was presented to the holy and blessed Trinity, after he had lived therein about 46, yeeres, In necott-plaph of melindh of topedities, the words of Wallingsham thall ferre vs for the prefent, of whose death he writes thus. Luo obemite, &c. With whom dying, died all the hope of Bugliflomen; daving whose life, the English feared no insuefan of the enemy, nor any en-counter in Bastell: For he affailed no Nation which henercame not he befreged no City which he tooke not. And when this lampe was put out, the effect of this Pared of Epitaph or mention of obsequies, the words

A.D.1376.

*I.Tillion.

ATho.VVallin. they painted forth as most intollerable, for that shee, *The, VV alliss,

Stick Peirs the old Kings Concubine a most in folent woman. faid they, come into all Courts of Justice, and someafter a most insolent manner perswade or disswade for her most aduantage) and with these one Sir Rich-

Holinfo.

The Prince of

liament was extinguished. His mortall parts were interred at Canterbury, where his monument standeth, but the renowne of his inimitable vertues hane as large an extent, and space to moue in, as the wide world. The King of France most reuerently celebrated his Exequies within the Chappell of his Palace at Paris. But in England there was a generall forrow, as for one whose worth had begotten a just hope that hee would out-goe* his Ancestors in glorie. Death preventing that experiment of him. he is notwithflanding in full poffession of loue and praise * among all men for that which was passed. The cause of this domesticke mourning encreased with the effects of his loffe, which forthwith difclofed themselves. The Kingrecals such persons as at the petition of the Lords and Commons had beene remoued, and Peter de la Mare speaker of the last Parliament, who had eloquently express the minde of the house in the foresaid reformations, was, at the fuite of the faid bolde Dame Alice Poirs, con- "The vvall. demned by the King to perpetual imprisonment at * Nettingham, chough within two yeeres after by the importune faite of friends hee regained libertie. Meane-while Islm Duke of Lancafter * gets the go-uernance of the kingdome to be instufted to him by nis ratner, (151) Richard the eldeft sonne of the late most moble Prince of Wales, for preuention of all debates 7 Richard stage about the right of succession to the Crowne of Procedure, and England, was by his Grand-father first made Earle of and the nobles Chefter, and not long after Prince of wales but for wome to his inscession. more assurance (least the sonnes decease before the fathers should prejudice the Grand-Child) King Edward* caused all the nobles of the Realme to take an Oath to accept and defend Prince Richard, as lawfull heire and King of England, after himselfe was dead: Neither did his*vncles though famous Captaines, repugne. Finally, the good old King, to comfort himselfe in honouring the liuing image of his nobleft Child, the late Prince Edward, and to give the minde of his Grand-Child a feeling of future maiestie, that by the sodeine insolency of the splendor, it might not afterward too much abuse pieneds, a might not atterward too much adult his tender indgement, and to make his vncles ac-quainted with respect of his person, he caused him to stropenly at his Table about all his owne Children in Christmas.

(152) About this time the famous Doctor John A.D. 1377. (152) About this time the tamous Doctor John Wielfy amn of flarpe wire, profound learning, and great judgement, did in the Vinterfact of Oxford publikely maintaine fundry propositions and dogmatical points against the Church of Rome, of which the Pope (forefeeing the hazard hanging ouer his triple Crowne) condemned * three and twenty triple Crowne) condemned three and twenty as hereticall; whereupon the Archbishop of Conten-bury and Bishop of London having attached the body of the said Wielef, did in the presence of the Duke of Causifier and the Lord Herry Periotic 6'this great fa-uourers, Jecelare the indgement of the Pope concer-ning Wielefs doctrine, which had then taken deepe roote both in the vniuerfity. Court, and Countrey. So for a while all was quiet. But (vpon some secret So for a white an was quier. Dut (vpon some secret encouragements) he held not peace long. His fol-lowers were, in the phrase of those darke daies, called *Lolards, whereas, in truth, they endeauoured to extirpate all pernitious weeds, which through time, flouth, and fraude, had crept into the field of Gods Church. The Duke of Lameafter (the rather, fome thinke, vpon private emulations against Court-ney Bishop of London) was engaged so faire in his protection, that he and the Lord Percy hardly efcaprotection, that he and the Lord Percy narrayetca-ped the fury of the Londoners, who would without question have hewed them in pieces in reuenge of fome differacefull speech vettered by him against their Bishop, He norwithstanding diffwaded all violence, and kept them from firing his palace of the Sanoy, but they neuerthelesse did in most despitefull manner reuerse his Armories in the open Market: A dishonour not to be borne, as that in which the dig-

* Polyd. Vereib

A.reg. 5 1.

Thom VV aifing

* Lelium Genil

Fran.Toyn.

"Hee meaner more able in battell then:

Dattell them

Alachabass, you must beare with the breaking of Priscians head, for it is written

of a King that many. "He alludes to

nity of his royall bloud was empaired. By this outrage the people (a most dangerous and heady water when once it is out) made known, what he, and the Lord Percie were to have hoped, if they could have fingred them, before they had gotten to Kenington to Prince Richard, who there remained with his mother: The Duke for this bare the Londoners much euill will; neither rested till (for a commencement of revenge) hee had procured the Maior and Aldermen to be thrust from their places, and substituted others in their flead.

(153) France in the meane time erected with new hopes, breathes nothing but warre. Prouisions in that respect were not neglected here. One of the last publike acts of the old kings life, was the triumphall celebration of Saint Georges feaft at Wind-for, where himselfe had founded the order of the Garter; and at this solemnitie hee bestowed vpon his dearest Grandchild Prince Richard the dignitie of Knighthood, which onely thing in all the patrimo-nie of honour could not differed vnto him.

(154) Not long after enfined the sentence of diuorce which God pronounced betweene the foule and body of this mighty and martiall king, who left the world in the moneth of lune at his Manour of Shene in Surrey: his Acts may give you a perfect Character of his mind; few Princes that had so great and heroicke vertues, had fewer vices: there-fore it was a fault of those times, which abounding in learned men, (and among them Geffrey Chancer Prince of Poets) afforded no better an Epitaph then that which we are faine with pitty to reade voon his Monument at Weltminster : the stuffe neuertheleffe is worthie, though the forme bee rude,

Hie decus Anglorum, flos regum prateritorum, Forma futurorum, rex elemens, pax papularum. Terisus Ewardus, regni complens lubilasum, Imničius Pardus,  pollens bellis Machabaum.

Here Englands grace the flower of Princes paft, Patterne of future, Edward the third is plaste, Milde Monarch, Subiects peace, warres Machabee, Victorious * Pard, his raigne a Inbilee,

No man of his time could by better experience teach, what a vaine thing worldly glory (to the height whereof hee had aspired) ought to seeme. His mind (by fundry great checkes of Gods proui-dence) recalled to confider of the foure last things, Death, ludgement, Heauen and Hell, made him betake himselfe to Acts of benignity and denotion. The Chappell at the end of the Abbey-Church at Westminster (fince most magnificently enlarged by King Henry the feuenth) was of his building. The holy quiet of studies, and advancement of good Arts, hee so prosperously fauoured, that besides other great priniledges granted to the Vniucriity of Oxford, (*where himselfe had in his youth beene rained by under the learned Walter Burley), he con-ferred the chiefe rule of that whole City growther for-cellor of the Primerfity, subordinating the Maior and Citizens to his gonernment, in regard of their iniuries offered to the Students. This most mighty Monarch that ever ware the Crowne of England, in many other felicities excelled his Ancestors, as in the victorious valour of his Children, their obedience to him, and loue among themselues. A Lady to his wife(their mother) of fuch excellent vertue and gouernment, as that the K. Edwards fortunes feemed to fall into Eclypse when shee was hidden in her Seraigned almost one and fifty yeeres, and * lived about His Wife.

threefcore and fiue.

(155) Philip, wife of King Edward, was daughter pulchre. Such and greater was this Edward, whose name among the furniting fpendors of his actions, is justly transmitted with honour to all posterity. Hee of William Earle of Henault and Holland, fifter of Earle William the last of that house, and of Margaret the Empresse that succeeded him; her mother was * Ivan, lifter of Philip of Valors king of France, daughter of Charles Earle of Valoys, who was sonne to King Milles Philip the Hardy. Shee was married vnto him at Torke, Ianuary 24, crowned at Westminster the first Sunday of Lent following, 1327. Shee was a Lady of great vertue, and a constant true hearted louer of our Nation, was his wife two and forty yeeres, died August 15. Anno 1369 of her husbands raigne, 43, and was buried at Westminster, where shee hath a faire Tombe, at the soote ofher husband, of blacke foundation of marucilous state and magnificence. His I The.

Touchstone with the garnishing about it, and the portraiture ouerit of Alablaster: but shee built to her selfe a Monument of more glory and durability, by founding, and richly endowing the Colledge, cal-led of her the Queenee in Oxford, which, if it had beene finished according to the proiect, had been a

(156) Edward, their eldest sonne and first child, borne at woodstocke, July 15. in the third yeere of his Fathers raigne, Anno 1 3 2 2, was created Prince of Water, Duke of Aguitaine and Cornwall, and Earle of Cheffer, hee was also Earle of Kent in right of his wife town (the most admired Ladie of that age) daughter of Edmund Earle of Kens, brother, by the fathers fide, to king Edward the fecond. Shee had beene twice matried before, first to the valiant Earle of Salisburie, frow whom shee was diuorced, next to the Lord Thomas Holland, after whole uorcea, next to the LOTO I month i relation, after Whole deceale, this Prince patitionnelly louing her, did marrisher: by her her had Iffue two fonce, Edward the cledit, borne at Angeloffon—, who died at feuen yeeres of age, and Risburd borne at Bardesage, who, after his futher was Prince Pitales, and the three was prince of the prince had also matural Iffue, Sir Tobis Sander, and Six Reger Clarendon Knights; the latter being attainted in the raigne of Henry 4. is thought to have been an-ceftor to the house of Smythes in Effex. Hee died at Canterbury on Trinity Sunday, June 8, atat. 46. of his fathers raign 40 and was buried at Christ-church there, 1276. (157) William their fecond fonne, and fourth child, was borne 1335.9. of his fathers raigne, at Hatfield in the County of Hertford, taking his Chriftian name from William Earle of Henault his Grandfather, and his furname from the place of his Natiuity; is reported to have deceased in his childhood, & to bee buried at Torke.

(158) Lienel, their third fonne and fift child, was borne at the City of Annor 13,38, hee married first E-lizabeth, the daughter & heire of william Burgh Earle of Vifter in Ireland, in whole right hee was first created Earle of Vifters and because hee had with her the honour of Clare in the Counties of Townsond, as parcell of the inheritance of her Grand-mother Elizabeth (the fifter and coheire of the last Earle Gilbert Clare, hee was in a Parliament, Anno 1362.created Duke of Clarence, as it were of the Country about the Towne Caftle and honour of Clare: from which Dutchie the name of Clarentieux (being the Title of the King of Armes for the South parts of England) is derived. This Duke had Issue by her one onely daughter named Philip, afterward wife of Edmund Mortimer Earle of March, mother of Earle Rozer, Father of Anne Counteffe of Cambridge, and thee was the mother of Richard Duke of rarke, Father of King Edward the 4. the second marriage of this Duke was in Lumbardie at Millayne, with the Lady Violanta daughter of Galeacio the fecond Duke therofibut through intemperance, he lived not long

(159) Jehn, their fourth fonne and fixt Childe

was borne at Gaunt the chiefe Towne of Flaunders, Anno 1340, and 14, of his fathers raigne. In his Childhood he was created Earle of Richmond, which title was afterward recalled in, and bestowed upon Iohn Duke of Britanny, who married his fifter, to whose Dutchy it had formerly belonged. Hee had three wives; the first, Blanch, daughter and Coheire, and in the end the fole heire, of Henry Duke of Laneaster (sonne of Edmund surnamed Crooch-back) in whose right he was at the first Earle, and after Duke of the same, and with that Dutchy also Earle of Leicefter, Derby, and Lincolne, and high Steward of Eng-land. He had iffue by her, Henry of Bullingbrooke Earle of Derbie, after Duke of Hereford, and lastly King of England, named Henry the fourth, who first placed the Crowne in the house of Lancaster ; Philip, wife of John the first, King of Portugall; and Elizabeth, married first to John Holland Earle of Huntingdon, (brother of Thomas Duke of Surrey) and after him, to Sir Iohn Cornwall Baron of Fanhope. His fecond wife was Constance, the eldest daughter of Peter King of Caffile and Less, in whose right for the time he entituled himfelf King of both thefe realmes; by her he had iffue one onely daughter, named Katherine, married to Henry the third, sonne of King Iohm, in possession before, and in her right, after, King of both the said realmes. His third wife was Katherine the widow of Sir Hugh Swinford, a Knight of Lincolnshire, eldest daughter and Coheire of Para Roet a Gascoigne called Guien King of Armes, for that Countrey, * his yonger daughter being married to Sir Geoffrey Chaucer, our Laureat Poet. By her hee had iffue (borne beforematrimony, and made legi-timate afterward by Parliament holden in the twentimate atterward by Parlament notice in the terms tieth yeere of King Riehard the fecond, John Earle of Sommer fet, Thomas Duke of Exceffer, Henry Bishop of Winchester and Cardinall; and Joane, who was first married to Robert Ferrers (Baron of Wemme and Onefley, in the Counties of Salop and VV arwicke) and fe-condly to Raph Neuil the first, Earle of Westmerland. Shee and all her brethren were furnamed Beaufort, of a Caftle which the Duke had in France* where they were all borne,) in regard thereof bearing the Porcellers of a Castle for the cognizance of their family. This Duke in the thirteenth yeere of his Nephew King Richard, at a parliament holden at London, was created Duke of Aquitaine, but in the fixt yeere after, hee was called home, and this Title recalled in, and in the third veere after, the fixtieth of his age, Anno honourably entombed in the Quire of Saint Paul. Edmond, their 5. fonne, furnamed of Langley, was created Earle of Cambridge Anno 1 362, in the fame Parliament, wherein Lionel was created Duke of Clarence. Hee was afterward made Duke of Torke, Anno 1286. and married Isabel daughter and Coheire to Peter, King of Castile and Lean. His sonne Richard Plantagenet Duke of Yorke, took to wife Anne Mortimer heire of the forefaid Lionel elder brother to Edmand Langley.

1399. he dyed at Ely houfe in Holborne, and lyeth

William another of their fonnes, furnamed of Wynfore, where he was borne dyed yong, and is buried at westminster.

Thomas the youngest sonne of King Edward and Queene Philip furnamed of Woodflocke (where hee was borne) was first Earle of Buckingham, created by his Nephew King Richard the fecond on his Corona tion day, An. 1377.by whom, after also he was made Duke of Glocester, 1385. The Earledomes also of Effex and Northampton, and the Constableshippe of England, fell to him by right of his wife Eleanor, the only daughter and heire of Humfrey de Bohun Earle of Hereford and Effex. Hee was a man of valour, wisdome, and vigilancy for the behoofe of the King his Nephewand the State, but those noble vertues (distempered with too much wilfulnesse & froward obstinaty) bred him, first Enuy, and after ruine. For the King furmifing him to bee a too feuere observer of his doings, confulted with Thomas Mombrar Duke of Norfolke how to make him away; whom Mombray vnawares furprizing, contaied fecretly to Callis where he was strangled 1397. 20, of his Nephewes raigne. Himfelfe in his life had prouided a goodlie tombe at Playsie in Esex (his owne Towne, and *theviuall feat of the great Confiables of England "cubid." *where hee founded a Colledge; whither his body is Efec. was brought, and laid with all funerall pompe, but afterward it was translated to Westminster, where also lyeth Eleanor his wife, who dyed 1399. Their iffue was Humfrey Earle of Buckingham, * who dyed at Chefter of the peltilence An. 1400 Anne (married first to Edmund Earle of Stafford, by whom shee had Humfrey Duke of Buckingham, secondly to William Bourchier Earle of Eue, by whom she had Henry Earle of Esex) Philippa, Ioane, Ifabell, who died all iffulcife, 1/abel, the elder daughter and second childe of K.

Edward and Queene Philip was married at Windfore with great pompe to Ingelram of Guifnes, Lord of Coucy, Earle of Soyfons and after Arch-Duke of Auftris, whom K. Edward (his father in law) created also Earle of Bedford 1 265, by whom thee was mother of *two daughters, Mary, (married to Henry of Barre, *Millesp.441; to whom thee bare Robert de Barre, and Ioane, the wife of Lewis of Luxemburg, Earle of S. Paul) and Philip, the wife of Robert de Veere Earle of Oxford, Duke of Ireland and Marquesse of Dublyn; this Robert in the heigth of his fortunes for sooke his noble Ladie, and married one * Lancerona a Loyners daughter (by report) which came with King Richard the seconds wife out of Boheme; and being for his pride and abufing the Kings care to the hurt of the State, driven out of the land by the nobles, hee dyed at Louain, in great vexation of mind, and extreme penury, An. 1392. Ifabel his wives mother was buried in the Church of Fryars Minorites neer Algate in London.

Isane their fecond daughter and third child was borne 9. of her fathers raigne An. 1335. Beng 14. yers of age, thee was defired in marriage by folemne Embaffage, from Alphon the eleuenth King of Ca-file and Leon, fonne of King Ferdinando the 4. was espouled by Proxie, intituled Queene of Spaine, and conveyed into that Countrey, where shee presentlie deceased of a great plague that then raigned; so as the King comming to meete her to folemnize the espousals, with great griefe accompanyed her to Church only at her funerall 22.0f her fathers raigne. An.1348.

Blanch the 3 daughter, died yong and lieth buried atWestminster.

Mary, their 4. daughter was married to Iohn Mont-ford Duke of Britaine.

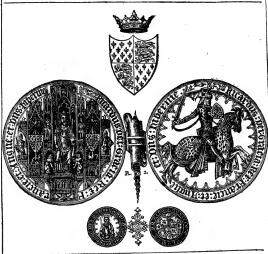

Margaret their youngest daughter was the first wife of Iohn de Hastings Earle of Pembroke, but shee dyed without iffue.

RIGHARD

Chap. 13. Richard. IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 50.

RICHARD THE SECOND KING OF Monarch 50 ENGLAND, AND FRANCE, LORD

OF IRELAND, THE FIFTIETH MONARCH, OF ENGLAND, HIS RAIGNE, ACTS, AND TROVBLES.

CHAPTER XIII.

A.D. 1378

chard of Burdeaux, sonne to that Great Star of Eng-The Chevalrie, Edward, by-named the Blacke rince, and grand-child to the most renowned Edward the third (both of them lately deceased) was crowned in the elementh yeare of his age, and vp-on the fixteenth day of July. Seldome hath been feen fo magnificent a Coronation, as that of this young King, but the thing which gaue a better lustre of hope at his beginning; then the shine and maiesty of that publike Act, was the wife course which in this his childhood was taken; to wit, the reconciliation of the Lord John Duke of Lancaster, and the Citizens of London, with the restitution of Sir Peter de la Mare Knight, Speaker in the late Parliament, (whom King Edward had committed to prison, at the infligation of Dame Alice Peeres now banisht, and confiscated) not onely to former liberty, but likewife to fauour and honor extraordinary.

(2) At this Coronation (which, as matters not vnworthic to bee keptaline, wee following the immethodicall order of the Record, have here for perperuall memory thought good to abridge out of authentike Monuments) lohn the Kings eldeft vn. cle, vnder the flile of John King of Caffile and Leon, and Duke of Lancaster, by humble petition to the King, claimed to bee now Steward of England, in right of his Earledome of Leitester; and as he was Duke of Lancatter, to beare the Kings chiefe fword called Curtana; and as Earle of Lincolne, to cutte and carue at the royall Table before the King. His petitions being found iuft, were confirmed to him, and to his Assignes, the two Earles of Derby and Stafford, the first to beare the Sword, while the Duke should be busied about other offices as Steward, and the other to cut and carue. The Duke then in great estate, held this the Kings high Court of Stewar. Ship The Court of in the V Vhite-hall of the Kings Pallace at Westminster, they XXXX 2

Seruices by nures at the Coronation found and allow ed in that Cour

*Idem ib.

ard of England, that certaine of the faid William his Fee-simple lands in his towne of A. were holden of the Kingin chiefe by Sericantie. The words of the petition, shewing the service, which we (fearing to erre) leaue for other to interprete, are these. De trouwer le iour due Coronnement nostre trefredoubte Seigneur le Roy, ung homme de faire une mosse quest appelle

Dilgirunt,& fi apponatur languineum adonques il eft

The Kings Waferer, The honoural feruice of the Barons of the fine Ports Ex Chirograph D Rob Cotton The first attempts of the The French take the Abbot of Lewis and others Priloners in Suffix.

appelle Malpygeryn en la Cuisin de Roy. And accorfuch as he did put about him, through whose want dingly the laid William was admitted to that feruice of care, things declining to a fhamefull change, and by his Deputy. Richard Lyons, as Tenant of the the glorious atchieuements of the two late Edwards Manour of L. which tohn de Lyfton and his ancefalling vnder Eclypie, there was onlie found one pristors held by the seruice of making wafers for the uate Citizen of London, that (without regard to the King at the day of Coronation, was accordinglie enuie of the flothfull Lords, or his owne hazards, thereunto admitted. The Barons of the Cinque or of any thing elfe, so much as the good of his neg-Ports, vpon their petition and claime, the matter lected Countrey) put his whole strengths to sup-port the same. This was the worthy I ohn Philpot, being euident, were admitted to beare(and to haue for their Fees) the Kings Canapie of cloth of Gold who at his owne charges mans out a Fleet to the (or of what other stuffe else it pleased the King) vpon Sca, raignes by them therein, and guardes both wa- lobin philipst Cith foure staues of filter ouer the kings head vpon the ter and land from their intollerable violences. Not zen of Landon. day of Coronation, and also to lit at meat in the hall did his so great pietic faile of happy euent, for God at the highest Table on the kings right hand. Iohn (who fauours all vertuous actions) had put into his Fitz-Iohn, in right of his wife, shewed, that the Mahands within a fhort space 15. Spanish Ships fraught nour of S. in Norfolke was holden of the King by with rich merchandize, which the right of warre the scruice of Chiefe Larderer at his Coronation, made his, wherby his great charges were abundantly and that Geffrey Burdeleys did exercise the same at the repayed. Let vs fee his Statue erected now at last, Coronation of King Edward the third: whereupon with the Statues of Walworth, and other honourable Iohn Filz-Iohn was admitted to exercise that office Citizens in London. by himselfe and his Deputies. Richard Hering for (6) What therefore the loue of their Prince and the Mannor of C. in the County of surrey, in the Countrey could not stirre vp in the Lords, that very right of Agnes his wife, claimed to be Viher of the shame and indignation doe. There is consultation Kings Chamber; but because that claime did no way had, and the King of Nanarre (an vnquiet subject of concerne the Coronation of the King, hee was left the Crowne of France) morgageth the Hauen otherwife to purfue his interestiffic to thought good. Towne of Cheirbrough in Normandy to King Richard. These are the scruices which were then claimed be-The occasion was the rather not omitted, for that, fore the D. of Lancaster, Steward of England, which by thrusting into it a good Garrison (which was he with his * owne hands deliuered into the Kings forthwith done, and first Sir Robert Ross, then Sir Chancery there to bee enrowled. At the fame Iohn of Harleston, both worthy Knights, made Cap-Coronation also Thomas of VV oodstocke youngest taines there) the same would at all times serue to fonne of the late king was created Earle of Buckingiue quiet entrance to an inualion of France which gham, Thomas Mowbray Earle of Nottingham, Guy now was medicated. chard d' Angolem Earle of Huntington, and Henry Per-(7) How loofely, the meane while, the affaires of The facrilegion cie Earle of Northumberland. Thus the bounty of the State and Iustice were managed, by reason of bers Haule. the young Monarch imparted large rayes of his imthe varipe yeeres of the King, may appeare by a bloody outrage then perpetrated and vareuenged. periall Splendor to their eminent persons of his The occasion this. In the warres of Spaine, (which Kingdome. Howfoeuer, thefe and the like honours haue not in our Common-wealth either al-Edward the late Prince of Wales made for restoring wayes beene fortunate to the Receivers or without Peter to the Crowne,) the Earle of Dean was taken repentance to the Donors. and adjudged Prifoner (from all others clayming that (3) But the generall State of the kingdome bee-ing implicated, before the late king Edwards deceale, honour) to two valiant Esquires Robert Haule and Iohn Shakell, who both of them belonged to that marby reason of that opportunity and advantage to tiall Knight Sir Iohn Chandos. They free the Earle, their delignes, which the neighbour enemies of taking his sonne and heire for assurance of perforthe Crowne of England found in the oldage of that mances. This young Gentleman(vtterly neglected victorious Monarch, was now no leffe entangled hitherto by his dishonourable Father,) was now dethrough the contempt of king Richards youth. For manded of them in the Kings name, by the Duke of before his Coronation, the French with fifty thips Lancafter, with a purpole (as was thought) the rather either to aduance thereby his (the faid Dukes) title (as Walfingham cals them) thrust into the Hauen of Rie, the towne whereof they rifled, and confumed to the Crowne of Spaine, or to make a peace there, with fire. The Crowne of England was scarse setled with the better conditions. The Esquires refuse, on his head, when the Scots at the other end of Engand thift their Hostage out of the way; are thrust land fet fire vpon the Town of Rockesbrough: but the therefore into the Tower of London; but elcaping French (encouraged by their late exploit at Rie) arfrom thence, take Sanctuary in Westminster. Thither riued in their Gallyes, and tooke the whole Isle of with fifty armed men doth Sir Alan de Bruxhull le-Wight, the Caftle (which Sir Hugh Tyrell manfulcretlie repaire, drawes Shakel by a wile out of the prily defended,) only excepted, lenying upon the inhauiledge of the Church, and expostulates the matter bitants one thouland Marks in lieu of sparing their with Haule in the Kings name; vpon whom (prote-fting against the abuse offcred to that Maiestie in his houses from the rage of warre, and flame. Neither was it long before they landed at Winchelfey, though tender yeeres, and freely taxing his Counfellours being from thence repulled, they burnt the Towne with iniustice, auarice, and euill aduice,) while they of Haftings at that present. fought to lay hands, he with his fhort fword valiant-(4) These petty braues thus given to the king. ly made them all flie off, but in the end they most were farther fortunated with a little victory. For wickedly murthered him in the Chancell:commenthey, emboldened with fuch fucceffes (dishonourading himselfe, in his last words, to God renenger of ble and dangerous to King Richard, who feemed to such injuries, and to the liberty of our holy mother the haue loft the foueraignty of the English Ocean Church. With him was murthered a feruant of his where Pyrates durft fo reuell, and also to haue had thrust in with a Iauelin at the backe. This is that as little counsell, courage or forces left about him Haile whose body lies buried under a brasse-plated vpon the land) come on Shore at Roting dene in Suf stone in the Abbey Church at Westminster, whose fex. The Prior of Lewis with some flight tumultuablood (by the violence of the faid Duke) found nor rie Forces, rashly aduentures himselfe against them that fulneffe of legall vengeance, which so hainous where he with two knights, & some few others were an homicide required. taken prisoners, and about 100. English slaine, but of (8) The North parts of England were about Extract furprithis time greewoully visited with the stroake of pe- zed and recoun the French many more, who returned with their Priftilence, and their lamentable affiction encrealed dates. foners to their Nauie. A.D. 1378. (5) The chiefe charge of affaires lay vpon the Duke of Lancaster, the Kings vncle, or vpon some by the inroads and outrages of the Scots; who had now furprized Berwicke killing Sir Robert Boynton

Chap-13 | Richard IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 50.

The L. Farme Gernice. "Honorefied The Counteffe

Dowager of Pembroke her claime to feruice. The Earle of March. The Seruices of Haftings Earle of Pembroke.

592

England.

The Lord high Marshall of England.

The f ,high Chamberlaine of England.

The Earle of Krat Deputies a Crizen of London at the Coronation,

The Earle of

Sit lobude Ar-

genthem (or Ar-genten) his fecuice

* This name

bare three cups

Argent in a field gules,

that you may know that anci-

The fertifices of the L.Maior of eer, who had freed him for one hundreth and foure pounds) for that time put off, his right to him in the meane time faued notwithstanding. The Lord

Major and Citizens of London (fuch as were chosen for that high dayes (eruice among themselues) were found by good Record to have their severall rights.

The Major to attend in his owne person as chiefe

Cuppe-waiter, (charged with the Cupbord-roy-

Knight the Constable thereof; which yet the Earle of Northumberland upon the ninth day after recourred by force, putting those, who had surprized it, to

A.D. 1379.

(9) Neither was the spirit of the English (after it began to requicken) idle elfewhere; for as Sir Robert Rous had divers wayes vexed the French, and taken Oluer (the brother of that renowned Bertrand de Glequin) prisoner, so Sir John de Harleston, Captaine of Cherbrough after him, flew and took divers French in a skirmish. These the few foregoing drops of greater approaching showers. For Sir Hugh Caluerlee and Sir Thomas Percy, made admirals of the narrow Seas, tooke many rich prizes, and exploited fundry other things very praifeworthily, bringing home the acceptable newes of the diflike which the Britons had conceived against the French Kings Gouernment; for he commanded them to render vp to him all their strengths, Castles, and walled Townes, and many of them, who refused to obey, hee put to death.

The commons

ble younggentle-mans faithskee-

The Britons delike of the French Gouern mentionatter of for other like, found need of pecuniary supplies; whereupon in a Parliament holden at London, it was agreed, that for supply of the Kings wants, the Commons should be spared, and the burthen be wholie vndergone by the able. The rates then of that taxe were these; Dukes, Archbishops, Earles and Bishops at ten marks each, mitred Abbots at as much, befides fortie pence for euery Monke vnder their fubication. Briefly (faith 7 homas Walfingham) there was no religious perion, man or woman, Iufitiar, Sheriffe, Knight, Efquire, Parfon, Vicar, or * Chaun-"Simplen Capella-nus, Walfing, ry Prieft free from this taxe rated according to the

(10) These emploiments, and fresh designes

A memorable example of a m value of their yeerely receipts.

(11) We formerlie mentioned, how Iohn Shakell (the other companion of Robert Haulee so execrablic murdered in Gods-house) wastaken. He now voon condition that the King (befides 500 markes in money) should give him lands to the yeerely value of one hundreth markes, and should also found and sufficiently endow, at the Kings cofts, a Chantric with fine Priefts for their foules, whom the kings Officers had wickedly murthered, herendred vp his Hostage, the eldest (but naturall) sonne of the said Earle of Dean. At the discourry and bringing forth of whom, all men were stroken with wonderfull loue and admiration: for the yong Gentleman/ hauing given his faith not to disclose himselfe,)appeared in the shape of a basegroome, in which (vnknowne to all the world but his Master) hee had of his owne accord lurked. An example of fuch a point of perfect honestie as cannot be forgotten without injurie. (12) The same yeere, the Lord John Mountford, whom the French had driuen out, being inuited home by his Barons, returned into his Durchy of Britaine, accompanied with the valiant Knights Caluerley and Percy aforefaid, where he, his friends, and followers were receized with fingular honor. Soone after Sir lohn of Arundell, brother to the Earle of Arundell, being sent into Britaine to aid the Duke, was with many other valiant Knights and Equires drowned. It is imputed by our Author to a just effect of Gods anger against the said Sir tohn, and his houshold, for their manifold vices and outrages, practifed by him and them, before they fet out from England, for which they had the bitter curses of the people; and the Angell of deftruction to execute those imprecations upon the delinquents.

Other aids An.D.1380.

Aids fent into

(13) But the action of aiding did more deepely import, then that it should bee abandoned for the loffe of that unfortunate fellowship, and the exceedingriches which were with them : therefore the Lord Thomas of Woodflock Earle of Buckingham, with Caluerlee, Percy. Knols, Windlesbores (or Windsor) verie valiant knights & other competent forces, was sent to affift the Duke of Britaine, But because the French Galleys houered upon the narrow Seas, they landed at Callers, and from thence march through France, spoiling Countries, burning townes, the French not daring to empeach them, and killing people, till "J. Till, in they and their whole equipage came fate into Bri-

(14) There were about these times civill divisions in France; for the Duke of Burgundie, younger ons in France; for the Duke of Emganue, young-brother of King Charles (lately dead) being made Guardian of the person and dominions of his Ne-prosentable to the English. phew Charles then in minority, had the Duke of Anion (being an elder brother to the Duke of Burgundie) a mortall enemie. Their bloudy quarrels fell our luckily for the English aides in the Dutchie of Britaine, out of which as Duke John had beene driven for adhering to his father in law the late king Edward, to the English did their best to vphold him in it, as there was cause.

(15) The French in these extremes are releesed by their ancient discrition: for the Scots entring about that time with fireand (word into Cumberland and westmerland, and the forcest of Inglewood, draue away much Cattle, flew the Inhabitants, rifled the booths and houses of Perith in the Paire time, killing and taking many, and drining away the rest. The Earle of Northumberland preparing a bloudy reuenge, was (not without wonder) prohibited fo to doe by letters from the King, that is, from fuch to doe by fetters from the same, from from from the Same.

(16) But how coldly foeuer the publike affaires were followed, the want of money for fupplies was a Northumpton. still pretended. And therefore in a Parliament holden at Northampton, was granted to the King a generall supplie of money; the pretended occasion of monstrous mischiese which tollowed, by reason of a clause in that grant of Subsidie, that every one of ech sexe, being aboue a certain age, should pay by the head, or per Polas they call it, twelve pence.

(17) The English Cheualry began now againe to display it selfefarre off, to gratific the private ends A.D.1381. of John Duke of Lancafter, who claimed the Crown The Earle of of Castile and Leon, in right of Constance his wife: with an Armie For John King of Portugalhad a defensive warre against John then King of Castile, who challenged the Crowne of Portugall * in right of Beatrix his wife, (by whom hee had no iffue) the onely daughter of Pertaphik. Hifprepaired the pertaphik hifprepaired the date of the other labor (a bastard sonne of Ferdinands) had by faction vsurped. There were fent to his aide the Lord Edmund de Langley Earle of Cambridge the Kings vocle, and fundry Knights and others of good experience with an Armie. These arriving in Portugall valiantly defended the same for about two yeeres, and were the chiefe cause of gining the Spaniards an ouerthrow in battell, where they lost * ten thousand men. At last the two Kings agreeing together bare the charges of conneighing home the English in common, being both alike icalous of their puiffance. In this time Edward sonne to the Earle of Cambridge vncle to Richard king of England, married the daughter of the king of Portugall, but afterward neither would the Earle leave his sonne behind, as suspe-Aing the Portugeles faith, nor the other entrust his daughter to the Earle, so as they remained dissoined in body, howfocuer vnited by Ceremonie. . (18) Not long after the time of that Earles imployment into Spaine, there fell out accidents which The dangero doe plainely contince their error to bee great, who thinke that any madnesse is like that of an armed & ongouerned multitude, whereof these times (by a kind of Fate proper to childrens raigne) gaue a most dangerous document. The extreme hatred borne by the people to Iohn Duke of Lancafter, calling himselfe king of Castile and Leon, and the discontentment taken at an extraordinary taxe, leuied per Pol. vpon all forts of people, who were abone fixteene yeers of age, which (as all other the cuils of the time) they imputed to the Duke(the maner being to count them the authors of euils, who are supposed to haue the greatest power of doing them) moued the enra-

The Farle of

*Pelpd. Vergib bif.L.10.

Chap. 13. Richard. IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 50.

ged multitudes vpon slight and small beginnings to runne together in so fearefull a Torrent, that it feemed the King and kingdome were fodainely falne under their most wicked fury. There were in this most rebellious insurrection, the Commons and Bondmen(who aspiring by force to a free manumif-fion) principally those of Kent and Essex, whose example was followed in the Neighbour Shires of Surrey, * Suffolke, Norfolke, Cambridge, and other places by incredible heards and droues of like qualified people: who (specially in Norfolke) forced iundry principall Gentlemen to attend them in their madding. (19) They of Kent embattelled themselues vnder two Banners of Saint George, and about threefcore and tenne Penons vpon Blacke-heath by Greenewich, and from thence came to London, where, the generality of people inclining to them, they are ma-fters. The Priory of S. Johns without Smithfield they kept burning for about feuen dayes, and the goodlie Palace of the Sausy, belonging to the Duke; with all the riches therein, they confumed by fire, in a kind of holy outrage, for they threw one of their fellowes into the flame, who had thrull a peece of ftolne place into his bosome. The Rebels of Elex came to Lambeth, burnt all the Archbishops goods, and defaced all the Writings, Rowls, Records and Monuments of the Chancerie, as having a speciall hatred to the Lawyers, little to their difgrace, for that they shared herein with good men also, whom they hated. But their desperate wickednesse exten-ded it selfe beyond the spoile of houses and substance, laying bloudy hands vpon the most eminent and worthy men in the kingdome, for that they had diffwaded the King to put himselfe into their hands at Greenwich, where hee talked with them out of his Barge, and thereby had their maine deligne disappointed. Simon Tibald Archbishoppe of Canterbu rie, and Chancellour of England, a right worthy Prelate, and Sir Robert Hales a Knight of high courage, Lord Prior of Saint Iohns, and Treasurer of England, with others, they without respect to the Maiestie of the King, or priviledge of their most honourable dig-nities, most barbarously murthered by beheading them vpon Tower-Hill, among infernall showtes & diuelift yels. For the Tower it selfesfrom whence they had haled them, the young King being there in person) was open to their execrable insolencies. Neither doth the authority of * Polyd. Vergil, affirming that they were not haled forth, but onely ftay. ed by the Rebels, to whom (hee faith) they were fent, induce vs rather to credite him, then Authors liuing about those very times. There was no little flore of other innocent bloud flied by them in thefe tumults. Nor was the Kings own person without manifest perill, against whose life they had damna-bly conspired. It were long to reckon vppe the kinds of fuch villanics as they wrought, but endleffe to recount the particulars. The common *Annals fet forth this whole Tragicall bufinesse very dili-(20) They had many Captaines of milchiefe, PVat. Tyler the Idol of the Clowner. but two principall, Wat Tyler of Maidstone in Kent, (whom Walsingham pretily cals the Idoll of Clownes) and lacke Straw, who together had followers to the number (as they were estimated) of about one hun-dreth thousand, and at one Sermon made to them dreth thouland, and at one sermon made to them by tohn Ball, Walfinghom faith, there were about twife as many. Their Petitions were full of pride and malice, but eafily granted by the King, the neceffity of the times extorting them. They had a Chaplaineas gracelesse as themselves, one Iohn Ball an excommunicated Priest, who with his wicked do-Arine nourished in them their seditious furies to his own just destructio in the end: but when a great multritude accepting the Kings mercy were gone, Wat Tyler and his Campedeparted not, but typon pre-tence of diffiking the Articles of peace, lought to winnetime till he might put into full execution his incredible Treasons, which (as Inche trap at the time of his execution confessed) were vpou that very night of the day, wherein Wat Tyler was flain, to murder the King, and chiefemen, and to erect petty Tyrannics to themselves in every shire: and already one John Littistar a Dyer in Norwich had taken vpon him at Northwalfham in Norfolke, the name of the King of the Commons, and Kobert Wellbroome in Suffolke, to whom John Wram another lewd Priest had affigned it.

(21) Neuer was the kingly race and commonweale fo neere to an ytter extirpation, as at this prefent, which was (wee may truly fay) miraculoufly preuented. The yong king in thefe feares and dangers repairing to Westminster, most denoutly commended his Crowne, Life, and whole estate to God, nor that in vaine. For wat Tyler with his Campe of Rascals esteemed to bee ten or twenty thousand (according to the Kings Proclamation, attending in Smithfield, but cauilling of purpole vpon the conditions of peace, as hee that meant a farther milchiefe, though they of Effex were returned) was entreated to ride to the king, who also sate on horsebacke before Saint Bartholmewes, in whole company was that renowned Lord Maior of London, William Walworth; with many other men of birth and

(22) Wat Tylar scarse at the last comming behaued himselfe so insolentie, offering to murther one of the Kings knights; Sir John Newton, for omission of some punte of respect, which he arrogated to himfelfe in more then a kingly manner, was (vpon leave given him by the king) boldly arrefted with a drawn weapon by the Lord Major, a man(fay Writers) of incomparable courage, which blow was feconded by the faid Lord, and others so speedily, that there this prodigie of a Traitor was felde and flaine. A death too worthy, for that he died by the swords of honourable persons, for whom the axe of an Hangman had beene far too good.

(23) The Commons perceiuling the fall of their Captaine, prepared to vie extreme reuenge, when the most hopefull young king with a present witte and courage (it being for his life and kingdome) spurred forth his horse, and had them follow him, without beeing grieued for the losse of a ribauld and traitour, for now hee himselfe would be their Captaine, Hereupon they thronged after him into the field, there to have whatfocuer they defired. But the most worthy of all Londoners, Walmorth, speeds with one man onely into the City, raileth a thouland Citizens in armour, brings them (being led in good array by Sir Robert Knolles and others) with wat Tylers head (which the Lord Major had commanded to bee chopt off from his dead carcale) borne before him youn a Speare to the king. That verie head, the curfed to nigue whereof had dared to say, That all the Lawes of England should come out of his mouth.

(24) This act reftored the Crown (as it were) and Realme to King Richard, for the Rebels feeing them felues girt-in with armed men, partly fled, partly fel vpon their knees, and (throwing away all hope in weapon) they answerably to their basenesse, begged their lines, who but even now reputed themselves mafters of the field, and of the king. And albeit there was a generall defire in the hearts of loyall men to expiate so many villanies with the bloud of the Actors, yet thingsabroad in the Realme being as yet vnfetled, they had a generali Charter of par don fealed, and were fo fent home into their Coun-

(25) Certainly although the Citie of London (the most noble and able part of the English Empire) hath otherwise deserued of the Kings of this land very well, yet the honour of this service worthily stands highest in the many great praises therof.
Which the King did thankefully and publikely tefliffe by knighting Walworth, and by beftowing vpon him (when hee modefily excused his vnworthines

Aggaga

Joh Stow.

did fhut vp the matter speedilie before the Scots had Humanity of the anie intelligence, fetling a two yeres abstinence from lebn Duke of Hostilitie. The Seets (though they were forrie Lessafter portunity of making a dangerous impression vpon the English,) understanding the Dukes perill, offred him twentie thouland men to defend his honor, but he loyally refuling that, they gave him leave to come and goe at his pleasure with all other rites of facred Hospitality.

that by the peace so concluded, they had loft an o- greatest dan-

(23) After

596

*Holinfhedin Rechard 2.

Statut An.6.

I.(ap.23. The ro yall pow er like the Sunn after along darknes puts forth it felle a-

Forty thouland English horsemen in field to himselfe, being mounted on a goodly courser among the armed men, and having his Standard roy-

all advanced before him, daily rode forth to view his people, rejoicing to becfeene among them, and acknowledged their Lord. It is faid, that within three daies space there appeared upon that heath for the Kings feruice, not fewer then forty thousand horsemen most brauely appointed.

(29) This force had beene employed against the Kentish-men, cuen to the vtter rooting out of all

(33) After Christmas King Riehard tooke to wife the Lady Anne, daughter to the Emperor Charls the fourth, and fifter to Wenceslaucking of Bohemia, after hee had performed fundry things very happi-A.reg. 5. ly, taken Graueling , Burbrough, Dunkirke by affault, and beene victor in a fer battell against thirty thougins the yeere at Chuftmas day inclusionly. and called Emperour, which Lady by the Duke of fand abettors of Clements claime, hee was enforced Taßill, was in the name of her faid Father, formerlie to returne, as destitute of those farther succours promifed and affured vnto him, as one whom the which were expected out of England. But the king Kingdid specially affect, though the daughter of Barnabas Duke of Millaine was also offered with a vpon pretence that hee had not obeyed his royall mandate, by which hee required him, (before hee farre greater fumme of gold. Shee was with great transported) to returne, for a while seised upon all pompe and glory at the same time crowned Queen. his temporalities. by the hand of william Courtney(a yonger sonne of (37) But K. Richard having before given the realm Thekings enthe Earle of Denonshire) Bishoppe of London, lately discontentment, by removing Scrope from the Chanpromoued from London to the See of Canterbury. cellorshippe, encreased the same by some manifest pleasant. The Nuptials and Coronation of the beauteous fignes of legity and prodigality toward Strangers. Queene being, the Parliament (which by this great Ladies arrivall was interrupted & prorogued) began then which nothing makes a Prince leffe pleafing to the English: for, in the progresse which with his againe. Where many things concerning the excelle beloued Queene hee made to Bury, Thetford, Norof apparrell, transportation of Coine, &c. were wieh, and other places, gifts were taken on all hands by the King, and they agains through the Queene wholesomely enacted. Sed quid iunant Statuta Parli. " amentoru & c.but to what purpose (laith Wassingham) " are AEts of Parliament, when after they are once past, were powred forth to enrich her Bohemians. (38) Iohn Duke of Lancafer embarkt himfelfe An.D.1384. for France, where hee concluded a truce to endure they take no manner of effect ? For the king with his private Councell, was wont (faith hee) to change, or betweene the two Nations English and French, abolish all things, which by the whole Commons from the present Christmas till Midsommer. At and Nobility of the Kingdome had in former Parhis return, he and his brother Thomas of Woodflocke his return, he and his brotter Thomas of Woodjoeke Earle of Buckingham, went with an Armie into Seof-land, to reuenge the breach of truce: but as it feems by fome, the Duke hadrather an hoaft of men, then liaments beene agreede vpon. (34) Neuerthelesse, it was then prouided, that fuch as had done any thing in their owne defence against the Rebels, or to their suppression, without an hoftile mind; for hee fo ordered the matter (as the ordinarie formes of processe in law, should sunot forgetfull perhaps of curtelies shewed to him in staine no dammage thereby, but for euer bee as his late dangers, when the Commons were out in cleare as if they therefore had enjoyed their particu-Armes,) that the Scots having had time inough to withdraw both their goods and persons, and his arlar pardons; and that all releases, feoffments, and o-The hurling ther acts done in the late rebellions, (during the harmy fuffering farre more loffe by penurie and cold ling times, for so they were called) by way of conthen it could inflict vpon the enemy, returned *fruitftraint of dureffe, thould be vtterly void. leffe and inglorious. (39) Not long after his returne, hee was encoun (35) With the good liking of this Parliament tred with a more capitall and dangerous enemy, then those in Armes: for a certaine Carmelite Fryer, by Sir Richard Scrope Knight, was made Chancellor of the Realme, and Sir Hugh Segrane Treasurer; but it was not long before the Chancelour denying to birth an Irifhman, delinered to the King (in the time paffe such large gifts vnder the Great Seale, as the king in his youthfull humor had imprudently granof Parliament at Salisbury) a writing which contained therin a heinous accusation of the Duke of Lan-The Duke of to crowne himself. The accuser discouered, the day, place, and other circumstances, to induce a beliefe ted, therewith to gratifie his still crauing Courtiers, fell into the kings undeserved displeasure. For al-beit he alledged important causes of such his deni-The Walfing. of the pretended intention, and tooke his oath vpall, (as, that the King was greatly in debt) and thereon the Sacrament, which that day hee had receifore fuch largeffes were fitter to bee imployed in difued, that no one word in that scroll was vntrue. The charging some of his Creditors, that knowing how Dukes Apologic and fauour with the King, preuay the King was intangled with Creditors, fuch crauers were not truely well affected to him, as regarding led aboue the accusers confidence; whereupon the their own private avarice more then the kings pro-Fryer is committed, at the Dukes request, to the L. fite, or the publike wants; that those selfe same cra-Iohn Holland (the Kingshalfe brother by his mo ther) and a day appointed, wherein the accuser was to shew a cause of his crimination. uers, had formerly received fuch gifts of his Maiefty, as were (at least) answerable to their desernings; and (40) But in the night which next forewent the that himselfe, if he should seale those grants (made in the Kings childhood) was like to have fmall thanks defigned day, the faid Lord Iohn Holland (if a man may beleeue, that a thing so villanous could be done of him, when he (hould come to riper judgement; by men of honour) and one Sir Henry Green knight yet thereupon he was twice or thrice willed to fend are reported to have truffed up the Fryer in a cord the Seale to the King, who comming in person by the necke, and parts of generation, laying vpon "furrendred the same, with such like words, That " hee would alwayes beeloyall and true to his Maiestie, his breast a stone of great weight to breake the chine of his backe; and that they also scorcht the soles of "but neuer beare any office under him againe. Not long after which furrender, Robert Braybroke Bishoppe of his feet. By which miferable and quadruple man ner of death, without triall or conuiction, (as alfe London was made Chancellor in his place. This act without * recantation of any thing which hee had . 108,5100. of the Kings was displeasant to the whole Realme, vitered against the Duke) he is said to have breathed and one of the first things by which hee fell into diflike, it being among the infelicities of King Richard. his last. Neither was his death smothered, for the that those times were too full of fower and impatinext day they caused his strangled carcase to bee dragged through the City, that it might not bee thought hee had perished vniustly. But the Lord ent cenfors, for a Prince of so calme a temper, and as ver unleafoned veeres. Thomas of woodlocke (the fame who was afterward Duke of Gloceller) went farther, for hee rusheth in-(36) Henriele Spenfer the warlike Bilhop of Mer-A.D. 1383. wich, being drawne on by Pope Vrban to preach the to the Chamber where the King was, and bound his Crusado, and to be Generall against Clement (whom " words with a terrible oath, That hee would kill afundry Cardinals and great Prelates had also elected "ny one liuing who durft lay treason to his bro-therscharge: neither did hee except the king Pope) having a Fifteenth granted to him for that purpose by Parliament, (after strong * opposition of The Waller. himselfe. In which speeches, as piery and zeale for his almost all the Nobles who resisted this businesse of the brothers honor and fafetie were not wanting, fo cer-Croffe) went with Forces into Flanders to Support rainly duty to his Prince was exceedingly forgotten. the cause of Vrban against the Antipape; from whence

Chap-13 Richard IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch so. 1

Lineafter fuspe-cted for pertwa-ding the King to passe the Scot-tish Sca.

doubtedly full of delignes, and of cares, how to at-chieue to himselfe the crowne of Spaine.

(42) There were then fundry incursions made by the English and Scots, each into the others country, the Earle of Northumberland being leader to the Enelifh, with little advantage to either. But to take away the very cause of this continuall bad neighbourhood, or to leffen it by an effablished peace with France, the Duke of Lancaster layled to Callis, about the beginning of Jugust, there to treat with the Duke of Berrie, on behalfe of the young French King Charles 6. but after he had in that voyage expended (as was faid) fifty thou fad Marks, he brought into England nothing backe, except onely a truce, to continue till the first day of May next. His desire to haue procured a furer peace both with the French and Scots, seemes to have beene great, that so hee might the more freely purfue the conquest of Spaine which he intended.

(43) Whiles hee was absent in this Ambassage towne once Lord Major of Lorden, confined and conficated. there enfued the arraignement of a great fauourite of the Dukes, John Northampton, alias Comberton, whom his aduerfaries by-named Cumber-towne. This man is by them reported to haue exceedingly troubled the City of London, during his late Majoralty there, nor leffe afterward; for that being followed with many abettors, hee publikely disturbed Sir Nicho-las Bramble his successor, (but a * bloudy minded man by report,) and wrought other maisteries, till Sir Robert Knowls caused one of the busiest companions to bee drawne out of his house, and (as some fay) fhorened by the head. This Comberton was by his houshold Clerke accused, as privite to some practifes, in prejudice as well of the King, as the City; and when sentence was to bee pronounced in the Kings presence (being then with greatstore of his Nobles at Reading,) hee durft (as is faid) affirme, That fuch judgement ought not to proceede against him in the ablence of his Lord the Duke. This againe unraked the burning coales of enuic, and fufpition against the faid Lord Duke; and perhaps malice to the Duke procured this hatred against his fauourite. Whereupon hee was confined to the Caftle of Tyntagel in Cornwall, and all his goods feifed vpon by the Kings Sermants, whom Walfingham expreffeth, by calling them after the name of those Poeticalirauenous Birds, Harpyes.

"Thom.VV aifing

(44) That here which Polydor Vergil (alsigning reputation re

causes to actions, not alwayes such as are, but such as seemed to him most probable, not seldome confounding and changing persons, times, names, and things) telles vs concerning a combate within lifts, betweene Sir John Aunsley Knight, and one Carton hath little ground, (so farre as wee can find) in historie. He faith they were teterrima capita, both very wicked men,& that there was a real plot to murther the Sir Ishn Anfleys king. We can neither find the crime nor the methere had beene a folemne combat long before betweene fuch a knight and one * Katrington an Esquire, in which the knight was Challenger and victor, but Veuft. AH.1380. the crime was not treason against the kings person, nor for any thing done in his time, but in his noble Grandfathers. Neither was Ansley, teterrimum caput, but a valiant and loyall man of Armes. The crime which he objected to that Efquire (his kinfman) was, that for money he had traiteroully given over the Castle of Saint Sauiour in the Land of Constantine in Normandie, when he had store of victual and munition. The Esquire was vanquished in faire fight and died frantick the next day. Polydors errour therefore is joyned with manifest wrong to the knights name, wherein wee ought to bee very circumspect, for that, honour is inestimable and descenderh to posterity. There was indeed, at the time he speakes of, another combat, fought also within liftes before the king, (for Duels then were performed, not on private choice or quarrell, but on publike appointment) betweene Henry Knighton one tohn Welfh an Equire of England, and one * Martilet a Gentleman Manarrois, who in revenge against Welsh, for having at Cheirbrough (where the faid Esquire was vnder-captain)comitted (as Martilet said) adultery with his wife, accused him of high treason against the King and Realme. But Welsh prevailed; and the Navarrois, at his execution (for hee was drawne and hanged after he had beene foild in bartel,)confessed the cause of his euill will, and the inno- in Richard 2, cency of Welshin the matter of treason. (45) The Scots had this while by practife and noney gotten the Castle of Berwick, whereof the Custody belonged to the Lord Henry Percy Earle of Northumberland. The Duke of Lancaster was not fad at this, but so pursued the matter, that the Earle lad at ents, but no pursued the matter, that the state (saif by his negligence and printry the fame royall the Date and Caftle had beene loft) was condemned in Pariament. But the king relieued him with extention of fauour. This was a great cause of confirming the rancour alreadie kindled in the hearts of these two principall Peeres. But the Earle to wipe away all blemishes of disgrace, encloseth the Castle with a fiege both of forces and large proffers, so that after formetime spent therein, he had it redeliuered upon read by the Earle. paiment of two thouland marks.

(46) The Flemings had heretofore in the fifth A.D. 1385. yeere of this King, sent Ambassadors at the time of Parliament, to submit themselves and their Country to his dominion, renouncing alleageance to their naturall Lord the Earle, whom they had by force of Armes expelled, vpon pretence of oppression vsed by him, and for other causes; but because they seemed not either persons sufficient, or sufficiently instructed with authority, to transact with the King in a matter of so high nature, they were commanded to returne, and fetch more ample power, and to bring certaine men of euery good Towne in Flanders. Now againe, the Citizens of Gaunt, though they had in battell against the French King, (who was there in person on behalfe of the Earle,) * lost twenty thousand men not long before, delired of K. Richard, that they might have an English Generall to comard, that they might have an English General to com-mand in their warres; to whom was fent a with and valiant Gentleman, the Lord Edward is Bourfer, who demeaned himselfe in that charge with much com-mendation. And when afterwards he went more abundantly and Grosolie to keep abundantly and strongly to have supported them, they sodeinely turnd French, shewing Senescire (faith

Walfingham) vni amico, vel domino, fidem diu feruare. (47) The Duke of Lancaster (whose, or the like A. D. 1386. greatnesse may perhaps seeme more, then can stand | The Duke of with the narrow limits of England, which, without danger to the common wealth, can hardly afford fuch a proportion of effacto any Subject) was about this time enformed, that the King had a purpose to arrest his person, and to trie him vpon capitall points before Sir Robert Trifilian, his Chiefe Infitiar, a man ready, (vnder the Kings protection) to deliner judgement without respect to Titles. The King was nourished in this *deliberation by yong men, who combined against the Dukes life. This is Rich 2. ad. drawes upon his guard to his Castle of Pomfret in the North; neuertheleffe the hopes of wicked men, delighting in their Countreys miseries, and civill combuftions, were made void by the great diligence of the Kings mother, the Princesse Ioan, who spared not her continuall paines and expenses, in transiling betweene the King and the Duke, (albeit shee was exceeding tender of complexion, and scarce able to beare her owne bodies weight through corpulency)till they were fully reconciled. (48) It had indeed beene a most wretched time for a civill warre, not only because the French Admirall, Iohn de Vienna, had beene sent with forces

[Chap. 13. | Richard. IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch so.

Tilium. *Paul.Acusyl.

ed out of Scotland against the English, but for that the French prepared a generall invalion of England, having in hope already as it were deuoured it. There reigned at that time in France, Charles the fixth a yong and foolish Prince, (faith Tilius) who having in his treasury, left to him by his prudent father, * eighteene millions of Crownes, (and not only eighteene * # + Record. # $100 hundred thousand, *assome, fearing perhaps that the other fumme might feeme incredible, have written,)and being moreouer fet on fire with an inconfiderate loue of glory, rather then vpon any found aduife (though * some impute the Counsell to the faid Admiral) would needs undertake the conquest of our Countrey. These newes stirred all the limbs and humors thereof, though the event (God not fauouring the enterprize) was but like that of the Mountaine, which after long trauaile brought forth a ridiculous mouse, neuerthelesse it had beene a most desperate season for a citall warre to haue broken forth in England. (49) The preparations of the French doe hold notwithfianding, and the generall Rendeusu of them huge forces was at Slufe, in the Port whereof, and other places about, there were affigned to affemble for their transportation, * twelue hundreth saile of fhips. At the same time (as if the two young kings had beene riuals in thew of men) Richard raifeth fo great an army to ouerrun Scotland, as the like for beauty and number was neuer feene together, confifting wholy of Englishmen. But may wee beleeue that England could spare three hundreth thousand men, and as many horses for the vie of a warre? Certainely a needlesse multitude, but only to terrific the French with the fame, for there might have beene fewer, for any great Act which Richard (full of icalousie against his vncle of Lancaster, wherewith his head and heart were full,) effected. But we may the rather beleeve the account, for that Walfingham youcheth*Serieants at Armes (if he meane not Heralds by those words) whose office (he saith) it was to number the Hoft, and they affirmed the same. This is fure, that *among other the arguments vied by the Duke of Bury (one of the French Kings vncles) to frustrate this enterprize, he alleaged that the King of Bugland had muftred ten thousand horsemen, and one hundreth thousand Archers for his defence;

whereas the Admirall John de Vienna affirmed, that hauing feene the forces of the English, they were but eight thousand horsemen and threescore thou-fand foot; and he might well fay having feene: for, though Emplus bring him in speaking to the French King, and vaunting that he had encountred them, yet nothing is truer, then that the English re-turned out of Scotland without the least offer of bartell. The Admirall was willing indeed to have fought, but when he faw our Armie from the hil-tops, his

(50) While the Armie was vpon the way to ward Scotland, the Kings halfe-brother the Lord

Iohn Holland wickedly flew the Lord Stafford, fonne to the Earle of Stafford not farre from Yorke, being vpon his iourney to the Queene, whose favoured

Knight he was. For which heinous homicide the King scised vpon his whole estate, denying to his mothers most earnest praiers any pardon or grace for his brother. Which was to her so grecuous, furie gaue place to reason.

*Sernientes ad

John Tyllins in Chron, Paul, Aemyl,

Ghost at Wallingford. The young Lord tooke Sanctuary at Beuerley, and the King by his instice herein wanne the hearts of the faid Earle of Stafford, the Earle of Warwick, the Lord Baffet, and other great men of Staffords kindred and friends; neither did this empeach at all the prefent voyage. (51) The Scots and French in Scotland, freing themselues vnable to withstand such forces, had so retired themselues and all their goods, that when the English should come, they, (as Walfingham pleafantly faith) could fee no quicke things left but onlie embarckt in threescore saile of Ships, to be emploi-Owles. That which was greene in the fields, the horses denoured or trampled down, yet such harme, as the materials of buildings were capable of, was done. Edenburgh also and the * noble Abbey of Mailroffe were fired. The Duke of Lancafter per- The Duke of fwaded the King to march beyond the Frith or Scottish Sea (as his great Ancestors had done) to seeke out his enemies; but he, very suspicious that the Duke gaue him this counsell with a purpose to betray him to destruction by famine, and want, which he wasthere to looke for, expressed much displeafure and returned. The Dukes wordes notwithstanding and behaulour were tempered, with much duty and modesty; but that would not serue, till the Lords peeced their affections together by interceffion in the best manner the time would suffer. But the English host was scarce returned and discharged, when the Scots and French fodeinely powred themfelues forth vpon our Countrey, and did whatfoeuer that within fine or fixe daies after face gaue vo the

(52) To refift and endammage the French, there were appointed Admirals for the narrow Seas, the were appointed. Admirals for the narrow Seas, the Marker of Saint Inlens, and Sir Thomas Periek Knight, (the Earle of Northumberlands brother.) who did nothing worthy their fame or place. Only the Towneinen of Part/month and Dart, maund forth a few flipsattheir owne perill and charge, wherewith entering the riner of Soin (vpon which therewith . The verme of nowned Citties Roan and Paris are fituated) funcke fome of their enemies ships, tooke others, and a-mong them one of Sir Oliver de Clisson's, the goodlieft that France had. The successe answered their hopes, and they were enriched with the spoiles of their aduersaries, whom thus they compelled to beare the charge of their proper mischiefe.

hurt the fhortnes of time in their incursion could

(53) Meanewhile that the French lay at Slufe, attending the approch of their kings vncle the Duke of Burie, (who fauouted not this enterprize of inuafion, but fought as well by delaies, as by perswasion and authority to make it frustrate,) they of Games had gotten the Towne of Dam by the good liking of the Inhabitants, to whom the French gouernment was odious. For recouery whereof, the French King drew his armie (prepared against England) to the liege of Dam, which (the same being first secretie abandoned, after a moneths fiege and many repul les giuen to the French) was by him recourred. This, and other things, did to protract the great expedition intended, that (after walt of infinite treasure) Charles returned home, without having scene England, which was by these meanes most graciouslie freed by God from so dangerous, and greatly-feared an impression. But that the English might the better endure the fame, Iohn King of Portugall, hauing larely in great and bloodie battell (where some of the English and the English

(54) Of those French, which (after the Cloude of warre at Sluce was dispersed into ayre,) passed ouerland into their Countreys, many were taken and flaine by the Gauntiners. Their nauie was not leffe vnfortunate; for at one * time the English of Callis tooke of them eighteene, and the rage of weather Bbbbb

The Kings mo-ther dyeth being denied a pardor for her fonne the Lord Jobs Hollift deserved well of him,) overthrowne the Castilians, and thereby fetled his estate, fent into England fixe Galleys throughly well appointed, for Sea-feruice, though (as God would) there was no need of *Infellents.

Earle of Suffolke, with the yeerelie pension of 1000

Markes, was matter of more enuie; because he was not descended of such honourable Parents : a defect

(if it bee a defect) which none more willingly vpbraid to men of worth, then who themselves are terward created Earle of Huntington) was Conflable of the hoft, and Sir Ishn Mereaux (who had to wife one of the Dukes illegitimate children) was one of his Marshals. There were in this noble and excellently-well appointed Army, the Lords Talbot, Baf-fet, Willoughby, Fitz-walter, Poinings, Bradfton, Fitzwarren, Beaumont, Beauchampe, the Lord Pomiers à Gascoin, G.c. with very many worthy knights & valiant Esquiers, and achoise number of men of Arms, Archers and other Souldiers, to the number of *twenty thousand. The Duke tooke also with him his wife, the Lady Constance, and two daughters, which hee had by her, as * one relateth. (60) It was now the moneth of May, when the great Duke of Lancaster comming to take leave, had of the kings gift a Diademe of gold, and his Dutcheffe of the Queene another: he also commanded the English to call, and hold his vncle for a King. and to doe him answerable honour. But after all this, hee lay for a wind so long, till his whole prouifions were almost spent; at length yet, hee set forward. The first land they touched was neere to Breft in Britaine, where Sir Iohn Roch the Gouernour against the French, complained of two Forts built about him to empeach his quiet egresse; whereupon the Duke of Lancafter caused the to bee assaulted so both of them being taken by surrender, were ra wed to the ground, though some English first lost their lines, among which, was "Sir Robert Swimer ton, avaliant Kuight of Staffordfire, and John de Bolton a couragious Equier of To keffire, whom the foddine ruine of a Tower (ouetturned by mining) whelmed and flew outright. Sharpened with the fucmedand lew outright. Sampened with the ful-ceffe of this victorie, they commit themselues to God, and the Sea, and prosperously arriue with the whole Fleet in the Port Corone, or the Groyne, * in (61) The French (belike)thought England could not furnish an other Army for France, as the had for Spain: wherupon there was now no false nor vain rumor spread again, that the French would besiege Calis. The King to secure that pretious transmarine part of his Dominions, fent thither store of men and of all prouisions. The most eminent perfon was Henry Lord Percie, fonne to Henry Earle of Northumberland. This was hee whom the Scots Advision of the Scots

I fine was the witten in each of the Scots

(faith Walfingham) the patterne of all vertue and martiall promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and promple (bined: and indeed his nature did and bined: and indeed his nature did and bined: and bin (were his by-name; for hee made fuch ridings into the quarters about Calis, that they could neuer wish the quarters about Caus, mat they could neuer win a worse neighbour. After which, when the same went that the French king would not delay, or (as they call it) beleaguer Casis, but rather inuade Eng-land, hee returned to bee present where the greatest danger was expected. At this time, the English Sea men of warre, brought two French prizes to Sand-wich in which was taken a part of an hage ftrong Timber-wall, which the French king, preparing now for England; musifon, had caufed to bee built in length three miles, in height twenty foot, which had at euery twelve paces a Tower (ten foot higher) and each capable of ten men, the whole to be a detence for the Frenchencampments against our shot. and a thelter for theirs, there was also in the same Ships the Enginer and mafter workeman, who was an Englishman, and great quantities of powder, and store of Ordinance, together with the French Kings Master * Gunner. (62) There was in this time a great resemblance betweene England and France in the chiefe points of State. As England had Richard, so had France her Charles, both young Kings. Charles with an huge armie had prepared to inuade England, but did no-thing: Richard with no leffe forces entred Seatland, and did no great thing. 'Richard had vncles which bare great sway in the Realmes so had Charles. Richard had his vnde lohn more potent then the reft; Charles had his vacle Lewis. Isha vpon his wives

Chapeta Richard IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch so. ning; John prenailed fo farre as to fettle his child by marriage. The King and great Lords of France were glad(with any charge) to enjoy the absence of Lew-is, and Richard and his fauourites were not sad, that the Realme was for the present rid of Iohn.

(63) The forces of the French provided for this inuation of England, were reported in open Parliament (which the King held about Michaelmas in London) to confift of *15 Dukes, 26. Earles, two hundreth Lords, & an hundreth thouland fouldiers, and a thousand Ships, affembled about Slafe; with full purpose to take reuenge of all the euils which the English nation had formerly wrought in France; and to destroy the English kingdome. But though thefe reports were not fained, (for the French attended nothing in a manner but a faire gale of winde to bring them,) yet could not the King, without Capitulations made by the Duke of Glofter, obtaine any aides of money; fo that, whereas it feemed to the King, that by the Duke of Lancasters departure, he was become more free, yet had he left behind spirits much more stiffe and intractable, O deare Countrey, hadft thou not then beene apparantlie in Godsprotection, (for the French having stayd for a wind till Hallontide, and then having it halfe-way, were beaten backe, and the voyage made vtterly voyd) certainely thy ruine had then beene certaine. What shall wee thinke or say of those popular Lords, by this gentle King armd (to his owne bane) with power and greatnes, who under the spe-+ VigilS, Lauren, cious pretext of reforming abuses, did satisfic their enuic and inbred infolency ? (64) The King tels them, that England is, as they law, in manifest danger, and prayes their succour in money what is the answere? That the Duke of Ireland (for now the Marquesse of Dablin was made a Duke,) and Michaell at the Pole (so they scornfully called the Earle of Suffolke) and other must be remoued. Things are badly carried at home , fay they; (and they perhaps faid truly,) but where was The Lord Hear now the care of our Countrey ? God indeed turned Percie by-named Hotfor (ent to from vs the mercileffe point of the French iword: but here began the feeds of innumerable worfe miferies, neuer to be remembred without fighes and (65) The feedes (we fay) of those fearefull cala mities were then first here sowne, whose sum a flourifhing *VVriter in our age (willing neerely to have imitated Lucan, as hee is indeed called our * Lucan) doth not unfortunately expresse, though hee might rather have faid he wept them, then fung them; but fo to fing them, is to weepe them, I fing the civillwarres, tunneltuous broiles, And blondy factions of a mighty land; And commy jacous of a megaty and person services, Proof people heavy, proud with forraine spoiles, Proof themselves turne backe their conquering hand; While kinne their kinne, brother the brother foiles, Like Ensignes, all against like Ensignes bands Bowes against Bowes, a Crowne against a Crowne, While all pretending right, all right throwne downs. Megifter Gun-But Robert de Vere Saith Thomas Duke of Glocefter and his parry, was vinworthily created Duke of Ireland A Parallelizatio and De la Pale the Lord Chancellour feemed to the of the English onely great Lords (for fo they would feeme) to be in States in thefe the Kings debt. Strange colours for Subjects to capitulate with their Kings vpon giuing their joynt aides against the common enemy, now ready with one deftruction to operwhelme them all. The time they tooke to worke this pretended amend-ment in flate, was not well fitted. It fauoured of somewhat else besides the lone of common-weale Private ambitions and passions could not bee wan title claimeth the kingdomes of Caltile and Leon, Lewis by the gift of loss the Queene, claimes the ting in such oppositions. This is some mens judge Kingdomes of Naples and Sicil. Lewis went with ment let the lequels flew how just. Pari, Acryl. an Army of thirty thousand horse into Italie to at-(66) There were called up at this Parliament for defence of the Realme innumerable people out of al chieue his claime; with what force tolm fet forth Shires, which forces lay about London within twenyou have heard. But Lewis died without obtav-

The kings reply

"The Walfing.

tie miles round, and had no pay but lived vpon spoile. These at last were licenced to depart to be ready at warning. There was also the Lord Chan-cellour acctifed, of (we wot not what) petty crimes (for the abuses of following ages have made them feeme fo,) as for paying to the Kings Coffers but * twentie markes yeerely, for a fee-farme, whereof himfelfe receiued threefcore and ten, and fome fuch other. To pacific these great Lords, the Lord Chancellour is difgraced, and the feale taken from him, against the Kings will, and given to Thomas Arundell Bishop of Elye, and then the houses of Parliament yeelded to give halfe a Tenth, and halfe a Fifteenth, but vpon condition that it should be disposed of, as the Lords thought fir, for defence of the Realme. The money was thereupon deliuered to the Earle of Arundell to furnish himselfe for that purpose to the Sea. But to rid the Duke of Ireland out of the realme, the Lords were willing he should have those thirtie thousand markes, for which the heires of Charles of Blois, (who heretofore challenged Bri-ssine) were transacted to the French, vpon condition that the fayd Duke should passe into treland before the next Éaster. (67) The Parliament was no fooner diffolued, but the King recals the Earle of Suffolk to the Court, keeps both him, the Duke of Ireland and Alexander Nenile Archbishop of Yorke about his person, in greater fauour then before. Infomuch that at Christmas he made De-la-Pole to fit at his owne Table not in the viuall garment of a Peere but Princely robed. Surely therein not well; for fome of those great Lords, (though not by fo fweet meanes as were fit) did defire to waken him out of Courtly drowfinesse, and (as men that knew not what peace meant) to put him into actions worthy of his name and greatnes. These other persons were not so friended, or qualified, that they could support a King against an universal eagthact they could upport a king against any nucrai millike. But the King vpona stomacke doth it; so that saint wrassing some shere for some the Kings shared against the Peeres, that from thence forth he never, as it is sain, regarded them but fainedly. So much more dangerous sometime is the remedy then a very gree-(68) King Richard (whose ago and place stood in need of wifer instructions) not thus contented to haue whetted the displeasures of the greater Peercs, as if he had faid to himfelfe, Rumpatur « quifquis rum-pitur inuidià ; is further drawne, as was faid, to plot the death of his vncle, Thomas of Woodstocke Duke of Glofter, and other enemies of De-la-pole; who together being inuited to a feast (by the bloody deuise of Sir Nicholas Brambre late Lord Maior of Lon-The Lord Major of Long should together have perished. But the present Lord Maior Nicholas Exten (whom the conspirators would have had their Partaker, if it may be beleened)honeftly refused to affent. The Lords hereupon having admonition, refrained to come.

(69) The persons which were in the publike An.D.1387 enuie for their ouer-swaying grace with the King, were (asyou hanc heard) Robert de Vere Duke of Ireland, Michael de la Pole Earle of Suffolke, the faid Archbilhop, Sir Simon Burley Knight, and Sir Richard Stury: These men hearing that Richard Earle of Arundeland Thomas Earle of Nottingham, Marshall of England, * had encountred with a great Fleete of Aprilia,24 Frenchmen, Flemmings, Normans, and Spaniards, and taken aboue one hundreth faile of ships, and in them nineteene thousand tunnes of wine, deprayed the victorie, saying, that the vanguished were but Merchants, whose loues had beene more profitable to our Countrey, then so to stirre them to inexorable hatred. But these (saith one) who thus judged, were of King Richard chiefe fauoritei any matter which befermed fo potent a Prince, wee fay not (quoth our Authour) as concerning the ofe of Armes, but not even concerning those very recreations, which most of all become great spirets, as hunting hawking, and the like. But the Earles did more then meddle with Merchants (who yet were able to make dangerous refistances) for they landed at Brest in Bretaine, and with flances) for they innoce at prept in primine, must want great difficulty deliuered it againe from 10 bad neighbours as the two woodden Forts neerely built, where the other had flood, one of which they fired made of the most of the control of the and the other they mand with the English Garrifon of delisternice. Breft. Then stuffing it with all forts of provisions for a yeere, and furnishing the wants of the Souldiers with all necessaries, they returned, having worthily wonne the lone and praises of the people, Which, as they were also due to them from the king, yet comming to his presence, they (by these mens euill offices) had so cold entertainement, as they estfoones withdrew themselues from Court to live quietly vpon their owne at home. After them the braue young Henry Hotfpur, Lord Percy was fent (ill prouided) to the Sea; neuertheleffe he ventred, and returned (when his commission was expired) with ho-(70) One thing done by the Duke of Ireland was furelie full of wickednesse and indignitie. For the hauing to wife, a young, faire, and noble Ladie, way bis wife the and the Kings necre kineswoman, (for shee was Grandchild to king Edward by his*daughter Isabel,) did purher away, and took one of Queene Annes women, a Bohemian * of base birrh, called in her mother in Rich. 3. tongue Lancecrone. This intollerable villanie offea Salina daugh red to the blood royall, King Richard did not encounter; neither had the power, some say, who dee med that by witcherafts and socreties (practifed what had been a proposed to the power of the Third following the proposed to pon him by one of the Dukes followers) his indgement was so seduced and captinated, that he could not see what was honest or fit to doe. But where Princes are wilfull or flouthfull, and their fauorites flatterers or time-feruers, there needs no other enchantments to infatuate, yea and ruinate the greatest

"Ypod, Neuft,

*Martial

(71) The Duke of Glocester tooke the matter famy and confusion, which was brought thereby very low for the King how to bring the more to heart, refoluing to be reuenged for the in- A new confule pon his noble kinfewoman. Meanewhile the king, popular Lords as if he meant to conduct his deare friend, the Duke to a uiul. toward Ireland, went with him into wales. There the King deutleth with him, the Earle of Suffolke, Sir Robert Trefilian and others; (who were equally affrayd of the Lords) how to destroy the Duke of Glocester, the Earles of Arundel, Warwicke, Derby, Nottingham, and fuch others, as from whom they thought fitte to bee cleare. Much time being trifled thus away in Wales, they come together (as if the Dukes appointed voyage, or rather ba-(as it the Dukes appointed voyage, or rather pa-nifhment into Ireland, were quite forgotten) to the Castle of Natingham, there more freely to deliberate. A searefull estate of a Monarchie. Hee among a few, generally ill beloued, and ill aduised, and ill prouided; for their whole strength was the king, and these emulations made that force feeble both to him and them : the Lords, potent, martiall, rich, and popular, heat Notingham, they not neere him: but abroad farre-off, the Duke of Laneafter with the flower of the English forces, and mighty neighbours watching for the ruine of all. The course agreed vpon by the King and that illchosen Senate, was first to have the opinion of all The Lawyers the Chiefe Lawyers concerning certaine Articles of fent for to make Treason, within whose nets and sprindges they prefumed the reforming Lords were; and if the Lawyers (who seldome faile Princes in such turnes,) did conclude, that those Articles contained treasonable matter, then under a flew of inflice they flould bee proceeded against accordinglie. These Lawyers who were the very men, which in the last seditious Parliament, gaue aduise to the Lords to doe as they did) now meeting, were demanded, whether by the

the last Parliament : they jointly *answered; he might because hee was about the lawes: confessing that themfelues had in that Parliament decreed many things, and giuen their iudgement, that all was acording to law, which Bift Leceftrenf. now they acknowledged to be altogether unlawfull. The King thus enformed, appointeth agreat Councell to be holden at Nottingham, and lent for certaine Londoners, some of them such as were beholding to the King for mercie in cases of attaindour, to be there empanelled for Quests of Inquirie. The Sheriffes of Shires (being questioned)denied, that they could raise any competent forces against the Lords, their whole Counties were foaddicted in their fauour: & being further willed to fuffer no Knights to be chofen for the Shires, but fuch as the King & his Councell fhould name, they answered that the election belonged to the Commons who favoured the Lords (72) Vponthe 25.0f August there met before the King at Nottingham these Lawyers, Robert Trifilian his chiefe Luftitiar, Kobert Belknap chiefe Luftitiar of the common Pleas, John Holt, Roger*Stile-thorpe, & William Burgh Iustitiars in the Jame Court, "Fultherp vide Book: of Statut" A.11.Rich.2. and John Lokton the Kings Serieant at Law: all which being upon their allegiance charged to deliuer their *Those Arricles opinions, whether fuch * Articles as were there in the Kings behalfe propounded (which Articles comtu.A.s..R.s.c.12 prehended all the points of advantage taken against the proceedings of the last Parliament, and the displacing of the Lord Chancellor, Michael de Pole) contained matter of treason, they all of them anfwered affirmatively, and subscribed; which after-ward cost them deare. Judge Belknap foresaw the danger, and therefore was very vnwilling to put his for Crass in likelihood.

feale to the answeres; saying; there wanted but a *hurdle, aborse, and a halter, to carrie him where hee might suffer the death hee deserved; for if I had not done this (quoth he) I should have died for it, and because I have done it, I deferve death for betraying the Lordes. The King in the meane space puruaies himselfe of people to fight, if need required. (73) The Duke of Glocester (sadded with these newes, sent the Bishoppe of London to bring his purgation vpon oath to the King, who inclining to credite the same, was in an enill howre diverted by De la Pole. The Duke makes his and their common danger known to the Earles of Arundel, Warwicke, & Derby, eldeft sonne to the Duke of Lancaster. They law of the land the King might not difanull the Decrees of fenerally gather forces, that vnited they might prefent their griefes to the King, who to keep them from ioyning, fends the Earle of Northamberland to arreft the Earle of Arundel at Reygate in Surrey, where hee abode. But by reason of Arundels power, it was too dangerous a worke. Northumberland returnes and Arundel (admonished by the Duke of Glocester of his farther perill) escapeth in post to Haringey, where the Duke and Earle of Warmicke had store of (74) As yet no bloud was drawne Peaceable men procured that the Lords should repaire safe to Westminster, and there be heard. Thither approaching they are advertised by the Bishop of Elie and others (who had fworne on the kings behalfe for good dealing to be vied during the Interim) that, at the Mewes by Charing Croffe, a thousand armed men (which without the Kings prinity Sir Thomas Trinet and Sir Nuholas Brembre Knights were reported to have laid for their destruction)attended in ambush. The find for their definitions, the Lords come frong and truft no longer. The King royally adorned keepes state in Westminster Hall with manie his Prelates and Peeres about him; the Lords prefent themselves upon their knees, and being required by the Eishop of Else the Lord Chancellour (for The popular Lords bold and inverse to the king the Lord Dela Pole neuer had that place againe) why they were in warlike manner assembled at Haringey Parke, contrary to the lawes, their joint answere was, That they were affembled for the good of the King and bee continually held with him. The traitors they named to bee, Robert de Vere, Duke of Ireland, Alexander Neuile Archbishoppe of Yorke, Michael at the Pole Earle of Suffolke, Sir Robert Tressian that false suflitiar (quoth they) and Sir Nicholas Brambre that falle Knight of London. To proue them fuch, they threw downe their gloues, as gages of challenge for a triall to bee had by the fword. The King hereunto replied, as knowing that they were all hidden out of the way: This shall not bee done so, but at the next Parliament(which shall be the morrow after Candlemas) all parties shall receive according as they deserve. And now (faith hee) to yee my Lords; how or by what authority durst you presume to leuie force against mee in this land? did you thinke to have terrified mee by such your presumption? have not Imen of Armes, who (if it pleafedme) could enuiron, and kill you like Cattle ? Certainely in this respect I esteeme of you all no more, then as of the basest scullions in my Kitchens. Hauing vsed thefe, and many the like high words, hee tooke vp his vncle the Duke from the ground, where all this while hee kneeled, and bad all the other rife. The rest of the conference was calme, and the whole deferred till the next Parliament, then fhortly to be holden at Wellminster. In the meane time (that the world might see how little able the King was to equall his king dome, and to weed from about him fuch Traitors as words with deedes) a Proclamation is fet forth, in which the King cleareth the Lords (before any trial) of treason objected, and names those persons for vniust accusers, whom the Lords had before na (75) The factious Lords neuerthelesse thought not good to feuer themselues, but to keepe together for feare of the worst, which fell out to their aduantages for the Duke of Ireland (with the Kings prinitie)had gathered a power in Wales and Cheshire which they intercepting neere to Burford and Bab-blake, flew Sir William Molineux leader of the Che-Shire men, and some others, and made the Duke to flie in great feare. Among the spoiles of the Dukes carriages there were found (as the Diuell would have it) certaine letters of the King to the faid Duke of Ireland, by which their counsels were plainely difcouered. The Lords hereupon march with speede vp to London, having an Armie of about forty thoufand men. The King shuts himselfe vp in the Tower, but is glad before long to admit them to his presence. There they (vnreuerently inough) obiect mutability to him and his vnderhand workings; they obiected also, that hee had secretly practised to flie with the Duke of Ireland into France, and to deliuer vp to the French Kings policifion Callis, & fuch pieces as the Crowne of England held in those parts:to proue which dishonourable act, they (as some write) produced the French packets intercepted. This wrung teares (perhaps of disdaine) from the King, and hee yeelded to come to VV estminster vpon the next day, there to heare and determine farther. The King in figne of amitic stayed his Cosen the Earle of Derbie (the same who afterward dethroned him) to

Chap. 13. | Richard, IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 50.

Supper. O where was the courage of a King? The Lords in their owne quarrell could draw vp fortie thousand men; but in the generall danger of the Realme, when the Commons were vp, and the French hung ouer their heads, with no leffe harred then preparations, no such numbers appeared. Was it fortheir honour or praise, that their most rightful by their accesse, which drawne by just feare was contented to open the gates and harbour the Lords and their partakers. These Lords, who so often are

King should by their violence be driven to consult vpon flight out of his proper Kingdome? The Citie | An.D.1388. of London was also in no little perill at this present | An.Reg. 1 1.

called here the Lords, are named in our * Statute *Stat, 4 mu. 1 1, c. 1 bookes to be but thefe five; The Duke of Glocefter, the Farles of Derbie, Arundel, Warwicke and Marfbal. (76) The next day, hee would have deferred his Bbbbb a drowste when they should come to doe them. Such there-

The PV alfin, in Richard 2. ad A.D. 1386. fore conversing with the King (not * without Suspition of fowle familiaritie) neuer tooke care to put into his mind rather the Knights of Venus then Bellona , fitter for a Canapie then a Campe, for language then a lance, as they who were awake to discourse of martiall actions, but

604	Richard. IJ.	THE SVC	CESSION OF	Monarch 50.	Book.9		Chap-13	Richard IJ. ENGLANDS I	MONARCHS, Monarch so.
	repaire to westminster. The Kings Lords (for so they n	is being fignified to the	that they forthwith return (80) But these unneigh	ned. abourly hostilities soone	A. D.1389.			of foode. Thus having faid, he held downe his !	clap, fent with all speed into England, to perswade the
1	more Masters then the Kin	g) they labour not, by	after found some surcease,	there being a meeting at	A.reg. 12.		The Duke of Lancafter in his diffreise calleth	head, as he fate on horfebacke, and wept most bitter- ly, fecretly powring forth his praiers to almighty	King, that fuch Statutes as had beene thus made in
1	humble words, and duti-	ous reasons to perswade	Calis betweene the English	and French, about esta-	1		diffresse calleth	God, and most humbly beseeching mercy. From	their prejudice, who followed the Court of Rome, and fuch other clauses as tended to the dammage of the vic or necessity of his p			eit, because the French			vpon God, and is heard.	which time forward his affaires in Spaine succeeded	that See, should be made void; whereto the Kings him word, That if hee can	ce, and all good order lend	would have the Scot and S the conclusion was deferre	paniard included therein,			i	happily.	aniwere was, that the Popes Nuntio must expect till the
The rough and harth behaulour	appointment, they would choo	e them another King, who	resolued vpon for three ye	cres, the Scots being com-			"Roder.San.qua	(85) The warres had beene * sharpe and tedi- ous, but the end acceptable. For Don Inan king of	next Parliament. At which Parliament the King as of the Lords	both would and thould obey	the counsell of the Peeres	prehended therein.		1 1		faşıd.	Castile, a Prince of no cuill conscience, seeing the	alforthe Duke of Lancaster, seemed to have some re- spect to the Pope, (whose messenger was their Pre-
	They had him indeed amo	ngst them, whom (belike)	(81) King Richard (bei himselfe free to gouerne o	ing now of age) declares	The King de-		Conditions of	right which the Duke of Lancaster vrged, and fore-	fent) but the Knights of the house would not in any
1	they cuen then meant to h fay, the before faid Earle of	aue lurrogated, that is to	controlement, or help of a	t himielte, without either	to be of age, and		perpetualiamity betweene the K.	feeing what calamities might happen hereafter,	wife give their confents, that fuch * Rome-padders (hould
1	of Lancaster. The Lords	certainely had to behaued	felected to that place, and	in token that he was at li-	ment vpon him.		of Sprine and the Duke of Lanca- Her.	if (as was feared the French should match with him,	without due punishment pur sue their wonted cour le langer
1	themselues towards the	King, that they well faw	berty, he takes the Great S	icale of England from Tho-			Her.	fought and obtained a firme peace. The Principall conditions were: That the Lord Henry, his fonne	then till the next Parliament. To furnish the Duke of Lancaster into France, to treat of a peace, and your
1	they must bee masters of h	is perion and power, or	mas Arundel Archbishop o	f Yorke, (Alexander Neuill				and heire, should marry the Lady Katherine, daugh-	condition that the King should that yere inuade seet
1	themselves in the end per	riin. Apreposterous and inuer	being attainted and fled) Councell Chamber. Af	and departs out of the	1 1		1	ter and heire to the Duke and Constance his wife;	land, large contributions were there made, both by
1	ted manner) attending h	us Subjects pleasures a	· I and gines is backers willia	m Michhau (sho * nam	1		1	That the Lord Henry (during his fathers life) should	Clergy and Laity. Hereupon the Lord Henry Percy
1	Westminster, heavily and	vnwillingly is drawne to	ned Bishoppe of Wincheste	r) who was vnwilling to	of the two fa-			be called Prince of Afturia, and Katherine his wife Princesse: That * for default of issue betweene	Hollpur (who had redeemed himfelf) was called from his charge at Callia, and made Warden of the Mar
Persons remo- ued from about	disclaime Alexander Neuil	Archbishoppe of Yorke, the	ned Bishoppe of Wincheste haue accepted the same.	Hee also puts out sundrie	in Oxford and		*The VValfa.	the young Princely couple, the Crowne should	ches against Scotland; Thomas Monbray Earle of Not the King.	Bishops of Duresme and C and Beaumount with funds	hichefter, the Lords Souch	Omcers, reductioning fact	others as beit liked nim.	Wincheller.		26 A.c.a.	the young Princely couple, the Crowne should come to the Lord Edward Duke of Yorke, who had	ting ham succeeding in the Captaineship of Calve. The
1	Male-fexe onely suspected	to these curious pruners	From the Conneell Table he mas of Woodftocke Duke of	Gloceller the Forle of war			*Febian.	married the other daughter of King Peter. That	Dukes chargefull emploiment in France bare no o-
1	the Lady Poinings, and o	ther Ladies were also re-	wicke, and others; which	(as it might) encouraged			Caxton.	the king of Spaine should lade *eight Cars with wed- ges of gold for the Duke, or (as * some write) pay two	ther flower, then a yeeres short truce. (89) The Kings wants still encreasing with his
1	moued, and put vnder ba	ile to aniwere fuch thing	the Dukes enemies about	he King, to doe cuill offi-			*Holinfo.	hundreth thousand nobles, toward the defrayment	imploiments; the Londoners (carried away with e-
1	as should bee objected. am Elinham, Sir Iohn Beau	Sir Simon Burley, Sir Willi	ces betweene them. Yet	the king did not present-	1 1		Pag. 450.	of the Dukes huge charges; That finallie he should	uill counfell) did a thing moft vnworthy of their Ci-
1	Salisbury, Sir Thomas Triu	enampe Of Holf, Str 10th	ly credite what was whifp ning a purpose suggested to	ered into his eare, concer-			" Tood.Neugl.	give sufficient Caution for an Annuitie of ten thou-	tie and themselues, and it might to them have proł	Richolas Dagworth and Sin	r Nicholas Brambre knight	forces againe , but acqua	inting him withall, was fa-				land pounds, during the liues of the faid Duke and Dutchesse, to be duly paid to their vies at the City of	ued as hurtfull, as it was vnworthy, at fuch time as
1	with certaine Clerks wer	e apprehended, and kep	tisfied. Neuerthelesse, he v	vould not fuffer the Duke			*stalinfied	* Bayon in Gascoigne,	the King * desired the loane but of one thousand pounds: which was not onely churlishly denied but
1	in straite prison, to answer	e fuch acculations (what i	f to purfue an orderly or a	ny reuenge vpon the Au-	-		"Helinsbed. The Duke of	(86) The King, at fuch time as the Duke of	a certaine Lumbard, honeftly offering to lend the
1	meere calumniations?) a Westminster should be obi	is in the next Parliament a effect	thors, whom indeed it had punished in an exemplary	beene wildome to haue		1	Lancefler doth	Lancaster returned, was at Reading, whither he had	fame, was badly vied, beaten, and almost flain. Their
1	(78) The Parliament	began at Candlemas, wher	(82)Michael de la Pole la	tte Earle of suffolke (whom		1.	ľ	commanded the Peeres to repaire. To that meet- ing the Duke makes haft, aswell to present his dutic	liberties for that and other *diforders are feifed, and the King was vnwillingly	present: The first day o	f the popular Lord shad n	nade most odious to the			1	to his Soueraigue, as to be an authour of loue and	their proper Magistracy dissoluted, (Guardians being given them, first Sir Edward Dallinging, then Sir
Historia Lecustren.	the Seffion, all the Judges	Fulthrop, Belknap, Care	English) died at Paris in o	xile, bequeathing such	1 1		1	peace betweene the king and Lords, against some of	Baldwin Radington) and their Maior, and some chiefe
1	Hott, Burgh, and Lockton in Judgement on the Ben	were arrested as they lat	goods as hee had there to ! also breathed out his grief				ĺ	whom the King was not thought to be verie fauou-	Citizens layed in prisons farre off from London. The ı	to the Tower. The cause	ealleadged was, that ha	at laft in Brahant.	es in Daniminent, and the	1 1		1	rably disposed. Which he gratiously effected, as seeming to addict his mind to offices of piery and	punishment brought the fowlenesse of their errors
1	uing first ouerruled them	with their counsels and di	(83) The Dake of	Lancafter the meane while,	.1 1		The Duke of	publike benefit, Certainely the wifdome and mo-	to their fight; but by the Duke of * Gloefters inter- ceffions (who did not vnwillingly lay hold vpon
1	rections, which they affur to law, they afterward at	ed them to be according	returnes into Gafcoigne ou	t of Spaine, and not long			Yorkes carriage worthily praised.	deration of the Duke of Torke his brother, were	such occasions of popularity) the king and Queene
1	iudgement to that which t	worung nam gaue contrari	after into England. The i	uccelic of that voyage (be-				fuch, in all the late, and other tumults, that he is not	are wonne to enter the City, which gaue them tri-
1	red. Tryfilian the chiefe	Iuftice preuented then	was briefly this. John Kin	owne of Caffile * alledged that			1	fo much as once named among the factious; which	umphall entertainement. The sea is not sodainely
i	by flight, but being appr	rehended, and brought to	Constance the Dukes wife	was not right heire. hur	2 Pader Carries			Christian spirit if it had raigned in all the rest, Eng- land had never beene polluted with such infanite	calmed after a tempest, neither a Princes anger. By degrees yet, and not without deare repentance, they
1	the Parliament in the for	renoone, had fentence to	he. For, albeit the Lady o	constance was eldest daugh-	Archiep. Toletan. Hij.Hift.part.4		1	bloodshed of her noblest Children; neither had the	were at last restored to their former condition in all be drawne to Tyberne in to to have his throat cut; wi	ne arrernoone, and ther	ter and heire to Peter fonn	e of Aijonje, whole father ane of Sanchez the fourth.			1	goodlie fabricke of state, laden with innumerable	points.
The Dake of	ly. Six Nicholas Brambre	turne was next. Thi	and he sonne of Atfonse th	e tenth, all Kings of Spain	:		j	trophees, falne vnder that most hideous Chaes, which	(90) The king declaring his purpose to crosse innew Troy or	Brambre(faith Walfingham)	was faid to have imagine	fucceffinely;yet,that neith	er Constance, Peter, Alfonse.			A.D.1390.	fucceeding ages faw and fighed for,	to Ireland, had an aide of money conditionally granted: four yeeres truce by the trauaile of the
1	to be made Duke of new Tr	oy (the old supposed nam		ad the right. His reason			i An.reg. 12.	(87) The King vpon the Duke of Lancasters returne, whether hee felt the keeping of Aquitaine	two Dukes of Lancaster and Glocester being conclu-of London) by murthering (whose names hee had billed	tnoujanas of juch Citizens for that purpole \across fur	of Almaine) had, before he	enth, (choien Emperous			The Duke of Lancafor made	an unprofitable burthen, or the abtence of his uncle	ded in France. This yeere was farther notable
1	pected of likelihood to refift h	im. Then Sir John Salis	- elder sonne called Ferdina	nd de la Cerda, who marri			Duke of Aqui.	the Duke, a thing worthie to be purchased at anie rate, certaine it is, that in a Parliamene held at Lon-	for many great Funerals. Conftance Dutcheffe of A
1	bury, and Sir James Berne	es two young Knights, Si	r ed Blanch the daughter	of Saint Lewis King of			teine.	don, he vested in him that famous Dutchy, by deliue-	quitaine and Lancaster, a Lady of great *Innocency and deuotion: the Counteste of Derby her daugh
1	Iohn Beauchamp of Holt, Sto the King, and Iohn Blake	eward of the Household t		rended Alfonse de la Cerda				ring the Cap of State, and Ducal Rod; whither hee	ter in law. If abel the Dutcheffe of Torke, and a Lady
1	crificed to reuenge. Sir	Simon Burley onely had th	e (ine) and Fernand who	King, but died without if			F	fhortly went to take possession. His sonne, Henrie of Bullingbroke Earle of Derbie, loath to spend his	noted for too great a finenesse and delicacy, yet a
1	worthippe to haue but his	s head strucken off.Loe th	e Iohn, tonne of the Infant o	f Portugali Emmanuel.mo-	.[1	houres in floath, but defirous to purfue renowne by	her death shewing much repentance and forrow for her loue to those pestilent vanities, left this present
1	noble respect which the g	entle Lords had to inflic	e ther to the Lady Iname w	ife of King Henry the fe-	.]		ł	martiall Acts in forreine parts, failed oner to the	life. But all the griefe for their deaths did in no for
į.	and amendment. This weake or flothfull Princ	was no age (wee lee) tor	a cond, father of John King	of Castile defendant.	1		f.	warres in Prusia, where in fundry enterprizes against	equall that of the kings, for the loffe of his owner
1	the people, and then the i	Peeres, foile and tramp	would not ferue : for king	made by the Castilian, adomes are not vied to be			Beary of Bulling. brake fockes ad- uentures into Germany.	the Lithuanians, he wan great honor, which, by com-	Queene Anne, which about the same time hapned a
1	the regall authority vnde	rfoote: the Duke of In	pleaded for by Bil and Ai	were: The English and			Bentures into	parison of King Richards Calmnes, prepared a way for him in the Englishes affections, to points more	Sheene in Surrey, whom he loued even to a kind o madneffe: but Ladies onely died not; for Sir John land, the Archbishoppe	of Yorke, the Earle of Su	Portugals ioine their force	es. To the Duke(by rea	.1		Germany.	cminent.	Hawkwood, whose cheualrie had made him renow folke and others, had thei	reltates confiscated to th	e fon of his wives presence	e,) manie did voluntarily	/ [l .	(88) The Pope now understood that the Eng-	ned ouer the Christian-world, did in this yeere de
.48.10.0 11.	Statutes may bee feene,	ament, as in the * booke o	of submit themselues; all di de Perez on the behalfe of	d not; for Don * Aluarez	Polyd. Perg. 1, 20		1	lish State began againe to be sensible of Romish en-	part an aged man out of this world in Florence, where
K168.2.	of the whole proceeding	s.		Duke in his march to Bur			"A.R.13. Vol.lib.Stat.	croachments; and as in a * former Parliament they had enacted against all Collations of Bishoprickes	his after remaine honoured at this prefent with a ftately Tombe, and the statue of a Manat Armer.c
	(79) These troubles be	oiling and burning within	ges, and was ouerthrowne	. Other aduentures that	:		1	and dignities by the Pope, with banishment to all	rected by the gratitude of that State and City, which
1	in the Bowels of the Stat	e, the Scots abroad had o	warreafforded, but fick	seffe happing in the Fig.	En. 10. 1		ł	which did accept fuch Collations, and death to althat	chiefly by his conduct, courage and valour (to this
1	the conduct of Sir William	North of England, vnde	mong them the Lord Fit.	my of the principall, and a	-		1	brought in any excommunications from the Pope, to hin-	day admired amongst them) was preserved. The Ita
1	knight, a parallel and riva	all in the honour of Arme	Knights, Efquires, and n	nen of armes almost chree			*Yood, Neuft.	der the execution of that AEF; fo in this last Parliament,	lian Writers, both * Historians and * Poets, highlicelebrating his matchlesse prowesse entryle him,
1	to Henry Hotfpur, Lord	Percy, whom Hot/pur figh	hundreth. Moreouer t	he penurie was fuch, that			544	*another seuere Act was made, against such as went to the Pope to procure any such provisions. A Proclama-	-Anglorum decus & decus addite genti
1	ting hand to hand flew in	battell: but the Earle of	f fundrie revolted to the e	nemy to get reliefe which	x I		ibid.p.$45.	tion also was made at London, * that all beneficed men	Italica, Italico prasidiumo; Solo.
1	Dunbar comming with an tooke Botfpur and his bro	excessive number of Scot	s, being * scene of the King Duke he would set vpon	them as Francisco I	" The Walf.			tion also was made at London, * that all beneficed men then being in the Court of Rome, should returne by a day
	ny English, not without	fuch loffe to themselves	faid no, for that he knew	they did it onely for lack			stanes frigore	prefixed, or loofe all their liuings. The Pope himfelfe (laith walfingham) troubled with * fo great a thunder.	Englands prime honour, Italies renowne,
	1		-1 ,				furbatm.	(lauch wayingham) troubled with - jo great a thunder.	Who upheld all Italie from finking down. Bu of foode. Thus having faid, he held downe his head, as he fate on horsebacke, and wept most bitterclap, fent with all speed into England, to perswade the A.D. 1391. King, that fuch Statutes as had beene thus made in ly, fecretly powring forth his praiers to almighty their prejudice, who followed the Court of Rome, God, and most humbly beseeching mercy. From and fuch other clauses as tended to the dammage of which time forward his affaires in Spaine succeeded that See, should be made void ; whereto the Kings answere was, that the Popes Nuntio must expect till the The warres had beene * sharpe and tedinext Parliament. At which Parliament the King, as ous, but the end acceptable. For Don Inan king of also the Duke of Lancaster, seemed to have some re-Castile, a Prince of no cuill conscience, seeing the spect to the Pope, (whose messenger was their Preont of all amity right which the Duke of Lancafter vrged, and forefent) but the" Knights of the house would not in any fecing what calamities might happen hereafter, wise give their consents, that such * Rome-gadders should if (as was feared the French should match with him, without due punishment pursue their wonted course, longer then till the next Parliament. To furnish the Duke fought and obtained a firme peace. The Principall conditions were : That the Lord Henry, his sonne of Lancafter into France, to treat of a peace, and vpon and heire, should marry the Lady Katherine, daughcondition that the King should that yere inuade Scotland, large contributions were there made, both by ter and heire to the Duke and Constance his wife : That the Lord Henry (during his fathers life) should Clerey and Laity. Hereupon the Lord Henry Percy. be called Prince of Afturia, and Katherine his wife Princesse: That * for default of issue betweene Hospur(who had redeemed himself)was called from his charge at Callis, and made Warden of the Marthe young Princely couple, the Crowne should ches against Scotland; Thomas Monbray Earle of Notcome to the Lord Edward Duke of Yorke, who had tingham succeeding in the Captaineship of Calys. The married the other daughter of King Peter. That Dukes chargefull emploiment in France bare no othe king of Spaine should lade *eight Cars with wedther flower, then a vecres short truce. ges of gold for the Duke,or (as * some write) pay two (89) The Kings wants still encreating with his A.D. 1392. hundreth thousand nobles, toward the defrayment imploiments, the Londoners (carried away with e-Landau in de of the Dukes huge charges; That finallie, he should uill counfell) did a thing most vnworthy of their Citie and themselues, and it might to them have progive sufficient Caution for an Annuitie of ten thoufand pounds, during the liues of the faid Duke and ued as hurtfull, as it was vnworthy, at fuch time as Dutchesse, to be duly paid to their vies at the City of the King * defired the loane but of one thousand * Bayon in Gascoigne, pounds: which was not onely churlishly denied but (86) The King, at fuch time as the Duke of a certaine Lumbard, honeftly offering to lend the same, was badly vsed, beaten, and almost slain. Their Lancaster returned, was at Reading, whither he had commanded the Peeres to repaire. To that meetliberties for that and other *diforders are feised, and *Fabian & Can-ton; bur. Stom millukes their ad-ditions of other ditorders. ing the Duke makes haft, aswell to present his dutie their proper Magistracy dissoluted, (Guardians being given them, first Sir Edward Dallinging, then Sir to his Soueraigue, as to be an authour of loue and peace betweene the king and Lords, against some of Baldwin Radington) and their Maior, and some chiefe whom the King was not thought to be verie fauou-rably disposed. Which he gratiously effected, as Citizens layed in prisons farre off from London. The punishment brought the fowlenesse of their errors *Tood.Neuff. feeming to addict his mind to offices of piety and to their fight , but by the Duke of * Glocefters interpublike benefit, Certainely the wifdome and moceffions (who did not vnwillingly lay hold vpon deration of the Duke of Yorke his brother, were (uch occasions of popularity) the king and Queene fuch, in all the late, and other tumults, that he is not are wonne to enter the City, which gaue them tri-umphall entertainement. The sea is not sodainely fo much as once named among the factious; which Christian spirit if it had raigned in all the reft, Engcalmed after a tempest, neither a Princes anger. By land had never beene polluted with fuch infinite degrees yet, and not without deare repentance, they were at last restored to their former condition in all A.D. 1393. bloodshed of her noblest Children; neither had the goodlie fabricke of flate, laden with innumerable trophees, falne under that most hideous Chaes, which (90) The king declaring his purpose to crosse infacceeding ages faw and fighed for, to Ireland, had an aide of money conditionally (87) The King vpon the Duke of Lancasters returne, whether hee felt the keeping of Aquitaine granted: foure yeeres truce by the trauaile of the two Dukes of Lancaster and Glocester being concluan unprofitable burthen, or the absence of his uncle ded in France. This yeere was farther notable the Duke, a thing worthie to be purchased at anie for many great Funerals. Constance Dutchesse of Aquitaine and Lancaster, a Lady of great *Innocency and deuotion: the Counteste of Derby her daughter in law, stabel the Dutchesse of Torke, and a Lady rate, certaine it is, that in a Parliamene held at London, he vested in him that famous Durchy, by delinering the Cap of State, and Ducal Rod; whither hee noted for too great a finenesse and delicacy, yet at shortly went to take possession. His sonne, Henrie of Bullingbroke Earle of Derbie, loath to spend his her death shewing much repentance and sorrow for houres in floath, but defirous to purfue renowne by her loue to those pestilent vanities, left this present martiall Acts in forreine parts, failed ouer to the life. But all the griefe for their deaths did in no fort warres in Prusia, where in fundry enterprizes against equall that of the kings, for the losse of his owne the Lithuanians, he wan great honor, which, by com-Queene Anne, which about the same time hapned at parison of King Richards Calmnes, prepared a way Sheene in Surrey, whom he loued even to a kind of for him in the Englishes affections, to points more madneffe: bur Ladies onely diednot; for Sir John Hawkwood, whose cheualrie had made him renow-(88) The Pope now understood, that the Engned ouer the Christian-world, did in this yeere delish State began againe to be sensible of Romish enpart an aged man out of this world in Florence, where croachments; and as in a * former Parliament they his ashes remaine honoured at this present with a had enacted against all Collations of Bishoprickes flately Tombe, and the flatue of a Man at Armes, c. and dignities by the Pope, with banishment to all which did accept such Collations, and death to althat rected by the gratitude of that State and City, which chiefly by his conduct, courage and valour (to this day admired amongst them) was preserved. The Itabrought in any excommunications from the Pope, to hinder the execution of that All; fo in this last Parliament lian Writers, both * Historians and * Poets, highlie Frank, Joseph *another seuere Act was made, against such as went celebrating his matchlesse prowesse enstyle him, to the Pope to procure any such provisions. A Proclama--Anglorum decus, & decus addite genti tion also was made at London, * that all beneficed men Italica, Italico prasidiumo; Solo. stem being in the Court of Rome, spould returned by a day prefixed, or loose all their linings. The Pope himselfe (laith wassingham) troubled with * so great a thunder. Englands prime honour, Italies renowne, Who upheld all Italie from finking down.

An.D. 1396.

the vanity of worldly ambiti-on in Princes.

Little did he then thinke, that within leffe then fixescore and three yeeresafter, an * Ambassador of King Henry the 3. Should write thus of Burdeaux it selfe, the Capitall City of Gascoign and Guien: Anglorum nulla ferè vestigia remanent, & c. There are (saith that learned Gentleman) scarse any soot-prints of the Englishmen remaining. In the Churches, and o-ther places newly restricted and reedified, such Armories of the English as stood, were utterly blatted and defaced: yet in the Church of the Fryers Preachers, the Armories of the Duke of Lancaster stand entire in a Glasse-window, and in the oldest wall of the City those alfoof England though confumed in a manner with age: The Lawes, Statutes and Ordinations which were made

(as * Polydor censures him,) a most fierce man, and of an "Hiff. Aug lib. 20 headlong wit, thinking those times, wherein he had mastred the King, were nothing changed, though the King was aboue thirty yeres old, forbare not, roughly, not so much to admonish, as to checke and schoole his Souereigne. The peace with France displeased him, that therefore he calumniates. The King had restored Brest in Britaine to the Duke, vpon reembursements of the money lent; he tels the King that hee should first conquera Towne, before he parted with any; yet the King answeres, that he could not in conscience detaine the same, now that the Duke had repaid his loane. There were other things which could not so well be answered. For a vaine rumor

A.rcg. 21:

*Libr. Stant. Anns. Rich."

ton; Thomas Beaufort Earle of Somerfet, John Monta-eute Earle of Salisbury, Thomas Lord Spencer and Sir william Scroope Lord Chamberlaine.

(100) In September begins the Parliament at London, where the king had a great guard of Cheffbire men to secure his person, and the Lords attended also not without sufficient numbers. The Kings chiefe Agents were Sir Iohn Bufby, Sir William Bagod, and Sir Henry Greene knights. In the first act (after the liberties of the Church and people confirmed,) we find thefe words. The commons of the Parliament have shewed to our Souereigne Lord the King, bow in the Parliament holden at Westminster, the fir day of Ottober, in the tenth yeere of his reigne; Thomas

Dake of Glocester, and Richard Barle of Arundell, trasas Traitors. But the King, to content all parts, and to kindle new lights in the place of fuch as he had to kindle new lights in the place of their as nemate extinguished, hauing first created himselfee * Prince of Chester, made his cosen Henry Earle of Derby, Duke of Hereford; the Earle of Rusland Duke of Ammari; Dukes and State of the Chester Earle of Rusland Duke of Ammari; the Earle of Nottingham Duke of Norfolke; the Earle states, of Kent Duke of Surrey; the Earle of Huntington, Duke of Excester; the Earle of somer et Marquelle Derfet, the Lord Spencer Earle of Glocefter; the Lord Neuile Earle of Westmorland; William Strope Earle of wiltshire; Thomas Percy Earle of Worcester. The King alfo (faith Walfingham) added to his Scucheon Royall, the armories of Saint Edward King and con-

A 2222 2

(103) The formost in this goodly ranke, being Henry Duke of Hereford, not long after accused

Thomas Duke of Norfolke, of certaine words founding to the kings dishonour, which hee should priuately viter to the faid Henry. *Polyder (though very negligently hee makes Mombray the Accuser, and Hereford Defendant) may yet be heard in reporting the effect of the words, as That King Richard held the Peeres of the land in no account, but as much as lay in him (ought to destroy them, by banishing some, and putting others to death. That hee neuer troubled his mind with confidering how his Dominions were diminished through his I dienesse. Finally, that all things went to wracke, as well in peace as war. But the Duke of Norfolke, (who vnleffe it had beene to feele how the Duke of Herefords heart was affected to the king had little reason so to complaine) most constantly denying that euer he spake such wordes; it should have come to a combat within lifts; but the king to auoid(as hee pretended) fuch deadly fewds as might rife in the families of two such potent Peeres, but (indeed to bee rid of an enemie with the losse of a friend) banished Norfolke for cucr, and Hereford first for ten yeeres, then for fixe. Walfingham faith that this confure was given against Norfolke, vpon that very day in which the yeere before, he(by the kings commandement) had taken order for putting to death the Duke of Glosester at Callis, whereof the faid Duke of Norfolke had the Captaineship.

An.D.1300 An.Reg.22

"Ypad News.

(104) Fearefull were the tragedies which enfu-ed these times; and heare now what is written of some Portents or wonders, presaging the same. The * Bay or Laurell trees withered ouerall England, and afterward reflourished, contrary to many mens opinion; and vpon the first of Ianuary, neere Bedford towne, the river between the villages of Swelflow and Harleswood where it was deepest, did vpon the fodgine frand ftill, and fo divided it felfe, that the bottome remained drie for about three miles space, which seemed (faith Walfingham) to portend that revolt from the King, and the division which

(105) Roger Mortimer Earle of March, Lieutenant of Ireland, having in the yeere before, while he too much* trufted to his owne Forces, been flaine with very many others, by * O-Brin, and the Irish of Lein-ster, at a place called Kenin; King Richard determines in person to reuenge the bloud of his Noble kinfman, being the man to whom hee meant the Crowne of England, if iffue failed to himfelfe. Hee remembred not how broken an estate hee had in England, where the peoples hearts were firongly alienated, not onely for the death of the late great Lords, and banishment of the Duke of Hereford, (whole calamitie encrealed his popularity) or for the like paffed exasperations, but for that (to furnish his Irish voyage) he had extorted money on al hands, taking vp carriages, victuals, and other necesfaries, without any recompence; whereby the hatred of his government grew vniucrfall.

(106) But the euill fortune which hung over his head, laid forth an alluring batte to hafte his destru-Ction, by occasion of the Duke of Lancasters decease, which hapned about Candlemas, and the absence of his banished sonne and heire Lord Henry. The king (most vniustly) seizeth vpon the goods of that mighty Prince his vncle, & as if all things now were lawfull, which but liked him, he determines to banish the new rightfull Duke of Lancaster Henrie, not for a few yeeres, but for euer; for which cause hee reuoked his Letters Patents granted to the faid Henry. by which his Atturnyes were authorised to sue his Liverie (and to compound for the respite of his homage at a reasonable rate; whereby he made it seem plaine to the world, that hee had not banished him to auoid diffentions, but (as many faid) to fill vp the breaches which his riote had made in the roiall treasures, with plentifull (though an vindue) Escheate, as that of his deceased uncles fortune.

(107) The one stedfast base and buttresse of all lawfull Empire, is Iustice; that supports the kinglie throne. This he ouerthrew, and how then could himselfe hope to stand long? He lands at Waterford . Annal. Hibers. in Ireland with a Nauie of * two hundreth ships, ha- apad Cambd. uing with him the sonne of the late Duke of Glocester, and of the now Duke of Lancafler, to secure himselfe the rather. * His forces consisted much of Cheshire men. But that king is deceived, who repofeth his safetie in violence. It was no great matter hee did there, that which fell out to bee done elsewhere, was great indeed. His warre in Ireland was more dammagefull, then fifting with an hooke of gold, for here the baite and hooke was not onely loft, but the line, rod, and himselfe, were drawne altogether into the depthes of irrecoverable ruine. Duke Henry fees the advantage which King Richards absence gaue him, and vseth it. In his Companie were Thomas Arundel the banished Archbishoppe of Canterbury, and his Nephew the sonne and heire of the late Earle of Arundel, and not aboue fifteen Lanciers. His Brength was (where the Kings should have beene) in the peoples hearts. Neuerthelesse, the Duke did not fodainely take land, but houered vpon the Seas, shewing himselfe to the Country people in one place now and then in another, pretending nothing but the recouery of his rightfull Heritage.

(108) Edmund Duke of Yorke, whom King Richard had left behind him to gouerne England, hearing this, cals vnto him Edmund Stafford Bishoppe of Chichefter, Lord Chancellor, the Earle of Wilifhire, Lord Treasurer, and the Knights of the Kings Councell, Bufnie, Baget, Greene, and Ruffell. Their conclusion was to leuie a force to impeach Duke Henries entrance. The affembly was appointed to bee at S. Albans, which came to worse then nothing, for the protestation that they would not hurt the Duke, whom they knew to bee wronged was generall. This made the Treasurer Sir Iohn Bushie, and Sir Henrie Greene flie to the Castle of Bristoll, Sir William Bagot to Chefter, from whence he got shipping into Ireland. Meane while Duke Henry lands at a village heretoforecalled Rauenshire, towhom repaired Hen-ry Earle of Northumberland, his sonne Henry Lord Percie, lands at Newill Earle of Westmerland, and many others, who (saith Walfingham) greatly feared King Richards tyrannie. With an Armie of about threescore thousand (multitudes offering their seruice) they come to Bristoll, besiege the Castell, take it, and in the same the foresaid Treasurer Bushie and Greene, whose heades (at the cries of the Commons) were the next day after their surrender seuered from their bodies.

(109) King Richard was in the City of Dublin, when these most heavie newes arrived. His courage which at no time feemed great, was shortly none at all. Somewhat must bee done : hee leaues the sons of Duke Henry, & of his late vncle of Glocefler (which hee retained as pledges for his owne indemnity) in the Castell of Trim, and returnes himselfe into England, entending to encounter the Duke before his force should bee too much established. The great names which accompanied him, were his late noble Creatures, the young Dukes of Aumarle, Excester, and Surrey, the Bishops of London, Lincolne and Car-leol, and many others. There had beene some more hope for vpholding his right, if hee had not made the worlde know, that tenneyeers space was not able to burie in him the appetite of reuenge, which made many forget their owne loyalty to him, and the Crowne. Princes fee in him the vse of obliuion: but some conscience of cuill deserts seeming to haue taken from him all confidence, he dismisseth his Armie, bidding his Steward Sir Thomas Percy & others to referue themselves for better dayes. (110) His last refuge is in Parlea. For that cause there repaired to him, at the Castell of Conway in Northwales, (for thither he was now come) the late Archbishoppe of Canterbury, and the Earle of Northumberland at the Kings appointment : The fum of his demaundes were, that if hee and eight, whome he would name, might have honourable allowance, with the assurance of a quiet private life, he would resigne his Crowne. This Northumberland did sweare should be: whereupon he forthwith departs to the Castle of Flint in their company. After a short conference there had with the Duke, they all ride that night to the Castell of Chester, being attended by the Lancafirian Armie. If, to spare his peoples bloud, he was contented fo tamely to quit his royall right, his fact doth not onely not feeme excusable, but glorious; but men rather thinke that it was floth, and a vaine trust in diffimulation, which his enemies had long fince discouered in him, and for that cause, both held his amendment desperate, and ran themselues into these desperate Treasons. (1,11) The King did put himselfe into the Dukes hands vpon the twentieth day of August, beeing but the forty and scuenth from the Dukes first landing. From thence they trauell to London, where the King lodged in the Tower. Meane while writs of Summons are fent out in King Richards name, for a Parliament to bee holden at Westminster, Crastino Michaelis. The tragicall forme of Resignation, you haue * had already in Edward the second, of whom this King is a Parallel. There are named to haue been present at this wofull-ioyfull Act, Arundel Archbishoppe of Canterburie, Richard Scrope Archbishoppe of Yorke, Iohn Bishoppe of Hereford, Henry Duke of Lancaster, (who in this serious play must seeme as if hee were but a looker on) the Earles of Northumber-

Chap. 13. Richard. IJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 50.

A.D. 1340.

* Fabla.Concord, bid.faiththirty and eight, land, and Westmerland, the Lords Burnell, Barckley, Ros, Willoughby, and Abergeuenie, the Abbot of Westmin-(112) In their presence Richard as yet a King, and in his Tower of London, but not otherwise then as a prisoner, reades the Instrument of his surrender, with a feeming chearefull countenance, as if he were glad the hower was come, in which hee might talte what it was to be a prinate man, and (having otherwife first done and said what then he could to put all right out of himselfe) subscribes it with his hand; but prayes, that his Cosen the Duke of Lancaster might fucceed him in the regall gouernement, and in token that it was his defire (for he must seeme to defire what hee could not hinder) hee* plucked off his Signetring, and put it vpon the Dukes finger.

Then did he constitute the Archbishoppe of Yorke, and Bishop of Hereford his Procurators, to declare to the whole Body of Parliament whathe had done. & how willingly, where euery on e(*except the loyal & *D.Hayward.is Has.4. magnanimons Bishop of Carlest) being particularly asked, did particularly accept of the relignation. Ne uerthelesse, it was not thought inough to have his Crowne, vnleffe they also published his shame. Thirty * and two Articles are therefore openly (but in his absence) read; of all which, it was said (for then men might fay what they lifted) that he had confeffed himfelfe guilty. In the front was placed his a-buse of the publike treasure, and vnworthy waste of the Crown-land, whereby he grew intollerably grieuous to the Subjects. The particular causes of the Dukes of Glocester and Lancaster, the Archbishop of Canterburie and Earle of Arundel filled sundry Articles. They charged him in the rest with diffimulation, falshood, losse of honour abroad in the world, extortions, rapine, deniall of Inftice, rafures, and embezelling of Records, dishonourable shifts, wicked Axiomes of state, cruelty, couctousnesse, subordinations, lasciniousnesse, treason to the rights of the Crown, periuries,; and briefly with all forts of vnkingly vices, and with absolute tyranny.

(113) We may be assured, that nothing could then be objected so vntrue or incredible, but would have gone for current and undenyable with affections fo throughly prepared. Hereupon it was * concluded, that in all those thirty and two Articles , hee had broken the Oath of Empire taken at the Coronation ,

& al the States of the Kingdom (strange that so many should so concurre in disloyalty under pretence of equity) being asked what they thought; did hold that those causes seemed notorious, and sufficient to depose King Richard. Commissioners were therefore nominated by confent of the whole house, to pronounce the sentence of Deposition; which were, the Bishop of Asph, the Abbot of Glassenbury, the Earle of Glacefter, the Lord Barkly, William I hyrning, Chiefe Iustice of the common Pleas, and some others. The forme of pronuntiation was, IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN. We tohn Bishop of Saint Afaph, Iohn Abbat, &c. Commissioners speci ally chosen by the Lords spirituall and temporal to the Realme of England, and Commons of the said Realme, representing all the States of the said Realme, sitting in place of indgement. Oc. (114) The definitiue sentence of Deposition given thus in open Parliament, there were further named certaine persons, amongst whom * William Thirning Chiefe Inflice of the Comon Pleas was thought the fittest Tred. Neuff. man, by whose lawlesse mouth that vniust doome should be deliuered to the King, and who on the behalfe of the Realme, should renounce to the said Richard the fealties and homages heretofore made vnto him, and to make relation of the whole manner and causes of their proceedings. The Regall seate was now reputed void; whereupon Duke Henrie rifeth from his place, and flands vpright, that hee might be feene of the people, then * figning him-felfe with the figne of the Croffe vpon the forchead and breaft, and innocating the name of Christ, he challenged the Crown and Realm of England, with all the members and appurtenances. His words are faid to be thefe. In the name of God, Amen. I, Henry of Lancaster, claime the Realme of England, and the Crowne, with all the appurtenances, as comming by the bloodroyall from King Henry, and by that suffice which God of his grace Tred.Nenft. hath sent to me, by the helpe of my kinfolke and friends, for recourry of the said Realme, which was in point of perdition, through default of Gouernment and breach of (115) Which challenge and claime being thus made, all the States of the Kingdome doe with one made, all the states of the Kingdome goe with one confent grant, that the faid Lord Duke should reigne ouer them. The Archbishop of Canterbury (brother to the late Earle of Arundal) takes him then by the right hand, and the Archbishop of Yorke (the late Earle of wiltshires kinseman) being his assistant, placeth him in the royall throne, with the generall acclamation and applauses of the people. Lastly, in full complement of the present solemnity, the Archbishoppe of Canterburie (that we may see how the Diningly as well as the Law of those times were degenerated into temporizing Policie) made a Sermon upon these words in Samuel, A Man shall raigne over the People. By occasion whereof * hee describeth out of the holy Scriptures, the happinesse of that Kingdom which is governed by a man, and the infelicity of those aom wosten is governed by amm, and the injection) of the Realmes where a Child (whether in age or difference) weeldes the Scepter. The entil whereof as they had dan-gerously felt under the late King so they hoped abundantly to enjoy the other in King Henry, To all which the whole Auditorie ioyoully answered Amen. Then rose the affable new Monarch, & among a few other words, hee gaue the world to understand, that none should thinke hee would as by way of Conquest, disin-herste any man, certaine bad members onelie ex-(116) From henceforth hee was taken for King and all Writs iffued, and went forth in his name which disorderly matters being orderly related to the deposed Prince in the Tower, by Thirning the Chiefe Iustice, hee onely vsed these words; That hee that (after all this) my cofen will be my good Lord and friend. The Archbishop (otherwise inexculable in

The Helf.

A necessary pro

those proceedings) yet in his said Sermon seemeth

Book. 9

* Varia Wiclift M.S.in biblioth. Oxen.

*An.1385.

*Walfi 9.312.

gravely and truly to have described the cause of this effect; for (quoth hee) the shild or insipient (which are with him æquiparable) drinketh the sweet and delicious words unaduifedly, and perceiveth not insoxication, which they beene mingled with, till hee bee emvironed and wrapped in all danger, as lately the experience thereof hath beene apparant to all our fights and knowledges, and not without the great danger of all this Realme.

Being thus brought downe to the show, and littlenesse of a private man, wee leave him to draw his comfort out of holy meditations, as one whose violent death ensued before long, and turne ouer to his politike and martiall Successor.

*into Bohemis, pera Io.Huff. To.1. *Walfi.p.105.

* Ibid.p.285.

* 2.3174

*0285

p.186.

(117) Yet in our way, wee may not quite ouer-passea cursory consideration of the affaires of the Church under this King, which, for auoiding often interruptions of other argument, we have put off to this last place. For albeit the Kingdome indured great croffes in the affaires of State, yet * fome have thought, that it found as great blessings in matters of religion, which in those daies tooke so deepe root in this our land, by the preaching of Iohn Wicliffe, that the branches thereof did spread themselues even ouer the Seas: Nor were the common people only allured with his doctrine, (though the *Londoners funouring of him is thought by Walfingham to haue de-

Houring of mm is thought by reaging moments to induce the terred the Prelates from proceeding against him, and a scholler of his in Leizesterfbre, is said to have drawn by his preaching, *all the Layment that Country) but (as the same Authour reporteth) fundrie of the Fry. ars themselues fell to him and imbraced his opinions, amongst whom one * being also the Popes Chaplaine, so discourred by preaching the murders, luxuries and treasons of Fryars of his owne Habit, that the common people were assomed with the horror thereof. and cried out to have them all otterly destroicd; which his accusations he particularlie instified by publi ke writing, professing he came forth of that Order, as much more * admires , is, that Wieliffes opinions were nuclinate animes, so that recupies symmons were not onlice attentioned in ordinary cities, but evenine the vinuerfity of Oxford it felfe, where was * the very top of widows and learning: and where not only two Chancellors successively. * Doctor Nichelas Hereford. and * Robert Rugge were most earnest maintainers of wieliffer doctrine, but alfo, when the pope (to sup-presse the same doctrine) sent his * Bull to the V niners. Bulla Gregory.ib.

out of the Dinels neft. But that which Walfingham ty threatning the prination of all their principes, the Proters and Regents thereof were very doubtfull, whether they should receive the Popes Bull with honour, or rather reiect it with open diferace. Yea, the whole body of that glorious V niversitie (as the Pope there cals it in his Bull) gaue a glorious * Testimony (vnder their Vide op. Job. Hull 10,2. publike leale) of Wieliffes religious life, profound learning, orthodoxe opinions, exquifite writings, all farthest from any staine of heresie.

(118) And therefore no marueile, if not onely the Duke of Lancafter, with sfundry Peeres and great ones, but King Edward 3. himselfe, were (as Capgrause Procesum & mi, testifieth) a fauourer of him, and * King Richard 2. and lium. Praise. the whole Parliament did (according to his inftructions) much labour to abrogate the Popes Transcendent power, which was a principall cause of the Popes harred against him. Notwithstanding to discountenance the truth which he taught, in defence of Regall Supremacy against Papall y Jurpation, (as allo against the Masse, Transubstantiation, Merit; against Adoration of the Hoast, of Saints, I mages; and Reliques; against Fryarly Orders, Pilgrimages, Indulgences,)many lewd opinions by misconstruction (as his bookes yet extant, euince) are fathered on him, yea some fo monstrous and diabolicall (as, *,that Men ought, 6 monfrous and disbolicall (as, "that are ongon," yes, "that God bimjelfe ought, to buy the Diucil) that that any man which heareth them, will prefer the perfect of the control bear of the perfect of the control bear of the co malicious figments. This famous Doctor *dying of a palife, hath this charitable Euloge or Epitaph beflowed on him by a * Monke; The Dinels Infrument, Churches Enemy, Peoples Confusion, Heretikes Idole, Hy-poerites mirrour, Schismus broacher, harreds sowers, tys-forger, Flatteries sincke; who, at his death dispaired like Cain, and stricken by the horrible indgement of God; breathe wicked, nor to respect after their death ought else but their flanderous rancor, And thus we conclude the raigne, though not the life of King Richard: His fort wife.

the forth is wicked foule to the dark massion of the blacke diuell: Whereby, Gods best children may learne, not to regard, whiles they live, the malice of printed copies.

(119) The first wife of King Richard the second, was Anne, daughter vnto the Emperour Charles the fourth, and fifter to Wenceflans Emperour, and King of Bohemia, who was crowned Quene the 22. of Ianuary 1384. Having beene tenne yeeres his wife thee dyed, without any iffue, at Sheen in the County of Surrey, 1394, whence her body was consayed and buried at Westminster, the seventh of the Ides of

His fecond Wife.

(120) Ifabell, daughter vnto Charles the fixth King of France, was a virgin about seuen yeers of age, when thee was affianced voto King Richard. 1396. Neither had her husband (it feemeth) anie nuptiall fruition of her, by reason of her tender age, before fuch time as his traiterous Lords, (to compasset tach time as instractions being a specific an vsurpers ambition) had dethroned him. What became of this young Ladie, we shall further see in the enfuing storie.

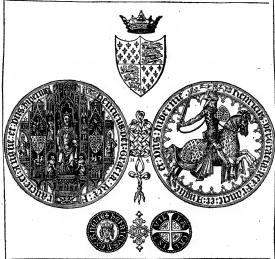

HENRIE

Chap. 14 Henrie III]. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 51. 611

HENRIE THE FOURTH, KING OF ENGLAND, AND FRANCE, LORD

OF IRELAND, THE FIFTIE ONE MONARCH OF ENGLAND, HIS RAIGNE, ACTS. AND ISSVE.

CHAPTER XII II.

ENRIE of that name the fourth, having thus obtained the title of king, in full accomplishment of all rites peculiar to Maiefty, had the Crowne of England set upon his head, with all worldly magnificence and honour at Wellminster, by Thomas Arundel Archbishoppe of Canterbury, vpon the * selfe day banished under Richard the second. Power and fauour can fet up and maintaine a King, though they cannot create aright. But fuch transcendent couries deuiating from all due regulation of Iustice, haue been too frequent in this Kingdome. What right had William (urnamed the Conquerour? what right, (we speake of a right of Equity,) had his sonnes William the fecond, and Henry the first, while their elder brother lined? what right had that valiant and princely Stephen? what was the interest of Hemy the fecond, during the life of his mother Mathildis? or that of King John, till his Nephew Arthur Duke of Britaine died?, yea, or that of Henry the third, till Arthurs fifter died in her prison at Bristow? Howbeit, in this present case, not only Richard the late king, but the house of Mortimer, claiming from the one-ly daughter and heire of Lionel Duke of Clarence (an elder brother of Iohn D. of Lancaster) doubly might have withstood the legall challenge of this Prince? That obstacle which grew by kichard, was in apparance greatest, but the other was onely dangerous. Richard had no iffue but the line of Mortimer (engraffed by marriage into the house of Yorke) feeling it (elfe ynable to preuaile, and during Richards life time, having no right, fecretly fostered in it selfe those fires, which afterward brake forth, and taking hold of the roofe-tops of both the royall houses, neuer left burning, till no one principall timber was could claime by a direct line, vtterlie lopt downe

(2) But this wife and valiant Prince Henry, befides all other helpes toward the possession of the Crowne in present, had as much strength, as the vn-ordinate affections and fiding of a factious greater part could give, for translation of a right from one familie to another; which strength (as the basis of his vniuftly reared building) he endeauoureth by all the politike meanes he may, to make perpetuall.

During therefore the former Parliament, (for Par' liaments, as Kingdomes, giue their voice with power, ' and he who hath the force, doth commonly carry the ef-feet of right) he * provided for their indemnities, who either came in with him, or did afterward adhere to his fides, and doth vtterly abrogate, and make void the Acts made in the one and twentieth yeere of the late King Richard the second, for so much as concerned the Attaindors difinherisons, or other forfeytures of any persons therein named, or (in generall words) compriled. Thereby, his vncle, Thomas Duke of Glocester, who had been put to death at Cales without any orderly condemnation, Richard meanes left to worke mischiefe to the Pecres and people: and that wee may fee the constant humor

" Tib Statut. An

An.Rec. 27.

"So is he and the reft called. Lib.

of Wates, Duke of Aquitaine and Cornwali, & Earle of Chefter, by * affent of all the States. To his friend *Holings. the Earle of Northumberland hee gaue the Isle of Mann, as that which he had atchieued by Conquest, (fo the * cited Record speakes) of Sir William le Serope Knight Earle of Wiltsbire, beheaded at Bristol. The In Britannian, Earle of Northumberland had it granted to hold by pag.847. the feruice of bearing Lancaffers fword on the left hand of the King at the Coronation. Vpon the Earle of Westmorland, hee bestowed the Earledome of Richmond. Lastly, as a binding knotte, hee cauleth the * Crowne to bee entailed vpon the heires . *Halinth. ex Hal of his body, having at that time foure fonnes a- PRESTA. liue, Henrie Prince of Wales, Thomas, John and Hum-(7) Now, as in the workes of nature, what the Sea drawes from one Coaft, it cafteth to another; fo, others were diminished, as these encreased; the King | bled and deple bereauing enemies, to enrich his friends and followers. From Aumarl, Surrey and Excester, the titles of Dukes were taken, and generally all the great ones of that colour or faction, were reduced to the same estate (for honour and fortune) in which they

Earle of Arundel beheaded at Tower-hill, and others, were freed from the infamie of that corruptiflood, when first the late Duke of Glocester was arreon in bloud, which followes executed malefactors. fted. The Caftels, Honours, Mannours, and the rest of things, which afterward grew to them out of the ruine of that Duke and his friends, or otherwise And the Statute made in the eleventh yeere of the faide Richard, was againe fully fet on foot and reby the late Kings gift, from the day of that arrest, were by authority of this Patliament taken away, (3) In these things King Henry did(as it were) sa-crifice vinto the people, as well as to the weale pub-like: The said Thomas Duke of Gloeester, meaning or put into the present Kings mercy. It was likewife made valawful for them to give liveries or badthe reformation of the State, in that elementh yeer of ges to reteiners, or to keepe any about them but ne-King Richard procured (as is before touched) an Act ceffarie servante: They were also forbidden, vnder of Parliament, to * fettle a Superroyall power for a paine of high Treason, to goe about by any way to yeere, in certaine Pecres, by vertue of which comreenable the late King against the authority of this mission the intended reformation was so farre pro-Parliament, in which the sentence of his depolitifecuted, that fundry great persons and others (fauoon was given and enacted. Finally, (a thing which laid them open to infinite vexations) whereas, in rites of the vnfortunate King) were put to shamefull death banished and confiscated. the time of their late greatnesse, they and theirs (4) But Richard *afterward(by the Duke of Anwere charged to haue done, and patronized manimarks instigation) reexamines all the former passafold wrongs and oppressions, all people (vpon pro-clamations to that purpose) were willed to come ges and proceedings, and fatisfied his pleafure and displeasure, as already hath beene shewed; The Ar-ticles in those times sentenced for treasonable by the in, and declare their gricles, to the intent they might haue redresse and remedie. With these punishments most eminent Lawyers, did extend themselves so of his aduerfaries, King Henry contented himfelfe; but * not the Commons who inueighed against the 'Thought farre, that the Prince feemed to have too great in Lawyers to judge with the will of the greatest. faid Aumarl, Surrey, Ge. were not also put to death, as persons who stoode deepe in the peoples ha-*the Lord William Thirning Chiefe Iustice of the common Bench, the Lord Walter Clopton Chiefe Iuflice, and others, being demanded their opinions vpon the same Articles, for which Sir Robert Triss-lian had lost his life, and for the which others had so (8) These prouisions for his honour, safety and aduantage, King Henry very seeingly contriued, and established at home; but not ignorant under what terribly beene censured by the Glocestrian faction, grieuous constructions his actions might fall in forrain parts, fends honorable Ambassadors to * Rome, " Holiasber. affirmed (as Trefilian and others did) that the faid Commission was against the royall Prerogative, and France, Spaine, and Germany, to give a reason of his Thomass.

To *Rome, the Bishoppe of Hereford, Sir Iohn Cheney Knight, and Iohn Cheney Esquier. To the procurers therof were all Traitors, (5) King Henry therefore, in this his first Parliament, reduceth the state of treasons (being crimes France, the Bishoppe of Durefme, and the Lord Thoof the highest and fowlest nature) to a more certaine mas Percie Earle of Worcefter, and * william Heron . Tob Stow Am to Spaine, the Bishop of Saint Asaph, and Sir Willihead, vtterly abolishing all such as were established by the late King Richard. The words of the * Staam Par Knight. To Germany, the Bishoppe of Bantute it felfe are; Whereas, in the Parliament holden the gor, and others. These were armed with all forts of one and twentiethyeere of the late King Richard, diners instructions for instification of their new advanced paines of treason were ordained by Statute, in as much as there was no man which did know how he ought to be-(9) In France* was worthily found the greatest have himselfe, to doe, speake or say, for doubt of such paines. It is accorded, and assented by the King, the difficulty of giuing satisfaction, for that the French Pulyd. Ving. Las. Kings daughter (the designed wife of the late King) Lords and Commons, that in no time to come any treason bee sudged otherwise, then it was ordained by the Statute, in the time of his noble Grandfather, King Edward the third, whom God affoile. So was that net bro-ken, the perilous estate of Subjects relieved, the people well gratified, and the King hereby became gracious and popular. (6) And that his indulgent magnificence might aswell appeare, as his civill prudence, hee (in this Parliament) created Henry his eldest sonne Prince did thereby leefe the honour, profite and pleasure of a Monarchies fruiton. Shee was a yet Cafed twelpe yecres of age, and therefore, "till thee attained to "stinden more maturity, the late King had the rather ablented himselfe in Ireland. France therefore tooke the these newes roughly, and it seemed that matters tended to Armes, which yet came to nothing, for that King Charles relapted into his old difeate of frenzie. and a warre to bee made against so politicke a Captaine as King Henry, required a lober man, and not

Archbishoppe of Canterbarie, the Earle of Northumberland, and other Lords of Councell, because the a mad one. Certainely, in the death of Richard which shortly followed all those tumultuous designs for reuenge, immediately expired. (10) They of Aquitaine (among whom the vn-They of Agri-taine disconten-ted and reletled fortunate Richard was borne) bare the late king great exclaime, calling to God for vengeance with one voice. Neuerthelesse the French were deceiued in hoping to conuert these popular passions to their aduantage; for partly by the chiefe * Magistrates wildome, and principally by the comparison which the people made of the two sortes of gouernment,

English and French, that of the English being farre

the more sweet and gentle, they continued firme.

Much good labour, and many faire promises Lewis

Duke of Burbon was forced to spend in vaine, who by fuch baites cast into the troubled wits of the Gascoignes, trauailed to drawthem to a reuolt. The mischiese was the better, and more strongly encountred, by the arrivall of Sir Thomas Percy . Earle of Worcester with competent numbers of men, sent thitherto withstand the French practises, and cure

the peoples affections, by applying to them the fo-ueraigne balme of reason, or with force to compell

(11) The first prouocation which was given to

King Henrie was by the Scots, who during the last

Parliament exercised themselves in England, and took the Castle of Wareke; whose Captaine Sir Thomas

Greyat that time gave his attendance at Parliament about the common affaires; and the whole North of England being also infested with pestilence; the Scots had the more oportunity to range vnencoun-tred. . Cause of other ensuing enmities which afterward brake forth, was (as it * feemeth) for that

King Henry tooke into his protection George Earle of Dunbarre and other Scots, who fled out of Scotland to avoide the displeasure of Robert their King, and partly to take open vengeance for wrongs done vnto them. Such oftentimes is the corruption of humane nature, that it will not pardon pritiate in-invies for the publike benefite, but thruth the pi-tle due to our Country vnder the inferior refpect of particular intereffes. Princes alfo you oblique realons of flate (fo bad men call them) which is neuer well founded vpon iniuftice, are (for their owne feeming good) contented to hold their neigh-bours in awe, by poffeising meanes of their diffur-bance, which when time ferueth allo, they are not flacke to vie, the profite whereof is feldome or ne-

(12) But King Henry was scarce warme in his new atchieued soueraignty, when a nest of pow-erfull enemies beganne to hatch his destruction under the shadow of his owne winges. The deposed Richard was yet aliue, and howsoeuerrough and headstrong men of the Kingdome approued his downethrow, all others did not; for some mo-ued by negrenesse of bloud, as the Earles of Kent and Hantington his halfe brothers by one mother; fome doubtlesse in conscience (because howsoener Richards actions were vnworthie of the Scepter, yet the right was onely his, and besides Henrie feemed to them not the next heire) others transported with enuie at Henries supereminency, and not a few with remembrance of received benefites, or hope of better fortunes in the change of times, inclined to fet him againevpon the English loue, as being their Countriman. These discontentments were so publike, that Burdeaux (the capitall Citie and Prefidentiall feat) stucke not openly to fay, (as * Polydor hath it) that fince the world began ther was never a more cruel unresonable nor wicked fact done; that the good Prince was betrayed by *faithleffe leb,Stow. Annal men, and that all law was violated. Thus do they

The English go-

nernment better

*Helinfo.p.518.

The Scott.

" Hedl, Boet, lib. 16,Goor, Buichan

An. Reg.1.

obedience.

uer durable.

of a Captine Prince, doe commonly nothing else but haften his death.

throne. But they who oeuer seeke the deliuerance (13) It was our purpose in many great things to haue forborne the testimony of Walfingham (other-Chap. 14. Henrie. IIIJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 51. wife a great light of these times) as one who dedi-cating his workes to King Henry the fifth, sonne to this Henry, may be feared to speake the best and most

he can, for letting forth the honour of that line; but the leuity and diffonance of later writers, enforceth vs (though with some warinesse,) to follow his light, for that, concerning this great conspiracy it felfe, our late Authours doe fondlie encounter one the other, and some of them (as it must needs be) the truth. The principall Conspirators (if such in to iust a cause may be so enstilled) were such, whose lives others, but those Earles and others first named, were

(14) The maine point of the plot was to *kil king to his rightful dignity; which the more powerfully to effect, (because, though Henry were murthered, yet they were affured that the businesse would not take ued, that the pretence of some extraordinary shew in pils Princes are) having delivered the King out of that most certaine perill, did also sodeinely dissipate the further enterprises of the Conspirators. The Lord Iohn Holland Earle of Huntington, one of the chiefe, was not in this defeat at Windfore, but houe-red in London, attending the successe, there to raise meanes and men, and to worke fuch other maifteries

as he could, and afterward (for we credit Walfingham who lived in that time, and neere the place, and faw, from such as wore them, saying King Richard was at libertie, and in the midst of an army of one hundreth fought to flie away by water.

vndoubtedly the chiefe.

Christmas was the fittest.

in the last Parliament had beene spared, though manie lockes in their periwigs of worldlie honour were plucked away. Iohn Holland Earle of Huntingdon, Thomas Holland Earle of Kent, and (as * fome fay) Edward The chiefe Con Earle of Rutland, (three the late Dukes of Excester, pirators names. Surrey, and Aumark) Iohn Montacute Earle of Sarisbury, Thomas Lord le Spencer, late called Earle of Glocester, the Bishop of Carleol, Sir Bernard Brokes, Sir John Sheuele, (or Shelley) Knights, John Maudler, the Pfeudo-Richard, or * Counterfet King Richard, whose * Ishn Stones An Chaplaine hee had been, and resembled him verie the practile, as mouing the reft; and with him they adde to the former, Sir Ralph Lumley, Sir Thomas Blunt, Sir Benedick Celie Knights. There were fundry

The chief points Henry and his sonne, and thereby to restore Richard

cic. *Thom, Walfing Pol.Verg.lib,21.

end in a day, or a death) they resolved * to call the French into their succors, which they had reason to expect, for that the young Queene I fabel daughter to the French king remained at that prefent in England. There was nothing feeble or improbable in all this deuise; the difficulty was how to come so strong into the presence of King Henry, that they might ouerline the Affafsinate, thereby to finish their enterprize, which as they could not hope for, but with the helpe of a multitude, nor a multitude bee assembled without convenient Colour, it was resol-

(15) Not long before the time of intended ex-ecution, the whole Conjuration was discouered, fome say by the late * Duke of Aumarl, and afterward by the Maior of London. Discouered it was, but with fo short a warning, that the Kingscarce found himselfe out of danger, when the Earles of Kent and Salisbury, (not vnderstanding that the bad odour of their conspiracy was come to the King) enter with 400. armed men about * twylight into Windfore Castle, from whence hee was departed to *Thomas Walfing Stow fasth in the Octave sof Chil London. But God(whose peculiar Wards and Pu-and diligentlie noted things, rather then some + others) vpon the certaine report of the Kings safetie

(16) The two Earles missing their hoped pray, course upon their plots difthough greatly greened, yet necessitie and new hopes bid them to date farther. They therefore come to Sunnings. There the young Queenc(King Richards [poule]) asy, where having [poken certaine big words, to little other purpose then to give the poore Ladie

a short comfort, and taken King Henries Badges

614	Henry. IIIJ. THE SVC	C	ESSION OF	Monarch 51.	Book.9	i thouland friends at Pomfret; they proceed to sud- lingford, then to Alingdom, and to to Greefler. The rumors wied by them to encrease their numbers were; that Henry of Lancafter (meaning the King) was fed with this forms and friends to the Tower of London, and that King Richard was of esped. Mandlen also,		be called vnheard-of torments) hand fet before him in the wor he was not fuffered either to t Idle therefore feemes * his di was murthered in the Tower, *theirs, who tell vs of Sir Peir	nted Princely manner, afte, or touch thereof, eame, who writes hee and not more credible of Extons affault, and	The fiction of Tanielse verified in King Richard Lanquets Chron- in Hen. 4. *Fab. Conc. Chron.
Anonym. io.Stow. il. fls p.51 5. Verg.lib.21.	one of Richards Chapleins, tooke vpon him the sper- fon of his faid Lord, the more fitrongly to feduce the multitude, by fo bold and perilous a fiction. Thus feemed they to fit their words and fure their Arts to		the murther basely by him miserable Princes person: but to blame who negligently for a Walsingham, in whom no syll	much more are* they redit of the fable quote	*Holiesh.p.517.
•	the place. At Sunning, Richard (they faid) was at Pomfret, for there the guile had beene transparent; but at Circester, Richard was not at Pomfret, but prefent.		found. Onely * Hector Boe that Richard fled difguifed in uered to King Robert, and ho	tius wils vs to belieue to Scotland, was difco- nourably entertained,	*Lib.16-
l.Chien,	(17) Howbeit the successe was not answerable to the deuise; for, besides that King Henry was in the heart of his strengths at London, where sixe * thou-		but Richard who would no me himfelfe wholy to contempla died, and was buried at Striue ble hath neuertheleffe formew	ition, and both lived, ding. Which fond fa- hat in it, for that some	A counterfet King Richard bu- sied in Scotland, Tho. VValf. in iand men were put into a readines, and would come vpon them like a florme, the Townsfimen of Cirecfler adialled the Lords, tooke them, and (because their Town was fired of purpose by some of their follow- ers, the better to recouer them while the quenching		personated Richard might so ble, nor improbable, and ind (19) The late King Richa nously murthered (for in reg seeming sable of his sight with	eed it was fo. rd thus cruelly and hei- ard of pining death the h Sir Peirs of Exton was	Hen.4.ed An.D. 1044. Richards dead body thewed openly at Landon, flie, as	found the people employment,) haled them forth, and without longer tarriance feuered their heads from their bodies: The Earle of Huntington, with a truftie Knight of his, Sir Iohn*Sheuele, hauing (after		a sport, it being both noble as a man of honour and courage hand) King Henry causeth brought up to London. O H	to die with weapon in his dead body to bee tenry, if thou wert Au-
ts hauç it. 5,Cons,Hift.	the faile at Windfore) in vaine attempted to escape by Sea, was taken by the Commons at * Pitwel (perhaps		thor, or but privie, (though ded fafetie, and for that error	for thine owne preten- es cause which is lewdly
	Prattlewel) in Effex, brought first to Chelmsford, and Lassile to Plessie, the houle of the late Duke of Glore. #for (whose Ghost a tragicall Poet would suppose did haunt his perfections for reuenge, where, partile also by this Earles instigation, the faild Glorester was first arrested. The Commons (out of whose hearts		mif-called reason of state) of sinot see, how the shewing of ired see in Pauls, did either corexectable crime. But to let the was no hope nor place for a R vsed, which may the rather co	ich a murther; we doe the people his vncouc- nceale or extendate the world know that there ichard, that course was ff.cep.119.	the image of that Duke was not vanished) at * the Countesse of Herefords instigation who was the Dukes widdow, tooke satisfaction whom the Farle		enfamishment; for a violent d not but deforme him too m bable that such a death would	eath by braining could uch : and it is most pro-
-1	dred from his shoulders. The Lord Spencer called	1	least appeare. Surely he is no port of so exquisite a barbar	taman, who at the reexecution done upon him by the Commons at Bri- fiel. Some other of them were put to death at Ox-		mithment, feeles not chilling be what if but for a justly cond dying? but how for an annoi	norror and detestations demned galley-slaue so nted King, whose Cha-ford, and some at London; where Iohn Maudlen (the Counterfeit Richard, who as it leemes was a beautiful and goodlie person) and one William Ferby were drawne, hanged and headed. The Bishop of Carled		racter (like that of holy Order gicall spectacle of his dead bo moued too much both pittie while transported without ho	dy (perhaps because it and enuie) was after a	From thence is carried to Lang- ley, and after- ward to Well-
l. Chron. 16. p. 516.	neuerthelesse was by the Kings elemencie preserved alive after the condemnatory sentence. There were * nineteene in all (whereof two had beene Dukes) put to death for this conspiracy, most of which were		fordshire, where the last rites w Bishop of Chester, the Abbas tham, but neither King Henry	were performed by the is of S. Alban and Wal- prefent, (as at the exe-	ward to Weft- minfler.
	men of special note. (18) The designes and missortunes of King Richards friends being made known vnto him, could not		quies in London) and the great as were had * not fo much as a on them for their labour. Bu	funerall feast bestowed t Henry the fifth, in the	* Thom, Walfing. in Henrot.	i but worke strongly in a foule oppress with griefe; but whether so strongly as to make him resolue by		first *yeere of his raigne with ward cause those royall remain Sepulture of his Ancestors at	tes to be interred in the	*Fab.Cenc.Hift.
.Walfing.	voluntary ablimence to starue himfelse(as* the same went) may bee doubted, though it be past doubt that King Henry was not forrie hee was dead howfoe- uer. That he was starued seemes verie plaine; though,		the riming Latine verses of his uell to reade these, considerin was triced out of Maiestic and	g vpon what points he l
late King and starued ath,	as it is not certaine, (neither yet vnlikely) that King Henry was pring to so foule a particide, so neither is it knowne, but that Richard might as well be flarted		Ecclefiam fauit,elatos fu Quemuis prostrauit, reg
d.Neuft. ud. in H. 4.	or purpole, "as flarue himfeife." Mafter stow (a man for honest industry very prasificourchie) faith that king Richard was fifteene daies and nights together kept in hunger, thirst, and cold, till heedied.		Fabians English of The Church he fauoured, casti And all that would his ros	ng the proud to ground.
lobs For-	How true that was in the circumstance, who knows? but in the point of starting hee is clearelie with Wal- Ingham: and a "Knight living about those times cal- leth it a death neuer before that time knowne in		The faid Author therefore uing the scope of those lines (Robert Fabian, obser- to dampe their force)
88,6,200. Yorkshire 167.	England. Harding * alfo, living vnder King Edward the fourth agrees of the rumour of starving. * Master Cambden saith of Pomfret Castle, that it is a place prin- sipum eade & languing infamis. but Germes to influn-		doth vnderwrite and annex t greater diferetion then elegan But yet alas shough that this Thus doth amballish this no	cie: meeter or rime,	·

But yet alas, though that this meeter or rime, Thus doth embellish this noble Princes same, And that some Clerke which favoured him sometime. List by his cunning thus to enhance his name, Tet by his Story appeareth in him some blame: Wherefore to Princes is surest memory, Their lines to exercise in vertuous constancie.

Chap. 14 | Henrie I III. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 51. More tart and seuere is the censure of Gower vpon this Prince, one of whole verles * Stow gines vs thus, So God doth hate such rulers as here viciously do line.

That beautifull picture of a King fighing, crowned in a chaire of chate, at the vpper end of the Quier in Saint Peters at Westminster, is said to be of him, which witneffeth how goodly a creature he was in outward

(20) King Henry to divert the humors and eyes of the people from the remembrance of this Tragedie, prepareth now a puissance, therewith to inuade Scotland; some subject's whereof, together with their Admirall Sir Robert Logon a Scotish Knight, were taken at Sea by certaine English ships. But K. Henry may seeme to have done any thing rather, then to haue made a warre; for albeit hee did fome hurt by

Tood News.

by Betindens division.cap.13

after the King with such riches and spoiles as those Parts had afforded, returnes, His next most stored action was peaceable. For one of the house of Palur-logue, and Emperour of Conflantinople, came into Eng. land to pray some succour against the Turke, and vpon the day of S. Thomas the Apostle, was met at Blackeheath by King Henry, highly feasted, richly presented, and his charges borne till departure. But as Tileus * faith of his successe in France, verbis & *Chron de regili promisis tantum adiutus est, so here his speed was not Francoum. much better, the point of armed aides; being only therein assisted with words and promises. (23) In a Parliament held the next yeere, * by An.D.1401 reason of the numbers of Lolards, (so called) encreasing, the punishment for them enacted, was burning. An. Reg. 2 And in the same yeere also, the Articles of peace 43.1.6.15. beeing first agreed upon betweene the two Nations, English and French (notwithstanding that they had denied to match with the young Prince of Wales. *Polya.Verg.Hif because the former marriage with Richard thriued

* wasting the Country, yet did not the Scots offer battel, and the rest will wel appear in these words of *Escius. He did small initivies to the people thereof: for he defired nought but his banner to becereted on their wals. He was ever a pleafant enemy, and did great humanity to the people in all places of Scotland where he was lodged. Finally, hee shewed to the Lords of Scotland, that hee came into their Realmerather by counsell of his Nobles, then for any hatred he bare to Scots. Soone after heereturned into England. Whether the remembrance of the curtefies shewed to his Father Duke Tohn, or the feare of his owne great state so neere to an ouerthrow by the late furious conspiracy, wrought these gentle effects, it was not long before the euent fhewed, that his providence in not creating new acerbities was therein needfull. (21) For albeit the face of England feemed fmooth yet God thrust athorne into King Henries side, when and where he little expected; for the Welf, whom former Kings of England had so yoaked, and subje-&cd, did contrary to all mens expectation, breake the mightiest, those chiefly at whose amendment God aimes by chastisement. The original of so

* Sir East. Cooke Epift,part, great an cuill was in the feed but little, as but this Owen Glendowr, * whom the Welfa call the sonne of Gruffith V schan, descended of a yonger son of Gruffith ap Madoc, Lord of Bromfield, was at first a Student of the common laws, and an Vtter Barifter, (but not therefore an apprentise of law, as Doctor Powell mistakes, for an apprentise of the law, is hee that hath been a* double Reader) did afterward serue the late King Richard in place of an Elquier, & was well beloued of him, but in King Henries time (re-tiring himselfe as it seemes to his Mannour of Glendourdwy, the L. Gray of Ruthen entred vpon a peece of common, which lay betweene Ruthen and Glen dowr, which Owen (despite the Lord Gray while Richard continued King) had formerly holden, though not without contention. Owen (a man of high courage, and impatient of force) armes hereupon, and encounters the Lord Gray in the field, where he forth into open acts of hostility, vnder the conduct of a Gentleman of that Nation furnamed Glendowr.

of the Lordship of Glendowr in Merionithshire, whose owner he was; the wrath and inflice of heauen is alwayes so well furnished with meanes to exercise had troden law under foot fo did he also cast off loyaltie, burning & destroying the Lord Grays inheritances, and killing fundry his feruants. The King King Hearie enters North-VVales with an aduertised hereof, passeth with an Army into wales, burnes, kils, and takes such revenge as that time scattered the faid Lords people, and tooke him prifoner, as hereafter will elfe-where bee touched. (22) It seemes herein that hee had forgotten the lawes which he had formerly studied and wherin hee had been a licentiate; for shortly after, as hee marrie so after hee was also overthrowne by the faid Owen with the flaughter of about a thousand would permit. Meanewhile, owen (whom pride & folly armed to the farther ruine of his Country) with his truftieft friends(which were not few)withdrawes into the inexpugnable fastnesses of Snowdon, where during this tempest, he kept his head safe. Shortly fo badly) the Lady I fabel who had beene crowned Queene of England, as Spoule of the late King, was now fent backe into France after a most princely maner, fhee being not as yet * twelue yeeres old, had The VVIII * no dowrie allowed her in England, for that the matriage was neuer confummated. Before shee was restored to her friends, the Lord Hemy Percie, before the Ambassadors of both the Nations, where they were met betweene Caleis and Boloigne, protested, That the King of Englandhis Master had sent her to be The forme of delinered to her Father cleare of all bonds of marriage, or otherwise, and that hee would take it upon his soule, that shee was sound and entire, even as shee was the same day shee was delinered to King Richard and if any would Say to the contrary hee was ready to prove it against him by combat. But the Earle of Saint Paul laying, hee beleeved it to be true, the Lord Pereie tooke her by the hand, and deligered her vnto the Earle, and then the Commissioners of France deliuered certaine letters of receipt and acquitall. She was afterward married to Charles Duke of Orleance.

(24) Owen Glendowr perfifting in his pride and disobedience made incursions upon the English, doing them great harme, and returning himfelfe with out any; but K. Henries danger was greater at home; for treason had crept into his most secret Chamber. In his bed there lay hidden a Galtrop or Engine with three small yron pikes, long, slender and passing fharpe all of them with their points fet vpward, but (God so disposing it) the King before hee laid himfelfe downe, perceived them, and thereby avoided that hidden mischiefe, but who was actor therein it doth not appeare.

(25) This appeares that the iplendors of his new regality had drawne vp many thicke and poisonous cloudes of enuie and practife, to darken if it were possible the farther brightnesse thereof. Neither was it long before it grew to fome extremity. For Owen Glendowr ypon the causes beforesaid, wasting the Lord Reynald Grayes lands, was encountred by him, as prefuming that Owen and his friendes might easily be ouercome, but the contrary hapned, for there in fight hee loft very many of his companie, and was himselfe taken Prisoner. This fortune made the swelling mind of owen overflow in vaine hopes, who compelling the faid Lord to marry his daugh-ter, yet obtained hee not his liberty the fooner, but died(fay *fome) in the power of Owen, if perhaps our Author militake not the Lord Gray for Edmund A.D. 1400, Lord Mortimer Earle of March, who indeed did principall persons of Herefordshire, assembled under his conduct, to result the Wells invasions, and there also himselfe was by trecherie taken prisoner. (26) Walfingham doth " write, that about this time fundrie conspiracies were discouered in the yolke (asit were) or embrion; the whole hopes whereofrested vpon calumniations, and forgery, for

Ddddd

*Tht.

"Hall.

orber

Fab.

The la

*Sir L

* Chran pag. 567.

cipum cade & fanguine infamis, but feemes to infinuate, that some other torments were most wickedly

practifed vpon this King, as made out of the way with hunger, cold, and vulcard-of torments. * Polydore therefore may in this bee believed, who writes of this poore deposed Monarke, that, (which may well eritiom in the fummer time betweene Bedford and lours, in the shapes of armed men were controlled to iffue out of the woods at morning and at noone; laging apparition of war.

Bickleswade, where sundry monsters of divers co-file, and were now vpon returne; Henrie Percie Earle of Northumberland, the noble Henry Hotfpur Lord Percie his sonne, and George Earle of Dunbar (who fled as you have heard out of Scotland) with the forces of the Countries there about not meaning to let

Chap. 14. Henrie, IIIJ. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 51. one the other in most terrible manner, but when Nero, was so backt and countenanced by the Parthi-ans, and others, * that not without much difficulthey drew neer, nothing was to be found. Of another nature were the fiery attempts of the Percies. ty the Romans could get him into their hands, The first of them who discourred in armes his mor-(34) On the other fide King Henry affailed with tall harred, was the noble Hotfpur, who (vnder *coso vnexpected ieopardies, defends his cause by letlour of the Scottish warre) made head about Chester ters, and strongly puts the blame vpon the accusers, laying, That he maruelled exceedingly, seeing the Earle of Northumberland, and Henry his Sonne had the greatest and the marches of Wales. To him (by the private of Hotspurs father,) repaires the naughtie old man the Earle of Worcefler, leaving the young Prince of part of the publike money: delivered to them, for defence Wales and the Princes houshold, ouer both which of the borders against Scotland, why they should make that a quarrell, which was a meere calumnie. And to take a-(for their better Gouernment) the King had placed him. Now was the torch of warre lighted vp, and way all pretence of feare from the Conspirators, hee began to blaze, for though the chiefe plot-mafter fends to the Earles of Northumberland and Worceffer, the Earle of Northumberland was not joined to and to the hot Lord Percie, a fafe conduct vnder his them, as hee did intend, yet were their numbers roiall Scale, by which he fecures their accesse, but vngrowne mightily, with which they meant to enter bridled rashnesse (Bith Walsingham) despising the rotall the Towne of Shrewfbury, to make thereof a Seat of clemencie, did put on the rigour of rebellion. Meane while the King armes with all foeed against the enemie, the (32) Colourable causes of their armes were the rather at the counsell of George Earle of Dunbar, who ordinarie paintings of the like attempts. Care of (like a valiant man at Armes, and a wife friend) adcommon-wealths reformation, and their owne fafeuised him so to doe, before their aduersaries numbers ties; for having first protested their intentions not to were too mightily augmented. The King with his be the breach of loyaltie, they pretend and by letters fonne the young Prince of Wales, and a very noble fencabout, doe fignifie. 1. That * the publike monit fellowship, was now advanced within fight of Shrews was not employed upon the pretended defence of the king-dome, but unduly wasted. 2. That by reason of bad bury, as the gallant Percie stood ready to assault the Towne. But so soone as the roiall Standard was distongues about the King they dust not approach him, to declare their innocency, unlesse the Prelates and Peeres of the Realme did first intercede for them. 3. That they couered, that enterprise was left off, and he drew out his people (being about fourteene thousand choice and hardie bodies of men) to try the fortune of war tooke armes onely to guard their owne heads, and to fee the against a well tride warrior. Kingdome better gouerned. These Articles had the place of the Huske, but the kernell of the enter-(35) Peace notwithstanding (by the exceeding tendernesse of the King) had ensued, but that the misprize had principallie these. I. To shruft King Hen-ry out of his seat, and consequently to deprine him of life. 2. To advance the title of the Lord Mortimer cheeuous Earle of Wortefler, by mifreporting and fal-fifying his Soucraignes words, did precipitate his Nephew into fudden battell. If there were any praife battell at Shrew Earle of March their * necreft Allie: for the Earle of or good example to bee drawne out of so detested Northumberland had married Elizabeth the daughter bloodshed, as that of einill warre, we would willingly of the Lord Edmund Mortimer the elder, Earle of describe vnto you the order and actions, but we can-March, by Philip daughter to Lionel Duke of Clanot too soone passe ouer such mournfull objects, CM areh, by Philip daughter Liberty for feeking rence. 3. To take renenge of King Henry, for feeking to drawe the chiefe benefit to himselfe of the victory at Halidowne hill, whose principall prisoners he required, and for such other private grudges. 4. To share the which are rather to bee celebrated with teares then triumphes. There is no doubt but Percie, Dowglas, and the rest fought terrible. Why should we admire that in them? So doe Lyons, Tygers, & Beares, Kingdome betweene Mortimer, Perey and Owen Glenand yet wee admire them not, Where was dutie, dower. Concerning which partition it is in some found written, that Indentures tripartite were seawhere conscience, where the other respects, of which onely we are called men ? Let none of vs honour, led, showing that South-England should remaine to Moror imitate them, in whose eyes the price of English timer, North-England to Percy, and Wales beyond Seuern to Glendower. But Archembald Earle of Dowglas blood is so vile, as that (for private fansies) they can bee content to confound all regards, and make sport (who did his Countrey good feruice by making one in our Combustions,) by common consent was alfor common foes, with mutuall massacres. Therefore wee will content our felues with the knowledge lowed for his share to be free from ransome, and to of Gods part in this daies worke, who gaue the garland to the King, though the first arrowes flew from haue Berwicke. (33 This (in our English Adages) is called to reckon without our host, or to count our chickens before they are hatched. But though at this time the Percies Archers. (36) The Kings courage was not finall in the The terrible fight as neither was the danger, the yong Prince of God would haue it fo, yet who doth not eafily fee wales also (being then first to enter himselfe into the what a wild horse a kingdome (so gotten) is, and how schoole of blood and battell,)gaue no small hopes of that perfection which afterward shone in him, being hard to fit, and not to manage onlie ? Yet it feemeth, that if Mortimer , having so iust a title to the wounded with an arrow in the face. The Lord Per-Crowne, had openlie professed the cause of his ateyand Earle Dowglas (then * whom the wide world tempt against King Henry, it might inflie hane beene exempted from all staine of disabilitie. But this had not two brauer Champions)in fleed of fpending *Thomas Wilfing themselues vpon the multitude, set the point of their Hosperre and partition is * faid to have beene wifely built vpon a hopes vpon killing the King, as in whose person they were sure tenthousand fell. For this cause they Dangles onely found Weish prophetie of Merlins : asif King Henry were the Membrane conference and Registers, were the Membrane careful of Gods worm ensuit, and Continue, Percy and Glendower, the Dragon, Lyon, and wolfe, which flouid think that Redme betweene them. Surely the Welfin hauing any hand in tich a particlen, its not likelic they could thinke it had the right most furiously rushed forward with speares and person. fwords; but the noble Earle of Dunbarre, discouering their purpole, drew the King from the place which he had chosen to make good, and thereby in likelyhood for that present saued his life, for the on, its not nece they come timine a nature right teete, if it flood not vpon the supposed Asterlass having it dictious cosenages and riddles. The English (not to be behind in leasings,) doe in the meane time every where spread that * Rithard was safe alian and in Standard royall was ouerthrowne, and (among other valiant men) the * Earle of Stafford, Sir Walter Blunt, the Kinges Knight and the Standard-bearer himfelfe was flaine, fuch was the fury of these sodaine thunthe Castle of Chester. Who can wonder that this name derbolts. That day the Dongles flew with his should be so gratious, as if alone it were enough to owne hands three in the Kings Coat-armour, (perhaps some in Heralds Coats) though * Boetsus yet have shaken Henry out of his! State ? when Ners faw a fourth. Sure it is, that manie of the subiects himselfe had so many fauorites, that twenty yeeres thought the King was flaine, and not a few * ranne Vyalfingham after his death an obscure fellow faining himselfe

Cau'es of the Lord Percies da gerous recellio

*Cambd. in Nor-

The Kingdome of England to be thated among the conspirators

The late dead King Riebard a-gaine affiifteth

VVilford a Sea

of money, but with much distast, the Peeres of the land riling from the last Session thereof meanely

Marshall, one of the chiefe men which disliked the carriage of publike matters, drawes Richardle Scrope contented, as it well appeared not long after, though to the enterprifers ruine. Thomas Mombray Earle their leads, out of the field. Who notwithstanding, like a valiant Prince, did reenforce the fight, performing maruels in armes with his owne hands. The flaughter could not be small on both sides, the Archers shooting so continually, and the men of armes doing their vtmost for about the space of three whole houres.

(37) That which gaue an end to this wofull worke was the death of Hotfor, who ryding in the head of the battell in defiance of danger and death, was (by an vnknowne hand) fuddenly killed, with whole fall (as if his whole army had had but one heart)the courages of all others fell into feete, which now altogether they trusted to. But the King abhorring to make farther execution of the milguided multitude, fuffered them to shift for themselves. The Earles of worsefter and Donglas, Sir Richard

Vernon, the Baron of Kindlaton, and diversothers were taken. Of the Kings side was slaine (besides the Earle of Stafford)ten new Knights, whose names (as dying in an honest cause) deserue immortality, and were Sir * Hugh Shorty, Sir Iohn Clifton, Sir Iohn Holinfb. p. 513. Cokain, Sir Nicholas Gausel, Sir Walter Blunt, Sir John Caluerly, Sir Iohn Massie, Sir Hugh A. ortimer, Sir Robert Gaufell, and Sir Thomas Wendesley, who dyed of lels not Gaufels, but Gentels and his hurts not long after, as most of the other did about the Standard; all which fighting for their spurs, (as being knighted but that morning) bought them with the honourable loffe of their whole bodies a there were also slaine many Esquires, & Gentlemen, and about one thousand and five hundreth common fouldiers . besides three thousand forely wounded.

On the other part, (omitting that second Mars, the Lord Percy (who drew a ruine after him surable ro his Spirit and greatnesse) there fell most of all the Esquires and Gentlemen of Cheshire, to the number of two hundred, and about five thousand common fouldiers. This battell was ftricken neere to Shrewfbury upon a Saturday, the one and twentieth of July, and the Euc of Saint Marie Magdalen,

(38) The Earle of Worcefter (the feducer and destroier of his noble Nephew Hotfpur, and therefore if but for that, very worthy to have dyed) Sir Richard Verson Knight, and the Baron of Kinderton had their heads cut off vpon the Monday following. Helfpurres body had beene buried by permission, but vpon other aduife, the King caused it to be drawne out of the graue, beheaded, quartered, and the parts sent into divers Citties of the Kingdome. The Earle of Northumberland (pretending to come with forces to the Kings aide) was empeached by the Earle of Westmorland, and Robert Waterton who had raised a great hoft. Northumberland taking neither of them for friend, wheeles about, and returnes to his Castle of Warkworth. But what can be secure to a subject against the victorious armie of a martiall King? The Earle knew as much, manifeftly feeling the irrecouerable maimes of his house in the losse of his sonne and brother, and therefore shaped his course accordingly. The King therefore being altogether as prudent as fortunate, having fetled the state ofthings in the Marches about Shrew bury , fets forward to the City of Yorke, from thence to take order for fuch perils, as he foresaw might happen. He setled himfelfe the more feriouslie and entirelie to this needfull worke; for that his Ambassadors had effected an abstinence from warre with France, till the first of March, which pauling space though it might seeme little, was not a little welcome to the King, the Realme of England being then fo full of dangerous perturbations. While hee was at Torke, he commands the Earle of Northumberland to come thither in person, which he accordingly did vpon the morrow after the day of Saint * Laurence, and that also with a small traine in the nature of an humble sutor. He could not in reason hope for the wonted familiar fauour of the King, neither had he yet, for it was accounted matter of grace, that his life was pardoned, though his meanes and liberty was abridged, the King allowing only necessary maintenances. The life of Princes is like a perpetuall motion. The Northerne Countreys are now fetled, but hath the King therefore any the more reft? Nothing leffe; for Wales & the troubles thereof call him thither. What fhould he doe? Money the Cement and foldure of all fuch actions, (for Armies cannot otherwise bee held together) vtterly failes. The Archbishop of Canterbury fees the needs and vies of his Soueraigne, and like a Father supplies him with a Tenth, which the Clergy at their Metropolitans motion, consent to gine: vpon the strength whereof, the King knowes how farre hee may proceed against the Welfb in his

(39) Toward the reliefe of these his necessities, the valiant exploits of William de Wilford an Esquire, who was in the meane time abroad for the King vppon the narrow Seas, brought some assistance, certainely store of contentation; for he tooke forty lawfull prizes laden with yron, oyle, sope and Rochell wine, to the number in all of a thousand tunne youn the Coastes of Britaine, and in his returne set fortie faile on fire; and to make the Britains know that hee was not only a man of his hands at Sea, he comes on shore at Penarch, burnes Townes and houses about fixe leagues into the Countrey, and afterward did as much for them at the Towne of Saint Mathewes, which he confirmed with flames and wasted the land for three miles about. The French not to feeme flow to like mischiefes, land at the Wight, but were compelled with loffe to betake themselves againe vnto their Fleet, with farre worse successe then the Britons vnder the conduct of the Lord of Castell had not long before, who landing at Plimmouth inuaded, tooke and burntit. (40) The King haning humbled the Earle of A.D. 1404.

Northumberland in fuch fort as you heard, lookes areins upon him with an eye of compatision and fagaine upon him with an eye of compassion and fanour, not without a secret respect to his owne safety; and he had little appetite to augment enmities, but to allay them rather, whereas by this gratious vfage of that Earle, (for he restored him fully to all) he now thinkes those North parts sufficiently secured. This restitution was made to the Earle in the Parliament holden at London about the midst of

Ianuary, where the King obteined an vnusuall Taxe or Subfidy, of which (that it might not be drawne into example) no record, nor writing was fuffered to remaine. Some part of the gold which the king thus drew into the Efchecquor, he had occasion to bestow at this time. For there presented themselues vnto him, a boisterous troupe of plaine Western-men. The Country-men about Deri worth kill the French General who brought to the kings view three Lords, and twenty knights of note; These were prisoners, whom the Country people about Darimouth in Deuonline had gotten in plaine fight. The king was therefore given to underfland, that the Lord of Caflel the Briton, who had formerly burnt Plimmouth, thinking to doe the like at Dartmouth, came on shore with his forces, where these and the like people fiercely encountred him; at which time their women (like Amazons) by hurling of flints and pebles, and by such other artillery, did greatly advance their hulbands and kinsefolkes victory. The Lord of Castel himselfe and many besides were slaine, these other were faued as more of them might have beene, but that the ignorance of language alike confounded the cries of indignation and pitty. They there-fore in reward of this hazard and feruice, doe pray they might reape some commodity by their Captiues. It was but reason; wherefore the King, who tooke pleasure to talke with the lusty Western-men, himfelfe,causeth their purses to be stuft with golden Coyne, referring the prisoners to repay himselfe with aduantage out of their ransomes. The like good fortune against owen Glendowr and the Welsh would have gladded him indeed; but they burne and destroy the Marches, they kill and captinate the people, and partly by force, partly by fraud, get many Castles, some of which they rase, and fortisse

Owen Glendow and the Welfare walte the Mar-ches.

nd prefent the others. Neither came these enils fingle, for the Flemings and Britons tooke certaine Merchant ships of A new falle king England, and either flew or hung the Sailers. (41) It is more strange that King Richard was not fuffered to be dead, after he had fo long a time been buried, Serlo, who had beene a Gentleman of his Chamber, having heard that King Richard (his royall and gracious Master) was secretly abiding in Scotland, left the fauour of the French Court to fee him, but it was not worth his fo much loue and labour; for hee that bare the name, was but an Impostor. Loath yet to let the opinion die, because it might do King Henry harme; Serlo affirmes that Richard was aline. What conning madneffe is so great which hath not some great fooles or other to support it? The old Countesse of oxford (mother to the late Duke of Ireland) will needs perswade her selfe and others in Effex, that Richard was aliue: certaine it is, that flee delired it might be true. To make others more firmly belecue the same, she secretly gaue filuer and gilt Harts (the badges which King Richard

chacrea to the Archbishoppe of Torke into a conspiracy, in ful hope that Henrie Percie Earle of Northumberland, the Lord Bardolf, the Citizens of Yorke, and the common people would affift their cause, which was glosed with the specious pretence of redressing publike abuses, hapning through the Kings default. The Earle of Westmerland hearing of this attempt, wherein the Earle Marshall and the Archbishoppe were leaders of the people, gathers a force to encounter them, but perceiving himfelfe too feeble, he betakes himfelfe to fraud, and by faining to like the quarrell, got them both into his power, and prefented them as an acceptable oblation to the King, who about Whitvied to bestow vpon his followers) as tokens. Hithereothe deuise held out, for it had no great danfontide comes to Yorke, where (albeit the Earle of westgerinit; but Serlo feeing the necessity of greater merland had promifed them their lines) aswell the Archbishoppe, as the Earle Marshall were beheaded. friends, which appeared not grew weary, and knowing that Sir William Clifford knight, Gaptaine of Ber-But the next yeere the Pope excommunicated all wicke had received fundry favours from King Richfuch as had a hand in putting the Archbishoppe to ard, hopes by him to bee furnished with money, to death. It was faid of Tiberins *Cafar in a Satyricall . Sunton Lib. 4. beare his charges out of Seotland into France. Clifford libel, -regnabit sanguine multo, farre otherwise minded, seizeth vpon serle, as a fit meanes to reconcile himself with the King, in whose high displeasure he stood, (for that hee had continu-(44) This the King verified in his person, who ed his charge in Berwicke contrary to expresse comcomming out of banishment, could not support his The King purmandement) and carrieth him to the King, who was then come to the Castle of Pomfret, beeing weakened with these rumors, and suspecting that the Fitle and estate, but by shedding much bloud of subjects. For not contented with those two lines, chiefe nest of danger lay in the North; whither the he pursueth the Earle of Northumberland and Lord Earle of Northumberland brought his grandchildren Bardolf with an invincible Armie of feuen and thirty (as pledges) to affure the King of his loyalty : thither thousandmen: but they vnable to make head against so mighty a force, take Berwicke for refuge. also Sir William Clifferd brings poore Serlo, who both confesseth the practise, as also that hee had a guiltie Thither the King marcheth, at the found whereof hand in the murther of the Duke of Glocester, which they both distrustfull of their safety, flie into Scotmade him farre more odious then the other forgery. land, where the Lord Flemming entertaines them. Berwicke vpon hope of fuccours out of Scotland, (which The crimes being manifest, Serlo is drawn fro Pontefratt beginning his pain, where he had his doom,& gladly nourished the English miseries, and the Engat London knits vp the Tragedie in an halter. The lish theirs) refused to render, whereupon the King Couteste of Oxford for this falshood loft al her goods plants a battering piece against a Tower in the wall; which as it threw downe the halfe thereof being moreouer committed to close prison. To with one shot, so did it quite ouerthrow all the de- The fire time make this imposture the more probable & passable, fendants courages, who prefently yeelded the place that a gunne is veed in England to proper your hard and desperate terms, for they were partly "The NV alfag." Serlo had caused K. Richards ligner to bee counterfei-fuccesse of certain in the Parliament (held this year at Conentry & called the * lack learning Parliament, either for the vnlearnednesse of the perions, or for their malice to learned men) where, to supply the Kings wants, a bill was exhibited against the Temporalties of the Clergie; but by the courage of the Archbishop of Canterburie, (who told them, it was the enriching of themselues, not of the King, which they respected in their faerilegious petitions) and by the gracious care of the King, (who vowed to leave the Church in better flate then he found it, rather then in worfe,) their motion vanished to nothing, but the infamous memory of the attempters. It is observed, that * a Knight the chiefe speaker in this bill against the Clergy, had beene himselse a Deacon, and so himselse first aduanpeene nimicite a Deacon, and in nimicite first addanced by the Clergy. With great reason therefore did our forestanters distinguish the people into the learned and lend, inferring truely that such commonlie were lend, who were not learned, and that lend and wicked were but two words of one fignification, as in this Parliament well appeared, whose Commons might enter Common with their cattel for any vertue which they had more then brute Creatures, ted, wher with he scaled fundry consolatorie and exhortatory letters to his friends, indited in K. Richards name; wherupon many in Effex gaue credit to the Counteffe, & among the rest fom Abbots of that Countie. Into this smokedid al the deuise euaporate.

Adregnum quifqus venit ab exilio. Who, first Exil de,is after crown d, His raigne with bland will much abound.

(42) And no lesse smokie was both the deuise &

the aid of Owen, having well neere first lost all their The French with horses in the passage for want of fresh water. The Lord Berkley and Henrie de Pay (by what meanes to aid owns appeares not) burnt fifteen of that number in the G harbour. They made the entrance of their warre by laying fiege to the Towne of Carmarden in South-part with bagge and baggage, was yeelded, (45) The King being againe in need of money, after long vnwillingnesse and delay, the Parliament A.D. 1406. furnished him, rather ouercome with wearinesse in An. Reg.7 contradiction, then for any great good will. Some of his treasure was employed, as it seemes, upon se-cret practises with the Seoss, that the Earle of Northumberland, and the Lord Bardolfe might bee deliuered into his hands, in exchange for some Scots;

D d d d d 2 where hanged, and partly emprisoned. After *Berwicke was In Hen.4.

thus recourred, the king takes Alawicke, & all other

Castles belonging to the Earle, and thinking the like happines would thine vpon him in Wales, he croffeth ouer thither, where it fell out far otherwise, not by the manhood of the Wellb, but by the fodaine rage of waters which destroied his carriages and about fiftie wains(as was faid)laden with much treasure:therfore

he returns to W'orcester. Owen Glendowr the chief captain of the Welf natio, expecting & fearing a reuenge had before this time confederated himselfe with the French, who in 140 hips arrived at Milford haven to Wales, which, the Garrison being permitted to de-

(41) Twife after this, betweene Christmas and | An. 1405. Palmefunday, the King affembled the States againe: once at London, and then at Saint Alban, for the cause Marihall and Scrope Archbi-thop of Yorke rife to redrette whereupon they fled into Wales, and the Seots miffing their purpole, flew David Lord Flemming for discouering their intention to his distressed guests, (as by the lawes of honour and hospitality he was obliged which filled Scotland with civill discords. To avoide the dangers whereof, and to better his education, the King of Scots fent his sonne and heire by sea into France, whom, together with the Bishoppe of Orkney certaine Mariners of Cley in Norfolke surprized at sea, and presented to the King, who committed him priloner to the Tower of London. Meanewhile the French profecuting their affaires in Wales, fent thither eight and thirty shippes full of souldiers, of which number the English tooke eight (the rest escaping in great feare to Wales,) and not long after other fifteene faile laden with waxe and wine. This

A.D. 1407. fortune though good, was nothing in regard of the service which Henry Pay, with certaine shippes of the Cinque Ports, and about fifteene other, exployted vpon a great Fleet, containing fixfcore death for having in many places of London, dared fecretly to fet vp bils, containing newes that King Richard was aliue. The fearefull plague of peftilence flew multitudes of people through the Realm, chiefly in London, where, within a fhort space it defiroyed thirty thousand. That most renowned Cap-sic Rabart Knolles taine Sir Robert Knolles, who had led so many liuing men to their honourable deaths in battel, was now captined himselfe by death upon the fifteenth day of August. His fame grew principally by martiall deedes in the great warres of France, under Edward the third, but spred and setled it selfe by good workes, among which the goodly frone-bridge at Rochester in Kent was one. (46) In the meane space, the wars of Wales were faile, whose ladings were yron, salt, oyle, and Rochel wine. The same times was a felon put to managed by Prince Henry, who tooke the Castle of Aberistwith; but Owen Glendowr Soone after got it againe by faire fraud, and thrust into it a Garrison of his owne. Thu's Owen prospered for a time; but the Earle of Northumberland and Lord Bardolf for saking wales, and seeking to raise a force in the North. were encountred by the Sherife of Torkesbire, who after a sharpe conflict slew the Earle in the field, and fo wounded the Lord Bardolf, that hee died thereof. The Earles head was cut off, which being first ignominiously carryed through London, was fixed vpon the Bridge. The King having thus vanquifhed his chiefe enemies, went to Yorke, where inquiries were made for the Earles adherents, of which he condemned, ransomed, and emprisoned many. The Abbot of Hales, because hee was taken fighting on the Earles behalfe, had sentence to die, which was executed upon him by hanging. In forraine and transmarine parts, the Kings affaires had mixt successe; for Edmund Earle of Kent, at the siege of Briant in Britaine, was strucken with a quarrell into the head, whereof hee died; but yet after he had first taken the faid Castell, and leveld it with the earth,

(47) The peace of Christendome having beene long tempestuously troubled by a Schisme, raised by ambition of opposite Popes, wherof the one was chosen at Rome, the other at Autinion, by contrarie factions of the Cardinals; A generali Councel was fummoned to bee held at Pifa in Italie, whither the King of England fent his Ambassadors, and the Clerer elected Robert Alum * Chancellour of Oxford, &

Bishoppe of Sarum, to fignific, * that whele both the Popes would give oner their Papacie, neither of them should thenceforward be acknowledged for Pope. The King in his letter then fent to Pope Gregory, chargeth him (as Platina likewise doth) with Persury, and that this Papall emulation had beene the cause thousand Christians staine in warres. There assembled a great number of Cardinals, Archbishops, Bishops, and mitted Prelates, who elected a new Pope, A-

An.D. 1409. Platina

"Ygod Newl. p.566.
* Antiq.Britan.

walfag. Yestic. of the murther of * more then two hundreth and thirty lexander 5. (a man* trained vp at oxford, where hee tooke degree in Theologie) reieding the two o-thers, who long and bitterly had contended for the state of the Darlingent Rolling of the Darlingent Rolling of the Darling of the State of the place. The King also cals his Parliament to find out meanes for more money, to the custody and charge whereof hee ordained Sir Henry Scrope creating him Treasurer, as Thomas Beaufourt the Kings halfe brother, Lord Chancellour. In which Parliament was reuited the facrilegious Petition of spoiling the Church of England of her goodly patrimonies, which the pietie and wildome of fo many former ages had congested. But the King(who was bound by oath and reason to preserue the flourishing estate of the Church) detested their wicked propofition, and for that cause denied all other their requests. The Duke of Burgundies provisions which he had made to reduce Caleys to the French dominions,& stored at Saint Omars, were consumed with cafuall fire to afhes.

(48) About these times the great and bloudy sactions betweene the Dukes of Burgundy and Orleance brake forth. The cause was for a murther committed upon Lewis (brother to the French king, and father of the faid Duke of Orleance) as he came late one night from the Queenes lodging, who at that time lay in of a child. The murtherers*to preuent pursuit, strewed galthrops behind them. The Duke of Burgundie iustified the fact, forthat Lewis had (as hee faid)laboured with the Pope to put the King from his feat, vpon pretence that hee was as vnfit to gouerne as euer Childericke was, whom Pope Zacharie pronounced against. This prepared the way for that scourge wher with God meant to chastice the pride and finnes of France. Each partie fought to fortifie it selfe with friends, aswel at home as abroad. The Duke of Burgundie had the King and the Dolphin on his fide; the other had the Kings of Nauar King. and Arragen, the Dukes of Berrie and Britaine with many of the mightieft Earles and Lords. The Duke of Burgundie, (who together with the King and the face of gouernment, kept in Paris) perceiuing his aduerfaries ftrengthes to bee more then his owne, offers to the King of England, a daughter of France in marriage with the Prince, and many great promifes, fo as hee would io yne in defence of the King & send ouer competent forces; whereunto hee is faid to have answered: Our aduise is, that you should not in this ease aduenture battell with your enemie, who seems perated yong man, by all the good meanes which are possible. If that cannot bee, then stand upon your guard, and draw into place of most safety, with such force of men and any interpreted more spects, with many orce of mone as may belf crue for your defence. After all this if he will not bee appealed, you may with the better conficence encounter him, and in such case wee will not faile (more fully) to assift, according as your equest. For the present he sent over the Earls of Arundel and Kyme, present he sent ouer the Earls of Arundel and Kyme, and many men of Armes, with plenty of English

Bowsman who came fife as B Bow-men, who came safe to Paris, where they in nothing diminished the ancient glory of their nation, but behaued themselues valiantly. (49) The Duke of Orleance, and the Peeres of his faction, seeing their successe, consult how to draw the An.D. 1412

King of England from their enemie, and thereupon fend ouer one Falconet and others, with folemne let- to the King for ters of credence, whom they made their irrenocable fuccount "Procurators, to entreat, agree..., and conclude, (on "The work their behalfes) with the most excellent Prince, Henry the Dukes by the grace of God King of England, and his most no-letter. "ble sonnes, &c. for the restitution and reall redelineric of the Dutchie of Aquitain, with all the rights and 'appurtenances, which (as it affirmed) are the inheritance of the said most excellent Lord the King of England, by them to bee made and done, Ge. The Am baffadors having shewed forth this Proxie, exhibited Thegress offers the points of their negotiation in these Articles, by of the Orleanse faction to the which wee may fee how farre the defire of reuenge King. will transport great minds. I They offer their bodies to be imployed against all men for the service of the

An.D.1411. *,Paul.Aemyl, is The Duke of for aid to the

The Kings wife and Christian answere to the to projecute a sust renenge for the death of his Father; but abour to asswage the displeasure and anger of the exas-

King of England, fauing their faith to their owne Soueraigne, as knowing the King of England would not o-therwise desire them. 2 Their sonnes, daughters, nephemes, Necces, and all their Cofens to bestow in marriage at the King of Englands pleasure. 3. I heir Castles, Townes, treasure, and all their goods to be at the service of the Sayd King. 4. Their friends, the Gentlemen of France, the Clergy and wealthy Burgers; who are all of their fide; as by proofe (they faid) fiull well appeare, 5. They finally offer to him the Dutchy of, Aquitaine entire, and in as full a manner as ever his Predeceffors enioyned the same, without excepting any thing \ so as they themselves will hold, and acknowledge to hold their lands in those parts, directly of the faid King, and deliuer as much of them as they can into his possession, and will doe their utmost to conquer the rest for him. Vpon condition on the other fide. I. That the King of England and his Successors should assist the said Lords, against the Duke of Burgundy for the murther committed upon the person of the late Duke of Orleance. 2. That he should assift against the said Duke of Burgundy and his fauourers, till they had repaired all the loffes which they, their friends and tenants had susteined through that ccasion. 3 . That he should help to settle the quiet of the realme . c. (50) These Offers being put into the balance with the Articles, vpon which the Duke of Burgandy had obteined succours, ouerweighed them so The King for-fakes the Duke farre, that about the midft of August, before all those which had beene fent with the Earle of Arundel to the contrarie part, were returned into England, aydes were decreed to the Duke of orleance, to the wonder of all men, who vnderstood not the fecret, so that Thomas Duke of Clarence, Edward Duke of Yorke, the Earle of Darcet, and very many other principall men with a competent puissance were sent ouer to avde the Duke of Orleance, the Earle of Angolesme remaining hostage in England, for the sure payment of one hundred and nine thousand Crownes for performance of the other Articles : They came on thore in Normandy; but, whither the confederates moued with the perill into which their Country & Nation should by these meanes be precipitated, or for some other causes, (though none indeed so inft, as the sor-

(51) The vulgar Chronicles tell vs a ftrange ters. The King, fay they, lying dangerously sicke.

caused his Crowne to bee set on a Pillow at his beds head, when suddainely the pangs of his Apoplexie seizing on him so vehemently that all supposed him

The English burne and spoile in Normandy till the Duve of Or-homines de

A.D. 1413

but vpon the twentieth day of March finished his short, but politicke and victorious reigne, in peace hauing reigned thirteene yeeres and fixe moneths wanting fine and honour, had not the injustice of his first entrance left a dishonorable stayne vpon his worthiest acti daica, faith VV elfing Story, the truth whereof must rest vpon the repor-raigne Father to weare it your selfe; but all men deeming you were departed to inherite another Crowne, this being my right, I tooke as mine owne, but now doe acknowledge for none of mine; and thereupon he set the Crowne againe where he found it. Oh sonne, (quoth hee) with what right I got it, God onely knoweth, who forgive me the linne, howfocuer it was got, fayd the Prince, I meane to keepe and defend it, (when it shall bee myne) with my fword, as you by fword haucobtained it. Which the King hearing, hee entered discourse of aduise. flewing him that hee feared some discord would arise betwixt him and his brother Thomas Duke of Clarence, who with better respect had borne forth his youth then Prince Henry had done, and whose distemper was like to breed great troubles, if it were not in time stayed. If my brethren (quoth Henry) will be true fubicets, I will honour them as my brethren, but if otherwise, I shall alloone execute instice vpon them, as on the meanest of birth in my Kingdome. The King reioycing at this vnexpected anfwere; both prudently and Christianly charged him before God, to minister the law indifferently, to ease the oppressed, to beware of flatterers, not to deferre iustice, nor yet to be sparing of mercy. Pu-' nish (quoth hee) the oppressors of thy people, " fo shalt thou obtaine fauour of God, and loue and feare of thy Subjects, who whiles they have wealth, so long shalt thou have their obedience, but made poore by oppressions, will be ready to make infurrections. Reloyce not so much in the glory of thy Crowne, as meditate on the burthenous care which accompanieth it; mingle loue with feare, so thou as the heart shalt be defended in the midft of the body: but know, that neither row and fhame for their fo difloyall a combination with the Capitall enemies of France,) the Duke of Orleance (contrary to agreement) came not at the appointed time and place, whereupon the English burnt spoiled and tooke much riches in the Castles, Countrey and good Townes, therewith to satisfie themselues, till the Duke of orleance should see them payd. At last yet the Dukes of Clarence and Orleance came to a treaty, after which the English campe rose peaceably and marcht into Aquitaine there to winter it selfe, the Duke of Orleance returning to his owne. While these matters were in hand, the Lord of Heyle Marshall of France with many other Lords, and about foure thousand * men of armes layd siege to a certaine strong place in Gascoigne; which Sir Iohn Blunt Knight, with three hundred fouldiers not onely defended, but draue them also from the siege, taking prisoners twelve of the principall and about fixescore other Gentlemen. * The King lived not to see the carriage, and fortune of these warres, for falling ficke at Eltham in the Christmas time (at which our ancient authors begin to draw the circles of their yeeres) but recouering himselfealittle, he repaired to London about Candlemas, there to hold Parliament; the end whereof he lived not to fee, the heart without the members, nor a King without his Subjects helpe is of any force, Lastly " my fonne loue and feare God, afcribe all thy victories, strength, friends, obedience, riches, honour and all, vnto him : and with the Pfalmift fay with all " thankes, Not unto us Lord, not unto us but to thy holy name be given the land and praise. (52) Vpon what foile these most Christian, true and excellent Councels fell, the following life will fhew, being nothing eife, but a full representation in act, of fuch things, as are here in precept only, shewing to the world how divine a beautie Christian goodnes bath.

which, his father reuiuing, foone miffed; and calling for his fonne, demanded, what he meant, to bereauch him of that, whereto hee had yet no right? The Prince boldlie replied ; Long may you live Soue-

His Wines.

(53) The first wife of King Hemy the fourth, was Mary one of the daughters and heires of Humfree de Bohum, Earle of Hereford, Eßex and Northampton, Constable of England, &c. Shee dyed An. D. 1394. before he came to the Crowne.

(54) His second wife was toane, Queene, daughter to Charles the first, King of Nauarre, thee being the widow of John de Montford, Sirnamed Stream, Duke of Britaine; and died without any Children by King Henry, at Hauering in the Bower in the County of Effex 1437. the tenth day of Iulie in the fifteenth yeere of Henry the fixt, and was buried by her husband at Canterbury.

His Children.

(55) Henry, the Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornewall. Earle of Chester, and afterward King of England, whose glorious life and acts next insue. (56) Thomas, Duke of Clarence, President of the Councell to King Henry the first (his brother,) and Steward of England. He was flaine at Beaufort in Anies without any iffue. He married Margaret daughter to Thomas Holland, Earle of Kent, the widow of Iohn Beauford, Earle of Somerfet.

(57) Iohn Duke of Bedford, Regent of France in the time of King Henry the fixt, Duke allo of Anion and Alanson; Earle of Cenomannia, Harecourt, of Kendall and Dreux, Viscount Beaumont. He married first with Anne, daughter to John Duke of Burgundy, Secondly with I acobs, daughter to Peter de Luxemburgh Earle of Saint Paul. And died without any iffue.

624

(58) Humfrey, was by his brother King Henry the fifth created Duke of Gloceller, was Protectour of the Kingdome of England for 25, yeeres, in the time of King Henry the fixt, in whose first yeere hee styled himfelfe in his Charters thus : Humfrey by the grace of God Sonne, brother, and uncle to Kings, Duke of Glocefler, Earle of Henault, Holland, Zeland, and Pembroke; Lord of Friesland, Great Chamberlaine of the Kingdome of England, Protector and Defendor of the same Kingdome, and Church of England. Hee was a man, who nobly descrued of the common wealth and of learning, as being himfelfe very learned, and a magnificent Patron and benefactor of the Vniverfity of oxford, where hee had beene educated; and was generally called, the Good Duke. Hee married first Iscobs, heire to William Duke of Banaria Earle of Holland. who (as after was knowne) had first beene lawfully troth-plighted to Iohn Dake of Brabant, and therefore was afterward dinorced from the faid Humfrey. His second wife was Elianor daughter to Reginald, Baron Cobham de Searborough. Queene Margaret, wife to King Henry the fixt, repining at his great power in swaying the King & state, secretly wrought his ruine, hee being murthered in his bedat Burie, dying without any iffue, 1446. His body was buried at Saint Albans, yet the vulgar error is that he lyes buried in Saint Pauls.

(59) Blaunch married to William Duke of Banaria, and Emperour.

(60) Philip married to Iohn King of Denmarke and Norway.

HENRIE

ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Chap.15 | Henrie V. Monarch 52. 1

HENRIE THE FIFTH, KING OF Monarch 52 ENGLAND, AND FRANCE, LORD

OF IRELAND, THE TWO AND FIFT IETH MO-NARCH OF ENGLAND, HIS RAIGNE, CHAPTERXV.

Mongst the many Monarchs of this most famous Empire, none is found more complete with all heroicall vertues then is this King, of whose life by order and successe of flory wee are now to write; which is Henry of that name the fifth, the renowne of England, and glory of Wales. Of whom, what was spoken of Titus in the flourishing times of the Romans, may for the time of his raigne be truly verified in him: both of them being the louely dar-lings, and delightfull ion of Mankind. But as Titus is taxed by his story-Writers, in youth to have been riotous, profule, waltfull and wanton, for which (as he faith) with the diflikes of men he flept into the throne; to if wee will beleeue what others have writ, Henry was wilde whiles hee was a Prince, whose youthfull prankes as they paffed with his yeers, let vs haue leage here to rehearfe, and leage them motiges to our owne vie as hee made them for his.

(2) His birth was at Monmouth in the Marches of wales, the yeer of Christs assuming our fiest, 1388 Edw. Hale and the eleventh of King Richards raigne, his father then a Subica, and Earle of Derbie, Leicester; & Lin- Hemy borne colne, afterwards created Duke of Hereford, inright a Acomount in of his wife, then of Lancafler, by the death of his father; and lastly by election made the Soueraigne of England, (that vnfortunate Richard) being deposed the Crowne. His mother was Mary lecond daughter and coheire of Hamfrey Bahun Earle of Hereford . and Northampton, high Constable of England, *as we *Recor of Tower hane faid. (3) His young yeeres were spent in literature in the Academie of Oxford, where in Queenes Colledge he was a Student under the tuition of his uncle Henry Beauford, Chancellour of that V ninerfity, afterwards Bilhoppe of Lincolne and Winchester, and last ly made Cardinall by the title of Eufebius. But his Father obtayning the Crowne, and himfelfe Educati a father, the suspition of disloyalty, and disulged And for a further testimony of his tender and comreports of my dangerons intendmentes towardes your royall Person and Crowne, hath enforced at passionate heart, the slaughtered body of K. Richard ouer-meanely enterred at Langley, in great estate he this time, and in this manner, to present my selfe and life at your Maiesties dispose. Some faults and remoued into Saint Peters Church at Westminster, and there laid him enshrined by Queene annehis first "mispent time (with blushes I may speake it) my wife (as himfelfe had defired and prepared) foun-"youth hath committed, yet those made much more by such sleering pickthanks, that blow them stronding a weekely memoriall to bee celebrated, and fix shillings eight pence thereon distributed vnto the "ger into your vnwilling and distastine care. The poore, and yeerelie twentie pounds given vpon his name of Soveraigne ties alleagiance to all, but of a Rob, Fabian. anniuersarie day, besides foure tapers to burne be-"Father, to a further feeling of natures obedience; fore his monument day and night for eyer. And fo "fo that my finnes were double, if fuch fuggestions neerely did his death touch this innocent King, that possessed my heart: for the Law of God ordayhee sent to Rome to bee assoyled from that guilt of neth, that he which doth presumptuously against his fathers Act, by the Popes holinefle, then acthe Ruler of his people shall not live, and the child counted another God; whose penance enjoined, he Deut.17.12. [that fmiteth his father shall die the death: so farre willinglie performed, and afterwards purposed to therefore am I from any difloyall attempt, against haue made warre in Palestina against the enemies of the person of you my Father, and the Lords an-Christ; for which end, hee lent Sir Hugh de Laury "nointed; that if I knew any of whom you floode of Henault to Ierusalem, to discouer the state of things in the least danger or feare, my hand according to there, but before his returne he was departed to the "duty shoud be the first to free yoursuspition; yea heavenly terufalem himfelfe. " I wil most gladly suffer death to ease your perplex-(12) The obsequies of his Father being solemni-Vpon Trinky Sunday. "ed heart; and to that end I have this day prepazed at Canterbury, and the King in person attending "red my felt, both by confession of my offences past. the Corps, fitte occasion was given vnto Archbithoppe Arundell to complain of the Wickliftans, (then bill det Belife, "and receiving the bleffed Sacrament, Wherefore I "humbly befeech your Grace to free your suspicion termed Lollards) great rubs in the wayes of the Clerfrom all feares conceined against mee, with this gies pride and proceedings; whereof Sir tohn Old-"dagger, the stabbe whereof I will willingly receive eastle was thought a chiefe, who by his marriage con-"here at your Maiesties hand, and so doing, in the presence of these Lords, and before God at the day tracted with a kinfwoman of the Lord Cobhams of Cooling in Kent, obtained the title thereof, a man " of judgement, I clearely forgine my death But the ftrong and valourous, and in especial fauour with King melting into teares, cast downe the naked his Prince. This Knight in their Synode affembled dagger(which the Prince deliuered him) and raising at London, immediately after the Kings Coronatis his proftrate sonne, embraced and kissed him, conon, was accused by them to haue rent Christs seamefessing his eares to have beene ouer-credulous that leffe coat, in maintaining VV ickliffer doctrine to bee taught, especially in the Diocesse of London, Rocheway, and promifing neuer to open them againe against him. But the Prince vnsatisfied, instantly fler, and Hereford: against whom also some choise Fex in Acts and Inquisitors at Oxford, appointed for Herefies (though operation of the whole Vniuersity had formerly vpheld both Tais defired, that at least his accusers might be produced, and if conuicted, to receive punishment, though not Wiekliffe and his doctrine,) informed and presented to the full of their demerites; to which request the King replied, that as the offence was capitall, fo his name with two hundred forty fixe conclusions The Otterhers should it bee examined by the Peeres, and therefore which they had collected to be hereticall. willed him to reft contented vntill the next Parlia-(13) The King incensed (by the Archbishoppes ment. Thus by his great wildome he fatisfied his Thom, Walfing. fuggestions) against these discontented discipliners, father from further suspition, and recourred his loue that neerely was lost. Hetherto of Hemy as he was was further made beleeue that they themselues had fet vp billes in divers places, threatning that an hun-Prince (some other of whose youthly actions we aldred thousand persons were ready for armes, against fo touched in his fathers raigne) and now to his Acts all that withstood their reformation, and among after he was King.

Ccccc 2

(11) Henry ordained fucceffor, and ouerfeer of thefe that Oldeaftle his Knight was reputed the chiefe. The King graciously inclined, heard the Archbi-Ex Retord. his dying Fathers Testament, had in his entrance so shops complaint, and being at Kennington promi-fed to conferre with the Lord Cobham himself, which fortunate proceedings, as hee feemeth to exceed all his Predecessors; his Nobles proffering the oath of accordingly hee did, inftantly willing him to fubmit their Alleagiance, before himfelte had made his for himselfe to the censure of the Church and obedience the just gouernment of the Common-weale, which so of the Archbishoppe: but Cobham, no turne coate farre was from acceptation, that hee defired God ne-uer to admit him to the Crowne, vnlesse he should from his profession, humbly told the King he owed his subjection only vnto his Maiesty whom God had to his glory raigne, and rule the Scepter to the good of the Subject. The day of his entrance and of his Fathers death, being the twentieth of March, and placed in thefe his Dominions, as his onely vice-gerent to gouerne his people and Subjects, and that himselfe forced nothing Romes leaden sword, vnsheayeere of Christs Incarnation, according to our account, 1412. on the ninth of Aprill following hee thed by the Pope (that Antichrift) against the Lords feruants, nor would fuffer the key of Canterbury to An.D. 1413. was solemnly crowned at Westminster, Thomas Arun-del Archbishoppe of Canterbury performing the roiopen the closet of his conscience, where the spirite of God was reliding, bearing witnesse with his, that hee stood in the truth, for whose defence as his Chamall Ceremonies: which no fooner was ended, but to beginne a good government, hee beganne with pion, he was ready to line or die. himselfe, banishing from his presence and Court the (14) This answere received, was so delivered unbridleled youthes which had beene his conforts. vnto the Archbishoppe, with power to cite, exacommanding them either to change their manners. mine and punish, as their owne Canons in such caor neuer to approch within ten miles where hee lay. fes had decreed. The Lyon thus laid for, whose paw they ftill feared, was ferued by proceffe to ap-Then chose hee worthy and prudent men for his Titus Liuš. The Walfing. Councell of Estate, and advanced his Clergie with digpeare in the Archbishops Court, and the same delinity and power: being himselfe as zealous in denouered by one Butler a seruant of the Kings Priuy Acts and Mone tion, as liberall in building, and indowing of places Chamber, forthat the bold Sumner durft not doe for denotion of others. His lustice was found of ir himselfe, and the Archbishoppe (diligent lest he should forget the day) caused his letters citatorie all that fought it; for every day after dinner for the pace of an houre, his sustome was to leane on a cushion set to be fet youn the gates of the Cathedrall Church by his cupbord, and there himselfe received petitions of of Rochester, which were presently tornedown and the oppressed, which with great equity he did redresse. others againe fet vp, were againe pulled off, to the Job, Stow.

Chap.15. Henrie V. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 52.

626		CESSION OF Monarch 5	1. Book.	9	Chap.15	Henrie V.	ENGLANDS	MONARCHS.	Monarch 52.
	great offence of the Clergies eye, and the rather, for that the Actor could not be knowne. The Knight	Halidon) the king restored him not only in bloo and to grace in his Court, but also innested his pe		-1		" the title of Pepine,	the Claime of Capet, the poffer-	(if a daughter or the form	dved) belonged onely Ouldeaftle pre	not appearing (as knowing their malice and his own	fon with the Title and State of his Grandfather,	-		į		of the French Kings themselues ue their onely rights from the	vnto him as the next in	blood. The state thus nounced and	danger) was condemned of contumacie, and after- wards in a Synode at Rochester, was by the Archbishop	his owne no little honour, and faithfull fernice area	i-			" heires female, an	d that this pretended Law Sali-	flanding, and a daughter bo proclaimed King, no othe	rright allegoed then this
Tho waif.	pronounced an Heretike, where himfelfe then enti-	ned of that honourable family. (17) Vpon Archbishop Arundels death, sta				" aue was but a fhif	ting denife to debarre the Eng-	foifted and falfely termed f	undamentall law Saliane.
Antiq.Britan.	cted that hereticall decree, that the haly legistures	ued by famine as wee hane faid * Henry Chickeles	2 Honry Chicheley	,	1	" lifh Kings from th	ne claime of the French Crown. howsoeuer they pretend to bee	for no otherwise doth other	man the French famous
- 1	Joouta not bee translated into the Enolish tongue But	flout Champion also against Wieliffes doctrine, wa	s fhop of Canter		1	" right, yet the law	of God (faid he) hath made it	Lawyer efteeme of that ve nance, if any such had been	igodiy and viiiiit Ordi- icordained.
Ex libro	marke the judgement that fell vpon his own tongue, whose rootes and blade shortly after (as is recorded)	with the Kings confent, by the Monkes of Canterbu, elected their Archbishop, which the politicke Elec	oary.		i	" meere wrong, wh	ich with better regard of the Sex	(22) The Kingsrightt	hus apparant, and fuffici-
Wigork,	grew to big in his mouth and throate that he could	neither accepted nor refused, but left it to the wi			1	" alloweth the won	nan to inherite her fathers pol-	ent possessions to be had in	France: the Bill of com-
Archbithop -	I neither ipeake nor Iwallow downe mean but in bor	and picalure of the Pobe: who helt tooke for the the	+ 1	5	1	" of Christ himfels	the practife of that state, where- ic is called king, where the fine	plaint against the Clergies and all mindes addicted to	excelle was quite daller,
1	ror lay languishing, till lastly he so dyed started by	If to faire proceeded without his direction w	- 1		l	" daughters of Zelop	phehad for want of heires males ,	thinking it vnreasonable	to pull the Pronitions
*See it in Fexa Mattytologie	(15) In the meane time the Lord Cobham wrote	was soone pacified by Chicheleys submission, and (a faith mine Author) with other Gratulations beside			Numb.27	were admitted to	o fucceed in their fathers inheri-	from their natiues and bret	hren, when as the Circuit
marryrologie	his bettere, which was very Christianlike and pre-	I he man though not to rich by hirth as drawd	la 1		Numb.17-		min the Tribe of Manasses; and Lord himselfe, that if a man di-	of their inheritance extend paffe; and therefore with the	ded more large in com-
- 1	fented it himselfe to the King, who (being much pre- possessed) in no wise would receive it, but suffered		-		1		mes, then his inheritance should	ned no longer to fit fo pent	with increase decing God
- 1	I DIM to bee immoned in his prefence and prints	ous with his Prince as the sequele proued. (18) The first affaics of both was made known	_			" be transferred vpc	on his daughters. Neither is it to	had given them another K	ingdome, but would free
The offers of	Chamber, when the Knight for his purgation offered				An addition.	" be doubted but t	hat the daughter of Shefbam was	their own ftraitnesse by di	nt of fword, and spread
1	an hundred knights and Equires, which would not be accepted; then, according to his degree of Order,				į	" without iffue mal	her fathers patrimony, he dying exthough thee married an Egyp-	their Tents wider in the Co	more forceable in confe-
- 1	and law of Armes, he required the finale Combar to	Lands given to religious houses and spiritual per fons for devotion were either superfluous, or disor			1,Chro,2,34.	" tian, whose poster	rity had their possessions among	rence, then was the fucceffe
1		Qcriv Dcnt : whole renember / if become malaised	N I		10,110,1-341	". the Tribe of Iuda	b cuen to the Captinity of Babi-	ces, who affaied the Crow	ne by that vniuft claime
1	then in the quarrell of his faith, the King and Councell onely excepted. This notwithstanding could	would thinke for the defence of the land and hono	- 1		1	"no fuch better we	a law were, as in truth there was re the breach by the warrant of	of law Salique. (23) For did not the fw	ord of Cod /washon shop
1					1	"diuine direction,th	en the continuance by colour of	man) in the hand of King	Edward the claimer cut
- 1	the Archbillion his Indge-uphere of or divisor are	fixe thousand two hundred Esquires, and one hundred Almes-houses, for the reliefe of impotent and			1	" fuch prescription,	feeing God hath ordained afwell	downe the flower of France	e in the Battell of Crecie,
Rob. Fabian.	nations (in all which hee most religiously instified himself & his profession) he was condemned of Hore-	uncated perions, and vnto the kings Coffee twons	.		1	for the daughter a	is for the fonne. chbishops vnexpected but not	with the flaughter of Len	is King of Bohemse, of
- 1	Use, and committed Priloner unto the Tower of re-				1	vnpremeditated Or	ation thus ended, so stirred the	Charles the French Kings be of Viennois, the Dukes of L	ortaine, or Tames Delphin
1		made the fat Abbats to sweat, the proud Priors to frowne, the poore Friers to curse, the filly Numers to	•		1	blood of the young	Couragious King, that his heart	Earles of Aumarle, Sauov. e 2	Conthilliard Flanders Ni.
1					1		and so tickled the eares of his	uers and Harecourt, the Gr.	and Priour of France, the
Touching Out	fpecially of the Clergy, the causers of his troubles, and mortall Enemies to him & his welwillers, for the king				1 .	Auditory,astney pr	efently conceined that France was le whereof defeen ding from 1/a-	Archbishop, and Zanximus a rons, and Gentlemen to the	nd Noyone, of Lords, Ba-from Treefon	was confidently (but as it seemeth malitiously) infor-	(19) To stop the breach of which searchin spring, no better meanes could be found, then to d	3		1	bell, the mother of	the famous third Edward, and	thousand of the French So	puldiers, and Philip nor from Treason, fee Foxes defen against Cope in Marsytologie,	med; that Oldcafile with his adherents laid for his life,					fhee the daughter a	nd furutuing heire vnto Philip	able of himselfe to defend h	imfelfe,inciting David of
Martytologie.	& that in S. Giles Fields neere vnto Holborne twenty thousand were to assemble in hostile manner, with an	I dille other projects into the kings minde. who			1	the faire; his right	was lineally deriued thence as ip by Joane his first wife incitu-	Scotland to inuade and weal	con England, therein did
1	intent to destroy the Monasteries of Washington Coins				1	led Oueene of Nan	sarre, had three sonnes and one	but only vexe his owne fp the Scottish King was taken	prifoner and brought fo
i		" had the best right to the Crowne of France: So not onlie the Dutchies of Normandy, Aquitaine and Agricus the Court			1	daughter, namely L	ewis, Philip and Charles, all three	to London, leaving Philip to	oftruggle with his hard
1	thedrall Church of Saint Paules. The King there- fore in person himselfe after midnight with a great				1	fuccessively Kings,	and this Lady I fabell, by whom	fortunes in France, which w	rith bad fucceffe hee did
1					i		his fecond wife was Constance e King of Sicil, who bare him a	to the day of his death, (24) Iohn his sonne by	the fame title and claime
Iohn Scow		" detained) inheritance; but therewithall the whole Realme of France, as true heire vnto his great		1.1	Lewis Harine.	fonne after his own	e decease which sued not many	felt the fame stroake of justi	ce from the hand of that
1	feeke the Lord Californ But as the and they came to				Linya manat.	daies after his fath	cr. Lewis his eldest sonne and	thunderbolt in warre Edwa	ard furnamed the blacke
1	from more ancient times hath observed, that in				1	tenth of that name	fucceeded Philip in the King- by Margaret his wife the daugh-	Prince, the fonne of England riour to the French in numb	ds Mars, who farre inte-
Ithn Fex in Ac		" faid French king. As for the land filling of the		$ $ $	1	ter of Burgundy ha	nd his daughter tane intituled	in marshall power, when *then called Thulet fields,	wife they could not enjoy. Granted, which other-		The Law Salique.		1	Queene of Nanarre	, who made claime also vnto the	the French royall Standard	was stroke downe, an Thicket fields.			1 1		1	French Crowne, bu	nt neuer attained it; so that her death. Lewis by his second	hundred Enlignes wonne b ble, Marshall and great Chai	y the English the Consta-
1		king Charles the green who Sala conquered by	1 1		1	wife Clemence of Sici	L, had a fonne named I ohn borne	fifty two Lords and scuent	een hundred Gentlemen
1	agodly man their Preacher, without any intent of treason, having for their Chieftaines no greater persons then Sir Research Chieftaines no greater		touchedthe		1	vnto him, but prefe	ently both father and fonnede-	flaine in the field. King I	ohn himfelfe, hisfonne
1			Geymanı.	1.7		parting this life,	left the Scepter to his fecond	Philip, two Bishops, thirte	ene Earles, and one and
*See Fox at		" fallly expound for the what I have the Gloffe did	1 1		1	wore the Emperial	e name of Philip the fift, a while Crowne of France : his wife was	thirty Lords taken prifone great praife and confirmati	on of his inflicance large.	could not be found though the Vine Lord Cobham		1 1		1	Iane the daughter	of Burgoine, who bare vnto him	(25) Nor was the pur	ishment of the fathera-
1		"the contrary, by many experiences both in king			1	only foure daughte	rs.	ny whit leffened in King	Charles the fonne then befides many liberties to the City or Towne, that	heire Generall (as de Cond.) Control of			1	(21) Vnto Kir	ng Philip succeeded his brother fourth of that name, whose first	raigning, who besides the in dominions was by Gods in
Tpodig Neufl.	he shelled that them late very (laith Walling:) it may		Their claiming		1	wife was Blanch .	detected of incontinency and	to a Lunacy, being vnabl	e to gouerne himfelfe
1	ced his apinione milial days a my gaome, well neere, embra-		by the lame		1	brought him no fre	ite, his second wife was Marie	much leffe his Kingdome, v	pon which aduantage(as
1	ty scauen of that assembly were condemned, where-				1	daughter to Henry	Luxenbourg the Emperour, who at dyed foone after birth, and	the French would haue it) though it be most certaine	King Henry now plaied:
		tarke naught derined him 646-					st dyed soone after birth, and shortly came to her graue. Mar-	otherwise, for so it standed
The west	and war were likewise executed.	"dy Lingard, daughter to Charlemaine, fonne to			1		to the Earle of Eureux, was his	ninth of February and fi	rft of Henry the fift his
The Walf, Bithops of Saint Daniels	ded for his fauours towards his Clergy, fo is his					third and last wife,	, who at his death hee left with	raigne, that he sent his Amb	affadors vnto the French
Daniar.	Princely pittic in the commiferation of young Per-	" the heirero the wint par that Garage Who was			1	Child, and thus the	three sonnes of Philip were bran- lied, whom Queene Isabell their	King, who could not bee a	amitted to his preience,
[bury (as we have (aid) and hard the first				1.	fifter furnined, and	in that right her sonne King Ed-	was by the French committ	ed to Prison : whereat
1	fent into Scatland for Gonnie		1		1	ward the third, by	his royall confanguinity whilft	King Hemy most justly cone	ciued a grudge, Paulus
1	ding deteined a Prifoner, for that Iames their King	"I pinstructed that Ifabell his Grandmother was a lineally descended of the Lady Ermengard daughter to the lady Ermengard da			1	the Crowne stood	thus at suspence, till a Prince	Emilius their owne Story	writer faith, that Henry
1	was forcibly kept in England by Henrie, and as they tooke it against all Instice. But fit occasion being				1	regress and in the	aimed to be Regent in the Inter- nonage of the looked for iffue,	King of England Sent honorab	erine daughter unto the
1					1	against which, Phili	ip de Valois sonne of Charles the	French King: which (as he fa	ith) was neglected with
1					1	hardy, who was br	other to Philip the faire, being a	this answere, that the King h	ad no leafure to thinke on
1	basy (who had been etaken prisoner at the Battell of	"fored to the Crowne of France. Whereby (laid the Archbishop)it most manifestly appeared, that				rhe blood of France	Hugh Capes, and first Prince of maintained that the Regency of	that bufine fe: whom Francise inlarge, laying, the King see	us kojienius doth tutther
		the				themale (if so he w	ere borne) as also of the Realme	that France was neither destit	ute of Dukes, nor hee at the			1	1 , "			ece leafure
						1 2

fearing to nourish a snake in his bosome, King Henry forbad the French from all preferments Ecclefiaflicall, and those Priors Aliens conventual, who had institution and induction, to put in security, not to disclose, or cause to be disclosed, the counsell nor le-crets of the Realme: and that the French might granted and appointed, Searchers.

To put back the Scots, Sir Robert V infreuile was sent who in a skirmish vpon Mary Magdalens day tooks amounted to of 552

Chap.15. Henrie V. ENGLANDS MONARCHS. Monarch 52.

and piteous grace, thinking yet will of your great goodnes my Leige Lord : my full trust is that you will have consideration (though that my person be of none valew,) your high goodnesse (where God hath set youin so high estate)

nggo genanesse (were com musico) promo positive to enery Leigenman, that you longeth, plent, only to give; that you like to accept this my simple requell for the love of our Lady, and the blessed holy Ghoss, to whom I pray that they moneyour heart ener to all pittie and grace for their high goodnes. Notwithstanding this his humble petition vpon the fixt of August following, hee, with Scroope, and Grey, were beheaded, and his body with head enterred in the Chappell of Gods-house in South-hampton; whose apprehentions, arraignements, and deaths, were so followed each after others, as the couer his right, making Proclamation yoon paine of death, that Churches should be spared from all violence of spoile, that Churchmen, women and Children, fhould not be hurt, abused or wronged : then gining and courage, which done he tooke the hill neere ad-ioyning, and thence fent his spiall to the Towne of Harflew, making that the first aslay of his fortunes in France. But before we enter any further discourse.

in the affaires of that Kingdome, it shall not be amisse to speake of things commenced in England before nine yeers, and now growne invollerable, through the schismatical ambitions, maintained by three Pa-pall Monarchs, mounted into Saint Peters feate, each of them grasping the Chaire with so fast a fift, that the toints thereof were forced afunder; and the triple Crowne fo battered with their thunderbolts of their curses that it was flatted and made vnfit for any of their heads. The persons arreared were gery 12. whom the French had fet vp; and the 3, was Benedict 13. preferred to the place by the Spaniard.

These striuing for the helme, the ship was so steered, that her wracke was apparant vpon these raging and vinquiet Seas. To preuent which the Christian

Princes put their helping hands, and by a generall confent, ordained a generall Councell to bee held at fnops, one hundred and fixty Bishops, Princes, Barons and Gentlemen with their attendants aboue thirtie that King Henry tooke to the Seas.

lous defire.

hold his dealings honourable, and open, hee fent Antilop his purseuant at Armes, vnto King Charles with letters of defiances: next making Queene Ioan his mother in Law the Regent of the land, he drew his forces vnto Southampton, commaunding his followers there to attend him in readinesse by the feast of Saint Iohn Baptist ensuing.

(30) Charles the French King expecting present inuation, fent his Ambaffadors vnto John the fixt Duke of Britain, who had married his daughter with an hundred thousand Crowns to leuie forces for his aide, and a Iewell worth fine thousand Crownes more to himselfe, which the Duke promised to come in person to performe. And as it is reported. King Charles sent to Scrope, Grey and Cambridge (all An ancient three in especiall fauour with the King) a million of gold to betray Henry into his hands, or to murther him before hee should arrive in Normandy. These to make their faction ftronger, though Scroope was Lis Linius Lord Treasurer, Grey a Prinie Councellour, & Cambridge the sonne of Edmund Duke of Yorke, meant to draw in, Edmund Earle of March the sonne of Roger Mortimer, and lineally the heire vnto Lionell Duke of Clarence, the next in succession for the house of Yorke, and reuealing their intended purpole, forced him to sweare to their secresse, which if hee refused

(31) The parties apprehended and brought

Job Stow.

H. Enfe.

Lit, Original,

they threatned his death; whereupon he required but an howres respite, which hardly granted, he went to the King and renealed the conspiracie, even the night before the day that hee meant to put to fea.

before him in presence of many nobles, King Henry thus spake; With what horrour O Lord may anie true English heart consider that you for pleasing of "a forreine enemy, should imbrue your hands in "our blood, as also in the blood of our brethren. "to the ruine of your owne native foile! revenge herein touching my person though I seeke not; "yet for the fafegard of you my deare friends, and

"and office to minister remedy against these Offen-"ders; Get you hence therefore you miserable "wretches to receive the just reward of your de-"ferts, wherein God gine you repentance for your fo foule finnes. (32) Notwithstanding this their offence, their

"for due preservation of the Realme, I am by place

inditement as it frandeth in the Record, includes matter of other quality : that, Richard Barle of Cambridge of Conesburgh in the County of Yorke, and Thomas

Grey of Heton in the Countie of Northumberland Knight, for that they in the twentieth of Iuly and third of King Henry the fifts raigne, at Southampton had conspired together with a power of men, to have lead away the Lord Edmund Earle of Marchinto Wales, and to have procured him to take the Government of the Realme, in case that King Richard the second were dead; with a purpose to have put forth a Proclamation in the name of the faid. Earle as heire to the Crowne, against King Henry by the name of Lancaster vsurper, and surther to have convayed a Banner of the Armes of England, and a certaine Crowne of Spaine fet upon a Pallet (layd in gage to the fayd Earle of Cambridge) into Wales; As also that the said conspirators had appointed certaine into Scotland, to bring thence one Trumpington, and another resembling in Shape, fanour, and countenance, King Richard. And Henrie Scroope of Masham in the Countie of Yorke was likewife indited as consenting to the Premisses. Thus well appeared their purpose, though Richard Earle of Cambridge, confidering the possibility of his owne iffue had fecretly carried that bulineffe : whose forrowfull letter of his owne hand writing, as it came to ours, we thinke not amiffe here to infert. Most dreadfull and Soueraigne Liege Lord, I Richard Torke your humble subject, and very Leigeman, beseech you of grace, of all manner of offences which I have done or affented unto, in any kind by stirring of other folke, eg-to your Highneffe, befeeching you at the reverence of God, that you like to take mee into the hands of your mercifull ging me onto, wherein I wot well I have highly offended thonfand.

(35) Vnto this Councell King Henry fent Rich-ard Clifford Bishop of London, Robert Halam Bishoppe of Sausbury, made Cardinall, and diedar the fame Councell, John Keterich, Bishop of Couentree and Lichfield, Nicholas Bubwith Bishop of Bath and Wels, John Wakering, Bishop of Norwich, Robert Mafeall, Bishop of Hereford, Stephen Patrington, Bishop of S. Davids: the Abbot of Westminster, and Prior of Worsefter, in company of whome, and for whose greater

French knew not, but that the treason had successe, and their returned Ambassadours told it for certaine, that King Henry had either dismissed his Army of (which was thought more true) himfelfe was flaine by the Conspirators; so case an entrance hath babling report into the wide cares of credu-Harding 1500. Job. Stow. 1600. Holinfh. 1000. Grafton.140. Ould-Manufer. (33 But King Henrie now ready to embarke his men, vpon Wednesday the seauenth of August with fifteene hundred Saile tooke to Seas, attended with fixe thousand speares, and twenty foure thoufand footmen belides Gunners, Enginers, Artificers Cartent 100. and Labourers a great number, and the fifteenth of Nichol Giles. the same month cast Anchor in the mouth of Segne, at a place called Kideaux, about three miles from Harflew, where he landed his men; and falling de-uourly ypon his knees, defired Gods affiftance to rethe order of Knighthood to many of his followers Titus Link. hee affigued his Standards to men of most strength

(34) The Churches throughout Christendome, having beene disquired the space of twentie and History. Positif.

John 23, by the Italians elected; the fecond was Gre- Platina.

Constance in Germany, which began in February 1414 and continued about the space of three yeeres; Wiest Do-lise whereunto were assembled besides the Emperour felder Print. Nicol. Doelien i Theatro Vanes the Pope and the Palfgraue of Rheine, foure Patriarks, twentie seauen Cardinals, forty seauen Archbi-

630	Henry V. THE SVO	0	CESSION OF Monarch 51.	Book.
	honour, Richard Earle of Warmicke was fent, them-		Sea, his horses, munition, and victuals all brought	:
	felues and arrendants amounting to eight hundred	1	a shore, with his whole armie, the King marched vp	1
	horfe : fo as it ftood in fuspence whether their hono		the hil, and from the height presented himself before	1
	rable prefence more graced the affembly, or their		Harflew. His brother Clarence hee fent with cer- taine Regiments of horse and soote, to lodge vpon	1
	the Councell: infomuch that two of these Bishops		the other hill, which before he could approach, (by	1 were there made Cardinals, and of the thirty in bef	Ė	reason of the nature of the ground and way) hee was	I elteeme appointed to alsoft the Cardinals in their E.	-	forced to march fullie nine miles : which hill attai-lection of a new Pope, London , Couentree, Bath, and	1	ned, he commanded his fhips to cast anchor as neere
	Well were choich, wherein Robert . Billion of London	4	the Towne as with lafety they might, whereby the was hirst nominated for Pope, and he first nominated		place became befreged both by land and Sea, then min that fucceeded, which was othe Collowna by the	1	niounted he his Artillery, began his mines, brought
La mor,des Liftor	name of Martin the fift, Whole Coronation		his workes close to the Counter-scarfe of the dirch,	1
upor.	with great magnificence was celebrated of the fluo		prepared faggots to fillit, and presently wanne the nations affembled, and this honour given to the		Date 1 owne.
	English that the Prior of Saint Johns was a supported of the triple Crowne. Touching the decrees that		(40) Within the Towne it selfe Mounsieur Gra-	Le tiers de conque
	this Councell enacted, let it suffice vs to know that	1	court was Generall accompanyde with Gwylwy de
Wical Darlie	Wieliffes bookes were condemned for herericall, that		Stonteuile Chastellaine de Beauuais Lionet de Brueque- mount and others to the number of an hundred	1
Cical Doglia. Sebaß. Munster	Iohn Hu (notwithstanding the Emperours fafecon-		Knights and Squires, who with the Townef-men
	duct) and I erome of Prage, were both of them burned,		iffued out of the Belife woon that quarter where	1
	the holy maide Bridget canonized a Saint, and	1	iffued out of the Bastile, vpon that quarter where Huntington, and Cornvall lay, by whom with losse	ł
	that England was made a nation in rancke before	1	on either fide, they were beaten backe, the gates fi-	1
	Spaine.	1	red, fome breaches made, and fireworkes shot into	1
	(36) The deaths of these two dinines manie		the streetes, to no little annoyance of the besieged; but	1
	lamented, especially the Bohemians, who had reaped	1	nothing difmated them more, then did the Mines	Tiene Linine
	much fruite from the feed they had fowen, for whole		made vinder the wals: against which though they	1 doctrine they fent a defence vnto the fame Councel,		within countermined, and came to fight hand to	} and often became humble Petitioners for their		hand with the beliegers, yet they law it little preoxin Acts and	liues, as largely appeareth in their letters written on		uailed, the wals being ready to fall, and such battefonuments.	their behalfe; in whom may truly bee verified that the blood of the Martyrs is the feed of the Church,	1	ries therein already made, as they well perceived K.
	which fo increased in the parts of Bohemia that Pope		Henry was resolued to carry the towne by affault:
	Martin fearing all would be mard (Zifes the fourge	ı	wherupon Monfieur de Gracourt forefeeing the emi-
	of the Papacy then in Arms to defend them) fent for		nent danger, demanded a Parley, promising to ren- der the towne if it were not relieued by a certain day
	aid out of England, to represse the Lollards (as hee ter-		affigued.
	med them) and published his Buls against those Hull	!	(41) And albeit that I chan de Boneigunts, and icol. Vignieur.	fites, with as terrible roarings as viually were his Croy-		Charles de Albuet Marshall, and Constable of France,	Alain Chartier
1.	/agoes against the Turkes.		the one at Caudebue Castell, the other in Harflew,	Charles a King of
1	(17) His Legate for these holy warres, he made		citner of them having in their companies one thou-	Frances
dwin.Catal	mentie beaufort, the rich Cardinal of wincheiler, who		fand and fine hundred men at Armes, were yet fo	d Alain Cheritor for certain to for the for certain to for English Bbr.	with foure thousand English assisted with a subsidie		curbd by the English, that no great scruice they did.
- 1	of the Clergies Grant, did there verie valiantly for		and lette hope was looked for from the French king.
- 1	certaine months together, vntill hee was recalled by		whole arengthes were not ready as the Dolohia re-
- 1	the Pope: wherein Countie Zises (though euer a vi-		turned aniwere, either to remoue or relieue the fiege ctor) loft both his eyes, and being blind led forth his army with fuch terror to his foes, as his name be-		at Harflew, whereupon the twenty two of September,	Hifloric of
	came fearcfull, and oft-times was sufficient to at-		Gracourt the Gouernour with twenty foure felected	Normandy.
	taine victory without any throake, infomuch as hee		Captaines and Burgeffes came to King Henry, who
- 1	commanded his owne skinne to bee flead off after		fate in his Pauilion vnder a cloth of estate, his Noblehis death, and to bee made the head of their drum		men about him, and the Earle of Kyme vpon his right	lobs Harding
1	amening that the very found thereof would drive		hand, bearing his casket, whereon was an imperi- all Crowne fet with ftones of great price: The Go-
1	the enemy out of the held. But from these Church Kings feet, deliuered vnto him the Keyes of the town,
l l	trong whence we name nept, and continue the affairs		acording to the couenants betwirt them comprised of our fathous K. Frepry natting now let footing in		which was a respite for fine dayes, and then if no fire-
1	France.		cour came to infrender the towne vnto the king. &	Holirft.
ward Hall.	(38) His followers and fellowes in these new		to delider into his hand thirty of their chiefest ner-1
